

Welcome break
Football team prepares for 1983 season.
Sports, page 17

Smith residents return to find house closed

By BRENDA ROTTINGHAUS
Staff Writer

A note hanging on a peg board in the hall was the only actual sign of what had occurred. It read, "House meeting at 8:00. Smith isn't dead, just transplanted."

Most of the residents of the Maitland E. Smith Cooperative House at 331 N. 17th St. who gathered in the day room for a final "in-house" meeting on August 17 had just returned from summer vacation. They had not yet unpacked, but really did not need to, at least not at the Smith house.

They would only be staying overnight.

Smith is to be closed for the 1983-84 school year and the approximately 20 men were there to decide just how — and where — to move on.

The house was founded in 1959 when L. Irene Putnam donated the land and house to the K-State Endowment Association to be used as a scholarship house named for her brother. The house was extensively remodeled in 1977 and converted from a scholarship to a cooperative house.

The decision to close Smith house for the year and to recommend to the KSU Foundation, landlord of the building, that it be sold and the proceeds used for scholarships has residents and alumni residents pitted against other University officials with the Foundation caught in the middle.

The decision was made at a meeting Monday, Aug. 15, of 10 University and Foundation officials (including President Duane Acker) concerned with various phases of the Smith house operation.

According to a release from President Acker, the group saw its alternatives as continuing to operate the house as it has in the past, or working out an arrangement through which some independent group might lease the property and operate the house as a cooperative.

The first alternative was rejected by the entire group. While there was some support for the second, the majority believed that in a time of tight budgetary constraints, the most financial benefit for the most students would be provided by selling the house and using proceeds for scholarships.

Given the decision of the University, the Foundation executive committee will now have to decide what to do with the house, according to David Weaver of the Foundation. This committee is made up of 12 voting members and will meet Sept. 27 concerning the matter.

The meeting was initiated after a recommendation to close the house was made by the Department of Housing, Tom Frith, director of housing, said this move was seen as necessary because the house was no longer cost efficient because it had not been operating with a capacity number of residents for several years. Only 25 contracts had been signed for the house, which has a capacity of 42.

"Other years we could expect that the housing crunch would draw others," he said, adding that there would be no overflow from the residence halls this year as they still had approximately 250 vacant spaces. No figures were available for previous years.

"Housing is completely self-supporting," he said. "If one of our units runs at a deficit, then the overall picture means that the money has to come from someone else — forcing other places to subsidize this house."

Chet Peters, vice president for student affairs, agreed that the closing was brought on for monetary reasons.

"Dollars are short," he said. "Everybody is trying to do the best job they can to develop the best institution they can and still keep functionally operating with less support."

"The situation is one that occurred because of a necessity to reallocate resources."

A number of residents are bitter about the decision. Jim Stuart, senior in animal science and agronomy and director of the house, said the move was made primarily to eliminate the competition it was creating for other residence halls which remain unfilled.

Immediately after learning about the proposed closing of the house the last week of July, Stuart, along with several other residents and past residents, began working in an attempt to deter the action.

Letters were sent to residents July 27 notifying them of the impending action. The letter expressed regrets and offered several options to contract holders.

The resident could cancel his

Continued on page 16

AT&T unions endorse tentative agreement

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Communications Workers of America on Sunday joined two other American Telephone & Telegraph Co. unions in accepting the terms of a tentative labor contract settlement that will return some 675,000 strikers to their jobs later in the week.

"Subject to completion of local bargaining and ratification by the members, I am pleased to announce that the CWA executive board had just approved a memorandum of understanding for a new three-year contract with the AT&T," said Glenn E. Watts, president of the CWA, which represents 525,000 of the striking Bell System employees.

Watts indicated in his statement that before the CWA members can return to work, companion agreements under negotiation in some 34 areas across the country at the local level must be completed. The CWA's members would return to work on Thursday at the earliest, pending conclusion of the local bargaining.

Although Watts did not immediately divulge details of the tentative accord, it is apparent that his union and two others won employment security provisions that will set a pattern for workers in other industries, such as telecommunications, that are undergoing rapid technological changes in the Information Age.

"I can characterize the nature of our new national contract as containing a substantially improved response by the company to their original offers in the key areas of our bargaining demands," Watts said. "Let me note that our bargaining hand was strengthened vitally by the members' determination and sacrifice while walking the picket lines."

Charles Dynes, key spokesman for AT&T, had said earlier that the company was gratified by the tentative contract agreement, adding that "we're anxious to get our workers back as soon as possible."

Earlier in the day, leaders of the other two unions, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Telecommunication International Union, voted to accept the tentative contract agreement with the company.

Arthur Perry, a negotiator with the IBEW, representing more than 100,000 of the 675,000 striking workers, said that the AT&T management, in its newest contract offer, had agreed to increase from 3.5 percent to 5.5 percent the annual pay raises given to workers over the next three years.

"I think it's the best we could obtain under the circumstances," Perry said in a telephone interview.

He said that an IBEW committee representing that union's 60,000 workers in the Bell Systems operating division had approved the new accord. And Perry said a separate committee considering the contract's impact on 40,000 IBEW employees of the Western Electric manufacturing subsidiary would also give the go-ahead on the new pact.

John Shaughnessy, president of the Telecommunications Union, which represents 50,000 striking workers, said that his union's executive committee "has just voted acceptance of the contract."

The leaders of both the IBEW and the Telecommunication International Union indicated that their workers would likely go back to work within 48 hours, pending the completion of bargaining of local contracts that would accompany the national pact.

There are some 100 contracts which must still be concluded at the local level involving the AT&T and its three unions.

Both Shaughnessy and Perry said they expected their workers to return to their jobs by mid-week, pending a ratification vote by the rank-and-file.

Shortly before the two union spokesmen made their comments, Martin Hughes, a district vice president of the Communications Workers of America, said, "There is a good possibility we will have an agreement on a national basis."

Glenn E. Watts, president of the CWA, called the union's 17-member executive board to a meeting with its 10-member bargaining committee following several days of informal consultations between labor and management.

One of the last members to leave Smith Cooperative House, Joe Walker, senior in electrical engineering, moves his belongings for the second time this semester. Walker is one of more than 20 Smith residents displaced by the house closing.

Staff/Rob Clark Jr

Kansas penitentiary director calls demotion 'raw deal'

By The Associated Press

LANSING — Gary Rayl, removed from his job as director of the Kansas State Penitentiary, says he is the victim of "trumped up" charges and will fight his demotion.

Rayl, 46, was demoted Friday by Secretary of Corrections Michael Barbara, who reassigned him as director of two prison honor camps at El Dorado and Toronto.

Barbara, in a prepared statement, said Rayl, who had been prison director since February 1982, was relieved of his duties at Lansing because of a "deliberate refusal" to carry out an order.

In an interview Saturday with The Kansas City Star, Rayl said the action stemmed from his failure to restart an inmate tutoring program, but he denied disobeying any order. At issue, Rayl said, was an educational program using inmates as tutors. He said he discontinued the program in early July, believing it to be a security threat because inmates had too much freedom.

But he said he agreed to restart the program at Barbara's request, although he told the corrections secretary "why I thought it wasn't a very good idea."

Barbara could not be reached for comment at his home in Topeka.

Rayl said he was shocked and disappointed by the demotion, which he said would cost him money as well as status. He said he did not know what his new salary would be.

"Personally, I think it's a pretty raw deal," Rayl said. "I feel the charges are kind of trumped up. It's obvious it's something more than just the tutor program. I really don't know what it's all about."

Tuition climbs 20 percent to meet rising costs

By KELLY ROBINSON
Staff Writer

Increase in tuition? Expected. An $87.75 increase in tuition? You've got to be kidding.

That was the reaction of many returning students who wrote their checks out for $550.50 during fall registration Aug. 18 and 19.

Out-of-state students paid a sum of $1,340.50, more than double that charged to Kansas residents.

According to Ralph Perry, University comptroller, the 20 percent increase over last year's fees is to accommodate the rising costs of higher education. For in-state students, the total fee breaks down into the following:

Incidental fee — $410. Perry said this fee is used to help pay the educational expenses of the student, faculty salaries and operating expenses of the University. This amount, an increase of $68 over last year, is determined by the Board of Regents who have agreed that it should cover 20 to 25 percent of the total cost of a college education.

Some students surprised by size of increase

Student Health — $55. This sum, the same as last year, is used for the operation of Lafene Student Health Center.

Student Union — $11.50. This money is divided into two categories: repair and replacement, $1.25; Union Annex II bonds, $10.25.

Stadium Bond — $4.25. Used for improvements of the football stadium, this fee is the same as last year.

Coliseum Bond — $16.50. Perry said the $6.75 increase over last year was built into the plan for funding the coliseum. There are no more increases scheduled.

Recreation — $15. Perry explained $12 is for building bonds for the Rec Center and the remaining $3 is spent on student recreational programs.

Student Activity — $25.50. This fee is distributed among 135 student organizations and clubs.

In addition to these fees, students are also paying for two new services, the first being a $10 charge for Academic Services.

"This (fee) is used to finance library acquisitions and academic computing," Perry said. "This money is going to be used for computer research and training students to use computers."

The fee was added to insure that funding for such research and training would not rely on funds set aside for data processing, the administrative aspect of computing, Perry said.

The second newcomer to the tuition breakdown lineup is a $3 Student Services fee.

"This will finance the adaptation and equipping of Holton Hall for the important delivery of student service programs," Perry said.

According to Robert Evans, director of Student Financial Assistance, the tuition increase has not seriously affected his department.

"There has been a slight increase in the number of students applying for financial aid," he said. "I would say it's up several hundred (over the previous year)."

Evans said the amount of financial aid available has remained basically the same. He estimated K-State would process about $27 million in financial aid for the current school year.

Because the number of applications for assistance has not risen substantially, Evans said he believes students are absorbing the increase in tuition fairly well.

"The flip side of that is, however, that the amount of financial aid available is the same, so there may be students applying that we just can't help," he said.

Students may not, however, be able to continue to take the tuition increase so gracefully as it is scheduled to go up again in the fall of 1984.

According to Perry, Kansas residents will be paying $590.50 and out-of-state tuition will rise to $1,430.50.

Charles Hein, director of communications, said these figures are decided upon and published in various campus publications at least one year prior to the date they go into effect so that students can be financially prepared.

Despite the one-year warning, many students are not aware of the exact amount they will have to pay until they go to registration.

"If this is widespread," Hein said, "it is up to us as an institution to provide the information as a public service."

Hein said the possibility of mailing individual notices to students before registration telling them how much tuition will cost is too expensive.

"Besides, we have a lot of access to all kinds of media that we could use to get that sort of information out," he said.

Inside

LOCAL UTILITIES PREPARED for last week's influx of students and as a result were able to handle the rush for service hookups. Both the telephone company, with many workers striking, and Manhattan cable television service brought in employees from other cities to assist. See p. 7.

THREE PHYSICIANS have joined the staff at Lafene Student Health Center. See p. 10.

STUDENTS ARE BEING required to declare compliance with draft registration before receiving financial aid. Other changes in financial aid rules since the spring semester which have caught students off guard include a delay in implementation of the Board of Regents grade-point requirement for State of Kansas Scholarships. See p. 5.

Alicia leaves 'silver lining'

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Officials in southeastern Texas, where about 225,000 storm-battered customers remained without power or telephone service Sunday, see a "silver lining" in the aftermath of Hurricane Alicia — new jobs for the region's sagging economy.

Some hardware stores rationed sales as residents and business owners bought glass, siding, shingles and carpet to make repairs after last week's storm, which killed 16 people and damaged hundreds of buildings with winds up to 115 mph. On Sunday, the Coast Guard suspended the search for a tugboat crewman missing since the vessel sank in the hurricane. Four others had clung to a leaky life raft for 2½ days and were rescued Friday.

About 175,000 miserable citizens remained without power Sunday, said Don Beeth of Houston Lighting & Power, adding it could be a week before electricity is completely restored to the nation's fourth-largest city.

He said residents on west Galveston Island, hardest-hit by the storm, which arrived early Thursday, might have to wait three weeks for all power to be restored. About 30,000 customers remained without telephone service, officials said.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FARRELL LIBRARY fall semester hours are Monday-Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Friday 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday 2 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The library will be closed Saturday, Sept. 3 and Sunday, Sept. 4 but will be open Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5 from 2 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Regular hours will resume Tuesday, Sept. 6.

PHI CHI THETA officers meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Union second floor lobby. Those unable to attend should call Martha at 539-0143.

TUESDAY

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration for fall classes will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

GERMAN TABLE meets from noon to 1 p.m. in the Union Stateroom 1. Anyone interested in German conversation is welcome.

THURSDAY

K-STATE PLAYERS meet at 5 p.m. in Union 309. Everyone is welcome.

COMPLEX IMPROVISATIONAL THEATRE will conduct interviews for new comedians at 7 p.m. in East Stadium 106.

Kansas State

COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-4555, news office number 532-4556; advertising office 532-4566.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor: Paul Hanson
Managing Editor: Sandy Lang
News Editor: Dee Anne Thomas
Editorial Page Editor: Brad Gillaspie
Copy Editors: Beth Baker, Julie Mah
Photography Editor: Jeff Taylor
Sports Editor: Becky School, Kicia Stollus
Assistant Sports Editor: Judi Wright
Manhattan Editor: Lucinda Ellison
Government Editor: Alan Stollus
Arts and Entertainment Editor: Sue Schmitt
Features Editor: Cathy Karlin
Agriculture Editor: Rhonda Wessel
Staff Artists: Brenda Shevlin, Lana Vsetecka
Advertising Manager: John McGrath
Assistant Advertising Manager: Mary Beth Stock
Production Coordinator: Connie Nelson
Advertising Adviser: Gloria Freeland
Collegian Adviser: Dave Adams

POLLEY FLORIST 539-7643
HAS RELOCATED
1132 Garden Way
Across from Westloop — one block west of Anderson Avenue
FLOWERS FOR EVERY OCCASION

FLIPS & DIPS
—Buy One Cone—
Get the second one for ½ price with this coupon.
Expires Sept. 25, 1983
• 20 video games
• pinball
• 18 flavors of ice cream
2010 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
(South of Blue Hills Shopping Center)

Closed Classes as of Today

00060	05250	08000	09050	12980	20200	25650	30800	34150	36170
00160	05270	08020	09060	13110	20230	25680	30850	34170	36180
00400	05300	08050	09070	13230	20250	25850	30810	34180	36120
00850	05350	08080	09080	13240	20260	25870	30820	34190	36130
00880	05400	08090	09090	13290	20310	25900	30850	34190	36120
01000	05410	08100	09120	13300	20340	25960	30860	34190	36130
00670	05420	08130	09130	13810	20350	25970	30850	34190	36130
00900	05430	08140	09140	13820	20370	25990	30860	34190	36130
00960	05440	08150	09150	13830	20410	26070	30870	34190	36130
01080	05450	08160	09160	13840	20430	26100	30890	34190	36120
01380	05460	08170	09170	13850	20440	26120	30900	34190	36100
01470	05470	08180	09180	13860	20450	26140	30910	34190	36100
01710	05480	08190	09190	13870	20460	26150	30920	34190	36100
01890	05490	08200	09200	13880	21100	26220	30930	34190	36100
02030	05500	08210	09210	13890	21190	26260	30940	34190	36100
02090	05510	08220	09220	13900	21170	26280	30950	34190	36100
02120	05520	08230	09230	13910	21180	26290	30960	34190	36100
02130	05530	08240	09240	13920	21190	26300	30970	34190	36100
02140	05540	08250	09250	13930	21200	26310	30980	34190	36100
02150	05550	08260	09260	13940	21210	26320	30990	34190	36100
02160	05560	08270	09270	13950	21220	26330	31000	34190	36100
02170	05570	08280	09280	13960	21230	26340	31010	34190	36100
02180	05580	08290	09290	13970	21240	26350	31020	34190	36100
02190	05590	08300	09300	13980	21250	26360	31030	34190	36100
02200	05600	08310	09310	13990	21260	26370	31040	34190	36100
02210	05610	08320	09320	14000	21270	26380	31050	34190	36100
02220	05620	08330	09330	14010	21280	26390	31060	34190	36100
02230	05630	08340	09340	14020	21290	26400	31070	34190	36100
02240	05640	08350	09350	14030	21300	26410	31080	34190	36100
02250	05650	08360	09360	14040	21310	26420	31090	34190	36100
02260	05660	08370	09370	14050	21320	26430	31100	34190	36100
02270	05670	08380	09380	14060	21330	26440	31110	34190	36100
02280	05680	08390	09390	14070	21340	26450	31120	34190	36100
02290	05690	08400	09400	14080	21350	26460	31130	34190	36100
02300	05700	08410	09410	14090	21360	26470	31140	34190	36100
02310	05710	08420	09420	14100	21370	26480	31150	34190	36100
02320	05720	08430	09430	14110	21380	26490	31160	34190	36100
02330	05730	08440	09440	14120	21390	26500	31170	34190	36100
02340	05740	08450	09450	14130	21400	26510	31180	34190	36100
02350	05750	08460	09460	14140	21410	26520	31190	34190	36100
02360	05760	08470	09470	14150	21420	26530	31200	34190	36100
02370	05770	08480	09480	14160	21430	26540	31210	34190	36100
02380	05780	08490	09490	14170	21440	26550	31220	34190	36100
02390	05790	08500	09500	14180	21450	26560	31230	34190	36100
02400	05800	08510	09510	14190	21460	26570	31240	34190	36100
02410	05810	08520	09520	14200	21470	26580	31250	34190	36100
02420	05820	08530	09530	14210	21480	26590	31260	34190	36100
02430	05830	08540	09540	14220	21490	26600	31270	34190	36100
02440	05840	08550	09550	14230	21500	26610	31280	34190	36100
02450	05850	08560	09560	14240	21510	26620	31290	34190	36100
02460	05860	08570	09570	14250	21520	26630	31300	34190	36100
02470	05870	08580	09580	14260	21530	26640	31310	34190	36100
02480	05880	08590	09590	14270	21540	26650	31320	34190	36100
02490	05890	08600	09600	14280	21550	26660	31330	34190	36100
02500	05900	08610	09610	14290	21560	26670	31340	34190	36100
02510	05910	08620	09620	14300	21570	26680	31350	34190	36100
02520	05920	08630	09630	14310	21580	26690	31360	34190	36100
02530	05930	08640	09640	14320	21590	26700	31370	34190	36100
02540	05940	08650	09650	14330	21600	26710	31380	34190	36100
02550	05950	08660	09660	14340	21610	26720	31390	34190	36100
02560	05960	08670	09670	14350	21620	26730	31400	34190	36100
02570	05970	08680	09680	14360	21630	26740	31410	34190	36100
02580	05980	08690	09690	14370	21640	26750	31420	34190	36100
02590	05990	08700	09700	14380	21650	26760	31430	34190	36100
02600	06000	08710	09710	14390	21660	26770	31440	34190	36100
02610	06010	08720	09720	14400	21670	26780	31450	34190	36100
02620	06020	08730	09730	14410	21680	26790	31460	34190	36100
02630	06030	08740	09740	14420	21690	26800	31470	34190	36100
02640	06040	08750	09750	14430	21700	26810	31480	34190	36100
02650	06050	08760	09760	14440	21710	26820	31490	34190	36100
02660	06060	08770	09770	14450	21720	26830	31500	34190	36100
02670	06070	08780	09780	14460	21730	26840	31510	34190	36100
02680	06080	08790	09790	14470	21740	26850	31520	34190	36100
02690	06090	08800	09800	14480	21750	26860	31530	34190	36100
02700	06100	08810	09810	14490	21760	26870	31540	34190	36100
02710	06110	08820	09820	14500	21770	26880	31550	34190	36100
02720	06120	08830	09830	14510	21780	26890	31560	34190	36100
02730	06130	08840	09840	14520	21790	26900	31570	34190	36100
02740	06140	08850	09850	14530	21800	26910	31580	34190	36100
02750	06150	08860	09860	14540	21810	26920	31590	34190	36100
02760	06160	08870	09870	14550	21820	26930	31600	34190	36100
02770	06170	08880	09880	14560	21830	26940	31610	34190	36100
02780	06180	08890	09890	14570	21840	26950	31620	34190	36100
02790	06190	08900	09900	14580	21850	26960	31630	34190	36100
02800	06200	08910	09910	14590	21860	26970	31640	34190	36100
02810	06210	08920	09920	14600	21870	26980	31650	34190	36100
02820	06220	08930	09930	14610	21880	26990	31660	34190	36100
02830	06230	08940	09940	14620	21890	27000	31670	34190	36100
02840	06240	08950	09950	14630	21900	27010	31680	34190	36100
02850	06250	08960	09960	14640	21910	27020	31690	34190	36100
02860	06260	08970	09970	14650	21920	27030	31700	34190	36100
02870	06270	08980	09980	14660	21930	27040	31710	34190	36100
02880	06280	08990	09990	14670	21940	27050	31720	34190	36100
02890	06290	09000	10000	14680	21950	27060	31730	34190	36100
02900	06300	09010	10010	14690	21960	27070	31740	34190	36100
02910	06310	09020	10020	14700	21970	27080	31750	34190	36100
02920	06320	09030	10030	14710	21980	27090	31760	34190	36100
02930	06330	09040	10040	14720	21990	27100	31770	34190	36100
02940	06340	09050	10050	14730	22000	27110	31780	34190	36100
02950	06350	09060	10060	14740	22010	27120	31790	34190	36100
02960	06360	09070	10070	14750	22020	27130	31800	34190	36100
02970	06370	09080	10080	14760	22030	27140	31810	34190	36100
02980	06380	09090	10090	14770	22040	27150	31820	34190	36100
02990	06390	09100	10100	14780	22050	27160	31830	34190	36100
03000	06400	09110	10110	14790	22060	27170	31840	34190	36100
03010	06410	09120	10120	14800	22070	27180	31850	34190	36100
03020	06420	09130	10130	14810	22080	27190	31860	34190	36100
03030	06430	09140	10140	14820	22090	27200	31870	34190	36100
03040	06440	09150	10150	14830	22100	27210	31880	34190	36100
03050	06450	09160	10160	14840	22110	27220	31890	34190	36100
03060	06460	09170	10170	14850	22120	27230	31900	34190	36100
03070	06470	09180	10180	14860	22130	27240	31910	34190	36100
03080	06480	09190	10190	14870	22140	27250	31920	34190	36100
03090	06490	09200	10200	14880	22150	27260	31930	34190	36100
03100	06500	09210	10210	14890	22160	27270	31940	34190	36100
03110	06510	09220	10220	14900	22170	27280	31950	34190	36100
03120	06520	09230	10230	14910	22180	27290	31960	34190	36100
03130	06530	09240	10240	14920	22190	27300	31970	34190	36100
03140	06540	09250	10250	14930	22200	27310	31980	34190	3610

Call Now For Your FREE Figure Analysis
106 Waters 539.196

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

The Collegian editorial board: Paul Hanson, Editor; Brad Gillispie, Editorial Page Editor; Lucinda Ellison; Sandy Lang;

Sean Reilly; Becky Schoof; Alan Stolfus; Kecia Stolfus; Dee Anne Thomas; Rhonda Wessell.

Tabloid to broadsheet

It would be easier to discuss the new Collegian after the staff had prepared the first issue and we had the chance to hear the presses start up on our way out, as one of the first lessons in the news business is to take nothing for granted. However, making a rare exception, we will assume the major bugs are gone, though we doubtless will make further minor adjustments in the newspaper's appearance.

The decision to go to a broadsheet format from the previous tabloid was made last spring, after the selection of the fall executive staff, for two main reasons. A primary consideration was to enhance the learning value of the newspaper to those who work at the Collegian, but providing the students with a better newspaper was, and remains another important goal.

Lists of names and contributions would surely boost egos and morale of the staff, but also would be inherently self-serving and self-indulgent. Suffice to say that a great many people aided in this effort, both Collegian staff members and others.

There have been internal changes in the handling and preparation of news items for the paper, as there always will be when a new staff is selected each semester, and we will certainly have problems to work out. But our ultimate goal now is production of the best possible newspaper.

Perhaps the most noticeable effect of the change on returning students will be the difficulty of pretending to pay attention in class while scanning the paper. We hope this will not be the case.

The 'pine tar game' judges

The priorities of our judicial system came to light on Thursday, when Bronx State Supreme Court Justice Orest V. Maresca took it upon himself to issue a temporary injunction against the completion of the "Pine-tar Game."

Maresca's ruling came in response to two suits filed by Yankee fans who didn't want to pay $2.50 to see the game's completion. They had already paid to see the first 8-2/3 innings.

But the validity of the fans' claim is not the issue. The issue is that a state supreme court justice took time out of his court schedule to halt a baseball game because some people didn't want to pay $2.50. Moreover, he thought it important enough to write a seven-page report in defense of his ruling.

Why was this case so important that the judge would sidestep cases which had been waiting months and give an immediate decision on it? Do New Yorkers have so few legal problems that this judge could find time to stop the final four outs of a baseball game? Was he really interested in justice, or did he just want to get his name put on sports pages across the country?

Maresca claimed his ruling was made

"to protect the rights of the fans" who filed the suit, and done "in the interests of justice". But fans should have been less pleased about the judge's decision and instead worried that a supreme court justice, whom they were employing with their tax dollars, was taking a day out of his docket to stop a baseball game.

Maresca's moment in the spotlight was cut short by another judge, however. Appellate Justice Joseph Sullivan overruled him later in the day, giving the go-ahead to finish the game. Sullivan appropriately saw fit to devote little time to the matter, issuing a verbal order to continue the game. He didn't elaborate on his reasons for the ruling, and it didn't take a seven page report to explain his ruling.

The pine-tar fiasco shows two things about our society. It indicates that sports — mere games — have been given too high a position in our culture — when a judge takes the time to hold up the final 12 minutes of a baseball game because of $5.00 in suits. It also reveals the idiocy of some of our judges, who seem to be less concerned with seeing justice done and more content to rule on petty cases which have very little significance, other than their publicity value.

The keen eyes of memory

Some people have better memories than others do — both in terms of what events are remembered and how accurately. Some people don't want to remember the past — so they say. Others — and I count myself among these — take great delight in their memories.

I have a particular reason for my delight.

It has nothing to do with nostalgia. Although nostalgia can be pleasant, I believe that most of the time it is useless. On the other hand, it is by remembering and accepting the past that we are able to root ourselves in the present. The past and the present is what we as humans have — and can see clearly, as if through an open window — while the future is by its nature conjecture — remaining a door through which we have not yet gone.

Through the years of my life it has come to seem to me that it is only by remembering to remember the past that I can truly be alive in the present.

Alive — not just existing! Without the past there simply would not be any present!

Being alive seems to me to be the deepest miracle of all — alive with all other human beings on this planet (and, who knows? perhaps on other planets, as well.) and with all the animals and plants and rocks ... and stars and the splashing galaxies.

It does not matter whether we live in Manhattan, Kan. (which is where I now live) or in Thomas, Okla. or Upland, Calif. or Lewistown, Penn. (all of which are places I once lived) or in London or Paris or Moscow or Tokyo or Rio de Janeiro or New York or Chicago or New Orleans or Dallas...

What matters is that we have been and are alive in these places.

All of us — by which I mean the four billion-plus of us in this world and still counting — are connected to each other by the fact of our being alive, able to remember the past,

JOEL CLIMENHAGA
Collegian Columnist

thereby coming into what we are now.

I don't ordinarily criticize people. I think there is so much in all of us to be praised. However, I confess I do feel sorry for people who for whatever reason reject or forget their past. I think they are missing out on the miracle of their feeling and thinking and breathing right now.

Well, I do not reject my past. I remember it very well.

I am now 61 years old. (Recently I made a list. And there it was — I have lived in 31 different towns or places, moving through the rooms on a daily basis of more than 60 different houses.) All through my life I have been told I have an extraordinarily keen memory. To which I've often laughingly responded, "Yes, as a matter of fact, my memory is so good that if while telling about something which once happened to me I forget a specific part of it I'm able to invent that part on the spot."

It really isn't as bad as that. I know I remember the truth of what happened. But sometimes I forget details — and in the interest of the fullest truth at the moment of my remembering, I have an active enough imagination so that I am able to logically fill in the missing gaps.

All my life I have observed people and what they do — from the time I was very small, the child of missionary parents, living in Africa. Likewise, everything which happened, either to me or to someone else, associated itself in my thinking with something from the past. This awareness of association between events has been with me through all my years — while I lived in Canada after leaving Africa, in Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, California, and all the places between until I came to Kansas.

And the common thread which has run through all these events and their association is the bond between us all. The fact that we are one thought in the mind of God, or Allah, or the Prime Creator, or whatever you want to call him, her, it.

And it is because of this bond between us all that I believe the human species is destined to survive. I believe life will continue; I am an optimist about the human condition.

Yes, I am aware that pessimism has much evidence to support it. Nevertheless, I remain hopeful about humanity. And I remind the doom-sayers and gloom-buckets that if they are right, they will never be able to crow to me about it afterwards; whereas, if I am right and they are wrong, I will be able to say, "I told you so!"

In the meantime, regardless of who is right or wrong in foretelling the future, I am going to keep on dancing.

And I invite you to join in with me in this dance of being alive right now!

I am deeply grateful to whatever primal force gave me such keen eyes of memory, blessed me with the ability to remember to dance.

The things which I have seen with those eyes — and how those things are associated in my mind now — is what this column will be about.

(Editor's note: Joel Climenhaga is an associate professor of speech and will be a regular Collegian columnist throughout the semester.)

Craft the winner in suit

Hurray for Christine Craft.

After a month of George Brett's and Steinbrenner's saga of "Tar Wars", it was nice to hear Craft won her sex-discrimination lawsuit against Metromedia Inc., former owners of KMBC-TV, Kansas City, Mo. Craft was awarded $500,000 by the jury.

In case you don't remember the issue, let me digress. Craft was hired by KMBC a few years ago to be a co-anchor for the evening news. She was hired, she said she was told by KMBC executives, for her journalistic abilities. She then charged she was demoted because she was "too old, unattractive and not differential enough to men." She sued, claiming she was a victim of fraud.

The federal court in Kansas City heard Craft's charges and a weak defense by KMBC officials. (KMBC, by the way, is now owned by the Hearst Corp.) On Aug. 8, the jury found in Craft's favor.

The trial received plenty of network airtime. Newspapers had extensive coverage of the trial. "Entertainment Tonight," a syndicated television show which usually deals with the latest changes and fads in Hollywood, devoted at least one report per show to the trial. The show even sent a reporter to Kansas City to cover the trial.

Well, come to think of it, I guess this does have all of the makings of a B movie.

For me, the most disturbing part of the testimony was when an employee of a research group, hired by KMBC to gather comments about its news program, "warmed up" a test group by asking it to "help send Christine Craft back to California." So much for objectivity.

Craft's experience probably wasn't different from the experiences of other women in broadcasting. The only real difference is she fought back — and won.

Yes, she did suffer emotionally. Yes, she did leave KMBC for California. And yes, maybe she "should have known better" when she was told she was being hired for her journalistic ability.

BRIAN LA RUE
Collegian Columnist

But that's all beside the point.

What's made this case important in how it has affected us — yes, you and I are affected by the decision in this case — is the way Craft was treated. She was expected to play under a different set of "rules" than her male co-anchor. KMBC, however, did not tell her that other rules would apply to her.

After working as co-anchor for a few months, KMBC hired a consultant to help Craft with her appearance. This included both wardrobe and makeup. After I saw a news report which showed how the station was trying to "improve" her looks, I thought the opposite had occurred.

The testimony at the trial brought out the fact that Craft's male co-anchor was not treated this way. He was allowed to choose his own clothing for on-camera appearances. Craft had to follow a wardrobe schedule.

The male co-anchor was paid more, but Craft's contract (and lower pay) was legal. He, after all, had been in Kansas City longer.

I watched "Late Night With David Letterman" on Aug. 16 and saw Letterman interview Craft. She is an intelligent, dedicated journalist who was wronged by KMBC. She admitted to Letterman that she wasn't a "beauty queen," as she put it, but also added she wasn't a "mutt," either.

She told Letterman her "failure to be deferential enough to men" included the fact that she knew the difference between the American and National baseball leagues.

I think this whole case is an indictment of our society. I realize the ERA (even with its failure to be ratified) and the whole "women's movement" has had a big influence in changing stereotypic images. Twenty years ago, a woman on a television show was usually there to be pretty, but not too intelligent. News reporting was not an open field for women — but neither were most professions, other than teaching and nursing.

We've come a long way since then. Most fields of employment are now easily accessible for women. Women are now allowed to show their intelligence in public and on television (yes, I know this sounds asinine, but it's true, finally, for the most part). Women are now moving up into the "good old boy networks" in the world of work and finding executive positions opening up to them.

However, we've still got a long way to go. Women, on the average, still earn less than men when both are working as "equals." The "good old boy networks" still exist — they are now trying to find legal ways to keep themselves alive. And, unfortunately, women are still thought of as being unintelligent and capable of handling a "man's job."

I guess maybe only men are capable of understanding the differences between the American and National leagues, under this type of rationale. The only thing to do to fight this type of rationale is to change.

What will bring about this type of change is more lawsuits by women who are told they are equal to men, then told they are going to be paid less than their male counterparts and must work under a different set of rules than the males.

Craft's case, called a "pioneer" by some, will not end this second-class treatment of women overnight. It will not change attitudes overnight. It probably won't change the rules overnight, either.

But it's a start.

In defense of Bianca

WASHINGTON — When right-wingers encounter real-world complexities, their paranoia sometimes takes on a fitful, even incredible, dimension. It's called "Jane Fonda Syndrome."

Washington's latest case of this malady, first diagnosed during the Vietnam War, focuses on Bianca Jagger. For years now, the divorced wife of that famous Rolling Stone has championed the cause of poor people in Central America, including those in her native Nicaragua. In the eyes of Reaganite Washington, however, her advocacy has made Bianca a threat to national security — a scapegoat, like Jane Fonda, for America's latest misguided conflict.

Bianca, 33 years old (she says) and a Nicaraguan citizen, stands accused of lobbying Congress on behalf of the Sandinistas and using her glamour-girl status to foment trouble for Reagan policies both here and there. William Safire of The New York Times was particularly incensed that a Massachusetts college, albeit small, would give her an honorary degree. Another pair of administration supporters, columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, declared last week that Bianca's July 5 meeting with two staffers had "confirmed" the leftward shift of a once-bipartisan House Intelligence Committee.

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

Reached by phone at the Managua Intercontinental Hotel on July 25, Jagger conceded that, yes, she's called on the Intelligence Committee staffers (bearing evidence, she said, of Honduran military action against a Nicaraguan town only days before). In fact, she admitted, "I've been visiting congress for about three years," as many who've seen her at past hearings can attest.

Jagger, however, pooh-poohed the notion that she supports, let alone lobbies on behalf of, the Sandinistas. As proof, she cited her published criticisms of Nicaragua's political and press restrictions and added that her family has fled the country within the last three months.

"I sometimes have difficulty making myself understood (in the U.S.)," Jagger said, "because ... I'm trying to advocate negotiations. Otherwise, we're going to have major bloodshed ... I speak as a Nicaraguan," she added, insisting that her interests are non-partisan.

Bianca Jagger simply has a perspective to share, one rooted in firsthand experience in a region that most Americans dare not visit. If Henry Kissinger, who makes no mention of El Salvador, Nicaragua or Central America in his memoirs, can chair a presidential commission on the region, then Jagger deserves at least to speak.

Letter Policy

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are welcomed. All letters must be signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. If more than one name is included with the letter, only the first name will be published with a notation indicating the number of additional names. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations. All letters submitted become the property of the Kansas State Collegian.

Philippine politician dies in airport attack

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — Violent death rarely strayed from the thoughts of Philippine politician Benigno S. Aquino Jr., and neither did his dream of ending his self-exile in the United States with a triumphant return to Manila.

His dream ended Sunday afternoon when he was shot in the back of the head as he stepped off an airplane at Manila's International Airport.

In August 1980, just a few days after he arrived in Boston to begin the first of three years of academic fellowships at Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he described excitedly his dream of returning home to cheering crowds at the Manila airport.

Also in his dream was a wish that Ferdinand E. Marcos, the Philippine president and his bitter political enemy, would humbly join the crowd and escort him back to a position of power at Malacanang Palace, seat of the Philippine presidency.

It was to that end — regaining the power he believed he deserved — that he returned home, despite a government warning that he faced assassination or the sentence of death by firing squad imposed on him by a military tribunal in 1977.

"I must decide if I am an American or a Filipino," Aquino, 50, said at a luncheon at MIT last April as he weighed his situation.

At 17, working for the Manila Times, the most widely circulated English-language newspaper in Asia, he had become the youngest foreign correspondent to cover the Korean War. At 25, he was governor of his home province, Tarlac. At 30, he was a Philippine senator. He believed that by his 40th birthday, Nov. 27, 1972, he should have been on his way to being elected president.

Instead, Marcos detoured his ambition that year and, under martial law imposed in September 1972, jailed him along with hundreds of other alleged subversives.

A good friend called Aquino "scoopish," meaning he talked too much, a relic of his news reporting days. He also was a romantic. The possibility of martyrdom gave him an opportunity to declare that he feared no assassin.

Solomon ruling changes may affect aid

By BRENDA ROTTINGHAUS
Staff Writer

Changes in the Solomon Amendment, rules regarding state scholarships and work study opportunities may affect financial aid available to K-State students as they return to school.

The Solomon Amendment, the question of selective service registration and its linkage to eligibility for student financial assistance has made a complete circle since last spring.

Judge Donald Alsop ruled on June 16 that the Solomon Amendment was unconstitutional. By June 24, the issue was receiving national attention, and the ruling was declared invalid June 29, again requiring students to complete a registration compliance form.

Robert W. Evans, director of Student Financial Assistance, said the U.S. Department of Education decided to grant institutions a grace period until October 1 to gear up to enforcing the amendment.

However, the University decided for reasons of practicality to take care of the matter now. At the time of disbursement, if students have not already signed the statement, they will be required to do so.

About 50 percent of students receiving financial assistance signed the compliance form when they turned in applications for aid last year. If they had not yet completed the form or their form was invalid, it will be taken care of when the student receives the assistance.

Implementation of a decision made last spring by the Board of Regents regarding the renewal of state scholarships has been postponed until the 1984-85 academic year.

The original decision stated that students in the State of Kansas scholarship program who did not have a 3.0 grade point average could not renew their state scholarships for the 1983-84 school year.

On Aug. 4, the Board decided to postpone this action, because the decision was made when nearly two-thirds of the academic year was completed. The postponement allows students a fair chance to comply to the changed criteria.

Evans said about 50 students went away for the summer thinking they weren't going to get any aid.

"We have a surprise for them, because their checks are here," he said.

This number doesn't account for the students who — upon hearing the decision last spring — decided not to reapply.

A new State College Work Study Program will begin this year, creating 50 to 60 career-oriented, off-campus jobs for students.

The new program was designed by the Associated Students of Kansas. ASK also was responsible for having several pieces of legislation introduced and worked with representatives from financial aid and business offices to develop guidelines.

"We started working on the idea last summer in response to last year's tuition increase," said Mark Tallman, executive director of ASK.

"We chose not to oppose the increase, but rather work to get more assistance to students. A jobs program seemed to be the best answer," Tallman said.

The Manhattan Chamber of Commerce worked with the University financial aid office in determining which local businesses would be interested in participating in the program.

In the program, the employer pays 50 percent of a student's salary and the state pays the other 50 percent. The state's allocation to K-State for this program is $70,531.

Evans stressed that students interested in participating in the program must come in and apply for this specific type of assistance.

"Students did not have an opportunity to make application for this new program when they left to go home, since it is a new program," Evans said. He said qualifications are the same as for the federal work study program.

As in previous years, emergency student loans are available to students for up to two-thirds of the amount of their tuition.

Students are encouraged not to rely solely on the program for additional money since such loans are based partly on availability of funds, according to Evans.

The interest rate on the loans is approximately 8 percent per year. The repayment period may not exceed 90 days, and borrowers whose loans were referred to a collection agency are ineligible for more loans.

Borrowers must present proper identification and their fee card to the financial aid office when applying for an emergency loan. Those receiving other financial aid are required to repay outstanding emergency loans with the aid even though the emergency loan is not due.

Only two emergency student loans may be issued to a student during a semester, and a loan will not be issued beyond the eighth week of classes.

WELCOME TO 1 + 1 EVERY MONDAY!

Buy any draft item at regular price, get one free 7-10 p.m. every Monday!

TOMORROW IS VISOR DAY!
Get Your Free
Kite's Visor!

29 Yrs. Of KSU Tradition
Cools on tap.

Open 11:30 a.m. Mon.-Sat.
Serving Lunch & Dinner

the casual encounter

1208 Moro
in Aggieville

Presenting the newest,
softest, strongest, great looking cord jeans in 6 beautiful colors
for Guys & Gays.

Lee

The brand that fits

Regular
Fit Straight Leg

Genuine Lee Riders™
Comfort & Fit
Quality & Value

Ultra Cord
Ultra Sports
Sweepstakes

Win $20,000 worth of Super Bowl '84 excitement! Your group of 8 could win expenses for hotels, transportation, meals, cash and the best Tampa, Florida has to offer! Just come in and fill out an entry blank in our store. Your entry also makes you eligible to win one of 25 Sony 50" projection TV's or a Lee Sport Bag! Hurry, deadline for entry is September 16. No Purchase necessary. Void if prohibited by law.

Pick up your FREE ENTRY
BLANK at

the casual encounter

1208 Moro in Aggieville

Invites You to
Our First

ANNIVERSARY

Wednesday and Thursday, August 24-25

—Entertainment by The Glee Club

Wednesday

7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
$2⁰⁰

Ladies Only

All You Can Drink

Beer, Wine, and House Drinks

$1⁰⁰ Cover Charge after 9 p.m.

—No Men Admitted
until 9 p.m.

Thursday

7 p.m. to 9 p.m. 75¢ House Drinks, 50¢ Draws
No Cover Charge

9 p.m. to 10 p.m. Kamakazi and a Draw $1.25

$1⁰⁰ Cover Charge 9 p.m. to Close

1122 Moro

UPSTAIRS

539-9703

IF YOU HAVEN'T BEEN TO

MR. K'S

YOU HAVEN'T BEEN TO AGGIEVILLE!

Dancing Nightly

Cools on tap

TONITE IS PROGRESSIVE PITCHERS!

•$1.50 Pitchers 7-8:00

•$1.75 Pitchers 8-9:00

•$2 Pitchers 9-10:00

Can You Afford To Keep Paying Retail For Food

Warehouse Hours: Mon. Thru Sat.
8 a.m.-9 p.m. — Sun. 9 a.m.-7 p.m.

THINK

401 East Poyntz Ave.
Manhattan Kansas.
Next to K-Mart

Do You Spend
$70⁰⁰
A Week
for Food?
If the answer
Is YES then you spend approximately $3640⁰⁰
a year for food in a retail store.
If you start shopping
Food 4 Less®
Today, next year you'll have saved approximately $546⁰⁰

DO YOU WANT TO HELP SUPERMARKETS PAY FOR:

• FANCY STORES • CARRY OUT BOYS • DOUBLE
COUPON OFFERS • GAMES • GIMMICKS • FANCY
ADVERTISING • DOUBLE BINGO • HUNDREDS OF
OTHER THINGS YOUR FAMILY CAN'T EAT — BUT MUST BE PAID FOR IN TERMS OF HIGHER OVERHEAD.

You can save approximately 18% of a supermarket's mark-up by shopping Food 4 Less® everyday warehouse prices — and everyday prices comprise 85% of your food budget.

?

Noticed a Few Lower Food Prices around Town? We're glad we've helped you save money on food wherever you shop. Now do yourself a favor — Come Shop Where You Can Really Save —
Everyday — Food 4 Less®

Food 4 Less® brought the most modern-method of getting food to the consumer to Manhattan 7 years ago and you have been saving money ever since! We put the plain wrapper on the store, not the food. Our farmers are expected to produce food for a very low cost. And now Food 4 Less® complements that system by marketing that food at a very low cost. Here about all you pay for is FOOD!

REMEMBER: AT FOOD 4 LESS WE ALWAYS HAVE A FULL VARIETY OF OVER 10,000 ITEMS WAREHOUSE
PRICED 365 DAYS A YEAR.

 GROCERY * MEAT * PRODUCE * FROZEN FOOD * DAIRY

THESE ARE FULL LINE DEPARTMENTS NOT HIT & MISS
AFTER THOUGHTS. YOU CAN DO ALL YOUR SHOPPING
HERE AT ONE STOP AND ALL AT WAREHOUSE PRICES.
TOP QUALITY....EVERYTHING WE SELL CARRIES A 100%
MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. IF YOU'RE NOT SATISFIED
YOU CAN GET YOUR MONEY BACK OR MERCHANDISE REPLACED CHEERFULLY.

Compare Our Prices

You will be amazed at what you can save by Shopping
Food 4 Less® at its everyday warehouse
prices.

THE NATION'S LARGEST SUPERMARKET CHAIN Is Currently Claiming They Are The Low Price Leader And Say They Will Refund Triple The Difference If You Can Buy Your Groceries Cheaper Anyplace Else (Anyplace,
That Is, Except Food 4 Less®).
COULD IT BE They Realize As Should You — That If You're Shopping Any Place But Food 4 Less® You're Spending More Than Necessary On Food!!

Utility companies plan ahead to cope with students' return

By ANDY OSTMEYER
Staff Writer

Student cooperation and planning by many of the utilities have helped to alleviate the problems that arise when students return.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. expected 11,000 new phone orders in Manhattan, according to Donna Geisler, district staff manager-personnel-network.

To help ease the rush, the phone company shifted people into communities such as Lawrence, Manhattan and Emporia. Eight employees were shifted from places such as Topeka and St. Louis, Mo. into the Phone Center in Manhattan to help.

According to Dan Myers, staff-specialist-network, there has been some waiting at the service center at Westloop Shopping Center. The store has extended its hours to 6 p.m. on weekdays and also is open on Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Normally phone service hooch takes about two days. But during the rush, Myers and other employees have been telling new customers it may take as long as a week before service is hooked up.

Approximately 98 percent of all new orders have been put into service within three days, Geisler said.

"We have handled them better than we might have expected," Myers said. He was brought in from Topeka to help with the rush.

Although eight people were brought in for the rush, approximately 40 other employees are not working because of the strike.

Management has been working 12-14 hours a day seven days a week to take over the positions left empty by the strikers, Steve Shaw said. Shaw is the president of the Communication Workers of America local 6411.

The Union is the largest of the three which are striking against the Bell system.

The strikers are not as concerned with pay as much as they are concerned with job security, Shaw said.

The Union wants their members to be retrained, not replaced by technology, he said. Although no employees in this area have been laid off, some have been forced to move.

The Bell system also wants to take away 25 percent of the hospitalization benefits which the employees have had for over 12 years. Southwestern Bell has not give any reason as to why they want to take away the benefits, Shaw added.

"They are not financially ill," Shaw said. The company made $7.2 billion last year and made $1.93 billion in the second quarter of this year.

Geisler said the strike has not had a serious effect on the rush, partially because the residence halls and the fraternities and sororities are all pre-wired. The largest part of the job involves paper work.

According to Shaw, the strike's impact isn't being felt as much now as it will be later, because a lot of routine maintenance isn't being done. The impact will be greater when the equipment needs repair.

Area residents have been mostly supportive of the strikers walking picket duty at the Phone Center because "everybody has got something against Bell," Shaw said.

Kansas Power and Light has also been busy with the student rush, according to John Johannes, division manager.

KP&L is handling three times the normal amount of requests, he said. Within the last two weeks, the company has handled 3500-3800 requests.

"It is right in our peak season," Johannes said, referring to the time of the rush. The company, which experiences four student rushes a year, usually can service a request within the same day, but is now running a day behind, he added.

According to Johannes, KP&L has pulled people off their regular crews to try and schedule turn-ons to meet the students' requests.

The biggest problem with the student rush is the paper work which must be done. It only takes a few minutes to turn on the electricity, but gas service takes longer to turn on. Someone must be there when the gas is turned on to make sure everything is working properly to avoid accidents. Turning on the gas usually takes 35 minutes to an hour.

Manhattan Cable TV Services Inc. had a meeting in July and came up with ways of handling the student onslaught, said Dan Hebert, manager.

The company has hired one additional part-time employee and has also brought in two other people from Junction City to help. The cable company in Junction City is owned by the one in Manhattan.

"If you can plan for it and try to anticipate it, then you can stay ahead," Dan Hebert said.

Hebert said the cable company can usually turn on service within one or two days, but during the rush it may take as long as a week.

Hansen Nutrition Center

Food Supplements Natural Food
Special Dietary Foods Appliances
Body Building Foods Books

"Diet cures what diet causes"

HOURS

9:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Mon.-Sat.

3112 Anderson Ave. 537-4571

The Sun Survival Kit

MERLE NORMAN
The Place for the Custom Face

FLYING LESSONS
AIRCRAFT RENTAL
PILOT SERVICES

free ground instruction
flexible scheduling
reasonable rates

J. Van Swaay 537-0132

"EYE OF THE WILDCAT"

Keep on Trackin' to our office for contact lenses

- Tinted (to change the color of your eyes)
- Extended Wear (to sleep with)
- Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- Regular type (for near and far sightedness)
- Toric (for astigmatism)
- Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Contact us for Replacement Lenses and Solutions in Stock.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock, P.A.
Practice of Optometry
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Manhattan, Ks.

Mobile Acoustics

the car stereo professionals

Now you have an alternative to what is being offered in auto sound in Manhattan. We have the best brands in the business, professional installation with a lifetime guarantee, and no hype or high pressure. So before you buy any car stereo equipment—anywhere—come on down and see what a CAR STEREO SALE is all about.

IN DASH AM/FM CASSETTE		Reg.	SALE	POWER AMPLIFIERS		Reg.	SALE
Majestic MCR-1000, mute, loudness		$119.00	$ 89.00	Alphasonik A-220, 20 W.P.C.		$125.00	$ 99.00
Majestic MCR-1700, auto-reverse		139.00	109.00	Alphasonik A-240, 40 W.P.C.		175.00	159.00
Majestic MCR-1900, auto-reverse		129.00	99.00	Alphasonik A-501, 50 W.P.C.		249.00	229.00
Majestic MCR-3800, digital, hi-power				Alphasonik A-265, 65 W.P.C.
Westport WL-180, mini, optional vert. mounting	119.00	79.00		(Class "A")		349.00	249.00
Westport WL-190, auto-reverse, metal eq.	149.00	129.00		Alpine 3006, 18 W.P.C.		69.00	49.00
Westport WL-210, auto reverse, pushbutton	199.00	159.00		Blaupunkt BPA-415, 20Wx4 for use w/Blaupunkt only		109.00	99.00
Westport WL-220, auto-reverse, dolby, bass & treble, pushbuttons	249.00	189.00		Blaupunkt BPA-260, 60 W.P.C.		319.00	279.00
Westport WL-250, digital, clock, auto-reverse, scan tuning	349.00	229.00		Concord HPA-25, 25 W.P.C.		120.00	89.00
Blaupunkt 2002, noise reduction, auto reverse, bass & treble	229.00	209.00		Concord HPA-51, 50 W.P.C.		199.00	169.00
Blaupunkt Seattle, auto-rev., DNT metal, bass & treble	249.00	229.00		Majestic MA-150 HD, 75 W.P.C.		129.00	89.00
Blaupunkt Richmond, auto-rev., pushbutton, metal eq., bass & treble	299.00	279.00		Proton 222, 22 W.P.C. cleanest power available at any price		139.00	109.00
Blaupunkt Manhattan, auto-rev., pushbutton, c.p.s.	299.00	279.00		Proton 250, 50 W.P.C. cleanest power available at any price		289.00	239.00
Blaupunkt 3003, digital, clock, noise reduction, auto-reverse	379.00	339.00
Blaupunkt Tucson, digital, auto-reverse, clock, sep. bass & treble	499.00	449.00
Concord HPL-502, MP Tape Head, 25 W.P.C.	249.00	229.00
Concord HPL-504, MP Tape Head, dolby, 25 W.P.C.	299.00	259.00
Concord HPL-122, MP Tape Head, dolby, digital	429.00	369.00
Concord HPL-525, MP Tape Head, dolby, digital, 25 W.P.C.	429.00	369.00
Concord HPL-532, MP Tape Head, dolby, backlighting 25 W.P.C.	449.00	449.00
Proton 202A, Sep. bass & treble, dolby, Schotz Det. Tuner	239.00	199.00
Pioneer UKE 3100, digital, loudness	249.00	189.00
Pioneer KP-4500, auto-reverse, loudness	169.00	139.00
Kenwood KRC-322, auto-reverse, pushbutton, dolby	279.00	219.00
Kenwood KRC-512, mini, digital, auto-reverse, dolby	349.00	299.00
Kenwood KRC-922, auto-reverse, digital, dolby	459.00	399.00
Clarion 5300R, auto-reverse, magi-tune, dolby	229.00	179.00
Sanyo V-96, auto-reverse, hi-power, dolby	179.00	139.00
Sanyo FT 510, auto-reverse, hi-power	139.00	119.00
Sanyo FTC-26, auto-reverse, minichassis	99.00	79.00
Magnadyne 2900, auto-reverse, minichassis	99.00	89.00
Marantz Car 312, compuskip, sep. bass & treble	199.00	149.00
Roadstar 2970, auto-reverse, push-button	229.00	199.00
Alpine 7128, digital, auto-reverse	249.50	229.00
Alpine 7138, digital, auto-reverse, dolby	299.00	269.00
MISC.	Reg.	SALE
Proton 270, electronic X-over	$ 79.00	$ 69.00
Sony LNC-90, Blank tape		1.59
Majestic MCB-409, 40 channel C.B. Radio	129.00	89.00
D.B.R. Son-A-Lert, Alarm System	129.00	89.00

NOW THRU SEPT. 3rd

at the corner of 3rd & Bluemont
MANHATTAN
537-3193

- Concord
- Blaupunkt
- Westport Labs
- Proton
- Jensen
- Majestic
- Pyle
- Pioneer
- Sanyo
- Marantz
- Alphasonik
- Clarion
- Roadstar
- Magnadyne
- Kenwood
- Boston Acoustics
- ADS
- Sony
- Linear
- Zapco
- Audio Mobile

YOU CAN SELECT ALL OF YOUR OFFICIAL BOOKS & SUPPLIES at VARNEY'S BOOKSTORE

- Art Supplies • Architecture and Engineering Supplies • Notebooks • Spirals • Pencils • Pens • Report Covers • Typing Paper • Study Lamps • Textbooks • KSU Sportswear • Calculators • Paperbacks and Hardbacks • Greeting Cards • Bulletin Boards • Back Packs • Posters •

Don't forget to use the Varney's coupons that are in the coupon book you received during enrollment.

One coupon is worth $1.00 toward your textbooks purchase totaling $20.00 or more.

One coupon is worth $1.00 toward the purchase of your choice of either a T-shirt or BackPack.

One coupon is a registration blank for a free Texas Instruments 99/4 computer. Winner will be drawn at 2:00 p.m., Friday, Sept. 2nd.

AND

Varney's is giving coupons in the store good for a free admission to MRKS and 10% off any item (excluding bicycles) at THE PATHFINDER.

Again, Varney's in Aggieville is the place for you to buy your books, supplies and extra items for your enjoyment.

Varney's regular hours are 9:00 a.m.
to 9:00 p.m. Mon. thru Sat.
and 12:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday,
but for your convenience,
Varney's will open at 8:30 a.m.
until August 26th

Course Essentials (Stud Lecture Reinforcement (Exa Illustrations (Future

SAVE On Us Textbo

(Used Books Are Priced 25% L

Varney's is with used

All Your Pu GUARAN

Varney's guarantees that the book is for your class. If your schedule changes to the wrong class, you can bring the book back for a full cash refund within* two weeks. All you need is the cash register receipt and the book. You must have the cash refund.

*No refunds on Quiz-out manuals.

in Aggieville Since 1916

on r tbooks

Study Framework

Exam Review

Future Reference

25%

Used books

% Less Than New Books)

is loaded
ed booksPurchases
NTEED

book you buy is the right one ule changes or you enroll in g the undamaged book back two weeks after classes start.
gister receipt and the mere cash register receipt for a als.

Varney's

6 Phone 539-0511

SPECIALS

FOX FOLDING DRAFTING TABLE

(Shown with Parallel Rule
not included)

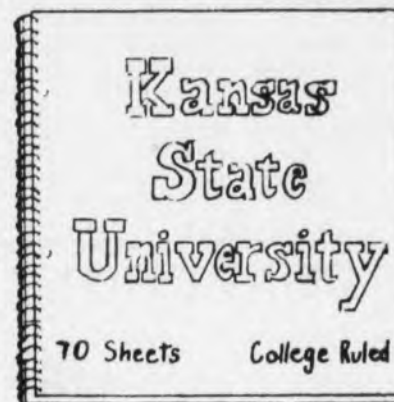

30" x 42" Top

This space saving table features a wide 32" base that folds flat to a storage depth of 4". This base is made of solid oak with natural finish. The top is a professional 3/4" thick solid wood reinforced with metal edge channel on two sides. The top adjusts to any working angle from 30° to 90°.

Compare at $120.00
Varney's Price Only $69.95

SPIRAL NOTEBOOK

70 Sheets College ruled Regular $1.15 each
Buy 4 for $3.50 Save $1.10 while supply lasts

FREE DRAWING

Texas Instruments 99/4 Computer

(our demonstrator)

Come in and register for our computer give away. No purchase is necessary and you don't have to be present at drawing to win. Lucky winner will be drawn at 2:00 p.m., Friday, September 2nd.

DRAWING BOARD and COVERING

23"x31" metal edged board Regular $22.85

23"x31" Deluxe board covering Regular $13.50

Buy Board and Covering together for $30.30

SAVE $6.05

All Calculators are at Discount Prices
at Varney's

- Hewlett-Packard
- Texas Instruments
- Sharp
- Casio

We also carry batteries, adapters and paper for most calculators.

KOH-I-NOOR
RAPIDOGRAPH™

Special Offer!

Buy a 7-Pen Set
for the price of a 4-Pen Set

The best of Rapidograph technology
in one distinctively new pen for all drafting and graphic arts
applications.

RAPIDOGRAPH® technical pen . . . the best-selling technical pen in America!

3165-SP-7

Regular List $78.50
Varney's Special $33.10
You save 58% or $45.40

A Koh-i-noor technician
will be in our store to assist you Tuesday,
August 23rd.

You can cash your Pell Grant (formerly Basic Grant) and Scholarship Checks at Varney's when you buy your books and supplies.

Three physicians join staff at Lafene

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

Three new doctors, Dr. John Listerman, Dr. Larry Moeller and Dr. Naomi Purdy, recently joined the staff and began work at Lafene Student Health Center.

"We are really pleased that these individuals have joined our staff," said Roger Birnbaum, administrative assistant for Lafene. "They're going to add a lot of depth and expertise (to Lafene)."

Listerman came to Manhattan from Bolivar, Mo., a city of about 6,000 located approximately 30 miles north of Springfield. He and another doctor practiced in a 52-bed hospital where both were family physicians.

"The hospital was a challenge and a great opportunity, but I had to leave," Listerman, an above-knee amputee, said. "It was physically too much to handle."

He said Lafene will be easier because he won't have to run out in the middle of the night and deliver babies or be on call as many hours in one day.

"I've always wanted to be a family doctor, but I view this as a really challenging medical opportunity," Listerman said.

Listerman received a degree in zoology from the University of Missouri, where he also attended medical school. He worked at the student health center at Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield for two years.

"I hope people appreciate the student health center," Listerman said.

"It is refreshing to work with people who do."

Moeller previously practiced in Brookings, S.D., where he was a physician at South Dakota State University's student health center.

A native Nebraskan, he earned his undergraduate degree at the Lincoln campus of the University of Nebraska and attended medical school at the Omaha campus.

"My wife and I are from the Midwest. We want to raise our children in the Midwest," Moeller said of his reasons for choosing to work at Lafene. He said he chose to work at K-State's health center because of the area and its people.

Moeller said he plans to practice both curative and preventive medicine at Lafene.

"Even though most of our time is spent dealing with the curative aspect, college students are an ideal audience for preventive medicine," Moeller said.

Purdy attended medical school at the University of Colorado and finished her residency at the University of Kansas Medical Center as a family practitioner.

Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene, said all three of the new doctors are certified by the American Medical Association board and were hired for general practice.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian
Classifieds

Operations and hospital rooms cost more than you think...

Check with State Farm for hospital-surgical insurance.

Call:
Bruce L. Arnold
507 Leavenworth
776-3800

Personal Health Insurance
The State Farm Way

Like a good neighbor,
State Farm is there.

State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company Home Office: Bloomington, Illinois

THE DONUT HOLE

- Fresh Donuts
- Dipped Ice Cream
- Fresh baked rolls and pastries
- Sandwiches on Homemade rolls—starting at $1.59

1101 Moro Mon.-Fri. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Sat. 6:30-11:00 p.m.

Welcome Back KSU Students!

Come to scrumpdillyishusland for all your favorite Dairy Queen Treats!

Dairy Queen Brazier

1015 North 3rd • Manhattan

©1982 U.S. Pat. Off. Am. D's. Corp.
©Copyright 1974, Am. D.Q. Corp.

Welcome Back!

$2.00 off with this ad.

Student I.D. required
expires Sept. 16, 1983

REDKEN Nexxus New Man

210 Humboldt
776-5651

HICKORY
SMOKED
BAR-B-QUE
FOR KSU!

- RIBS • BEEF • HAM
- CHICKEN!

For Carry Out
Call 776-6451
(No Extra Charge)

1215 MORO • PUBLIC & PRIVATE DINING (Aggie Station Reciprocal)
HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 11:30 A.M.-10:30 P.M., Sun. 5-10 P.M.

$1.00 CAN BRING OUT THE MASTER IN YOU

Just $1.00 buys you four tubes (22cc size) of Bocour Paints... up to a $10.00 value. It's K-State Union Bookstore's way of introducing Bocour fine paints like Bellini Oils and Aquatone Acrylics.

So Come buy these fine paints and let the master in you come out.

*color selection may vary, while supply last.

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS and FACULTY!

Mini Marts Open Long Hours for Your Shopping Convenience.

Featuring—FAST—FRIENDLY—SERVICE

GAS!
Cold
Beverages!

Hot & Cold
Sandwiches.
Coffee and Iced Tea.

Magazines and Daily Newspaper
Selection.

Bagged Ice!
Dairy Products!

Electronic Games.
Hunting & Fishing Licenses.

Fresh Rolls and Donuts Daily!
Front door
parking!

Prices Good Aug. 22-23-24

Ice Small Bag 49¢

Coke 6/12 oz. cans $1.59

Coors Reg. Beer 12/12 oz. cans $4.29 cold

Keys Made in Minutes

Located for
Your Convenience

The Friendly
Country Store
3 Miles East on Hiway 24
Open 6 a.m. Till 1 a.m. Daily

MINI
CONVENIENCE

MART
GROCERY

U.S. intelligence report cites killings by Nicaraguan rebels

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A 1982 U.S. intelligence report says Nicaraguan counter-revolutionaries have assassinated minor Nicaraguan government officials and a Cuban adviser, and describes one of the insurgent groups as a "terrorist" organization.

But the Defense Intelligence Agency report, dated July 16, 1982 and classified "secret," does not mention the Central Intelligence Agency's now widely acknowledged support for some of the groups. Nor does it say there was any U.S. role in the assassinations.

The DIA's four-page report was distributed to reporters by John Kelly, editor of "CounterSpy," a magazine sharply critical of CIA activities.

The report's authenticity was confirmed independently by two government sources, familiar with the original document, who insisted that their names not be used.

CIA spokesman Dale Peterson refused to discuss the report, but added: "We would not be involved in any activity in which assassination was contemplated or discussed." DIA officials declined comment.

The Defense Intelligence Agency is the Defense Department's primary intelligence gathering and analysis operation. It is separate from the CIA, which members of Congress have said began supporting "contra" groups by December 1981.

The leftist Nicaragua government has frequently claimed that the "contras" — or counter-revolutionaries — have committed assassinations. Last June, Lisa Fitzgerald, an American nun working in Nicaragua, said the contras commonly targeted religious and health workers for assassination.

Reagan administration officials have defended their arming and support for the contras as a way to stop weapons smuggling from Nicaragua to leftist guerrillas in El Salvador and to put pressure on the Nicaraguan government, which the president contends is allying itself with Cuba and the Soviet Union.

The DIA report said that from March 14, 1982, to June 21, 1982, the contras launched about 85 attacks, including sabotage of highway bridges, sniper fire against small military patrols, burning of a customs warehouse, and destruction of crops.

It said contra actions also included "attacks by small guerrilla bands on individual Sandinista soldiers, and the assassination of minor government officials and a Cuban adviser."

The report provides no further details of those alleged acts.

U.S. officials say several thousand Cuban military advisers are stationed in Nicaragua, but Nicaraguan officials say most of the Cubans are doctors and teachers.

One contra group, the 15 September Legion, is described in the report as "a terrorist group comprised of a small number of commandos believed to be operating out of Honduras."

The DIA report says that in late 1981, the Legion joined the Nicaraguan Democratic Front, the major contra organization operating out of Honduras and the one most closely associated with the CIA. But the report says some members split off and continued the Legion as a separate group.

In Honduras, a spokesman for the Nicaraguan Democratic Front, or FDN, who insisted on anonymity, said that if minor government officials or Cuban advisers were killed, "it was because they participated in combat" with rebel forces.

The FDN spokesman said the rebels are fighting "to overthrow the (Sandinista) dictatorship" but are not using "any terrorist strategy."

The DIA report said the Legion claimed credit for a December 1981 bombing of a Nicaraguan civil airlines Boeing 727 in Mexico City, an October 1981 hijacking of a Costa Rican airliner from San Jose, Costa Rica, and a Feb. 20, 1982, bomb blast in a suitcase unloaded from a Honduran aircraft in Managua.

The FDN spokesman in Honduras, however, said the group has claimed responsibility only for the explosion at the Managua airport, not the other incidents mentioned in the report. The spokesman said the 15 September Legion disappeared after merger with the FDN.

According to Federal Aviation Administration records, the Mexico City bombing occurred Dec. 12, 1981, injuring five people before takeoff.

In the Costa Rican hijacking, on Oct. 29, 1981, five people with automatic weapons seized a plane and demanded that seven prisoners be freed, the FAA said. Six prisoners were freed and the passengers were released unharmed.

The Feb. 20, 1982, bomb explosion occurred after a Honduran Boeing 737 landed in Managua, on a flight from New Orleans with stops in Belize and Honduras, the FAA said. Three people were killed and four injured. One of the injured was an employee of the U.S. Embassy in Managua, according to Rep. James Coyne, R-Pa., who was in Nicaragua at the time of the blast.

Fighting intensifies in Nicaragua

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Rebels operating out of Costa Rica have mounted attacks in southern Nicaragua and stiff fighting continued Sunday in the north between government soldiers and Honduras-based rebels, Defense Ministry spokesman Roberto Sanchez said.

At least 24 rebels and 20 soldiers were killed "during the past few days," Sanchez told reporters at a briefing.

"In some places, there has been fighting for 24 hours at a stretch and in some places the fighting continues," he said.

He gave few details of the clashes.

In another development, Interior Minister Tomas Borge challenged former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to a public debate over President Reagan's Central American policies.

An interview published Sunday by the pro-government newspaper El Nuevo Diario quoted Borge as saying he had heard that Kissinger would be visiting Nicaragua soon in his capacity as chairman of a 12-member bipartisan commission recently appointed by Reagan to formulate policy on the area.

"If he accepts, I would be willing to discuss with him whatever matter he wants to" in a debate over radio or television, Borge was quoted as saying. "Truth is our weapon and we are not afraid to discuss anything with anyone."

THE SOUND SHOP

Is Having A

$150,000 STEREO SALE

NOW THRU SEPT. 3

While some stereo shops have gone out of business and others are struggling THE SOUND SHOP is having its best year ever. Why? Simple—we have an excellent reputation, carry the best lines of equipment available, offer one of the widest selections in the state, and when we have a sale—WE HAVE A SALE—a real sale. And right now we have reduced over $150,000 worth of quality audio gear from 10 to 60%. These are demos, one of a kind and used equipment as well as lots of new stock! All demos and new equipment carry full factory warranty. So stay with a winner and get your audio equipment from the pros, at prices that are just plain unbeatable and if you're a little short on cash right now—no problem—$10.00 will hold any sale item (but hurry—quantities are limited on some items and at these prices they won't last for long).

$15.00

worth

of free accessories with purchase of any new bicycle:

Trek Fiji
Schwinn Bianchi

the PATHFINDER

Create a Sandwich

meats

Roast Beef*Polish Sausage
BBQ Beef*Smoked Turkey
Smoked Beef Brisket*Ham
Pastrami*Cornd Beef
Turkey*Salami
(55¢ & $1.00 extra meat)

cheeses

cheddar*muenster jalapeno pepper*swiss american*provolone monterrey jack*cream cheese (extra cheese 25¢)

bread

French Roll*Pumpkinroll
Onion Roll*Light Rye
Kaiser Roll*Wheat Roll

BAGEL

All sandwiches include chips & pickle, choice of cheese and bread and mayo, lettuce, onion, tomato, 1000 Island, Italian Sub dressing, Horse-radish, Mustards, Yellow, Dijon, Dusseldorf.

15¢ Extras

Extra tomatoe*Kraut
Green Pepper
Mushrooms*Spinach

SPECIALTIES

COMBOS, Reubens,
Veggie Subs, BLT's
Meatball SUBS
BAGELS
with Cream Cheese and Bacon or Lox

Refills on tea—free sodas—25¢

1116 Moro in Aggieville
537-0886

	Mfg. Value	Sound Shop Special Sale Price		Mfg. Value	Sound Shop Special Sale Price		Mfg. Value	Sound Shop Special Sale Price
RECEIVERS (power per channel)			SPEAKERS (pair)			CASSETTE DECKS
AKAI AAR 32, 45 watt	$329.95	$274.00	AAL 5000	$500.00	$198.00	Nakamichi BX-1	$299.00	$279.00
AKAI AAR 42, 60 watt	429.95	355.00	ADS L520	440.00	350.00	Nakamichi BX-2	450.00	418.00
Denon DRA-300, 30 watt	295.00	269.00	ADS L620	550.00	438.00	Nakamichi LX-3	630.00	569.00
Denon DRA-400, 40 watt	395.00	369.00	ADS L710	740.00	640.00	Yamaha K200	225.00	198.00
B&O 1600, 30 watt	500.00	379.00	ADS L810	900.00	795.00	Yamaha K300	275.00	238.00
Hitachi SR604, 35 watt	359.00	259.00	ADS L1230	1550.00	1295.00	Yamaha K500	350.00	297.00
MVC RS33, 30 watt	329.00	219.00	Audio Pulse 820	260.00	118.00	Yamaha K1000	595.00	559.00
Kenwood KR65, 30 watt	260.00	199.00	B&O S45II	400.00	340.00	NAD 6050C	238.00	219.00
Mitsubishi DAR3, 30 watt	230.00	199.00	Boston Acoustic A40	150.00	135.00	Denon DR-F6	450.00	359.00
Mitsubishi DAR8, 35 watt	297.00	242.00	Boston Acoustic A60	200.00	176.00	Harmon Kardon 200XM	349.00	229.00
Mitsubishi DAR15, 45 watt	440.00	397.00	Boston Acoustic A70	300.00	249.00	Onkyo TA 2015	225.00	189.00
Mitsubishi DAR25, 65 watt	540.00	490.00	Boston Acoustic A100	400.00	339.00	Onkyo TA 2025	259.00	199.00
Mitsubishi DAR35, 85 watt	650.00	590.00	Boston Acoustic A150	550.00	489.00	Onkyo TA 2055	369.95	299.00
NAD 7120, 20 watt	298.00	277.00	DCM Time Window	760.00	695.00	Onkyo TAW 80	369.95	259.00
NAD 7150, 50 watt	598.00	566.00	DCM QED	550.00	470.00	JVC KDA-5	350.00	249.00
Onkyo TX21, 30 watt	250.00	219.00	Essex 208	100.00	78.00	JVC KDD 35	255.00	179.00
Onkyo TX30, 45 watt	429.00	329.00	JBL L46	360.00	329.00	Toshiba PCX10M	169.95	129.00
Pioneer SX5, 30 watt	325.00	230.00	Klipsch Cornwall	1376.00	1197.00	Toshiba PCG6R	299.95	229.00
Sanyo DCR 150, 20 watt	199.95	159.00	Mitsubishi 181W	340.00	297.00	Pioneer CT6R	290.00	259.00
Toshiba SAR1, 30 watt	199.95	165.00	Mitsubishi 32b MKII	550.00	445.00	Pioneer CTF800	450.00	315.00
Yamaha R30, 25 watt	275.00	239.00	Polk Models	290.00	259.00	INTEGRATED AMPS/TUNERS
Yamaha R50, 35 watt	335.00	299.00	Snell Type E	850.00	760.00	NAD 3150	$398.00	$369.00
Yamaha R70, 50 watt	465.00	418.00	Yamaha NS10M	310.00	279.00	NAD 4150 (T)	338.00	313.00
Yamaha R90, 70 watt	595.00	530.00	Yamaha NS20T	290.00	249.00	Yamaha A400	225.00	199.00
Yamaha R100, 100 watt	795.00	697.00	EQUALIZER/SOUND PROCESSORS			Yamaha A500	325.00	299.00
Scott R34S, 35 watt	259.00	139.00	TURNTABLES (prices include $50.00 cartridge)			Yamaha A760II	395.00	339.00
			Akai APB110	$149.95	$91.00	Yamaha C50	530.00	469.00
			Akai APD210	185.00	119.00	Yamaha C50	650.00	589.00
			B&O RX	255.00	227.00	Yamaha T300 (T)	185.00	167.00
			B&O 1800	310.00	239.00	Yamaha T500 (T)	225.00	199.00
			B&O 2404	390.00	315.00	Yamaha T760 (T)	285.00	249.00
			B&O TX	550.00	469.00	Yamaha T460 (T)	180.00	139.00
			B&O 8002	750.00	659.00	Denon TU 720 (T)	225.00	199.00
			Denon DP11f	250.00	199.00	Denon TU 750 (T)	285.00	269.00
			Denon DP52F	575.00	498.00	Onkyo A15	179.95	159.00
			Mitsubishi DP-12	119.00	99.00	Onkyo T05 (T)	139.50	121.00
			Mitsubishi DP-6	270.00	199.00	Onkyo T15 (T)	139.95	119.00
			Mitsubishi DP-52	200.00	154.00	Onkyo T25 (T)	250.00	225.00
			Onkyo CP1017A	220.00	149.00	Technics ST8011 (T)	170.00	99.00
			Onkyo CP1015A	210.00	143.00	Denon PMA-730	299.00	268.00
			Yamaha P200	200.00	138.00	$10.00 will hold any sale item
			Yamaha P300	230.00	178.00
			Yamaha P500	270.00	198.00

TRADE-INS ACCEPTED

1204 Moro

THE SOUND SHOP

537-4708

Aggieville

Arkansas sheriff favors paraquat to control illegal marijuana crops

By The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK — The sheriff of the state's most populous county said Sunday he is writing to the U.S. Attorney General to lobby for the use of the herbicide paraquat on marijuana patches in Arkansas.

He would rather see people risk the effects of the herbicide than see a law enforcement officer shot while searching for the illegal plants in isolated regions of Arkansas, said Pulaski County Sheriff Tommy Robinson.

The federal Drug Enforcement Administration used paraquat on marijuana patches in the United States for the first time earlier this month, spraying remote areas in northern Georgia and southeastern Kentucky.

The operations stirred opposition because the herbicide can cause lung damage and lead to death when ingested. Federal drug agents said proper precautions were taken to make sure that no one would be harmed and that the dead marijuana would be burned.

However, in Georgia, U.S. District Judge Wilbur Owens issued a temporary restraining order preventing the government from spraying paraquat on marijuana in that state. Residents near the spraying site in the Chatahoochee National Forest had filed a $15 million lawsuit against the DEA, saying that they hadn't been warned that the herbicide was to be sprayed.

Robinson, noting the herbicide has long been used by farmers in Arkansas, said he expects criticism from environmental groups.

But "if they have teen-age children, they better get on the bandwagon," Robinson said. "It makes me mad when a federal judge talks about how bad it is."

Watt's praise riles Audubon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary James Watt, who doesn't have many kind words for environmentalists, is singing the praises of one of his archenemies — the National Audubon Society. And the birdwatchers don't like it one bit.

Watt says the Audubon Society is proving his point that oil and gas development can take place without harming wildlife. He says that is exactly what is happening at the society's Rainey Wildlife Sanctuary in Louisiana.

In a letter to Thomas W. Keese Jr., chairman of Audubon's board of directors, Watt praised the society for allowing oil and gas drilling to take place at the 26,000-acre sanctuary — one of 76 the society operates.

"Your realization that energy production and wildlife can exist side by side and your common sense understanding of how even fragile wetland areas such as Audubon's Rainey sanctuary can sometimes tolerate a variety of uses without harmful effects are worthy of commendation and support," Watt wrote.

"As you know, many people believe there is something inherently incompatible about allowing oil and gas activities in wildlife areas," Watt said. "In the real world, however, it is heartening to see, when self-serving politics are not exploited, that the National Audubon Society shows leadership in energy production when it realizes its economic self-interest and overall benefit to resources."

Watt's words and their timing have ruffled feathers at Audubon — which has been loudly attacking the interior secretary for his handling of the 410 wildlife refuges under his control.

In a 43-page article in its monthly magazine, the society charged that the national refuges are in the "hands of a development-oriented administration that seems determined to wring out every last dollar it can."

The society attacked Watt's push to make economic development on the refuges a top priority — saying the energy exploration, timber cutting and commercial fishing Watt wants to foster is often detrimental to the main purpose of the refuges — to provide a sanctuary for wildlife.

"Watt is trying to make us look hypocritical for criticizing him for producing on national wildlife refuges while at the same time developing on the Rainey," said Dick Beamish, a society spokesman.

creative TRAVEL

COMPLETE PROFESSIONAL TRAVEL SERVICE

- Airline Tickets
- Cruise Reservations
- Amtrak Tickets & Tours
- Passport Applications
- Escorted Tours
- Charter Trips
- Group Travel
- Bus Charters
- Commercial Travel
- Visa Assistance
- Travel Pass
- Ticket Delivery

ON SITE COMPUTER SERVICE

- Hotel Reservations
- Airline Reservations
- Car Rentals
- Travelers Checks
- Shows: Las Vegas, N.Y., London
- Weather Conditions - Worldwide
- Snow Conditions for Skiers
- Currency Conversion - Daily Update

NO SERVICE CHARGE

539-0531

2017 Anderson • Village Plaza
Manhattan, Kansas 66502

WELCOME BACK KSU!!

Try Us Soon!

(Present coupon when ordering)

Piñata

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11, Sun. 11-10
Bluemont and North Manhattan

539-3166

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS

Roche's

Men & Ladies

Hair Styling

539-7751

11278 Moro

REDKEN

GILBERT BARBER SHOP

Men & Ladies

Hair Styling

CLOSED MONDAYS

776-5197

112 S. 5th

TRICHOANALYSIS Analysis of
The Hair

Trichoanalysis Walk-ins accepted

Brother's

The Best in Live Entertainment
Featuring

August

22-23

24

25-27

The Opinions

Fools Face

The Jacks

September

3-4

Guido Toledo's

Household Words

TONIGHT

Join us for the Ultimate Frisbee

AERIAL WIZARDS

BENEFIT BASH

Plus Anheuser Busch distributors give away

1120 MORO

AGGIEVILLE

539-9064

THE Pizzeria

FAST AND FREE Delivery

776-0004

We bring a delicious New York recipe to the Little Apple
Sun.-Thru 5:00 P.M.-1:00 A.M.
Fri.-Sat. 5:00 P.M.-2:00 A.M.

Regular			Deep dish
Small	Medium	Large	Small	Medium	Large
4.20	5.40	6.40	4.60	5.70	6.80
.70	.90	1.10	.70	.90	1.10

ext. topp.
*New York Special
Beef, Sausage, Black Olives, Mushrooms, Pepperoni, Tomatoes, Ham, Green Peppers, Onions,
Top Mozzarella Cheese.

	Small	Medium	Large
Regular	9.25	11.40	14.40
deep dish	9.85	12.20	14.85

taxes not included.

Pizzeria 776-0004 $1.00 off coupon
On any pizza with 3 toppings or more.

Pizzeria 776-0004 FREE Soft Drink Coupon

- 1—12 oz. soft drink with a small pizza
- 2—12 oz. soft drinks with a medium pizza
- 3—12 oz. soft drinks with a large pizza

Diet Pepsi, Pepsi, Mountain Dew

CLOSE, CONVENIENT, & COMING SOON: THE FIRST'S NEW UNIVERSITY BANK.

First National Bank is introducing a new banking facility built with you in mind—our new University Bank.

With a convenient location on the corner of Denison and Claflin, we've made banking as quick and easy as a walk to class.

The University Bank will be open for business in October. This exciting new bank will have 24-hour automatic tellers, full-service banking, and our helpful staff ready to serve your student needs.

Let our University Bank be your bank. You'll be glad we're here.

OPEN YOUR ACCOUNT NOW
AND LET US TREAT YOU
TO A FREE WHOPPER.

The First would like to give you a free Whopper from Burger King. All you need to do is come on in and open your account with us. Manhattan's most convenient bank.

Offer expires September 30, 1983.

First National Bank

Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations

• Main Bank 2011 • • Downtown Bank 2000 • • University Bank 2000 • • Downtown Bank 2000

All Locations 537-0200 Member FDIC

Moore Hall alters phone system for more calling ease, efficiency

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

A change implemented in the telephone system at Moore Hall will make calling easier and more efficient, said Mike Harris, hall director.

The old equipment is being replaced with newer equipment requiring less work on the part of the operator. The hall also joined Centrex, the University's telephone network. Numbers in the Centrex system have a 532 prefix, and calling within the system requires dialing only the last four digits.

Under the previous system, all incoming and outgoing calls had to be manually plugged in by a switchboard operator said Stuart McDonald, assistant director of Moore. With the new system, only incoming calls will be dialed by the operator. Residents will be able to dial outgoing calls themselves.

Moore doesn't have telephones in each room. Currently, there is one pay telephone and one local telephone on each of the nine floors. When the new system is completely installed, there will be four or five local telephones on each floor.

Residents can only dial campus and Manhattan phone numbers on the local phones. Long-distance calls are made on the pay phones.

Staff assistants also will have telephones in their rooms. Resident assistants will not have phones in their rooms.

"When there was a call at the front desk under the old system, the operator had to dial the number of the person's room and if the person was there, the operator would tell the person over the intercom which phone to take the call at," Harris said. "It was like a three-party call and the operator could hear the conversation."

"We've been planning this all summer, but it's just been implemented the past couple weeks," Harris said. "It will be quicker and more efficient."

Van Zile Hall remains the only residence hall with the old operator system.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's too early to tell which is better," McDonald said. "I think the new system will eventually be better, once we get the bugs worked out of it."

The system is only partially installed, McDonald said. The day after Southwestern Bell employees began installing the system, they went on strike. However, some of the phones are operable and calls can still be made.

Christmas Island birds return

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Six months after millions of birds abandoned Christmas Island and left their young to die, members of most species have returned to the Pacific atoll to begin rebuilding their numbers, a scientist reported Sunday.

Dr. Ralph W. Schreiber of the Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County in California, who discovered the unprecedented mass disappearance last fall, said he found signs of a recovery during a recent trip to the island.

"It looks like the birds are coming back," he said in a telephone interview. "Some of the birds appear to be breeding particularly well in large numbers."

Schreiber, an ornithologist who has studied the birds of the equatorial island for years, found when visiting last November that virtually the entire adult bird population had vanished.

Almost 17 million birds representing 18 species vanished from the island, the first such massive exodus ever recorded on a tropical island. The retreat was particularly devastating for thousands of nestlings, who starved to death after being left behind, he said.

Christmas Island, named by Capt. James Cook when he discovered it on Christmas Eve in 1777, is the world's largest coral atoll. The island, about 200 square miles in area, is part of the Republic of Kiribati, formerly known as the Gilbert Islands.

Scientists blamed the disappearance on an unusual weather phenomenon known as El Nino, which caused changes in Pacific wind patterns, ocean currents and water temperatures. El Nino, a Spanish reference to the Christ Child, is so named because it usually appears every few years around Christmas time.

This phenomenon, which has resulted in unusual weather around the world for more than a year, is responsible for shifts in the fish population. Schreiber suspects the birds abandoned Christmas Island because the fish they depend upon left.

The scientist said many of the birds probably were living in the air above distant waters while waiting for conditions to change. These types of birds spend most of their lives living in the air, hovering on air currents and diving down occasionally to feed, he said.

Schreiber, whose work is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the National Geographic Society, returned to Christmas Island for 10 days in June. He found that most of the species had returned in small numbers and were starting to breed.

Three species — black sooty terns, crested terns and lesser frigatebirds — are breeding in numbers that approach their population prior to the exodus, he said.

"The recovery of the bird populations depends on the food supply in the waters surrounding the island," Schreiber said.

"Ocean and atmospheric scientists are unsure of future directions for the El Nino conditions and cannot now predict what will happen to the birds in the coming months," he added.

ALCO

EVERYTHING YOU LOOK FOR IN A HOMETOWN DISCOUNT STORE.

Prices Effective:
August 22-25, 1983
Daily 9-9 Sunday 11-6
3007 Anderson Ave.

P L A N T S

10⁹⁹

REG. 19.97
10" FLOOR PLANTS

Large selection of big beautiful tropical show plants. Buy now, while 100 last.

99¢

SPECIAL

4" HOUSE PLANTS
Many assorted varieties to choose from. Lovely decor accents.

5⁸⁸

SPECIAL

8" HANGING BASKETS
Enjoy the beauty of a hanging basket! Many of your favorites.

19⁸⁸

REG. 25.97

FIVE SHELF ETAGERE

Delightful, handy 5-shelf Etager bookcase in molded plastic. 10x30x65.

10⁸⁸

REG. 14.77

THREE SHELF ETAGERE

Easy to assemble, 3-shelf Etager bookcase, an accent to any room. 10x30x30.

3⁹⁷

REG. 6.97

STASHER ORGANIZER
Fiber board 27 1/4" x 12 1/2" x 13 1/4" 9⁹⁹

REG. 16.99

WELCO REFRESH-AIRE
Keeps the air re-freshingly clean.

49⁹⁹

REG. 64.88
ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

Foremost center with 2 adjustable shelves. A safety-tempered glass door and removable record dividers. No. 1040.

STUDENT MEMBERSHIP

- Unlimited Court Usage
- $25 initiation fee (one time)
- $100 per semester

- 3 indoor tennis courts
- 3 outdoor tennis courts
- free court usage for members
- weight room

- sauna
- glassed-in jacuzzi
- 1 squash court
- 2 indoor racquetball courts

(REFER TO MANHATTAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—COUPON BOOKLET)

Fun and Fitness for All Seasons

Alicia and Co.

for hair

Hair for the 80's.

CALL FOR YOUR PERSONAL APPOINTMENT TODAY

2805 Claflin
537-9825

The Bar Where Sports Fans Play...

The Sports Fan-attic

Laramie at 12th—Aggieville
Office: 539-0525; Bar 539-9849

Fred says,

"WELCOME, SPORTS FANS!"

Betcha didn't know...

Gary Spani, who now plays linebacker for K.C. Chiefs, was K-State's only consensus All-American in football.

Betcha didn't know...

The Sports Fan-attic has the area's best Live Entertainment—(See below)

MAGNUM
ROCK
BLUBIRD
SCATBAND
MYTH
JTN
CLIQUE

8/18, 19, 20
8/25, 26, 27
9/1, 2, 3
9/8, 9, 10
9/15, 16, 17
9/22, 23, 24
9/29, 30 & 10/1

POWERGLIDE
SNEAK PREVIEW
KIDD BAND
ROCK
BLUBIRD
JTN

10/13, 14, 15
10/20, 21, 22
10/27, 28, 29
11/3, 4, 5
11/10, 11, 12
11/17, 18, 19

Betcha didn't know...

A video-taping service is available for your sports events. Cheap too. Call The Sports Fan-attic office 539-0525 and BE A STAR!

Betcha didn't know...

The K-State football team beat Nebraska 12-0 at Lincoln in 1968.

Betcha didn't know...

The Sports Fan-attic now reciprocating with clubs locally and throughout the state.

Betcha didn't know...

Bud Light, Coors Light, Old Milwaukee Light are all on tap at... you guessed it... The Sports Fan-attic.

Betcha didn't know...

The Sports Fan-attic has both a 21 Club and an 18 Bar in the same building!

Betcha didn't know...

Grand Slam 4-fers are every Thursday at 8 p.m. and our regular pitcher prices are still $2.75!

COME IN AND PLAY... TODAY!

Justice Department official denounces ERA alternative

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department official in charge of reviewing federal laws for discrimination against women, which the Reagan administration regards as its alternative to the Equal Rights Amendment, says the program is a "sham."

"He has reneged on his commitment," Barbara Honerger, a special assistant in the department's civil rights division, wrote in an article published Sunday in The Washington Post's opinion section. She was referring to President Reagan's 1980 campaign pledge to combat sexual bias through revision of federal laws rather than changing the U.S. Constitution.

Honerger said that while her study group has sent the White House three quarterly reports listing federal laws with discriminatory language against both men and women, "not a single law has been changed."

She said that Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds has interpreted the executive order mandating the study "as requiring Justice to identify problems but not also to propose solutions."

Honerger said that implementing the reports is the responsibility of another group, the Task Force on Legal Equity for Women, created as part of the Reagan administration's alternative to the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Reagan opposes the ERA.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

The Phone Connection

BACK-TO-SCHOOL SPECIAL

One piece phone $19.95

The Phone Connection

FREE Extension Cord with purchase of phone.

NOT VALID WITH ANY OTHER SALE One coupon per visit

GOOD THRU AUGUST, 1983

414 Poyntz COUPON 776-4429

The Phone Connection

ONE COUPON PER VISIT $5 OFF on any decorator phone

NOT VALID WITH ANY OTHER SALE

GOOD THRU AUGUST, 1983

414 Poyntz COUPON 776-4429

NOW OPEN at 414 Poyntz

We have a complete line of phones for all your needs

HELP!

Provides Service in Career, Willingness, Sexuality, Study Skills and General Information.

U-LearN Needs Volunteers

KSU Welcome Back COUPONS

(Downtown 111 S. 4th)

BUY ANY SANDWICH & GET ONE FOR 1/2 PRICE

Discount applies to the sandwich of equal value or less. Offers not valid with other discounts. (OFFER GOOD 8-22-83 to 9-3-83)

BUY ANY DINNER & GET ONE FOR 1/2 PRICE.

Discount applies to dinners of equal value or less. Offer not valid with other discounts. (OFFER GOOD 8-22-83 to 9-3-83)

(Downtown 111 S. 4th)

YOU WON'T FIND A BETTER VALUE FOR YOUR FOOD DOLLAR ANYWHERE IN TOWN.

The GASLIGHT BOUTIQUE FREE MONOGRAM!

For a limited time only, when you purchase a solid color GARLAND or PANDORA crew- or v-neck sweater!

1118 Moro Aggieville

M-S 10-6:00
Thurs. 10-8:30

SPECIAL STUDENT PACKAGE

See S.G.A. table in K-State Union, Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday

FREE SAMPLE

Sponsored by S.G.A. & the Manhattan Mercury

City of

MANHATTAN

CITY HALL 11TH AND POYNTZ MANHATTAN KANSAS 66502
P.O. BOX 748 PHONE (913) 537-0056

CITY COMMISSION

Wanda Fateley, Mayor
E.A. Klingler
David J. Fiser
Eric Mann
Suzanne Lindamood

TO ALL STUDENTS

WELCOME TO MANHATTAN

Our citizens are glad you have chosen Manhattan as your community for the coming semester. We hope you will enjoy living in Manhattan. We are trying to improve the community in various ways and add to the quality of life for everyone.

You may be familiar with the county-wide 911 emergency telephone arrangement for all persons off campus. If you need help for ambulance, police, fire, or other emergency, call 911. If you are on campus you can reach 911 by first calling 9-911. If you want on-campus security help dial 6-400.

Our emergency people are on 24 hour duty. Immediate reporting is essential in all emergency situations.

Merchants are banding together with their own resources to improve our business districts. Merchants are trying in this way to further reduce trash and littering problems, improve sidewalks, add lighting and safety features, remove snow more quickly, and do other things together to make Manhattan a better town. We ask your cooperation with trash and litter disposal, discouragement of excessive noise, use of safe driving methods at all times, report crime and suspicious actions promptly, avoid any vandalism, and feel free at any time to voice your suggestions for improvements in any area of city life. The City Hall telephone number is 537-0056. Ask for the City Manager. Our people will listen on any subject. We will do our best to respond promptly.

Manhattan is your town at least to the extent that this is your home while you are a student here. We ask you to help make it better.

With sincere good wishes,

MANHATTAN CITY COMMISSION
Wanda Fateley, Mayor

Feel Right at HOME

STUDENT LOANS

Open your checking account with us and be eligible for low interest, government guaranteed student loans.

CHECKING ACCOUNTS

An account for every checking need, including one with unlimited free checking.

OTHER SERVICES

- *Certificates of Deposit
- *Savings Accounts
- *Drive-up Window
- *Night Depository
- *Republic Travelers Checks
- *Notary Service

Juliette at Humboldt • Manhattan • 776-4733

Sponsor of KSU Football on
WIBW-AM 580

To get ahead, you've got to push the right buttons.

Big ideas call for big functions. And you'll find them on the keys of every Hewlett-Packard calculator.

The HP-11C Scientific Programmable.

Powerful functions, such as permutations and combinations, hyperbolics and a random-number generator, are all at your fingertips. And with help like that, you just might end up with your name on a theorem.

The top-of-the-line HP-41.

To give you an idea of the HP-41's capabilities, in an emergency it can help bring the NASA Space Shuttle back to earth. Without the aid of Mission Control. Imagine what it can do for you on a routine day.

And it's just one of the many specialized HP calculators: the HP-10C and HP-15C scientific programmables, the HP-12C financial calculator, and the HP-16C for computer programmers.

So, go ahead. Get to the root of sophisticated problems—quickly—simply, with the help of a sophisticated tool. Get there with Hewlett-Packard.

For the authorized HP dealer or HP sales office nearest you, call TOLL-FREE 800-547-3400 and ask for operator #13 M-F 6a.m.-6p.m. Pacific Time.

Personal computers and calculators for professionals on the move.

HEWLETT PACKARD

PG02332
146

Check your campus bookstore or any of the following dealers:

KANSAS

Topeka
Office Equipment Inc
1507 Kansas Ave
(913) 232-0541

Smith closed

Continued from page one
contract and receive a full refund or he could transfer the contract to the residence halls as the rate of $910 per semester. An option of working within the hall to make up the difference in cost (approximately $200) was included. It also offered the option that the residents could live as a group in Moore Hall Terrace which could be renamed Smith Corridor.

The first move Stuart and several others made was to contact all recipients of this letter before they made a choice.

"We wanted to work out an option on our own, besides housing's, so we needed to get to them before they sent them back," said Kevin Jones, junior in veterinary medicine and resident of the hall.

Stuart developed what he believed to be a workable budget for the 25 men expected to live in the house. According to him, when he spoke to Barb Robel, adviser for greek affairs, she said everything was either in line or figured high. Robel told him the house should have no problem running on this budget, Stuart said. However, his proposal was rejected by President Acker and the Department of Housing.

"We've got people who have been doing budgets for 20 years and our budgets don't agree, so I would have to question the premises on which the other budget was based," Frith said, adding that "it isn't that I don't believe him."

"They like the house, they want it to go and I can't fault them for that. I would like it to be operating, but with 25 people —"

The legality of breaking the contracts for Smith House was also questioned by several house residents. According to Frith, however, because the house is part of the residence hall system and an equivalent sort of housing was offered to contract holders, the move was legally sound.

"The contract says that a student agrees to accept space in the residence hall system. We have some liberty as to where they're assigned," Frith said.

Past residents of the house also indicate that the move may have been premature and the situation could have been handled differently.

They point out the significance of changing the house from a scholarship to a cooperative house in 1977, and question whether this move was in keeping within the original stipulations of the gift.

"The privilege of residence in the house shall be considered a scholarship in itself," the agreement states. Terms of the gift also indicate, however, that if "future circumstances should make it impossible or impractical" to operate the house, it should be sold and the proceeds used to reinvest in another house or placed in a scholarship fund under the Smith name within K-State's current Putnam Scholarship program.

According to Peters, at the time the change occurred in 1977, Smith was having difficulty attracting people with a 2.5 or above grade point average, a requirement for admittance into the house.

"We were able to get about 25-30 people in the house, but had to fill the remainder in the last week before school began with overflow from the dorms," he said.

"We couldn't operate without having it full and the name was a misnomer, because it was in actual-ty not a scholarship house anymore," Peters added.

"In its early days we had it full of scholars," he said, "but at that time, we didn't have the entire East Complex (built in 1967)." With the building of these additional residence halls, students had more choices of housing and fewer were choosing Smith.

"Somebody could criticize the fact that it moved from a scholarship to a cooperative house and maybe they're right and maybe it should have been changed at that time," Peters said.

The decision to alter the house from scholarship to cooperative was made by the Housing Council and agreed on by the Foundation, according to Frith.

"There was no question then about whether this move was in keeping with the stipulations of the original gift," Frith said.

The alternative suggested by alumni residents David W. Boyd, temp. instructor of extension energy, and Bertram R. Biles, assistant dean of the Graduate School and charter member of the house, is that the house once again become a scholarship house and that its operation be turned over to an alumni group. They do not believe the Department of Housing is the proper entity to manage it.

Boyd and several other alumni residents had already begun work on developing such a group because he foresaw problems. However, he had no idea things had gone this far.

After learning of the proposed closing, Boyd attempted to speed the action.

"We approached the Foundation with the option. If the house was for the purpose of being a scholarship house by Dr. Irene Putnam, they, of course, have an interest in living up to her wishes," Boyd said.

According to him, the Foundation was very agreeable offering to lease them the building under the same terms the University had been. Also working through the Foundation, they arranged to lease the internal property from Housing.

Biles is still convinced that a group of alumni could operate the house in the way it was originally intended.

He proposed that this alumni organization be allowed to lease the house from the Foundation at the rate of $1 per year (the same price the University presently leases the house for).

At Smith's last meeting, residents seemed to realize they had reached the end of their battle — at least for this year. If they had obediently gone over to the dorms when notified three weeks ago, the meeting would have been unnecessary.

According to Boyd, they took that risk. They waited until the last minute — until they got a very definite "no" — to look for other housing options, indicating that they do care about the place.

In the final decisions, about half the residents chose to move into residence halls with the others moving into two large houses divided into apartments.

Boyd, who also was present, tried to keep the spirit of the men up by telling them they ought to think of themselves as "a house without a building."

See Our NIKE WALL DISPLAY
in our Store!

313 Poyntz, downtown Manhattan

TIE ONE ON.

MEN

- *OCEANIA
- *CARIB
- *YANKEE
- *LEATHER CORTEZ
- *PEGASUS
- *COLUMBIA
- *BRUIN
- *MEADOW SUPREME
- *WIMBLEDON
- *BLAZER
- *LEGEND HI
- *SKY FORCE LEATHER (1/2 HI)
- *FIELD GENERAL
- *FIELD GENERAL SPECIAL
- *LAVA DOME

WOMEN

- *LADY DIABLO
- *LADY OCEANIA
- *LADY CARIB
- *SPIRIT
- *LADY YANKEE
- *LADY LEATHER CORTEZ
- *LADY MEADOW
- *RACQUETTE
- *AEROBIC
- *COURT FORCE

YOUTH

- *OLLIE OCEANIA
- *OLIVIA OCEANIA
- *SCOUT
- *PRODIGI
- *CURT CANVAS
- *DASHER
- *LEATHER CORTEZ
- *BURT BRUIN LEATHER
- *BLAZER LEATHER
- *FIELD GENERAL
- *LIL NIPPER
- *TYRO
- *DERBY
- *VOLCANO

NIKE SOCKS and BAGS

McCall's Shoes . . . a Manhattan tradition since 1961

PRUDENTIAL
RENTERS INSURANCE
The Right Kind of Protection
The Right Amount
And Maximum Value
776-5382 for Appointment
1430 Poyntz Ave., walk-in

Résumé Service
Professional
Résumé Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

Have you purchased your Royal Purple yearbook yet? There's still time in Kedzie 103 from 8-5!

Vista Breakfast

$1.89

Ham, sausage or bacon with two eggs, as you like them. Golden hash browns, toast or biscuits, and jelly.

Reg. $2.25

Breakfast Hours
6-10:30 Mon-Sat
7-10:30 Sun

Special good thru August 31, 1983
Not valid in conjunction with any other offer

Topeka • Manhattan • Emporia • Lawrence
1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Right now, a perfectly sane, lovely store is going embarrassingly nuts...

functions

a lifestyle housewares store and when you shop our grand opening sale, we think you'll flip your lid, too!

1123 Moro in Aggieville

10-8 daily
1-5 Sunday

Carlos Adams, (14), bounces off an attempted tackle during the second scrimmage of the season Thursday.

Staff/John Sleezer

Dickey 'pleased'; team in 'great' shape

By KEVIN DALE
Staff Writer

The K-State football team has been on the practice field for a little over a week and so far head coach Jim Dickey is pleased with the progress the team has made.

"Obviously, I'm pleased," Dickey said. "We normally spend the first couple of weeks concentrating on conditioning, evaluating personnel and teaching. Now, since they have come back in such great shape, we can work more on evaluation and teaching."

The Wildcats put on the pads and got down to some hard hitting last week and have come through with only one major injury. That was to starting center Jim Northcutt who strained a ligament in his left knee and is expected to be lost for four or five weeks.

After a scrimmage on Thursday Dickey was very pleased with the enthusiasm of the team.

"Overall we had a good practice for the first time," he said. "The players really went after it. We need to have some good scrimmages early and both the players and coaches seem real happy."

A major concern for Dickey is the quarterback position and who will fill in at that position.

"It's the starting job," Doug Bogue's unless somebody beats him out and there's a lot of time to do that," Dickey said. "We will decide on a starting quarterback before the first game. I don't believe in platooning quarterbacks."

Bogue is a fifth year senior who had been Darrel Ray Dickey's backup for four years.

"Doug has been with us for a long time and he really knows our system," Dickey said.

Experience is something the Wildcats are going to need after losing 13 starters to graduation. Also hurting the team is the loss of defensive back Barton Hundley who was declared academically ineligible. Hundley was the team's most experienced secondary player and his loss will further weaken the defensive secondary.

Dickey said the defensive secondary is the most youthful part of the team and the loss of Hundley is going to be tough to overcome.

A strong aspect of the team is its receivers. The Cats return senior Eric Mack and first team All-Big Eight selection Mike Wallace.

Wallace led the league in touchdown receptions (6) and in receiving yardage (693) last year and is expected to compete for All-American honors this season.

The coaches hope to utilize the receivers this year and they feel that they will be able to do so with success.

"We will pass the ball a lot to open up our running attack. I feel an offense must have both a strong running and passing attack to compete in this league," Dickey said.

The coaches are still looking for a big play running back though.

"We're still looking for a durable running back, the kind of guy who can go out and get 100 yards rushing every game for you," Dickey said.

Dickey is pleased with the running of Carlos Adams and James Ricketts so far. Also, last year's starting tailback Iosefatu Faleola has trimmed down from 235 to 205 pounds and should provide the team with the experience in the backfield to move the ball.

The strength on defense will be the front line. All four of last year's starters are back and that should make this the strongest part of the Wildcat attack.

Headlining the front four is second-team All-American Reggie Singletary. Singletary spent last season terrorizing opposing ballcarriers on every play. In 1982 he was credited with 73 tackles and 20 quarterback sacks.

"Reggie's success lies in his strength and quickness," Dickey said. "If he can keep his quickness and has a few great games early, then he should have a good shot at first-team All-American this year."

The play of the defensive front line will determine the effectiveness of the defense as a whole.

"We lack depth in the secondary and in a league like this you need depth," Dickey said. "But if the defensive line plays like we expect them to the defensive backs should be able to perform adequately."

Because of an overall lack of depth Dickey looks for some freshmen to help the team.

"This is not an 18-year-old league and we don't like to have to throw any of our freshmen out there to begin with," he said. "But we do have some outstanding talent in the class and I feel there will be some who can help us out in reserve roles."

One of those recruits is blue-chipper Curtis Hughes from Kansas City. Hughes was a prep All-American according to Parade magazine and has already moved into the number two spot behind Singletary on the defensive line.

Hughes is also the biggest player on the team at 289 pounds. Along with his size comes great strength.

"It kind of made Russ Riederer (strength coach) feel useless when Curtis came to camp and could bench press 440 pounds," Dickey said.

Another freshman standout has been running back Tony Jordan. Jordan, a 6-foot-2, 200 pound New York native, has been the one player who has really impressed the coach.

"He came in with real raw talent and has some good speed," he said. "Tony runs with good body lean and really stood out in our scrimmage."

Good speed may be an understatement as last year Jordan was timed in 4.4 seconds in the 40-yard dash and won the New York state 100-meter dash in 10.6 seconds. As a senior at East High School in Rochester, New York, he rushed for 1,054 yards on 126 carries and scored 12 touchdowns.

Pre-season polls have the team picked to finish no better than fifth yet Dickey and the rest of the team are unaffected by the lack of confidence of the polls.

"I've heard a lot of people and read a lot that we can't be as good this year as a year ago," Dickey said. "I don't believe that. We might not have as many recognizable names playing this year as a year ago but the people we put out there can do the job. I'd be disappointed if we didn't have as good a team this season."

Singletary does not pay attention to the picks either.

"We will be better than last year," he said. "We have some freshmen that will pull through. These are the biggest recruits I have seen since I have been here."

"People don't know what we have here. We have some good talent that has not had a chance to play. Now they will get that chance," he added.

"The players are just concerned with their own attitudes and not the polls," Dickey said. "They know they must have two consecutive winning seasons to be recognized."

The team will be in two-a-day practices until Wednesday and then they will be gearing up for the season opener against Long Beach State on Sept. 3.

Scott Lauridsen, (5), Gerald Alphin, (86), and Mark Newton, (60), cool down during a break in the action.

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Team keeps seven, adds two recruits

By JUDI WRIGHT
Asst. Sports Editor

For some teams, having twice as many underclassmen than upperclassmen might appear to be the start of a dismal season.

For the 1983 women's volleyball squad underclassmen do outnumber upperclassmen, but a dismal season is not what Scott Nelson, head volleyball coach, and his assistant, Ginger Mayson, anticipate. In fact, they expect just the opposite.

Nelson begins his fourth year as head coach with seven returning players and two freshmen recruits. Of the seven returning players, there are only two seniors, one junior and four sophomores.

Heading the squad as co-captains are seniors Sharon Ridley and Kathy Sittenauer. Both have received three varsity letters.

"Sharon is an explosive, dynamic player," Nelson said. "She adds a positive attitude to the team."

Having the potential as being the best attacker in the Big Eight Conference, Ridley was originally recruited from Montgomery, Ala., but her family now lives in Wichita.

The other senior on the team is Sittenauer. Standing at 6-foot, she is the tallest member on the squad and fills the position as middle attacker.

A native of Nortonville, Sittenauer first approached the team as a walk-on but since then has worked up to a starting position.

Sittenauer's honors include playing in the National Sports Festival as one of the top 40 volleyball players in the nation. She also was named to the Academic All-District team. She was one of the six players named in the district, composed of eight states.

Dedra Dauner played her first year for K-State as a sophomore last season.

"Dedra spent the year developing the skills and the knowledge of the game," Nelson said.

According to Nelson, she is coming back after a back injury this summer but he hopes this won't pose a problem once she's regained her strength.

Dauner, from Pratt, stands 5-foot-10 and is considered an outside attacker.

The first of the four sophomores is Renee Whitney, a 5-foot-10 setter from Manhattan.

"Renee is a positive player and is always encouraging others," Mayson said. "As a setter she controls the offense and because of this, she's one of the team's leaders," Nelson added.

Characterized by her coaches as a determined and inner-disciplined athlete, Peggy Daniels is another sophomore on the squad. She's a 5-foot-10 outside attacker from Valley Center.

Over the summer Daniels has improved her strength and according to her coaches, is in good physical condition. "Peggy's playing time was limited last year," Nelson said, "but this year that will change."

The third of the four sophomores on the squad is Shantelle Hietbrink, a middle attacker standing at 5-foot-11.

During her senior year at Shawnee Mission East High School in Kansas City, Hietbrink was a member of the 6A State Volleyball Championship team.

"Shantelle's skills are solid, especially her back court skills," Nelson said.

After showing consistency in the skills of volleyball during her first year, Nelson believes that Donna Lee, a 5-foot-9 outside attacker, is at the point to be a more dominant player in the Big Eight this year.

"Last year she opened the door and now she's starting to take a step through," he said.

Mayson added that she looks for Lee to be a "visible player, not just blending in, but standing out."

The two freshmen recruits are Helen Bundy and Leesa Gross.

At 5-foot-10, Bundy is a product of Manhattan High School and is a setter, making the team's two setters from Manhattan.

Nelson sees Bundy as a "great athlete with a high motivation to achieve."

Bundy has gained volleyball experience on a higher level than high school ball when she participated in the USVBA Junior National Championships this past summer.

Gross also gained experience by participating in the USVBA Junior National Championships the past two years. Noted for her quickness and high vertical jump, she was selected as her high school's Outstanding Senior Athlete in Decatur, Ind.

"She's intense and technically solid and sound," Nelson said.

After the squad qualified for the United States Volleyball Association's National Championships last May during the open season, Nelson said the team has gained experience and this should give them the confidence needed to play well in the Big Eight.

For Nelson and his young squad, the 1983 season starts Sept. 2 with a game against Fort Hays State University at Hays. Open team tryouts for walk-ons, however, will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday at Ahearn Field House.

Chiefs defeat Cardinals on Lowery's field goal

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Nick Lowery drilled a 53-yard field goal with 1:12 remaining Saturday night to lift the Kansas City Chiefs to a 17-16 National Football League exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Chiefs now stand at 2-1 in exhibition play.

Neil O'Donoghue kicked three field goals for the Cardinals, including a career-long return of 53-yards. Rookie cornerback Cedric Mack ran 34 yards with an intercepted pass for a touchdown to put St. Louis on top before Lowery's game-winning boot.

The Cardinals, 1-2 in the exhibition season, were trailing the entire game until Mack's touchdown with 10:01 remaining. Mack's interception occurred when a pass thrown by Chief's rookie quarterback, Todd Blackledge, was deflected.

Bob Gagliano put the Chiefs on top 14-6 with a 3-yard scoring pass to tight end Willie Scott with 14:38 left, completing a six-play, 79-yard drive. The drive was keyed by a 63-yard pass play from Gagliano to Carlos Carson which carried to the three.

O'Donoghue kicked a 38-yard field goal as time ran out in the first half, added a 28-yarder for the only score in the third period and capped his night with the 53-yard effort that brought the Cardinals to within five points, at 14-9, with 11:53 remaining in the game.

Marshall, seeing his first action since ending a contract holdout the week before, dropped the first pass Kenney sent his way, sparking a smattering of boos from the sparse crowd of 34,070.

But the seventh-year pro from Missouri made-up for the mistake with the reception, beating veteran cornerback Wayne Smith in the corner of the end zone and cradling the pass in one arm with 5:30 remaining in the second quarter.

The Cardinals made their first threat on their next possession when Lomax hit a wide-open O.J. Anderson for a 40-yard gain to the Chiefs' seven-yard line. But after an incomplete pass, rookie free agent linebacker James Walker, from K-State, put a jolting hit on Anderson, causing a fumble which Calvin Daniels recovered for Kansas City on the 6.

Men's basketball team struggles in Pan American games

By The Associated Press

CARACAS, VENEZUELA — Poor shooting and lack of balanced scoring worries United States basketball Coach Jack Hartman, even though the favored Americans have joined Puerto Rico as the only undefeated men's teams remaining in the Pan American Games tournament.

The U.S. men concluded Pool A competition against host Venezuela Saturday. The Americans had struggled in their victories over Mexico and Brazil, overcoming large deficits midway through the second halves of both games.

"We've got to go back to shooting well," Hartman said. "Time and again, we got the shots we wanted against Brazil. The ball just wouldn't go through the basket. Maybe the kids were trying too hard."

The American men, in their 74-63 and 72-69 decisions over Mexico and Brazil, have relied on the scoring of Michael Jordan, Wayman Tisdale and Sam Perkins. All rank in the tournament's top 10 scorers.

Jordan had 38 points, his North Carolina teammate Perkins 31 and a tournament-leading 22 rebounds, and Tisdale, Oklahoma's All-American, 26 points. Then the offense fell off to Mark Price of Georgia Tech with 13 points and Greg Stokes of Iowa with 12.

"Sure, it worries me," Hartman said of the imbalanced attack. "You always need balance. The loss of (Chris) Mullin was really significant. He was a good perimeter shooter. But we've got some kids who can give us better point productions."

Mullin, a 6-foot-6 swingman from St. John's (N.Y.), broke a bone in his foot during an exhibition game in Puerto Rico last week.

Hartman believes he knows why the Americans have been off on their accuracy. Jim Master of Kentucky, usually a deft shooter, missed eight of 10 shots against Brazil Tuesday night. Jordan, slowed by a flareup of tendinitis in his knee, is hitting 30 percent from the floor, sinking 18 of 59 field goal attempts. Perkins is only 11-of-29.

"It's just a lack of familiarity with the facility. We expect them to pick up in their shooting," Hartman added. The teams playing in the Poliedro also must shoot into blinding television lights from one side of the floor.

Hartman says Michael Cage will not return to the team after the 6-foot-9 forward from San Diego State flew home to be with his ill father in West Memphis, Ark.

The U.S. men will start the same lineup that opened against Brazil with Charlie Sitton of Oregon State and Perkins at forward, Tisdale at center and Leon Wood of Cal State-Fullerton teaming with Jordan in the backcourt.

Meanwhile, the American women played for the first time Friday night in these games, meeting undefeated Brazil.

The women also lost Lataunya Ptilard, Long Beach State's All-American from Chicago Thursday with an old knee injury. She returned home to Chicago.

Yankees protest game

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - The pine-tar game is over, but the controversy surrounding it continues.

The New York Yankees have filed an official protest with the American League, claiming the notarized letter produced at the completion of the suspended game was fraudulent.

The protest stems from Yankee Manager Billy Martin's claims that Kansas City's George Brett missed first base on his controversial home run July 24 and U.L. Washington, who was on base, failed to touch second.

When the suspended game was resumed Thursday night, Martin ap-

Tennis team, coach aim to rebuild

By The Collegian Staff

After finishing sixth place out of seven teams within the Big Eight last year, Coach Steve Webb is hoping to rebuild the K-State tennis team.

"Last year the team finished sixth place in the Big Eight; that was the first time the team finished out of last place," Webb said. "I would like to improve upon that even more."

Webb recognizes that it will take more than just one year to improve the team's chances of being capable to compete for the Big Eight title. "It will take a few years, but we have the talent to start off right."

Although the team's matches are played in the spring, Webb has scheduled matches this fall with teams from Texas Tech, the University of Kansas and Wichita State University.

The women's team has four returning players: Tammy and Sue Peugh, who are currently the University's number one doubles team, and Lisa Creighton and Beth Nemec.

Webb was able to recruit Judy Miller of Great Bend. Miller finished fourth in state competition last year.

The men's team lost three top players, two to graduation and one, Jeff Jackard, who left to play in a "better program."

The only two returning players are Chris James and Mark Hassenflu, the number four and five players last spring.

Scott Sandlin and Richard Blevin are two freshmen that will help to fill the void left by departing players.

Webb was unable to sign all the recruits he would have liked for both the mens and womens team last spring.

"I was hired as the new head coach around the beginning of July. Recruits start signing with universities April 15. There were no players left when I started."

Despite such a drawback Webb has scheduled tryouts for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Washburn Recreational Complex courts.

Webb added that there is one full scholarship and a pair of tuition scholarships still available.

pealed to the umpires about the missed bases. But his claims were denied and umpire David Phillips produced a notarized letter, signed by the four members of the original umpiring crew, which said the players had touched the bases.

A new crew of umpires was used when the game was completed Thursday night.

"I spoke with umpire Drew Coble, and he told me he was in right field and never saw Brett round the sign the letter then? I want to get another look at that certificate," another look at that certificate."

Murray Cook, Yankees general manager, posted $500 in filing the protest Friday night.

"If they don't allow it, I don't care," Martin said. "I'm just stating facts."

Brett's ninth-inning, two-run homer, which had given Kansas City a 5-4 lead, was voided by the umpires last month because he had too much pine tar smeared on the bat. The Yankees were awarded a 4-3 triumph.

But AL President Lee MacPhail overruled the umpires, restored Brett's homer and ordered the game be resumed. The Royals won 5-4 Thursday night.

Major league standings

AMERICAN LEAGUE					NATIONAL LEAGUE
East Division					East Division
	W	L	Pct.	GB		W	L	Pct.	GB
Baltimore	69	51	.575	—	Philadelphia	63	57	.525	—
Milwaukee	70	52	.574	—	Pittsburgh	61	58	.521	1/2
Detroit	68	53	.562	1 1/2	Montreal	61	60	.504	2 1/2
Toronto	69	54	.561	1 1/2	St. Louis	60	61	.496	3 1/2
New York	67	54	.554	2 1/2	Chicago	54	69	.439	10 1/2
Boston	59	63	.484	11	New York	51	71	.418	13
Cleveland	52	71	.423	18 1/2
West Division					West Division
	W	L	Pct.	GB		W	L	Pct.	GB
Chicago	68	54	.557	—	Atlanta	74	50	.597	—
Kansas City	59	61	.492	8	Los Angeles	69	52	.570	3 1/2
Oakland	60	65	.480	9 1/2	Houston	63	59	.516	10
Texas	58	64	.475	10	San Diego	62	62	.500	12
California	57	66	.463	11 1/2	San Francisco	57	67	.460	17
Minnesota	53	72	.424	16 1/2	Cincinnati	57	68	.456	17 1/2
Seattle	47	76	.382	21 1/2

The Palace
GIFTS AND NECESSITIES

Come to the Palace for all your back to school needs.

- Cards • Candy • Cosmetics • Aspirin • Vitamins •
- Cold Remedies • Party Supplies • Posters • Film processing

SERVE YOURSELF AT OUR FOUNTAIN AND COFFEE BAR.

Open till 8:30 Mon.-Thurs.

GIFT REGISTRY—MASTERCARD/VISA

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville 539-7654

CONCESSION MANAGERS WANTED

McCain Auditorium needs two go-getters who love to sell and arrange delicious desserts for sale at all performance events at McCain. Duties will include ordering, setting-up, clearing up and keeping an inventory of stock and food supplies. Work study preferred. Please call 532-6425 for a job interview. Work begins week of 9/1.

the Avalon
Entertainment
August

24-25 Glee Club
Pop, R&B

26-27 Steve, Bob and Rich
Classic Rock

31-1 Jim Sweney and the Jumpshotz
Pop Rock

September

2-3 The Zoo
Reggae

539-9703

1122 MORO UPSTAIRS

monday madness

Throbbing head? Quaking body? Has Monday dealt another crushing blow. Revive yourself with a well-rounded meal from Domino's Pizza. We'll smooth the wrinkles out of your day.

30 minute delivery and 10 minute pick-up service.

Fast, Free Delivery™

Call us!
539-0561

517 North 12th St.

Hours:
4:30pm - 1am Mon. - Thurs.
11am - 2am Fri. & Sat.
11am - 1am Sunday

All Pizzas Include Our Special Blend of Sauce and 100% Real Cheese

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12" cheese $5.15
16" cheese $7.35

The Price Destroyer™
9 items for the price of 5
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Olives, Onions, Green Peppers, Ground Beef, Sausage, Ham, Extra Cheese
12" Price Destroyer™ $ 9.40
16" Price Destroyer™ $13.60

Additional Items
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Ham, Onions, Anchovies, Green Peppers, Olives, Sausage, Ground Beef, Jalapenos, Extra Cheese, Extra Thick Crust
12" pizza $.85 per item
16" pizza $1.25 per item

Pepsi / Quarts available.
Prices do not include applicable sales tax. Our drivers carry less than $10.00.

Limited delivery area.

©1983 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

THE CHURCH'S
404 Humboldt ph. 776-3222
H u m b o l d t
Appointments
Closed Mon. Sat. 8-3 Tues.-Fri. 9-6

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

Come into Calvin Klein

We've got prices you can't beat

Calvin Klein
$24.95

1207 Laramie Aggieville

$7.00

Only $ 7.00 for a 16" 1-item pizza plus 1 free quart of Pepsi. (Price includes tax)
One coupon per pizza.
Good Mondays only.
Expires: 12/31/83

Fast, Free Delivery™
517 North 12th St.
Phone: 539-0561

Name _____

Address _____

Runners seek Big Eight title

By The Collegian Staff

In an attempt to retain the women's Big Eight cross country championship and to improve on a third place finish by the men's squad last year, Steve Miller, head cross country coach, looks for "an optimistic, positive season."

In his third year at the helm of the K-State cross country team, Miller has four runners from the men's 1982 cross country squad and three red-shirt runners returning plus two new recruits.

Last year's number one runner for K-State, Alfredo Rosas, is expected to be one of the main leaders for the men.

Bryan Carroll, Bob Leetch and Bob Burton, top runners from last year's squad, are also returning to add depth and experience to the squad according to Miller.

Returning after being redshirted last season are Mike Rogers, Steve Smith and Paul Taylor.

Ron Stahl, from Lincolnway (Illinois) High School and Brad Ogden, from Washington High School in Kansas City, Kan., are the men's two recruits.

"We have good depth and a lot of good athletes," Miller said. "We should definitely be challenging to win the conference meet."

Of these nine runners, seven will be chosen to compose the men's cross country squad.

With five freshmen, Miller sees age as one of the weaknesses for the women's squad.

The women lost their number one runner, Deb Pihl, last year but back again this year are Betsy Silzer, Barb Ludovise, Renee Williams, Erin Ficke and Diane Harrell.

Jacque Streuckoff, Ann Stadler, Loretta Miller, Nancy Hoffman and Mary Shaffer are the women's five freshmen recruits.

Lisa Sandell is the only returning redshirt from last year's squad.

Miller looks for the women to be contenders for the Big Eight championship and should again be challenged by Missouri and Iowa State.

The cross country squads begin their seasons Sept. 15 with the Shocker Gold Classic in Wichita.

Welcome Back Students

Let us help make your apartment or dorm feel like home.

We feature:

- ★ Fieldcrest & Martex Towels
- ★ Crabtree & Evelyn Soaps
- ★ Pizza pans & cookie sheets
- ★ Contemporary Acrylic Glassware
- ★ Coffee & Soup Mugs
- ★ Etc., Etc., Etc.

THE BATH SHOP and Cook's Nook

"Two Unique Stores In One"
421 Poyntz 776-6980

office world

SAVE BIG
on your Staedtler/Mars
Technical Pen Set

Staedtler Marsmatic
Technical Pen Set
700 S4 (00,0,1,2)

RETAIL - $42.00
SPECIAL - $18.50

Office World
1130 Garden Way
across from Westloop
776-6864

STAEOTLER
MARS 700

Free Lead Holder
to the first 30
who purchase a set

Your Super Offer from Estée Lauder and Browne's

Makeup-Go-Round
A $35.00 Value

Yours for $8.50 with any Estee Lauder purchase of $6.50 or more

TODAY

A special "Color Clinic" by Heidi Nast, special Estee Lauder color coordinator. Come in for Exclusive Demonstration of Estee Lauder's new fall colors.

One to a customer. Offer good while supplies last. Quantities limited. All products made in the USA.

Now Beauty Comes full circle in this great reusable caddy Tender Creme Cleanser, Swiss performing Extract, Perfectly Natural Liquid Makeup, Soft Film Compact Rouge, Re-Nutriv Lipstick, White Linen Parfum Spray.

Browne's

DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

If You've Been Waiting,
NOW is the Time

To Buy Your

OSBORNE

Computer System.

Prices Have
Been Dropped

35%!!

at Bronco

System Includes: WordStar,
SuperCalc, MBasic, CBasic,
CP/M operating system.

Total price: $1295.00

BRONCO COMPUTER SYSTEMS

714 Poyntz Ave., Suite C
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
913 776 0745

118 W. Jefferson St.
Manhattan, Kansas 66506
913 776 3116

Val Henning boasts:

"I LOST 68 LBS."

with Nutri/System and went from a size 18 dress to a size 10."

"I wish I had joined Nutri/System years ago, because it's the only program that worked for me. I lost steadily every week and was really encouraged. I ate the tasty food and the weight melted off. It wasn't hard to stick to either. And when you're eating pancakes with syrup and drinking milkshakes, it's not even like being on a weight loss program!"

"Nutri/System,
I'm a new person!"

- SAFE AND EFFECTIVE
- MEDICALLY SUPERVISED
- NUTRITIONALLY BALANCED
- DRUG FREE
- WIDE CHOICE OF DELICIOUS NUTRI/SYSTEM MEALS
- NO CALORIE COUNTING, WEIGHING OR MEASURING FOODS

$75.00 Off
any program

Present this coupon at any Nutri/System Weight Loss Medical Center listed and we'll deduct $75.00 off the price of your program. One coupon per person - not to be combined with any other special.

Expires Aug. 26
1109 Waters 776-6600

9-5:00 Mon.
9-7:00 Tues.-Thurs.
9-4:00 Fri.

Over 650 Centers in North America
nutri/system
weight loss medical centers

Here Comes The Fun! SHOWBIZ PIZZA PLACE IS NOW OPEN!

* Over 60 Games — Including Dragon's Lair!

* Sensational FREE Shows — The world's most sophisticated robot entertainment, with Billy
Bob and The Rock-Afire
Explosion!

* Big Screen TV — Watch soaps &
sports!

* Great Food — Unforgettable pizza, super salad bar
and more!

Share
the Fun!

HERE COMES
THE FUN!

COME SHARE IT!

SHOWBIZ
PIZZA PLACE

519 Richards
Drive
Manhattan

Birthday Party Reservations
Call 776-1170

Reagan cites decrease in government waste

By The Associated Press

Santa Barbara, Calif. — President Reagan asserted Saturday that his administration has made government more efficient, and he used the exposure of waste and fraud in the Pentagon as an example.

In his weekly radio broadcast, Reagan complained that "what is missing or buried in all those stories about waste" in the Pentagon was who provided the figures in the first place.

"This administration exposed those abuses," Reagan said, "abuses that have been going on for years."

The president, speaking from his ranch in the Santa Ynez mountains 30 miles away, said Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger ordered the audit that led to the investigation into the defense-related waste and fraud.

For instance, there were reports that the Pentagon paid $100 for a four-cent electronic diode.

"We are going to keep on exposing these abuses where we find them," said Reagan.

The president indicated he was a bit exasperated with stories that suggested his administration was responsible for such waste. He introduced the topic by saying, "There is something I would like to get off my chest."

Also in his address, Reagan called again for a so-called merit pay plan for federal employees and said he had saved taxpayers $1 billion by imposing stricter standards for civil servants eligible to retire on disability.

OSWAGO HERB CO.

104 S. 4th

books • potpourris • sachets • teas • incense • soaps • oils • pottery • gift ideas & helpful hints
— a very unique experience —

WE HAVE SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE NATURALLY

Come on across the street

To

You can still register this week.
Class offerings such as:

Principles & Techniques of Counseling
Personal Evangelism
Christian Doctrine
Drama Workshop
Oil Painting
Basic Christianity

History of Christian Beginnings
Survey of Old Testament
Leadership
Cross Cultural Communications
The Family

One night class offered Monday Evenings 7:00-9:15 p.m.
Christian Education of the Child

For more information, call Joy Johnson, Registrar, 539-3571, or come by 1407 Anderson.

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE

Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

BALFOUR GIGANTIC BACK TO SCHOOL SALE 20% OFF

- Russell Gymshorts (18 colors including pastels)
- Pants, Crews and Hooded Sweatwear (19 colors)
- KSU Gymshorts
- Fashion Gymshorts

ALL 20% OFF!

Offer good now thru Sat., Aug. 27

Open Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30; Thurs. until 8:30

716 N. Manhattan

776-5461

Balfour

IF THEY COPY THE STYLE, THEY CAN'T MATCH THE QUALITY...

WATERBED WORLD

AND IF THEY MATCH THE QUALITY, THEY CAN'T MEET THE PRICE.

BACK TO SCHOOL WATERBED SPECIALS!

20 Styles---5 Sizes

$188 to $369 COMPLETE

BUY DIRECT &

SAVE

30% to 50%

WATERBED WORLD MANUFACTURES & SELLS WATERBEDS DIRECTLY TO THE PUBLIC ELIMINATING ALL MIDDLEMEN!

Beds Shown With Available Options

PRICES GOOD THRU TUES., AUG. 30
BEST BUYS WILL GO FIRST.
SHOP TODAY FOR BEST SELECTION!

Special Student Charge Plan
STUDENTS, GET THE CREDIT YOU DESERVE AT WATERBED WORLD

305 Houston-MANHATTAN, KS (776-8120)
Also TG&Y Plaza, Concordia and 749 Duval, Salina

Auntie Mae's Parlor

Welcomes You Back to KSU

— Make Every Night Special at Auntie Mae's —

MONDAYS
Vodka Night
$1.50 House Drink
Dart Tossing
$2.00 Fitchers for Journey Players
7:00 p.m. - Close

TUESDAYS
Import Beer Night
$1.25 Imports
Heineken • Moosehead
Furstenberg • Molson
7:00 p.m. - Close

WEDNESDAYS
Highrollers
$1.25 Drinks for any Single Figure Drink
8:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.

THURSDAYS
All You Can Drink
Drink and Drown
$5.00 for Guys
$5.00 for Girls
9:00 p.m. - 12:00 a.m.

FRIDAYS
TGIF Happy Hour
3:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.
Free Hors d'Oeuvres
$1.25 House Drinks
Soft Drinks • $2.00 Fitchers
Late Night Happy Hour
11:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.

SATURDAYS
Football Nights
Open at 2:00 p.m.
$1.00 Bloody Marys and Sewdrivers • Sandwich Buffet
Late Night Happy Hour
11:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.

616 N. 12th

AGGIEVILLE

539-9967

WELCOME BACK TO SCHOOL STUDENTS!

What's better than a fresh, hot Pan Pizza from your home town Pizza Hut® restaurant? One that saves you money! Come on over, bring the coupon below and let us make one just for you—with dough we make fresh every day, tangy sauce, pure mozzarella cheese and your choice of delicious toppings. Pizza lovers never had it so good!

$3 OFF

Your Home Town

Pizza Hut

$3 OFF

$3 off any large pizza, $2 off any medium pizza, or $1 off any small pizza. Hurry! This special offer expires 8-28-83. One coupon per party per visit at participating Pizza Hut® restaurants.

AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
WESTLOOP 539-7447
3RD & MORO 776-4334

"FOR DELIVERY CALL 539-7666"

Please present coupon when ordering. Not valid in combination with any other offer. 1/20 cent cash redemption value. © 1983 Pizza Hut, Inc. Good only through 8-28-83.

Republicans call France 'nightmare'

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A Republican fund-raising letter describes conditions in France under the Socialist government of President Francois Mitterand as a "nightmare" and warns that it is "an example of what could happen in the United States" if the Democrats regain power.

Signed by Robert J. Perkins, treasurer of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, the letter was dated Aug. 3 and was written on the stationery of the Hotel Prince de Galles in Paris.

"As I write this letter to you," it began, "I imagine my eyes still burning from the clouds of tear gas that seem to be a regular occurrence in the beleaguered city of Paris, France."

In appealing for contributions to help Republican candidates for the Senate, Perkins wrote that "we are dangerously close to seeing our country go down the same path as France. ... I know France is a long way away and it's hard to imagine the same nightmare occurring in the United States."

"But I'm sure no one in France realized the situation would ever get this bad," he added.

Perkins wrote that "France's Socialist government has imposed a series of economic regulations that drastically reduce the freedom of the French people."

He concluded the letter by saying, "Don't let what I'm seeing here in France become an example of what could happen in the United States."

Relations between the Reagan and Mitterand administrations recently have been strained because of differences over what role France should play in helping the government of Chad resist a Libyan-backed rebellion.

The French newspaper Le Monde recently described Mitterand as complaining that President Reagan was trying to pressure France into taking military action against the rebels in Chad.

A State Department spokesman quickly responded that if the Le

Monde story was true, "we regret this apparent misunderstanding."

Ceci Cole-McInturff, spokesman for the GOP committee, said the letter was mailed to 300,000 potential contributors.

Asked if the White House or State Department had cleared the letter, she said, "Informally, the White House is always aware of what we do."

She added that "before the letter went out there was some contact with the State Department."

Mrs. Cole-McInturff said the only concern expressed was whether the letter might be going to residents of France. She said it was mailed only to people living in the United States.

"It really is not at all intended to be, nor is it, a slap at the French government," she said.

U.S. alters law on pipeline sales

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department said Saturday it was lifting export license requirements for the sale of heavy-duty pipelaying equipment to the Soviet Union.

"Pipelayers are produced by several industrial countries and have no military significance," the department said in a statement issued by B. Jay Cooper, press secretary to Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige.

Cooper, in a telephone interview, said that President Reagan had approved the step Friday while at his California ranch.

Fact:

People of all ages die of heart disease and stroke.

American Heart Association

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

BOX OFFICE STAFF NEEDED

McCain Auditorium is looking for students capable of selling lots of tickets and dealing with fascinating patrons. Applicants must be cheerful, enthusiastic, accurate, energetic and eager to talk about the performing arts. Work study eligibility preferred. Please call 532-6425 for an interview appointment. Duties start September 6th.

Add Bacon to your Vistaburger 39¢

Crisp, crunchy bacon adds just the right "something extra" to your favorite Vista sandwich. Try some on a Vista, a Texas, a Triburger or even a Hot C'Ham. Bacon a la carte makes a meal special—at Vista!

1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Vista
RESTAURANTS

Locations in Manhattan
Lawrence
Emporia
& Topeka

Welcome Fall

Woody's
ladies

1225 Maro
Aggieville

Open M.-S.
9:30-5:30
Thurs. til 8:30

K-State Saves With Us

We're member and dollar strong

More than 2,300 Kansas State University employees and their families save at the campus credit union, where total assets exceed $3 million.

On-campus convenience

Drop by the credit union office in Anderson Hall to do your business, or use the campus mail to make savings deposits and loan payments.

Insured savings earn big dividends

High-yielding passbook savings and three-month certificates of deposit are insured up to $100,000 by a federal government agency. Dividends are declared and paid quarterly.

Helpful low-cost loans

The credit union is truly an economical place to borrow money because it is a federally chartered, non-profit organization.

Life savings insurance

Each dollar of savings is matched, at no extra charge, with a dollar of life insurance up to $3,000 for qualifying members.

Loan protection insurance

In case of a borrower's death prior to the age of 70, the unpaid balance of a loan is repaid by insurance.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants.

KSU
KANSAS
STATE UNIVERSITY

Anderson Hall, Room 24A
Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Monday through Friday
532-6274

YOU are the "U" in the K-State Union

Regular semester hours:

Monday—Thursday 8:00 am - 8:00 pm
 Friday 8:00 am - 5:00 pm
 Saturday 10:00 am - 4:00 pm
 (On night home football games we will be open until 7:00 pm)

Save! Save! Save! on our supply of many used textbooks.

Check out our large stock of non-textbooks. Thousands of titles in both hardback and paperback.

See us for all your required supply needs.

Check out our everyday low prices!

Refund and Exchange Policy for Textbooks and General Merchandise

Please verify with your instructor that you have purchased the correct books for your classes. If you find that you have inadvertently selected a book which is not appropriate, you may bring it back to the bookstore for exchange or refund subject to the following policy.

1. Save your cash register receipt. No refunds or exchanges can be allowed without presentation of a valid cash register receipt.
2. Refunds or exchanges made on or before the second Friday of classes will be made with no penalty to the purchaser (except for item three below). Thereafter a partial refund or exchange will be made according to the following schedule.

	Regular Semester	Summer Session
On or before the first Friday of classes	100%	100%
On or before the second Friday of classes	100%	75%
On or before the third Friday of classes	80%	50%
On or before the fourth Friday of classes	70%	no refund
On or before the fifth Friday of classes	50%	no refund
On or before the sixth Friday of classes	50%	no refund
After the sixth Friday of classes	no refund	no refund

3. Books which were purchased new must be returned in absolutely new condition. Books which have been marked or damaged in any way are subject to a 25% return or exchange penalty.
4. Defective merchandise is returnable at any reasonable time.
5. The above applies to books designated for classes. All other books must be returned within three weekdays of date of purchase.
6. All non-text items must be returned within 3 days to receive a refund. A valid cash register receipt must accompany the return.
7. Special orders, magazines, sundry items and used merchandise may not be returned for a refund. (Defective Merchandise may be returned for credit within a reasonable time.)

k-state union
bookstore 0002

Check these specials at the bookstore!!

☒ NIJI Mechanical Pencil .5m regular $1.98, during month of August only 98¢. (limited supply)

☒ 200 sheet ct. college or narrow ruled filler paper $2.00 value only $1.55. (while supply lasts)

☒ Buy 3—70 sheet ct. college ruled notebooks for only $2.50. (limited supply)

☒ 1 and 2 inch special 3-ring vinyl binders regular price $3.75 for only $1.85 (while supply lasts)

☒ 200 sheet ct. Engineering Paper was $4.30 now everyday low price of $3.45.

☒ Papermate "Value Pack" pen promotion, when you buy 1 extra-fine pen at 79¢ receive 2 medium point pens FREE. (limited supply)

☒ 10% off all calculators during first week of class. (limited quantities, no special orders, please)

☒ FREE I.D. holder to the first 10,000 customers.

☒ Check out Josten's Class Ring Special during the first week of classes.

☒ Koh-I-Noor—7 pen set special regular price $78.50 our price $33.00. (while supply lasts)

☒ Check out our everyday low prices of Zipatone lettering.

☒ Look for discount coupons in the "K-State Union Overall" and the "Programmer."

Registration time

Chelsey Atkinson, 2 1/2, found a place to sit inside Ahearn Field House as Diane Meyer, freshman in commercial design, left, Julita Meyer, center, and Inga Atkinson, senior in elementary education, look over fee cards during registration Thursday.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Bring a friend & this coupon with you to receive

1/2 Price Off

Haircut, Shampoo & Blow Dry
(Offer good thru Sept. 30)

Selected RK shampoos
Buy one Get one Free

Appointments Taken
Mon.-Fri. 8:15 a.m.-8:30 p.m.
Sat. 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
Call 776-4794

CRUM'S
BEAUTY COLLEGE
512 POYNTZ

Administrators get smaller raise in 1982-83 salaries

By College Press Service

College and university administrators received average pay increases of only 6.4 percent during the past academic year, compared to a 10 percent hike during the 1981-82 school year, an administrators' association has reported.

Last year's smaller salary increases "are probably an indication of what is to be expected over the next few years," said Stephen Miller, executive director of the College and University Personnel Association, which conducts the annual salary study.

Of the 93 positions surveyed, executive and administrative officers got the biggest pay increases — 8.9 and 7.9 percent, respectively.

Student affairs administrators received the smallest salary increases, 4.2 percent, followed by academic affairs officers with 6.5 percent raises.

"With declining enrollments and the ongoing economic problems colleges are facing, I think a slower rate of salary increases will be the norm for at least the next few years," Miller said.

"In terms of a career in higher education, though, it may mean good people will be leaving the profession, and that could cause some real problems in the future."

Introducing FOOTLIGHTS

Exercise &
Dance Wear

GRAND OPENING

Sales throughout the week
Aug. 22-27

Store hrs:

10:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Thurs. till 8:00

1110 Laramie 537-3106

Clip this Coupon
and Save

1/2 Pound Belly Bomb
with Cheese

Choice of Fries or Tater Tots
$2.95

Offer Expires Aug. 25
Coupon not valid w/any other offers.

608 N. 12th 539-9906

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

"Complete Shoe & Boot Repair"

HAND-CRAFTED
LEATHER GOODS
BELTS
BUCKLES
BILLFOLDS

Drive-Up Convenience
401 Humboldt 776-1193

Hardee's®

WELCOME BACK!

We're fixin' everything...just the way you like it.

Try Our Biscuit Breakfast

We can wake you up in the morning, before that 7:30 class, with a piping hot cup of coffee. And, we'll really get you going with our Homemade Biscuit Breakfast. Our biscuits are baked from scratch every morning, made to order just for you...and served with your choice of sugar-cured ham, eggs, cheese, savory country sausage, or chopped beefsteak fillings. You can even have one plain, with jelly!

A Hardee's Sandwich ...MMMMMM

Hardee's offers a wide variety of delicious sandwiches plus crispy, golden french fries and icy-cold soft drinks. It's a great place to meet a friend for a Pepsi or the whole gang for dinner.

Look over our menu right now, and when your mouth starts watering, head for Hardee's!

MENU

Sandwiches

Hamburger
Cheeseburger
Bacon Cheeseburger
Quarter Pound Cheeseburger
Big Deluxe
Reg. Roast Beef
Big Roast Beef
Hot Ham 'n' Cheese
Hot Dog (with Chili)
Big Fish
Chicken
French Fries

Desserts

Apple Turnover
Cherry Turnover
Big Cookie

Drinks

Iced Tea
Soft Drinks — Regular & Diet
Coffee
Hot Chocolate
Milk
Milk Shakes
Orange Juice

Breakfast*

Ham, egg & cheese biscuit
Bacon & egg biscuit
Sausage biscuit
Sausage & egg biscuit
Ham biscuit
Steak & egg biscuit
Egg biscuit
Jelly biscuit

Hashbrowns

grape jelly or strawberry jam or any combination of the above

* Breakfast Hours:

Sun. 7 am to 11 am
Mon. - Sat. 6 am to 10:30 am

WELCOME BACK SPECIAL!

We're so glad you're back we'll give you something to drink free.

606 N. Manhattan
3116 Anderson Ave.

Hardee's®

Free Small
Soft Drink or Free Cup of Coffee

Take this coupon to Hardee's during the hours of 10:30 a.m. to closing and we'll give you a free small soft drink. Or, bring the coupon in during regular breakfast hours and you'll get a free cup of coffee.

Offer expires September 30, 1983. Limit one coupon per person per visit, please. Not good in combination with any other offer. Good at participating Hardee's only.

Best Eatin' All Around™

Telephone company divestiture opens new doors for consumers

By The Associated Press

Get ready for the telephone revolution.

The breakup of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is bringing big changes and consumers will have to learn to shop for phones and phone service the way they do for everything else.

"We'd better prepare for the deluge," said Alan Green, co-author of "The Phone Book," a newly published guide to the growing number of options in dialing.

Some of the new products have been around for years, but they are becoming more widespread.

Many of the changes in your telephone are due to the changes at AT&T. The Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against AT&T in 1974, saying the company had used its control of the local Bell systems and their networks to cut competition in equipment and long-distance markets. AT&T denied the charges, but finally settled the case to avoid further, lengthy litigation. Under the settlement, AT&T is giving up ownership of the Bell System companies and is getting out of the local phone business. The switch will come on Jan. 1, 1984.

One of the first things you will have to do is pick a long-distance company. AT&T will remain in the long-distance business, but you will have a wide choice of other services as well.

Long-distance discount companies offer substantial savings, but Green and his co-author, Larry Kahaner, say you have to comparison shop to find out which one is right for you.

"Some discounters charge an initial fee and-or a monthly fee and some don't. Some allow calls away from your home area ... and some don't. Some reach all areas of the country and some handle only major metropolitan areas. Some give a discount for off-hours calling and some don't," Green and Kahaner write.

Most companies have brochures giving examples of their prices. But the examples won't help unless you live in the cities listed so you'll have to ask for information about costs from your hometown to the places you want to call.

While your long-distance bill may go down, your bill for local service probably will go up. In the past, long-distance service subsidized local service. The local companies won't have that subsidy any more. So the Federal Communications Commission is allowing local rates to go up.

You will be able to save money, however, by buying your phone instead of continuing to rent it from the phone company. You may be able to buy your existing phone or you can go out and get a new one from the a store operated by the phone company or from an independent dealer.

"Over the long term, buying a telephone makes sense," write Green and Kahaner. "If you choose to buy your own equipment, meaning the end of monthly rental payments, the break-even point is typically 12 to 18 months. After that, you're saving money."

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian
Classifieds

AMERICAN BAPTIST CAMPUS MINISTRY

Baptist Campus Center 1801 Anderson
539-3051

FELLOWSHIP MEAL
AND WORSHIP

5-7 P.M.-TUESDAYS
Dave Stewart-Campus Minister

COUPON

I NEED A HUG
Clip and cash in
when you're feeling low

No limit-No expiration

The Only Bank in Aggieville!

THE STUDENTS' BANK

Choosing a bank is easy, consider these facts.

1. Our Aggieville bank

Kansas State Bank is the only bank with a branch in Aggieville, meaning convenience for the college student, and our Westloop Shopping Center main bank location just adds to that convenience. Convenience means longer business hours at Kansas State Bank. We have the longest business hours in Manhattan: open until 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

2. Our ZIP automatic teller system in the Union

Kansas State Bank issues you a Zip Card at no charge with your checking or savings account. Your Zip Card allows you to make withdrawals, deposits and you can check the balance in your account right and day. Your Zip Card can be used at the Zip machines located in the Student Union on campus, in Aggieville, in Westloop, and the newest Zip machine downtown at 6th and Humboldt.

3. Our student loan department

Kansas State Bank was the first bank to have a full-time student loan department. And even now we have more experience with guaranteed student loans than all other banking institutions in Manhattan combined.

KS Bank

Kansas State Bank

MAIN BANK—1010 WESTLOOP 537-4400
AGGIEVILLE BANK—11TH & BLUEMONT, 537-4434
MEMBER FDIC

KANSAS STATE FOOTBALL '83

Student season tickets on sale now.

At the Central Ticket Office
in Ahearn Fieldhouse 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

$24 for 6 great games.

It's the game and a lot more!

Coliseum funding enters second phase

By ASHLEY PETERSON
Staff Writer

The struggle to raise funding for a new athletic coliseum continues, with the KSU Foundation slated to begin a second phase of capital fund-raising by the end of the month.

Currently $16.50 of each student's semester fees go toward the proposed coliseum.

The KSU Foundation has proposed a three-phase capital fund-raising campaign to collect $6 million for the coliseum. The first phase has been a state and nation-wide effort to contact K-State alumni and trustees for donations. More than $2 million has been raised so far.

The second phase of the campaign, directed toward soliciting funds from the 4,333 faculty and staff at K-State, is scheduled to begin before the end of August.

Originally the plan included receiving some funding from the state legislature. According to a KSU Foundation pamphlet, the legislature has said it will not allow coliseum funds to be drawn from the state educational building fund. The University will now request funding for the structure from non-traditional state sources.

According to the June 20 Collegian, the Board of Regents facilities committee recommended during the regents' June 17 meeting that the state not provide funds for the coliseum. The committee recommended the funds be used to meet the critical needs of other facilities and educational requirements.

The KSU Foundation pamphlet outlines three alternatives to building a new coliseum. The "inadequate facilities" at Ahearn could be kept in use, or kept in use and refurbished at a cost of $6 million, resulting in, according to the Foundation, reduced seating, more complicated scheduling and a substandard Big Eight facility. The third option is that no action be taken, forcing the state to pay for a new facility if Ahearn is condemned.

K-State has been trying to build a new coliseum since 1978. Student Senate first passed a bill proposing the coliseum Feb. 2, 1978, but it wasn't approved by the student body.

A second bill proposed Dec. 7, 1978 was approved by senate and the student body, but was voided in April 1981 because it didn't include plans for adequate funding.

Another coliseum proposal was presented to senate in November 1981. This bill passed both the senate and the student body and called for $9.75 per semester to be added to student fees beginning last fall to help finance the building.

Incorporated in the bill was a plan to pay for the structure partly with money from student fees designated for other building bonds which had been paid off.

Construction on the coliseum is tentatively set to begin by 1988 and is expected to be completed by the end of the decade. If built, the structure will be located in a natural ravine between the KSU stadium, R.V. Christian Track and the Washburn Recreational Complex. It is designed as a domed earth-sheltered building with a capacity to seat approximately 15,000 people.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL
BIKE SALE!
BASSETTS BIKE SHOP
(Downtown)
217 Poyntz 537-8832
For the best in Sales
& Service

• NEW • USED • PARTS
• ACCESSORIES
• REPAIR
CENTURION NISHIKI KHS TAKARA DIAMOND BACK

NISHIKI BICYCLES 20% off
FREE $20 worth of accessories
with N.W. bike purchase*

*Nishiki Bikes not included in this offer.

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

Green Plant Sale!

3 inch pot	88¢
4 inch pot	$3.77
6 inch pot	$6.98
8 inch pot	$15.95
10 inch pot	$23.95
Small Basket	$4.75
Large Basket	$9.95
Small Totem Poles	$7.89

—Sale good thru Aug. 26—

Get ready for Fall. Great decoration! Green plants at the BEST PRICE of the YEAR!

Manhattan Floral

630 Poyntz 776-8801 8-5

1205 MORO
AGGIEVILLE

539-7761
M-Sat. 8-5:30

Welcome Back!

Appliances GADGETS Electrical Supplies

Popcorn Poppers
Were $17.59 Now $9.99

PAINT
Inexpensive aluminum cookware!
Libby Glassware 30% Off
GREEN & GREY RITZ TOWELS $2.00 EACH
(Green Stripe Slightly Higher)
Ekco Flatware sets 50% off

LOTS OF
CLEANING SUPPLIES!! Plumbing Supplies

ENJOY Kansas City Star & Times

NEWSPAPERS
Delivered to your home
STUDENT SPECIAL
ALL SEMESTER—
ONLY $18.54

Mail in this coupon to:
KC Star
1412 Vista Lane
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
or sign up at Kedzie Hall
Room 103

*Delivery will begin upon receipt of payment.
Carrier—Jim Schroer 537-2318

THE KANSAS CITY STAR AND TIMES

Student Discount

$18.54

SEMESTER RATE

TAX INCLUDED: • MORNING • EVENING • SUNDAY

I agree to subscribe to The Kansas City Star and Times for the full semester at the special rate of $18.54. This price includes consideration for non-delivery when classes are suspended for holidays, fall, winter, or spring breaks and other periods when service is not requested. The offer becomes effective the day of registration and expires the last day of finals. Delivery to begin upon receipt of payment.

DATE _____
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
PHONE _____
STUDENT I.D. # _____
UNIVERSITY _____
SIGNED _____

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS

6:00 PM
Roll
Throw
Spread
Sprinkle
Heap
Sprinkle
Cook
Box
6:25 PM ENJOY

You phone in your pizza order and in 30 minutes or less there it is at your door. Simple? There's a lot of work that goes into each custom order and it begins with:

- Ring • Immediately our phone person takes your custom order and hands it to our dough man.
- Roll • Our dough man chooses from two sizes of "fresh daily" dough balls and rolls one out.
- Throw • He then throws the dough till it's perfectly round and places it on a baking screen.
- Spread • Our ingredient person spreads our unique PTA sauce with romano cheese evenly over the dough.
- Sprinkle • 100% mozzarella cheese with 2% fat is liberally sprinkled over our sauce.
- Heap • Each topping is heaped on, one by one, so you can taste each individual topping with every bite.
- Sprinkle • More cheese is added and your pizza is passed to our oven person.
- Cook • Your pizza is placed in the oven and tenderly turned with a traditional pizza paddle till our watchful master pizza baker says it's done.
- Box • Your finished pie is placed carefully into a PTA pizza box and sliced. Your delivery runner charts the fastest possible course to your door and
- ENJOY • You bite into a slice of mouthwatering pizza that as many as five pizza specialists were involved in making, just for you. Drop by the shop sometime. Watch PTA pizza specialists go to work to provide you the best pizza ever delivered.

Pizza Transit Authority
When it comes to pizza, PTA comes to you.

537-9500
1127 Moro
Manhattan

762-5300
826 Grant Ave.
Junction City

Pizza Transit Authority

BUY A LARGE 4 OR MORE ITEM PIZZA AND GET A SMALL PIZZA WITH THE SAME NUMBER OF TOPPINGS FREE A22C

One Coupon Per Pizza Not Good With Any Other Special

537-9500

Expires Sept. 6, 1983

FREE DELIVERY
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

Pizza Transit Authority

FREE DOUBLE CRUST A22C

on any pizza
Lg more pizza for your money Sm

One Coupon Per Pizza Not Good With Any Other Special

537-9500

Expires Sept. 6, 1983

FREE DELIVERY
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

Pizza Transit Authority

BUY A LARGE 4 OR MORE ITEM PIZZA AND GET A SMALL PIZZA WITH THE SAME NUMBER OF TOPPINGS FREE A22C

One Coupon Per Pizza Not Good With Any Other Special

537-9500

Expires Sept. 6, 1983

FREE DELIVERY
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

MONDAY AND TUESDAY Family & Student Night at PTA

Buy a large 4 or more item pizza and get a small pizza with the same number of toppings FREE.

537-9500

No coupon needed.
Not good with any other special.

K.S.U. STUDENTS WELCOME TO MANHATTAN

And To... Dillons ..the best food store in town!

ONE-STOP SHOPPING CONVENIENCE

We Invite You To Shop Our Stores At:

- 2900 Anderson
- 632 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

BAKERY

...oven warm and fresh each day.

We bake over 130 varieties of pies, pastries, breads, rolls and donuts fresh each day! There's a refrigerated case to hold all the mouth-watering cream pastries we make. In our bread aisle, you can choose from over 30 variety breads. It won't be hard to find the bakery in our store just follow the aroma!

- ✓ Variety Breads & Buns
- ✓ Dinner Rolls
- ✓ Breakfast Rolls
- ✓ Pies, Cakes, Cookies
- ✓ Donuts

(Available in All Stores)

DELI

...everything here is Deli-icious.

Choose from a wide assortment of kitchen-fresh meats that we'll cut and slice to your specifications. In a hurry? Make a meal for you or your family right from our deli case. We have lots of salads and sandwiches to choose from. There's fried chicken and tangy barbecued ribs...and everything is made fresh daily. For entertaining, we have meat or cheese party trays.

When you need something for dinner or entertaining...just call the Deli or Cheese Shop and "Let the Deli do it!"

- ✓ Fresh Made Sandwiches
- ✓ Hot Chicken & Ribs
- ✓ Meats & Cheeses
- ✓ Salads & Baked Beans

(Available At 2900 Anderson Store Only)

FLORAL

...where it's springtime all year 'round.

Brighten your room or living quarters with blooming plants from Dillons! In our Floral Department, we have a full line of potted plants, blooming plants & hanging plants. We also carry a full line of plant accessories & plant foods. Everything you'll need to make your stay at school seem more like home. Around the holidays and throughout the year, we have special blooming plants to fit the season!

- ✓ Plant Accessories
- ✓ Blooming Plants
- ✓ Plant Foods

OTHER FEATURES FOR YOU...

- ✓ Health & Beauty Aid Department
- ✓ Ambassador Cards & Gifts, Candles
- ✓ Kitchen & Household Gadgets
- ✓ Miscellaneous School Supplies
- ✓ 10% Off All Paperback Books
- ✓ Large Selection Of Frozen Dinners
- ✓ Generic Items - Plain & Simple Savings
- ✓ Royal Color Photofinishing
- ✓ We Pay Cash For Aluminum Cans
- ✓ Cleanest Food Stores In Town
- ✓ Friendliest Clerks In Town!

ANOTHER ONE STOP SHOPPING CONVENIENCE at DILLONS

MAKE COPIES OF IMPORTANT PAPERS WHEN YOU SHOP. 8 1/2 x 11 LETTER SIZE or 8 1/2 x 14 LEGAL SIZE

Only 10¢ PER COPY

(Available At 2900 Anderson Store Only)

Dillons
the best food store in town!

Public television officials push educational value of programs

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Public television officials from across Kansas told lawmakers last week that creation of a centralized distribution system for instructional television programs would greatly enhance teachers' ability to keep students interested in school.

Esther Ready, an instructional television program supervisor, told members of the Communications, Computers and Technology Committee that access to the programs would provide an additional tool and "be a great help" to elementary and high school teachers in Kansas.

"It's just another way to help students learn," Ms. Ready told the summer study panel. "It's a great way to teach and really enhances the teaching process."

Ms. Ready was speaking on behalf of KCPT-Channel 19, the Kansas City, Mo.-based public television station which currently broadcasts instructional television programs to 174,000 students in 500 elementary and high schools in Kansas and Missouri. She said about half the students are located in Kansas.

The programs, usually 15-minute segments, are aired during the nine-month school year and instructors have 107 programs from which to choose for student viewing. The topics covered in the programs include art, literature, languages, math, economics, science and social studies.

"It's just one way to provide teachers with another means to teach," Ms. Ready said. "The programs use dramatization and animation to enhance a teacher's curriculum and fill gaps in subjects and areas where the teacher might not have a full background."

School districts have pooled their resources to pay Channel 19 for its instructional television services, paying the station a per-pupil fee for the broadcasts which are often taped and used throughout the school year. Viewing guides and teaching handbooks also accompany the programs and workshops are held as educators find ways to make the most out of the viewing.

After viewing a sample broadcast played by KCPT for the committee, Rep. Ed Rolfs, R-Junction City, criticized the proposal saying he thought the programs "looked like entertainment."

In earlier testimony it was estimated that some 80 percent of all Kansas' 305 school districts have the equipment needed.

State to aid Geary County with open meetings probe

By The Associated Press

JUNCTION CITY — The Kansas attorney general's office has agreed to help Geary County Attorney Steve Opat investigate a possible violation of the state open meetings law by three city commissioners.

Brad Smoot, deputy attorney general, said Friday that his office had assigned an investigator to the case. Smoot said, however, that Opat was in charge of the probe which was requested Thursday by Junction City Mayor Larry Plaggerman.

Plaggerman's request followed the resignation Tuesday of City Manager John Higgins, who was reported to have left his job after he was given an ultimatum by commissioners Eunice Lesser, Tom McRae and Michael Fegan.

City Attorney Richard Pinaire also resigned on Tuesday. He said the new city manager should be able to choose the attorney with whom he would work. He also said the job required more time than he could give it. Both resignations were effective Sept. 15.

The mayor said he believed the commissioners privately discussed Higgins' ouster, then gave him a choice of resigning or being fired.

Higgins said Friday that Fegan approached him in his office Tuesday and said a majority of the five-member commission were going to ask for his resignation that night.

"I said, 'When you refer to the majority, you refer to McRae, Lesser and yourself?'" Higgins said. And the city attorney said Fegan replied, "Not in that particular order."

Higgins said he told Fegan that, in that case, they had his resignation.

Higgins, who had been city manager for 10 years, said he had had "differences of opinion" with the city commission.

Fegan, Lesser and McRae have denied that they met secretly.

McRae said Higgins and the city commission had disagreed over the city budget and a change in the city's insurance carrier.

DO YOU HAVE A TORRID TONGUE?

The K-State Speech Squad needs you! Come to the information meeting TODAY, August 22 at 3:30 p.m. in the Union room 206.

Meet the coaches, squad members and other new interested people.

Find out about Forensics travel and materials.

K-State Speech Squad

Dept. of Speech and Theatre

321 Poyntz

SBJ
WESTERN CLOTHIERS

Downtown
Manhattan

Welcome Back Students

15% off all merchandise including • Jeans • Shirts • Boots • Moccasins

• Hats • Belts • Buckles • Horse Supplies •

MUST PRESENT THIS COUPON —limited to in-stock regular priced merchandise

MasterCard Visa American Express Offer good Monday thru Thursday, Aug. 22-25

Manhattan's Headquarters for Western Wear

"UPC... We do it right!"

UPCOMING EVENTS

Monday, August 22

Arts—Pre-WWI Air Force Photos, 2nd Floor Showcase thru Sept. 9.
Arts—"Ways of Seeing," Union Art Gallery thru Sept. 9.

Tuesday, August 23

ORC—Horsepacking info meeting & sign up: U 213 7:00 p.m.

Wednesday, August 24

ORC—Horsepacking sign up: 8 a.m.-4 p.m., Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union.
Kaleidoscope—Shoot the Moon: FH 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, August 25

Kaleidoscope—Shoot the Moon: LT 3:30, FH 7:30 p.m.

Friday, August 26

Feature Films—First Blood: FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.
Feature Films—It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World: FH 12 midnight.

Saturday, August 27

Kaleidoscope—Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory: FH 2 p.m.
Feature Films—First Blood: FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.
Feature Films—It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World: FH 12 midnight.
Special Events—1st Annual Ultimate Frisbee Tournament: 8 a.m.-8 p.m., Intramural Fields, Finals Sunday.

Sunday, August 28

Special Events—Welcome Back Concert—Jimmy D. Band, Glee Club, and The Secrets*: 1 p.m., Weber Lawn.
Kaleidoscope—Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory: FH 2 & 7 p.m.

Reminder

1983-84 Programmers are available in the Union Bookstore for only $2.75.

♿ Spaces available at our events.

k-state union
program council

k-state union
upc arts

PRE WWI AIR FORCE PHOTOGRAPHS

K-State Union
2nd Floor Showcase
Aug. 22-Sept. 9

JOHN BIGGS

IN CONCERT

singer songwriter guitar player
banjo picker humorist

Tickets available at the door or in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., September 1 ONLY!

Thursday, September 1
8 p.m., K-State Union Catskeller
Admission: $2

Doors open at 7 p.m.

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

SHOOT THE MOON

Starring Albert Finney and Diane Keaton.
Wed., Aug. 24 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thurs., Aug. 25 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
$1.50 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall

Gene Wilder and Jack Albertson star in a trip through a magic chocolate factory.

Sat., Aug. 27 2 p.m. Forum Hall
Sun., Aug. 28 2 & 7 p.m. Forum Hall
$1.50

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory

UPC SPECIAL EVENTS PRESENTS THE 3RD ANNUAL

Welcome Back Concert

Sunday, August 28th
1 p.m. Weber Lawn
FREE!

Featuring: Glee Club, The Secrets*, Jimmy Dee Band

The First Annual Flint Hills Fantasy
Ultimate Frisbee Tournament

Saturday, Aug. 27
Intramural Fields
Finals: Sunday prior to the Concert Across from Weber Lawn.

k-state union
special events

"WAYS OF SEEING"

K-State Union Art Gallery

August 22 - September 9

Monday - Friday
8am-5pm

k-state union
upc arts

Included in the exhibition are works by such notable artists as Grant Wood, Thomas Hart Benton, Ben Shahn and Nathan Oliveira

HORSEPACKING SEPTEMBER 3-5 $85

A once in a lifetime adventure into an awe-inspiring wilderness area on horseback in Western Colorado.

Info meeting and sign up:
Aug. 23 7 p.m.
Union 213

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

Carlin expects drought disaster request

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Saying Kansas farmers will soon be "in dire need of assistance," Gov. John Carlin on Friday sent a letter to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block, informing him that a federal disaster declaration request was imminent if a month-long drought doesn't break soon.

"I just wanted to let him know that there's a very likely possibility that we will make a federal disaster request sometime in the near future," Carlin told reporters at his weekly news conference. "However, the program is not designed to allow us to make that request at this time."

"This weekend could very well be a critical turning point in a decision to request federal assistance. If we don't get the appropriate moisture this weekend then I can tell you the burning ban, which was originally scheduled to expire next week, will be extended and it will likely be followed by a disaster request."

U.S. Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kansas, on Thursday angered Bill Hoch, Carlin's chief of staff, with a telegram he sent to the state's chief executive urging him to "monitor the drought situation closely" and be prepared to ask for federal disaster relief.

Hoch said the Democratic governor has been watching the hot, dry conditions for several weeks and he chastised the Republican senator for taking so long to recognize the serious situation facing Kansas farmers.

Carlin also chided Dole for his telegram and implied the senator should stay in closer touch with his constituents at home.

"I'm sure every Kansan would agree with me that given what we've gone through the past few weeks, we don't need to be reminded to monitor the hot, dry, drought conditions," Carlin said. "Those of us who are here are well aware of the situation."

Dole told Carlin in the telegram that he'd met with Richard Lyng, deputy secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and William Leshner, USDA economic expert, to discuss crop loss and damage caused by the recent heat wave which has scorched Kansas and at least 15 other states.

Some 21 Kansas counties have reported significant crop loss, Dole said. After the briefing, Dole said the USDA officials "now consider drought conditions serious throughout the Great Plains area, including Kansas."

In his letter to Block, Carlin said his office is in "constant contact" with state agricultural agencies and keeping abreast of crop damage and danger to livestock. He said no monetary figure has been attached to the damage and because of the guidelines for making a federal disaster request prevent a plea for assistance at this time.

On Thursday, Hoch blasted Dole for being insensitive and out of touch with the problems facing Kansas farmers.

"We do very much appreciate his advice from Washington D.C. that we ought to monitor the drought and crops here in Kansas — something we've been doing the last three to four weeks," Hoch said angrily. "We agree the drought conditions are very serious in Kansas and should federal assistance be warranted, we would request a disaster declaration."

"That's something we've known here for several weeks and have been watching closely through our Division of Emergency Preparedness and Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service. We've been in constant contact with those offices, monitoring the situations and keeping constant track of crop damage."

Hoch said Dole made it sound too easy to request federal assistance, and claimed the senator's news release was misleading because it did not explain that several factors influence whether a disaster request is approved.

Hoch noted that a federal disaster declaration, which would make farmers in the affected areas eligible for low interest loans and possibly federal grants, must be based on damage sustained through the entire growing season.

U.S. to gain rare Siberian tigers in animal trade with Soviet Union

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Rare Siberian tiger triplets are headed for the United States today in a new round of animal-swapping between the superpowers. The Soviets will get a sea lion for starters.

The 3-year-old tigers — Alisa (Azalea), Astra (Aster) and Tyulpan (Tulip) — will be flown to the United States today, said Inna Kuzminikh, a scientist at the Moscow Zoo.

They will be divided among the Bronx Zoo in New York, and city zoos in Indianapolis, Ind., and Omaha, Neb.

Kuzminikh said the tigers were named after flowers because they were so vividly colored when they were born. Tyulpan is the male. "Despite his size, he is a very kind tiger," she said.

"Alisa is a very stern tigress and rather angry. Astra is of gentle character. They are all sufficiently obedient," she said.

Alisa and Astra each weigh about 200 pounds and Tyulpan about 400.

"Their mother gave birth to the three at the same time, and this is extraordinary," Kuzminikh said.

K-State
PLAYERS
FALL AUDITIONS

McCain Auditorium, 7:00 p.m.
August 22—Monday
August 23—Tuesday
CALLBACKS: August 24—Wednesday

EQUUS—by Peter Shaffer, October 6, 7, 8 in McCain Auditorium

A LITTLE NIGHT MUSIC—music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, November 17, 18, 19 in McCain Auditorium

METUSELAH'S CHILDREN—written and directed by Jeannette James-Saxton, September 22, 23, 24 Purple Masque Production

All students interested in learning about K-State Players may also come to the Players 1st meeting; Room 209, K-State Union, August 25th.

Opera Auditions—August 31 & September 1; contact Dr. Langenkamp (532-3740), or Dr. Hernandez (532-6875).

Aggie Hair Port

776-7377
711 N. 11th
Aggieville

PERM SPECIAL
Our regular $48.00 perms are now on special for $35.00!
(cut is included)
Offer good now through Sept. 2.
Guys & Gals Welcome!
("Our profession is hair care")

WELCOME BACK K-STATE!

STEREO 94 FM

Manhattan's Best FM

Kansas State Travel
West Loop Shopping Center
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
913-537-2451

Jazz comes home to 12th Street
LABOR DAY WEEKEND
SEPT. 2-5
A KANSAS CITY CLASSIC
$45 per night
Includes:
• Best king parlor suite available at check-in
• Continental breakfast for two served in suite
• Validated parking in Municipal Garage (overnight only)

PHILLIPS HOUSE

SUMMER AIR FARE SALE
From Wichita
To
Phoenix $70 each way
Dallas $65 each way
Los Angeles $100 each way

From Kansas City
To
Colordao Springs $50 each way
Houston $65 each way
THINK SNOW & START MAKING PLANS FOR YOUR SKI TRIP TODAY!
(All fares Have Restrictions & are Subject to Change w/o Notice)

537-2451
West Loop Shopping Center

N.A.U.T.I.L.U.S.

The Perfect Balance To Summer Study...

1. The Workout... on the finest equipment in the world. The results are automatic. Nautilus is the only type of exercise based upon a solid foundation of facts, undeniable laws of physics, and established principles of physiology. Nautilus has been sanctioned by professionals in every physical fitness discipline, including the medical profession.
Time: 30 minutes

2. The Jacuzzi... penetrates the skin, opens pores, and gives you a deep massage. The 106 degree mineral water will increase circulation, pulse rate, and strengthens the heart with no exertion on the body.
Time: 5 minutes

3. The Sauna... melts pounds and inches away while you relax. The dry heat cleanses and improves circulation by relaxing nervous tension.
Time: 10 minutes

4. The Shower... the perfect finish. A hot shower, cool rinse, dress, and you're ready to go...You'll always leave feeling better about yourself...
Time: 15 minutes

Total Time: 1 hour/3 days weekly

10 month Special Now 'til Graduation Day $195.00

The Nautilus Fitness Center where a minimum of time gives you the maximum in results 776-1654
1122 Laramie Aggieville

TOUCH TONE REPLACEMENT TELEPHONE

Conphone Electronic Telephone
Model T-175

- Designer Series
- Mute button for privacy
- Memory re-dial
- Wall mount included

only $ 19⁹⁵

NORTON Rexall DRUGS

CONVENIENT STUDENT LOANS FOR YOU, FROM THE FIRST.

We know all about the financial burdens that come with getting a college education. That's why we're here to help you, with a student loan from The First.

Our helpful and friendly staff can answer all your questions and take care of the details. Plus, The First makes the whole thing as easy as a walk across campus. We will have a facility set up during registration week at the construction site of our new University Bank on the corner of Denison and Claflin.

Come on in and pick up your student loan application. It's another service for you, from The First.

1 First National Bank
Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations
Main Bank 700 Pacific • University Bank • Denison & Claflin
East West 3005 Anderson • Downtown Bank • 4th & Pacific
All Locations 537-0200 Member FDIC

You want quality. You want price. And you don't want to sacrifice one for the other.

Maybe... we were meant for each other!

REED & ELLIOTT Jewelers
CERTIFIED GEMOLOGIST
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY
Diamond Specialists

402 Poyntz 776-4000

Nuclear data restriction law open for public comment

By Staff and Wire Reports

A federal law signed into effect more than a year ago which would limit public access to information on the nuclear weapons program met some opposition this summer. Hearings of public opinion on the move, were hosted two weeks ago in Washington and Denver by the Department of Energy and a third is scheduled for the latter part of September in Chicago to hear, said Jim Cannon, public affairs officer for the DOE defense programs.

Contacted at his Germantown, Md., office Friday afternoon, Cannon said the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate passed the atomic energy weapons bill more than a year ago and President Reagan signed it into law. At the time, Cannon said, government watchdogs were not bristled by the bill.

But critics, including newspaper editors, academics, librarians and environmental groups say the proposed rules would deny access to data about the effect of nuclear weapons production upon the health and safety of the public if interpreted broadly.

"We are opposed to restricting any information of any sort," Brice Hobrock, dean of K-State libraries, said. But as far as requests for nuclear weapons information is considered, Farrell Library has very few requests. John Johnson, head of Farrell's documents collection, said the library has material that tells how to build a nuclear bomb but it is scattered in various government publications.

"Certain pieces of information classified at one time got declassified and now because of terrorist threats we're trying to regain them," the DOE official said.

Cannon said there is no intent of "pulling books off of shelves or rewriting history," just protecting the nuclear plants.

"There are people in the market now for that type of information," he said.

Even if the library is affected only slightly, a broad interpretation could have a larger impact on certain University departments.

"In theory, it could wipe out the entire (nuclear) physics department," Gale Simons, professor of nuclear engineering, said about the broad interpretation of the regulation. "You could go to this shelf and say all these books contain something that would help make a nuclear weapon."

Even if Simons disagrees with the regulations because of its impact on the academic world, he does agree tighter security is needed.

"There shouldn't be documents readily available where someone could sit down and in steps one, two, three, build a nuclear bomb," he said.

Constructing a nuclear weapon "should be easier now" for terrorists, the professor said, because the first nuclear bomb was developed in just months by scientists operating in a new field and now nuclear science has existed for 40 years.

U.S. probe harms Swiss secrecy

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A paper trail leading from New York to Zurich has put the United States at odds with one of the world's largest commodities traders and the Swiss government, which is fighting to preserve a cherished asset of its own — secrecy.

It began in March 1982, when a federal grand jury in New York began delving into the crude-oil dealings of Marc Rich & Co. AG, a Swiss company, from 1979 to 1981.

Fighting federal subpoenas, the company quickly and quietly sold its assets in the United States and was caught trying to ship a trunk full of documents out of the country. The Swiss government, defending its secrecy laws, has seized Marc Rich documents in that country.

The developments, a federal judge later remarked, "would be ludicrous if it were not so serious."

Marc Rich, a former New York commodities trader who founded his own firm in 1974, built a multibillion-dollar business by trading strategic commodities — especially by having oil when it was scarce.

Federal prosecutors want to know if the company failed to pay taxes on $20 million earned by its U.S. subsidiary in oil transactions. The dispute focuses on allegations that the U.S. subsidiary juggled records to show the profit on the books of its Swiss parent.

The company denies the allegation.

The privately held company reportedly has sales of $10 billion a year, about the same as Chrysler Corp. Rich, 48, son of a burlap bag maker, has been reported to have a personal fortune of $150 million.

Besides huge dealings in oil, the company is a major trader of tin and copper and owns 50 percent of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp.

When world tin prices fell in 1982, industry sources identified Marc Rich as the "mystery buyer" that had earlier propped up prices through an aggressive buying binge that began in 1981.

When company documents were subpoenaed for the grand jury investigation, Marc Rich challenged the subpoena in court and lost, but still would not give up the records.

On June 29, U.S. District Judge Leonard B. Sand imposed a fine of $50,000 a day for contempt of court.

Marc Rich refused to pay, arguing that Swiss law forbids disclosure of economic secrets. Disclosure of politically sensitive trades could damage Swiss neutrality.

AUDITIONS FOR MUSIC DEPT. ENSEMBLES

1. Marching Band: See Mr. Stan Finck for audition time.
2. Jazz Band: auditions will be 6-10 p.m., Tues. evening, Aug. 23, Rm. 201, McCain Auditorium. Sign up for times outside of band office, Rm. 226, McCain.
3. Symphonic Band: (Wind Ensemble): Contact Mr. Al Cochran, Rm. 224, McCain for an audition time.
4. Orchestra: Contact Mr. Ralph Winkler, Rm. 113, McCain.

(For further information about any of these groups contact Al Cochran at 532-5740.)

ALL UNIVERSITY STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE TO AUDITION AND ARE ENCOURAGED TO DO SO.

FULL GOSPEL Study of the Bible

Sponsored by the Manhattan Foursquare Church
Starting Aug. 23
Every Tuesday Evening
7:30

PLACE: 1428 McCain TELEPHONE: 537-0256
2 Blocks East of the corner of Manhattan & Claflin

See your Jostens' representative for a complete selection of rings and details of Jostens' Creative Financing Plans.

DATE: Mon-Fri August 22-26, 1983

TIME: 9am-4pm

PLACE: Uk-state union bookstore 0302

Jostens' college rings offered daily at your bookstore

Get 2 bucks back and a free extension cord (while they last)

The student body demanded "Let there be light!" And turn-ons responded. Five great, hi-tech study and dorm lamps to throw a lot of light on any subject... all at prices within reason. Then the student body asked, "What else is in it for us?" Again turn-ons responded...

$2 back on every lamp you purchase from your book store plus a free extension cord, the one item (other than cash) you never can find whenever it's needed! But to get in on this most illustrious offer ever — you must get over to your book store soon!

Get thee to thy book store fast!

Uk-state union bookstore 0302

A GLASS ACT.

"KSU on the Rocks" glass FREE with the purchase of any medium or large pizza at the Godfather's Pizza® restaurant just off Campus. Very Classy. (Available while supplies last. One glass per pizza only. Not valid with other offers.)

Now delivering anywhere in Manhattan. Ask for details.

Godfather's Pizza®

1118 Laramie • 539-5303

Canadian Eskimos seek their own province

By The Associated Press

FROBISHER BAY, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES — Canada's Eskimos are pushing a proposal to slice the vast Northwest Territories in half, creating a new government — and eventually a province — in the eastern arctic.

"Government for and by the people has never arrived here," says John Amagoalik, president of the Inuit Tapirisat (Eskimo Brotherhood) of Canada.

The Northwest Territories — twice the size of Alaska with barely one-tenth the population — is governed by a federally appointed commissioner, assisted by an elected council with limited powers. The capital is Yellowknife, on Great Slave Lake in the western part of the territory, about 500 miles north of Edmonton, Alberta.

"Yellowknife is just as far away, physically and psychologically, as Ottawa," Amagoalik said in an interview.

Projects for splitting the territory — the plural "territories" is something of a misnomer — have been kicked around for decades, but the idea has been taken much more seriously in recent years.

In April 1982, residents of the Northwest Territories voted in favor of division — 5,586-4,304 — in a non-binding plebiscite.

John Munro, federal minister of northern development, announced last November that Ottawa would agree to dividing the territory, if local residents could agree on a boundary and if land claims by various native organizations could be settled first.

Setting a boundary may be the most difficult task. The Eskimos have proposed following the tree line, which slants across the territory dividing southwestern forests from northeastern tundra.

"That would leave us landlocked and that is not acceptable," Bob MacQuarrie, a member of the territorial council from Yellowknife, said in a phone interview. He is one of four members of the Western Constitutional Forum, set up to plan the territorial division.

Dennis Patterson, chairman of the Nunavut Constitutional Forum, the counterpart body for the eastern half, said things can be worked out. "No one can tell me there isn't enough land to go around," Patterson said in an interview at the high school in Frobisher Bay, the largest town in the eastern arctic.

Nunavut, meaning "our land" in Inuktitut, the Eskimo language, is the proposed name for the new eastern territory, where Eskimos would be an overwhelming majority in a population of about 20,000. Frobisher Bay probably would become the capital. The Dene Indians of the west, who would be about equal in number to the whites there, want to call their new territory Denedeh, also meaning "our land."

Settling the land claims could be sticky. Indians, two groups of Eskimos and the Metis — mixed-blood descendants of Indians and whites — all have separate claims, some overlapping.

Despite the difficulties, Nunavut leaders are moving rapidly to sketch out the powers and policies of the new territory.

Canadian provinces — unlike American states — own the oil and minerals beneath their land. The federal government, frustrated in its dealings with oil-rich Alberta, has made it clear it does not want to yield control of the resources of the far north.

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication, Friday for Monday's paper.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch. Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

WELCOME

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

612 Poyntz

8:45 a.m. Holy Communion

First Sunday of the month

5:30 p.m. Chapel Vespers

2nd & 4th Sundays

9:45 a.m. Church School

11:00 a.m. Worship

Charles B. Bennett—minister

FOR RENT—APTS

TRAVELERS MOTEL—776-4836, three miles East on U.S. 24. Nice room, phone and cable color T.V. Low rate. Daily, weekly and monthly (1-5)

ONE OR two person basement apartment, partially furnished, utilities paid. Call 776-4790 (1-5)

FURNISHED, five room apartment. One and one-half blocks east campus. $250. Call 537-2858 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5)

STUDIO APARTMENT available September 1, $135 a month, Aggieville location. Call 539-2776 (1-3)

FOR SALE—AUTO

1973 CHEVROLET Caprice—air conditioning, power brakes, power steering, power windows. Evenings, Monday through Friday. All day, Saturday and Sunday. 1-456-7598 (1-3)

1980 VW Rabbit Deluxe, $5500 or best offer. 1976 Honda Civic Sedan Wagon, $2800. Call 7-764-6972 after 6:00 p.m. (1-5)

1975 FIAT 131 wagon. Excellent condition, air conditioning, 57,000 miles. Phone 539-3468 (1-4)

1973 BUICK Hatchback, 31,000 actual miles, $2,000, firm. Call 776-4316 (1-5)

1971 OPEL 1900, 89,000 miles. Valve job, new camshaft, and valve lifters one year ago. Recent new hoses, exhaust system, and water pump. Excellent mechanically, body good. Asking $700. Call 776-0969 (1-5)

FOR SALE—MISC

APPLE II+ 48K, 1 disk drive, monitor, some software. Call 539-2042 (1-5)

SIX-PIECE living room set, $190, heavy-duty washing machine, $145, utility trailer with locking tool box, $195. Call 539-0950 (1-3)

RECORD SALE: Albums by groups like Joan Jett, Shooting Star, Loverboy, Quiet Riot, and many more at 1010 Gardenway #A. 1:00-6:00 p.m. or call 537-0248 (1-3)

ROCKSHOT AND TNT cards. Call Don at 537-4046 (1-5)

TIME/SINCLAIR 1000 computer w/16K RAM. Brown braided run—perfect for dorm room. Call Dan, 539-8242 (1-2)

ROUGH-CUT cedar bunkbed frame, $45. Will install. Call 532-7259, ask for Rita (1-2)

HOTEL FURNITURE sale: Complete beds $50 and under, chairs $15 and under, lamps $15 and under, desks $50, misc. Open 8:00 a.m. 5:00 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 418 Poyntz, 776-6891 (1-2)

OFF YOUR ROCKER Antiques has all types of furniture and accessories to make your room or apartment unique. 1930s telephones ready to use, old pictures, carpets, tables, rockers, etc. Friday-Sunday, 9:00 a.m. 5:00 p.m., 1019 Houston (1-5)

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest Aggieville (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville (11f)

ATTENTION

ATTENTION STUDENTS—Need low cost health insurance? Call Gross Insurance, 776-4709. An inexpensive alternative (1-5)

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926 (1-10)

Are you frustrated by recent raises in health insurance? You can save money—to find out how call Mark Ginsberg, independent agent, right here on campus at 776-4318

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere International Tours, 776-4756 (11f)

FOR RENT—MISC

COMPACT REFRIGERATORS for sale or rent. D&S Rental Center, 1927 Ft. Riley Blvd. Call 537-2250 (1-5)

APARTMENTS, TRAILERS, ten and twelve month contracts. No children, no pets. 537-8454, 537-8389 (1-5)

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469 (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931 (11f)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES

10' x 50' L.T.D., must be moved. Five miles west, carpeted, appliances, partially furnished, skin ting, tie downs, washer hookups. 1-913-485-2540 (1-5)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES

1974, 400 Kawasaki—inspected, new tire, seat, battery, etc. windshield, crashbar. Make offer. Call 539-3460 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5)

HELP WANTED

BABYSITTER needed for infant, fall semester. Tuesdays and Thursdays, 12:30-2:30 p.m., my home. Call 539-6640 (1-2)

PROFESSIONAL COUPLE needs part-time housekeeper. Call between 11:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. for interview. 776-6584 (1-2)

CARRIER NEEDED for motor route, KC Star—dependable car necessary. Call Jim Schroer 537-2316 (1-1)

THE CITY of Manhattan is seeking to fill part-time positions. Recreation Division. Positions are available in flag football, volleyball, softball, basketball, soccer and facilities supervision. Various instructors are needed in arts and crafts, bowling, gymnastics, dance, and basketball. Apply at Personnel Department, City Hall—11th and Poyntz by September 2, 1983. EOE—M/F/H (1-6)

MEL'S ALLEY now taking applications for waitresses. Must be 21. Apply Tuesday, 12:00 noon-3:00 p.m. (1-2)

POSITION RE-OPENED—Director, Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service. An 8 time appointment at the instructor level beginning September 1, 1983. Master's degree in Student Personnel Psychology, or related field required. Experience in alcohol and drug abuse prevention or student development programming helpful. Responsibilities include developing and carrying out educational programs and the writing and implementing of grants. Ability to coordinate activities with other student services personnel and supervise part-time staff members important. Submit resume, letter of application, transcripts, names and phone numbers of references to Earl Nolting, Center for Student Development, Holton Hall 102, Kansas State University, 532-6432 by 5:00 p.m. August 25, 1983. KSU is an AA/EEO employer (1-3)

TODAY'S FASHIONS—Now taking applications for fashion representatives. Work at your convenience and earn up to $100 in merchandise credit and a $50 cash bonus. Applications being accepted August 22 through 26th (1-5)

MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR COLLEGE GRADS

Exceptional opportunity providing experience in management of personnel, equipment and money. Start $18,000. $32,000 in 4 years. Excellent benefits. Ages 19-27, U.S. citizen, willing to relocate. Qualification test required. Send resume or call: 1-800-821-5110

NAVY OFFICER PROGRAMS

VISTA DRIVE-In is now taking applications for part-time fountain or grill help. Days and evenings. Apply in person (1-3)

DISTRIBUTE ADVERTISING materials on campus. Write: College Distributors, 33 Pebblewood Trail, Naperville, IL 60540 (1-2)

WAITERS and Waitresses, servers and cashiers, cooks' assistants and dishwashers. We offer student pay plan, job variety and a centrally located work place where you work with other students. We require that you must obtain a Food Handler's Card. Must be able to work 10 hours weekly, must be honest, reliable and display a sense of urgency, must be neat, clean and wear appropriate attire. We prefer to hire work study students and students who are eligible to work 30 hours per week. Apply at the K-State Union Food Service Office (1-4)

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures, 1-800-621-4031 (1-10)

NOTICES

AUCTION: SEPTEMBER 12, 1983 at 6:30 p.m. evening. Located approximately 3 1/2 miles south from east end of Manhattan, Kansas, River Bridge on Ashland Bottom Road #901. Approximately seven acres located on asphalt road, consists of 2 1/4 acres of good bottom land, trees and small creek. Open House on August 29, 1983 from 5:00-7:00 p.m. For other showing call auctioneer. Large farm house, near new kitchen, very good wall-to-wall carpet. Has approximately 1819 sq. ft. oversized detached double garage, hay and livestock pole shed 12' x 54 mobile home. Terms are 10% down day of auction and balance due and payable on or before October 12. Taxes to be prorated. Arthur R. Dicks and Carla Carleton, Owners, Milton Anderson, CAI Auctioneers, 123 South 4th Manhattan, Kansas phone 776-4834, Earl Brown, CAI, Vern Gannon, CAI (1-4)

CHECK BALFOUR's gigantic back-to-school sale! Sweats and shirts 20% off. New through Saturday (1-5)

PERSONAL

CASEY—I'll miss you so much this year but my love for you will never stop. Happy seven months. Always, Julie (1)

DUANE—THANK you for the best summer of my life! I'll be missing you and thinking of you constantly. All my love always. The future Mrs. Hicks (1)

WATCH OUT K State—The Boyd Hall Floozies are back and makin' tracks (1)

ROOMMATE WANTED

DO YOU have above average roommate skills? If so, call Mike at 539-7451. Nonsmokers, one-third bills plus $110/month (1-3)

VERY NICE condo with very reasonable rent and three nice roommates. Need one female roommate. Please call 537-8239 (1-5)

FEMALE WANTED to share three bedroom duplex with two others. Furnished, washer and dryer, exceptionally nice Westwood area. $117/month plus utilities. Call 539-7099 or 532-5591 (1-5)

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Private furnished room. Washer, dryer, microwave, $150 plus utilities. Call 776-1301 (1-3)

TWO, QUIET, non-smoking, female roommates needed for modern apartment. 537-3294—ask for Mary (1-5)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apartment. $305 a month plus utilities. One mile from campus. Call Debby at 537-7370 (1-4)

NEED ONE male to live with three others in very nice house one-half block from campus. Private room. Call 537-3977 (1-4)

ROOMMATE WANTED: To share three bedroom basement. Must be male and will share with two others. Call 539-6711 or stop by 522 Oakdale (1)

SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25 (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 More, Aggieville, 537-7294 (11f)

WANTED

FEMALE ROCK-n-Roll band needing bass and lead guitars. Call Kristi Nelson at 776-2385 to audition (1-2)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

WELCOME READERS TO THE FIRST THRILLING EPISODE OF OUR FAVORITE SUPERHERO... MR. RED, WHITE AND BLUE...
☆☆ CAPTAIN COSMO! ☆☆☆

AH YES... AND OUR HEROS TRUSTY SIDEKICK, HIS LITTLE BUDDY, FAITHFUL FRIEND TO THE END AND COMPANION IN DANGER... TITMOUSE!

TOGETHER FROM COSMO-BASE ON THE SURFACE OF THE MOON... OUR DYNAMIC DUO PROTECT OUR COUNTRY AND THE EARTH FROM EVIL!

JOIN US AS WE FOLLOW ALONG THRU EXCITING ADVENTURES AND DARING QUESTS TO RIGHT WRONGS AND SPREAD THE AMERICAN DREAM

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

- 1 Play on words
- 4 Paid notices
- 7 London district
- 11 Monkshood plant
- 13 "Swee" —
- 14 King or Alda
- 15 California valley
- 16 Dinner check
- 17 Verne's captain
- 18 Role for Alan Ladd
- 20 Watch pockets
- 22 Cook
- 24 Actress Claire
- 28 Decorated snake
- 33 Incarnation of Vishnu
- 34 Diving bird
- 36 "...two fives for —"
- 37 — Eastwood
- 39 Baked Alaska, for one

DOWN

- 1 Gives a bad review
- 2 Beehive
- 3 Thatching palm
- 4 Likely
- 5 Unable to hear
- 6 Wooden shoe
- 7 Spanish seaport
- 8 Barcelona
- 9 Inept actor
- 10 Yoko —

12 California seaport

- 19 Sea bird
- 21 Bikini part
- 23 Affirmative statement
- 25 Cast a ballot
- 26 Hebrew measure
- 27 Talk wildly
- 28 Circle segments
- 29 Spanish painter
- 30 Neglect
- 31 Defective bomb
- 35 London suburb
- 38 High hull
- 40 U.S.S.R. region
- 42 Cloudy white
- 45 Rail bird
- 47 Christmas
- 48 Sicilian resort
- 49 Ooze
- 50 French friend
- 51 Tablet
- 52 Before
- 54 Spigot

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

YKT KMOFYTR MJTFOTE LF JTFLIT
MHT IMWWTR THLT IMFWE.

Saturday's Cryptogram — DEFT SCHOLARS AT THE FARMYARD SCHOOL ARE LEARNING PIG LATIN.

Today's Cryptogram clue: F equals N.

STEREO FACTORY'S Summer Consumer Hi Fi SALE

You are invited to the Stereo Factory's Summer Consumer Hi Fi Sale in Aggieville. Stereo Factory has joined with several direct manufacturers to bring truckloads of quality name brand audio and car stereo components together for a week long celebration of saving.

This is your chance to save big as we cut stereo prices with a giant sale that will not be forgotten! We have huge amounts of stock, but due to the drastic price reductions, quantities are limited to store stock only.

Sale continues through Sunday, August 28th.

Portables

	Regular	SALE
Sanyo MG-16D	$ 89 ⁰⁰	$ 55 ⁰⁰
Walkman style cassette player with headphones & Dolby
Sony TCM-121	$ 70 ⁰⁰	$ 59 ⁸⁸
Mono cassette recorder
Sony Walkman 4	$109 ⁰⁰	$ 69 ⁹⁵
It's a Sony, not the phony.
JVC RC40JW	$149 ⁰⁰	$109 ⁰⁰
AM/FM/SW stereo cassette player recorder
Sony TCS-310	$189 ⁰⁰	$119 ⁹⁵
Stereo cassette recorder with headphones
Sony Walkman 7	$200 ⁰⁰	$159 ⁰⁰
Cassette player with Dolby, auto reverse and more
JVC RC-S55JW	$249 ⁰⁰	$189 ⁰⁰
Stereo radio cassette recorder with removable walkman & headphones
JVC RC-575	$259 ⁰⁰	$189 ⁰⁰
Stereo radio cassette recorder
JVC DC-7	$500 ⁰⁰	$449 ⁰⁰
An ultimate portable stereo disc center

Car Stereo

	Regular	SALE
Westport Labs 190	$ 99 ⁰⁰	$ 49 ⁰⁰
Pioneer KP-2500	$150 ⁰⁰	$ 97 ⁰⁰
AM/FM cassette in-dash
Clarion 3100R	$129 ⁰⁰	$ 99 ⁰⁰
AM/FM cassette in-dash with 3 yr. warranty
JS-9401	$189 ⁰⁰	$139 ⁰⁰
Auto reverse, program search, fits any car
Clarion 3500R	$179 ⁰⁰	$144 ⁰⁰
Auto reverse with 3 yr. warranty
Alpine 5114	$179 ⁰⁰	$149 ⁰⁰
Top quality underdash cassette player
Clarion 5100R	$209 ⁰⁰	$179 ⁰⁰
Auto reverse, 4 way fader, 3 yr. warranty
JVC KS-R3	$249 ⁹⁵	$199 ⁰⁰
Dolby, 22 watts per channel, bass-treble, 4 way fader
Magnadyne 3150	$299 ⁹⁵	$219 ⁰⁰
Digital tuner, loaded with features
Alpine 7128	$300 ⁰⁰	$249 ⁰⁰
Digital clock, SCC tape head, our best seller
Kenwood KRC-1022 (Demo)	$650 ⁰⁰	$449 ⁰⁰
Kenwood's top of the line

Car Amps & Speakers

	Regular	SALE
JS-500	$ 39 ⁰⁰	$ 14 ⁹⁵
6 1/2" speakers
Pioneer TS-1211	$ 49 ⁰⁰	$ 27 ⁰⁰
5" thin mount speakers
Magnadyne K50C	$ 55 ⁰⁰	$ 39 ⁰⁰
2 way box speakers
JVC CS-410	$ 59 ⁰⁰	$ 44 ⁰⁰
4" 30 watt duo cones
Alphasonic 7 Band Equalizer	$ 79 ⁰⁰	$ 46 ⁵⁰
Alpine 6141	$ 59 ⁰⁰	$ 49 ⁰⁰
High performance 4" speakers
Ultimate Ribbon Tweeters	$ 79 ⁹⁵	$ 49 ⁹⁵
JVC CS-610	$ 79 ⁹⁵	$ 59 ⁰⁰
6 1/2" 40 watt duo cone, waterproof
JS-51 Equalizer Amp	$ 89 ⁰⁰	$ 59 ⁹⁵
Pyle 4x10 2 ways	$ 89 ⁰⁰	$ 62 ⁵⁰
Formula 69.3 6x9 Tri Ax	$119 ⁰⁰	$ 69 ⁹⁵
Alpine 6203 6 1/2" 2 way	$ 99 ⁰⁰	$ 79 ⁰⁰
JBL T 205 4 1/2" 2 way	$129 ⁰⁰	$ 95 ⁰⁰
Jensen J3033	$179 ⁰⁰	$109 ⁰⁰
100 watt Tri Axials
Alpine 6391	$199 ⁰⁰	$149 ⁰⁰
100 watt 3 ways
JBL T-545	$219 ⁰⁰	$169 ⁰⁰
Die cast 6x9 100 watt 3 ways

Receivers & Amps

	Regular	SALE
Pioneer SX-434 (Trade In)	$ 64 ⁰⁰
Yamaha CR-220 (Trade In)	$ 89 ⁰⁰
Hitachi SR-2001	$199 ⁹⁰	$139 ⁰⁰
Technics SA-206	$249 ⁹⁵	$179 ⁹⁵
Sony STR-VX250	$229 ⁹⁵	$179 ⁹⁵
Digital tuning, presets
Hitachi H-TA-3000	$269 ⁹⁵	$199 ⁹⁵
3 year warranty, digital
Technics SU5 & S75	$399 ⁰⁰	$199 ⁹⁵
Separate micro amp & tuner, digital, loaded with features
JVC RK-22	$299 ⁰⁰	$239 ⁹⁵
Digital with graphic equalizer
Technics SA-410	$299 ⁰⁰	$259 ⁰⁰
Class A receiver, digital, 45 watts per channel
Sony STRVX550	$399 ⁰⁰
Comes with full function wireless remote control
Sansui 9090DB (used)	$269 ⁰⁰
125 watts per channel, originally $750 ⁰⁰

Cassette Decks

	Reg.	SALE
Onkyo TA-1500 (used)	$ 80 ⁰⁰
Sharp RT-10	$129 ⁰⁰	$ 99 ⁰⁰
Dolby, LED metering
Hitachi DE-1	$139 ⁰⁰	$109 ⁰⁰
Dolby, soft touch switching, auto replay
Hitachi DE-33	$189 ⁰⁰	$149 ⁰⁰
Dolby, B & C, soft touch switching, LED's
Sony TC-FX25	$199 ⁰⁰	$169 ⁰⁰
The least expensive Sony
Hitachi DE-44	$249 ⁰⁰	$189 ⁰⁰
14 Segmenx LED metering, electronic switching, Dolby B & C
Sony TC-FX44	$219 ⁰⁰	$189 ⁹⁵
Music search, electronic switching, Dolby B & C, remote capable
JVC KD-D40	$279 ⁹⁵	$219 ⁹⁵
Dolby B & C, program search, 8 band fluorescent meters
Sansui D-300M (Demo)	$300 ⁰⁰	$169 ⁰⁰
Remote capable, LED meters, soft touch switching
JVC KD-A77 (Trade In)	$239 ⁹⁵
Originally sold for $570 ⁰⁰ , 3 head, 2 motors, remote capable, solenoid switching
Technics RS-M235X	$300 ⁰⁰	$249 ⁹⁵
DBX, Dolby B & C, 2 motor, electronic switching
JVC KD-V40	$329 ⁰⁰	$279 ⁹⁵
Auto reverse, program search, Dolby, soft touch switching
JVC KD-W5	$349 ⁰⁰	$289 ⁰⁰
Dual Transport for high speed dubbing
Technics RS-M245X	$349 ⁰⁰	$299 ⁰⁰
2 motors, DBX, Dolby B & C, multiple search system, real time counter
Sony TC-FX600	$349 ⁹⁵	$309 ⁰⁰
One of Sony's finest decks
Luxman KX-101	$600 ⁰⁰	$499 ⁰⁰

Cartridges

	Reg.	SALE
Audio Technics 70	$ 40 ⁰⁰	$ 9 ⁹⁵
Audio Technics 110E	$ 60 ⁰⁰	$30 ⁰⁰
Ortofon TM-10	$ 65 ⁰⁰	$ 39 ⁰⁰
P mount, elliptical
Audio Technics 112EP	$ 60 ⁰⁰	$ 39 ⁰⁰
Elliptical P mount
Audio Technics 122LP	$120 ⁰⁰	$ 60 ⁰⁰
Shibita cut P mount
Ortofon LM-10	$120 ⁰⁰	$ 74 ⁰⁰
Danish built low mass cartridge
Ortofon MC2011/T-20	$495 ⁰⁰	$340 ⁰⁰
Top of the line moving coil

Loudspeakers

	Reg.	SALE
EQL-1003	$100 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$ 49 ⁹⁵ Ea.
10" 3 way system
Infinity RS-10	$ 79 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$ 69 ⁹⁵ Ea.
If you can find a better speaker for the price, buy it.
JVC SK-S11	$110 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$ 79 ⁰⁰ Ea.
8" 3 way system
Infinity RS-9	$119 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$ 94 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Bose 201	$130 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$ 97 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Our least expensive direct reflecting speaker
JVC SK-S22	$149 ⁹⁵ Ea.	$109 ⁰⁰ Ea.
10" 3 way system, 80 watt
Technics SB-X300	$179 ⁹⁵ Ea.	$139 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Brand new, digital ready, honeycomb drivers
JVC SK-S44	$249 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$149 ⁰⁰ Ea.
120 watt 12" 3 way
Bose 301 II	$199 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$157 ⁹⁵ Ea.
The best seller
Interaudio Alpha 3	$330 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$230 Ea.
150 watt 3 ways, overload protection
Technics SB-X700	$275 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$238 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Technics' latest
Infinity Studio Monitors	$430 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$259 ⁰⁰ Ea.
250 watt 3 way, polypropylene drivers, emit tweeter
Bose 501 III	$340 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$279 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Infinity RSIII A	$585 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$449 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Beautiful oak cabinets, 4 way system
Bose 901V	$700 ⁰⁰ Ea.	$595 ⁰⁰ Ea.
Ready for the music of tomorrow

Turntables

	Reg.	SALE
Pioneer PL-55 (Trade In)		$ 35 ⁰⁰
Akai AP-B110 (Trade In)		$ 40 ⁰⁰
Pioneer PL-A45D (Trade In)		$ 40 ⁰⁰
Akai AP-D210 (Demo)		$ 49 ⁰⁰
Hitachi HT-21	$ 99 ⁰⁰	$ 59 ⁰⁰
Hitachi HT-1	$109 ⁰⁰	$ 69 ⁰⁰
Semi automatic, low mass arm
Technics SL-B200	$129 ⁰⁰	$ 89 ⁰⁰
Semi auto with strobe light
Hitachi HT-45	$149 ⁰⁰	$ 99 ⁰⁰
Direct drive with low mass arm
Technics SL-B300	$149 ⁰⁰	$110 ⁰⁰
Fully automatic
Dual 505-52 (Demo)	$199 ⁰⁰	$119 ⁰⁰
With Ortofon cartridge
JVC LL-1	$219 ⁰⁰	$169 ⁰⁰
Fully automatic linear tracker with independent suspension
Hitachi HT-L55	$249 ⁰⁰	$179 ⁰⁰
Fully auto, direct drive linear
Sony PS-FL1	$250 ⁰⁰	$189 ⁰⁰
Remote capable table, fully auto, direct drive
Technics SL-6	$300 ⁰⁰	$239 ⁰⁰
Programmable linear tracker

Accessories

	Regular	SALE
Discwasher D4 System	$16 ⁹⁵	$ 9 ⁹⁵
Audio Technics AT-607	$ 4 ⁹⁵	$ 2 ⁹⁵
Stylus cleaner
Maxell UDXLII 90	$ 4 ⁹⁵	$ 2 ⁹⁹
CR02 cassette
Sony UCX-S90	$ 5 ⁹⁵	$ 3 ⁹⁵
High Bias cassette
Sony LNX90	$ 2 ⁴⁰	$ 1 ⁹⁹
Normal bias cassette
TDK SA 90	$ 4 ⁴⁵	$ 2 ⁹⁵
JVC HFIN Headphones	$29 ⁹⁵	$19 ⁹⁵
AT-9100 Microphones	$29 ⁹⁵	$18 ⁰⁰
Numark FLS-10 Headphones	$29 ⁰⁰	$19 ⁹⁵
Alsop 3	$ 9 ⁹⁵	$ 6 ⁹⁵

STEREO FACTORY

Trading Hours:

M-Th. 10a-8p

Fri. 10a-6p

Sat./Sun. Noon-5p

Approved Financing Available

Limited To Store Stock

1126 Moro in Aggieville

776-5507

We Take Trade-ins

$20 Holds Any Item

Freshman standout

Curtis Hughes makes football debut.
Sports, page 11

K-State Marching Band's new director, Stan Finck, gives instructions to a drum major during a recent practice.

K-State's new band director puts music before marches

By SUE SCHMITT
Arts and Entertainment Editor

In Stan Finck's band, music comes first.

Finck, the new director of the K-State Marching Band, said he believes marching is a tool to be used to enhance the music.

"I'm into music," Finck said. "I get very upset with people who are concerned with whether the band does corps-style or Big Ten-style marching (two popular marching styles)."

Although Finck favors corps-style marching, he plans to use both styles to fit the type of music the band is playing.

"We do what the music dictates," he said. "If we're playing a nice, smooth, sweet song then we'll use the low glide step."

"The band will not and should not be able to be labeled as corps-style or Big Ten."

Corps-style marching features a low gliding step while marching from goal line to goal line, and Big Ten-style marching involves a higher, snappier step while marching from sideline to sideline, Finck explained.

The marching band will not be like the bands of previous years under past directors Phil Hewett or Craig Biegler, Finck said.

"The band will be somewhere in between the band of two or three years ago and the band last year."

There is one major change — the band will no longer do the K-State spin. The K-State spin is a drill that has been used for several years in which K-State is spelled out. The word is compacted and the band spins it around on the field. The spin was dropped from the show because Finck said he doesn't believe it can be done properly.

"We will not do the K-State spin as it was. The band never could do it, it's just too sloppy, and why do something if it's not going to look good?"

Changes will also take place in the pre-game show, Finck said.

"The pre-game will have much more hype to fire up the crowd," he said.

In addition to playing the K-State Fight Song, Alma Mater, and the National Anthem, the band will also play the opposing team's fight song.

"We are also having a fanfare specially written for the band incorporating the fight song written by Jay Bocook," Finck said. "Jay Bocook is the number one marching band arranger in the country right now."

Although there aren't as many band members as Finck would like, he is optimistic about the season.

"Right now we have 160 members and we're getting more every day," he said. "I'm very pleased with how the band is progressing. The playing is very good. I think the audience will be pleased with our first show."

While the pre-game show will not change from game to game, the band will perform a new half time show every game.

Although the director is a vital part of the marching band, Finck said he believes his role is secondary to that of the band members.

"My approach to the band is that it is a student organization and the work is done mostly by the students," he said. "I provide the ideas and write the drills."

KCC delays utility rate hike, requests federal investigation

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Corporation Commission urged federal energy regulators on Monday to suspend a proposal by Kansas Gas and Electric Co. to raise its wholesale electric rates $4.2 million to recover some of the costs of building the Wolf Creek nuclear power plant.

The KCC, which regulates utilities in the state, asked the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to stop the proposed rate increase from taking effect for at least five months so a complete investigation can be made.

"It is necessary to invoke the suspension authority to assure a full review of this rate application that consumers are not disadvantaged by a hasty implementation of the commission's (FERC's) new CWIP (construction work in progress) rule," the KCC said in a petition.

The FERC regulates wholesale rates of utilities, and under a May ruling by the agency the costs of construction work in progress can be passed along to wholesale customers of utilities. The KCC has jurisdiction over the cost of retail power sales in Kansas, but by law generally cannot permit construction costs to be paid by ratepayers until a project is completed and providing service.

KG&E, which is one of three utility partners building the nearly $2.5 billion Wolf Creek plant, requested the wholesale rate increase in mid-July. The 14 percent boost in rates would apply to customers of 22 cities that buy their power wholesale from KG&E and 25 rural electric cooperatives served by the Kansas Electric Power Cooperative, KEP-Co., which buys part of its power from KG&E.

On Monday, the KCC filed a notice to intervene in KG&E's wholesale rate case and said the proposed increase would generate "substantially excessive revenues" and could cause "unjust and unreasonable" rates.

If the FERC approves the increase, it will be the first time any of the Wolf Creek construction costs have been passed along to Kansas customers. The plant, being built near Burlington in east-central Kansas, is scheduled to begin operation in May 1985.

The KCC said suspension of the rate increase for five months, the maximum time allowed under FERC rules, would not hurt the Wichita-based KG&E. In addition, the commission asserted that KG&E started Wolf Creek knowing construction work in progress was not available and therefore it should be capable of finishing the project without the financial assistance of CWIP under the new FERC rule.

"A failure to suspend these rates would be unfair to customers, however," the KCC argued. "It appears that the allocation of construction work in progress has been conducted in a disproportionate fashion. To allow these rates to go into effect without a thorough and full review... would be unfair to those customers disadvantaged by this allocation formula."

Among the cities buying electricity wholesale from KG&E are Augusta, Burlington, Coffeyville, Girard, Mulvane, Neodesha, Wellington, Winfield and Moran.

University presidents call for plan of 'checks and balances' in NCAA

By The Associated Press

KEYSTONE, Colo. — A group of university presidents seeking a bigger voice within the National Collegiate Athletic Association drafted a plan Monday to create a new policy-making body composed of 36 higher education chiefs.

The proposed Board of Presidents would rule on questions of academics, finances and ethics — functions currently belonging to the 46-member NCAA Council, which is made up mainly of presidents, other college administrators and faculty representatives.

Under the tentative plan, the NCAA Council would continue to operate. But a system of checks and balances would be established between the council and the Board of Presidents.

Presidents have sought more power within the NCAA partly because of recent reports of some college athletes who graduate with poor reading skills. Large television contracts, raising questions of professionalism for college athletes, are another worry.

"Our chief concern was to find a way to express more effectively within the NCAA the views and interests of university presidents on issues that are important to institutions, especially the issue of academics for athletes," said Derek Bok, president of Harvard University.

"I think everybody would agree there have been a number of problems and abuses in athletics — improper admissions, inadequate grading standards... We've simply tried to provide the mechanism to strengthen the responsibilities and authority of university presidents in these matters. Up to now, we don't feel we've had adequate channels in making contributions."

Bok is chairman of the American Council on Education's Committee on Division I Intercollegiate Athletics, a 27-member committee of college presidents that developed the governance proposal here Monday.

The same committee drafted the controversial Rule 48 passed by the NCAA last January. Rule 48 would require incoming athletes to have a minimum number of math, English and science courses and achieve minimum scores on standardized college entrance exams to be eligible for college athletics. Critics have charged the standardized tests discriminate against minority athletes.

On Tuesday, Bok's group will debate proposed modifications of Rule 48.

J.W. Peltason, president of the American Council on Education, said the Board of Presidents plan was deemed "worthy of consideration" during Monday's meeting, and the plan will be presented to other presidents "to see if they concur." Another meeting of the committee is set for Oct. 6 in Washington.

If there is a consensus, the proposal would be presented at the NCAA convention in January in Dallas. It would require approval by two-thirds of the 788 schools represented by the NCAA.

The NCAA had no comment on the proposal, but has favored more presidential involvement for years.

Inside

The busy, crowded college atmosphere is quite a change for many freshmen, and studies can get lost in the shuffle. But planning can help preclude the possibility of early failure. For some tips about time budgeting, see page six.

City mall project lacks funding; partial grant inadequate

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

(First of a series)

Manhattan took one step closer to its downtown redevelopment project this summer.

The city applied for $11.5 million through an Urban Development Action Grant to help fund the $55 million project but the application was rejected by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for various reasons.

HUD, which reviews applications every three months, approved $8.25 million of the grant for Manhattan in July — $3.25 million less than the city requested. The cuts recommended by HUD were all made in the developer's costs.

City commissioners met with Mel Roebuck, vice president of Forest City Enterprises (the mall developer) and decided the city could not afford to complete the project with an $8.25 million UDAG.

The commission then voted to have Forest City prepare cost estimates of the mall and present them to HUD again. Forest City is to have these figures prepared and ready to justify to HUD by Sept. 1.

Forest City's earlier estimates for the project had already been trimmed by $1.5 million when the business added J.C. Penney, Co. Inc. as an equal partner.

Gary Stith, downtown redevelopment coordinator, said Forest City is responding to HUD's recommendations by justifying expenses.

"We (city staff) will be meeting

Aug. 22 to begin discussion (on the cuts)," Stith said. "The developer will make a response to HUD by Sept. 1."

The initial response will be the justification, and then a negotiating process will begin, Stith said. HUD will make the final decisions about needed expenses.

"It's (the UDAG grant) going to have to be more than $8.25 (million)," Stith said. He said he does not believe the city will get $11.5 million.

Stith said rent of mall space could be raised, but "rent is also a factor of what the market will bear." He said rent in the mall could not be raised too high or there would be no tenants.

The next review period for the UDAG application is in October. The application is complete, except for the reductions, Stith said. If adequate UDAG funds are granted, completion of the project would take another three years.

The downtown redevelopment project involves more than most people think, according to Stith. "Most people just think of the mall," he said.

The entire project includes the mall, a southern arterial highway, a service commercial project, facade designs, streetscapes, landscapes and two office projects, Stith said.

The southern arterial is designed to improve access across south Manhattan and to keep highway traffic off residential streets and out of the downtown area.

For the arterial, highway K-18 would be routed around Fort Riley Boulevard, down El Paso Street and over the viaduct. To do this, the abandoned Rock Island railroad tracks would be taken out, Stith said. The Union Pacific Railroad yard would be relocated east of town and U.S. Highway 24 would connect to Tuttle Creek Boulevard with an access point to Leavenworth Street.

Johnson, Brickell, & Mulcahy, a local engineering firm, is working with the state on the southern arterial. Currently, the firm is developing preliminary designs and will have a final design after Jan. 1, 1984, Stith said. After the design is completed, the next step will be acquisition of right-of-way.

Another part of the project is a service commercial area in the 300 block of Colorado Street on both sides of the street.

The primary purpose of this commercial area will be relocation of businesses which will have to be moved as a result of downtown redevelopment, Stith said. The area will have 55,000 square feet of space for businesses.

Facade designs are created by the Manhattan Design Project for businesses in downtown and Aggieville.

"The Design Project provides conceptual designs and technical advice, but only for facades — not interiors," Stith said.

Several architecture and design students and faculty members volunteer and work at the Manhattan Design Project. Sue Yoakum, K-State graduate, has been coordinator of the Manhattan Design Project since May.

The project has also proposed designs for sidewalks, parking lots and a plaza at the intersection of Third Street and Poyntz Avenue. The plaza will have a sculpture, fountain, open space for community activities and an entrance.

Private investments of $32.25 million have been committed to finance the $55 million project. The remaining $22.5 million will be financed by public investments.

The public investments are broken up as follows: $5 million from tax increment financing, $19 million from the UDAG, $2.4 million from benefit districts, $2.6 million from revenue bonds and $3 million from federal highway funds.

Manhattan's 1968 Land-Use Plan indicated the city would keep the downtown as the regional shopping center for the area, according to Poyntz of Interest, a downtown redevelopment information bulletin published monthly.

The city has adhered closely to this decision over the years, rejecting three zoning change requests over the past 10 years by the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board for outlying shopping centers.

A Downtown Redevelopment Committee was formed four years ago to discuss redevelopment. The committee became the Downtown Redevelopment Advisory Board in Nov. 1979 to advise the City Commission about issues of redevelopment. Bernd Foerster, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, is the current chairman of DRAB.

The Planning Board adopted the Central Business District Land-Use Element to the general plan in 1980. The goals for downtown redevelopment outlined in the plan are 1) to improve the image and character of downtown Manhattan; 2) to enhance Manhattan's downtown as the focal point of the entire community and the region; and 3) to preserve Poyntz Avenue as the "Main Street" of Manhattan, in terms of both functional and symbolic importance.

(Tomorrow this series will focus on the Manhattan Design Project.)

Foreign official visits Fort Riley

By The Collegian Staff

Japan's Secretary of Defense Minister Kazuo Tanikawa, is scheduled to arrive at 10:30 a.m. today at Manhattan Municipal Airport.

Tanikawa, traveling with approximately 15 Japanese reporters, will visit Fort Riley today as part of his tour of several U.S. military bases to observe American soldier training.

Activities during Tanikawa's day-long stay at Fort Riley will include observation of simulated training exercises. He will also view a Multiple Launch Rocket System and a Multiple Integrated Laser Engagement System.

Donna Beach, Fort Riley media relations officer, said Fort Riley officials believe Tanikawa's visit will stress the realism of U.S. Army field training with an emphasis on individual soldier skills.

Photographer claims pictures show 'Nessie'

By The Associated Press

LONDON — American wildlife photographer Erik Beckjord on Monday released photographs of splashes in Loch Ness he says could have been made by the lake's fabled, elusive monster.

Copied from a three-minute-long videotape he shot of the Scottish lake on Aug. 6, the photographs show what appears to be splashes that grow into a V-shape.

"We think this might be two or more monsters surfacing and then diving, but it's impossible to make out a solid form that might be a creature's head or body," Beckjord said.

The tape shows what appear to be three shadowy objects moving away from the splash site, he said.

"We have no proof that this (sequence of splashes) are Nessies, but this is evidence of something intriguing and possibly alive in the loch," he said.

Beckjord, of Seattle, arrived in Britain a month ago to spend three weeks scanning the lake with a video camera that keep on filming for 240 straight hours.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in yesterday's Collegian that women's volleyball tryouts are scheduled for Thursday at 3 p.m.

Tryouts will be in Ahearn Field House Wednesday at 3 p.m. The tryouts will be open to all women who wish to be a member of the team.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FARRELL LIBRARY fall semester hours are Monday—Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Friday 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday 2 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The library will be closed Saturday, Sept. 3 and Sunday, Sept. 4 but will be open Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5 from 2 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Regular hours will resume Tuesday, Sept. 6.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THETA XI former sisters who are interested in being a little sister for the house again this year, please call Priscilla Thiele at 537-0743 before Friday afternoon.

TODAY

KSU RUGBY meets at 7:00 p.m. in Union 207 for an organizational meeting.

1983-84 SPURS meet at 5:45 in front of the Union parking lot.

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration for fall classes will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

GERMAN TABLE meets from noon to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1. Anyone interested in German conversation is welcome.

Baptist Campus Center 1801 Anderson
539-3051

FELLOWSHIP MEAL AND WORSHIP

5-7 P.M.-TUESDAYS
Dave Stewart-Campus Minister

COUPON

I NEED A HUG
Clip and cash in
when you're feeling low

No limit-No expiration

Health Insurance Costs Too High?

Call Wade Wentling for an alternate plan

Keating & Associates
225 Southwind Place

Dial 537-0366
or 539-7753

SUBS-n-SUCH located on Seth Childs Rd.

next to Rogers Tavern

5% off any sub with this coupon

Delicious subs include: Ham, Turkey •
Ham, Salami, Pepperoni • Turkey, Pastrami • and many more
—Featuring Foot Long Subs—

CONVENIENT STUDENT LOANS FOR YOU, FROM THE FIRST.

We know all about the financial burdens that come with getting a college education. That's why we're here to help you, with a student loan from The First.

Our helpful and friendly staff can answer all your questions and take care of the details. Plus, The First makes the whole thing as easy as a walk across campus.

Come on in and pick up your student loan application. It's another service for you, from The First.

1 First National Bank
Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations
• Main Office 537-0200 • Downtown Branch 537-0200
• East Side Branch 537-0200 • West Side Branch 537-0200
All Locations 537-0200 • Member FDIC

Tuesday is Ladies Nite

1 free drink
&
1 bar drinks

(all night, ladies!)

at

COWBOY PALACE

Where it don't make
no difference

209 Poyntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

Auntie Mae's Parlor

TONIGHT

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

$1.25 Moosehead
Heineken • Molson
Furstenburg
7 p.m.-Close

WEDNESDAY HIGH ROLLERS

616 N. 12th 539-9967

AUDITIONS FOR MUSIC DEPT. ENSEMBLES

1. Marching Band: See Mr. Stan Finck for audition time.
2. Jazz Band: auditions will be 6-10 p.m., Tues. evening, Aug. 23, Rm. 201, McCain Auditorium. Sign up for times outside of band office, Rm. 226, McCain.

3. Symphonic Band: (Wind Ensemble): Contact Mr. Al Cochran, Rm. 224, McCain for an audition time.
4. Orchestra: Contact Mr. Ralph Winkler, Rm. 113, McCain.

(For further information about any of these groups contact Al Cochran at 532-5740.)

ALL UNIVERSITY STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE
TO AUDITION AND ARE ENCOURAGED TO DO SO.

Closed Classes as of Today

00064	04100	06940	09160	09960	10360	13810	15590	20810	24360	26530	28290	32800	34570	36320
00360	04110	07160	08190	08970	10370	13820	15600	20820	24400	26560	28300	32810	34580	36330
00370	04270	07300	08200	08980	10380	13830	15610	20840	24420	26580	28310	32820	34590	36340
00400	04350	07310	08210	08990	10440	13840	15620	20850	24430	26590	28320	32830	34610	36350
00420	04360	07470	08260	09000	10450	13850	15740	21170	24500	26590	28330	32810	34620	36431
00450	04880	07480	08300	09020	10480	13860	15800	21180	24510	26650	28470	33270	34630	36440
00460	04910	07490	08310	09030	10610	13870	16170	21190	24530	26680	28480	33340	34640	36540
00480	04920	07540	08320	09040	10640	13880	16200	21200	24550	26690	28490	33360	34650	36570
00490	04930	07550	08360	09050	10760	13890	16440	21370	24560	26740	28500	33380	34660	36660
00900	04940	07560	08420	09060	10780	13960	16790	21440	24700	26810	28520	33540	34710	36900
00950	04970	07570	08430	09070	10790	14000	16800	21450	24740	26860	28530	33550	34730	36920
00960	04980	07580	08490	09080	10800	14020	17070	21460	24840	26870	28560	33730	34740	36940
01080	04990	07590	08580	09090	10810	14060	17310	21480	24860	26880	28580	33740	34750	36970
01100	05030	07600	08610	09120	10860	14090	17590	21500	24910	26890	28590	33750	34770	36980
01230	05040	07610	08620	09130	10950	14110	17640	21540	24920	26940	28600	33760	34800	37030
01580	05110	07630	08630	09140	10980	14190	17670	21590	24970	27030	28610	33790	34810	37060
01670	05120	07640	08640	09150	11050	14281	18210	21740	24980	27040	28620	33800	34820	37120
01910	05180	07650	08650	09190	11060	14310	18220	21860	25000	27210	28630	33810	34860	37470
01930	05210	07660	08660	09210	11070	14320	18240	21870	25010	27220	28640	33820	34900	37560
02090	05220	07680	08670	09260	11100	14330	18270	22070	25020	27370	28650	33840	34940	37580
02120	05250	07690	08680	09300	11200	14370	18300	22080	25120	27390	28660	33850	34950	37590
02130	05270	07700	08690	09400	11210	14400	18760	22170	25130	27400	28670	33870	34960	37640
02140	05340	07710	08700	09500	11250	14420	19290	22240	25170	27410	28680	33900	35140	38030
02150	05370	07720	08710	09530	11260	14430	19330	22280	25230	27420	28690	33910	35170	38050
02160	05390	07730	08720	09570	11280	14440	19350	22310	25240	27450	28700	33920	35180	38060
02230	05400	07740	08730	09710	11410	14480	19650	22410	25290	27500	28710	33930	35240	38090
02240	05490	07760	08740	09740	11440	14520	19800	22460	25330	27600	28720	33940	35250	38120
02250	05740	07770	08750	09760	11460	14530	19810	22460	25400	27620	28730	33950	35260	38130
02320	05790	07780	08760	09762	11470	14540	19840	23030	25490	27640	28740	33960	35270	38490
02490	06010	07790	08770	09763	11480	14570	19900	23040	25500	27650	28750	33970	35271	38510
02491	06020	07800	08780	09800	11490	14600	20040	23060	25510	27660	28760	33980	35280	38530
02510	06100	07810	08790	09810	11530	14610	20150	23100	25540	27670	28770	33990	35120	38540
02530	06110	07820	08800	09820	11540	14630	20170	23110	25620	27680	28780	34020	35130	38720
02620	06150	07830	08810	09830	11700	14670	20190	23120	25650	27690	28790	34030	35140	38740
02750	06160	07850	08820	09850	12040	14770	20200	23130	25640	27700	28800	34150	35170	38750
02760	06180	07870	08830	09880	12090	15020	20230	23450	25650	27720	28810	34160	35180	38780
02790	06210	07910	08840	09890	12520	15080	20250	23580	25660	27730	28820	34170	35190	38860
02840	06240	07920	08850	09900	12680	15090	20270	23590	25670	27740	28830	34180	35440	38870
03140	06270	07950	08860	09990	12690	15100	20280	23600	25680	27750	28840	34190	35500	38880
03210	06380	07960	08870	10040	12710	15120	20290	23610	25690	27800	28850	34200	35520	38990
03230	06450	07970	08880	10060	12750	15130	20310	23740	25690	27810	28860	34210	35540	39040
03240	06460	07980	08890	10100	12760	15140	20330	23750	25690	27820	28870	34220	35550	39080
03360	06470	08000	08900	10110	12750	15280	20340	23800	25690	27930	28880	34230	35560	39080
03510	06490	08010	08901	10160	13110	15310	20460	23810	25670	28000	28890	34240	35590	39100
03560	06570	08020	08902	10180	13370	15320	20550	23890	25680	28100	28900	34250	35600
03630	06570	08020	08902	10180	13240	15360	20570	23900	25680	28120	28910	34260	35610
03778	06840	08090	08920	10200	13290	15370	20580	24190	25680	28250	28920	34270	35620	36090
03940	06920	08100	08930	10250	13320	15390	20620	24210	25680	28260	28930	34280	35620	36120
04040	06930	08110	08940	10340	13380	15430	20630	24240	25680	28270	28940	34290	35630	36170
04090	06940	08150	08950	10350	13800	15440	20640	24250	25670	28280	28950	34300	35640	36180

Poster Sale

buy a regular price poster, get another of equal value or less for 1/2 price.
Sale ends Aug. 27.

STRECKER GALLERY 332 Poyntz
upstairs T-Sun 10-5

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291-020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6556. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

Editor: Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager: John McGrath

Friendship Tutoring Program

A voluntary
Community Program

U.S. school trains Salvadorans in Panama

By The Associated Press

FORT GULICK, Panama — Seasoned American hands are running hundreds of young Salvadoran soldiers through firing ranges, classrooms and jungle trails on Panama's Caribbean coast, training them in tactics designed to crack the back of El Salvador's insurgency.

The 37-year-old U.S. Army School of the Americas, tucked away on this rain-drenched little post beside the Panama Canal, is a little-known U.S. military foothold in the region.

But the School of the Americas has long been a key instrument of U.S. policy in the area, tightening professional ties between the U.S. military and Latin America's uniformed elite, and today its role grows with each new explosion of civil war in Central America.

In the past three years, the annual enrollment has more than tripled, to 2,441 students from 10 Latin American countries, almost half of them from El Salvador. The U.S. Army now wants to double the training staff.

Over the years, the school has graduated 42,557 soldiers of 22 countries, from courses ranging from squad-leader training to year-long general staff studies.

The alumni, many remembered in brassplate honor-roll plaques in the headquarters' marble foyer, have included platoons of future Latin American military strongman, among them Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri, the former Argentine junta chief who launched the Falklands war last year; Brig. Gen. Gustavo Alvarez Martinez, the Honduran military leader now readying his country for possible war with Nicaragua; the late Gen. Omar Torrijos and his two successors as commander of the Panamanian national guard, which controls this country; and hundreds of others who have filled the officer ranks in military-dominated countries from Guatemala to Chile.

The school commandant, Col. Nicholas A. Andreacchio, a crew-cut, back-slapping former tank commander, is sensitive to suggestions he is running a "school for dictators."

"In my experience, dictators and oppressors don't need any training," the 50-year-old colonel told a reporter.

"What needs to be nurtured are the democratic things," said Andreacchio, who is married to a Salvadoran. "And it seems that more and more in Latin America the military is giving power back to civilians... So I'll take the blame for the bad things if I can take credit for the good things, too."

Since he took charge a year ago, Andreacchio says, he has established an ethics course and extended the instruction of Geneva Convention rules to all students. Apparently some needed it.

"There was a recent case of a trainee who was asked what you do with a wounded prisoner, and who answered, 'Shoot him,'" the colonel said. "So they've got to be taught that, besides the moral responsibility, there's a professional responsibility — dead men give you no information, and if you start killing them, pretty soon there won't be anyone surrendering."

The mission of the school, which is housed in a dozen tropical-style buildings on this 1,843-acre installation, is to "train the leaders," spokesman Maj. John Taylor said.

Whether the school will exist after next year is officially uncertain.

The 1979 treaty turning the old Canal Zone over to Panama stipulates that Fort Gulick revert to Panama in October 1984. The Panamanians are expected to agree to allow the school to continue operating under U.S. Army control and with U.S. financing, but it still could become a contentious issue.

"That place is a death university," Erasto Reyes, leader of Panama's leftist Socialist Workers' Party, charged in a Panama City interview.

"It is a school for oppressive regimes. They teach them how to put down popular insurrections, to treat the people as the enemy."

The army says it could move the School of the Americas to the southern United States if necessary. But Andreacchio says the millions of dollars the school brings into the faltering local economy may be enough reason for the Panamanians to keep it here.

Instruction is entirely in Spanish, conducted by a permanent staff of about 70 U.S. Army men and 36 instructors from Latin American armies, including officers from two military regimes officially out of favor with the United States — Chile and Guatemala.

The United States pays all the bills — about $3 million this year in direct costs, plus $1.5 million that the students' governments return from their U.S. military assistance funds.

The Salvadorans have been streaming down to Fort Gulick for grounding in techniques of long-range patrolling that are supposed to give their army new momentum in its war against leftist guerrillas.

Most of the arrivals are NCOs, many of them 18- or 19-year-old veterans of four years of fighting.

Telltale bullet or shrapnel scars streak their bodies.

On one recent afternoon, two U.S. Army sergeants pushed a double column of 50 Salvadorans up a jungle road on a five-mile forced march. Some of the trainees, plodding along at a trot, appeared near collapse. Their camouflage-smeared faces glistened. The temperature verged on 100 degrees.

A 19-year-old Salvadoran sergeant who first saw action four years ago as a 15-year-old told a reporter the 14-week squad-leader course was invaluable.

"What we're getting here is what we needed — training on equipment, theory and practice," he said. "When we get back, our job will be to train the others."

Fighting intensifies in Lebanon; Druse threaten to close airport

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT — Christian and Druse militiamen clashed in heavy artillery and rocket battles Monday in the hills overlooking Beirut, and police said six civilians were killed and 21 wounded.

Shells exploded near the presidential palace and the residence of the U.S. ambassador, but caused no casualties or damage.

The Druse command threatened to close Beirut's airport again, charging that Lebanese army long-range guns around the facility had pounded Druse population centers in the central Lebanese mountains to back up the Christians.

The army denied any involvement in the seven-hour flare-up that sent shells and rockets crashing around President Amin Gemayel's palace and the neighboring residence of the American ambassador in the pine forests of Baabda and Yarze east of Beirut.

Police said there were no casualties or damage at the presidential palace or Ambassador Robert Dillon's mansion. An American spokesman said two shells exploded "pretty close" to Dillon's residence before dawn.

Gen. Franco Angioni, 51, commanding officer of Italy's contingent in Beirut's multinational peacekeeping force, told The Associated Press he and six Italian soldiers were lucky to escape with only slight injuries a barrage of four Soviet-made Grad rockets.

The rockets fired by a multiple launcher exploded about eight yards from Angioni's jeep at the Bourj El-Barajneh Palestinian refugee camp on Beirut's southern edge, he said.

The jeep's windows were blown off and the body was damaged, Angioni said by telephone. "I only received a little injury in the face, on the nose close to the eye. There was no need to go to hospital. We were lucky."

Six other Italian soldiers received minor injuries and none of the panicked population of the camp was hurt, Angioni added.

State recovers $700,000-plus in welfare fraud

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Nearly $719,000 in fraudulent overpayments to welfare recipients and medical care providers was recovered during the last fiscal year by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, it was announced Monday.

The collections during fiscal year 1983, which ended June 30, increased 19 percent to $718,598. The bulk of the overpayments were to Kansans who received money through the many welfare programs, Aid to Dependent Children, food stamps, general assistance and medical assistance.

The department had 2,556 cases of suspected recipient fraud, up about 16 percent from the previous fiscal year. A total of 215 of those cases were referred to prosecutors and 140 convictions were obtained. SRS filed 503 civil lawsuits and got 444 judgments against recipients. Some cases, both civil and criminal, are still pending.

SRS conducted investigations into 18 cases of alleged fraud by health care providers, including physicians, pharmacists, hospitals and nursing homes. Five cases were referred for prosecutions and two convictions have been obtained. The other three cases are still pending, according to Peter Rinn, administrator for fraud and recovery in SRS.

THE DONUT HOLE

- Fresh Donuts
- Dipped Ice Cream
- Fresh baked rolls and pastries
- Sandwiches on Homemade rolls—starting at $1.59

1101 Moro Mon.-Fri. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Sat. 6:30-11:00 p.m.

Computer Science Notice

Added classes for the fall semester:
CMPSC 340, 8961, MW 9:30, F202
CMPSC 460, 9001, TU 2:30-3:45 C202
CMPSC 200/207 8901/8902 Pascal CS Majors
M-F S201

There will be small increases in CMPSC 300, 305, 307, 405, 420, 561, and 580. Attend class and Instructor will add from waiting lists till new limits are reached.

If You've Been Waiting,
NOW is the Time
To Buy Your OSBORNE
Computer System.
Prices Have
Been Dropped
35%!!
at Bronco

System Includes: WordStar,
SuperCalc, MBasic, CBasic,
CP/M operating system.

Total price: $1295.00

BRONCO COMPUTER SYSTEMS

114 Poyntz Ave., Suite C
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
913-778-0745

118 W. Jefferson St.
Manhattan, Kansas 66506
913-778-3116

The Avalon
First Anniversary
Party

Wednesday-Thursday
WEDNESDAY
Ladies Only 7 p.m.-9 p.m.
All You Can Drink
$2.00 with
THE GLEE CLUB

1122 MORO UPSTAIRS 539-9703

Welcome Back Students!

Stop in and see our fine selection of jewelry

Duerfeldt's Jewelry

315 Poyntz

BACK-TO-SCHOOL SPECIAL

One piece phone $19.95

The Phone Connection

FREE Extension Cord
with purchase of phone.

NOT VALID WITH ANY OTHER SALE One coupon per visit

GOOD THRU AUGUST, 1983

414 Poyntz COUPON 776-4429

The Phone Connection

ONE $5 OFF NOT VALID
COUPON PER VISIT WITH ANY OTHER SALE

GOOD THRU AUGUST, 1983

414 Poyntz COUPON 776-4429

NOW OPEN at 414 Poyntz

We have a complete line of phones for all your needs

WELCOME
BACK
KSU

CHICKEN FLYING
WEEK

WELCOME
BACK
KSU

OPEN
11 AM
MON-SAT

A GREAT PLACE FOR LUNCH

at the Blue River Pub

6 miles north on Tuttle Creek Blvd.

(913) 537-9977

AUGUST WE WANT YOUR BUSINESS!

23	TUES	→ FREE REC	→ 9 PM
24	WED	→ DRINK & DROWN	GALS $4 GUYS $5
25	THURS	→ FISH	50 BOWLS 4-10
26	FRI	→ CHICKEN AUCTION	$2 COVER
27	SAT	→ CHICKEN FLYING CONTEST

Experience the Basics Be all you can be Army ROTC

Army ROTC Fall Schedule

COURSE	TITLE	CR	HR	SECT	TYPE	REF	No.	DAYS	HOURS
MSCI 100	Mountaineering	01	A	REC	17050	M			0230
		01	B	REC	17060	M			0330
		01	C	REC	17070	T			0330
		01	D	REC	17080	W			0830
MSCI 102	Basic Riflery	01	A	REC	17090	M			0830
		01	B	REC	17100	M			0930
		01	C	REC	17110	T			0830
		01	D	REC	17120	T			0930
		01	E	REC	17130	W			0830
		01	F	REC	17140	W			0930
		01	G	REC	17150	W			0230
		01	H	REC	17160	U			0830
MSCI 103	Orienteering	01	I	REC	17170	APPT
		01	A	REC	17180	T			0830
		01	B	REC	17190	T			0130
MSCI 200	Leadership & Leaders	01	C	REC	17200	W			0830
		01	A	REC	17210	M			0930
		01	B	REC	17220	T			0130
MSCI 201	Leadership Guidance	01	A	REC	17230	U			0830
		01	B	REC	17240	U			0130
MSCI 202	Map Reading	01	A	REC	17250	M			0930
		01	B	REC	17260	W			0930
MSCI 203	Care of Combat Casualty	01	A	REC	17270	M			0830
		01	B	REC	17280	T			0830
		01	C	REC	17290	T			0930

Defaulters get their due

The Reagan administration's move to withhold money from the paychecks of federal employees who have defaulted on student loans is a small step in the right direction.

In the years since the student loan program was begun, borrowers have defaulted on $3 billion in loans. Previously, the government has made little effort to recover the money. Now, however, government agencies can withhold up to 15 percent of the offender's net pay until the loan is paid off.

The biggest argument given by the National Association of Government Employees against this action is that "federal employees are being selected out and getting special scrutiny from the government." It's the same thing we hear whenever a law is passed that hits against a group of people — discrimination.

Even if the government was only going to apply pressure to collect from its own employees, they have the right to do so, considering the fact that the employees borrowed money from the government to get their education, neglected to pay back the loan after graduation, then expected the government, which they refused to pay back, to support them with jobs. It's a classic example of the dog biting the hand that feeds it.

The unfortunate side of the incident is that the amount owed by federal employees amounts to less than one-half of one percent of the $3 billion in defaults. If we're wondering what has happened to our federal financial aid dollars, we can thank the previous generations of students for this much of it.

Besides, claiming discrimination because of singling out the government employees for repayment is like claiming discrimination against the Highway Patrol for setting up a speed trap on Interstate 70 and leaving Highway 24 empty. The object isn't to allow people to speed on the highway but to catch whom they can on the interstate.

If the federal government starts cracking down on loan defaulters now, even if only within its own walls, maybe some of the other defaulters will see that the Education Department is serious about getting its money back and will pay back on their own.

Put money into Ahearn

Once again, the issue of the proposed basketball coliseum is raised, and once again we ask that the issue be reexamined. Do we need a new coliseum?

The project has turned out to be something of a white elephant. The fundraising efforts go on, as the KSU Foundation institutes the second phase of its three-phase campaign to raise $6 million. First they hit on K-State alumni and trustees across the state. Now they are appealing to the faculty and staff of the University to chip in. All the while, students continue to dish out the dollars, due to a steadily-increasing addition to the semester fees.

It is amazing what a paint job did for Ahearn Field House. It makes us wonder what the fieldhouse would look like if $2 million (the amount which has been raised by the Foundation thus far) was spent to improve it?

The Foundation has reported that Ahearn could be refurbished for $6 million, resulting in "reduced seating, more complicated scheduling and a sub-standard Big Eight facility." But we doubt that many students go to K-State basketball games to gaze around them at the beauty of the fieldhouse.

We need a fieldhouse which accents the enthusiasm of K-State fans. Ahearn does that better than any facility that could be built. And with college enrollment declining slightly, who's to say how many people will go to the games by 1990 when the coliseum would be finished (unless, of course, complications arise and delay the completion date).

Let's get this dream of a new coliseum out of our heads and concentrate on providing adequate research, laboratory and classroom facilities first. Basketball cannot change the world for the better the way well-educated students (who have access to good equipment throughout their college years) can. We should concentrate on education first. If we have $20 million left after that, we can build a new coliseum without suffering in any other area.

The Collegian editorial board: Paul Hanson, Editor; Brad Gillispie, Editorial Page Editor; Lucinda Ellison; Sandy Lang;

Sean Reilly; Becky Schoof; Alan Stolfus; Kecia Stolfus; Dee Anne Thomas; Rhonda Wessell.

Letters

University 'killed' Smith House

Editor,
I am writing to comment on your article of Monday, August 22, concerning the closing of Smith Cooperative House.

Several of the main points I tried to make in my interview with Miss Rottinghaus were omitted from the printed version of your article. First, the Department of Housing has done a very poor job of operating Smith since 1977 when the house was changed from a scholarship house to a cooperative house. Their mismanagement is responsible for the problems that existed.

Housing practically refused to promote Smith. I would wager that over half of the student body didn't know Smith existed until the Monday Collegian came out. Several residents have told me that they had to specifically ask about cooperative houses before they were told about Smith. When Smith was mentioned, it was considered a small dorm by the Housing Department. It's no wonder to me why Housing could not fill the house.

Housing also relied on dorm overflow to fill Smith. This is very much contrary to the way Smith was intended to operate. In fact, Dr. Putnam, when she donated funds for the house, listed ten specific points about how Smith was to be run. Housing has violated at least four of these. These changes have seriously undermined the character of the house.

When it became apparent that the University would not reopen Smith, a group of local alumni approached the Foundation about operating Smith independent of the University. The Foundation was agreeable, but the University went out of its way to make sure that didn't happen. Our alumni group has the management skill to make Smith work. The budget that was mentioned in the article was for our operation, not Housing's. We would not have had the overhead expenses that the Housing Department was charging off to Smith. The University didn't simply let Smith die. The University actively killed it.

To present all of the proof of my claims would require much more than the 300 words allowed in letters to the editor, but I would be happy to discuss my case again with one of your staff.

I can well understand why the University doesn't want to operate Smith. The Housing Department has demonstrated that it cannot or will not operate the house properly. I cannot understand why the University will go out of its way to make sure that no one else operates a scholarship house.

David Boyd
Extension Specialist,
Residential Energy

Animal testing (torture)

In August Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger halted an experiment which would have demonstrated the effect of a 9 mm Swedish Mauser rifle.

The subjects would have had their legs clipped, been anesthetized and then shot with the high-powered weapon.

Of course the victims were not humans, but lab animals, in this case, dogs.

The demonstration was not a very good public relations move on the army's part to say the least, but the halting of the experiment by the secretary did bring attention to a weak and poorly enforced law which is supposed to protect lab animals.

Feeling sorry for the dogs? Don't. Their death plan was far better than some lab animals experience.

Take for instance the 74 mallard ducks whose wings were broken to determine if crippled ducks could survive in the wild.

It doesn't take a college degree, or 74 ducks, to figure that one out.

Consider, too, the thousands of rabbits that are blinded by toxic chemicals so companies can market new types of cosmetics and perfumes.

In all, about 60 million animals are used in laboratory experiments each year. Nobody knows how many suffer fates far worse than these ducks and rabbits.

Alex Pacheco, a former lab assistant for a laboratory in Silver Spring, Md., tells horror stories of how primates used in the labs were starved and deprived of medical attention. He said there were many animals with open wounds, lacerations, deformed wrists, fingerless hands and broken bones.

DARCY WARD
Collegian Columnist

Billy, he said, one of the gentlest of all primates in the colony has only two fingers. He attempts to feed himself with his feet, or by bending over and eating directly off the floor. The animals are not fed in bowls, and their barren cages are not cleaned for weeks.

The saddest part, Pacheco said, was that in the four months he worked there, no one complained or even expressed sympathy for the animals.

Certainly one question arises. Isn't it better to experiment on animals than on humans?

The obvious answer is yes. According to Dominick Purpura, dean of the Stanford School of Medicine, almost all medical advances in the century result from knowledge gained through animal testing.

Millions of animals gave their lives so that we now have insulin, polio vaccine, and open-heart surgery. These animals died for important reasons, but anyone can make an educated guess on what a high-powered rifle will do to an animal. And is a new brand of makeup worth the lives of hundreds of rabbits?

Laboratory research is necessary. Animal torture is not.

Modern technology has provided us with many alternatives to live subjects. Computer models, tissue and cell cultures, simulated tissues and body fluids are just a few.

Remember too, that animals do not always react in the same way as people. Thalidomide and swine flu vaccine passed animal tests, but had tragic effects on humans.

It's unrealistic to think that all animal testing can be eliminated. But surely something can be done to stop the torture of helpless animals.

Unfortunately, like so many problems our legislators face, blind and thoughtless legislation is not the answer.

For instance, California is considering a law which would prohibit testing of impounded animals.

If the California law is passed it will simply force researchers to breed more lab animals. So those who are banning the use of pound animals, would in turn, be responsible for the additional thousands of animals who would never know the meaning of a normal life.

Federal legislation exists to protect lab animals. What is needed is enforcement of the laws. Our government spends millions of dollars each year in this country and in other countries in the name of "human rights." It is about time that some of the money is spent in the name of "humane rights."

Perhaps we should look at it in another perspective. What would happen if we were discovered by more intelligent creatures? Would they be justified or humane in experimenting on us?

Youths support Reagan

WASHINGTON — "It's remarkable," said Sen. Paul Laxalt (R-Nev.), Ronald Reagan's best friend in Congress. "It's a fascinating phenomenon," added Richard Wirthlin, the president's personal pollster.

What's the excitement about? Top Republican strategists, charged with mapping Ronald Reagan's re-election campaign, have discovered unprecedented support for the president in recent months among young Americans. Wirthlin conducted soundings recently to locate the fragments of the Reagan coalition and learned that Americans between the ages of 18 and 34 are much more enthusiastic about the 72-year-old Republican than they were in 1980.

Young voters, of course, have always been a weak spot for Reagan. In 1980 25-to-34-year-olds gave him 48 percent of their votes while 18-to-24-year-olds gave him only 46 percent (Reagan received 51 percent of the popular vote against Jimmy Carter).

More recently, exit polls conducted by NBC News after last November's congressional elections revealed that young Americans voted their concerns about the president's handling of the arms race, environmental protection and women's issues.

Yet Wirthlin's surveys, conducted as late as four weeks ago, indicate a massive change of heart. More than 50 percent of the 25-to-34-year-olds now back the president, up three points from 1980. Moreover 56 percent of the 18-to-24-year-olds now stand with Reagan, a boost of 11 points. It seems that the older he gets, the better he looks. In an interview, both Wirthlin and Laxalt said the turnaround, though surprising, was a natural product of economic recovery. As economic indicators continue to rise, younger voters whose chief concerns are starting careers and families will find fewer reasons to quibble with the incumbent.

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

A second factor may be that young voters continue to lack a good alternative. As long as Democratic contenders remain lackluster in style or substance, Reagan is sure to reap many votes by default.

Yet the key issue, Wirthlin and Laxalt admit, probably transcends an issue-by-issue analysis. Instead, Reagan's newfound support can better be traced to a respect that many young voters have discovered in themselves and the presidency. For many members of the baby-boom generation weaned in the less-than-proud shadows of Watergate and Vietnam, the Reagan era has brought a first ever period of patriotism, refreshing even to the most hard-boiled cynic. This naturally translates into personal pride and has undeniable political benefits.

"Our people in uniform tell me how much prouder they are to serve today," said Laxalt in an interview. "That certainly has to go through society ... as well."

Reagan also presents a formidable image that young voters realize has been sadly lacking in national leaders. Like it or not, he has been singly successful in managing Congress, building coalitions and disarming his detractors. He has, despite the many cat calls about a movie star president, restored a respect to his office and hence its constituents. Support for Reagan, then, is merely quid pro quo.

Said Wirthlin: "Younger voters trust him. They trust his strength of leadership."

The implications for the Democrats, of course, are painfully clear. Even if they emerge from the long primary season next summer without major party divisions, Democrats could find voters psychologically attached to Reagan.

Of course, the poll data hardly suggest that Reagan has a monopoly on the baby boom vote. Many in the age cohort staunchly oppose Reagan. Yet it is also true that many don't care, and if presidential elections are big tests of small margins, the few points Reagan appears to have garnered recently could make a big difference.

"IS IT GETTING HARDER FOR YOU TO GET THROUGH TO YOUR STUDENTS
DR. ROBERTSON?"

Tribunal's decision pending on registration of Maranatha

By The Collegian Staff

A decision is still pending on Maranatha Christian Assembly's appeal to charges that it violated three University Activities Board bylaws.

Tribunal, the seven-member judicial branch of the student government, debated the appeal in a closed hearing Monday.

UAB voted unanimously May 11 to deny the group registration as a campus organization for the 1983-84 academic year after a recommendation by the Student Organization Grievance Committee. The assembly is still considered a campus group, however, because the decision has been appealed.

The charges against Maranatha began March 25 when Bob Tedford, senior in agricultural engineering and former Maranatha member, filed a formal written complaint with UAB against Maranatha.

Maranatha, in its appeal to Student Government Services, has said "the punishment was unjustly harsh."

Maranatha was found guilty of lacking honesty in publicity, failing to file notice four weeks in advance of a fund-raiser, and conducting a survey on campus without UAB approval.

UAB reported that, "No evidence was provided that the survey was a research tool, but rather a way to gather names and addresses for future contact with the students," according to the June 6 issue of the Collegian.

The report cited lack of honesty in publicity for "Chariots of Fire" ticket sales, Greeks for God and a Rice Brooks "Change Your Life" seminar. The report also said "none of the advertisements for these events included the name of the sponsoring organization as is required (by the UAB bylaws)."

Chad president may ask French to reestablish freedom, integrity

By The Associated Press

N'DJAMENA, Chad — Chad's embattled government expects France to "go to war" and "give us all the military help necessary to restore the freedom and territorial integrity of our country," the government's information minister said Monday.

But when asked whether President Hissene Habre has asked for the French force of 3,000 troops and 12 combat planes to join in an offensive against Libyan-supported rebels, information minister Soumaila Mahamat replied:

"We have not asked for it so far because we are not ready yet. When we are ready, we will ask the French to stand beside us. We will ask France to come out into the open and ultimately to go to war beside our forces."

A French military spokesman again stressed that the mission of the French forces was to prevent any further Libyan advance and not to assist Habre's army to launch an offensive for the recapture of Faya-Largeau.

"There is no intention of changing this mission at present," he said.

Meanwhile, a diplomatic observer reported isolated patrol activity by Habre's army and the joint Libyan-rebel force in northern Chad "but no suggestion of a major offensive by either side."

The diplomat said the deployment of French ground and air forces apparently has halted any further Libyan advance southward. But he said there was no evidence it has "intimidated" Col. Moammar Khadafy, the Libyan leader, or that Habre, whom he described as a "quintessential activist," would remain passive much longer.

Western diplomatic sources said they had intelligence reports that the Libyans were sending more troops and heavy weapons, including field artillery and tanks, to Faya-Largeau, the key oasis 500 miles north of N'Djamena that the Libyans and ex-President

Goukouni Oueddei's men captured Aug. 10.

But the sources, who spoke on condition they not be named, said the Libyans apparently were not moving large numbers of troops out of Faya-Largeau for a confrontation with the French at their northernmost positions. These are at Salal, 235 miles southwest of Faya-Largeau, and Arada, 210 miles to the southeast.

Habre's troops hold one outpost farther north, Oum Chalouba, 50 miles north of Arada and 180 miles southeast of Faya-Largeau.

The French task force in Chad is backed by a reserve force of about 1,000 men and at least four more combat jets at Bouar, in the neighboring Central African Republic.

French President Francois Mitterrand is making efforts through diplomatic channels to prevent any more conflict and in particular to prevent any direct clash between French and Libyan forces.

Pat Nixon recovers from second stroke

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Former first lady Pat Nixon, who spent years recovering from a severe stroke in 1976, returned to her home in Saddle River, N.J., Monday after suffering a mild stroke that put her into the hospital for five days.

Mrs. Nixon's doctor said she was "recovering nicely," according to Nicholas Ruwe, assistant to former President Richard M. Nixon.

Mrs. Nixon, 71, is not slurring her speech, nor did the stroke result in any paralysis, Ruwe said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press in Washington.

It was different in 1976 when she and Nixon lived in San Clemente, Calif. That stroke left her with some paralysis for a time, and she had difficulty speaking. She recovered completely, Ruwe said, and appeared to be in good health.

Last year, Nixon spoke about his wife's health with Good Housekeeping Magazine.

"She doesn't quite have the stamina she used to have and she doesn't like to go on faraway trips," he said. "But other than a slight, almost unnoticeable problem with her left arm, she's fine."

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

TUESDAY
2 fers

7-10

619 N. Manhattan

Division of Continuing Education
Kansas State University

PRIVATE LESSONS

KSU DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC and Division of Continuing Education
Fall 1983

Private lessons in: piano, voice, guitar, saxophone, flute & strings.
FEES: $85 for the semester; 1 undergraduate KSU credit is available for an additional $29 (or at no cost for full-time enrolled students).

Enroll: Call 532-5566
or Umberger 317
Aug. 22-Sept. 9

BOX OFFICE STAFF NEEDED

McCain Auditorium is looking for students capable of selling lots of tickets and dealing with fascinating patrons. Applicants must be cheerful, enthusiastic, accurate, energetic and eager to talk about the performing arts. Work study eligibility preferred. Please call 532-6425 for an interview appointment. Duties start September 6th.

Alicia and Co.
for hair

Introduces:
LAMAUR

Apple Pectin

2805 Claflin
537-9825

KANSAS STATE SOCCER

Big Eight champs last year and we want it again! (And with returning players like these, why not?)

We're looking for experienced & willing players to join us. For information come to the soccer table in the Union Monday thru Wednesday (T-Shirts are being sold) or call John at 776-9090
SUPPORT KANSAS STATE SOCCER

K-State
PLAYERS

FALL AUDITIONS

McCain Auditorium, 7:00 p.m.

August 23—Tuesday

CALLBACKS: August 24—Wednesday

EQUUS—by Peter Shaffer, October 6, 7, 8 in McCain Auditorium

A LITTLE NIGHT MUSIC—music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, November 17, 18, 19 in McCain Auditorium

METUSELAH'S CHILDREN—written and directed by Jeannette James-Saxton, September 22, 23, 24 Purple Masque Production

All students interested in learning about K-State Players may also come to the Players 1st meeting: Room 209, K-State Union, August 25th.

Opera Auditions—August 31 & September 1; contact Dr. Langenkamp (532-3740), or Dr. Hernandez (532-6875).

SCHOOL OF THE
SUSAN WARDEN
DANCERS

"Manhattan's only professional dance company"

Classes in Ballet, Jazz, Modern, Tap and Exercise

For Children

Ballet
Creative Movement
Tap

Ballet

Teen I
Intermediate Adult

Other

Exercise
Modern/Jazz
Teen/Adult Tap

Parent-Child
Dance Workshop
Teen Jazz

Class sessions beginning August 29 and October 24.

For more information
210 Humboldt
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
(913) 539-6336

Total Haircare

Natural Sequence

Cleanse, Condition & Style

Roffler has the right products to match your hair condition.
Shampoo, Conditioner, Protector, and Natural Mist... each available for these specific hair types:

- Normal to oily hair
- Normal to dry hair
- Fine/limp or damaged hair

THE CUT YOU KEEP

537-8620

612 N. Manhattan
Behind Hardees—Aggieville

Visit your Roffler Salon today.

DON'T YOU DARE

DON'T YOU DARE even consider buying any home or car stereo equipment without checking first with the Sound Shop or Mobile Acoustics. Because we are having the REAL stereo sales in town.

1204 Moro
537-4708

Now Thru Sept. 3rd.

Mobile
Acoustics

3rd & Bluemont
537-3193

Surviving academically: prepare early

By CATHY KARLIN
Features Editor

So you came to K-State because of the warm, friendly atmosphere. Or because purple and white were your high school colors and you want to be able to wear those purple overalls at least one more year. Or maybe it was that mad, mass-mob mecca of malt-beverage lovers, Aggieville, that lured you to the "Little Apple."

Whatever the reasons, it is easy for freshmen to be so distracted by the bustling, unfamiliar college atmosphere that they lose sight of the real purpose of the University — education. Academically, too much time lost in the adjustment from high school to college can mean disaster for a new student.

"Study-wise, the problem we see most often is that the student waits too long to get down to business," said Mike Lynch, director of the Academic Assistance Center in Holton Hall. "High school is much more structured in terms of time allowed in class to do your homework. Here, they may only spend 16 or 17 hours a week in class. They don't realize that when they're not in class, they must have a fairly systematic procedure for studying courses. It's easy to let time gaps fill up with leisure activities."

To remedy the problems of time mismanagement, Lynch recommends that new students sit down and organize both a weekly and a semester schedule.

"The easiest thing to do is draw up a grid designating time of your academic day from Sunday to Saturday," Lynch said. Students should "block out" time for breakfast, lunch, class and work.

The leftover hours should be divided into study, leisure and recreation time, with study being given the highest priority, he said.

"Use substantial blocks of time for study hours, at least two or three hours at a time. Schedule in activities too, such as 10-minute breaks for each hour of studying. And schedule studying for what time of day is best for you, whether it be morning, afternoon or evening," Lynch advised.

To supplement the weekly schedule, a semester schedule should be made by referring to course syllabi. List dates of exams, term papers and finals in order to be able to schedule study time at least a week or 10 days in advance.

The amount or time for studying each course can vary greatly, Lynch added.

"The old advice that for every hour of class to spend two to three hours studying may even be a disservice to students. Some courses require very little outside preparation, and others need an immense amount," Lynch said.

Another problem many freshmen experience is learning to take lecture notes efficiently. Lynch counsels students to write down only the main points of the lecture and to put down key words or definitions in the margins. After class, the student should look over the notes and complete them.

"Most students close their notebooks and forget it until the exam, which is often three weeks away. In two or three weeks, they will forget 80 percent of the lecture," Lynch said.

For some freshmen, especially those from small high schools, often the sheer size of many of the required introductory courses can be intimidating. If students are having trouble in a course, they should seek help before receiving a low test score and risking lowering their grade point average.

"Don't wait until you fail the first test. If you're having trouble, don't panic, but start working. The first thing a student should do is to go see the instructor, especially in a large class. Unless the student goes to see the instructor he or she has no inkling of the student's problems until test grades. Most professors are much more willing to talk rather than give a D or F," he said.

"The number one impact on a student's performance is his motivational level," Lynch said. "A person can overcome almost any problem to graduate. It may mean they have to study twice as much as their friends or take five years instead of four. But if the commitment is not there, there is not a whole lot we can do."

World's Fair organizer declared bankrupt

By The Associated Press

KNOXVILLE — Jake Butcher, the politician and World's Fair organizer whose financial empire was linked to nine banks that had multimillion-dollar losses, was declared bankrupt Monday.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Clive Bare entered an order declaring the financier bankrupt under Chapter 7 of the federal code. The order means Butcher's assets will be sold to pay his debts, estimated at more than $15 million. It came six months after government regulators began dismantling the 27-bank empire of Butcher and his brother, C.H. Butcher Jr.

Bare declared C.H. Butcher Jr. bankrupt under Chapter 7 on July 15. Jake Butcher twice ran for governor of Tennessee and was the chief organizer of the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville. His United American Bank of Knoxville was declared insolvent Feb. 14 in the nation's third-largest commercial bank failure since 1933.

Since then, eight other Tennessee banks controlled by or linked to the Butcher brothers have been closed and sold by the government. The Butchers have sold or lost their other bank holdings.

Officials cited multimillion-dollar loan losses as the main reason for the bank failures. Many of those loans were to the Butchers, their friends and associates.

On June 29, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., First Peoples Bank of Washington County and American National Bank of Chattanooga sued to force Butcher into bankruptcy liquidation.

Penal director gets rebuttal time

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Gary Rayl, the deposed director of the Kansas State Penitentiary, on Monday was granted an extra week to fight what he called the "trumped up" charges which led to his ouster at just 18 months at the post.

Rayl, 46, was demoted Friday by Secretary of Corrections Michael Barbara, who reassigned him as director of two prison honor camps at El Dorado and Toronto. Rayl has vowed to fight the 18 charges of "willful disobedience" leveled against him and Barbara on Monday granted him a seven-day extension on the deadline for filing an appeal.

"He met with Secretary Barbara this morning in the secretary's office for about a half hour," said Chuck Simmons, chief attorney for the Department of Corrections. "The result of that meeting was the secretary extended to Aug. 29, next Monday, the time period for Rayl to respond to the letter concerning his transfer and demotion."

On Friday, Barbara relieved Rayl of his duties at Lansing because of a "deliberate refusal" to carry out an order. Rayl had been prison director since February 1982.

"The extension was granted by Secretary Barbara after Rayl indicated he did not have sufficient time to make a complete response to the issues involved," Simmons said. "So Secretary Barbara granted him an additional seven-day period to do that."

Simmons said Barbara and Rayl had a "very cordial meeting," and said Rayl showed "no anger or animosity at all."

Celebrate Life!

Help the

March of Dimes

Fight Birth Defects

Aggie STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR
Tuesday Nite Out! ...

99¢

Margaritas and Tonic Drinks

Tuesdays 7-12:00!

JOIN AGGIE STATION PLUS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

Hansen Nutrition Center

Food Supplements
Special Dietary Foods
Body Building Foods

Natural Foods
Appliances
Books

"Diet cures what diet causes"

HOURS
9:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Mon.-Sat.

3112 Anderson Ave. 537-4571

Meet your friends at

BUSHWACKER'S

• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Memberships Available at only $10 thru Aug. 31
531 N. Manhattan Office 539-9727 Bar

Tonight
BUSHWACKER BLASTER NITE
$1.25 all night
HAPPY HOUR: 4-9
2 fers on hi baalls
75¢ draws
$2 blended drinks

Kitchens Plus

Welcome to K-State Specials!!
COME WATCH US EXPAND!

Manhattan's Newest "Department" Store
Is Opening Soon

COFFEE BEANS
20% OFF

KRUPS HAIR DRYER
REG. $31.99
SALE $24.99

KRUPS PERSONAL FAN
REG. $25.99
SALE $19.99

BANDANAS
in 48 colors
$1.25

Open seven days weekly
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046

—The "Department" Store—

Specials expire 8/31/83

TONIGHT

THE OPINIONS

Ladies Free 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
PLUS 50¢ STEINS 1 p.m. to Midnight

WEDNESDAY
FOOLS FACE

Ladies Free 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
PLUS 1 FREE STEIN and $1 OFF PASS

1120 Moro
AGGIEVILLE
539-9064

office world

SAVE BIG
on your Staedtler/Mars
Technical Pen Set

Staedtler Marsmatic
Technical Pen Set
700 S4 (00,0,1,2)

RETAIL—$42.00
SPECIAL—$18.50

Office World
1130 Garden Way
across from Westloop
776-6864

Free Lead Holder
to the first 30
who purchase a set

CONCESSION MANAGERS WANTED

McCain Auditorium needs two go-getters who love to sell and arrange delicious desserts for sale at all performance events at McCain. Duties will include ordering, setting-up, clearing up and keeping an inventory of stock and food supplies. Work study preferred. Please call 532-6425 for a job interview. Work begins week of 9/1.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

Student Health Insurance

For information:

- Brochures available at Lafene Student Health Center and Student Government Services Office
- Company representatives available this week and Wednesdays.
- Underwritten by Transamerica Occidental Life.

WELCOME BACK KSU!!

Try Us Soon!

Limit 1 Pinata Coupon per person
Valid After August 28, 1983
Not Valid with any other promotion

$1.50 off Any Dinner

(except kiddie dinner)

1219 Bluemont

(Present coupon when ordering)

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11, Sun. 11-10
Bluemont and North Manhattan

539-3166

HELP!

Provides Service in Career, Wellness, Sexuality, Study Skills and General Information.

If interested in volunteering go to Holton rm. 2 for application or call 532-6442

U-Learn Needs Volunteers

Scandal rocks Pan Am games

By The Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — A doping scandal rocked the IX Pan American Games Monday as four weightlifters from Canada and Cuba, including a world-record holder, were stripped of their medals, and officials predicted that the consequences could reach the Olympic Games next summer.

Daniel Nunez, who set a world record of 303.6 pounds in the snatch event of the 132-pound class, his Cuban teammate, Alfredo Blanco, and Canadians Guy Greavette and Michael Viau were found to have used anabolic steroids — artificial hormones that build muscle bulk and strength.

Three other Latin American lifters, all non-medalists, also were found to have steroids in their systems, authorities said.

Nunez and Blanco, at 220 pounds, had won three gold medals apiece. Greavette had taken two golds and a silver in the 182-pound class, while Viau had a pair of bronze medals at 148 pounds.

It was the first time in the 32-year history of the Pan Am Games that athletes had lost medals because of drug use, and it once again took attention away from the competition in these Games, which began in confusion and have battled problems ranging from traffic jams to computer malfunctions.

The athletic schedule was relatively light as the games entered their last week and final practice was held for the start of track Tuesday.

The last five races were scheduled in swimming, with Americans taking the top qualifiers into four of them. The U.S. baseball team played Venezuela, and Pernel Whitaker of Norfolk, Va., and Jerry Page of Columbus, Ohio, hoped to join their nine U.S. teammates in the semi-finals of the boxing tournament.

The United States was far ahead in the medals race, and added to its count by winning the water polo gold. The Americans edged Cuba, 8-6, as Gary Figueroa of Salinas, Calif., scored three goals and Terry Schroeder of Santa Barbara, Calif., and John Svendsen of Pleasant Hills, Calif., added two apiece.

Carlos Vasquez Rana, president of the Pan American Sports organization, announced at a news conference that the four weightlifters had been punished.

He said the four lifters would have "no records, no medals," and that the Pan Am group was sending their test results — along with those of non-medalists Guillermo Lopez of Argentina, Jose Lozada of Puerto Rico and Caballero M. Dolcey of Colombia — to both their respective national Olympic committees and the International Weightlifting Federation.

A light raising

Staff/John Slezar

One of six 15-ton pole and light fixtures is raised into place at KSU Stadium in preparation for the first football game of the season against Long Beach State on Sept. 3, one of three night games this season. The lights will remain as a permanent addition to the Stadium.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

CANCER
CAN BE BEAT

Resume Service

Professional
Resume Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

Tonight
TACO, SANCHO
& NACHO BUFFET
5:30-7:30 p.m.

All you can Eat
Plus 25c draws

At the Ramada Inn
17th & Anderson

MR. K'S

Welcome To . . .

2 FER TUES!

• 2 Fer
Draws &
Pitchers
7-10:00

Lunch at Mr. K's 11:30 a.m.-8 p.m.!

The PATHFINDER

School Back Packs

by
Jan Sport • Kelly • Caribou •
Wilderness Experience
(Ask us about the lifetime warranty)

1111 Moro

Aggieville

539-5639

Hours: Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Thurs. til 8, Sat. til 5

Introducing
FOOTLIGHTS

Exercise &
Dance Wear

GRAND OPENING

Sales throughout the week
Aug. 22-27

Store hrs:
10:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.
Thurs. till 8:00

1110 Laramie 537-3106

Aggie
STATION

RESTAURANT & BAR

TACO
TUESDAY!

• TACOS FOR LUNCH
OR DINNER

• 99¢ MARGARITAS

(11:30 a.m. closing in Bar & Restaurant)

TOMORROW IS LASAGNA WED.!

Hibachi Hut

Clip this Coupon

and Save

1/2 Pound Belly Bomb with Cheese

Choice of
Fries or
Tater Tots $2.95

Offer Expires Aug. 25

Coupon not valid w/any other offers.

608 N. 12th

539-9906

THE ATTORNEY

404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222

Appointments

Closed Mon. Sat. 8-3 Tues.-Fri. 9-6

LONG NECK
NITE

TUESDAYS!

• All Long
Necks
Only 75¢!
(7 p.m. closing)

ROCKIN' K BAR

K

MOUNTAIN OYSTER FRY THURS.!

Pssst... Make a pit stop here & you'll go home with the best peaches (hurry, Cal.
O'Henry's are almost done!)
nectarines, plums, & grapes that you ever ate!

Also... Guaranteed Good
Homegrown Crimson Sweet Watermelons (always lots of ice cold ones!) Homegrown Cantaloupe & tomatoes, & gobs of other great stuff from near & far!

~ fast & friendly service ~
Eastside Market

just east of downtown on Hwy.
24 (Payntz Ave.) before K-Mart
Open every day from 9 to 7!

The Bar Where Sports Fans Play...

The Sports
Fan-attic

Laramie at 12th—Aggieville
Office: 539-0525; Bar 539-9849

Fred says,

"WELCOME,
SPORTS
FANS!"

Betcha didn't know... K-State's most consecutive victories in Conference Play was 8 (1934-35).

Betcha didn't know... The Sports Fan-attic has the area's best Live Entertainment—(See below)

MAGNUM	8/18, 19, 20	POWERGLIDE	10/13, 14, 15
ROCK	8/25, 26, 27	SNEAK PREVIEW	10/20, 21, 22
BLUBIRD	9/1, 2, 3	KIDD BAND	10/27, 28, 29
SCATBAND	9/8, 9, 10	ROCK	11/3, 4, 5
MYTH	9/15, 16, 17	BLUBIRD	11/10, 11, 12
JTN	9/22, 23, 24	JTN	11/17, 18, 19
CLIQUE	9/29, 30 & 10/1

Betcha didn't know... A video-taping service is available for your sports events. Cheap too. Call The Sports Fan-attic office 539-0525 and BE A STAR!

Betcha didn't know... The fewest fumbles lost by a KSU team for a season was 6 (1961).

Betcha didn't know... The Sports Fan-attic now reciprocating with clubs locally and throughout the state.

Betcha didn't know... Bud Light, Coors Light, Old Milwaukee Light are all on tap at... you guessed it... The Sports Fan-attic.

Betcha didn't know... The Sports Fan-attic has both a 21 Club and an 18 Bar in the same building!

Betcha didn't know... Grand Slam 4-fers are every Thursday at 8 p.m. and our regular pitcher prices are still $2.75!

COME IN AND PLAY... TODAY!

YOU CAN SELECT ALL OF YOUR OFFICIAL BOOKS & SUPPLIES at VARNEY'S BOOKSTORE

- Art Supplies • Architecture and Engineering Supplies • Notebooks • Spirals • Pencils • Pens • Report Covers • Typing Paper • Study Lamps • Textbooks • KSU Sportswear • Calculators • Paperbacks and Hardbacks • Greeting Cards • Bulletin Boards • Back Packs • Posters •

Don't forget to use the Varney's coupons that are in the coupon book you received during enrollment.

One coupon is worth $1.00 toward your textbooks purchase totaling $20.00 or more.

One coupon is worth $1.00 toward the purchase of your choice of either a T-shirt or Backpack.

One coupon is a registration blank for a free Texas Instruments 99/4 computer. Winner will be drawn at 2:00 p.m., Friday, Sept. 2nd.

AND

Varney's is giving coupons in the store good for a free admission to MRKS and 10% off any item (excluding bicycles) at THE PATHFINDER.

Again, Varney's in Aggieville is the place for you to buy your books, supplies and extra items for your enjoyment.

Varney's regular hours are 9:00 a.m.
to 9:00 p.m. Mon. thru Sat.
and 12:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday,
but for your convenience,
Varney's will open at 8:30 a.m.
until August 26th

Course Essentials (S)
Lecture Reinforcement (E)
Illustrations (F)

SAVE On U Textb

(Used Books Are Priced 25%)

Varney's with use

All Your P GUARA

Varney's guarantees that the book is the right one for your class. If your schedule changes and you take the wrong class, you can bring the book back for a full cash refund within* two weeks. All you need is the cash register receipt for the book. You must have the book in good condition. You must have the receipt for the refund.

*No refunds on Quiz-out manuals.

in Aggieville Since 1916

ly on ur xtbooks

(Study Framework)

(Exam Review)

(Future Reference)

E 25%

Used books

(25% Less Than New Books)

s is loaded ed books

Purchases ANTEED

the book you buy is the right one chedule changes or you enroll in bring the undamaged book back n* two weeks after classes start.
register receipt and the mer-the cash register receipt for a anuals.

Varney's

STORE

916 Phone 539-0511

SPECIALS

FOX FOLDING DRAFTING TABLE

(Shown with Parallel Rule
not included)

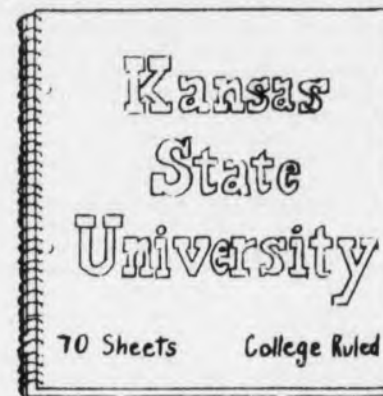

30" x 42" Top

This space saving table features a wide 32" base that folds flat to a storage depth of 4". This base is made of solid oak with natural finish. The top is a professional 3/4" thick solid wood reinforced with metal edge channel on two sides. The top adjusts to any working angle from 30° to 90°.

Compare at $120.00
Varney's Price Only $69.95

SPIRAL NOTEBOOK

70 Sheets College ruled Regular $1.15 each
Buy 4 for $3.50 Save $1.10 while supply lasts

FREE DRAWING

Texas Instruments 99/4 Computer
(our demonstrator)

Come in and register for our computer give away. No purchase is necessary and you don't have to be present at drawing to win. Lucky winner will be drawn at 2:00 p.m., Friday, September 2nd.

DRAWING BOARD and COVERING

23"x31" metal edged board Regular $22.85

23"x31" Deluxe board covering Regular $13.50

Buy Board and Covering together for $30.30

SAVE $6.05

All Calculators are at Discount Prices
at Varney's

- Hewlett-Packard
- Texas Instruments
- Sharp
- Casio

We also carry batteries, adapters
and paper for most calculators.

KOH-I-NOOR
RAPIDOGRAPH™

Special Offer!

Buy a 7-Pen Set for the price of a 4-Pen Set

The best of Rapidograph technology
in one distinctively new pen for all drafting and graphic arts
applications.

RAPIDOGRAPH® technical pen ... the best-selling
technical pen in America!

3165-SP-7

Regular List $78.50
Varney's Special $33.10
You save 58% or $45.40

A Koh-i-noor technician
will be in our store to assist you Tuesday,
August 23rd.

You can cash your Pell Grant (formerly Basic Grant) and Scholarship Checks at Varney's when you buy your books and supplies.

Professor identifies defects in herd of research cattle

By BILL DAVIS
Collegian Reporter

A cow with a horse's hoof, a young steer whose hind quarters collapse when it tries to run, and a bull with a cleft palate are part of a one-of-a-kind research herd observed by Horst Leipold, professor of pathology.

There are 40 animals with congenital defects in the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station research herd. At its peak, the herd had approximately 80 animals, but a funding crunch and a fire four years ago forced the College of Veterinary Medicine to reduce the herd, Leipold said. Replacements are beginning to increase.

Leipold is a veterinarian who specializes in teratology, the study of biological malformations.

He first became interested in the study of genetic defects in West Germany in 1961 — during the thalidomide scare. The drug thalidomide caused birth defects when it was given to pregnant women who had morning sickness. Leipold was a veterinarian at a German university and was asked by physicians if he had seen similar problems in cattle.

"The human side (of the problem) caught my attention," Leipold said. "They asked me if it showed up in animals and that's how I got started."

"You get the same range of defects in animals that you do in humans," said Stanley Dennis, head of the pathology department. "An important by-product of the University work in genetic diseases of cattle is the information of congenital defects."

"In these animals we've collected from producers' herds, something's gone wrong with nature's assembly line," Leipold said. "In the case of livestock, when you use artificial insemination, one bull can produce 300,000 offspring. If something goes wrong, you don't have recalls, you have lawsuits."

"Teratology will move into the spotlight as science conquers the other diseases of livestock," Leipold said. "Today, we know the cause of perhaps 20 percent of the defects. About five percent of them are clearly caused by environmental problems and 15 percent are genetic. The rest are unexplained."

"The major source of information on congenital abnormalities in the U.S. has been the concentrated effort at Kansas State University...its impact on the dairy industry has been profound," said the 75th anniversary issue of the Journal of Dairy Science.

Leipold developed the use of embryo transfer and performed a Caesarian section 60 days after the transfer for identification of sires with the recessive gene for mulefoot. Mulefoot occurs when the cattle's hooves are uncloven, which can cause lameness and result in feeding and breeding problems as well as increase deaths in hot weather.

It is the single most prevalent disease of cattle in the United States. Leipold's method is used by all breed associations to identify carriers.

Eighty-eight genetic defects have been discovered in cattle. Leipold has identified 12 of these, including: albinism, or coloration deficiencies; dermoid eye, or double eyelids; cleft lip, or abnormal muzzle development; and adactylia, or missing toes.

"There have been people before me from whom I draw some of my information," Leipold said. "F.W. Atkeson, head of dairy science from 1935 to 1958, was a particularly keen observer of abnormalities in dairy animals. He collected data on this type of thing for many years. I still have his old files."

Leipold's work is sponsored by the College of Veterinary Medicine and funded by the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station.

UCCS JEWELRY

BACK TO SCHOOL SAVINGS ON ALL FALL AND WINTER MERCHANDISE

Cords Dress Pants
Blouses Sweaters

PRICES REDUCED ON GLORIA VANDERBILTS SERGIO VALENTE JORDACHE

1207 Laramie Aggieville

State Farm Renters Insurance.

The rates are low, the service outstanding. Call me.

BRUCE L. ARNOLD
Agent
507 Leavenworth
776-3800

STATE FARM INSURANCE

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

State Farm Fire and Casualty Company
Home Offices: Bloomington, Illinois

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE

Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

K-STATE FLYING CLUB
LEARN TO FLY
INTRODUCTORY LESSON $15
GROUND SCHOOL INFORMATION

CLUB AIRCRAFT

Cessna 152	— $24.50/hour, VFR w/Intercom
Piper Warrior	— $37.00/hour, IFR w/GS & DME
Piper Arrow	— $41.00/hour, IFR w/GS
Cessna 182	— $49.00/hour, IFR
ATC 610J	— $ 5.00/hour, IFR Simulator

Membership available to KSU students, alumni, faculty, and staff. Hugh Irvin, 539-3128 or 532-6311, for information.

Speedwash

in Aggieville
1118 Moro

- Open 24 Hours
- Free parking behind building
- Newly remodeled

Sunday New York Times

Available each Sunday through the NY Times Co-op approx. $3 per week.

Call 539-5542 for details.

ADD SUM* FUN TO YOUR LIFE

The STUDENT USHERS of McCain* are once again recruiting active, energetic, upbeat students who like to help others have fun and who are lovers of the performing arts.

Do YOU fit this description? McCain NEEDS YOU to volunteer hours to usher at professional performances and at student productions. In return for your time we will give you free tickets to exciting events on the 1983-1984 McCain Performance Series.

Join us at an Orientation Meeting in the McCain Lobby on Tuesday, August 30 at 4:45 p.m. FOR FUN JOIN SUM*.

Attention Student Bodies!
1/3 off for students!

Student I.D.... gets you an additional 1/3 off Magic Mirror's already low prices. * Convenient Terms... choose your method of payment from several convenient options. Visa & Mastercard gladly accepted.

For Women Only... you'll enjoy personalized service and the most modern facilities available. Vacation Time Honored... you'll pay only for the time school is in session.

* I.D. must be current and validated.

Magic Mirror FIGURE SALON

Call Now For Your FREE Figure Analysis
1106 Waters 539-1993

CASIO NOW OFFERS STUDENT AID.

We at Casio figured you could use a little help this semester (not to mention a few extra bucks). So we're offering a $5 rebate on our FX-98 and FX-910 solar powered scientific calculators, which regularly sell for $29.95.

The FX-910 is a wallet sized unit with 48 scientific functions. The FX-98 is credit card size with 42 scientific functions.

Both feature an 8 digit mantissa with 2 digit exponent.

Both feature fractional calculations (a function not found on many comparable units). So now you can work with fractions without having to convert to decimals.

And since both units incorporate a powerful solar cell that can operate in very low light, they'll not only save you time and energy, they'll save you from ever having to buy batteries.

The FX-98 and FX-910 also come with a free application manual, "Strategies for Scientific Calculating," which will save you work by showing you shortcuts for using your calculator.

So if you think you could use a little student aid this semester, take advantage of our $5 rebate offer. And bring a Casio to class.

CASIO
Where miracles never cease

$5 ---CASIO $5.00 Rebate Certificate--- $5
VALID AUGUST 15—OCTOBER 15, 1983

Here's how to get your $5.00 rebate:
Purchase one or more of either an FX-910 or FX-98 Solar Scientific Calculator and send us for each calculator purchased.

- Both box flap ends which indicate the model number of product purchased
- The ORIGINAL dated sales receipt indicating purchase was made between August 15 and October 15, 1983
- The warranty card
- This properly completed coupon

BE SURE YOU INCLUDE ITEMS 1 THROUGH 4 FOR EACH CALCULATOR PURCHASED.

Mail all of the above items to: Casio Scientific Rebate Program Box 1353 Unionville, CT 06085

Name _____ Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

This coupon and all necessary material must be postmarked no later than midnight October 30, 1983. Models other than those listed are not eligible for rebate. All proofs of purchase become the property of CASIO and none will be returned. Requests mailed to any other address will experience processing delays. Void where prohibited, taxed or restricted by law. Promotion not open to dealers or retailers. This order form may not be reproduced in any shape or form. Offer good in U.S.A. through participating retailers only. Please allow 6-8 weeks for rebate.

Freshman Hughes excites football coaches

By SEAN REILLY
Sports Editor

Curtis Hughes is described by K-State coaches as one of the biggest freshman ever to report for football in recent history.

Standing 6-foot-2 and weighing approximately 280 pounds, Hughes, from Wynadotte High School in Kansas City, Kan., has created excitement among coaches.

"Phenomenal!" Russ Riederer, strength coach for the football team, said. "He benched 440 pounds when he first reported. Curtis has the potential to be one of the strongest freshman in the nation."

Riederer said Hughes, with his current attitude, may reach that goal.

"After practice Curtis will come in and work out in the weight room. That says a lot for someone who is going through two-a-days (two practices a day), then to come in and work out with weights.

"Curtis' dedication is so great that I have to kick him out of the weight room when it is time to close up."

Riederer is pleased not only with what Curtis can do personally, but also how he lends inspiration to others.

"Curtis is the top dog, and when he seeks to achieve an even better performance out of himself, he encourages others. That makes my job easier," Riederer said.

Currently, Dickey has Hughes on the depth chart at number two, playing behind All-American candidate Reggie Singletary.

Hughes' talents have not gone unnoticed by others. He was listed as a prep All-American by Parade Magazine and by Playboy magazine as one of the few newcomers to watch in the Big Eight.

Sporting magazines have barely mentioned positive points concerning K-State's team. However, Hughes' name frequently appears as an upcoming talent to watch.

Asked about all the notoriety he has received and expectations of him, Hughes is almost reluctant to speak.

"I take it as it comes. Actually it is no big deal," Hughes said. "I just want to keep on living as I have been."

That may be difficult for Hughes. Although immediate results are not expected, eventually people would like to see Hughes in a starting role.

Hughes quickly pointed out that, yes, he is Singletary's backup, but that does not bother him. As a result, no animosity exists between the two. In fact, Singletary will instruct Hughes about mistakes he makes.

"After I come off the field from practice, Reggie will pull me aside and tell me that I was not lining up right, or that I was not putting enough effort out," Hughes said.

Hughes even attributes his quick success on the practice field and recognition to Singletary. He said he believes that, if it were not for Singletary, things may have been different.

Although Singletary may be giving Hughes advice now, in high school Hughes' success was more easily obtained. This is evident in the fact that schools in the Big Eight, Big 10 and Pac 10 all sent recruits trying to lure Hughes to their program.

Recalling the recruiting hassle, Hughes told of one incident when a recruiter called his mother's house at 1:30 a.m.

"My mother became upset when the late-night call occurred."

Even though Hughes' mother was upset, he was never pressured by family members concerning where he should attend school.

"My family never told me where I should attend school. Instead, my high school coach and I would sit down and evaluate each school, determining what was good and what was bad about each place," Hughes said.

His final selection was between the University of Iowa and K-State.

"I selected K-State because of its location (closer to Kansas City) and the people I knew coming up here and the campus."

"When I told Coach Dickey I had selected K-State over Iowa he nearly jumped through the ceiling."

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Curtis Hughes, 6'2", 280 lb. freshman recruit, talks with assistant coach Mo Latimore during a pre-season work out.

FOR GROUP FUN
PLAN A PARTY
AT THE PUTT PUTT

FLYING LESSONS
AIRCRAFT RENTAL
PILOT SERVICES

free ground instruction
flexible scheduling
reasonable rates

J. Van Swaay

537-0132

STUDENT MEMBERSHIP

- Unlimited Court Usage
- $25 initiation fee (one time)
- $100 per semester
- sauna
- glassed-in jacuzzi
- 1 squash court
- 2 indoor racquetball courts

- 3 indoor tennis courts
- 3 outdoor tennis courts
- free court usage for members
- weight room

(REFER TO MANHATTAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—COUPON BOOKLET)

Cottonwood
Club
Fun and Fitness for All Seasons
3615 Clifton Road 776-9999

We are 8/10 of a mile west of Westloop Pizza Hut on Clifton summer repertory theatre

'83

A Coupla WHITE CHICKS Sitting Around Talking—by John Ford Noonan

ENCORE
SMASH SENSATION OF SRT
AUG. 26-27
7:00 & 9:30

PURPLE MASQUE THEATRE

$3.50 Gen. Pub. $2.50 Students

Tickets at the door

Presented by K-State Players and Dept. of Speech

See your Jostens' representative for a complete selection of rings and details of Jostens' Creative Financing Plans.

DATE: Mon-Fri August 22-26, 1983

TIME: 9am-4pm.

PLACE: k-state union bookstore 0302

Jostens' college rings offered daily at your bookstore

• REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE •

CARPET SALE

REMNANTS
NEWLY RESTOCKED

DORM ROOMS, BATH ROOMS, BEDROOMS, AREA RUGS, LIVING AND DINING ROOMS, BOATS, PORCHES, ETC. ALL SIZES, TYPES AND COLORS AT SPECIAL REMNANT PRICES.

OVER 100 TO CHOOSE FROM

WALLPAPER SALE
ON OUR MOST POPULAR BOOKS
SAVE 15% TO 35%

ROLL STOCK ON SALE
OVER 30 DIFFERENT STYLES & COLORS ON SALE
★ RARE TOUCH, AMSO IV NYLON (REG. $15.40) SALE $12.99
★ ARMSTRONG ROYAL RAPTURE (REG. $16.99) SALE $14.50
★ BARN BURNER NYLON SCULPTURE (REG. $12.99) SALE $9.49 PLUS MANY MORE

NO-WAX VINYL SALE ARMSTRONG, CONGOLEUM, TARKETT, SALE PRICED FROM $4.99 SQ. YD.

OUTDOOR TURF SALE PORCHES, PATIOS, BOATS, CARS, ETC. SALE $3.99 AND UP

1/2 PRICE SAMPLE SALE PIECE TOGETHER FOR AREA RUGS • 18" x 27" SALE 50¢ 12" x 18" 25¢

BRYANT CARPET AND HOME DECORATING CENTER
MANHATTAN

OPEN: Mon. — Fri. 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-4 776-4367

SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT

Intramural registration, competition to begin soon

By JUDI WRIGHT
Asst. Sports Editor

Students having the opportunity to participate in "organized, competitive leagues" is how Steve Martini, assistant director of recreational services, defines K-State intramurals program.

According to Martini, each semester is divided into two sports seasons. The first sports season during the fall semester includes flag football, kickball, soccer and individual sports. The deadline to enter these sports is Thursday at 5 p.m.

The second sports season of the fall semester offers such sports as volleyball, wrestling, cross country and more individual sports. These sports won't begin until later in October.

Scheduling of team sports is based on a first come, first serve priority system.

Martini stated that he works with "instant scheduling," which is having a schedule prepared a month in advance — ready when an intramural manager submits an entry form and pays the fee.

The manager is entitled to look at the "menu sheet," as Martini calls the schedule, and pick a time slot best suited for the players on the team.

"The advantage of this," Martini said, "is that you get to pick your own playing time — if you get in early enough."

The Rec Complex provides courts for basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, handball and racquetball as well as a running track and fitness rooms — completed in October of 1980. Since then, the program has added an outside park course and running trails.

"With the rec complex, the students at K-State have a unique opportunity to participate in a lot of intramurals," Martini added.

"The students put in their word concerning the building of the complex," Martini added. "They voted for the bond that is financing the complex."

The cost of the rec complex was $3.5 million and each student pays $12 toward the retiring of this bond with each semester's tuition.

Although the interest in intramurals at K-State has somewhat decreased, Martini said the program has still grown since it was once housed in Ahearn Field House.

However, decreased participation in intramurals is not a reflection on the interest of students, Martini emphasized. "It's just because there is more things to do on an individual level."

"When we were in Ahearn, we had to share the facilities with the athletic teams, and if you weren't part of intramurals, you just didn't have a place to play," he said.

FULL GOSPEL Study of the Bible

Sponsored by the Manhattan Foursquare Church

Starting Aug. 23

Every Tuesday Evening

7:30

PLACE: 1428 McCain

TELEPHONE: 537-0256

2 Blocks East of the corner of Manhattan & Claflin

The Only Bank in Aggieville!

THE STUDENTS' BANK

Choosing a bank is easy, consider these facts.

1. Our Aggieville bank

Kansas State Bank is the only bank with a branch in Aggieville, meaning convenience for the college student, and our Westloop Shopping Center main bank location just adds to that convenience. Convenience means longer business hours at Kansas State Bank. We have the longest business hours in Manhattan, open until 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

2. Our ZIP automatic teller system in the Union

Kansas State Bank issues you a Zip Card at no charge with your checking or savings account. Your Zip Card allows you to make withdrawals, deposits and you can check the balance in your account night and day. Your Zip Card can be used at the Zip machines located in the Student Union on campus, in Aggieville, in Westloop, and the newest Zip machine downtown at 6th and Humboldt.

3. Our student loan department

Kansas State Bank was the first bank to have a full-time student loan department. And even now we have more experience with guaranteed student loans than all other banking institutions in Manhattan combined.

KS Bank

Kansas State Bank

MAIN BANK—1010 WESTLOOP

537-4400

AGGIEVILLE BANK—11TH & BLUEMONT

537-4434

MEMBER FDIC

KANSAS STATE FOOTBALL '83

Student season tickets on sale now.

At the Central Ticket Office

in Ahearn Fieldhouse 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

$24 for 6 great games.

It's the game and a lot more!

YOU are the "U" in the K-State Union

Regular semester hours:

Monday—Thursday 8:00 am - 8:00 pm

Friday 8:00 am - 5:00 pm

Saturday 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

(On night home football games we will be open until 7:00 pm)

Save! Save! Save! on our supply of many used textbooks.

Check out our large stock of non-textbooks. Thousands of titles in both hardback and paperback.

See us for all your required supply needs.

Check out our everyday low prices!

Refund and Exchange Policy for Textbooks and General Merchandise

Please verify with your instructor that you have purchased the correct books for your classes. If you find that you have inadvertently selected a book which is not appropriate, you may bring it back to the bookstore for exchange or refund subject to the following policy.

1. Save your cash register receipt. No refunds or exchanges can be allowed without presentation of a valid cash register receipt.
2. Refunds or exchanges made on or before the second Friday of classes will be made with no penalty to the purchaser (except for item three below). Thereafter a partial refund or exchange will be made according to the following schedule.

	Regular Semester	Summer Session
On or before the first Friday of classes	100%	100%
On or before the second Friday of classes	100%	75%
On or before the third Friday of classes	90%	50%
On or before the fourth Friday of classes	70%	no refund
On or before the fifth Friday of classes	50%	no refund
On or before the sixth Friday of classes	50%	no refund
After the sixth Friday of classes	no refund	no refund

3. Books which were purchased new must be returned in absolutely new condition. Books which have been marked or damaged in any way are subject to a 25% return or exchange penalty.
4. Defective merchandise is returnable at any reasonable time.
5. The above applies to books designated for classes. All other books must be returned within three weekdays of date of purchase.
6. All non-text items must be returned within 3 days to receive a refund. A valid cash register receipt must accompany the return.
7. Special orders, magazines, sundry items and used merchandise may not be returned for a refund. (Defective Merchandise may be returned for credit within a reasonable time.)

k-state union
bookstore 0302

Check these specials at the bookstore!!

☒ NIJI Mechanical Pencil .5m regular $1.98, during month of August only 98¢. (limited supply)

☒ 200 sheet ct. college or narrow ruled filler paper $2.00 value only $1.55. (while supply lasts)

☒ Buy 3—70 sheet ct. college ruled notebooks for only $2.50. (limited supply)

☒ 1 and 2 inch special 3-ring vinyl binders regular price $3.75 for only $1.85 (while supply lasts)

☒ 200 sheet ct. Engineering Paper was $4.30 now everyday low price of $3.45.

☒ Papermate "Value Pack" pen promotion, when you buy 1 extra-fine pen at 79¢ receive 2 medium point pens FREE. (limited supply)

☒ 10% off all calculators during first week of class. (limited quantities, no special orders, please)

☒ FREE I.D. holder to the first 10,000 customers.

☒ Check out Josten's Class Ring Special during the first week of classes.

☒ Koh-I-Noor—7 pen set special regular price $78.50 our price $33.00. (while supply lasts)

☒ Check out our everyday low prices of Zipatone lettering.

☒ Look for discount coupons in the "K-State Union Overall" and the "Programmer."

Reagan unsure of island visit; spokesman claims he will go

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — President Reagan said Monday that he had yet to decide whether to pay a November visit to the Philippines in light of the weekend assassination of an opposition leader to the government of Ferdinand Marcos. But Reagan's chief spokesman later declared the president "knows he's going to the Philippines...The trip is on."

While leaving a doctor's office after a hearing checkup, the president was asked directly by reporters whether he still would make the Philippines a stop on his scheduled tour of Asia. He replied: "I have not had any opportunity to talk with or know the details of this with the State Department, but I'm sure we'll be making a decision on that soon."

That appeared to leave more room for doubt on the issue than statements made earlier by deputy press secretary Larry Speakes and a State Department spokesman, Alan Romberg, who had said Reagan's travel plans remained unchanged.

And once Reagan's own remark was reported, Speakes entered a press room at Century Plaza Hotel and angrily accused reporters of misrepresenting Reagan's intentions. "The president of the United States is thinking he is going to the Philippines. He knows he's going to the Philippines, and anything beyond that...would be purely speculative."

"The trip is on," said Speakes. "That's all there is. There is no decision not to go. The decision is to go. There has been no cause to change that."

Speakes said both he and White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III had talked with the president after Reagan's brief session with reporters. And Speakes said his statement at the Century Plaza represented Reagan's thinking.

Polish workers in Gdansk strike on eve of shutdown

By The Associated Press

GDANSK, Poland — About 300 Solidarity supporters demonstrated in Gdansk on Monday, the eve of a threatened work slowdown to mark the third anniversary of the agreement that created the now-outlawed union.

They waited in vain, however, for Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa, who had announced Aug. 15 that he would appear Monday outside the Lenin Shipyard. But he canceled his plans at the last minute.

"I canceled everything, because I knew if I didn't I would be in jail for at least a month from today," Walesa told reporters after leaving work at the shipyard and driving to visit the Rev. Henryk Jankowski, the shipyard priest.

Walesa said his action would not affect the work slowdown, scheduled to begin Tuesday unless Communist authorities initiate negotiations with Walesa on reviving free trade unions. The authorities have refused to negotiate.

The job action was called by a clandestine group of Solidarity members at the shipyard.

A crowd of up to 300 people gathered at a Solidarity monument outside the shipyard gate Monday to wait for Walesa, singing the national anthem and flashing the "V" for victory sign that has become a Solidarity symbol.

Many demonstrators laid flowers at the three soaring steel crosses erected in December 1980 to honor scores of shipyard workers slain in a 1970 clash with police.

No uniformed police were in sight, and authorities made no move to interfere. The crowd was peaceful, and the demonstration ended without incident after about 30 minutes.

Communist authorities last week ordered swift prosecution of anyone caught attending unsanctioned gatherings, ignoring a police order to disperse, posting illegal posters, or using places of worship for political demonstrations.

Let's get together
with the Wildcats on a road trip
to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th

Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations by Sept. 11

Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

Administration official quits after calling job 'a sham'

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Barbara Honegger, the Justice Department official who said President Reagan broke his promise to end discrimination against women in federal laws and regulations, quit today, a department spokesman said.

Spokesman Linda McCann said Honegger submitted her resignation in a letter to Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, who heads the department's Civil Rights Division.

The department declined to make a copy of the letter available and Honegger could not be reached immediately for comment.

McCann said Honegger's job was only temporary and was due to end Sept. 30. McCann said Honegger began her job in March 1982.

Earlier, Honegger said Reagan "doesn't deserve loyalty."

In an article published Sunday in The Washington Post, Honegger said the project she heads to identify discriminatory federal laws and regulations is a "sham" because her reports have been ignored by the White House.

Support the  March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

* Polley FLORIST 539-7643 *
* HAS RELOCATED *
* 1132 Garden Way *
* Across from Westloop—one block *
* west of Anderson Avenue stoplight *
* FLOWERS FOR EVERY OCCASION *

★ BACK-TO-SCHOOL
BIKE SALE!
BASSETTS BIKE SHOP
(Downtown)
217 Poyntz 537-8832
For the best in Sales
& Service

- NEW
- USED
- PARTS
- ACCESSORIES
- REPAIR

NISHIKI BICYCLES 20% off
FREE $20 worth of accessories
with NEW bike purchase*
* Nishiki Bikes not included in this offer.

★ CENTURION — NISHIKI — KHS — TAKARA — DIAMOND BACK ★

Lee's Western Wear:
BACK-TO-SCHOOL
JEAN SALE!
ENDS AUGUST 27th

LEVI-LEE-WRANGLER
517's—505's—501's
JEANS Reg. $20.00 $16.88
38 Lengths—Reg. 22.00—18.88
40 Lengths—Reg. 23.00—20.88

STRAW HATS
SHORT SLEEVE 1/2 Off SHIRTS

LEVI CORDUROY
Reg. 23.00 18.88

All long sleeve 1/3 off
SHIRTS reg. price

OPEN THURSDAY EVENING TILL 8:30
LEE'S WESTERN WEAR
With plenty of free parking and Quality Merchandise
Next to Manhattan Commission Co. Manhattan, Ks.
Phone 913/776-6715 Monday through Saturday 9:00 to 5:30 Thursday 9:00 to 8:30

$1.00 CAN BRING OUT THE MASTER IN YOU

Just $1.00 buys you four tubes (22cc size) of Bocour Paints... up to a $10.00 value. It's K-State Union Bookstore's way of introducing Bocour fine paints like Bellini Oils and Aquatec Acrylics. So Come buy these fine paints and let the master in you come out.

*color selection may vary, while supply last.

CLOSE, CONVENIENT, & COMING SOON: THE FIRST'S NEW UNIVERSITY BANK.

First National Bank is introducing a new banking facility built with you in mind—our new University Bank.

With a convenient location on the corner of Denison and Claflin, we've made banking as quick and easy as a walk to class.

The University Bank will be open for business in October. This exciting new bank will have 24-hour automatic tellers, full-service banking, and our helpful staff ready to serve your student needs.

Let our University Bank be your bank. You'll be glad we're here.

OPEN YOUR ACCOUNT NOW
AND LET US TREAT YOU
TO A FREE WHOPPER.

The First would like to give you a free Whopper from Burger King. All you need to do is come on in and open your account with us, Manhattan's most convenient bank.

Offer expires September 30, 1983.

1 First National Bank
Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations

Manhattan, Ks. 66502 • 3005 Vermont Ave. • 3005 Vermont Ave. • 3005 Vermont Ave. • 3005 Vermont Ave.

All Locations 537-0200 Member FDIC

Classified

As part of the investigation, of-

Lane's comments followed a news story Monday in the Chicago Tribune that said about 60 million pounds of government-stored butter in seven states had been impounded in the investigation.

Deadline is noon the day before publication
Friday for Monday's paper.

personnel and supervise part-time staff members important. Submit resume/vita, letter of application, transcripts, names and phone numbers of references to Earl Nolting, Center for Student Development, Holton Hall 102, Kansas State University, 532-6432 by 5:00 p.m., August 25, 1993. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (1/3)

WAITERS AND Waitresses, servers and cashiers, cook's assistants and dishwashers. We offer student pay, also, job training and a supportive environment. Call for details.

OFF YOUR Rocker Antiques has all types of furniture and accessories to make your room or apartment unique. 1930s telephones ready to

By Doug Yearout

By Mich. Johnson

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

By Eugene Sheffer

	47
	50
	53

P

KH' FNK

XCP YK

HAUNTED AVE

ALS.

: Ceguals U.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — THE HAUNTED AVENUES IN VENICE ARE CALLED ERIE CANALS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: C equals U blocks from college. 539-2703 (2-4) ditioning, stereo, excellent condition, like new 37,000 miles. Negotiable Call 776-01 evenings. (2-7)

532-6600

21-WANTED
FEMALE ROCK-n-Roll band needing bass lead guitars. Call Kristi Nelson at 726-2386

REC REPORT

Flag Football Clinic

Thursday, August 25 6:30
Sunday, August 28 6:30
Monday, August 29 6:30

WANTED: FLAG FOOTBALL & SOCCER OFFICIALS

MANDATORY ATTENDANCE AT ALL THREE CLINICS.

All Clinics will be held in the Dance/Combatives Room, 2nd floor of the Rec Complex.
Starting Pay—$3.35/hr—more for experienced and certified officials.

For further information and signup: contact Kenny or Steve at the Recreational Services Offices in the Rec Complex, or call 532-6980.

Soccer Clinics

Wednesday, August 31 6:30
Thursday, September 1 6:30

Do you need a motivation to begin or continue an aerobic exercise program? In LIFELINE participants set a goal and attain points by running, swimming, bicycling, playing racquetball, or participating in other aerobic activities. T-shirts and certificates will be awarded to those reaching their goal.

Deadline for entry is Friday, August 26.

LIFELINE Challenges for the coming semester are:

September:	Bicycling Challenge	250 Miles
October:	Running Challenge	60 Miles
November:	Swimming Challenge	15 Miles

Entry deadline for each Challenge is the first week day of the month. Entry forms will be available approximately two weeks before the deadline. Sign up for the Bicycling Challenge now!

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS' MEETING

Wednesday, Aug. 24
4:00 p.m.
Forum Hall,
K-State Union

Flag Football, Soccer, Kickball & Rec Services programs will be discussed.
INTRAMURAL MANAGERS MUST ATTEND.

WHEN'S THE TRIATHLON THIS YEAR?

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10,
9:00 A.M.

AT RIVER POND STATE PARK

sponsored by
Kansas State University Recreational Services
Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department
PICK UP ENTRY MATERIALS at the
KSU Rec Complex or at
Manhattan's Rec Office within City Park

Intramural Deadline

AUGUST 25 at 5:00 p.m.

Flag Football
Soccer
Kickball
Singles: 3-wall Handball
3-wall Racquetball
Tennis
Badminton
Horseshoes
1-on-1 Basketball
Doubles Volleyball

New at the Rec Complex!

Come work out on the equipment in the new Fitness Room at the Rec Complex! Omnikinetic exercise equipment and computerized exercycles have been added to the Multipurpose Room on the Upper Floor.

BEGINNER'S "BE FIT" PROGRAM

Monday and Wednesday
with Linda Verschelden 6:45-7:45 a.m.

The major emphasis of this program will be on the aerobic benefits of walking. In addition to walking, learn how to tone up muscles using the new Hydra-Fitness equipment and Lifecycles.

AEROBICS AND FITNESS

Monday, Wednesday, Friday
with Kim Curtis Noon-12:50 p.m.

Don't simply exercise "to" music—exercise WITH the music. Burn calories to these well-choreographed routines which incorporate specific exercises rather than dance steps.

JANE FONDA WORKOUT

Monday, Wednesday, Thursday 4:30-5:30 p.m.
with Jeane Warren

This session will be primarily floor work with attention directed to specific muscle groups. A strenuous workout; these exercises will tone up thighs, hips, abdominals, etc.

JAZZ-EXERCISE

Tuesday, Thursday 5:30-6:30 p.m.
with Linda Verschelden

A fairly intense work-out combining toning exercises with floor work (running and jumping) which has been set to music.

AEROBICS AND FITNESS

Monday, Wednesday 5:30-6:30 p.m.
with Kim Curtis
(see description above)

ALL SESSIONS ARE HELD
IN THE REC COMPLEX
AND BEGIN ON WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24

ACTIVITIES

AUGUST

CALENDAR

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
	C O D E S RC Rec Complex P Pools WB Washburn Outdoor Rental Center	23 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	24 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-12:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm IM MANAGERS' MEETING 4:00 p.m. Exercise Sessions begin	25 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm IM DEADLINE SEE * BELOW 5:00 p.m.	26 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	27 RC 10am-10pm P 1-5pm 7-10pm WB 11am-noon
28 RC 6am-11pm P 1-5pm 7-10pm WB 4-6pm	29 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-12:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	30 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm IM FLAG FOOTBALL BEGINS	31 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-12:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	IM DEADLINE SEE * ABOVE Flag Football; Soccer; Kickball; Singles: 3-wall Handball, 3-wall Racquet- ball, Tennis, Badminton, Horseshoes; 1-on-1 Basket- ball; and Doubles Volleyball	Phone Numbers Rec Check . . 532-6000 HB/RB Reservations & Checkout . 532-6951 Washburn Outdoor Rental Center . . 532-5694 Rec Services Office . . 532-6980

Returning leaders

Rosas and Carroll lead cross country team into the season.
Sports, page 11

The "Ultimate"

Batting down the Frisbee from an opposing player, Jay Jeter, left, junior in bakery science, practices "Ultimate" Frisbee Tuesday at the Washburn Recreational Complex fields. The Frisbee team was preparing for the first K-State-sponsored Ultimate Frisbee Tournament Aug. 27 and 28. Teams from several states will be represented at the tournament.

Staff/John Sleezer

Residence halls still unfilled; fee increase not major factor

By LEE WHITE
Collegian Reporter

Approximately 260 spaces in University residence halls remain unfilled, but a housing official said Tuesday he doesn't think a $40 jump in hall fees was a major factor in the decline of the number of students living in the 10 halls.

Tom Frith, director of housing, said about 4,150 students are living in the halls, which have a capacity of 4,410.

Frith said occupancy at the beginning of fall semester 1982 was about 101 percent, but that figure dropped to about 97 percent and remained there the rest of the year.

"I don't think the increase in cost has caused occupancy to go down," Frith said. "It's still less expensive to get a residence hall than housing off campus."

Residence hall fees last year were $870 a semester and increased to $910 this year. Room and board are included in the fees.

In a press conference Tuesday, Duane Acker, University president, said the recession in the state's economy, the recent drought and decreased farm sales have probably caused some Kansas students to delay their schooling. He said many are choosing to attend school closer to home, and this is one factor in decreased enrollment and occupancy of campus housing.

Fewer out-of-state students are choosing to attend K-State, which also is contributing to lower occupancy of campus housing, Acker said. However, this is balanced by the fact that more Kansas students are choosing to attend state schools to save money, he said.

Occupancy in residence halls may be lower, but the number of apartments occupied at Jardine Terrace — housing for married students — is higher.

Don Roof, assistant director of family housing, said Jardine has been full almost every year except last year, when the occupancy rate hovered near 93 percent.

"This year it looks like it's going to be full," Roof said.

Costs for living in Jardine and Evans Apartments, a graduate student facility, rose this year. It costs $6 a month more than last year for a one-bedroom apartment and $7 more for a two-bedroom apartment in both facilities.

Jardine has 569 apartments, 192 of which are one-bedroom. Evans has 20 apartments, including 15 with one bedroom.

The number of students living in greek chapter houses has also increased.

Barb Robel, director of Greek Affairs, said 1,271 men and 662 women lived in Greek houses last year, compared with about 1,350 men and 850 women this year.

Robel said 441 men pledged fraternities last year compared with 438 this year. The number of women pledging sororities jumped this year from 358 to 392, she said. Space restrictions do not allow women pledges to live in greek houses, although fraternity pledges can live in the house.

"I think it's just an attractive living option in the sense that it's a small group and an involved group with lots of leadership experience," Robel said.

Cost for living in a greek house is about $2,000 a year, including room, board and dues. "I think (students) are going to look at costs," Robel said. "I don't think it's a prohibiting factor when they find it's comparable with the residence halls."

Parking spaces will be available at residence halls this year, Frith said, although they may not be as close to the hall as the student desires.

Availability of off-campus parking varies by location. Frith said owners of some older apartment complexes were shielded by grandfather laws when the city mandated off-street parking at apartments. Most newer apartments, however, have off-street parking, he said.

At Jardine, parking is no problem until football games are played at KSU Stadium, Roof said. The "temporary problem" is solved by using barricades to prevent public parking on game days, Roof said.

Robel said parking near greek houses is not a problem except in the Fairchild Avenue and Fairchild Terrace area where some older houses are located. She said that if the city restricted parking near those houses, it would be "moving the problem down the street."

Polish shipyard slowdown 'failure,' management spokesman declares

By The Associated Press

GDANSK, Poland — A slowdown called Tuesday at the Lenin Shipyards by underground Solidarity leaders apparently failed.

"Work is going very well; we have no complaints," said Stanislaw Czernielewski, a spokesman for the managers of the 17,000-worker Baltic shipyard where the independent labor union was born.

"We are using even more power than on an average Tuesday,"

Only four out of 38 workers interviewed by Western reporters after the day shift said they had slowed their work pace.

"Work was normal today. I didn't notice anything," was the typical response.

One worker said he had been on a slowdown since martial law was declared on Dec. 13, 1981.

The underground union committee at the yard called the slowdown in an attempt to pressure the government into opening talks with Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa on his demands for revival of independent unions.

Walesa, an electrician at the shipyard, reported for work as usual and told reporters, "I have to do what everybody does." But when he came out in the afternoon, he refused to say whether he had taken part in the slowdown. Instead he handed out a statement denying a government allegation that he initiated the action.

Defense advocate resigns; diminishes Senate foothold

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In a chamber that runs on the oil of political gentility, the only Senate club that concerned John Tower was the one he carried over his shoulder. As chairman of the Armed Services Committee, he used it to ram through President Reagan's defense buildup without mercy.

Now, suddenly, the Texas Republican is stepping down, privately telling friends and associates he is too "tired" and "bored" to run for re-election next year. Reagan thus will lose his Pentagon point man in Congress, and wishes it weren't so.

But Tower's decision, announced formally in Austin, Texas, on Tuesday, may well reflect Republican fears that the Senate will turn Democratic again in the 1984 election. Coupled with questions about his own prospects in Texas, it may be a matter of jumping before getting pushed.

Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee has also decided to quit the Senate next year, and there are hints that at least one other senior Republican may not run again.

There are currently 54 Senate Republicans and 46 Democrats. With a handful of GOP mavericks, the balance of power is even thinner than that.

Whether or not the Senate changes hands, Tower's departure as the second most senior Republican in the chamber itself marks a major loss for the GOP power structure, and could lead to a major realignment of committee assignments.

According to White House spokesman Larry Speakes, Tower personally informed Reagan of his plans about 10 days ago.

"The president respects his decision, but regrets it," said Speakes.

As a military hawk long before Reagan's election, Tower has been a staunch advocate of nuclear superiority over the Soviet Union. As chairman of the Armed Services Committee, he has exercised broad influence over the nation's national security policies since 1980, when Republicans won control of the Senate.

Last month, Tower held off Senate liberals seeking to kill the MX intercontinental nuclear missile, but only after a lengthy, bitter battle marked by a personal attack on the floor.

After the 1980 election, there was some speculation that Tower might become Reagan's secretary of defense.

During his 22 years in the Senate, Tower's fights have known no party bounds. One noteworthy shouting match came in 1981 with Assistant Republican Leader Ted Stevens of Alaska, over defense spending priorities.

KCC begins rate increase hearings

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Corporation Commission opened hearings Tuesday on a $5.9 million rate increase requested by Midwest Energy, which if approved would add about $7.50 to monthly bills of its residential customers.

Midwest Energy of Hays, serves about 28,000 customers in 22 counties in northwest and central Kansas.

Jack Goodman, the company's president and general manager, testified first for the company and during a sharp questioning session acknowledged that the higher rates were needed primarily to cover the utility's debt of nearly $72 million — much of which was accumulated when the company was formed.

The utility was established in 1981 with the merger of the Central Kansas Electric Cooperative and Central Kansas Power, a stockholder-owned utility.

That merger was the source of some heated remarks during opening statements by attorneys in the rate hearing.

Lee Turner, a Great Bend attorney representing several area industries, urged the KCC to deny an increase for Midwest Energy. He called the merger a product of "incompetent management and incompetent decision-making."

Until this rate case, the two companies which formed Midwest Energy were operated as separate divisions. But Midwest is proposing to consolidate the two divisions for ratemaking purposes and equalize their charges.

Another aspect of Midwest's rate case also under fire is the proposal to raise the rates of its industrial customers more than residential.

Staff/Jeff Taylor

David Bevens, senior in journalism and mass communications, was one of thousands of students attempting to go through drop/add Tuesday in the basement of Farrell Library.

By the Collegian Staff

A new enrollment policy and penalty for failure to pre-enroll last spring have resulted in unusually long drop/add lines at Farrell Library this semester.

Don Foster, University registrar, said a new enrollment policy implemented last spring requires students to pre-enroll for the next semester's classes or enroll late the next semester and go through drop/add.

In a press conference Tuesday, Duane Acker, University president, said students who attended K-State last spring but did not pre-enroll for fall classes were not allowed to enroll or register until Monday. Students who pre-enrolled registered Thursday and Friday.

Foster said approximately 900 students are enrolling late and going through drop/add trying to obtain their desired schedules. These late students — in addition to other students who need to adjust their schedules — are creating the long waiting lines, Foster said.

"I think the best way to do it is to enroll and drop/add through your individual adviser's office," Bruce Parsa, junior in pre-med. Parsa had to add a class to his schedule.

Stacey Cook, senior in accounting, pre-enrolled last spring, but returned to campus too late to register, so her schedule was automatically dropped by the University. To enroll again, she had to go through drop/add. She said she waited 1½ hours in line.

Chris Temple, senior in marketing, said he had no trouble changing his schedule this semester.

"So far this has been the best semester for going through drop/add," Temple said. "I don't know if this is because my classes are those that are usually not filled or because they have got the system running smoother."

Acker selects professor to lead coliseum drive

By the Collegian Staff

C. Clyde Jones, professor of management, was named as head of fund raising for the proposed Coliseum by University President Duane Acker Tuesday at a press conference.

"I am really pleased to be a part of this project," Jones said. "This is a project that is long overdue."

He declined to give a monetary goal the University will aim for during the fund-raising drive, and said setting a goal at this time would be premature.

"We want to generate all possible support we can within the University community," Jones said.

He said early fall will be spent organizing the campaign, establishing leadership and developing fund-raising strategies. Faculty and staff will then be one of the first groups approached to contribute to the project, he said.

Acker said Jones has been a member of the faculty for 23 years. Jones has previously served as chairman of the K-State Athletic Council and as faculty representative to the Big Eight Conference and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The new director of the K-State Marching Band, Stan Finck, also was introduced at the conference. Finck said a new drum major, Jim Sharp, junior in music education, has joined the two other drum majors, Steve Funk, senior in music, and Julie Compton, sophomore in industrial engineering.

President Acker

Finck also said a new dance and pom squad, The Wildcat Dancers, will entertain sports fans this year along with the Pridettes. He said the eight dancers were chosen from the 32 Pridettes and will serve as cheerleaders for the women's basketball team as well as perform dance routines.

Other topics covered at the conference included the success of enrollment, the new policy requiring continuing students who failed to pre-enroll last spring to wait until Monday to enroll and register, and the reconstruction of Nichols Hall.

Senate to meet Thursday

Approvals of Jody Hackerott as assistant coordinator of the FONE, Laurie McCauley as associate coordinator of U-Learn, the expanded University Learning Network, and Dianne Urban as student attorney are expected to take place at the first fall meeting of Student Senate.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Union Big Eight Room.

Senate will also hear the first reading of a bill which would make revisions in regulations governing the handing out of literature and posting material on campus.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FARRELL LIBRARY fall semester hours are Monday-Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Friday 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sunday 2 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The library will be closed Saturday, Sept. 3 and Sunday, Sept. 4 but will be open Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5 from 2 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Regular hours will resume Tuesday, Sept. 6.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THETA XI. All former sisters who are interested in being a little sister for the house again this year, please call Priscilla Thiele at 537-0743 by Friday afternoon.

TODAY

KSU PRIDETTES TRYOUTS will be from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Vet Med Building 201.

THURSDAY

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD meets at 3:30 p.m. in Union 204.

K-STATE PLAYERS meet at 5 p.m. in Union 209. Everyone is welcome.

COMPLEX IMPROVISATIONAL THEATRE will conduct interviews for new comedians at 7 p.m. in East Stadium 106.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST will present Prime Time at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

KSU RIFLE CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. at Military Science.

MEChA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 204 to prepare a calendar of events for the year.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE MALTESE CROSS meet at 7 p.m. at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

STUDENT FOUNDATION PACESETTERS COMMITTEE meets at 7:30 p.m. at the Union Information Desk.

AGRICULTURE SENIORS meet at 4 p.m. in Throckmorton 132 for the placement meeting. All seniors should attend.

ALL MAJORS in the College of Business Administration meet for placement orientation from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Forum Hall.

COMPUTER SCIENCE and Information Systems meet for placement orientation from 4 to 4:50 p.m. in Eisenhower 15.

the PATHFINDER

We'd like to introduce you to windsurfing!

Lessons available

1111 Moro Aggieville 539-5639

MANHATTAN'S BEST MUSIC 24 HOURS A DAY

Let's get together

with the Wildcats on a road trip to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th

Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations by Sept. 11
Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

2 FOR 1 SALE
August 15-September 3

Look into fashion at b & l Optical's 2 for 1 Sale! We have the lenses you need and the frames you want!
Pay full price on a pair of high fashion glasses and get a single pair of single vision glasses for free!

• Oleg Cassini
• Anthony Martin
• Jordaiche

• Zsa Zsa Gabor
• Arnold Palmer
• Mary McFadden

Some boutique frames not included

b & l OPTICAL STUDIO
1210 MORO • 537-1574
Mon. Fri. 9:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE
Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

THE JEAN STATION

Come see us . . .
We're bigger than before . . .
And we have savings to equal our new size . . .

Gals: Zena Jeans $5.00 Off
Lee Dress Blues $24.88
Levi Calif. Sts. $22.88
Calvin Klein & Sasson $29.88

Guys: Buy any shirt and get a 2nd (of = value or less) for

1/2 Price!!

"We're more than just a jean store"

MON.-SAT. 10-6 Aggieville THURS. 10-8:30

Closed Classes as of Today.
12008	14500	17820	21500	24360	25960	27620	30240	33780	34560	35398	37500
14040	14520	18120	21510	24400	25970	27660	30290	33790	34570	35410	37590
14220	14570	18210	21520	24410	25980	27670	30300	33790	34580	35420	37600
14290	14600	18240	21620	24510	26060	27760	30400	33780	34600	35430	37610
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30510	33780	34620	35440	37620
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520	33780	34630	35450	37630
14290	14610	18270	21690	24520	26070	27760	30520

Police break up large prostitution ring

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Police say they have broken up a prostitution ring of 150 housewives, nurses, secretaries and other women who worked for legal escort services run by a former streetwalker who became a millionaire.

The women charged $160 an hour for prostitution and carried credit card machines so their customers wouldn't have to pay cash, authorities said. The operation rang up millions of dollars in business in three years.

Vice Squad Capt. Diarmuid Philpott, who called it "the largest sex-escort operation I've ever seen," said it worked out of a Haight-Ashbury district storefront. He said customers called in on a 35-line telephone system employing up to four operators.

"It was a highly efficient organization and smooth-running business," said Officer Mike Curran, who worked on the case.

The alleged ring operated in half of California. During its three years it funneled profits into as many as 60 bank accounts, some receiving as much as $80,000 a month, police said.

The woman accused of being the mastermind of the operation, her daughter and two others were arrested Monday after a nearly two-year-long investigation, police said.

The mastermind was identified by police as Janice Chatterton, 49, who lives in a $500,000 house north of San Francisco in the Marin County town of Mill Valley.

Court records say Chatterton once was a prostitute working the streets of the city's seedy Tenderloin district.

Her lawyer, George Walker, said Chatterton paid taxes on more than $1 million income last year by operating escort services, which are legal.

She was released on $25,000 bail after being booked for pandering and pimping, charges that Walker called "male harassment."

Chatterton said after her arrest that she was innocent "morally and legally" and her only guilt was that of "success in a field dominated by men."

She said her company, Chayne Corp., was "out of the ordinary, (but) that has no bearing on the fact that I am competent and that I've used 13 years of hard work and ingenuity to achieve success."

The telephone Yellow Pages in San Francisco lists 63 escort services and police say six were run by Chayne Corp. The arrests, police said, culminated an investigation that began in December 1981 when a tipster told authorities that an escort service was a prostitution ring.

Also arrested upon surrendering were Paula Carvajal, 28, Chatterton's daughter; San Francisco firefighter Bruce Keegan, 45, and his girlfriend, Wendy King, 31. Keegan, who allegedly was involved in the financial end of the business, will remain on duty.

Police said they found "trick books" containing the names of 300 regular customers and boxes of cards on employees, complete with photographs, a physical description and lists of sexual preferences.

Thousands cheer in China as 30 get death decrees

By The Associated Press

PEKING — A crowd of 60,000 cheered as 30 convicted murderers, rapists, arsonists and robbers were sentenced to death in a sports stadium Tuesday in China's largest effort to crack down on crime.

The prisoners were taken away for execution in police trucks after officials announced the sentences over loudspeakers. Convicts condemned to death in China usually are shot with one bullet in the back of the head.

China's crime rate is a fraction of that of most Western countries, but authorities are concerned by an increase this year in murders, robbery, rape and larceny. They are particularly concerned by a hijacking in May - the first successful act of air piracy in China.

Reagan calls peace movement appeasement

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE — President Reagan on Tuesday likened the anti-nuclear movement, with "all its modern hype and theatrics," to Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Adolf Hitler before World War II.

"They would wage peace," he declared, "by weakening the free. That just doesn't make sense."

In a speech to the American Legion, Reagan said "the members of the real peace movement, the real peacemakers, are people like you. You understand that peace must be built on strength."

The president said also that

"there's a democratic revolution going on in this world. It may not grab the headlines, but it's there and it's growing. The tide of history is with the forces of freedom — and so are we."

As examples of that "democratic revolution," Reagan noted he recently met with President Abdou Diouf of Senegal, "a great man doing a great job." And he said "a similar democratic success story has just taken place in Nigeria," where presidential elections were completed last week.

Reagan, wearing a Legionnaire's cap, was applauded 16 times by the audience of 5,000. But outside the Seattle Center, a crowd chanted "No More Reagan!" and waved effigies and signs. One read: "You can't eat bombs." After a two-hour stay, Reagan headed back to California to resume an extended vacation.

Reagan denounced the "naked, external aggression" in Chad, where Libya's Col. Moammar Khadafy is backing rebel forces against the government.

"Drawing upon the nearly $10 billion worth of Soviet military equipment and munitions now in Libya, Col. Khadafy has been using Soviet-built fighter bombers, T-55 tanks and artillery in a blatant attempt to destroy a legitimate government," Reagan charged.

In Central America, Reagan said the United States was "supporting a security shield for those nations that are threatened" by Moscow and Havana.

And in the Middle East, the president said, the U.S. Marines in Lebanon, along with troops from other nations, "strengthen the resolve of the Lebanese government to assume the tough task of maintaining order."

Reagan, speaking of his "dual track" policy of building up strategic arms, including the new B-1 bomber and MX missile, while trying to negotiate reductions with the Soviet Union, said that "peace is an objective, not a policy. Those who fail to understand this do so at their peril."

Come on across the street

To

You can still register this week.
Class offerings such as:

Principles & Techniques of Counseling
Personal Evangelism
Christian Doctrine
Drama Workshop
Oil Painting
Basic Christianity

History of Christian Beginnings
Survey of Old Testament
Leadership
Cross Cultural Communications
The Family

One night class offered Monday Evenings 7:00-9:15 p.m.
Christian Education of the Child

For more information, call Joy Johnson, Registrar, 539-3571, or come by 1407 Anderson.

COUPLES!

Would you like to meet other couples, enjoy fun and fellowship and share who you are with others with similar situations?

THEN JOIN US!

We are forming a couples group!

Aug. 27 7:00 p.m. 2219 Alta Dr.

Home of Rod & Sharon Saunders

Please call by Fri., Aug. 26 if you plan to attend—
539-4281 or 539-3364.

Bring a Main Dish & a Salad.
We'll serve the Drinks & Dessert.

McCALL's SHOES

A MANHATTAN TRADITION
SINCE 1961

Go Bass to class!

Bass

313 Poyntz—downtown Manhattan

Welcome To . . .

75¢ DRINKS
WED. NITES!

•75¢ Well
Hiballs
Wed. Nites
7pm-1am!

JOIN AGGIE STATION AND ITS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

Rowing's 20th anniversary year at K-State

CREW'S FOR
YOU (Guys & Gals) —IF YOU
LIKE SPORTS, TURN
OUT AT 3:30 TODAY
AT THE WEST SIDE
OF THE GYMNASIUM.

Call 537-8491 for more information. Ask for Don Rosa

SORORITY BARTENDERS WED. NITES!

Gamma Phis
Tonite!

Had lunch at Kite's Grille?

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

SAFEWAY

222 N. 6th
3011 Anderson

New Store Hours
7 a.m. to 10 p.m.
7 days a week

Tappan Micro Wave Ovens
Save $40	$199.95
Unitech Electronic Telephone	each $9.99
Arkla Gas Grills
Save $20	$99.95
R.C. Cola, Diet Rite, R.C. 100
Regular & Sugar Free
2 Liter bottle	99¢
Lays Potato Chips
8 oz. Pkg. Save 40¢	99¢
White Grapes	lb. 59¢
Grade "A" Whole Fryers	lb. 49¢
Millers Lite Beer
6 pack, 12 oz. cans	$2.15
Busy Baker Snack Crackers
8 oz. Pkg.	69¢
Coke, Tab, 7-Up, Diet Coke
6 pack, 12 oz. cans	$1.69
Assorted Pork Chops
Contains First and Center Cut chops . .	lb. $1.39
Sunny Land Margarine
3 one lb. Pkg.	$1.00

Double coupons everyday
Details at the store.

KG&E should pay the bill

The Kansas Corporation Commission seems to be developing some backbone.

When Kansas Gas and Electric Co. sought a $4.2 million increase in its wholesale electric rates, the KCC stepped in and asked the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to put a five-month stay on the rate hike. KG&E wanted the extra money for added costs in building the Wolf Creek Nuclear Power Plant, which KG&E is one of three utilities involved in.

A rate increase would pass the cost of the power plant along to Kansas customers, the first time Kansans have been faced with footing the bill. Kansans should not have to pay the extra costs of building the plant.

The Wolf Creek project, as is the case with many of the problems in nuclear power today, has been hindered by human error and neglect. In attempts to cut the cost of building the plants, construction companies cut back in areas like thickness of concrete walls. Though there is still no consensus as to the relative dangers of the nuclear power industry, any industry is dangerous if safeguards are ignored.

According to the KCC report, "the allocation of construction work in progress has been conducted in a disproportionate fashion." With the total cost of Wolf Creek at nearly $2.5 billion, one would think KG&E could be more careful in the planning of the work. And with the potential dangers of nuclear power, all cares should be taken to insure that the plant is up to federal safety codes. Companies that try to skimp in such areas to save money deserve the loss of profits that results from lost time.

It is also a bad time for KG&E to ask for an increase. It is tough enough for many utility customers to pay their bills with the heat wave we have had for the past two months. According to the KCC, the rate increase would generate "substantial excessive revenues" for KG&E. There is no reason for KG&E to have the money sitting idle while their customers are struggling to pay the bills. If the increase is needed at all — which is questionable — it can wait until a later date.

Sell the mansions

The state of California, after leading the nation for years into zany fads and lifestyles, is actually doing something sensible. The state Legislature has put the governor's mansion on the sales block. The State Department of General Services is taking bids for the mansion, starting at $1.5 million.

The mansion was built in 1975, but Edmund G. Brown Jr., the governor at the time, called it a "Taj Mahal" and refused to move in. The present governor, George Deukmejian, also refused to move into it and is living in a small apartment in Sacramento, commuting home on weekends to his family in Long Beach.

Maybe Kansas should take the hint and follow suit. When it comes down to it, no governor really needs to live in a mansion. Why should Governor John Carlin (or any past governor, for that matter) live in Cedar Crest? Surely there are other houses in Topeka that could be run more efficiently and for less money than the governor's mansion.

Besides, if the governor's mansion was sold, each governor could just pick out a house that suits him and is up for sale and buy or rent it. California, for example, has a $60,000 appropriation in the 1983-84 budget for rental of a governor's residence and an additional $17,000 to pay for incidental residence expenses. That kind of money could rent a fairly nice house.

This also brings up the issue of building a swimming pool at Cedar Crest. The Carlins should feel privileged to be getting a swimming pool in their backyard, while the state regents institutions are getting hit with more budget cuts and the students are paying 20 percent more for fees.

The one good point about the pool is that it is not being paid for by taxpayers' dollars. The money is coming from private donations, from individuals who feel it is more important for the governor to be able to get his feet wet in his own back yard than it is for students (high school and college) to get good educations or for poor people to be able to pay their utility bills so they don't die in the heat. Maybe the poor people without air conditioning could swim in the governor's pool on hot days.

Cutting down on government waste has to start somewhere, and for Governor Carlin it should start at home.

The day of the exploding sun

When my father told us we were going to go on a trip to Southern California during the summer (this was in 1932; I was 10 years old), I was naturally excited.

Traveling was of great interest to me in those days, as it still is. And the prospect of not having to spend another summer in the heat and dust of Oklahoma, where we lived, gave an added attraction to the planned trip.

Even so, the town to which we were going — Upland, Calif. — meant nothing to me. Oh, I knew my mother had a sister-in-law living there and another sister living not too far from Upland in Pasadena, which meant there would be cousins with whom to play. Beyond that, it was just another place. And I had already been in a great many places, even as young as I was, having lived in Africa and Canada before moving to Oklahoma.

I had no notion of what a profound impact that trip was going to have on me — most particularly because of one incident which happened in June.

We drove to California in a 1930 Ford. Most of the national highways in the panhandle of Texas, as well as in New Mexico and Arizona, were still gravel in those days. The trip itself took seven days and was filled with wonder — Amarillo, Tucumcari, Albuquerque, Gallup, Flagstaff, Blythe — vast spaces — and the strangest mountains I had ever seen! Curious tourist camps, with an almost pioneer flavor, to stop at each night.

Upland, Calif., is in the San Bernardino Valley — between San Bernardino and Los Angeles. We stayed at the house of my Aunt Katie Smith — a three-story white house at the corner of First Avenue and Arrow Highway — for several weeks. (That house is now gone. However, a tall eucalyptus tree close by to where that house was still stands.) One block west ran Euclid Avenue, famous then and famous now for the pepper trees (with the sweet perfumed odor of their leaves) lining the center section of the avenue for miles and miles.

My Aunt Katie's son, Joe, a year or so older than me, had made a scooter out of scrap lumber, used nails and half of an old pair of roller skates. He let me ride that home-made scooter one hot day in late June.

On the south side of Arrow Highway, there was an uninterrupted stretch of sidewalk between Third Avenue and Sixth Avenue, no intersections cutting through. I careened joyously down that stretch of sidewalk on that home-made scooter, full tilt, warm air rushing against my face — until I came to where Sixth Avenue ran south off Arrow Highway, where I stopped to turn the corner.

In front of me ran a street a quarter-mile in length lined with bungalows. Halfway down the street was a Pacific Electric Railroad track.

The only way I have ever been able to describe what happened as I turned that corner of Sixth Avenue and Arrow Highway in Upland, Calif., on this particular day in June, 1932, when I was 10 years old, is to say it was as if the sun exploded in my eyes! Here I was — a small boy in a completely ordinary little town in Southern California on a completely ordinary hot June day on a completely ordinary residential street. But as I turned that corner — with the sun as if exploding in my eyes — I knew that I was I — Joel Climenhaga — alive — on this earth — and that one day I would die!

In short, at that moment of turning that corner, I got a firm grip on my identity and a complete comprehension of my mortality.

Friends of mine from the younger generation have told me what happened to me was the same as psychedelic experiences they have had. Except mine was without the benefit of chemicals.

Several times since, as I've become an adult living through the years, I've had similar experiences of high awareness — once in Santa Rosa, N. M. while hitch-hiking; once at the summit of Berthoud Pass in Colorado; once in Enumclaw, Wash.; as well as other times ... all of them have been without benefit of any chemicals!

Last year my wife and I made an extended trip to California. In November we went to Upland to visit my oldest brother. One afternoon we drove to the corner of Sixth Avenue and Arrow Highway. I wanted to see what that corner looked like 50 years later.

I parked the car about a half-block away.

We walked up and down the sidewalk with our deaf white dog who is our constant companion. (This dog is a full-blooded boxer.) My wife took some pictures — of the corner itself, as well as of me and the dog. The street and the corner are the same. The houses are older, but they are the same. No more commuter cars run on the Pacific Electric Railroad — but the sun still shines bright on that street corner.

While we were walking with our deaf white dog, a woman and her son came out of the house on the southeast corner of the intersection. They had seen our dog and wanted to talk about dogs.

During the conversation I asked the boy, "How old are you?" "Ten years old," he said.

I wanted to ask him if he knew who he was. But I didn't. I wanted to ask him if he'd ever seen what seemed to him to be the sun exploding. But I didn't.

I figured that at the proper time under the proper circumstances at the proper place he'd find out who he is — and that if it was ever going to seem to him as if the sun was exploding in his eyes, that would happen without what must have looked and sounded to him to be no more than an old man talking about dogs, confusing him by suddenly asking about exploding suns, thereby hurrying him down what possibly could have been for him a road to false awareness.

After all, talking about exploding suns these days might make a person think about nuclear bombs. Particularly someone who is 10 years old now! Right?

Besides when I realized my identity and my mortality on that hot June day in 1932 at that corner, it was my awareness. That boy will reach his own awareness in his own way.

Solomon Amendment troubles

It used to be there were only three subjects which were prohibited from dinner-table discussions: sex, taxes and religion. However, you can now add another subject to this list: the Solomon Amendment.

Yes, folks, the controversial once again has reared its ugly head and thrust itself upon college campuses across the nation. It has even reappeared here.

If you received any federal financial aid this semester, you know all about this. You had to sign a sheet, stating whether or not you had complied with the amendment by registering with the Selective Service. All males born after Jan. 1, 1960, must register with the Selective Service.

In other words, the Solomon Amendment requires all students who apply for federal financial aid to sign a form stating that they have complied with the Selective Service Act, or have sufficient reason for non-compliance (e.g. being born before Jan. 1, 1960, or being female.) The Department of Education, which enforces the Solomon Amendment, had previously required students to show proof of registration. (DOE dropped this requirement in April.)

April was also the month Student Senate entered the "Solomon Sweepstakes." John Kohler, former student senator and former campus director of the Associated Students of Kansas, needed a stand for K-State to take on Solomon. ASK had scheduled a special meeting that month in order to determine the stand the lobbying group would take.

On April 14, Senate voted to support the act. The final vote was 29-28, with one abstention. Reaction to the vote was fast and furious. After careful consideration, Jerry Katlin, student body president, vetoed the bill on April 20.

However, it was all for naught. Kohler took the results of senate's vote to the ASK meeting, held April 15 and 16. ASK's members (the six state universities governed by the Kansas Board of Regents and Washburn University), however, voted overwhelmingly to oppose the amendment.

Meanwhile, a group of Minnesota students filed suit against the federal government, claiming the Solomon Amendment was unconstitutional. On June 17, U.S. District Judge Donald D. Alsop declared the rule unconstitutional and barred its enforcement. It then appeared to be a moot issue.

The Justice Department, however, urged the Supreme Court to overturn Alsop's ruling, arguing that his ruling "irretrievably will deprive the United States of a reasonable means selected by Congress to regulate the disbursement of federal funds for student grants and loans, and of a valuable tool to promote maximum compliance" with the law.

Honest, I didn't make up that quote. This was what the department's lawyers said to the Associated Press. I couldn't make up a quote like that if I tried.

The Supreme Court agreed with the Justice Department's reasoning (it figures — only lawyers can understand what other lawyers say). On June 29, the high court stayed Alsop's ruling without a recorded dissent. Justice Harry A. Blackman issued the stay.

The Supreme Court will consider a formal appeal to be filed by the federal government, but this review won't begin for several months — if that soon.

This decision by the high court meant college financial aid departments were left with no alternative. The Solomon Amendment, no matter how much students protested or how much extra paperwork it required, had to be enforced. That's why Student Financial Assistance required you to sign that white form before you picked up your aid checks(s).

I am not against the Selective Service Act. I believe America needs some way to keep its defense prepared. I am also not against the basic idea behind the Solomon Amendment: those who receive federal financial aid should be ready to serve their country.

I also believe one can serve his country without necessarily being in the military. The Peace Corps is an example of a way to serve one's country. Peace Corps volunteers are building schools, hospitals, etc. in underdeveloped countries. The volunteers teach self-reliance.

Besides, when someone is in need of clean water, they want clean water — not military hardware.

The Selective Service form should include an "I am a conscientious objector" question. This would allow those who object to the draft and draft registration to comply with the law while respecting their religious beliefs. This would end the "CO" reason for not registering with the Selective Service, and hence, the Solomon dilemma.

The other thing the federal government should do is enforce the registration law on everyone born after Jan. 1, 1960. Right now, the registration law applies only to males. With some exceptions, women are just as qualified as men to serve their country. Their talents are untapped. Equal rights, after all, means equal responsibilities.

Right now, DOE is being used to enforce the act on those males who apply for and receive federal financial aid. It is not enforced on women, on males who aren't in college or males in college who do not apply for or receive federal financial aid.

The government should apply the rule to all or to none.

Campus beautification includes flowers

By NANCY MALIR
Staff Writer

The new faces at K-State might be more obvious, but the campus itself is sporting a new look.

For the first time in several years, all 18 campus flower beds have been planted with flowers. The beds, located throughout campus, are filled with 20,000 plants.

John Sailor, florist with University Facilities and head of the beautification project, said flower donations and the planting of leftover seeds from previous years made the large-scale planting possible.

Sailor, who designed the beds and their color schemes, said one-third of the flowers were donated by Wamego Floral Company, and another third were purchased with funds from the grounds budget.

Sailor grew the remaining flowers himself in campus greenhouses beginning last January.

A five-man crew helped Sailor transplant the seedlings at the beginning of May. About $300 was used to purchase the plants, Sailor said.

Of the 18 flower beds, there are three beds located between Denison Hall and Seaton Court; three on the east side of Calvin Hall; two on the west side of Willard Hall; two next to Ackert Hall; one on the north side of the Farrell Library fountain; one outside the east doors of the Union; one in the island between the Union and Anderson Hall; one southeast of East Stadium; one between McCain Auditorium and Danforth Chapel; one south of Dykstra Hall; one west of Cardwell Hall; and one southeast of Cardwell.

Another major summer renovation project was the repaving of the parking lot between Durland Hall and Ackert.

Poor irrigation in the lot had caused much deterioration and was one of the main reasons for repaving the lot, Larry Wilson, University landscape architect, said.

The lot has a capacity of 393 parking spaces for both students and faculty/staff.

Abe Fattaey, project coordinator for the lot, said the reconstruction, which included the repaving, curbing, and adding a drainage system to the lot, was done by Schilling

Asphalt Inc. of Manhattan at a cost of $224,000.

Parts of the project which are not yet completed, such as construction of a walkway and bike path on the east side of the lot and landscaping, are to be paid out of another fund.

Approximately 60 parking spaces for motorcycles will also be added to the lot.

The lot's lights also were raised and additional lighting was added.

Two major remodeling projects were completed in Ahearn Field House over the summer.

For the first time in 30 years, the entire field house was painted. Done in a graphic design, the new colors consist of cocoa brown, vanilla white, paprika red, dove gray and K-State purple, said Ludwig Villasi, assistant professor of interior design and designer and supervisor of the field house remodeling project.

The portable bleachers in the field house are being resurfaced with fiberglass and will be completed within a week or two, Villasi said.

The Athletic Department funded both of these projects, which totaled $150,000.

Help Prevent Birth Defects —
The Nation's Number One Child Health Problem.

Support the

March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

Auntie
Mae's Parlor

TONIGHT
HIGH ROLLERS

8:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.

$1.25 Any Single Liquor Drink

Thursday
ALL YOU CAN DRINK

House Drinks, House Wines and Drafts

Girls $3.00 Guys $5.00

9 p.m. to 12 a.m.

616 N. 12th

AGGIEVILLE

539-9967

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST invites you to
PRIME TIME

THURSDAYS at 7:00pm
in UNION LITTLE THEATER
Fun - Fellowship - Skits

Welcome Back!

$2.00 off a haircut
with this ad.

Student I.D. required
expires Sept. 16, 1983

REDKEN Nexxus New Man
210 Humboldt
776-5651

Experience the Basics
Be all you can be Army ROTC

Army ROTC Fall Schedule

COURSE	TITLE	CR	HR	SECT	TYPE	REF	No.	DAYS	HOURS
MSCI 100	Mountaineering	01	A	REC	17050	M			0230
		01	B	REC	17060	M			0330
		01	C	REC	17070	T			0330
		01	D	REC	17080	W			0830
MSCI 102	Basic Riflery	01	A	REC	17090	M			0830
		01	B	REC	17100	M			0930
		01	C	REC	17110	T			0830
		01	D	REC	17120	T			0930
		01	E	REC	17130	W			0830
		01	F	REC	17140	W			0930
		01	G	REC	17150	W			0230
		01	H	REC	17160	U			0830
MSCI 103	Orienteering	01	I	REC	17170	APPT
		01	A	REC	17180	T			0830
		01	B	REC	17190	T			0130
MSCI 200	Leadership & Leaders	01	C	REC	17200	W			0830
		01	A	REC	17210	M			0930
		01	B	REC	17220	T			0130
MSCI 201	Leadership Guidance	01	A	REC	17230	U			0830
		01	B	REC	17240	U			0130
MSCI 202	Map Reading	01	A	REC	17250	M			0930
		01	B	REC	17260	W			0930
MSCI 203	Care of Combat Casualty	01	A	REC	17270	M			0830
		01	B	REC	17280	T			0830
		01	C	REC	17290	T			0930

ENJOY
Kansas City Star & Times

NEWSPAPERS
Delivered to your home
STUDENT SPECIAL
ALL SEMESTER—
ONLY $18.54

Mail in this coupon to:

KC Star
1412 Vista Lane
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
or sign up at Kedzie Hall
Room 103

*Delivery will begin upon receipt of payment.
Carrier—Jim Schroer 537-2318

THE KANSAS CITY STAR AND TIMES

Student Discount

$18⁵⁴

SEMESTER RATE

TAX INCLUDED
• MORNING
• EVENING
• SUNDAY

I agree to subscribe to The Kansas City Star and Times for the full semester at the special rate of $18.54. This price includes consideration for non-delivery when classes are suspended for holidays, fall, winter, or spring breaks and other periods when service is not requested. The offer becomes effective the day of registration and expires the last day of finals. Delivery to begin upon receipt of payment.

DATE _____
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____ ZIP _____
PHONE _____ APT. _____
STUDENT I.D. # _____
UNIVERSITY _____
SIGNED _____

YOU and Burke's . . .
"Following Nobody's Footsteps"

Dexter®
Shoemakers to America
for
Men and Women

The
Phone connection

BACK-TO-SCHOOL SPECIAL
One piece phone $19.95

The Phone Connection

FREE Extension Cord
with purchase of phone.

NOT VALID WITH ANY OTHER SALE One coupon per visit

GOOD THRU AUGUST, 1983

414 Poyntz COUPON 776-4429

The Phone Connection

ONE COUPON PER VISIT $5 OFF on any decorator phone NOT VALID WITH ANY OTHER SALE

GOOD THRU AUGUST, 1983

414 Poyntz COUPON 776-4429

NOW OPEN at 414 Poyntz

We have a complete line of phones for all your needs

REC REPORT

Flag Football Clinic

Thursday, August 25 6:30
Sunday, August 28 6:30
Monday, August 29 6:30

WANTED: FLAG FOOTBALL & SOCCER OFFICIALS

MANDATORY ATTENDANCE AT ALL THREE CLINICS.

All Clinics will be held in the Dance/Combatives Room, 2nd floor of the Rec Complex.

Starting Pay—$3.35/hr—more for experienced and certified officials.

For further information and signup: contact Kenny or Steve at the Recreational Services Offices in the Rec Complex, or call 532-6980.

Soccer Clinics

Wednesday, August 31 6:30
Thursday, September 1 6:30

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS' MEETING

Wednesday, Aug. 24
4:00 p.m.
Forum Hall,
K-State Union

Flag Football, Soccer, Kickball & Rec Services programs will be discussed.
INTRAMURAL MANAGERS MUST ATTEND.

WHEN'S THE TRIATHLON THIS YEAR?

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10,
9:00 A.M.

AT RIVER POND STATE PARK

sponsored by
Kansas State University Recreational Services
Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department
PICK UP ENTRY MATERIALS at the
KSU Rec Complex or at
Manhattan's Rec Office within City Park

Do you need a motivation to begin or continue an aerobic exercise program? In LIFELINE participants set a goal and attain points by running, swimming, bicycling, playing racquetball, or participating in other aerobic activities. T-shirts and certificates will be awarded to those reaching their goal.

Deadline for entry is Friday, August 26.

LIFELINE Challenges for the coming semester are:

September:	Bicycling Challenge	250 Miles
October:	Running Challenge	60 Miles
November:	Swimming Challenge	15 Miles

Entry deadline for each Challenge is the first week day of the month. Entry forms will be available approximately two weeks before the deadline. Sign up for the Bicycling Challenge now!

Intramural Deadline

AUGUST 25 at 5:00 p.m.

Flag Football
Soccer
Kickball
Singles: 3-wall Handball
3-wall Racquetball
Tennis
Badminton
Horseshoes
1-on-1 Basketball
Doubles Volleyball

New at the Rec Complex!

Come work out on the equipment in the new Fitness Room at the Rec Complex! Omnikinetic exercise equipment and computerized exercycles have been added to the Multipurpose Room on the Upper Floor.

BEGINNER'S "BE FIT" PROGRAM

Monday and Wednesday
with Linda Verschelden

6:45-7:45 a.m.

The major emphasis of this program will be on the aerobic benefits of walking. In addition to walking, learn how to tone up muscles using the new Hydra-Fitness equipment and Lifecycles.

AEROBICS AND FITNESS

Monday, Wednesday, Friday
with Kim Curtis

Noon-12:50 p.m.

Don't simply exercise "to" music—exercise WITH the music. Burn calories to these well-choreographed routines which incorporate specific exercises rather than dance steps.

JANE FONDA WORKOUT

Monday, Wednesday, Thursday
with Jeane Warren

4:30-5:30 p.m.

This session will be primarily floor work with attention directed to specific muscle groups. A strenuous workout; these exercises will tone up thighs, hips, abdominals, etc.

JAZZ-EXERCISE

Tuesday, Thursday
with Linda Verschelden

5:30-6:30 p.m.

A fairly intense work-out combining toning exercises with floor work (running and jumping) which has been set to music.

AEROBICS AND FITNESS

Monday, Wednesday
with Kim Curtis

5:30-6:30 p.m.

(see description above)

ALL SESSIONS ARE HELD
IN THE REC COMPLEX
AND BEGIN ON WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24

ACTIVITIES

AUGUST

CALENDAR

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
	C O D E S RC Rec Complex P Pools WB Washburn Outdoor Rental Center	23 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	24 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-12:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm IM MANAGERS' MEETING 4:00 p.m. Exercise Sessions begin	25 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm IM DEADLINE SEE * BELOW 5:00 p.m.	26 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	27 RC 10am-10pm P 1-5pm 7-10pm WB 11am-noon
28 RC 6am-11pm P 1-5pm 7-10pm WB 4-6pm	29 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-12:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	30 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm IM FLAG FOOTBALL BEGINS	31 RC 6am-11pm P 6-7:30am 11:30am-12:30pm 7:30-10pm WB 4-6pm	IM DEADLINE SEE * ABOVE Flag Football; Soccer; Kickball; Singles: 3-wall Handball, 3-wall Racquet- ball, Tennis, Badminton, Horseshoes; 1-on-1 Basket- ball; and Doubles Volleyball	Phone Numbers Rec Check . . . 532-6000 HB/RB Reservations & Checkout . . . 532-6951 Washburn Outdoor Rental Center . . . 532-6894 Rec Services Office . . . 532-6980

Manhattan Design Project assists with city redevelopment

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

(Second of a series)

The Manhattan Design Project has an active role in downtown redevelopment, said Sue Yoakum, coordinator for the design project.

However, the design project is independent of the downtown redevelopment project.

The project provides design assistance for new construction or revitalization of existing buildings, but doesn't design building interiors or offer construction supervision, Yoakum said. The project produces detailed drawings, design guidelines and written recommendations, which individual store owners and the city can take to a professional architect, engineer or contractor.

Yoakum is assisted by Barbara Anderson, designer/draftsman, who is currently an architecture and design student. The team works in an office above J. Riggs West, at 317½ Poyntz Avenue.

Because the city finances the project, the designs and recommendations are offered free to businesses. However, the owners have to pay the costs to implement changes in their individual establishments.

"We were originally funded by a National Endowment for the Arts grant and a matching grant from K-State," Yoakum said.

The city and the College of Architecture and Design jointly applied for a National Endowment for the Arts Design Demonstration Grant in January, 1980 titled, "Poyntz Avenue: Rediscovery of Manhattan's Main Street."

The National Endowment for the Arts, an independent agency of the federal government, was created in 1965 to encourage and assist the nation's cultural resources.

K-State no longer funds any part of the project.

The name was changed from Downtown Design Project to Manhattan Design Project when the project began drawing plans for Aggieville also, Yoakum said. The project area originally included 10 blocks downtown, from Third to Sixth streets and from Houston to Humboldt streets.

The project officially began work Feb. 1, 1981, according to a special issue of "Poyntz of Interest," the downtown redevelopment information bulletin.

"At first they (the project) concentrated on streetscape drawings," Yoakum said.

The focus of the streetscape design, drawn but not implemented, is on the sidewalks, streets, alleys and public parking lots from Third Street to Juliette Avenue. Some of the drawings show placement of trees, new crosswalks, benches, wider curbs at intersections.

"This past year we've been focusing on facade improvements," Yoakum said.

First, the project researched the histories of the buildings in the original 10-block area, Yoakum said. Using old slides and photographs, they produced drawings of the original buildings.

"We have drawings showing what they (buildings) looked like in the past, now, and what they could be," Yoakum said. "We research the old fronts to see what's underneath. When we design (a new facade), we try and take everything off."

"Downtown Manhattan can, as many other cities have, recapture its position as a clearly identifiable and attractive place by uncovering, improving, restoring and maintaining its older commercial structures," according to the Poyntz of Interest bulletin. "Shoppers will know and recognize individual stores, while appreciating the total image of downtown as the place to be in Manhattan."

A few facades the project helped design are Aggie Hardware, Kite's, and Brother's in Aggieville and Office World, Manhattan Credit Bureau and the Ulrich building (which includes Norton Rexall Drug, Gross Insurance and the Chef Cafe) in the downtown area. Designs have been made for other businesses, including Mr. K's and the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

Currently, Yoakum is developing a facade design, which involves more brick work and the removal of some board on the front, for Dark Horse Tavern.

"I haven't shown any drawings to the owner yet. I'll probably call him this week," Yoakum said. "Even if he decides he likes the change, the construction may wait."

Yoakum examined slides of the building from the 1940s and did research to find the paint for the color scheme.

"After he (the owner) saw it, if he wanted to do it in the next few months, we would draw construction drawings," Yoakum said.

The Manhattan Design Project has helped design facade improvements for several stores.

When the owners get the construction drawings, they hire their own contractors.

"I don't know how many of these (proposed designs) will get done," Yoakum said.

Many of the facade designs make the buildings look as they did in the past with detailed paint schemes and painted cornices.

"We want to bring out the features, so people will notice the detail," Yoakum said. "Some elements that were there were covered up."

The Wareham Hotel won't be changed much, just repaired,

Yoakum said.

"We're involved with the changes in the Wareham Hotel, just to make sure they get their tax credits," Yoakum said. From Third to Fifth streets and from Houston to Leavenworth streets, is a certified Historic District, which qualifies for certain tax credits.

These tax credits are incentives to encourage capital investment in historic buildings and to spur the revitalization of historic neighborhoods, according to a pamphlet distributed by the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Two tax credits which are available are a 25 percent investment tax credit for rehabilitation of historic commercial, industrial and rental residential buildings and a 15-year cost recovery period for the adjusted basis of the historic building. These two can be combined and claimed together.

These tax credits are available for certified historic structures. To qualify for the tax incentives, property owners must complete a Historic Preservation Certification Application and secure certification regarding the historic character of a structure and the quality of the rehabilitation work performed on a structure.

Another part of the design project's work involves designing the plaza area in conjunction with the downtown redevelopment project.

The plaza area will be at Third Street and Poyntz Avenue. The area will have space for arts and crafts fairs, performing arts, benches for resting or lunching, lighting and landscaping, said Gary Stith, downtown redevelopment coordinator. The plaza will link the pedestrian entrance to the mall and the existing downtown.

(Manhattan city commissioners discuss their positions on the downtown mall issue in tomorrow's installment in this series.)

THE COMPLEX IMPROVISATIONAL THEATRE

Interviews for new comedians will be Thurs. night, August 25. For appts. call 532-6875.

the Avalon

FIRST ANNIVERSARY
PARTY

Wednesday—Thursday

TONIGHT
LADIES ONLY
All You Can Drink $2⁰⁰
House Drinks, Beer, Wine
7 p.m.-9 p.m.

MEN ADMITTED ONLY AFTER 9 P.M.
ONLY $1⁰⁰ COVER 9 p.m. to Close

Entertainment by
THE GLEE CLUB
Wednesday and Thursday
This Weekend Don't Miss STEVE, BOB AND RICH

1122 MORD UPSTAIRS 539-9703

Laramie at 12th—Aggieville
Office: 539-0525; Bar 539-9849

Fred says,

"WELCOME,
SPORTS
FANS!"

Betcha didn't know... that in 1965 the KSU Football team was only able to score 5 TD's the entire season. You've come a long way baby!

Betcha didn't know... On Wednesday the Sports Fan-atic matches the other specials in town and honors the Press Passes—don't forget to bring your PRESS PASS.

Betcha didn't know... Every Thursday is GRAND SLAM 4-FERS. Four drinks for the price of one on both levels—the 18-Bar & the 21-Club. Special starts at 8 p.m.

Betcha didn't know... "ROCK" will be at the Sports Fan-atic Thursday thru Saturday. They're super!

COME IN AND PLAY... TODAY!

The Bar Where Sports Fans Play...

TODAY'S FASHIONS
The Discount
Blue Jean Store

CHIC JEANS
Now Just
$19.95

Woods & Sons
1207 Laramie Aggieville

BOX OFFICE STAFF NEEDED

McCain Auditorium is looking for students capable of selling lots of tickets and dealing with fascinating patrons. Applicants must be cheerful, enthusiastic, accurate, energetic and eager to talk about the performing arts. Work study eligibility preferred. Please call 532-6425 for an interview appointment. Duties start September 6th.

BUSHWACKER'S
THE FUNDRIKERY

Tonight
TONIC NITE!
all tonic drinks $1
HAPPY HOUR: 4-9 p.m.
2 Fers on HiBalls 75¢ Draws
$2 Blended Drinks

Memberships available at only $10 thru Aug. 31
531 N. Manhattan in Aggieville Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

Tired of the Same Old Crowd? Try...

AUDITIONS FOR MUSIC DEPT. ENSEMBLES

- Marching Band: See Mr. Stan Finck for audition time.
- Jazz Band: auditions will be 6-10 p.m., Tues. evening, Aug. 23, Rm. 201, McCain Auditorium. Sign up for times outside of band office, Rm. 226, McCain.
- Symphonic Band: (Wind Ensemble): Contact Mr. Al Cochran, Rm. 224, McCain for an audition time.
- Orchestra: Contact Mr. Ralph Winkler, Rm. 113, McCain.

(For further information about any of these groups contact Al Cochran at 532-5740.)

ALL UNIVERSITY STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE TO AUDITION AND ARE ENCOURAGED TO DO SO.

See your Jostens' representative for a complete selection of rings and details of Jostens' Creative Financing Plans.

DATE: Mon-Fri August 22-26, 1983

TIME: 9am-4pm.

PLACE: k-state union bookstore 0302

Jostens' college rings offered daily at your bookstore

Humor saves 'Risky Business'

By TOM DOWNING
Collegian Reviewer

Joel Goodson wasn't the kind of guy to take risks. He never learned to let himself go and say, "What the hell!"

That was before his parents went to visit Aunt Totie and left him alone in their suburban Chicago home.

In the movie "Risky Business," Joel (Tom Cruise) becomes involved with a high-class prostitute named Lana (Rebecca De Mornay) which results in laughter and adventure for everyone.

Without giving the story away, one could say the plot involves a stolen glass egg, a $40,000 Porsche, numerous prostitutes, and an evening of physical gratification for Joel's friends that nets him over $8,000.

One of the movie's strengths is writer-director Paul Brickman's use of comic bits to reveal character.

For his first meal alone, Joel pokes a fork into a still-frozen TV dinner, picks up the food and bites off a chunk. Then he pours a glass three-fourths full of Chivas Regal and adds a touch of Coke.

In another scene, while raking the yard, Joel stops working and puts on a pair of sunglasses — symbolizing his darker side. The camera zooms in on his wry smirk; Joel is learning to say, "What the hell!"

Review

Brickman creates a satire of Junior Achievement called "Future Enterprises." Joel is a typical member, "I don't want to make a mistake to jeopardize my future," he says.

His mother's parting advice provides another small laugh, "Oh, about the house, just use your best judgment."

But it takes more than laughs and action to make a good movie. Despite its many strengths, "Risky Business" is just another teen-age sex movie.

One of the movie's downfalls is that the script calls for the actors to play, basically, only two emotions — lust and anger. These emotions are relatively easy to portray — resulting in shallow characters. The actors do an adequate job as far as the depth of their characters go. A wider range of emotions would have given all the actors a chance to show their talents.

Another weakness of the movie is that too many improbable things happen; a couple makes love on a single-car subway train; Joel is suspended from school for five days, and the school never tells his parents; Joel and his friend put an entire house of furnishings back into the house in 45 minutes.

"Risky Business" makes the assertion that it's necessary to say, "What the hell!" every now and then.

But there is a difference between letting go and selling yourself. This movie fails to make that distinction.

Prostitution — which Joel and Lana end up doing — is disgusting, not glamorous, and humorous.

It is unclear what, if anything, Joel learns from his involvement with Lana. The narration scenes omit what we need to know. How long ago did this happen? How did it change him?

Joel's entire narration could have been cut. It doesn't develop his character, and its purpose is purely comic.

"Risky Business" is very funny, but the current lull in worthwhile movies is the main reason for its success.

U.S., Canada sign test agreement to begin acid rain experiments

By The Associated Press

OTTAWA, Canada — The United States and Canada signed a bilateral agreement Tuesday for an air pollution monitoring experiment to be conducted next month by both countries.

U.S. Ambassador Paul Robinson, who signed the accord with Canadian Environment Minister Charles Caccia, said further study was needed before action could be taken to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions, a major source of the mild acid that causes damage to waterways, buildings and threatens drinking water.

"I think there is a growing sentiment in the United States to do something about the problem," Robinson said.

He offered no details and stopped short of committing the U.S. government to Canada's proposal to cut emissions in half on both sides of the border by 1990.

But he said relations between Canada and the U.S. are improving.

"We're not only talking to each other more... We're listening to each other," he said.

"One of the concerns we're listening to is Canadian concerns about acid rain, as we are also listening to our American constituents on the very same subject."

Caccia, in one of his first public acts since being named environment minister Aug. 12, welcomed "the policy shift now under development in Washington."

He said he will meet soon with William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, to press Canada's case.

Scientists will release three bursts of a tracer gas in mid-September from Sudbury, Ontario, and Dayton, Ohio, and track it for at least 600 miles using seven aircraft and 85 ground stations.

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

hair design studio

Back to School Special
For All Students

Shampoo, hair cut, & blowdry styling
$10.00 with coupon
Values to $15.00
One coupon per client
Expires Sept. 30, 1983

Mon.-Fri. 8-8
Sat.-8-5

REDKEN
We use and prescribe
Redken Products.

613 N. Manhattan
Manhattan, Kansas
539-7621

LADIES NITE
EVERY WEDNESDAY!

Mr. K's Ladies Get . . .

- FREE ADMISSION ALL NITE
- FREE DRAW and 25' DRAWS ALL NITE

If You Haven't Been To Mr. K's . . . You Haven't Been To Aggieville!

The Palace
GIFTS AND NECESSITIES

Come to the Palace for all your back to school needs.

- Cards • Candy • Cosmetics • Aspirin • Vitamins •
- Cold Remedies • Party Supplies • Posters • Film processing

SERVE YOURSELF AT OUR FOUNTAIN AND COFFEE BAR.

Open til 8:30 Mon.-Thurs.
GIFT REGISTRY—MASTERCARD/VISA

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville 539-7654

Introducing
FOOTLIGHTS

Exercise &
Dance Wear

GRAND OPENING
Sales throughout the week
Aug. 22-27

Store hrs:
10:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.
Thurs. till 8:00

1110 Laramie 537-3106

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

LADIES
NITE!

Ladies get
1st draw Free
1st pitcher for
$1 & $2.25
pitchers.

619 N. Manhattan

TODAY'S PORTRAIT...
TOMORROW'S TREASURE

2 (8x10s) • 3 (5x7s)
15 wallets

POURTRAIT PACKAGE ONLY
$12.95 (95¢ DEPOSIT)

Poses our selection. Beautiful backgrounds available. Groups $1.00 extra per person.

ALCO DISCOUNT 3007 ANDERSON AVE.
THURSDAY—FRIDAY—SATURDAY
AUGUST 25-26-27

Hours: Thursday 10-1, 2-6
Friday 10-1, 2-7:30
Saturday 10-1, 2-5:30
Lunch 1-2

K-STATE FLYING CLUB
LEARN TO FLY
INTRODUCTORY LESSON $15
GROUND SCHOOL INFORMATION

 CLUB AIRCRAFT *****

Cessna 152	— $24.50/hour, VFR w/Intercom
Piper Warrior	— $37.00/hour, IFR w/GS & DME
Piper Arrow	— $41.00/hour, IFR w/GS
Cessna 182	— $49.00/hour, IFR
ATC 610J	— $ 5.00/hour, IFR Simulator

Membership available to KSU students, alumni, faculty, and staff. Hugh Irvin, 539-3128 or 532-6311, for information.

KOH-I-NOOR Special Offer!

RAPIDOGRAPH™

Buy a 7-Pen Set for the price of a 4-Pen Set

The best of Rapidograph technology
in one distinctively new pen for all drafting and graphic arts
applications.

RAPIDOGRAPH® technical pen . . . the best-selling
technical pen in America!

3165-SP-7

Varney's
Book Store
In Aggieville
Mon.-Sat. 9-9, Sun. 12-5

Regular List 78.50
Varney's Special 33.10
You Save 58% or $45.40

EARLY FALL

Fling Sale

Aug. 18-27

4 Days Only

- Wool Blend Suits
- All Cotton Turtlenecks
- All Wool Shetlands
- Wool Blend Blazers
- Novelty Sweaters
- Corduroy Pants
- Denim Jeans
- Dressy Blouses
- Oxford Cloth Shirts
- Assorted Skirts
- All Jackets and Coats

SAVE UP TO 30%

1130 Moro
Aggieville
Open: Mon. - Sat. 10-6:00
Thurs. 10-8:30 Sun. 12-5

carousel

Two student senators vacate positions

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

Student Senate will have a handful of empty seats when it meets for the first time this semester at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Union Big Eight Room. Senators not returning to school this semester are John Kohler, College of Arts and Sciences, and Bryan Brauer, College of Agriculture.

Besides Kohler's and Brauer's chairs being open, Lori Leu, Student Senate chairman, said the Graduate Council needs three additional members to have a total of eight.

"We have already notified the councils, and we hope they find replacements — the sooner the better," Leu said.

Kohler, whose campaign was highlighted by advertisements saying "Paid for by Mom," graduated in May and is now attending law school at the University of Kansas. Leu said Kohler had not applied for graduation when he decided to run for the senate position and a position on the Board of Student Publications.

Brett Lambert, president of the Arts and Science Council, said Kohler campaigned for the senate position with the intent of returning to graduate school here if not accepted to KU's law school.

"John didn't act with any malice towards SGA when he ran," he said, "and would have returned but was accepted to law school."

Brauer did not return to school for personal reasons, Leu said, but probably also had every intent to return this fall.

The Arts and Science and Agriculture councils reported having students already interested in the open positions.

To fill the open senate positions and the one Board of Student Publications opening, the councils and board will advertise the open positions first and then consider the candidates. Advertisements for the open positions will appear in the next week.

Leu said the Graduate Council is usually short of senators because of the time graduates need to study. Finding a graduate student with open time can be difficult, Leu said, but added "some of our best senators have been graduate students."

The graduate council may also have another open spot after Thursday's meeting. Leu said one graduate senator has had unexcused absences for the last four meetings and, according to senate bylaws, the senator can be impeached for three unexcused absences.

If the senator attends Thursday's meeting, then Leu said she will question him about the absences, and if they are legitimate and the senator wishes to continue in the role, she will not force the impeachment.

Other senators could still force the issue, though. But if the senator doesn't attend and wishes to be relieved of his senate role, the senate chairman said she will ask first for his resignation.

"The thing with a graduate student is you don't want to be as tough on them, since they don't have a full delegation," she said.

An unexcused absence is one Leu has not been notified of 24 hours in advance of the meeting and is something other than sickness, a death in the family or a conflict with a test.

Stepping into the shoes of the previous senators shouldn't be too difficult for a student, Leu said.

Reagan peace efforts, policy anger Cranston

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sen. Alan Cranston, just back from a five-day tour of Central America, said today that efforts to achieve peace in the region "have been weakened by Ronald Reagan's strategy of tough talk and guns."

The California senator, a candidate for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, said he promised leaders of the so-called Contadora nations that he would be "the most ardent advocate" in the United States for their peace efforts.

The Contadora group of nations — formed by Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Panama — is trying to find a regional solution to the turbulence in Central America.

"I have returned from Latin America firmly convinced by Contadora leaders that their efforts have been weakened by Ronald Reagan's strategy of tough talk and guns," Cranston said today.

"To continue down the path of

"I think it depends on the assertiveness of the individual. If they hang around down here and just talk to people they'll learn pretty quick," she said.

"We're really looking for someone who can continue for three to four years," Lambert said. "Someone who can grow with SGA."

brute force fighting the inevitable tide of social change in Latin America means the United States will always be on the wrong side," Cranston added.

"We will isolate ourselves from the countries in our hemisphere, and will eventually end up sending American troops to fight and die in a fruitless effort."

Cranston, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Western Hemisphere, visited all four of the Contadora countries in a trip that began Thursday.

Before making the trip, he was critical — as the other five Democratic presidential hopefuls have been in varying degrees — of administration policy in the region.

March of Dimes Fight Birth Defects

NOW OPEN IN AGGIEVILLE

McPRINT

Instant printing

A NEW PRINTING & COPY SHOP

★ FEATURING ★

INSTANT
OFFSET PRINTING &
XEROX COPIES

24-HOUR TYPESETTING
REPORT & BOOKLET BINDING
REDUCTIONS & ENLARGEMENTS
GRAPHIC / TECHNICAL CAMERA

ALL TYPES OF PRINTING
FLYERS ■ BUSINESS CARDS ■ BROCHURES
NEWSLETTERS ■ ENVELOPES ■ RESUMES
LETTERHEADS ■ INVITATIONS ■ POSTERS

SAME DAY SERVICE!

1211 Moro

539-5749

PRUDENTIAL
RENTERS INSURANCE
The Right Kind of Protection
The Right Amount
And Maximum Value
776-5382 for Appointment
1430 Poyntz Ave. walk-in

Hansen
Nutrition Center

Food Supplements Natural Foods
Special Dietary Foods Appliances
Body Building Foods Books

"Diet cures what diet causes"

HOURS
9:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Mon.-Sat.

3112 Anderson Ave. 537-4571

Wednesday

3 Fers
10 pm-11 pm

2 Fers
11 pm-1 am

at

COWBOY PALACE

Where it don't make
no difference

209 Poyntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

OSBORNE
COMPUTER CORPORATION

If You've Been Waiting,
NOW is the Time
To Buy Your OSBORNE
Computer System.
Prices Have
Been Dropped
35%!!
at Bronco

System Includes: WordStar,
SuperCalc, MBasic, CBasic,
CP/M operating system.

Total price: $1295.00

BRONCO COMPUTER SYSTEMS

714 Poyntz Ave. Suite C
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
913-778-0745

116 W. Jefferson St.
Manhattan, Kansas 66506
913-378-3116

Levi's

1st Quality
SPECIAL

Style 505 St. Legs $15.99
Style 517 Boot Cuts

Style 501 Shrink to fit $17.99
Add $1.00 for inseam 38, 40.

Mens Calvin Klein
waist 28-38 $29.99

Levi's Belts
$5.99

Recycled Levi's

Denim $10.99 Corduroy $7.99
Not 1st Quality

BACK
TO SCHOOL SAVINGS

Mens Short Sleeve
Shirts and Knits
Levi's, DEE CEE, Kennington
$11.99-$16.00
Extra Value

2
FER $19.99

the shoe center THE SASSY SADDLE!

50's Fashion with 80's Excitement

connie

COLORS:
Navy & Creme
Off White Suede
Red & White
Dirty Buck Suede

the shoe center
539-3595
312 POYNTZ

"Jan"
$37.95

Lee

The brand that Fits
Juniors, Misses and Petites
"SPECIAL"
Lee Straight Leg Authentic
Five pocket western style.

$19.99

Style No. 302-8749 - No. 314-8749
No. 305-9549 - No. 319-9549

Lee

Fashion Colored
Jeans by Levi's.

Gloria Vanderbilt, Levi's

$12-$18

Calvin Kleih
Ms. Sizes 4-12

No. 1600
No. 1603
No. 1607 $24.99

Whats Left of Summer

Blouses, Knit Tops, Shorts, Slacks,
Swim Suits ect. Not All sizes...

Many items as low as

$2-$5-$10-$15

ALL SALES FINAL NO EXCHANGES OR REFUNDS

Thursday 10-8

Weekday 10-6

Sunday 12-30-5

FASHION WORLD

3015 Anderson Ave.

Next to Valentino's

Village Plaza

State jobless rate hits 16-month low; 61,900 Kansans unemployed in July

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The jobless rate in Kansas dropped to 5.1 percent in July, the lowest in 16 months and down three-tenths of a percent from the 5.4 percent recorded in June, the state announced Tuesday.

There were 61,900 people out of work across the state during July compared with 66,000 in June, according to the Department of Human Resources. The jobless rate was 5.8 percent in July 1982, and last month's figure was the lowest since March 1982 when the statewide rate was 5 percent.

State analysts said the decline in July was yet another sign that economic recovery was being felt in Kansas. Unemployment has continued to drop in Kansas since February when the statewide rate stood at 7 percent.

"We see nothing right now preventing the drop in unemployment from continuing until mid-October," said Fritz Prohaska, research analyst for the Department of Human Resources.

October is the traditional low point for unemployment, and Prohaska declined to speculate what would happen beyond that time.

He attributed the decline in July to job gains in manufacturing, construction, mining and trade industries.

"The most important part of the stats has to be the drop in unemployment from July 1982 to July 1983," said Prohaska. "That has to be attributed to economic recovery."

Still, total government employment was down about 11,000 mainly because of seasonal job losses in schools. Part-time student workers, maintenance, food service and other "auxiliary" personnel account for the losses when schools close for the summer, said Prohaska.

Manufacturing jobs increased about 900 from June to July, construction jobs were up about 500, mining and trade jobs each increased about 300.

Despite that, the number of working Kansans in July was down about 1,300 from July 1982. Prohaska said that was a result mostly of a long-term trend of permanent job losses in farming.

"Farming has been an industry that has become less and less dependent upon labor," said Prohaska. "It's not just Kansas; it's everywhere."

The jobless rates in the state's metropolitan areas all showed improvement last month.

Wichita's unemployment rate held steady at 6.5 percent in July, unchanged from the previous month.

In July 1982, the unemployment rate was 8.3 percent in Wichita.

Topeka's jobless rate dropped to 5.4 percent in July from 5.8 percent in June. It was 6 percent in July 1982.

Figures for Kansas City, Kan. are compiled with the Kansas City metropolitan area and are not released by the Human Resources Department.

The worst unemployment in Kansas continued to be Montgomery County, in southeast Kansas, although it showed a significant improvement. The jobless rate was 10.2 percent in July, down from 11.1 percent in the previous month.

Other areas with high unemployment were Labette and Atchison counties. Labette County's jobless rate was at 8.1 percent in July, down from 8.9 percent in June. Atchison County was at 7.4 percent in July, up from 7 percent in June.

CONVENIENT STUDENT LOANS FOR YOU, FROM THE FIRST.

We know all about the financial burdens that come with getting a college education. That's why we're here to help you, with a student loan from The First.

Our helpful and friendly staff can answer all your questions and take care of the details. Plus, The First makes the whole thing as easy as a walk across campus.

Come on in and pick up your student loan application. It's another service for you, from The First.

1 First National Bank
Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations
• Main Bank — 201 Fourth • Downtown Bank — Johnson & Culler
• First West — 3005 Archer Ave. • Overstreet Bank — 4th & Prairie
All Locations 537-0200 Member FDIC

Hostage experience 'best of life'

By The Associated Press

WICHITA — Presbyterian missionary John Haspels said Tuesday that his two weeks as a hostage of Sudanese rebels fostered a relationship with natives that he and his co-workers had sought for years.

"For me personally, it was the best experience of my life," the Kansas said during an interview in Wichita.

During three years of work in the Boma area of southern Sudan, Haspels and his colleagues had been unable to establish close relations with local residents, he said.

"But during the first week of our captivity, we were able to develop relations with the local people on a much deeper level than before," he said.

Haspels, 36, said local people concerned about him and four other hostages came to the rebels' encampment and spent hours drinking tea and talking.

The five hostages were among 11 people kidnapped by the rebels June 24 and June 25. Six of the 11, including Mr. Haspels' wife and three children, were released June 27.

The rebels, who said they were fighting to free black, Christian southern Sudan from the domination of Arab Moslems in the north, had threatened to kill the hostages unless their demands were met.

Haspels said that after he was taken hostage, he noticed every opportunity to escape and got a knot in his stomach when the chances weren't seized.

But as the hostages read scriptures, a theme surfaced, he said. One of the Bible passages, for instance, said: "Rest in the Lord. Wait patiently for him to act."

"Finally we realized what God was really wanting of us was to not try to escape but to wait on him to deliver us," Haspels said.

ADD SUM* FUN TO YOUR LIFE

The STUDENT USHERS of McCain* are once again recruiting active, energetic, upbeat students who like to help others have fun and who are lovers of the performing arts.

Do YOU fit this description? McCain NEEDS YOU to volunteer hours to usher at professional performances and at student productions. In return for your time we will give you free tickets to exciting events on the 1983-1984 McCain Performance Series.

Join us at an Orientation Meeting in the McCain Lobby on Tuesday, August 30 at 4:45 p.m. FOR FUN JOIN SUM*.

It's Magic...
3+2 FERS

WED. NITES!

- 3 Fers 8-9:00
- 2 Fers 9-10:00
- On Draws

ROCKIN' K BAR

LADIES NITE THURS!

MAKE TRACKS TO KISTNERS FLOWERS & GREENHOUSE

FOR

- CACTUS SALE 2 FOR $1.00
- SELECTED GREEN PLANTS 6-INCH POTS $5.00
- HANGING PHILODENDRON 10-INCH POTS $7.50

While They Last
Receive a Free
Carnation Just
for Tracking Through

KISTNER'S GREENHOUSE
HIGHWAY 177 SOUTH 1 MILE PAST VIADUCT
776-7989 776-7044

FLYING LESSONS
AIRCRAFT RENTAL
PILOT SERVICES
free ground instruction
flexible scheduling
reasonable rates

J. Van Swaay 537-0132

"We can get a Coke and keep the Old Fashioned
Coke Mug"

"LET'S ALL GO TO DAIRY QUEEN"

Both 89¢
Only

OPEN 10:30 A.M. TO 11 P.M.
TIL MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT.

1015 N. 3rd
Manhattan

* Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Am. D. & Q. Corp.
© Copyright 1974, Am. D. & Q. Corp.

*the casual
encounter*

1208 Moro
in Aggieville

Presenting the newest,
softest, strongest, great
looking cord jeans in 6 beautiful colors
for Guys & Gals.

Lee

The brand that fits

Regular
Fit Straight Leg

Genuine Lee Riders™
Comfort & Fit
Quality & Value

Ultra Cord™
Ultra Sports
Sweepstakes

Win $20,000 worth of Super Bowl '84 excitement! Your group of 8 could win expenses for hotels, transportation, meals, cash and the best Tampa, Florida has to offer! Just come in and fill out an entry blank in our store. Your entry also makes you eligible to win one of 25 Sony 50" projection TV's or a Lee Sport Bag! Hurry, deadline for entry is September 16. No Purchase necessary. Void if prohibited by law.

Pick up your FREE ENTRY
BLANK at

the casual encounter

1208 Moro in Aggieville

Where Else But The Students' Bank?

FOR
STUDENT LOANS

LOANS ARE STILL AVAILABLE
THIS SEMESTER

Let KSBank get you started toward your educational goal. We helped Richard Steelsmith and we can help you too.

At Kansas State Bank the college student is important, and our commitment to students goes farther than just words. We were the first bank in town to have a full-time student loan department. Even now, we have more experience with guaranteed student loans than all other banking institutions in Manhattan combined. It just makes sense to apply for a loan at the institution that pioneered student loans in Manhattan.

KSBank

Kansas State Bank

■ MAIN BANK — 1010 WEST LOOP
■ Our student loan department
MEMBER FDIC

537-4400

Kicking across country

Staff/Andy Nelson

Alfredo Rosas goes through a stretching exercise alongside Bryan Carroll and Mike Rogers. Returning from last year's squad, Rosas and Carroll will lead the team into the cross country season beginning Sept. 16 in Wichita.

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian Classifieds

K.C. Royals have seen better days

There was a time when it was almost impossible for Kansas City fans to get a ticket to see the Royals.

For years, fans from everywhere would gather in cars and recreational vehicles just to see the Royals dominate the American League West Division.

Although fans still flock in record numbers to see the Royals play, the attitude of this year's baseball crowd is different from that of previous years.

With two months remaining before the Major League playoffs, the Royals have steadily declined as baseball's most exciting team. Second in the American League West, nine games behind league-leading Chicago White Sox, the Royals are at that point in the season when winning games are becoming a thing in the past.

What's wrong with the Royals? Some say it's pitching, others say it's inconsistent hitting. And still others say there's a lack of winning desire among team members.

Whatever the reason, the Royals are definitely not the same ballclub that defeated the New York Yankees for the American League Pennant three years ago and took the Philadelphia Phillies to six games in the World Series before finally losing.

When Kansas City entered the 1980 season, Royals manager Whitey Herzog was the kind of coach any major league team would want to build their organization around. He was a coach with class and someone who had plenty of knowledge about the game of baseball.

However, class and knowledge wasn't the only thing Herzog had. He also had everything necessary for a championship team — hitters who could hit the ball out of the ballpark and a pitching staff that was capable of maintaining respect from AL batters.

Although Herzog struggled to keep the Royals on top of the major league charts, his determination to be the best not only won him a AL title and a spot in the World Series, but he also gained respect from

TRACY ALLEN
Staff Writer

baseball fans around the country, the media and the Royals' front office.

Now that Herzog is gone to the St. Louis Cardinals, the Royals are still struggling, but this year's struggle seems to be turning into a disaster.

Unlike the 1980 season, when the Royals were leading in every statistical department that you could imagine, this year's team hasn't kept up the image of being a consistent and winning team.

In 1980, the Royals had at least six players — George Brett, Willie Aikens, Hal McRae, Willie Wilson, John Mayberry and U.L. Washington — averaging .270 or better in the batting charts. Besides Brett, who won the AL batting crown that year, at least three of these players were ranked as top performers at their position.

Now, three years later, the same players — except for John Mayberry, who last year played for the New York Yankees — are still wearing the blue and white uniforms. However, there's a difference with this year's crew.

Instead of proving to American League pitchers their ability to hit the ball, every player — except for George Brett, who is leading the team with a .335 average and Hal McRae, who continues to cause problems for American League outfielders with his team leading doubles and triples — has lost the touch that the team used to get to the top of the division.

What problem is it that the Royals must overcome to retain American League West lead?

Could it be that the rest of the Royals players are not as good as Brett or McRae? Or could it be that players such as Amos Otis, who are beyond the age of 35, are becoming too old and therefore need to retire from baseball?

I doubt that either of these could be the sole reason for the Royals bizarre season. But, one thing you can say — that is, if the Royals want to win the American League West — something is going to have to be done. And it's going to have to happen now.

First, the Royals need to change their pitching staff.

For years, Kansas City has been known as a team lacking quality pitchers. Although Royals pitchers such as Paul Splittorff and Larry Gura remain near the top of AL charts, this year's club still lacks depth in its starting lineup and bullpen.

A solution to the problem could be getting rid of all pitchers that are beyond the age of 40. I'm sure Gaylord Perry had a phenomenal career. But, for the Royals sake, getting rid of Perry won't make the team any worse than it already is.

Another problem that this year's team has is poor fielding. The Royals have always been known as a team with excellent defense — that is, until this year.

Although, Willie Aikens is the kind of guy who can easily hit a ball out of the ballpark, his fielding skills are becoming something you would see in a Pee-Wee League. But, I guess you have to give Aikens credit. If he didn't have players like Brett who would throw the ball over his head and U.L. Washington, who sometimes throws as if he was aiming at the popcorn vendor in Section 12, Aikens could be a better fielder.

It has become obvious that the front office must begin to make plans to improve the quality of players in order to stay alive in the AL West.

Pan Am scandal continues

By The Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — Twelve U.S. track and field athletes left the Pan American Games today and four more weightlifters, including a triple gold-medal winning American, were stripped of their medals amidst the biggest drug crackdown in the history of international athletics.

A total of eight weightlifters now have been stripped of medals for illegal use of steroids.

There was no specific mention that they left because of drug use, and it could not be determined whether any of them had actually undergone drug tests, but the announcement was coupled with a strong statement warning against the use of banned substances to improve performances.

A statement issued by F. Don Miller, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, and Evie Dennis, chief of the U.S. mission at the Pan Am Games, said the athletes

"have chosen not to participate in the Games."

"Their individual decisions to withdraw should not be taken as an implication of guilt or interpreted in any similar manner," Dennis and Miller said.

A statement issued by officials stated that any athlete found in violation of banned substances codes may be prevented from competing in the 1984 Olympic Games.

BALFOUR GIGANTIC
BACK TO SCHOOL SALE
20% OFF

- Russell Gymshorts
(18 colors including pastels)
- Pants, Crews and Hooded
Sweatwear
(19 colors)
- KSU Gymshorts
- Fashion Gymshorts

ALL 20% OFF!

Offer good now thru Sat., Aug. 27

Open Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30; Thurs. until 8:30

716 N. Manhattan

776-5461

Balfour

On Sale!

All our corduroy jeans plus a Fall crop of casual tops.

Sale 16.99

Reg. $22. If you've been hunting for great fitting, great looking corduroy jeans, join the club. The Hunt Club™ in great colors for junior sizes 5 to 15.

Sale 15.99

Reg. $20. Our all-cotton Hunt Club™ knit shirt lends a terrific tailored touch to casual fashions. S,M,L.

Prices effective through Saturday

Hours:
Thursday 9-8:30
Sunday 12-5
Daily 9-6

JCPenney

4th and Houston
Manhattan, KS

Defeating the habit

Often described as the rich man's drug, cocaine has infiltrated professional sports organizations.

Recently, it was announced that the Kansas City Royals are under investigation by the FBI. About the only surprise to anyone was that local heroes could be involved.

Gone is the disbelief that professional athletes are immune from drug consumption — namely cocaine.

Approximately a year ago, Rookie-of-the-Year in the National Football League, George Rogers, informed a grand jury that he had spent $10,000 on cocaine during his first year playing professional football.

Despite his confession of guilt, Rogers was allowed to return to his football team, the New Orleans Saints, without disciplinary action.

The first hint of drug use by professional athletes on a major scale became known with the disclosure by Don Reese — a player for the Miami Dolphins — of widespread use of cocaine by athletes.

Since the disclosures, the notion of declining use has not become true.

Although the National Football League and other major sports warn of stricter policies against the use of any drugs by athletes, critics warn that crackdowns will only prevent further disclosures by individuals in any sports.

Since Reese told his story, approximately 30 players have sought help from the NFL's rehabilitation program at the Hazelden Foundation in Center City, Minn.

Pete Rozelle, NFL's commissioner, recently suspended Greg Stenrick of the New Orleans Saints and E.J. Junior of the St. Louis Cardinals for violation of NFL drug policies and threatened additional disciplinary action in pending cases involving five members of the Dallas Cowboys who have been linked to a federal drug probe.

NFL officials have said for many years the league's disapproval of drug misuse has been emphasized to

SEAN REILLY
Sports Editor

players in team playbooks, locker room notices, player contracts and annual visits to every squad by league security representatives. More emphasis was placed upon these measures when, in 1974, the San Diego Chargers' general manager and eight players were found guilty of drug misuse.

Since that incident, the NFL has granted amnesty to players who voluntarily seek rehabilitative treatment and whose drug problems have not entangled them in the criminal justice system.

Posted in each major league baseball clubhouse is a list of regulations concerning the misuse of drugs. In its essence, the regulations state that "anyone involved in the illegal possession or use of drugs or illegal trafficking with drugs of any sort will be subject to discipline."

In serious cases, players could face a suspension or dismissal from contract guarantees.

Currently, the NFL and its players' association allow clubs "with reasonable cause" to give players physical examinations.

Other professional sports are taking similar measures to ensure players are not misusing drugs.

When an athlete suffers from drug abuse, it could impede his performance and, in turn, affect his team's performance. As a result, gate attendance and profits will decline.

Therefore, making the public aware of the situation and administering some form of punishment to the athlete will salvage the money-making aspect of professional sports and most important of all, preserve the integrity of the sport and allow its athletes to remain heroes in the eyes of their fans.

Track team prepares for upcoming meet

By The Collegian Staff

Although indoor and outdoor track season doesn't start until later this year, Steve Miller, men's and women's head track coach, already is preparing meets.

The men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and the cross country teams will have a mandatory meeting at 5 p.m. Wednesday in Union Room 212. All team members and others interested in participating should attend.

"The meeting is being held to inform students of physicals required by the NCAA and of the academic responsibilities they have to the University," Miller said.

"We also will try to organize for the '83-84 season," Miller said.

The first scheduled cross country competition is the Shocker Invitational Sept. 15 at Wichita State University. Schools such as Oklahoma State University, University of Kansas, University of Arizona, Arizona State University and Wichita State will be participating in the contest.

During last spring's indoor competition, the women's squad showed an improvement in the Big Eight Conference final standings by finishing second — compared to a seventh place finish the year before.

The men's team also improved upon their record in 1983 by placing fourth as compared with a last place finish in the Big Eight in 1982.

In outdoor competition last spring, both the men's and women's teams raised their standing to third place. In 1982 they finished fourth and sixth place respectively.

Hickey adds another recruit

By The Collegian Staff

Dennis Allen, a 22-year-old, right-handed shortstop was signed by Coach Bill Hickey last week to the K-State baseball team. Allen comes from Sacramento, Calif. and attended Dodge City Community College the past two seasons.

He was redshirted as a freshman, but in 1983, Allen won All-Region VI honors while batting .349 with two home runs, 35 RBIs and 17 stolen bases. Dodge City won the Region VI

Western Division with a 21-17 record.

"Dennis has a super attitude, great speed, and he comes from a junior college with lots of playing experience," Hickey said. "He's the type of player who will give us experience in the middle of the infield, and he still has three years of eligibility left."

Allen said, "I liked K-State's rebuilding program, the campus and a chance to play. I like what I've seen of Coach Hickey, too."

Major league standings

AMERICAN LEAGUE					NATIONAL LEAGUE
East Division					East Division
	W	L	Pct.	GB		W	L	Pct.	GB
Milwaukee	71	53	.573	—	Philadelphia	63	59	.518	½
Baltimore	69	52	.570	¼	Pittsburgh	61	61	.500	2½
Detroit	69	54	.561	1½	Montreal	60	61	.496	3
Toronto	70	55	.560	1½	St. Louis	55	70	.440	10
New York	67	56	.545	3½	Chicago	51	72	.415	13
Boston	60	64	.484	11
Cleveland	52	73	.416	19½
West Division					West Division
	W	L	Pct.	GB		W	L	Pct.	GB
Chicago	69	55	.556	—	Atlanta	74	50	.597	—
Kansas City	50	62	.448	8	Los Angeles	70	52	.574	3
Oakland	62	65	.488	8½	Houston	64	59	.520	9½
Texas	59	65	.476	10	San Diego	63	62	.504	11½
California	59	66	.472	10½	San Francisco	58	67	.464	18½
Minnesota	54	72	.429	16	Cincinnati	58	69	.457	17½
Seattle	48	77	.384	2½

Tuesday's Games

Toronto 9, Baltimore 3
California 5, Cleveland 2
Kansas City 10, Chicago 2
Oakland 9, New York 3
Seattle 5, Milwaukee 0
Minnesota 3, Boston 2
Detroit 2, Texas 0.

Tuesday's Games

Cincinnati 4, Chicago 2
Houston 5, Pittsburgh 5, 1st game
Houston at Pittsburgh, 2nd game
St. Louis 7, Atlanta 0
New York at San Diego, n
Montreal at Los Angeles, n
Philadelphia at San Francisco, n

Ticket sales increase

By The Collegian Staff

Sales of season football tickets are up approximately 2.3 percent from a year ago, according to Carol Adolph, ticket manager.

"Ticket sales are going very well. We have surpassed last year's ticket total," Adolph said.

Currently, student ticket sales are at 5,500 compared with last year's total sale of 8,000. Overall ticket sales are 6,350, 150 over last year's total.

Adolph said there are 10 days left before the first football game this season, so students may still purchase tickets.

Adolph predicted ticket sales this year to be about 16,000. The all-time record for season ticket sales at K-State was in 1970 when 21,600 were sold.

No games are sold out at this point but the Nebraska game is a near sellout, Adolph said.

Although she doesn't know the reason for the rise in ticket sales, Adolph said the success of the football team last year is a possible factor.

Westloop Floral

PLANT SALE

Special prices on all green plants
Sale thru Saturday

1346 Westloop Place
537-2845 8-5:30

Résumé Service

Professional

Résumé Preparation

Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

50% off 25% off
BASIC SETS OPEN STOCK

ON FINE 18/8 WALLACE STAINLESS

FREE SERVING SET

with the purchase of 40 or 60 piece sets

Tablespoon • Pierced Tablespoon
Butter Serving Knife • Sugar Spoon

Sale ends Sept. 24, 1983

Campbell's
Complete Tabletop Bridal Registry

1227 Moro
in Aggieville

5th & Poyntz
Downtown

GOODSON AUTO TRIM

Tailor Made Seat Covers

Tanneau Covers—Boat Covers—
Convertible Tops
Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery

207 Poyntz
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

Beauty For All Seasons

FOCUS ON YOU
PERSONAL COLOR CONSULTING

- Personal Color Analysis
- Make-up and Skin Care keyed to your season
- Individualized Wardrobe coordination
- Certified Color Consultant—Bonnie Hansen, Ph.D.

—Save $10.00 on Fall
Introductory Special—

Call 776-3438 or 539-9286

Parker presents 2500 chances your father never had.

10 Grand Prizes.
A Texas Instruments 99/4A home computer system worth $1,995.00.

500 Second Prizes.
A Texas Instruments 99/2 basic computer worth $99.95.

2000 Third Prizes.
A Texas Instruments student math calculator worth $25.00.

Enter the Parker Top-of-the-Class Sweepstakes and you could win something that can give you a real advantage in life.

Your own Texas Instruments home computer.

While you're at it, pick up something better to write with, too. A Parker Jotter ball pen.

Its microscopically-textured ball grips the paper to help prevent messy blobbing and skipping.

And it writes up to five times longer than most ball pens.

Look for sweepstakes entry forms and details at your college bookstore. But do it soon. With over 500 computers to win, this is one sweepstakes worth entering. While you still have the chance.

PARKER

To enter the Parker Top-of-the-Class Sweepstakes, no purchase necessary. Void where prohibited. All entries must be received no later than October 15, 1983. ©1983 TTYC.

YOU are the "U" in the K-State Union

Regular semester hours:

Monday—Thursday 8:00 am - 8:00 pm
 Friday 8:00 am - 5:00 pm
 Saturday 10:00 am - 4:00 pm
 (On night home football games we will be open until 7:00 pm)

Save! Save! Save! on our supply of many used textbooks.

Check out our large stock of non-textbooks. Thousands of titles in both hardback and paperback.

See us for all your required supply needs.

Check out our everyday low prices!

Refund and Exchange Policy for Textbooks and General Merchandise

Please verify with your instructor that you have purchased the correct books for your classes. If you find that you have inadvertently selected a book which is not appropriate, you may bring it back to the bookstore for exchange or refund subject to the following policy.

1. Save your cash register receipt. No refunds or exchanges can be allowed without presentation of a valid cash register receipt.
2. Refunds or exchanges made on or before the second Friday of classes will be made with no penalty to the purchaser (except for item three below). Thereafter a partial refund or exchange will be made according to the following schedule:

	Regular Semester	Summer Session
On or before the first Friday of classes	100%	100%
On or before the second Friday of classes	100%	75%
On or before the third Friday of classes	80%	50%
On or before the fourth Friday of classes	70%	no refund
On or before the fifth Friday of classes	60%	no refund
On or before the sixth Friday of classes	50%	no refund
After the sixth Friday of classes	no refund	no refund

3. Books which were purchased new must be returned in absolutely new condition. Books which have been marked or damaged in any way are subject to a 25% return or exchange penalty.
4. Defective merchandise is returnable at any reasonable time.
5. The above applies to books designated for classes. All other books must be returned within three weekdays of date of purchase.
6. All non-text items must be returned within 3 days to receive a refund. A valid cash register receipt must accompany the return.
7. Special orders, magazines, sundry items and used merchandise may not be returned for a refund. (Defective Merchandise may be returned for credit within a reasonable time.)

k-state union
bookstore 0302

Check these specials at the bookstore!!

☒ NIJI Mechanical Pencil .5m regular $1.98, during month of August only 98¢. (limited supply)

☒ 200 sheet ct. college or narrow ruled filler paper $2.00 value only $1.55. (while supply lasts)

☒ Buy 3—70 sheet ct. college ruled notebooks for only $2.50. (limited supply)

☒ 1 and 2 inch special 3-ring vinyl binders regular price $3.75 for only $1.85 (while supply lasts)

☒ 200 sheet ct. Engineering Paper was $4.30 now everyday low price of $3.45.

☒ Papermate "Value Pack" pen promotion, when you buy 1 extra-fine pen at 79¢ receive 2 medium point pens FREE. (limited supply)

☒ 10% off all calculators during first week of class. (limited quantities, no special orders, please)

☒ FREE I.D. holder to the first 10,000 customers.

☒ Check out Josten's Class Ring Special during the first week of classes.

☒ Koh-I-Noor—7 pen set special regular price $78.50 our price $33.00. (while supply lasts)

☒ Check out our everyday low prices of Zipatone lettering.

☒ Look for discount coupons in the "K-State Union Overall" and the "Programmer."

Departments, building adopt new names

By TRACY ALLEN
Staff Writer

Two University departments and one building, Traffic and Security; Health, Physical Education and Recreation; and Nichols Gymnasium, have all undergone name changes over the summer.

Art Stone, director of the KSU Police Department, said the name changes were made, because many students were misinterpreting departmental functions.

traffic incidents that occur around campus, Stone said this will not be the only function of the department.

"We're not saying we don't write tickets, but the department will have other functions," Stone said.

He said University security officers will now be recognized as more than just traffic officers due to a new state statute passed this summer. They will now be listed as law enforcement officers and will have the same authority as a city police department on the campus grounds.

According to the statute, University police will be required to take a minimum of 40 hours of instruction at the Law Enforcement Academy in Hutchinson to be classified as Kansas law enforcement officers.

Don Kirkendall, head of the Physical Education, Dance and Leisure Studies department, also is looking forward to the name change.

Kirkendall said his department will have the same graduation requirements for students majoring in the department, but students enrolled in the Recreation sequence will now be classified as Leisure Studies majors.

"We felt that the name Leisure Studies would be more accepted than the original name," Kirkendall said.

In addition to the name change, the Health curriculum was transferred to the College of Home Economics.

Another name change that students will notice is Nichols Hall. Formerly known as Nichols Gymnasium, Nichols Hall will house the Departments of Speech and Computer Science and will be used as storage space for Farrell Library.

The building, which was destroyed in a 1969 fire, will be reconstructed and is scheduled to be completed in fall 1985.

"The object of the name changes was to give citizens a better idea of the functions of the various departments," Stone said.

"There were a combination of reasons why we (KSU Police Department) decided to go with the change. First, the term 'security' is obsolete. Individuals were misinformed about the purpose of the department."

Although campus police are responsible for taking care of all

Grant expands ag program's research

By JANICE STUCKY
Staff Writer

K-State's Office of International Agriculture Programs has received a $67,756 grant as part of a national farming systems research project.

The funds became available at the start of the new fiscal year, which began July 1.

"The University of Florida was given a grant (by the Agency for International Development - AID) as part of a Farming Systems Support Project involving millions of dollars," said William Jorns, assistant director of K-State's Office of International Agriculture Programs. "Our grant is a sub-contract with the University of Florida in support of their overall project. The project is not in one part of the country. It is an effort to pull together from different universities people with expertise in different areas."

Jorns said K-State will use the grant in three areas:

— To coordinate farming systems research work being done here with work being done at the University of Florida.

— To work on K-State's farming systems research documentation program.

— To sponsor K-State's third annual internationally-attended Farming Systems Symposium Oct. 31-Nov. 2.

"Part of the grant is that we're providing a bibliography for AID," Jorns said. "We have people in Farrell (Library) who work specifically with this documentation program," Jorns said.

Jorns emphasized that farming systems research encompasses much more than the activities being funded in this most recent grant.

"The overall objective of farming systems research is to help developing countries relate their research to the problems and constraints of the small subsistence farmer."

Jorns said very few countries have the same type of extension program as the United States.

"The relationship between farmers and research is very well developed in our country," he said.

Philadelphia politics heat city

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — The steamy summer hasn't slowed campaigning and fund-raising by the three men seeking to become mayor of the nation's fourth largest city, where race is a visible but downplayed issue.

The May primary was the city's most expensive, costing candidates more than $5 million — including about $2 million each by the Democratic candidates. That record is expected to be topped in the run for the Nov. 8 election with each candidate hoping to raise around $2 million.

The battle pits two whites — independent Democrat Thomas Leonard and millionaire Republican John Egan Jr., who changed his Democratic registration for the GOP endorsement — against Democrat W. Wilson Goode, who hopes to be the city's first black mayor. Goode was managing director in the administration of retiring Mayor William Green.

The city has a 42 percent black and Hispanic population and Democrats outnumber Republicans better than 4 to 1 among some 1 million registered voters. Throughout the summer, candidates worked behind the scenes, raising money and making television commercials.

"People are getting interested," said Egan. Goode said apathy is disappearing and "people can't wait to vote."

Goode, in winning the Democratic nomination over the comeback try of controversial former Mayor Frank Rizzo, got 98.5 percent of the black vote. Confident of retaining that in November, he has concentrated post-primary campaigning in white neighborhoods that went for Rizzo.

Goode got Rizzo's endorsement, which is hoped will unite the party and defuse any unspoken white opposition to a black mayor. He also enticed to his side Charles Dougherty, a former Republican congressman who unsuccessfully sought the GOP mayoralty nomination.

Tonight
BBQ BUFFET
RIBS, BEEF & CHICKEN
$3.95

All you can Eat
Plus 25c draws

At the Ramada Inn
17th & Anderson

Hair by Rick & Friends
404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222
Manhattan
Appointments
Closed Mon. Tues.-Fri. 9-6
Sat. 8-3

Hibachi Hut
Clip this Coupon
and Save
1/2 Pound Belly Bomb with Cheese
Choice of Fries or
Tater Tots
$2.95
Offer Expires Aug. 25
Coupon not valid w/ any other offers.
608 N. 12th 539-9906

FLY TO K-STATE
BALL GAMES
By using affordable K-State Flying Club aircraft, you can fly inexpensively to away KSU games. Instrument-rated flying club members are willing to share equally actual costs to attend K-State sports events. For more information and approximate costs, call Hugh Irvin at 539-3128 or 532-6311.

THE DONUT HOLE
• Fresh Donuts
• Dipped Ice Cream
• Fresh baked rolls and pastries
• Sandwiches on Homemade rolls—starting at $1.59
1101 Moro Mon.-Fri. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Sat. 6:30-11:00 p.m.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL
BIKE SALE!
BASSETTS BIKE SHOP
(Downtown)
217 Poyntz 537-8832
For the best in Sales
& Service
• NEW
• USED
• PARTS
• ACCESSORIES
• REPAIR
★ CENTURION — NISHIKI — KHS — TAKARA — DIAMOND BACK ★
NISHIKI BICYCLES 20% off
FREE $20 worth of accessories
with NEW bike purchase*
*Nishiki Bikes not included in this offer.

KANSAS COMPUTER EXHIBITION
Your chance to explore a fascinating array of the newest computer hardware and software on the market today... for both the home and the office.
AUG. 26-27-28 • CENTURY II • WICHITA

3 BIG DAYS!
(Each with a special emphasis)
FRI., AUG. 26 — 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Business Computers and Software
SAT., AUG. 27 — 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Professional systems applications
SUN., AUG. 28 — 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.
Personal computers and games
FREE SEMINARS! Planned to meet your special interests. Be sure to register at the show for free admittance.
SOFTWARE APPLICATIONS — in the fields of word processing, accounting, medical, graphics, agriculture... and many others.
ADMISSION — Adults: $3.50; Students and senior citizens: $2; 3-day show pass $8.

office World
SAVE BIG on your Staedtler/Mars Technical Pen Set Staedtler Marsmatic Technical Pen Set 700 $4 (00,0,1,2)
RETAIL—$42.00
SPECIAL—$18.50
Office World
1130 Garden Way
across from Westloop
776-6864
Free Lead Holder to the first 30 who purchase a set

Aggie Hair Port
776-7377
711 N. 11th
Aggieville
PERM SPECIAL
Our regular $48.00 perms are now on special for $35.00! (cut is included)
Offer good now through Sept. 2.
Guys & Gals Welcome!
("Our profession is hair care")

Alicia and Co.
Make-up Consultation done by professionals
2805 Claflin
537-9825

WORSHIP ON CAMPUS
NEVER ALONE
DANFORTH CHAPEL
SUNDAYS 11:00 A.M.
• INTERDENOMINATIONAL — INTERNATIONAL
• HOLY COMMUNION — FRIENDSHIP
• STUDENT PARTICIPATION
This service is an All-University interdenominational worship to provide a caring, responding Christian community on campus. We would especially invite international and minority students to share in this community so as to deepen interracial and intercultural understanding and healing.
Sponsored by: Lutheran Campus Ministry, 1021 Denison Avenue, 539-4451

DRS. PRICE, YOUNG & ODLE OPTOMETRISTS
General Practice
and All Type of Contact Lenses
Soft—Extended Wear—to Sleep with
Soft for Astigmatism
Flex—Oxygen Permeable
Fast Replacement
for Lost or Damaged Lenses
Payment Arrangements Available
WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER
PHONE 537-1118

WESTERN OUTPOST
BACK TO SCHOOL
MS. LEE STRAIGHT LEGS $18.50
WRANGLER COWGIRL CUT 14.50
WOMEN'S LEVI CORDS 15.50
ALL WOMEN BOOTS 40% OFF
LEVI 501's 17.95
LEVI SADDLEMAN BOOT CUT 17.25
LEE BOOTCUT 11.50
LEE STRAIGHT LEGS 17.20
WRANGLER BOOTCUT $8.99 to $10.50
LEE AND WRANGLER CORDS 11.00
WRANGLER JEAN JACKETS 10.00
LINED JEAN JACKET 15.00
MEN'S BOOTS 40% OFF
BELTS SELECTED STYLES 50% OFF
Open:
Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m. - 6 p.m.
523 S. 17th
Manhattan
Old Town Mall
538-3132
Thurs. 9 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Sat. 9 a.m. - 7 p.m.
1984

Classified

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Octoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate! Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908 (2-17).

DAUGHTERS OF Diana will meet for a mandatory meeting at the TKE house Thursday evening. Executives at 6:30 p.m., Active at 7:00 p.m., Pillow Sale at 8:00 p.m. (3-4).

ATTENTION 02

ATTENTION STUDENTS—Need low cost health insurance? Call Gross Insurance, 776-4709. An inexpensive alternative. (1-5).

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10).

Dorm Girls!!!

Need more space??

We've built Bunk Beds for over 100 satisfied customers. $55. Call David, 539-6267 or Kip, 539-4638.

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f).

ADVENTURE, TRAVEL—Responsible position for management trainee. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (2).

Sigma Sigma Sigma Loves Their Pledges!

PHOTOGRAPHER—AVAILABLE for weddings, reunions, fraternity/sorority party pictures. Reserve your dates early by phoning 776-8502 evenings. Ask for Brian, (3-7).

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COMPACT REFRIGERATORS for sale or rent. D&S Rental Center, 1927 Ft. Riley Blvd. Call 537-2250. (1-5).

APARTMENTS, TRAILERS, nine month contracts. No children, no pets. 537-8494, 537-8389. (11f).

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f).

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f).

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f).

PRIVATE ROOM for grad or senior, non-smoking male. Newly decorated, private entrance, two blocks from college. 539-2703. (2-4).

ZENITH, 19-INCH, color TV, excellent condition, $130. Call 539-5630 after 6:00 p.m. (3).

FOR RENT—APTS 04

TRAVELERS MOTEL—776-4836, three miles East on U.S. 24. Nice room, phone and cable color TV. Low rate. Daily, weekly and monthly. (1-5).

FURNISHED, FIVE-room apartment. One and one-half blocks east campus, $250. Call 537-2858 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5).

STUDIO APARTMENT available September 1, $135 a month. Aggieville location. Call 539-2776. (1-3).

STUDIO FOR rent—$185 a month. Utilities: pay electric only. Call 537-1210. (3-5).

ONE BEDROOM basement apartment, $180 month. Call 776-4378 after 5:00 p.m. $180 deposit. Lease thru July. (3-5).

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid, $210/month, 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10).

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

NICE, FOUR-bedroom house. Residential neighborhood, fenced backyard, fully carpeted. Parking for four cars, close to stadium. Nine- or twelve-month lease. Reasonably priced, 537-4753. (2-6).

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1973 CHEVROLET Caprice—air conditioning, power brakes, power steering, power windows. Evenings, Monday through Friday. All day, Saturday and Sunday, 1-456-7598. (1-3).

1975 FIAT 131 wagon. Excellent condition, air conditioning, 57,000 miles. Phone 539-3466. (1-4).

1971 OPEL 1900, 89,000 miles. Valve job, new camshaft, and valve lifters one year ago. Recent new hoses, exhaust system, and water pump. Excellent mechanically, body good. Asking $700. Call 776-0969. (1-5).

1980 VW Rabbit Deluxe, $5500 or best offer. 1976 Honda Civic Station Wagon, $2800. Call 1-784-6972 after 6:00 p.m. (1-5).

1969 VW Bug, 12,000 miles on rebuilt engine, runs well. Best offer. Call 776-6093 after 5:00 p.m. (2-3).

1978 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition, like new, 37,000 miles. Negotiable. Call 776-0131 evenings. (2-7).

1972 AMC Matador. Good condition, dependable, $800. Call 539-3310. (2-6).

1971 MG Midget. New engine, tires and paint, $2,500. Call 1-239-6337. (3-7).

FOR SALE—MISC 07

APPLE II+—48K, 1 disk drive, monitor, some software. Call 539-2042. (1-5).

SIX-PIECE living room set, $190, heavy-duty washing machine, $145, utility trailer with locking top box, $195. Call 539-0950. (1-3).

RECORD SALE: Albums by groups like Joan Jett, Shooting Star, Loverboy, Quiet Riot, and many more at 1010 Gardenway #A. 1:00-6:00 p.m. or call 537-0248. (1-3).

ROCKSHOT AND TNT cards. Call Don at 537-4046. (1-5).

OFF YOUR Rocker Antiques has all types of furniture and accessories to make your room or apartment unique. 1930s telephones ready to use, old pictures, carpets, tables, rockers, etc. Friday-Sunday, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., 1019 Houston. (1-5).

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risque greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f).

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f).

COMPUTER ACE1000 (Apple), 64K, two drives, 80 columns, monitor, Hayes modem, software, manuals. Call 539-5194. (2-5).

KING-SIZE waterbed frame, headboard, pedestal. Call Mary Ann, 539-1090. (2-4).

SCHWINN CONTINENTAL, 10-speed, light blue, with water bottle and frame pump. Great condition, $145. Call 539-0188. (3-7).

MID-SIZE REFRIGERATOR. Cheaper to own than rent. Perfect for dorm. 776-9270, evenings. (3-5).

10-SPEED BICYCLE, good shape, $45. Call Neil at 539-5766 or 532-5866. (3).

CRAIG STEREO System: Receiver—25W, Dolby cassette deck, turntable, two speakers, $200. Call 537-0424. (3-6).

MUST SELL, improved stock farm—subdivision possibilities, 550 acres, Call Lon Dunston, 1-457-3687. Town and Country Real Estate. (3-7).

CANON A1, Canon 50 and 70-210mm lenses, super flash. Brand new. Sacrifice, $580. Complete. David, 539-6267. (3-8).

FOR SALE—Twin bed and mattress, $20; sofa, $20; double bed frame, $8. Call 537-4886 after 3:00 p.m. (3-4).

ORANGE BLOSSOM 14K gold 10 pt. diamond engagement ring. Has never been worn or modified. Retail value $375, will sell for $250. Call 537-8410 between 3:00-4:00 p.m. Comes with Dealers Appraisal. (3-5).

REFRIGERATOR for sale, 32 cubic feet, like new with manual and stand, $140. Call 537-8097. (3).

17 CUBIC foot refrigerator—Excellent condition. Seven months limited use, $80. Call Mark at 539-9598. (3-5).

FOR SALE—3-rail motorcycle trailer. Has coil springs, shocks, and lights, $250. Call Bryce at 539-9044 or 539-8677. (3-5).

GIBSON ELECTRIC guitar, Les Paul, One year old, $400. Call 539-6425. (3-5).

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08

10' x 50' L.T.D., must be moved. Five miles west of campus, appliances, partially furnished, skirting, tie downs, washer hookups, 1-913-485-2540. (1-5).

1971 AMERICAN Homedale. Payments lower than rent. Call 539-1048 or 1-784-5909. (3-5).

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1974, 400 Kawasaki—inspected, new tire, seat, battery, etc., windshield, crashbar. Make offer. Call 539-3466 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5).

1978 YAMAHA 650 special. Clean, beautiful bike, maroon. Excellent mechanical. See to appreciate, $1,000. Call 532-3472. (3-5).

YAMAHA XS3602D—runs well, needs some minor repair, 14,000 miles, $250, will negotiate. Call Quentin at 537-8410 between 3:00-4:00 p.m. (3-5).

FOUND 10

SET OF keys with residence hall keys near Caldwell. Claim and describe at Kedzie 103. (2-4).

HELP WANTED 13

THE CITY of Manhattan is seeking to fill part-time positions. Recreation Division. Positions are available in flag football, volleyball, softball, basketball, soccer and facilities supervision. Various instructors are needed in arts and crafts, bowling, gymnastics, dance and basketball. Apply at Personnel Department, City Hall—11th and Poyntz by September 2, 1983. EOE—M/F/H. (1-6).

POSITION RE-OPENED—Director, Alcohol and other Drug Education Service. An 8 time appointment at the instructor level beginning September 1, 1983. Master's degree in Student Personnel, Psychology, or related field required. Experience in alcohol and drug abuse prevention or student development programming helpful. Responsibilities include developing and carrying out educational programs and the writing and implementing of grants. Ability to coordinate activities with other student services personnel and supervise part-time staff members important. Submit resume/vita, letter of application, transcripts, names and phone numbers of references to Earl Notting, Center for Student Development, Holton Hall 102, Kansas State University, 532-6432 by 5:00 p.m., August 25, 1983. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (1-3).

TODAY'S FASHIONS—Now taking applications for fashion representatives. Work at your convenience and earn up to $100 in merchandise credit and a $50 cash bonus. Applications being accepted August 22 through 26th. (1-5).

VISTA DRIVE-In is now taking applications for part-time fountain or grill help. Days and evenings. Apply in person. (1-3).

WAITERS and Waitresses, servers and cashiers, cook's assistants and dishwashers. We offer student pay plan, job variety and a centrally located work place where you work with other students. We require that you: Must obtain a Food Handler's Card, must be able to work 10 hours weekly, must be honest, reliable and display a sense of urgency, must be neat, clean and wear appropriate attire. We prefer to hire work-study students and students who are eligible to work 30 hours per week. Apply at the K-State Union Food Service Office. (1-4).

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures. 1-800-621-4031. (1-10).

FONE CRISIS Center—Volunteers needed for a confidential, anonymous, and nonjudgmental listening and crisis intervention service. Requirements: An open mind, concern, dedication, one evening shift each week, and attendance at the training session: August 27 and 28, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., UFW Fireplace Room. Compensation: Experience in dealing with people and human concerns, a chance to contribute something more to Manhattan, membership in a group of caring and concerned individuals. Last year we helped prevent over 60 suicides, and helped more than 2,500 people, but we can't continue without volunteers to answer the telephones. Please help. Call 532-6565 for more information. (2-5).

RECEPTIONIST—Office Assistant needed in campus office. Type 60-65 wpm with telephone and filing work. $4.00-$4.50 hour, 10-15 hours/week. Work Study Students Only. Call 532-6984 or 539-6613. (2-5).

WORK-STUDY position (10 hours/week)—Women's Resource Center. Applications, 111 Holton. Deadline August 31st. (3-5).

ORGANIST WANTED for Sunday morning student worship service in Danforth Chapel. For information contact Lutheran Campus Ministry, 539-4451. (3-5).

HELP WANTED—Taking applications for lunch-time waiters/waitresses. Five days/week. Must be 21. Apply Kennedy's Claim. (3-5).

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9).

COCKTAIL WAITERS, waitresses. Call 537-0852 between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. (3-5).

FAMILY WOULD like college girl to live in for school year. Food and room in exchange for help. Write Box 2, c/o Collegian. (2-4).

PROFESSIONAL FAMILY seeking mature Christian to manage household responsibilities in exchange for room and board in their home. Smoking, drinking, pets not permitted. Must be able to drive, cook, help with entertaining, and relate well to older children. Musical and typing skills helpful. References required. Qualified applicants are invited to respond to Box 1, c/o Collegian, stating qualifications. (2-4).

TUTOR COUNSELORS for area high school participants in Upward Bound. Math, Science, and History majors encouraged to apply. KSU students. Junior status or above, minimum GPA 2.5. 12-15 hours/week, flexible schedule. Ability to work with diverse groups. $3.35/hour, preference to work study students. Applications available: Upward Bound Program, 202 Holton Hall, 532-6497. Application and transcript due August 29, 5:00 p.m. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (2-4).

SENIOR COUNSELOR. Staff position, 4 time for ten months, 16 hours/week, $390/month. Tutoring, advising, career/personal counseling, and testing with senior high school students. Coordinate seminars and activities for participants. Bachelor's degree required in related area, graduate students encouraged to apply. Ability to work with diverse groups. Submit application letter, resume, transcript, and names of three references to Upward Bound, 202 Holton Hall, 532-6497. Deadline: August 29, 5:00 p.m. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (2-4).

LOST 14

LOST BOOKS Friday the 19th around noon at 10th and Bertrand. Reward for return 1-494-2888. (3-5).

NOTICES 15

AUCTION: SEPTEMBER 12, 1983 at 6:30 p.m. evening. Located approximately 2 1/2 miles south from east end of Manhattan, Kansas River Bridge on Ashland Bottom Road #901. Approximately seven acres located on asphalt road, consists of 2.4 acres of good bottom land, trees and small creeks. Open House on August 29, 1983 from 5:00-7:00 p.m. For other showing call auctioneer. Large farm house, near new kitchen, very good wall-to-wall carpet. Has approximately 1819 sq. ft., oversized detached double garage, hay and livestock pens, 12' x 54' mobile home. Terms are 10% down day of auction and balance due and payable on or before October 12. Taxes to be prorated. Arthur R. Dicks and Carla Carleton, owners. Milton Anderson, CAI, Auctioneers, 103 South 4th, Manhattan, Kansas, phone 776-4834. Earl Brown, CAI, Vern Gannon, CAI. (1-4).

SKYDIVE!!

The KSU Parachute Club will meet on Thursday, Aug. 25 at 8:00 p.m. in U 206 for returning members. Be there or be square!

CHECK BALFOUR'S gigantic back to school sale! Sweats and shorts 20% off. Now through Saturday (1-5).

SCHOLARSHIP MONEY for those who qualify call AIR FORCE ROTC 532-6600

FREE LAYAWAY with Student ID at Fashion Shop and Beauty Salon. Westloop. Next to Bell Phone Center, 539-2921. Valid through August 30. (2-4).

PERSONAL 16

PARDNER—HOPE your birthday is filled with as much happiness as you have given me. Look out Rocker! Always, now, forever, Suz. (3).

WELCOME BACK to school Smurthies!! Good luck this semester and study hard. We love you!! Your moms. (3).

TAMMY T—Sorry I couldn't bring over your ice cream the other night, maybe next time. Hope your year goes well. You're a very special friend. Dave. (3).

TONI—HAPPY Birthday! Have a super day and get psyched for the big road trip in the pink Caddy. Love, K.M., P.S., B.C. (3).

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

DO YOU have above average roommate skills? If so, call Mike at 539-7451. Non-smokers, one-third bills plus $110/month. (1-3).

VERY NICE condo with very reasonable rent and three nice roommates need one female roommate. Please call 537-8239. (1-5).

FEMALE WANTED to share three-bedroom duplex with two others. Furnished, washer and dryer. Exceptionally nice. Westloop area, $117/month plus utilities. Call 539-7099 or 532-5591. (1-5).

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Private furnished room, Washer, dryer, microwave, $150 plus utilities. Call 776-1301. (1-3).

TWO, QUIET, non-smoking, female roommates needed for modern apartment. 537-3294—ask for Mary. (1-5).

ROOMMATE WANTED to share two-bedroom apartment, $305 a month plus utilities. One mile from campus. Call Debby at 537-7370. (1-4).

NEED ONE male to live with three others in very nice house one-half block from campus. Private room. Call 537-3977. (1-4).

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice, two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Prefer lower classman. Call 776-7268. (2-5).

NON-SMOKING female for a furnished apartment in Campus East. One block from campus. 776-7045. (2-4).

NON-SMOKING female to share apartment with three other girls. Close to campus, deck, patio, washer/dryer. $117.50. Call 539-1658. (2-5).

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share house with two other women, one block from campus, $125/month and electricity. Call 539-8552. (2-5).

WANTED—NON-smoking female to share furnished apartment, $125 plus one-half utilities. Close to campus. Call 539-1088 evenings. (2-5).

ROOMMATE WANTED: Share very nice two-bedroom trailer. Quiet location $115/month plus utilities. 776-7223. (3-5).

ROOMMATE WANTED: Three upperclassmen seeking a fourth person to share private house. Will have own room and bathroom. Close to campus. Rent $137 plus utilities. Contact Mark or Jeff, 539-9214. (3-5).

CLEAN, NON-SMOKING roommate to share mobile home, $150, everything included. Call 539-7492 after 6:00 p.m. (3-5).

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two-bedroom furnished apartment one block from campus, $130. Call 776-3062 or 537-1329. (3-10).

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and facial products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-5).

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-6180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f).

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f).

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8837. (3-30).

BOARDING—BOX stalls, and pasture with shelter. Lakeside riding, fine facilities at a very reasonable price. Ask for Steve, 539-2316 at ternons and evenings. (3-5).

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (3f).

WANTED 21

STUDENT WISHING to rent a garage for the school year. Call 532-3445. (2-4).

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

AS WE SEEN IN THE LAST THRILLING EPISODE...

THEN WE MUST INVESTIGATE FOR POSSIBLE GLOBAL CONQUEST!

MEANWHILE ON EARTH, AT 42ND STREET—

NOW REMEMBER WHAT I TOLD YA! RIGHT, BOSS!

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

IT SURE IS NICE GETTING AWAY FROM THE COLLEGE CROWD!

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

- | | | | |
|--------|------------------|------|--|
| ACROSS | 41 Bass or snare | DOWN | |
|--------|------------------|------|--|

We got up early to bring you a wagon load of the freshest produce in town!

Watermelon

99¢ ea.

Peaches

89¢ lb.

Cantaloupe

10¢ lb.

Tomatoes

29¢ lb.

Nectarines

59¢ lb.

Teacher colleges toughen standards

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Most teacher colleges have stiffened admissions standards and curricula to attract better students, a federal survey says, although another report this week found that the caliber of students intending to major in education continues to decline.

Nearly three-fourths of the nation's teacher education schools have toughened admissions standards during the last five years, according to a draft copy of the survey by the National Center for Education Statistics titled, "Survey of Teacher Education: Perceptions of Methods for Improvement."

Eighty-five percent of the schools said they had made curricula more rigorous.

The survey, however, followed a report Tuesday by The Carnegie Foundation which said the caliber of teacher candidates, as measured by standardized test scores, has persistently declined during the past decade.

Ninety-four percent of the schools surveyed said they had used one or more measures to improve the quality of teacher candidates during the past five years.

The study was conducted at the request of the National Commission on Excellence in Education, the presidential panel that sparked a national debate with a report last spring warning of a "rising tide of mediocrity" in public education.

That report, which President Reagan and Education Secretary T.H. Bell have cited in numerous speeches this summer, was one of several that have held teacher college programs partly to blame.

"I list reform and revitalization of teacher education as the first step in turning back the tide of mediocrity," said Bell in a July 12 speech.

While the latest federal survey provided evidence that teacher educators are trying to boost standards, the Carnegie Foundation report issued Tuesday, "The Condition of Teaching," cast doubt on whether those tougher standards were raising the caliber of teacher candidates.

"These low test scores effectively illustrate that the teaching profession, on the whole, is not attracting the better minds in American society," the Carnegie study said.

The Carnegie report said that the gap between the average SAT exam scores of college-bound teacher candidates and the national average has widened over the last decade.

Junction City's manager, attorney agree to remain

By The Associated Press

JUNCTION CITY — The city manager and the city attorney have agreed to stay on the job after the City Commission refused to accept their resignations.

The City Commission rejected the resignations of City Manager John Higgins and Richard Pinaire on a 3-2 vote Tuesday night. A large crowd at the meeting presented petitions with 350 signatures asking that Higgins remain.

Higgins' resignation Aug. 16 sparked a week of turmoil, including an Open Meetings investigation and an audit of the city petty cash fund.

Pinaire also resigned Aug. 16, saying a new city manager should have the opportunity to select his own city attorney.

Higgins, who has managed the city for 10 years, said last week he was resigning because of "differences of opinion" with the City Commission and because "it would be in everybody's best interest that somebody else take over management of the city."

Following the resignation, Mayor Larry Plagge announced he had accepted the resignations of three members of the City Commission and decided to seek Higgins' resignation. The mayor said commissioners Eunice Lesser, Tom McRae and Michael Fegan gave an ultimatum to Higgins that he resign or be fired.

The three commissioners denied meeting secretly.

Geary County Attorney Steve Opat is investigating Plagge's complaint with help of the Kansas attorney general.

Opat said Wednesday that the investigation would continue, even though Higgins and Pinaire would remain on the job.

"This investigation is not about the Junction City manager or the Junction City attorney," he said. "It's about alleged violations of a law enacted to protect the public. Therefore, the investigation will continue."

Plagge also ordered an audit of the petty cash fund after Fegan questioned "large amounts of money flowing through" the fund.

The audit of the fund by the city's regular auditors found no significant accounting problems.

Fegan introduced the resolution Tuesday night to reject the resignations. He said he had changed his mind about Higgins out of concern for the city and its citizens.

Health premiums rise for student insurance

By JUDY MILLS
Staff Writer

Students who purchased health insurance through the University may have received a bit of a surprise this year as they wrote checks out for amounts which were 138 percent higher than a year ago.

Single students, who paid $141.75 a year for their insurance premium last school year, will have to pay $337 a year for the 1983-84 school year.

Married students, who paid $277.50 last year, are paying $660 this year. The cost for married students with children has risen from $440.50 to $1,046 a year, while insurance for a single student and children rose from $300.50 to $714 a year.

The amount of claims collected by premium holders in 1982-83 is expected to exceed the amount of money collected from the premiums by 275 to 300 percent, said Roy Boley, spokesman for the Transamerica Occidental Life Insurance Company. Transamerica is the insurance company which provides student health insurance for the University.

"Obviously, no company can lose this kind of money and stay in business," Boley said. He said high claim utilization and rising health care costs have forced the company to increase the costs of its premiums.

Because of the higher premium price, the company has made arrangements for semi-annual and quarterly payments for the students' convenience, Boley said.

"To date (Wednesday), enrollment (for insurance) has been 80 percent for annual payments," he said. "Less than 5 percent have enrolled in the quarterly payment plans. Of course this could change."

"Insurance companies have to pass on the high cost of medical care. These kinds of costs (health care) have skyrocketed. We have no choice but to raise our price," Boley explained.

Insurance companies are trying to combat health costs, but rising medical bills are becoming a concern of others also, according to Boley.

"One of the biggest expenses of private industries is providing for employee health care," he said. "This problem is not unique to the student health market."

"The University let other companies make bids on their insurance after they found out about the price increase in premiums, but they elected to go back to us," Boley said. "Despite the cost increase, it's still an outstanding program compared to other companies."

Two other insurance companies made lower bids than Transamerica Occidental Life, but the Lafane Student Health Advisory Committee decided to maintain coverage with Transamerica, which provided the student insurance plan last year, said Mike Turner, chairman of the committee and senior in pre-medicine.

"There were two other companies that made bids lower than Occidental. One was a lot cheaper, but it had spent millions of dollars bidding low on other student health insurance programs and we were really afraid that they had spread themselves too thin," Turner said. "There was one example of another insurance company who had done this and they went bankrupt, so we were afraid to go with them (the low bidder at K-State)."

Turner said the other company which bid low is based in Pennsylvania, and its method of selling insurance is illegal in Kansas.

"In Kansas, an insurance salesman must be a certified salesman. The company in Pennsylvania would have hired students to sell the policies," he said. "Policy holders would have had to ask questions about their insurance long distance."

He said another company offered less expensive policies for single students, but its policies for married students were unusually costly. If the number and types of policies bought this year were similar to those purchased last year, he added, the cost to students would have been higher through the third bidder.

Turner said he believes that the student health insurance plan is still a good deal despite the increase.

"Most students understand the problem and what happened. We are trying to do everything we can to keep the (health insurance) costs down," Boley said.

Some students haven't been able to purchase the student health insurance plan because of the price increase.

"I used to have student health insurance, but since the price has gone up so much, it's cheaper for me to get insurance through work," said John Hager, senior in accounting. "I'm married and have a child, and it figures out to be cheaper at work, so I had to change."

Lean on me

Cheerleader Debbi Dillon, junior in speech pathology, grimaces as Bruce Smith, senior in business administration, leans onto her shoulders to help form a human pyramid during cheerleading practice Wednesday evening at the band practice field.

Staff/Andy Nelson

City commissioners air views on downtown development

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

(Third in a series)

Whether they favor it or not, all the Manhattan City Commissioners have found themselves involved with the downtown mall project.

Mayor Wanda Fateley supports the mall but is frustrated with the amount of time it is taking to get underway.

"I just wish the developer would get his act together," she said. "I'm tired of the delay."

Fateley officially became involved with downtown redevelopment when she was elected to the Manhattan City Commission in 1979.

"At the July 19 (city commission) meeting, when we renewed the contract with the developer, there was some response from the public," Fateley said. "Three people (business people in the community) spoke: Jan Ray, was in favor of the renewal; Gil Gillispie, was in favor, but wanted a time restriction; and Jean Farrell, was opposed. Other than that, I haven't received a lot of input."

Commissioner Suzanne Lindamood, on the other hand, has received a lot of input about the project.

"There is concern about the credibility gap," she said. "People want to know how long it's (redevelopment project) going to take; what's it going to cost."

"A lot of people call me and say part of their memory of downtown is the older buildings," she added. "Others say it's not appropriate for the government to be involved in a project like this. I've been getting a lot of feedback."

"I like downtown redevelopment," Lindamood said. "I don't like the mall project."

"It's not necessary to have office space in Manhattan," she said, referring to the office project on the 500 block of Poyntz Avenue which is a part of the downtown redevelopment project. "There is no reason to subsidize the mall and office space."

Another reason Lindamood doesn't like the mall project is the uncertainty the businesses in the relocation area are facing.

"Some of the businesses which have been there a long time may leave," she said. "It is costing the city to delay the project, because some improvements aren't being made until the mall goes through. People have been deceived as to how long the project would take, the cost and the nature of the project."

The question Lindamood ultimately comes back to is how much involvement the city government should have with the retail business. "We can't do it for them," Lindamood said. "They must take the initiative. I also don't think the city should be part-owner of a mall. It could influence our decisions in the future (against competing projects)."

Any mall coming to Manhattan would have to pay its own way for Lindamood to approve it. She also said she would judge each mall (or proposal) on its individual merits.

"I would not vote for IRB's (Industrial Revenue Bonds) for any mall or retail establishment. The amount of public borrowing for private use is extraordinary," Lindamood said. "Something this major should be put up to a vote. It could be an advisory vote or a binding vote — there are alternatives."

Commissioner Rick Mann proclaims himself a "pro-mall commissioner."

"I had done my homework, weighed the pros and cons of the project, and decided this is the best thing for the future of Manhattan," he said. "For the best of the community, the downtown project is the better of the two alternatives."

Manhattan needs and yearns for more shopping alternatives, Mann said, and he said he believes the city can support more shopping.

"We lose lots of sales dollars to Topeka, Salina, even Wichita and Kansas City," he said. "I would like to capture back those sales dollars."

Mann is concerned about the merchants who will need to be relocated as a result of the mall. They (merchants) are frustrated with the time the project is taking, he said.

"It is a frustrating thing," Mann said. "The amount of time it (project) would take was way underestimated. People aren't as excited, because it is taking so long."

Mann's involvement in the downtown project was a result of his position as chairman of the Manhattan Beautification Committee and as vice-president of Kansas State Bank.

"My main function at the bank is business development," Mann said. "When someone interested in starting a business in Manhattan would come to talk to me, their first impression of the community would be as they came across the bridge (U.S. Highway 177 viaduct). Almost all visitors to Manhattan come to the city over the bridge. This first impression of our community is poor."

Downtown is Manhattan's front doorstep, Mann said.

He said some advantages of the downtown project are to strengthen Manhattan's front door, expand the local shopping alternatives, create an exciting economic boon; and provide jobs for K-State students.

As a pro-mall candidate, Mann recognizes an outlying mall as an alternative.

"If the downtown doesn't happen, an outlying (mall) will," he said. "But I don't think the city could support both."

Commissioner Eugene Klingler sees the downtown redevelopment project as a way to revitalize the downtown and recapture the business of those who travel out of town to shop.

"I've been on it for five years I've been on the commission," Klingler said. "This town has had the opportunity for outlying malls — big ones — but when an outlying mall is built, the downtown dies. Some people say that's free enterprise."

"Most of the progressive people in the community are behind it (the project), but some are hard-core and think what was good for Manhattan in 1951 is good now."

(In tomorrow's installment, Manhattan residents and officials discuss some of the issues surrounding the proposed downtown mall.)

Rebel leader in Chad vanishes, may have run afoul of Libyans

By The Associated Press

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — Rebel leader Goukouni Oueddei has not been seen in northern Chad for more than three weeks, Western diplomatic sources reported Wednesday, lending credence to persistent rumors that he has been killed or shunted aside.

The sources, insisting on anonymity, said Goukouni's disappearance since July 30 was "more documented and more curious" than previous eclipses of the Libyan-backed former president of Chad.

"Whenever there was a published report in the past that he had disappeared, the Libyans promptly produced him to disprove it," one diplomat said.

"This may well happen again, though there is good evidence that he is no longer functioning at the head of the rebel Government of Chad National Unity set up by the Libyans."

Information Minister Soumaila Mahamat told a news conference President Hissene Habre's government is aware that Goukouni disappeared from view but has no reliable information on his fate.

He said Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi may have "liquidated him" after the loss of Faya-Largeau on July 30. Libyan and rebel forces recaptured the strategic oasis in northern Chad 11 days later following a week of dive bombing and artillery bombardment. The commander of Libyan forces there when it was lost, Col. Salah Rahdouane, is known to be under arrest.

President Gaafar Nimeiri of Sudan, Chad's neighbor to the east, received assurances from President Reagan Wednesday that the United States will not tolerate any Libyan aggression against Sudan.

"I want to reaffirm our deep concern about any threat to the security of Sudan," Reagan said in the message delivered by U.S. Ambassador Hume Horan.

The message officially notified Nimeiri that the United States had decided to withdraw radar planes and military support aircraft, sent to Sudan to monitor Libyan air movements over Chad. The State Department had announced the decision on Tuesday.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FARRELL LIBRARY fall semester hours are Monday-Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Friday 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday 2 to 10:30 p.m. The library will be closed Saturday, Sept. 3 and Sunday, Sept. 4 but will be open Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5 from 2 to 10:30 p.m. Regular hours will resume Tuesday, Sept. 6.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THETA XI all former sisters who are interested in being a little sister for the house again this year, please call Priscilla Thiele at 537-0743 by Friday afternoon.

ALL AG STUDENTS one student senator position is unfilled. Pick up applications in Waters 120. Applications due by Tuesday.

WINFIELD BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL MINI TRIP information and sign-up meeting will be held at 7 p.m. September 1 in Union 208. Sign up will continue through 4 p.m. September 8 in the Union Activities Center.

BASEBALL TRYOUTS today at Frank Meyers Field at 4 p.m. All interested persons invited to attend.

TODAY

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD meets at 3:30 p.m. in Union 204.

COMPLEX IMPROVISATIONAL THEATRE will conduct interviews for new comedians at 7 p.m. in East Stadium 105.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST will present Prime Time at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

KSU RIFLE CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. at Military Science.

MECHA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 204 to prepare a calendar of events for the year.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE MALTESE CROSS meet at 7 p.m. at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

STUDENT FOUNDATION PACESSETT COMMITTEE meets at 7:30 p.m. at the Union Information Desk.

AGRICULTURE SENIORS meet at 4 p.m. in Throckmorton 132 for the Ag Placement meeting. All seniors should attend.

ALL MAJORS in the College of Business Administration meet for placement orientation from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Forum Hall.

COMPUTER SCIENCE and Information Systems meets for placement orientation from 4 to 4:50 p.m. in Eisenhower 15.

K-STATE PLAYERS meets at 5 p.m. in Union 209.

CHRISTIAN STUDENT FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

WILLISTON GEOLOGY CLUB meets at 3:30 p.m. in Thompson 109.

PEP COORDINATING COUNCIL first meeting of the semester is at 8 p.m. in Union 205.

SISTERS OF THE SPHINX meets at 9 p.m. at Delta Sigma Phi.

KSU RUGBY meets for first practice at 6 p.m. at the KSU Rugby Field.

RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 230. Executive meeting is at 7 p.m.

KOH-I-NOOR Special 'Offer! RAPIDOGRAPH®

Buy a 7-Pen Set for the price of a 4-Pen Set

The best of Rapidograph technology in one distinctively new pen for all drafting and graphic arts applications.

RAPIDOGRAPH® technical pen... the best-selling technical pen in America!

Regular List 78.50
Varney's Special 33.10
You Save 58% or $45.40

Varney's
Book Store
In Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 9-9, Sun. 12-5

Closed Classes as of Today.

00040	03770	06470	08100	09001	10060	12040	14470	15900	20620	22000	24910	26600	27710	30620	33780	34620	35820	36760
00060	03840	06570	08150	09020	10070	12090	14490	15920	20640	22020	24930	26620	27730	30640	33800	34640	35840	36780
00100	04040	06810	08200	09050	10100	12120	14520	15950	20670	22040	24950	26640	27750	30660	33820	34660	35860	36800
00140	04100	06920	08300	09070	10120	12140	14540	15970	20690	22060	24970	26660	27770	30680	33840	34680	35880	36820
00180	04170	06990	08350	09100	10150	12160	14560	15990	20710	22080	24990	26680	27790	30700	33860	34700	35900	36840
00220	04240	07060	08400	09150	10200	12220	14580	16020	20730	22100	25010	26700	27810	30720	33880	34720	35920	36860
00260	04310	07130	08450	09200	10250	12240	14600	16050	20750	22120	25030	26720	27830	30740	33900	34740	35940	36880
00300	04380	07200	08500	09250	10300	12260	14620	16080	20770	22140	25050	26740	27850	30760	33920	34760	35960	36900
00340	04450	07270	08550	09300	10350	12280	14640	16110	20790	22160	25070	26760	27870	30780	33940	34780	35980	36920
00380	04520	07340	08600	09350	10400	12300	14660	16140	20810	22180	25090	26780	27890	30800	33960	34800	36000	36940
00420	04590	07410	08650	09400	10450	12320	14680	16170	20830	22200	25110	26800	27910	30820	33980	34820	36020	36960
00460	04660	07480	08700	09450	10500	12340	14700	16200	20850	22220	25130	26820	27930	30840	34000	34840	36040	36980
00500	04730	07550	08750	09500	10550	12360	14720	16230	20870	22240	25150	26840	27950	30860	34020	34860	36060	37000
00540	04800	07620	08800	09550	10600	12380	14740	16260	20890	22260	25170	26860	27970	30880	34040	34880	36080	37020
00580	04870	07690	08850	09600	10650	12400	14760	16290	20910	22280	25190	26880	27990	30900	34060	34900	36100	37040
00620	04940	07760	08900	09650	10700	12420	14780	16320	20930	22300	25210	26900	28010	30920	34080	34920	36120	37060
00660	05010	07830	08950	09700	10750	12440	14800	16350	20950	22320	25230	26920	28030	30940	34100	34940	36140	37080
00700	05080	07900	09000	09750	10800	12460	14820	16380	20970	22340	25250	26940	28050	30960	34120	34960	36160	37100
00740	05150	07970	09050	09800	10850	12480	14840	16410	20990	22360	25270	26960	28070	30980	34140	34980	36180	37120
00780	05220	08040	09100	09850	10900	12500	14860	16440	21010	22380	25290	26980	28090	31000	34160	35000	36200	37140
00820	05290	08110	09150	09900	10950	12520	14880	16470	21030	22400	25310	27000	28110	31020	34180	35020	36220	37160
00860	05360	08180	09200	09950	11000	12540	14900	16500	21050	22420	25330	27020	28130	31040	34200	35040	36240	37180
00900	05430	08250	09250	10000	11050	12560	14920	16530	21070	22440	25350	27040	28150	31060	34220	35060	36260	37200
00940	05500	08320	09300	10050	11100	12580	14940	16560	21090	22460	25370	27060	28170	31080	34240	35080	36280	37220
00980	05570	08390	09350	10100	11150	12600	14960	16590	21110	22480	25390	27080	28190	31100	34260	35100	36300	37240
01020	05640	08460	09400	10150	11200	12620	14980	16620	21130	22500	25410	27100	28210	31120	34280	35120	36320	37260
01060	05710	08530	09450	10200	11250	12640	15000	16650	21150	22520	25430	27120	28230	31140	34300	35140	36340	37280
01100	05780	08600	09500	10250	11300	12660	15020	16680	21170	22540	25450	27140	28250	31160	34320	35160	36360	37300
01140	05850	08670	09550	10300	11350	12680	15040	16710	21190	22560	25470	27160	28270	31180	34340	35180	36380	37320
01180	05920	08740	09600	10350	11400	12700	15060	16740	21210	22580	25490	27180	28290	31200	34360	35200	36400	37340
01220	05990	08810	09650	10400	11450	12720	15080	16770	21230	22600	25510	27200	28310	31220	34380	35220	36420	37360
01260	06060	08880	09700	10450	11500	12740	15100	16800	21250	22620	25530	27220	28330	31240	34400	35240	36440	37380
01300	06130	08950	09750	10500	11550	12760	15120	16830	21270	22640	25550	27240	28350	31260	34420	35260	36460	37400
01340	06200	09020	09800	10550	11600	12780	15140	16860	21290	22660	25570	27260	28370	31280	34440	35280	36480	37420
01380	06270	09090	09850	10600	11650	12800	15160	16890	21310	22680	25590	27280	28390	31300	34460	35300	36500	37440
01420	06340	09160	09900	10650	11700	12820	15180	16920	21330	22700	25610	27300	28410	31320	34480	35320	36520	37460
01460	06410	09230	09950	10700	11750	12840	15200	16950	21350	22720	25630	27320	28430	31340	34500	35340	36540	37480
01500	06480	09300	10000	10750	11800	12860	15220	16980	21370	22740	25650	27340	28450	31360	34520	35360	36560	37500
01540	06550	09370	10050	10800	11850	12880	15240	17010	21390	22760	25670	27360	28470	31380	34540	35380	36580	37520
01580	06620	09440	10100	10850	11900	12900	15260	17040	21410	22780	25690	27380	28490	31400	34560	35400	36600	37540
01620	06690	09510	10150	10900	11950	12920	15280	17070	21430	22800	25710	27400	28510	31420	34580	35420	36620	37560
01660	06760	09580	10200	10950	12000	12940	15300	17100	21450	22820	25730	27420	28530	31440	34600	35440	36640	37580
01700	06830	09650	10250	11000	12050	12960	15320	17130	21470	22840	25750	27440	28550	31460	34620	35460	36660	37600
01740	06900	09720	10300	11050	12100	12980	15340	17160	21490	22860	25770	27460	28570	31480	34640	35480	36680	37620
01780	06970	09790	10350	11100	12150	13000	15360	17190	21510	22880	25790	27480	28590	31500	34660	35500	36700	37640
01820	07040	09860	10400	11150	12200	13020	15380	17220	21530	22900	25810	27500	28610	31520	34680	35520	36720	37660
01860	07110	09930	10450	11200	12250	13040	15400	17250	21550	22920	25830	27520	28630	31540	34700	35540	36740	37680
01900	07180	10000	10500	11250	12300	13060	15420	17280	21570	22940	25850	27540	28650	31560	34720	35560	36760	37700
01940	07250	10070	10550	11300	12350	13080	15440	17310	21590	22960	25870	27560	28670	31580	34740	35580	36780	37720
01980	07320	10140	10600	11350	12400	13100	15460	17340	21610	22980	25890	27580	28690	31600	34760	35600	36800	37740
02020	07390	10210	10650	11400	12450	13120	15480	17370	21630	23000	25910	27600	28710	31620	34780	35620	36820	37760
02060	07460	10280	10700	11450	12500	13140	15500	17400	21650	23020	25930	27620	28730	31640	34800	35640	36840	37780
02100	07530	10350	10750	11500	12550	13160	15520	17430	21670	23040	25950	27640	28750	31660	34820	35660	36860	37800
02140	07600	10420	10800	11550	12600	13180	15540	17460	21690	23060	25970	27660	28770	31680	34840	35680	36880	37820
02180	07670	10490	10850	11600	12650	13200	15560	17490	21710	23080	25990	27680	28790	31700	34860	35700	36900	37840
02220	07740	10560	10900	11650	12700	13220	15580	17520	21730	23100	26010	27700	28810	31720	34880	35720	36920	37860
02260	07810	10630	10950	11700	12750	13240	15600	17550	21750	23120	26030	27720	28830	31740	34900	35740	36940	37880
02300	07880	10700	11000	11750	12800	13260	15620	17580	21770	23140	26050	27740	28850	31760	34920	35760	36960	37900
02340	07950	10770	11050	11800	12850	13280	15640	17610	21790	23160	26070	27760	28870	31780	34940	35780	36980	37920
02380	08020	10840	11100	11850	12900	13300	15660	17640	21810	23180	26090	27780	28890	31800	34960	35800	37000	37940
02420	08090	10910	11150	11900	12950	13320	15680	17670	21830	23200	26110	27800	28910	31820	34980	35820	37020	37960
02460	08160	10980	11200	11950	13000	13340	15700	17700	21850	23220	26130	27820	28930	31840	35000	35840	37040	37980
02500	08230	11050	11250	12000	13050	13360	15720	17730	21870	23240	26150	27840	28950	31860	35020	35860	37060	38000
02540	08300	11120	11300	12050	13100	13380	15740	17760	21890	23260	26170	27860	28970	31880	35040</

Stephan scoffs at district attorney's criticism of pot raids

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Attorney General Robert Stephan had harsh words Wednesday for Jerry Harper, Douglas County District Attorney, after the prosecutor publicly criticized a recent series of marijuana raids as "poorly organized and unprofessional."

At a news conference in the statehouse, Stephan scoffed at Harper's comments and said he's had problems working with the Douglas County district attorney's office ever since Harper took office more than a year ago. Stephan said the ill feelings resulted from Harper's unsuccessful attempts to "flex his muscle" in a less-than-cordial meeting between the two in Topeka.

"I frankly don't know what he's talking about," Stephan said, referring to a letter Harper wrote claiming that no arrests have resulted from the raids on rural Kansas farmland. "We've had one arrest in Hays and information has been given to the Douglas County district attorney's office in regards to one of the two fields raided there."

"We supplied him with enough information for two arrests but for some reason he's decided not to do anything with it. He told us last week that somebody in the office was having a party and that he'd get to it first thing next week. But come Monday he didn't do anything. I wish he'd let us know what he's going to do because we'll file charges if he's not going to."

The Republican attorney general speculated that Harper's remarks stem from a meeting about a year ago in Stephan's office.

"He told me I'd better cooperate with his office or my agents were going to get burned," Stephan said. "I didn't know what he meant by getting burned and thought he'd been watching too many detective shows."

"I told him I would never be intimidated by any district or county attorney and wouldn't put up with anything from him. I guess he thought he was trying to flex his muscle or something."

Since that tumultuous meeting, Stephan said he's had problems from Harper.

"Mr. Harper's the only district or county attorney in the state of Kansas I haven't been able to work with," he said. "I thought our problem had been solved after our little discussion but I guess not."

In his letter, Harper chastised Stephan for not making more arrests and simply burning marijuana plants.

"I am baffled by the present method of identifying marijuana fields and seizing them with virtually no attention to identifying and arresting the individuals cultivating the crops," Harper's letter said.

"While the present approach generates a few quick headlines and prevents some marijuana from entering the market, it makes it unnecessarily difficult, or impossible in some cases, to find and prosecute the responsible individuals."

"It is, at best, poorly organized and unprofessional. The unfortunate publicity has already hurt the effort."

However, Stephan said he supplied Harper with confessions from a woman and her husband relating a crop seized in Douglas County which he said should lead to two arrests.

"If he doesn't file charges, we will," Stephan said. "I have not been critical of Mr. Harper, he's the one being critical. I'm just saying we gave him the names of two individuals and he's made no arrests."

"We certainly have an opinion as to the kind of job Mr. Harper has been doing, as do most attorneys practicing in Douglas County. But it's not my job to judge him."

Harper said all the attention given to the raids was hurting his office's efforts to nab the pot planters.

"Let's get this thing in focus," Harper said. "All they've been able to do is arrest some marijuana plants."

"There's been so much publicity that the people involved are running scared and will never go back to fields. I'm all for finding the fields, but let's not hold press conferences in the middle of field. Why'd he call the press? That's silly."

Harper said he was trying to improve communication between his office and Stephan's and wants state help in busting marijuana cultivators but disagrees with the methods used in raiding fields.

Deficit continues climb as election year nears

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Despite warnings of the dangers posed by large federal budget deficits, Congress seems unlikely to make much headway against the growing tide of red ink spending when it returns in mid-September from its summer recess.

Government officials and private analysts agree that as the economy has rebounded strongly, the sense of urgency about the need to reduce deficits has slackened.

Moreover, they predict, Congress will be reluctant on the eve of a presidential election year to cut spending programs sharply or to raise taxes enough to make a significant dent in the deficits, which are expected to hit a record $209.8 billion this year.

"With November 1984 approaching, the appetite for Congress to take any real, meaningful acts to change the deficit outlook probably is very small," says Thomas Thomson, chief economist at San Francisco's Crocker National Bank.

In its most recent budget revision, the Office of Management and Budget predicted that the economic speedup would help reduce next year's deficit by $10.6 billion to $179.7 billion.

"Other than the contribution the economy will make toward getting (the deficit) down, I don't think there's going to be much done unless Congress decides to come around to the president's proposed spending recommendation in his 1984 budget," says Manuel Johnson, assistant treasury secretary for economic policy.

President Reagan has warned Congress that he will veto any spending bills he thinks are too big, but Johnson and other administration officials doubt that Reagan will give in and go along with higher taxes for next year.

Without tax increases, it is unlikely that many Democrats in Congress will accept spending cuts to help curb the budget. The current congressional budget plan calls for $73 billion in higher taxes over three years, including $12 billion in 1984, together with $12.3 billion in spending cuts during the same period, including $2.9 billion next year. The congressional blueprint urges more money for domestic programs and less for defense than Reagan has recommended.

WHITE CHICKS
Purple Masque
Aug. 26 & 27
7:00 & 9:30

OUTDOORS, FRESH AIR,
GREEN GRASS, FLOWERS
PUTT PUTT GOLF

Thursday
Jack nite & Black Velvet
1.50 ea (9-3)
at
COWBOY PALACE
Where it don't make
no difference
209 Payne 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

AG STUDENTS AND FACULTY

you are all invited to a WATERMELON FEED

South of Waters Hall
Monday, August 29 7:00 p.m.

Sponsored by Ag Student Council and Alpha Zeta
(All departmental clubs will be represented.)

Thursday is Ladies Night
at

Bockers Two

50¢ Drinks for Ladies
every Thurs. night
(9:30 to close)

includes house wine, tap beer, well drinks appearing this Thursday

DETOUR

in Bockers
Two

—Members and guests only—
At the Ramada Inn

1st cover

LET'S RODEO

Membership in the KSU Rodeo Club has this to offer for you.

- 2 semesters of intercollegiate rodeo competition.
- reasonable horse boarding rates with practice facilities.
- bucking machine
- chance to develop present skills & learn new ones
- social events
- compete in alumni-match rodeo without NIRA card

First meeting: Thursday, Aug. 25 at 7:30 p.m., Weber Hall rm. 230.
Executive meeting at 7:00 p.m.

Rodeo Competitor or Rodeo Enthusiast. Come join us.
You'll be glad you did. We'll be glad to have you.

K-STATE FLYING CLUB
LEARN TO FLY
INTRODUCTORY LESSON $15
GROUND SCHOOL INFORMATION

CLUB AIRCRAFT

Cessna 152	— $24.50/hour, VFR w/Intercom
Piper Warrior	— $37.00/hour, IFR w/GS & DME
Piper Arrow	— $41.00/hour, IFR w/GS
Cessna 182	— $49.00/hour, IFR
ATC 610J	— $ 5.00/hour, IFR Simulator

Membership available to KSU students, alumni, faculty, and staff. Hugh Irvin, 539-3128 or 532-6311, for information.

WHY PAY MORE?!
Large thin crust pepperoni pizza.

PIZZA TO GO

Dominoes
Pizza Hut
Godfather's
P.T.A.
ShowBiz
The Pizzeria
Valentino's

$5.40

$9.00

$8.45

$9.55

$8.60

$9.75

$7.80

$9.40

PIZZA TO GO

537-1035
2026 N. Tuttle
Creek Blvd.
Next to the New
Shop Quik

WE MAKEM

YOU BAKEM

Sun.-Thurs.
11:00-10:00
Fri.-Sat.
11:00-12:00

We have 100% real meat

MEAL

Rowing's 20th anniversary year at K-State

CREW'S FOR
YOU (Guys & Gals) —IF YOU
LIKE SPORTS, TURN
OUT AT 3:30 TODAY
AT THE WEST SIDE
OF THE GYMNASIUM.

Call 537-8491 for more information. Ask for Don Rose

Aggie
STATION

RESTAURANT & BAR

By Popular Request . . .

BOTTOMS UP
THURS. NITES!

- 3 Fers
(Well Hi-balls 9-10:00)
- 2 Fers
(Well Hi-balls 10-12:00)

JOIN AGGIE STATION
PLUS 200 RECIPROCALLS!

Meet Your Friends At . . .

2 FERS
THURSDAYS!

- 2 Fers
7-10:00
Draft beer, Pop,
Popcorn

Plus . . . 1/2 Pitchers
For Pledges 10-11:30!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S
HOME OF THE WILDCATS

Tell us, K-State

The truth is coming out, but it looks like it is going to take a while to get the whole of it.

The truth about enrollment figures at K-State is the specific truth we are concerned with, but nobody seems to want to release them. It was immediately apparent that the enrollment this semester is down, but how much lower is it?

The University has developed the habit of releasing the good news without hesitation but beating around the bush with the bad. It is easier for University officials to mutter under their breath at the end of a press conference, "by the way, enrollment is down this year."

President Duane Acker practiced the same thing toward the end of the spring, 1983 semester when he pushed the lab fees proposal through the Board of Regents. When questioned before he presented the fee to the Regents, Acker denied that he was acting on the proposal.

Nobody was sure what he was doing until it had been presented to the Regents. By that time, it was too late to get any student input on the proposal.

College students should be trusted to handle the truth in an adult manner. If we're going to be paying more for fees, we need to know. Sure, we will find out sooner or later. But we should be informed on any matter as soon as the University is.

So what is the enrollment this semester, K-State? We've been told (in a round-about way) that it is down from last year. All we want to know is how far it is off from last year.

Teachers need dedication

The move by teacher colleges in the past five years toward tougher admissions standards, with the hope of graduating better teachers, is a good idea. However, it is one that addresses the symptoms of a problem and not the problem itself.

Higher standards in these colleges are not going to cure our educational ills. It will only result in fewer students qualifying for the schools in the first place.

There will not be better qualified teachers as a result of tougher standards. Instead, we will have only the best students of each class — the ones who would have graduated anyway — teaching. And, in turn, the number of teachers will drop due to the teacher candidates who couldn't meet the admissions or graduation requirements.

The standards of teacher colleges do need to be raised, as long as it is remembered more needs to be done beyond this. First, teacher pay and benefits must be improved. It would be foolish to wait until a scarcity of competent teachers made their services worth more.

The big problem, however, and one that nobody can solve but the teachers, is lack of concern by the teachers. No student is going to learn if he can see that his teacher doesn't care about the quality of education.

When teachers strike in a city and cause thousands of students to miss an entire semester of school, it is apparent that the teachers care more about having money in their pockets than they do about the children they are teaching. And though we agree teacher salaries are substandard, we do not believe that strikes are not the way to change them.

Since the SAT scores of college-bound teacher candidates are so much lower than the national high school average (80 points in 1982), it seems that either the candidates are the dummies in their class, or that they don't care enough to strive for learning.

Either way, something must be done. A person who does not have the mental capacity to learn should not be permitted to 'teach'. People who do not want to learn must have a radical change of attitude before being given a teaching job.

Nothing is going to be accomplished in the field of education until more teachers are less worried about the salaries they are paid. And this is not likely to happen until they are paid more.

Collegian editorials reflect the views of the Collegian and its editor. The editorials are unsigned for this reason and reflect the opinions of contributing members of the editorial board. The board determines the editorial stand of the Collegian on current issues. The Collegian editorial board members are: Paul Hanson, Editor; Brad Gillispie, Editorial Page Editor; Lucinda Ellison, Sandy Lang, Sean Reilly, Becky Schoof, Alan Stolfus, Kecia Stolfus, Dee Anne Thomas and Rhonda Wessell.

Fifth-year senior

Name: Edee Dalke

Classification: 5th year senior

When my status changed from senior to "fifth year senior" I noticed an accompanying change in the attitudes of my family, friends, and professors. Remarks such as, "Shouldn't you have graduated by now?" or "Are you still changing your major?" were made. Accusations of being a "professional student" were placed upon the fact that I've spent more than the traditional four years in "higher education."

In defense of more than 300 K-State students who also have the classification of being fifth year seniors, I'll state my views.

Our education standard has changed dramatically in recent history. There once was a time when a high school diploma was admired. Try bragging about your high school diploma today and you'd be a stand-up comedian. A college degree was more of a specialty than a necessity. Today a bachelor's degree is as important to a career as finishing high school.

But does going to college only mean you want a job as soon as possible? Many graduates have said they wished they wouldn't have hurried through.

Somewhere in the course of my college career, I've developed the philosophy that there's got to be more than passing a course and forgetting everything except who I had class with. Why can't you just take a class outside of your curriculum for no other reason than it interests you? Electives are limited, and so is the time to finish in four years.

EDEE DALKE
Collegian Columnist

And isn't it better to sit out for a year to make decisions or change your major while still in college, than to be stuck in a career that isn't right for you? Again, it means staying in college longer after making changes.

It was not until John Dewey, philosopher and educator, confronted the complexity of nineteenth-century education that philosophy of education began to emerge at the turn of the century. Dewey developed a concept of education being continuous with social life in general. The school was not to be a preparation for life, but "life itself," occurring in a deliberately created "miniature community" where students would learn how to deal with problems of cultural significance and personal relevance — and how to resolve them with the tools of reflective thought.

If it takes more than eight semesters or 120 credit hours to get the "reflective thought" that Dewey was talking about nearly a hundred years ago, why not continue one's education?

Also, the term "professional student" seems unfair.

Professional is defined as "participating for gain or livelihood in an activity often engaged in by amateurs."

I doubt if many fifth year seniors are in school for "gain" as they experience a loss of $550 after registration. And I've never met anyone who "lives" to go to classes.

That makes us all "amateur" students.

It's better to stay in college and pursue all that is available, even if it takes an extra semester or two.

Letters

Old format was better

Editor,

Concern by students has been raised about the size of the Kansas State Collegian. For years students have enjoyed the luxury of the "half-sized" format of the KSU paper. The paper was easy to read, and convenient to carry around. However, with the new format, the paper is much more difficult to read and bulky to handle.

Students could, at one time, easily conceal the paper while reading it to avoid negative looks from a professor or others; that, however, is not the main reason. The half-sized pages also focused more attention directly at each news article or advertisement than the present format. The full-size pages split the reader's attention to separate parts of the page, therefore completely skipping over some news articles and advertisements.

The former format also made it easier to direct attention on the short Associated Press news articles which used to be fun and interesting to read. These have been omitted.

I don't like reading the Collegian in its present form. It reminds me of a hometown paper, or any other paper for that matter. The Collegian was different and I liked reading it. It was convenient. It was "our" (the students') paper. It was different, but not anymore.

It would be beneficial for the readers, advertisers and the paper itself if it would change back to the previous "half-sized" format. If it works, don't fix it.

Kurt Wilbur
senior in engineering technology

Nuclear power informants

WASHINGTON — Three Mile Island. Zimmer Power Station. Midland Energy Center.

These troubled and perhaps even doomed nuclear power plants stand today as a testament to the failure of government and industry to safeguard a most delicate technology.

Each plant sits idle today, thanks in part to the evidence of mismanagement provided to federal authorities by "whistle-blowers." Without this courageous breed of assorted company insiders, who often risk their livelihoods to disclose information about construction and design flaws, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission itself would be nearly idle as well.

Within the next two weeks, however, the NRC will receive from an advisory committee a package of possible guidelines for dealing with whistle-blowers. The guidelines were sought by nuclear power advocates and, if accepted, are likely to create obstacles for those who wish to disclose nuclear plant deficiencies in the future.

That whistle-blowers deserve both gratitude and protection is beyond disagreement. Consider:

Three Mile Island — In early 1983, almost four years after the near melt-down at Unit II, two officials in the Site Operations Office of General Public Utilities reported a reckless company effort to clean up the contaminated reactor. Under threat of physical retaliation from superiors, the GPU insiders released evidence alleging that the company had rushed the TMI cleanup without testing key maintenance systems. Since then, the Three Mile Island mop-up has been stalled pending a review of GPU's management.

Zimmer — When Cincinnati Gas and Electric hired a private eye to document cheating on time cards, it didn't expect him to discover discrepancies between Zimmer Power Station blueprints and plant construction. Investigators later learned the CG&E had used youths provided by summer jobs programs to make the highly technical inspections required under federal law. Though the company had already sunk $1.7 billion into Zimmer, the NRC last year called a halt to construction.

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

Midland — In April 1982, as a result of information provided by six construction workers, the local media learned of bad welds and shoddy electrical conduits at this electricity- and steam-generating plant in Michigan. NRC investigators later discovered that the plant's owner, Consumer's Power, and builder, the Bechtel Group, had failed to complete many of the routine inspection required under federal law. The NRC levied a $60,000 fine (chicken feed by industry standards); Midland's construction was halted.

Perhaps the best measure of the whistle-blower's rising importance was the industry's recent effort to restrict, if not eliminate, insiders' input in NRC investigations. At utility companies' urging, the commission last February established a panel of primarily pro-nuclear lawyers to consider guidelines for use by NRC officials in interviewing informants. As listed in the committee's charter, some of the questions were formidable: Should whistle-blowers be granted confidentiality? Should utility lawyers be present when whistles are blown? Should whistle-blowers be assigned an attorney?

Of course, while the committee is likely to arrive at pro-industry conclusions, NRC commissioners will issue the final verdict on its recommendations. Whistle-blowers could come up short: By September, President Reagan is likely to have filled a vacancy on the five-member commission with an appointment that will give an edge to nuclear industry advocates.

Yet even the Reagan administration has questioned the value of cramping whistle-blowers' style. In a letter to the NRC, the Justice Department's Julian Greenspan virulently opposed the creation of the committee itself. "Wanting to get their (hand) on the whistle before it is too late, but not having the law in their favor ... (utility managers) seek to have the NRC adopt its own procedures making whistle-blowing ... more difficult and risky," wrote the deputy chief of criminal litigation.

Tom Devine, an attorney with the Government Accountability Project in Washington, provides even greater reason for optimism. He told our reporter Michael Duffy that the NRC recognizes the importance of informers to its investigative efforts and may be reluctant to bridle its own powers.

Such an outcome would aid public safety and cause the nuclear industry further embarrassment in the future.

Students study architecture of Boston for unusual summer break program

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

Instead of drawing studio projects in Seaton Hall, 11 K-State architecture students went to summer school in Boston this year.

The Boston Architecture Summer Program began as an innovative summer program this year through Continuing Education, said Richard Findley, assistant professor of architecture. Architecture students who had completed their third year were eligible for the eight-week, eight-credit course, he said.

"To my knowledge, there are no similar programs (in the United States)," said Eugene Kremer, professor of architecture. "In San Francisco, there is a summer program where (architecture) students use the city, but it is not connected to a university. I don't know of any architecture school with a program like this. It is unique."

"Our primary objective was pedagogic," Findley said. "It was to be a learning experience. Touring was a secondary objective."

According to Findley, another course objective was to reach out to other schools of architecture in the United States and Canada accredited by the National Architecture Accreditation Board. The K-State students were joined by four from other U.S. universities and one from the University of Manitoba, Canada.

"The operation of the program was to bring the students to Boston due to the history and landscape of the city," Findley said. "Boston is filled with historically significant and preserved buildings — many of which are landmarks."

Students studied the history of the Boston area, its neighborhoods and toured the metropolitan area, Findley said.

Students were able to visit architects' offices and met a number of visiting professionals who participated as guest speakers and jurors. A juror verbally reviews a student's drawings for a project.

"Another reason we went to Boston was that I had attended graduate school there (Harvard Graduate School of Design)," said Findley, who was responsible for the academic program. "I was familiar with the city and its rich potential as a laboratory."

All classes took place in the Boston Architectural Center on Newbury Street in Boston's historic Back Bay area.

"We rented space in the building for a studio," Findley said. "We also had free access to support materials, such as the reading library, lecture halls and the darkroom." Classes met from 10:30 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 5 p.m. every day except the Fourth of July.

Seminars and tours met in the morning and studio convened in the afternoon. Three projects were completed during the summer.

The students worked in pairs on the first project, an analysis of 19th century residential squares initiated in Boston by early colonists.

Student pairs also designed a residential housing and retail building to go between Quincy Market and the waterfront as the second project.

"The area in front of Quincy Market used to be part of the bay, but now it is filled. It was really an urban design problem," Findley recalled.

The third project, an individual effort that required more time than the other projects, asked "What constitutes a monument in architecture?"

The object was to design a contemporary building within a historic project, similar to the plans for Nichols Gymnasium, Findley explained.

"In the area of Back Bay Boston, the students had to design a museum of art within the ruin of a 19th century church."

"The church is helpful in teaching. It places the student in a realistic set of constraints. They were able to make contacts with architects who are working on the project," he said.

Findley, the only faculty member working with the students in Boston, considers the pilot course a success.

"To teach and study in a remote area is frustrating periodically, but it was an excellent experience. We are relatively confident the program will occur again," he said.

Kremer served as director of the program by organizing the program from application to registration, arranging dormitory lodgings at Emerson College for some students and locating classroom space in Boston.

"I visited the program (in Boston) at the end of the summer session and took part in the reviews," Kremer said. "It was definitely a success. Many architects and professionals in the Boston area commented that they were impressed with the spirit of the program and the quality of the work."

Support the American Heart Association.

Home ec dean to arrive in October

By The Collegian Staff

Michigan State University professor Barbara Spilker Stowe, selected last spring as the new dean of K-State's College of Home Economics, is scheduled to begin work in early October, said current dean Ruth Hoeflin.

Since 1980, Stowe has served as assistant director of extension programs for the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State.

She was chosen by a committee of faculty members to replace Hoeflin, who has served as dean for 25 years. Hoeflin will begin a year-long sabbatical leave in September. When she returns, she will join the faculty of the Department of Family and Child Development.

Stowe received a bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska in 1954 and a master's degree in textiles and clothing from Michigan State in 1957. She holds a doctorate from the University of North Carolina and North Carolina State University.

"Stowe has an understanding of home economics research in all areas due to her past endeavors but is especially qualified in areas of clothing and nutrition," Hoeflin said.

MANHATTAN'S BEST MUSIC
24 HOURS
A DAY

MR. K'S

Welcome To

1¢ NITE!

• 1¢ Second Draws &
Pitchers

Thurs. 7-10

Jiffin' Tomorrow!

ZENA Comfortjean

FOR THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE

ZAP
(Sale)

Just in time for School

ENTIRE STOCK
ZENA Jeans

20 % off regular price

Three Days Only
THURSDAY • FRIDAY • SATURDAY
Womens and juniors

Broune's
Downtown Manhattan

ANNUAL BOWHUNTING JAMBOREE

Sponsored by Blue River Bowhunters

August 27-28

Registration starts at 8:00 a.m.

Range opens at 9:00 a.m.

Located 1 mile east of Tuttle Creek
Dam on Hwy 113

Fees: Walk-thru $7.00

Special Events $1.00

DRS. PRICE, YOUNG & ODLE OPTOMETRISTS

General Practice

and All Type of Contact Lenses
Soft—Extended Wear—to Sleep with
Soft for Astigmatism
Flex—Oxygen Permeable
Fast Replacement
for Lost or Damaged Lenses
Payment Arrangements Available

WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER
PHONE 537-1118

Brother's
AGGIEVILLE

TONIGHT

THE JACKS

PLUS $2.00 PITCHERS 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

FRIDAY

TGIF

FREE music from The Jacks
$2.00 Pitchers and 50¢ Draws
No Cover Charge

1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

No Cover Charge

Alicia and Co.

for hair

2805 Claitlin
537-9825

Call for appointment
Tues.-Sat.

Alicia • Tammi • Tina • Annette • Chris

Auntie
Mae's Parlor

TONIGHT

ALL YOU CAN DRINK

House Drinks, Wine and Beer

GIRLS $3.00 GUYS $5.00

9 p.m. to Midnight

FRIDAY
MAE'S TGIF

3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Free Hors D'oeuvres • 50¢ Draws

$1.25 House Drinks • $2.00 Pitchers

Late Night Happy Hour

11:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.

- SATURDAY LATE NIGHT HAPPY HOUR -

11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Memberships Available

616 N. 12th

AGGIEVILLE

539-9967

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Scoping
for some fun?

75¢ Well Drinks

Tonight 9-11

HAPPY HOUR: 4-9

2 fers on hi balls 75¢ draws

$2 blended drinks

Drink of the week:
Sea Breeze $1.25

Memberships available at only $10 thru Aug. 31
531 N. Manhattan Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

ASK campus director to promote alcohol awareness group

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

He admits he is young for his job, but his age may be the cause of the enthusiasm with which Brett Lambert, sophomore in pre-law and political science, pursues his work as the new campus director of the Associated Students of Kansas.

The post is traditionally held by a junior or senior.

Promoting responsible alcohol drinking at K-State and supporting BACCHUS (Boosting Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students), a group formed by ASK last year for that purpose, will be one of ASK's and Lambert's main goals this year.

He said ASK's long-range goal is to allow BACCHUS to establish its own identity and become independent of ASK.

BACCHUS is now directed by an ASK-sponsored steering committee, and ASK will step out of the committee when BACCHUS can survive independently. The group will become independent if it has financial backing, and Lambert said he will ask Manhattan organizations to help fund the group's advertising and projects.

Lambert is distributing surveys to students asking about the seriousness of alcoholism at K-State and will use the results to seek funding from local organizations. Lambert said he will explain to the organizations that while the ASK survey indicates that students don't believe there is a high rate of alcoholism on campus, statistics compiled by the Riley County Police Department show the opposite.

He said money donated by the community will be used to educate students about responsible drinking and alcoholism.

Lambert said one education project might be placing breath

Brett Lambert

analyzers in Manhattan bars.

Another project, he said, will be sponsoring a non-alcoholic drink contest in which living groups each submit a drink and the winner will be named "The Wildcat." That drink will then be placed in competition with other Kansas Board of Regents schools. The drink might then be offered in local bars, he added.

The drinking age issue will probably again be a prominent one when the Kansas Legislature convenes in January, Lambert said, and ASK will continue lobbying against raising the drinking age.

Kansas is characterized by an "extreme pendulum effect," Lambert said, in that there are groups for preserving the 18-year-old drinking age for 3.2 alcohol and factions for making the legal age 21 years old for all alcoholic beverages. The state would be better off if the sides compromised, Lambert said.

"It would be much easier if the two groups worked together to promote responsible drinking," he said. "The dry and wet factions both have the same goal — to protect the students. We want everyone to be safe."

ASK is pursuing responsible drinking "very aggressively," he said, but the organization has other goals as well. Fighting for higher faculty salaries is one of those goals.

"I don't think it's out of our league to fight for increases in teacher salaries, and we're going to fight for this very, very aggressively," Lambert said.

Faculty standards have been slipping because of low salaries and by not speaking out, students are accepting the lower standards, he said. Student involvement in pushing for faculty salaries has been the missing piece in salary discussions, he added.

In other money matters, Lambert said ASK takes a realistic approach to tuition costs. ASK supports both this year's tuition increase and next year's increase because the increases are making up the low student role in education costs, he said.

Lambert said the regents believe students should provide 25 percent of all education costs, and in past years, students have only paid about 21 percent of those costs. The tuition increases are merely making up the difference now, he said.

"We have to be realistic. If we fight for that (no tuition increases), we're going to lose and also lose credibility, and our hands would be empty."

But ASK did not take the increases sitting down. The group decided that if the increases were imminent, they should be padded. So ASK lobbied for and received additional work study programs for regents schools, Lambert said.

"Being idealistic would have been counter-productive. (The work study) is turning a bad situation into a hopefully productive situation," he said.

Lambert said the Solomon Amendment issue will not be approached by ASK this year unless students want the topic raised again. There is little ASK can do since the amendment, which requires male students to be registered for the draft to receive federal financial aid, is now law.

"It's time to comply with the law. As a lobbying group, our biggest influence is when a law is being made."

Although Lambert is conscious of being a young ASK campus director, Mark Tallman, ASK executive director, said his youth may be a blessing in disguise.

"It is unusual for someone to be as young as Brett and be a campus director," Tallman said. "But when we thought about it, we thought his age might be an advantage."

"The most difficult thing of any student organization is the high turnover rate, and being a sophomore it will possibly allow him to continue on in the position...if he wants it," Tallman said.

Lambert was selected from among six other candidates for the job, all of whom had sterling qualifications, Tallman said.

"I've never been more impressed by a group of candidates than I was at K-State," he said.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

Speedwash

in Aggieville
1118 Moro

- Open 24 Hours
- Free parking behind building
- Newly remodeled

Hair by
DICK & FRIENDS
404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222
Manhattan
Appointments
Closed Mon. Tues.-Fri. 9-6
Sat. 8-3

DIAMOND GALLERY
"We want you as a customer!"
When you buy a diamond from us, we guarantee your satisfaction or we'll give you your money back.
See how many jewelry stores are this confident in their diamonds.
Diamond Engagement Rings From $80.00
Ladies Diamond Duos From $104.00
Diamond Wedding Trios From $140.00
Mon.-Sat. 10:00-6:00
1817 Ft. Riley Blvd.
539-0240

Levi® Saddleman Boot Cut Denim Jeans Sale 13.99

Plain Pockets® for guys. Sale 11.99
Reg. $15. Plain and simple, our Plain Pockets® are the jeans to own. These cotton/poly cords, for example, with their no-nonsense good looks and comfortable fit. Men's waists 28-42.

Sale 12.99 and 13.99
Our famous Fox® for men. With full fashion collar and three-button placket. In a host of fashion as well as basic colors. Polyester/combed cotton with hemmed sleeves or all-cotton with banded cuff and extended tail. Men's and young men's sizes S,M,L,XL.
Reg $18 and $19

Nike® 21.99
Nike® Monterey shoes have nylon uppers with suede trim. Rubber soles have herringbone tread for traction and long wear. Men's and Women's sizes.

JCPenney
4th and Houston
Manhattan,
Kansas

K-State Saves With Us

We're member and dollar strong
More than 2,300 Kansas State University employees and their families save at the campus credit union, where total assets exceed $3 million.

On-campus convenience
Drop by the credit union office in Anderson Hall to do your business, or use the campus mail to make savings deposits and loan payments.

Insured savings earn big dividends
High-yielding passbook savings and three-month certificates of deposit are insured up to $100,000 by a federal government agency. Dividends are declared and paid quarterly.

Helpful low-cost loans
The credit union is truly an economical place to borrow money because it is a federally chartered, non-profit organization.

Life savings insurance
Each dollar of savings is matched, at no extra charge, with a dollar of life insurance up to $3,000 for qualifying members.

Loan protection insurance
In case of a borrower's death prior to the age of 70, the unpaid balance of a loan is repaid by insurance.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
FEDERAL CREDIT UNION
A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants.

KSU
KANSAS
STATE UNIVERSITY

Anderson Hall, Room 24A
Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Monday through Friday
532-6274

One union continues phone company strike

By The Associated Press

Thousands of telephone workers returned to work Wednesday but the 525,000 members of the Communications Workers of America stayed on strike, as talks dragged toward a midnight deadline for agreement on local contracts to mesh with a national agreement.

The CWA, largest of the three unions which struck American Telephone & Telegraph on Aug. 7, said none of its workers would go back on the job until all 34 of its local contracts had been negotiated. After the union reached a national agreement Monday, it set the deadline for local contracts to be approved.

The other unions on strike, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Telecommunications International Union, also said they hoped local contracts would be wrapped up within 48 hours of the national agreement.

The IBEW, which represents 100,000 employees, said agreement had been reached on approximately half its local contracts. IBEW spokesman Tom Hickman said among the workers back on the job were about 20,000 of the 40,000 Western Electric employees represented by his union.

He said Wednesday afternoon that about a dozen local contracts were still to be completed.

Other unions were returning to work only if they had no CWArepresented colleagues, officials said.

Phone company officials around the nation said they were hopeful of reaching agreement by midnight with the CWA.

The three-year, $3 billion national pact provides a first-year raise of 5.5 percent for experienced workers, followed by two annual raises of 1.5 percent and cost-of-living allowances. It also provides protections for job security.

The strike affected directory assistance, operator-assisted calls and phone repair and installation, but routine calls made through the Bell System's highly automated switching equipment were mostly unaffected.

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

FLY TO K-STATE
BALL GAMES

By using affordable K-State Flying Club aircraft, you can fly inexpensively to away KSU games. Instrument-rated flying club members are willing to share equally actual costs to attend K-State sports events. For more information and approximate costs, call Hugh Irvin at 539-3128 or 532-6311.

Thursday

T.N.T.

Tacos "N"
TEQUILA
50¢ TACOS
with drinks

$1.00 Margaritas
4-7 p.m.

Starring John Hajda
4-6 p.m.

Members & Guests only
At the Ramada Inn

THE COMPLEX IMPROVISATIONAL THEATRE

Interviews for new comedians will be Thurs. night, August
25. For appts. call 532-6875.

CASH & CARRY
Roses—$7.99 a dozen
Carnations—$4.99 a dozen
Coupon good
Thursday, Friday, & Saturday

Westloop Floral
1346 Westloop Place
537-2845
Mon.-Sat. 8-5:30
Thurs. till 8:00

LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY

Welcomes You!

WORSHIP

DANFORTH CHAPEL
ON CAMPUS
11:00 A.M.—SUNDAY
COMMUNION—INTERDENOMINATIONAL

Bible Study 10:15 a.m.

FELLOWSHIP

LUTHERAN STUDENT MOVEMENT
CAMPUS CENTER—1021 DENISON
5:00 P.M.—SUNDAY
BIBLE STUDY—CURRENT ISSUES
EVERYONE WELCOME!
SPONSORED BY: LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY
1021 DENISON, DON FALLON, CAMPUS PASTOR 539-4451

there's Money
to be Made thru
Classified

Clip this Coupon
and Save
1/2 Pound Belly Bomb
with Cheese

Choice of Fries or
Tater Tots
$2.95

Offer Expires Aug. 25
Coupon not valid w/ any other offers

608 N. 12th 539-9906

Pacas setters

Paca setter Committee Heads!

There'll be a meeting at 7:30
Thursday - Aug. 25 in the Union.

Please Meet at the information desk!!

WE'VE GONE BANANAS

Crazy prices on everything in the store for 3 days only. Unbeatable deals on Car Stereos, Home Stereos, and Telephones. Brand names like Jensen, Harmon/Kardon, Sanyo, Sansui, Clarion, Sony and many more.

New J3033 100 watt Triax Reg. 159.95 Sale 99.95

Sanyo FTC28 Reg. 119.95 Sale 79.95
Mini Chassis Auto Rev.

RE 530 AM/FM/Cass. Reg. 499.95 Sale 389.95
Electronic Tuning Tape Search and Much More.

RE 520 AM/FM/Cass. Reg. 419.95 Sale 299.95
Electronic Tuning, Tape Search Doby

R408 Auto Rev. Dolby Reg. 289.95 Sale 209.95
Push button Bass & Treble

Sanyo FTC46 Reg. 219.95 Sale 139.95
Mini Chassis Pushbutton, Auto Rev. Hi Power.

Sanyo FTC48 Reg. 229.95 Sale 159.95
Auto Rev. AMSS Metal Tape Fader Dolby

Sanyo FTV100 Reg. 269.95 Sale 189.95
Auto Rev. Pushbutton AMSS, Dolby Hi Power

Sanyo SP90464 Reg. 119.95 Sale 61.97
100 Watt 6 1/2" Coax

Sanyo SP 42
Reg. 44.95 Sale 21.67
4" Coax

Sanyo SP 40
Reg. 59.95 Sale 30.97
4" Coax Hi Power

TAPE
Maxell UDXL-II 90 Twin Pak 5.50
TDK SA-90 Twin Pak 4.99
TDK SAX-90 Case of 10 35.00
TDK D-90 Twin Pak 3.00
TDK MAR-90 7.00

Jensen J3023
Reg. 139.95 Sale 89.95
6 1/2" Triax 75 watt

J1065 6x9 Triax
Reg. 129.95 Sale 64.95

KLH 508 8" 2-way
99.95 ea. 49.95 ea.
KLH 510 10" 3-way
159.95 ea. 74.95 ea.

WE SELL GOOD NEW & USED ALBUMS WE PAY CASH FOR ALBUMS Uncle Dog Records

COME SEE US AT 3RD & THURSTON IN MANHATTAN AUTO SOUND

ALL NEW $8.98 ALBUMS
SELL FOR $6.60. USED
ALBUMS START AT $1.00.

Jensen System 500 (shown)
290.00 ea. 190.00 ea.

Jensen System 400
220.00 ea. 130.00 ea.

FREE JENSEN POSTERS
WHILE THEY LAST!

Sanyo RDR-60 Reg. 259.95 Sale 179.95

Sanyo RDS30 Reg. 169.95 Sale 129.95

Sanyo RDS11 Reg. 129.95 Sale 89.95

Sherwood ST-902
Reg. 159.95 Sale 79.95

Sanyo P-33
Reg. 229.00 Sale 169.95

Sale Positively Ends 5:00 Sunday

Quantities are Limited
All Sales Are Final
All Equipment Carries Full
Factory Warranty
No Dealers Please

Manhattan Auto Sound

PHONE 913/776-8911

318 THURSTON • MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502

CAR STEREO • HI-FI • CB • SALES • INSTALLATION • SERVICE

9:30 to 5:30 Fri. & Sat.
12:00 to 5:00 Sun.
30 Day Lay-a-way
VISA, Master Charge, and American Express
Accepted

Speakes' 'funny' remark insults, infuriates former justice official

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — President Reagan's chief spokesman loosed a sarcastic barrage on Wednesday at Barbara Honegger, the Justice Department official who quit in protest over sex discrimination policies, saying she once had an "important role" as a bunny at the White House Easter egg roll.

Honegger, in Washington, said she had never been to a White House egg roll, and viewed the remarks by Larry Speakes as showing that administration officials "are real scared, not of what I have done, but of what they have not done."

She resigned Monday from a team charged with identifying statutes that discriminate against women, and declared that the program is a "sham."

"The last time I saw her she was the Easter bunny at the White House Easter egg roll," said Speakes, the president's top spokesman. "I think she was playing an important role as a volunteer in the Easter egg role to make sure that all the visitors to the White House had a good time."

"It's quite an admirable thing to do," said Speakes. "It's not easy to dress up in that hot bunny suit. I've never done it and I'm ashamed to admit it."

In Washington, Honegger asked after hearing of the Speakes remarks: "You think they'd try to do this to a man?" she asked. "I can't believe it. They're just putting their feet in concrete on this. They're getting in deeper and deeper."

As for the 'bunny' business, Speakes had his story wrong, Honegger said. She explained she once had donned a bunny costume at the 1980 Republican National Convention as a comedic retort to a "sexist" comment made by James A. Brady, a close Reagan aide at the time and later the White House press secretary.

Speakes' remarks about Honegger followed by one day Justice Department spokesman Tom DeCair's characterization of her as a "low-level munchkin." She was paid $37,000 annually at the department.

State sheriff group makes request for better, earlier retirement plan

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A group representing Kansas sheriffs urged a legislative study panel today to permit county law enforcement officers to become part of a new retirement plan, one providing benefits commensurate with the risks of their profession.

Bert Cantwell, legal counsel for the Kansas Sheriffs' Association, told the Special Committee on Ways and Means that law enforcement officers in county sheriff's departments would like to be covered by the retirement system for state correctional officers.

Cantwell, former Wyandotte County sheriff, said the group had in the past pushed for inclusion in the Kansas Police and Firemen's Retirement System but decided to lobby for the correctional plan because it would be less expensive for county governments which must foot the bill.

"It's kind of a compromise, but it would still be an improvement," said Cantwell. "It would enable them to retire early, and that's the big thing."

Sheriffs and their deputies are now part of the Kansas Public Employees Retirement System, which covers nearly all state workers. The normal retirement age is 65, with early retirement at 60.

The correctional retirement system, which is a part of KPERS, was established by the 1982 Legislature in response to complaints from prison guards. It provides improved early retirement and disability benefits. Normal retirement is at 55 and the plan has an early retirement option of age 50.

Also testifying before the panel was an official of the Kansas Board of Regents, who called on lawmakers to give the regents the option of including university police departments under the Police and Firemen's Retirement System. That plan also permits early retirement but has slightly better benefits than either KPERS or the correctional system program.

Bill Kauffman, general counsel for the regents, said the governing body of the state university system had not taken an official position on switching retirement plans for campus law officers but he suggested that the board should have that power.

"We do have highly organized structured police departments," said Kauffman.

Richard Von Ende, executive secretary of the University of Kansas, said universities have a difficult time in recruiting and retaining campus law enforcement officers because the existing retirement system is much poorer than those offered by other police agencies in Kansas.

Consequently, Von Ende said, university police department often serve as a "stepping stone" or training ground for people wanting law enforcement as a career. He also urged the panel to give the regents the authority to make changes in retirement coverage for university police.

Cost will be at least one factor in the lawmakers' deliberations of such a proposal for state workers. Employer contributions under the police and firemen's plan are higher than under KPERS, and Kauffman said it would cost at least $250,000 to make the retirement plan switch for the universities.

Currently, the Kansas Highway Patrol, the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, and local fire and police departments are covered by the Police and Firemen's Retirement System.

A group representing emergency medical services officials also asked the panel for legislation to permit local governments to switch retirement plans for their emergency medical workers to the fire and police system.

Ted McFarland, chairman of the Kansas Association of Emergency Medical Services Administrators, said the "job demands" of people such as ambulance operators are very similar to those of firemen and police.

Vet Med students to get two-day fall break

By The Collegian Staff

A new schedule for students in the College of Veterinary Medicine will allow them to take a two-day break from classes Oct. 13 and 14.

Dr. J.L. Noordsy, assistant dean, said the students began attending classes Thursday, two days before other K-State students, so they could take the fall break.

The break is designed to ease the pressures of rigid class schedules and long hours for veterinary medicine students, Noordsy said.

"Each student in Veterinary Medicine is taking from 19-20 hours of tough classes each semester, and a lot of them are lab classes," Noordsy said.

The break, which has been in the planning stages for several years, was authorized by K-State faculty, administration and the Kansas Board of Regents.

"The students are granted a leave from classwork, and the way it's scheduled, it will give them a four-day weekend," Noordsy said. "In addition, there are no major tests scheduled until at least the following Wednesday."

Students' complaints about long hours, tough schedules and awareness of the danger of stress prompted the change, he said.

After Aggieville Why Not
Donuts in Aggieville . . .

THE DONUT HOLE

Since 1983
Donuts—Sandwiches—Ice Cream

We'll Start at 9:00 Friday Nite
and Keep Em Comin', Fresh & Hot, All Night

FRIDAY NITE SPECIAL
2 GLAZED DONUTS 30¢

11th & Moro
Aggieville

The Avalon
TONIGHT

75¢ House Drinks • 50¢ Draws
7 p.m. to 9 p.m. with NO COVER CHARGE
$1.25 KAMAKAZI and a DRAW 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.
Only $1.00 COVER CHARGE 9 p.m. to Close

LIVE TONIGHT

THE GLEE CLUB

STEVE, BOB and RICH

Friday & Saturday with FREE

TGIF

1122 MORO

UPSTAIRS IN AGGIEVILLE

539-9703

LANGTON
LIQUOR STORE
FULL SELECTION OF
FINE WINES &
IMPORTED BEER
COLD KEES IN STOCK
539-5269
LARAMIE & 12TH/AGGIEVILLE
MANHATTAN, KANSAS

CONCESSION MANAGERS WANTED

McCain Auditorium needs two go-getters who love to sell and arrange delicious desserts for sale at all performance events at McCain. Duties will include ordering, setting-up, clearing up and keeping an inventory of stock and food supplies. Work study preferred. Please call 532-6425 for a job interview. Work begins week of 9/1.

AUGUST 27-29
COME
TO:

FLINT HILLS
PROFESSIONAL ART & CRAFT
SHOW

THE FLINT HILLS
PROFESSIONAL ARTS AND CRAFTS SHOW IS BRINGING THE OZARKS TO YOU!

AUGUST 27, 28
AT THE HOLIDOME...

YOU'LL SEE SOME OF THE FINEST CRAFTSMEN IN THE 6-STATE AREA AT WORK!

ADMISSION IS FREE.

YOU'LL ENJOY PROFESSIONAL DEMONSTRATIONS IN AIR-CONDITIONED COMFORT!

THERE'LL BE SPECIAL
FOOD, AND VISITS FROM
"BILLY BOB" OF SHOW BIZ
PIZZA!

IT'S FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY!
DON'T MISS IT! THE FLINT HILLS
PROFESSIONAL ARTS AND CRAFT SHOW
AT MANHATTAN'S HOLIDOME.

AUGUST 27
10 a.m. TO 9 p.m.
AUGUST 28
FROM NOON TO 5 p.m.

Where Else But The Students' Bank?

FOR STUDENT LOANS

LOANS ARE STILL AVAILABLE
THIS SEMESTER

Let KSBank get you started toward your educational goal. We helped Richard Steelsmith and we can help you too.

At Kansas State Bank the college student is important, and our commitment to students goes farther than just words. We were the first bank in town to have a full-time student loan department. Even now, we have more experience with guaranteed student loans than all other banking institutions in Manhattan combined. It just makes sense to apply for a loan at the institution that pioneered student loans in Manhattan.

KSBank

Kansas State Bank

■ MAIN BANK—1010 WEST LOOP
■ Our student loan department
MEMBER FDIC

537-4400

Group greets hall residents with annual dance, events

By PATTIE SHIPP
Collegian Reporter

"Go Hawaiian" will be the theme of the annual Welcome Back Dance to be sponsored by the Kansas State University Association of Residence Halls from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday on the Derby Complex basketball courts.

The dance, which is open to all hall residents, is traditionally the first activity of the year sponsored by the group. Entertainment will be provided by a Topeka disc jockey, and canned 3.2 beer will be permitted.

The group will sponsor KSUARH Awareness Week Aug. 29-Sept. 2. The week's events will include T-Shirt Day (Wednesday), a slide presentation at each residence hall about KSUARH and distribution of Kiss-A-Frog posters and pencils in Derby and Kramer Food Centers. "The main goal of the week is to get residents aware of what KSUARH is and some of the things it sponsors," said Sharon Feltner, KSUARH publicity coordinator.

The group will sponsor the annual K-State-KU Canoe Race Oct. 11-12 and Wichita State University will participate in the race this year. Beginning at Manhattan, racers will paddle on the Kansas River and stop at St. Marys the first night with the race ending in Lawrence.

The race is open to all students, but a $40 registration fee will be charged for if a team has no residence hall participants.

Other activities sponsored by KSUARH throughout the school year will include: showing of movies on Labor Day; Carniv' Hall, a fall outdoor event including a variety of entertainment booths; Christmas Sing, a caroling party for all hall residents; and Spring Fling, a week of dances, special events, movies and races conducted each spring in conjunction with National Residence Hall Week.

Sharon Miller, KSUARH president, said that through the planned activities, the group hopes to make hall residents aware of KSUARH and its purpose.

"We are working against a system in which there are a lot of incoming freshmen, so every year they must be oriented to what KSUARH is," she said.

She said the organization would also like to work with individual hall governing boards in promoting its programs, with a special emphasis on educational programs.

The first KSUARH meeting of the semester will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Boyd Hall. Miller said all hall residents are encouraged to attend.

Attorney indicted for filing false report of stolen tapes

By The Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Attorney Robert K. Steinberg was charged with filing a false police report alleging the theft of sex party videotapes that in fact never existed, a government official said Wednesday.

"The people's theory of the case is that the tapes never existed," Deputy District Attorney Marsha N. Revel said at Steinberg's scheduled arraignment. It was the first time an official has flatly denied the tapes' existence.

But Ms. Revel stopped short of calling Steinberg a liar, saying, "You know what he's charged with, and I have told you what the people's contention is, so you can draw your own conclusions."

Steinberg claimed the tapes showed a congressman, two high-level Reagan appointees and two prominent businessmen cavorting with women, including slain aspiring model Vicki Morgan.

Miss Morgan, mistress of late millionaire Alfred Bloomingdale, filed a $10 million palimony suit last summer against Bloomingdale, the department store heir who was a member of Ronald Reagan's "kitchen cabinet" and her lover for 12 years. A judge tossed out the bulk of Miss Morgan's suit after Bloomingdale died of cancer in August 1982.

On July 7, Miss Morgan was beaten to death, and her roommate, Marvin Pancoast, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to murder charges.

Four days after Miss Morgan's body was found in her Studio City apartment, Steinberg announced he had the so-called "sex tapes" and warned they could embarrass the Reagan administration.

But Steinberg never produced the tapes or any other evidence to substantiate his claim that a "mystery woman" walked into his office and handed him the tapes.

On July 12, just hours after prosecutors in the Morgan slaying asked to see the tapes, Steinberg reported them stolen from a gym bag in the library of his Beverly Hills law office.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian
Classifieds

SWINGIN'
LADIES
NITE

THURSDAYS!

All ladies get:
• FREE ADM.
• FREE DRAW
• 25¢ DRAWS
ALL NITE!

Introducing
FOOTLIGHTS

Exercise &
Dance Wear

GRAND OPENING

Sales throughout the week
Aug. 22-27

Store hrs:
10:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.
Thurs. till 8:00

1110 Laramie 537-3106

AGRICULTURE SENIORS be sure to attend the
AGRICULTURE PLACEMENT MEETING

Today at 4:00 p.m. in Throckmorton 132

How to register with the Career Planning and Placement Center, new procedures for on campus interviews and lots more will be discussed.

LEGGIS JEANS

Best Blue Jean Store in Town
Best Prices in Town

We now carry
Zena pinstripes

EVERYDAY LOW PRICE
$28.95

Pre-Vet Club Meeting
Thurs., Aug. 25 7 p.m.

Room 201
Vet-med building

All pre-vet majors welcome!

Résumé
Service

Professional

Résumé Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

WELCOME BACK
TOP QUALITY BRANDS at TRAVELUTE WESTERN STORE

One fourth mile south of Waterville
on Highway 77

Buy Best—Pay Less
Try our lay-away plan

9-6 Sat. 1-5 Sun.

(closed noons)

913-785-2138

Rainbo Cupcakes or Powdered Donuts 5 pkgs. $1.00

Busch 12 pkg./12 oz. cans $3.99 cold

KEYS MADE IN MINUTES!

1102 Laramie
Main St. in Ogden
2706 Anderson
All Open 24 Hrs.

Located for
Your Convenience

The Friendly
Country Store.
3 Miles East on Hiway 24
Open 6 a.m. Till 1 a.m. Daily

MINI
CONVENIENCE

MART
GROCERY

AUDITIONS FOR MUSIC DEPT. ENSEMBLES

1. Marching Band: See Mr. Stan Finck for audition time.
2. Jazz Band: auditions will be 6-10 p.m., Tues. evening, Aug. 23, Rm. 201, McCain Auditorium. Sign up for times outside of band office, Rm. 226, McCain.

3. Symphonic Band: (Wind Ensemble): Contact Mr. Al Cochran, Rm. 224, McCain for an audition time.

4. Orchestra: Contact Mr. Ralph Winkler, Rm. 113, McCain.

5. Collegium Musicum (early music): Contact Sara Funkhouser, Rm. 223, McCain.

(For further information about any of these groups contact Al Cochran at 532-5740.)

ALL UNIVERSITY STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE TO AUDITION AND ARE ENCOURAGED TO DO SO.

McCall's
313 Poyntz—downtown Manhattan

fanfares
...says it all

LEATHER FOR WHATEVER

McCall's Shoes . . . A Manhattan tradition since 1961

Houseplants
Florida's Finest
Don't miss our 5th annual
Truckload SALE!!!

- | | |
|---------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 4 1/2' Areca Palms... $14.95 | 3' Weeping Fig #24.95 |
| 4' Yucca Cane or Tip... $14.95 | 8' Norfolk Pine #34.95 |
| 3' Hawaiian Sheflera... $14.95 | 4' Norfolk Pine #19.95 |
| 3 1/2' Rubber Tree... $14.95 | 5' Dracaena... $24.95 |
| 3' Philodendron Sellom #14.95 | 5' Corn Plant #24.95 |
| 4 1/2' Weeping Fig #14.95 | Full Fan Palms #19.95 |
| 3 kinds of Crotons #14.95 | Diffenbachia #24.95 |
| 3' Hawaiian Ti... $14.95 | Chinese Evergreen $11.95 |
| 4' Reg. Sheflera... $17.95 | Boston Fern Baskets $5.99 |

We don't say "TRUCKLOAD" just as a gimmick — we actually went to Florida and personally selected the prettiest, healthiest, biggest plants we could find for the money. Don't miss this once a year opportunity!

Open 9-9 daily. Westside Market FINE FRUITS FRESH VEG-IES FAST SERVICE
Just west of town on K-18 (Ft. Riley Blvd.) by the Holidome

U.S. non-military aid keeps Salvadoran government afloat

By The Associated Press

SAN SALVADOR — At the rate of more than $800,000 a day, U.S. non-military, economic aid has been pouring into El Salvador from the United States. Much of it being used to provide housing and food for the poor and medical care for 350,000 refugees uprooted by war.

It also provides loan guarantees, finances elections set for next year, land reform, vocational training for the jobless and instruction for union leaders. American aid even extends to family planning, with the goal of reducing Salvador's population growth — among the world's highest at 2.9 percent per year.

Some of the money is going into projects intended to raise the standard of living. El Salvador has an annual per capita income of about $600, compared to more than $10,000 in the United States.

In an interview shortly before he left El Salvador, former U.S. Ambassador Deane R. Hinton said the government was "barely keeping afloat," even with the U.S. aid.

As Salvadoran production has fallen — the gross national product plunged 25 percent in the last three years — American aid increasingly fills the gaps. The estimated $292 million in non-military U.S. aid is equal to one-third of the Salvadoran budget in 1983. Including military aid, the figure increases to nearly 45 percent of the budget.

Military aid to the 37,000-member Salvadoran armed forces this year amounts to $86.3 million. That funding includes weapons, training programs, medical supplies and logistical support in the fight against an estimated 7,000 leftist guerrillas.

The United States is sending $50 million worth of corn, cooking oil, wheat, milk, medicines, soy meal — a total of 240,000 tons of food products this year to make up for local shortages resulting from almost four years of civil war.

Since last year, guerrillas have concentrated on wrecking the economy by blowing up power lines, burning warehouses and attacking trains and trucks in order to hamper the distribution of goods. Large sections of the country have been left without electricity at least 30 times this year, sometimes for more than a week.

Officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development say the guerrilla sabotage has caused about $600 million in damage and about $1 billion in production losses. It is providing $14.6 million to repair some of that damage.

The biggest single chunk of American aid goes to keeping businesses alive and to bolstering the controversial land reform program — both considered essential for maintaining political stability.

In 1983, the U.S. government is providing $120 million in cash to the Central Bank to be sold to businessmen who need foreign exchange to purchase imports. Under terms of the grant, the government must use the local currency obtained in selling the dollars in development projects supervised by AID.

More than $36 million goes into organizing and financing El Salvador's three-year-old land reform program — in which more than 140,000 families have been settled on cooperatives or given small parcels of land to work for themselves.

However, peasant leaders complain that former owners have thrown out about 4,000 families off newly acquired land, and dozens of peasants have been killed in gun-fights.

A recent joint U.S.-Salvadoran survey also raised questions about the success of land reform.

AID officials say they exercise close control over the use of economic assistance funds.

"We have got about all the possible controls in place that are possible," said one AID official who asked not to be identified for security reasons. "This is one of the most closely watched programs in the world."

But a university researcher who studies the effects of U.S. aid here claims he has found irregularities.

He said there were reports the foreign exchange funds were being funneled into U.S. bank accounts through arrangements with shady companies in Miami that export products to El Salvador at inflated prices.

Nevertheless, he admitted, the U.S. support is crucial to the nation's survival.

"Without U.S. aid, this place collapses," said the researcher, who spoke with a reporter on condition he not be named. The economic researcher said identification could harm his effectiveness in gathering government data on aid programs.

Milsap tickets sold by mail

By The Collegian Staff

Contrary to information printed in "Eight Ways," a Union Program Council publication, tickets for the Ronnie Milsap Show on Parents' Weekend are presently available only by mail order.

Barbara Burke, Union Program Council adviser, said an article about the show stated that tickets would be available at the K-State Union Box Office starting Aug. 24.

She said this information also was included in an athletic brochure mailed to students' parents in July and in another brochure mailed Aug. 4.

The brochure mailed to parents stated that tickets would be sold to the general public beginning Aug. 24. Burke said this was an attempt to encourage parents to buy their tickets early, but she said tickets are not available at the box office.

More than 9,000 tickets are available for the Milsap show, scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 30 in Ahearn Field House. Burke said that ticket sales are steady.

"I would be surprised if we did not sell a lot of tickets," she said.

UPC was looking for a show which would appeal to both parents and students, Burke said, but choices offered by a New York concert consultant were limited to Ronnie Milsap and Chet Atkins.

Student Health Insurance

For information:

- Brochures available at Lafene Student Health Center and Student Government Services Office
- Company representatives available this week and Wednesdays.
- Underwritten by Transamerica Occidental Life.

Cheaper by the dozen!

UD-XL II-C90 High Level Bias Cassette Tape

By 12 tapes Get a FREE cassette carrying case!

maxell
MADE FOR KEEPS

k-state union bookstore 0302

BACK-TO-SCHOOL BIKE SALE!

BASSETTS BIKE SHOP
(Downtown)

217 Poyntz 537-8832

For the best in Sales & Service

- NEW NISHIKI BICYCLES 20% off
 - USED FREE $20 worth of accessories with NEW bike purchase*
 - PARTS
 - ACCESSORIES
 - REPAIR
- *Nishiki Bikes not included in this offer.
- CENTURION—NISHIKI—KHS—TAKARA—DIAMOND BACK

Total Haircare

Natural Sequence

Cleanse, Condition & Style

Roffler has the right products to match your hair condition. Shampoo, Conditioner, Protector, and Natural Mist... each available for these specific hair types:

- Normal to oily hair
- Normal to dry hair
- Fine/limp or damaged hair

THE CUT YOU KEEP

537-8620

612 N. Manhattan Behind Hardees—Aggieville

Visit your Roffler Salon today.

CLOSE, CONVENIENT, & COMING SOON: THE FIRST'S NEW UNIVERSITY BANK.

First National Bank is introducing a new banking facility built with you in mind—our new University Bank.

With a convenient location on the corner of Denison and Claflin, we've made banking as quick and easy as a walk to class.

The University Bank will be open for business in October. This exciting new bank will have 24-hour automatic tellers, full-service banking, and our helpful staff ready to serve your student needs.

Let our University Bank be your bank. You'll be glad we're here.

OPEN YOUR ACCOUNT NOW AND LET US TREAT YOU TO A FREE WHOPPER.

The First would like to give you a free Whopper from Burger King. All you need to do is come on in and open your account with us. Manhattan's most convenient bank.

Offer expires September 30, 1983.

First National Bank

Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations

• Main Branch • 3005 N. 4th Ave. • 3rd Floor • 537-4444 • 24-Hour Service

All Locations 537-4200 Member FDIC

The Sports Fanatic

Laramie at 12th—Aggieville
Office: 539-0525; Bar 539-9849

- Betcha didn't know... The last time KSU lost 5 fumbles in one game was to Wichita State in 1974. KSU still won 17-0!!
- Betcha didn't know... TONITE IS GRAND SLAM 4-FERS at the Sports Fanatic beginning at 8 p.m.
- Betcha didn't know... Moore Hall can do some partying!
- Betcha didn't know... "ROCK" may be the best dance band in Manhattan this year. Appearing tonight thru Saturday at the Sports Fanatic.
- Betcha didn't know... Starting at 7 p.m. Friday night, ALL FRESHMEN are invited to enjoy a free Keg party, courtesy of Sports Fanatic.

COME IN AND PLAY... TODAY!

The Bar Where Sports Fans Play.....

Nebraska, Rozier confident

By The Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — Nebraska I-back Mike Rozier says the Big Eight Conference should be proud to have three running backs considered by many pre-season forecasters as the best in the nation.

Rozier, Oklahoma's Marcus Dupree and Oklahoma State's Ernest Anderson were among the nation's top rushers a year ago and return with visions of repeating their impressive statistics this fall.

Rozier notes that all three backs do things differently. He calls Dupree a very good outside runner and Anderson a better inside runner. The Husker second-team All-American said he was probably closer to Anderson when it came to matching skills, since he prides himself in being able to break tackles and make things happen.

But Rozier also noted another difference...the other 10 men on the field.

"People talk like Mike Rozier is the whole team, but I'm not," said the Camden, N.J. native. "I couldn't do anything without those other 10 guys. It's the line that opens the holes."

Coach Tom Osborne agrees that Rozier is not the entire Husker attack. In fact, he told sports writers and sportscasters on the Big Eight Skywriters Tour Wednesday that with quarterback Turner Gill, "if we wanted to make this thing a passing show, I think we could. We could go out and throw the heck out of the ball, but we're not going to do that," he said. "We're going to try to do it all."

Last year's Husker offense ranked No. 1 in rushing offense when Rozier set a single season school record with 1,689 yards. Nebraska also was No. 1 in total offense and scoring offense.

The keys in those offensive statistics return in Rozier, Gill and wingback Irving Fryar. However, the only other offensive starter back this fall is guard Dean Steinkuhler.

That doesn't seem to bother Gill, who said he has played behind this fall's offensive line almost as much as he did behind graduated All-American and Outland Trophy-winning center Dave Rimington, all-Big Eight tackle Randy Theiss and all-conference guard Mike Mandelko.

"I'm not worried about the line," Gill said. "Those guys may not have started, but they played a lot last year."

Gill, Rozier and Fryar make the Husker offense an explosive force. Fryar is compared to NU Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers. He has speed and elusiveness that helped him rank third nationally in punt returns last year. Fryar also is Gill's favorite passing target, pulling in a team-leading 24 passes for 346 yards and two touchdowns last year.

While the offense appears solid, Osborne said, the defense was a big question mark when fall practice began. Graduation depleted the defensive line and took three of the top four linebackers.

"The thing that people don't understand is that if we don't have a real good defense, we won't have a good year," Osborne said. "Offense is a lot more tenuous than the defense. It's hard for the offense to go out there and hit on all eight cylinders every time. The defense has to keep you in the game until the offense can get going."

"The last six or eight games of the season last year, the defense played well. It kept us in two or three games. This year, we don't have a Steve Damkroger (linebacker) or a Toby Williams (tackle)."

Osborne said the interior defensive line appears sufficiently patched with starting tackle Rob Stuckey returning to play beside defensive captains Mike Keeler at tackle and Mike Tranmer at nose guard.

"Mike has been a pleasant surprise as a player — just that he's out there at all," Osborne said. Keeler had a cancerous tumor removed from his abdomen last year. He considered giving up football but changed his mind.

"He's been a real plus for us. He's probably playing the best football he's ever played right now. We're very proud of him," Osborne said.

Osborne opens his 11th season as NU head coach next Monday night when Nebraska travels to East Rutherford, N.J. to meet defending national champion Penn State in the inaugural Kickoff Classic. Penn State handed the 12-1, third-ranked Cornhuskers their only loss last season, 27-24, on a controversial last-minute touchdown drive.

Experience improves team

By TIM FILBY
Collegian Reporter

Although the K-State men's and women's golf teams are young, the experience they gained last year could help them to improve this year, according to the teams' coaches.

After finishing last in the Big Eight last year, Ray Wauthier, men's head golf coach, is optimistic that the K-State men's team can improve.

"With the experience our young players received last year, I feel that we should be improved," Wauthier said. He pointed out that with stronger play by his team, K-State could jump as high as sixth place in the Big Eight standings.

Three juniors, Allen French, Kevin Crow and Robert Sedorek, are the only upperclassmen players returning from last season. Wauthier said he hopes sophomore returnees, Reagan Crow, Jack Day and James Friscella, can help carry the load this season. He remarked that Day and Friscella have improved "quite a bit".

Because of a lack of funds for scholarships this season, the men's team has had trouble adding new talent. However, Wauthier said two freshmen, Mark Alexander from Stanley-Blue Valley and Larry Golden from Topeka West, can help the team.

Tuesday and Thursday, the men's team will have qualifying rounds for the team at Manhattan Country Club. Interested students should contact Wauthier at Ahearn 207. The first tournament is scheduled for mid-September.

Womens' golf coach Lila Levin also said she hopes for improvement from her squad.

"I'm expecting improvement in the teams' performance," Levin said. "The returning girls have been working on their games and are more experienced players."

Four sophomores, Terri Alexander, Ann Hagarty, Sherry Dercher and Lisa O'Connell, are returning from last year's squad. Levin stated that all four players should be improved since they took private lessons over the summer and worked on their games.

In addition, Levin said her team should be improved because of the new players coming into the program. Sophomores Erin Andrews and Paige Harrison should help the team, she said.

Levin also recruited three freshmen: Shelly Sherman, the Kansas state 4A champion from Lyons; Nancy Borthwick, who Levin calls "promising"; and Ann Searles from Hoisington.

Lisa Alexander from the University of Iowa may be another valuable recruit, Levin said. Alexander was Iowa's No. 1 golfer before staying out of school last year. Although she has to wait a year before becoming eligible for competition, she still plans to play in tournaments with the rest of the team as an unofficial entry, Levin said. Alexander transferred here because her sister attends K-State and is a member of the team.

K-State's women golfers begin their season Sept. 8 with a twelve-team tournament in Sioux City, Iowa. Other tournaments to be played are at the University of Missouri, the University of Kansas and Iowa State University — all in October.

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Tryout time

Scot Sandlin, freshman in journalism and mass communications, strains to return a volley during tennis team tryouts at Washburn Recreational Complex Wednesday afternoon. Sandlin was one of approximately 20 people to try out for the team.

Chiefs acquire two running backs

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Kansas City Chiefs, still looking for a successor to running back Joe Delaney, acquired two backs Wednesday from the Dallas Cowboys and New York Giants for undisclosed future draft choices.

The Chiefs announced the acquisition of halfback Lawrence Ricks, the Cowboys' eighth-round draft pick, and fullback John DeGruttola, a free agent signed by the Giants last spring.

Ricks was fifth on the all-time rushing list at the University of Michigan, where he finished with 2,751 yards and 24 touchdowns on 541 carries. Ricks, who is 5-foot-9 and 194 pounds, was the second leading rusher in the Big Ten and ninth leading rusher in the nation last year with 1,388 yards.

DeGruttola, 5-foot-11 and 227 pounds, had a tryout with the Pittsburgh Steelers last season but never played in a regular season game.

Delaney, the Chiefs' leading rusher the past two seasons, drowned this summer in Louisiana. The Chiefs acquired running back Jewel Thomas in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams last week but placed two other backs, Ernie Goolsby and Daryl Posey on the injured reserve list Tuesday.

REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE •

CARPET SALE

REMNANTS
NEWLY RESTOCKED

DORM ROOMS, BATH ROOMS, BEDROOMS, AREA RUGS, LIVING AND DINING ROOMS, BOATS, PORCHES, ETC.
ALL SIZES, TYPES AND COLORS AT SPECIAL REMNANT PRICES.

OVER 100
TO CHOOSE
FROM

WALLPAPER
SALE

ON OUR MOST POPULAR BOOKS
SAVE 15% TO 35%

ROLL STOCK ON SALE

OVER 30 DIFFERENT STYLES & COLORS ON SALE

- ★ RARE TOUCH, ANSO IV NYLON (REG. $15.40) SALE $12.99
- ★ ARMSTRONG ROYAL RAPTURE (REG. $16.99) SALE $14.50
- ★ BARN BURNER NYLON SCULPTURE (REG. $12.99) SALE $9.49

PLUS MANY MORE

NO-WAX VINYL SALE ARMSTRONG, CONGOLEUM, TARKETT, SALE PRICED FROM $4.99 SQ. YD.

OUTDOOR TURF SALE PORCHES, PATIOS, BOATS, CARS, ETC. SALE $3.99 AND UP

1/2 PRICE SAMPLE SALE PIECE TOGETHER FOR AREA RUGS • 18" x 27" SALE 50¢ 12" x 18" 25¢

BRYANT CARPET AND HOME DECORATING CENTER

MANHATTAN

OPEN:
Mon. — Fri. 9:30-5:30
Sat. 9:30-4
776-4367

DATE: Mon-Fri August 22-26, 1983

TIME: 9am-4pm PLACE: k-state union bookstore 0302

Jostens' college rings offered daily at your bookstore

SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT

See your Jostens' representative for a complete selection of rings and details of Jostens' Creative Financing Plans.

DATE: Mon-Fri August 22-26, 1983

TIME: 9am-4pm

PLACE:

k-state union bookstore 0302

Jostens' college rings offered daily at your bookstore

Committee announces new drug tests

By The Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — After losing one top Olympic prospect in the Pan Am crackdown, the U.S. Olympic Committee announced a new testing system of its own Wednesday and said any Americans using steroids or other prohibited substances will be left out of the 1984 Games in Los Angeles.

And in the chaos generated by the affair, the USOC said it had made a mistake the day before in reporting that decathlete hopeful Gary Bastien of Auburn, Ala., had gone home with 11 Pan American Games teammates before their competition started. Bastien was still in Caracas but not participating because of injury, officials said.

In the most dramatic effort yet to control what amateur athletes do to their bodies, the Pan Am organization is using ultrasophisticated laboratory testing to detect steroid or drug use as much as a year back. All medal winners, plus two other participants selected at random in each event, are being checked, and so far, eight weightlifters have lost a total of 21 medals.

Jeff Michels of Chicago, the top U.S. weightlifter, was stripped of three gold medals and faces a one-year suspension from international competition that would keep him out of the Olympics.

The USOC said Wednesday that for the first time, athletes will face random drug screening before representing the United States in future international events, including the Olympics.

"All U.S. athletes will face a very extensive drug testing program," said F. Don Miller, the USOC executive director. "We will begin on a random basis and it will require the cooperation of a lot of people in the federations."

"It is something we have to do so that we can send a representative team to the Olympics," he said.

The U.S. track and field team for the Pan Am Games was decimated when 11 members flew home Tuesday before their competition started. No official reason was given, although the USOC said they had withdrawn from the Games after learning that strict tests would be conducted.

Originally, Bastien was listed by USOC as also leaving, but Wednesday the committee corrected itself and said he was in Caracas with an injured quadriceps muscle. "We were in error," USOC spokesman Mike Moran said.

Bastien is to be examined by the team doctor, Dr. Roy Bergman, within the next two days, and could not be reached for comment.

Murray Levin, president of the U.S. Weightlifting Federation, said Michels will automatically be suspended for one year under international federation rules.

Meter reading

Staff/Steve Mingle

Light specialist Bob Foley takes a light meter reading in the end zone at KSU Stadium while attempting to adjust the newly installed lights. The lights will prove useful beginning Sept. 3 when K-State hosts Long Beach State University in the second night game in K-State football history.

Hansen Nutrition Center
Food Supplements Natural Foods
Special Dietary Foods Appliances
Body Building Foods Books
"Diet cures what diet causes"
HOURS
9:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Mon.-Sat.
3112 Anderson Ave. 537-4571

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
"Complete Shoe & Boot Repair"
HAND-CRAFTED LEATHER GOODS...
BELTS
BUCKLES
BILLFOLDS
Drive-Up Convenience
401 Humboldt 776-1193

ALL YOU CAN EAT MOUNTAIN OYSTERS!
Only $3.95
Thurs. nites 6-10 p.m.
ROCKIN' K BAR
TONITE IS LADIES NITE!

Let's get together
with the Wildcats on a road trip
to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th

Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations by Sept. 11
Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

AT PIÑATA:

Try Our American Line
"Quarter-Pound" Hot Dogs
&
Sloppy Joes

Piñata

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11, Sun. 11-10
Blumont and North Manhattan

539-3166

"UPC... We do it right!"

UPCOMING EVENTS

Wednesday, August 24

ORC—Horsepacking sign up: 8 a.m.-4 p.m., Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union.

Kaleidoscope—Shoot the Moon: FH 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, August 25

Kaleidoscope—Shoot the Moon: LT 3:30, FH 7:30 p.m.

Friday, August 26

Feature Films—First Blood: FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Feature Films—It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World: FH 12 midnight.

Saturday, August 27

Kaleidoscope—Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory: FH 2 p.m.

Feature Films—First Blood: FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Feature Films—It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World: FH 12 midnight.

Special Events—1st Annual Ultimate Frisbee Tournament: 8 a.m.-8 p.m., Intramural Fields, Finals Sunday.

Sunday, August 28

Special Events—Welcome Back Concert—Jimmy D. Band, Glee Club, and The Secrets*: 1 p.m., Weber Lawn.

Kaleidoscope—Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory: FH 2 & 7 p.m.

Tuesday, August 30

Outdoor Rec—Horsepacking drivers meeting: 7 p.m. U213

Reminder

1983-84 Programmers are available in the Union Bookstore for only $2.75.

Spaces available at our events.

k-state union
program council

UPC SPECIAL EVENTS PRESENTS THE 3RD ANNUAL

Welcome Back Concert

Featuring: Glee Club, The Secrets*, Jimmy Dee Band

Concession stand will be available. No cereal malt or alcoholic beverages, please. If rain, concert will be moved to Forum Hall. Concert will also be delayed broadcast on KSDB 88.1 beginning at 2 p.m.

Sunday, August 28th
1 p.m. Weber Lawn
FREE!

k-state union
special events

HORSEPACKING SEPTEMBER 3-5 $85

A once in a lifetime adventure into an awe-inspiring wilderness area on horseback in Western Colorado.

Sign-up continues through Friday, Sept. 6, 4 p.m. in the Union Activities Center.

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

STALLONE

This time he's fighting for his life.

FIRST BLOOD

Friday and Saturday
August 26 & 27
7 & 9:30 p.m.
Forum Hall $1.50

also
It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World
Friday and Saturday
August 26 & 27
12 midnight
Forum Hall $1.50

k-state union
upc feature films

JOHN BIGGS

IN CONCERT

singer songwriter guitar player
banjo picker humorist

Tickets available at the door or in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., September 1 ONLY!

Thursday, September 1
8 p.m., K-State Union Catskeller
Admission: $2

Doors open at 7 p.m.

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

NOONERS "Students Entertaining Students"

UPC Coffeehouse is now accepting applications for its annual Nooners series: "Students Entertaining Students." Anyone with any kind of talent should pick up applications in the Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union. For more information call 532-6571.

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

SHOOT THE MOON

Starring Albert Finney and Diane Keaton.
Wed., Aug. 24 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thurs., Aug. 25 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
$1.50 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall

Gene Wilder and Jack Albertson star in a trip through a magic chocolate factory.
Sat., Aug. 27 2 p.m. Forum Hall
Sun., Aug. 28 2 & 7 p.m. Forum Hall
$1.50

Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

E.O.S. SALE AT WOLFE'S CAMERA

It's the End of Summer and time for Wolfe's annual E.O.S. Sale. Here is your opportunity to save on photography items throughout the store. E.O.S. means deep cut prices on new and used merchandise that we must sell to make room for our fall inventory. All items are in limited stock and subject to prior sale.

35mm SLR CAMERAS

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
Minolta SR11 1/2	350.00	139.99
Konica TC 1.8 w. case	359.00	159.99
Pentax K1000 1/2	266.00	139.99
Mamiya ZM 1.7 w. case	299.00	189.99
Ricoh KR10 1/2	249.00	189.99
Yashica FXD 1/2 (free flash)	349.95	229.99
Canon A1 Body	540.00	269.99
Mamiya ZR 11.7	555.00	269.99
Pentax ME Super 1/2	339.00	199.99
Canon T1 1/2 9 Makinon	404.00	149.99
Canon AE1 Program Body	350.00	199.99
Konica FS1 1/2 (demo)	406.00	199.99
Minolta XD 1/2	550.00	239.99
Olympus OMG 1/2 (S30 rebate)	400.00	229.99
Nikon FM2 Body	679.00	499.99
Nikon FM2 Body	380.00	239.99
Minolta XG-M 1/2	390.00	209.99
Vivitar RC 311 7 & 8 auto (used)	289.95	79.99

TELECONVERTERS

Mostly 2X, some 3X, to fit 35mm cameras. Assorted brands.

reg. $39.99
to $119.99

MEDIUM & LARGE FORMAT

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
Bronica S2A 75mm f2.8 (used)	895.00	269.99
Bronica EC TL Body (used)	695.00	149.99
Bronica EC TL 75mm f2.8 (used)	995.00	399.99
Komura 150mm f3.5 Bronica (used)	550.00	129.99
Bronica Magazine (used)	295.00	129.99
50mm f3.5 Nikkor (used)	695.00	159.99
Prismafinder for S2A (used)	298.00	99.99
SX Chimney for S2A (used)	89.50	19.99
Motor Drive for Bronica (R) (used)	395.00	149.99
6x6 Magazine S2A (used)	298.00	79.99
6x4.5 magazine for S2A (used)	298.00	49.99
Mamiya 1000 S12.8 Prism (used)	995.00	499.99
Pentax 6x7 & 105mm f2.4 (used)	995.00	549.99
Mamiya 65mm RB67 (used)	1095.00	349.99
Mamiya C220 Body (used)	290.00	79.99
Mamiya 180mm RB67 (used)	895.00	319.99
Mamiya RB67 Pro Body (used)	395.00	169.99
120 Magazine for RB67 (used)	200.00	79.99
Mamiya 50mm RB67 (used)	995.00	499.99
Prism Finder for RB67 (used)	395.00	239.99
Rolleiflex 5.6/5.6 (used)	2800.00	1199.99
Mamiya 210mm f4.5 (used)	450.00	249.99
150mm Mamiya 23 (used)	399.00	69.99
150mm Mamiya 23 (used)	399.00	169.99
65mm f6.3 Universal (used)	450.00	109.99
Kodak Universal (used)	695.00	199.99
Graflex XL 100mm f3.5 (used)	595.00	249.99
180mm f4.5 for XL (used)	298.00	159.99
58mm f4.5 for XL (used)	398.00	249.99
Mamiya 645 80mm MACRO (used)	625.00	399.99
Mamiya 645 70mm f2.8 Shutter (used)	580.00	289.99
Mamiya 267 Body only (used)	820.00	499.99
Mamiya 120 Mag for R267 (used)	360.00	279.99
Mamiya 110 f2.8 for R267 (used)	800.00	499.99
Mamiya PD Prism for R267 (used)	980.00	619.99
Hasselblad 110 f2 for R267 (used)	1220.00	749.99
Mamiya Motorwinder R2 (used)	220.00	159.99
Bronica S2 1/2 8	1695.00	999.99
Bronica S2 Motor Chimney Finder (used)	385.00	199.99
Bronica S2 150mm f3.5 (used)	895.00	549.99
Bronica ETR AF Finder Demo (used)	495.00	99.99
Hasselblad 16 MAG (used)	330.00	99.99
Hasselblad HC 4.90 Prism Finder (used)	1299.00	699.99
Hasselblad ELB Body (used)	895.00	339.99
Hasselblad 80mm (used)	1995.00	1499.99
Hasselblad 50mm f2.8 finder (used)	2395.00	1499.99
Hasselblad Bellows Attachment (used)	695.00	199.99
Komura 28 for Hasselblad (used)	79.99	79.99
Hasselblad 110 f2 for 2000 FCM (used)	1895.00	1099.99
Rapinar 90mm f6.3 4x5 (used)	298.00	139.99
Vaighlander 105mm f3.5 2x3 (used)	189.50	39.99
Prinz 90mm f6.3 4x5 (used)	298.00	189.99
Tel. ultra 240mm f4.5 4x5 (used)	495.00	239.99
Graflex Optar 135mm f4.7 4x5 (used)	169.50	59.99
Calumet 4x5 view. 215 f6.3 (used)	299.00	169.99
Burke & James 4x5 view. no lens (used)	299.00	149.99
Graflex 4x5 view. (used)	139.99	39.99
Goetz Daguer 162mm f8.4 4x5 (used)	139.99	39.99
Roll Slider Back Taya 4x5 (used)	298.00	179.99

MOTORS/WINDERS/DATA BACKS

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
Ricoh Winder II XR 7	130.00	59.99
Ricoh Winder I KR10	130.00	59.99
Ricoh Data Back XR 7	150.00	99.99
Yashica IR Winder	130.00	59.99
Pro Winder for Canon	120.00	69.99
Fujica Winder X	130.00	59.99
Fujica Winder AZ1	130.00	59.99
Konica Winder T4	130.00	49.99
Pro Winder Minolta G & X	119.95	69.99
Minolta Data Back	150.00	114.99
Olympus Motor Drive I Head (demo)	500.00	249.99
Nikon M12 Data Back	175.00	119.99
Olympus Recordator Back (used)	160.00	29.99
Konica Autowinder AR (used)	130.00	29.99
Nikon MD E (used)	98.00	49.99
Konica Autowinder G (used)	130.00	49.99
Fujica Autowinder (used)	130.00	29.99
Nikon MB 1 (used)	160.00	39.99
Canon Motor Drive MF (used)	398.00	169.99

FILM SALE

All fresh in date

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
35 135-12	2.49	1.59
135-24	2.99	1.99
135-36	3.99	2.69
35 135-36	4.99	3.49
Agfachrome 100 slide 135-36	9.39	5.99
Agfa hi-w ASA 200 135-36	2.99	1.49

Limited to stock on hand. No rainchecks.

SLIDE PROJECTORS & ACCESSORIES

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
Kodak Ektagraphics II B	339.50	199.99
Bioa Winder 2400 HI Projector	279.95	149.99
Leica T410 Dissolver	249.95	199.99
Autodiam 1525 2 Recorder	259.95	199.99
Brumberger 2 - Projector	169.50	119.99
Kodak Ektagraphics B7	286.00	159.99
GAI 2100 R Remote	139.95	99.99
Kodak Ektagraphics AF 1	339.00	239.99
Kodak Carousel 850 H	389.50	229.99
Leitz AT 300 AV 90mm	705.00	499.99
Hammer 2455	329.00	199.99
Kodak Ektagraphics III FS	324.00	199.99
Kodak Ektagraphics III FS	269.95	169.99
Kodak Carousel 5600	477.00	329.99
Kodak 500 145 90mm	139.99	109.99
Soundomatic Playback	298.00	59.99
Soundomatic Universal	329.95	119.99
Black Maxx	529.99	369.99
Viewlex Slide (used)	99.50	9.99
Ricoh P350A Autofocus (used)	169.00	79.99
Calumet 4x5 view. 215 f6.3 (used)	89.50	19.99
Cassette Microfilm Strip (used)	495.00	109.99
Igheba 270 Rear Projection Theater (used)	298.00	99.99

LENSES FOR CANON

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
28-80mm f3.5-4.5 Pro (used)	449.50	139.99
28mm f2.8 Visitar (used)	169.50	39.99
135mm f2.8 Zeonar (used)	139.50	29.99
35mm f2.8 Visitar (used)	149.50	22.99
90-205mm f3.5 Visitar (used)	298.00	79.99
28mm f2.8 Pro	189.50	79.99
24mm f2.8 Visitar	216.00	89.99
28mm f2.8 Pro	199.50	79.99
35mm f2.8 Zeonar	129.95	39.99
55mm f2.8 Quantaray Macro	299.95	149.99
135mm f2.5 Canon	185.50	79.99
200mm f2.8 Soligor	269.50	119.99
28-80mm f3.5 Pro	449.50	179.99
35-70mm f4.5 Canon	324.50	139.99
35-135mm f4.5 Canon	449.50	149.99
35-200mm f3.5 Visitar	739.95	259.99
50-250mm f4.5 Canon	639.00	229.99
70-150mm f4.5 Canon	324.00	139.99
75-150mm f4.5 Makinon	199.95	69.99
75-200mm f4.5 Pro	299.50	119.99
80-200mm f4.5 Visitar	299.50	99.99
80-205mm f4.5 Kalmor	289.95	99.99
85-300mm f3.5 Quantaray	399.50	129.99
85-300mm f5.6	449.50	139.99
100-200mm f4.5 Osawa	199.00	89.99
100-300mm f5.6 Hoya	439.00	169.99
100-300mm f5.6 Canon	360.00	199.99
80-200 f4 Canon	629.00	299.99
100-200mm f5.6 Canon	288.00	139.99
35-70mm f4.5 Canon Autofocus	600.00	299.99

LENSES FOR YASHICA/CONTAX

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
24mm f2 Visitar	234.95	89.99
24mm f2.8 Makina	229.50	69.99
28mm f2.8 Pro	169.50	79.99
60mm f2.8 Zeiss Macro	825.00	549.99
400mm f6.3 Makina	349.95	119.99
500mm f8 Yashica	565.00	149.99
28-85mm f2.8 Visitar	399.50	149.99
35-200 f3.5 Takina	639.95	259.99
75-150mm f3.5 TUS	199.95	89.99
75-200mm f4.5 Pro	299.50	109.99
75-205mm f3.8 Visitar	399.50	129.99
85-210mm f3.8 Quantaray	369.50	119.99
85-300mm f5.6 Osawa	449.50	139.99
100-300mm f5.6 Hoya	439.00	199.99
28mm f2.8 TUS (used)	189.50	49.99
135mm f2.8 Yashica (used)	169.50	39.99
85-210mm f3.8 Yashica (used)	349.50	99.99
180mm f2.8 Meyer (used)	199.99	79.99

ZOOM LENS CLEARANCE

$69.99

orig. retail $249.00

75-150mm f4.5 Multicoated Makinon

Available for Nikon, Canon, Olympus, Pentax K Special purchase of 1982 model

LENSES FOR NIKON

	IF NEW RETAIL	WOLFE'S SALE PRICE
85-210mm f4.5 Quantaray (used)	299.95	79.99
28-80mm f3.5-4.5 Pro (used)	399.50	129.99
80-200mm f4.5 Nikkor (used)	482.00	159.99
75-260mm f4.5 Soligor (used)	339.50	69.99
50mm f1.4 Nikkor S (used)	240.00	69.99
28mm f3.5 Nikkor H (used)	290.00	109.99
135mm f2.8 Nikkor G (used)	280.00	79.99
43-86mm f3.5 Nikkor C (used)	340.00	119.99
35-105mm f3.5-4.5 Pro (used)	349.50	129.99
200mm f3.5 Visitar (used)	149.50	19.99
35mm f2.8 Vemar (used)	79.50	9.99
135mm f2.8 Soligor (used)	129.00	19.99
135mm f3.5 Visitar (used)	99.50	9.99
135mm f2.8 Nikkor (used)	129.50	9.99
500mm f8 Nikkor (used)	1695.00	299.99
100mm f4.5 Takina (used)	1695.00	299.99
200mm f3.5-4.5 Pro (used)	895.00	269.99
24mm f2.8 Visitar	169.50	39.99
28mm f2.8 Visitar	199.50	89.99
28mm f2.8 Makinon	179.50	79.99
28mm f2.8 Nikkor	292.00	79.99
28mm f2.8 Pro	169.50	79.99
85mm f2.8 Nikkor	199.50	169.99
135mm f2.8 Pro	139.50	69.99
135mm f2.8 Makinon	129.50	9.99
200mm f2.8 Soligor	269.00	119.99
28-80mm f3.5 Pro	469.50	179.99
35-200mm f3.5 Takina	739.95	259.99
50-250mm f4.5 Canon	639.00	229.99
75-150mm f4.5 Pro	199.95	69.99
75-200mm f4.5 Pro	299.50	109.99
80-200mm f4.5 Pro	299.50	119.99
85-300mm f3.5 Pro	429.95	139.99
100-200mm f4.5 Osawa	199.95	89.99
400mm f6.3 Hoya	1900.00	1399.99
25-50mm f4.5 Nikkor	762.00	349.99
75-150mm f3.5 Nikon	316.00	179.99

LENSES FOR PENTAX-BAYONET

	IF NEW RETAIL	SALE PRICE
28mm f2.8 Hanimex (used)	159.95	49.99
135mm f3.5 Visitar (used)	139.50	29.99
90mm f2.8 Macro Visitar (used)	391.00	129.99
135mm f3.5 SMC Pentax (used)	169.50	34.99
24mm f2.8 Makinon	229.50	69.99
24mm f2.8 SMC Pentax	292.00	119.99
28mm f2.8 Hanimex	159.95	59.99
28mm f2.8 Pro	179.50	79.99
35mm f2.8 Zeonar	129.95	39.99
50mm f4.5 Pentax Macro	255.00	139.99
90mm f2.8 Visitar Macro	391.00	149.99
100mm f2.8 Pentax	250.00	119.99
135mm f2.8 Makinon	169.50	49.99
135mm f2.8 Pro	169.50	69.99
200mm f3.5 Pro	229.50	79.99
28-80mm f3.5 Hanimex	299.50	139.99
28-85mm f2.8 Visitar	399.50	159.99
35-70mm f3.5 Osawa	249.95	99.99
40-80mm f2.8 Pentax	298.00	139.99
35-135mm f4.5 Variator	449.50	149.99
35-200mm f3.5 Takina	639.95	259.99
50-250mm f4.5 Tokina	639.00	229.99
75-150mm f4.5 Makinon	199.95	69.99
75-200mm f4.5 Pro	299.50	119.99
80-200mm f4.5 Takumar	299.50	119.99
80-200mm f4.5 SMC Pentax	418.00	199.99
80-200 f4.5 Visitar	249.50	89.99
80-205mm f4.5 Kalmor	289.95	99.99
85-300mm f3.5 Pro	449.50	139.99
100-200mm f4.5 Osawa	399.95	89.99
200mm f4.5 SMC Pentax	100.00	80.99
28-50mm f3.5 SMC Pentax	561.00	109.99

Task force proposes to governor long-term national farm policies

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — With a goal of long-term national farm policies free from political turnover, a state task force on Wednesday proposed a federal commission to guide the president and Congress on food and agricultural programs.

The recommendation for a U.S. Food and Fiber Commission, a 15-member bi-partisan advisory panel appointed by the president and congressional leaders, was delivered to Gov. John Carlin in a report from the task force he formed last September.

"With time and the appointment of recognized statesmen in the food and agricultural system, the commission can provide a new approach to developing workable long-term food and agricultural policy," said Adrian Polansky, a Belleville farmer and chairman of the Governor's Agricultural Working Group.

The proposed commission was patterned largely after a blue ribbon national panel which recently proposed reforms in the Social Security system, and was the cornerstone of the recommendations by Carlin's agricultural task force, a seven-member panel of farmers, bankers and officials in agricultural industries.

The report now will be forwarded to the Midwestern Governors' Conference, a meeting Oct. 9-11 in Lawrence of chief executives from 13 states. The task force members and Carlin hope that the governors' meeting can be the starting point for national consideration of the report's recommendations.

The task force also proposed: — Establishment of an "export bank" to help finance and expand foreign sales of farm products. It would be modeled after the federal land bank.

— Development of long-term targets for federal stocks of farm products, and tailoring of acreage reduction programs and price supports to meet the goals.

— Increased farmer responsibility for financing of agricultural programs.

— Creation of a "revenue insurance" program to stabilize the income of farm families. Patterned after a program in the western provinces of Canada, the plan would have producers contribute money to a fund in "good times for use in bad times."

According to the report, members of the proposed federal commission would serve staggered five-year terms and thus would not coincide with presidential elections. While the bi-partisan group would be advisory at first, the task force suggested that it could eventually become an independent part of the executive branch, similar to the Federal Reserve System, with authority to directly set long-term farm policies.

In its foreward, the report criticized current farm policy as shortsighted and far too subject to "political whims." Moreover, the report emphasized that long-term, stable farm policies are vital to succeeding in export markets.

The report was outlined Wednesday to a gathering of nearly 100 people, mostly representatives of Kansas farm groups. Carlin spoke briefly, saying the proposed commission and other recommendations in the report had "true merit."

"I like the idea," Carlin, a dairy farmer, said of the proposed commission.

While the report generally received favorable comments from those who spoke at the meeting, several people suggested that more power should be given to the proposed commission.

John Junior Armstrong, president of the Kansas Farm Bureau, called the federal commission "an intriguing idea," but questioned whether it should be merely advisory.

"Another layer of bureaucracy isn't what we need. We need something to make an impact," said Armstrong.

The Farm Bureau, the largest agricultural group in Kansas, did not take a formal position on the proposed commission or the report's other recommendations.

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Oktoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

DAUGHTERS OF Diana will meet for a mandatory meeting at the TKE house Thursday evening. Executives at 6:30 p.m.; Actives at 7:00 p.m.; Pillow Sale at 8:00 p.m. (3-4)

EXECUTIVE POSITION—Travel responsibility, excellent benefits. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (4)

NOW OPEN Sunday, Al's Deli in Aggieville, 4:00-8:00 p.m. Super Sub Sunday. (4-5)

CIRCLE K Meeting—Sunday, August 28, 7:00 p.m., Union Room 207. Everyone Welcome. (4-5)

SAE LITTLE Sister Rush Party Tonight, 8:00 on the porch. (4)

ATTENTION 02

ATTENTION STUDENTS—Need low cost health insurance? Call Gross Insurance, 776-4709. An inexpensive alternative. (1-5)

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10)

SCHOLARSHIP MONEY

for those who qualify
call AIR FORCE ROTC
532-6600

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11)

SKYDIVE!!

The KSU Parachute Club will meet on Thursday, Aug. 25 at 8:00 p.m. in U. 206 for returning members. Be there or be square!

PHOTOGRAPHER—AVAILABLE for weddings, reunions, fraternity/sorority party pictures. Reserve your dates early by phoning 776-8502 evenings. Ask for Brian. (3-7)

The KSU Parachute Club will meet to night, Thursday, August 25 at 8 p.m. in U206 for returning members. The agenda includes demos, 1st jump, etc.! Be there, aloha!

RIDERS—COLBY: Labor Day and two weekends/month. Call 532-3590 or leave message, 532-5582. Bob Brown. (4-8)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COMPACT REFRIGERATORS for sale or rent. D&S Rental Center, 1927 Ft. Riley Blvd. Call 537-2250. (1-5)

$15.00
worth

of free accessories
with purchase
of any new bicycle:

Trek

Fuji

Schwinn

Bianchi

1111 Moro Aggieville 539-5639

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11)

PRIVATE ROOM for grad or senior, non-smoking male. Newly decorated, private entrance, two blocks from college. 539-2703. (2-4)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

TRAVELERS MOTEL—776-4836, three miles East on U.S. 24. Nice room, phone and cable color T.V. Low rate. Daily, weekly and monthly. (1-5)

(Continued on page 15)

"EYE OF THE WILDCAT"

Keep on Trackin' to our office for contact lenses

- Tinted (to change the color of your eyes)
- Extended Wear (to sleep with)
- Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- Regular type (for near and far sightedness)
- Toric (for astigmatism)
- Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Contact us for Replacement Lenses and Solutions in Stock.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock, P.A.
Practice of Optometry
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Manhattan, Ks.

STUDENT MEMBERSHIP

- Unlimited Court Usage
- $25 initiation fee (one time)
- $100 per semester

- 3 indoor tennis courts
- 3 outdoor tennis courts
- free court usage for members
- weight room

- sauna
- glassed-in jacuzzi
- 1 squash court
- 2 indoor racquetball courts

(REFER TO MANHATTAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—COUPON BOOKLET)

Cottonwood

Fun and Fitness for All Seasons
3615 Clifton Road 776-6056

We are 8/10 of a mile west of Westloop Pizza Hut on Clifton

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHURCH

invites you to

PRIME TIME

THURSDAYS at 7:00pm
in UNION LITTLE THEATER

Fun - Fellowship - Skills

$15.00

worth

of free accessories
with purchase
of any new bicycle:

Trek
Schwinn

Fuji
Bianchi

1111 Moro Aggieville 539-5639

OFFICIAL WILDCAT BAR GUIDE

Somebody still cares about quality . . . we do

on tap

on tap

on tap

on tap

Aggie Lounge
All Seasons (The Barn)
Blue River Pub
Brothers
Cowboy Palace
J.D.'s Gardens Restaurant
J. Riggs West
Mel's Tavern
My Place
Rogers Tavern
Pizza Hut #1
(Aggieville)
Rooks Recreation
Show Biz Pizza
Stable Influence
Third Street Pub
Valentino's

Aggie Lounge
Brothers
Dark Horse
J. Riggs West
Ranch Saloon

Aggie Lounge
Avalon
Blue River Pub
Brothers
J.D.'s Steak House
J. Riggs West
Kennedy's Claim
Mel's Tavern
Pizza Hut #1
(Aggieville)
Ranch Saloon
Sports Fan-attic
Stable Influence

Aggie Station
Avalon
Bocker's
Bushwackers
Escondido's
J.D.'s Steak House
Kennedy's Claim
Raoul's
Reynard's Back Room
Rogers Tavern

(Continued from page 14)

FURNISHED, FIVE-room apartment. One and one-half blocks east campus, $250. Call 537-2856 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5)

STUDIO FOR rent—$185 a month. Utilities: pay electric only. Call 537-1210. (3-5)

ONE BEDROOM basement apartment, $180 month. Call 776-4378 after 5:00 p.m. $180 deposit. Lease thru July. (3-5)

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210/month. 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

APARTMENTS, TRAILERS, nine month contracts. No children, no pets. 537-6494, 537-6389. (4-5)

NEW, FOUR-bedroom apartment. Near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Utilities paid. $250 per month with Rental Agreement. 776-1776. (4-7)

NEW APARTMENT—Furnished with air conditioning, dishwasher. Need one female to share with three other females. $130/month plus one-fourth of utilities. Call 539-2334. (4-5)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

NICE, FOUR-bedroom house. Residential neighborhood, fenced backyard, fully carpeted. Parking for four cars, close to stadium. Nine- or twelve-month lease. Reasonably priced. 537-4753. (2-6)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 VW Rabbit Deluxe, $5500 or best offer. 1976 Honda CVCC Station Wagon, $2800. Call 1-784-6972 after 6:00 p.m. (1-5)

1975 FIAT 131 wagon. Excellent condition, air conditioning, 57,000 miles. Phone 539-3468. (1-4)

1971 OPEL 1900, 89,000 miles. Valve job, new camshaft, and valve lifters one year ago. Recent new hoses, exhaust system, and water pump. Excellent mechanically, body good. Asking $700. Call 776-0969. (1-5)

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition, like new, 37,000 miles. Negotiable. Call 776-0131 evenings. (2-7)

1972 AMC Matador. Good condition, dependable. $800. Call 539-3310. (2-6)

1971 MG Midget. New engine, tires and paint. $2,500. Call 1-239-6337. (3-7)

1976 VW Bus, excellent condition. Air-conditioned, FM-AM cassette. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (4-5)

1971 VW Bug—Real good school car. I'm not beautiful, but I run good. $975. J&L Bug Service. 1-494-2368. (4-8)

SPORTY 1982 Datsun 200SX, electric, vocal warning system, 5 speed, air conditioning. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

CONVERTIBLE 1969 Fiat 124 Spyder, 5 speed, excellent condition. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

1976 MUSTANG Cobra II, V6, power steering, power brakes, automatic transmission, air, AM/FM cassette, new tires. $3500. Call 532-3621. (4-5)

1966 RED Mustang, automatic, AM/FM stereo, track, new tires. Call 1-456-2667. (4-5)

1973 PLYMOUTH Duster—Six cylinders, manual transmission. Runs and looks good. $700. Call 776-5893. (4-8)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

APPLE II+, 48K, 1 disk drive, monitor, some software. Call 539-2042. (1-5)

ROCKSHOT AND TNT cards. Call Don at 537-4046. (1-5)

OFF YOUR Rocker Antiques has all types of furniture and accessories to make your room or apartment unique. 1930s telephones ready to use, old pictures, carpets, labors, rockers, etc. Friday-Sunday, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., 1019 Houston. (1-5)

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (111)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (111)

COMPUTER ACE1000 (Apple), 64K, two drives, 80 columns, monitor, Hayes modem, software, manuals. Call 539-5194. (2-5)

KING-SIZE waterbed frame, headboard, pedestal. Call Mary Ann. 539-1090. (2-4)

SCHWINN CONTINENTAL 10-speed, light blue, with water bottle and frame pump. Great condition. $145. Call 539-0188. (3-7)

MID-SIZE REFRIGERATOR. Cheaper to own than rent. Perfect for dorm. 776-9270, evenings. (3-5)

CRAIG STEREO System: Receiver—25W, Dolby cassette deck, turntable, two speakers. $200. Call 537-0424. (3-6)

MUST SELL improved stock farm—subdivision possibilities, 550 acres. Call Lori Dunalon, 1-457-3687. Town and Country Real Estate. (3-7)

CANON A1, Canon 50 and 70-210mm lenses, super flash. Brand new. Sacrifice. $580. Complete. David, 539-6267. (3-8)

FOR SALE—Twin bed and mattress, $20; sofa, $20; double bed frame, $8. Call 537-4886 after 3:00 p.m. (3-4)

ORANGE BLOSSOM 14K gold 10 pt. diamond engagement ring. Has never been worn or modified. Retail value $375, will sell for $250. Call 537-8410 between 3:00-4:00 p.m. Comes with Dealers Appraisal. (3-5)

1.7 CUBIC foot refrigerator—Excellent condition. Seven months limited use. $80. Call Mark at 539-9598. (3-5)

FOR SALE—3-rail motorcycle trailer. Has coil springs, shocks, and lights. $250. Call Bryce at 539-9044 or 539-8677. (3-5)

GIBSON ELECTRIC guitar, Les Paul. One year old, $400. Call 539-6425. (3-5)

ZENITH, 19" color TV, excellent condition, $130. Call 539-5630 after 6:00 p.m. (4)

SOFA, CHAIR, end table, dishwasher, console stereo. Phone 539-8560. (4-5)

AIR CONDITIONER, used, in good condition, $200 or best offer. GE washer and dryer, almost new, 3 months old, bought for $780, asking price is $650. Please call 776-7978. (4-6)

BUNKBED SET with chest of drawers attached. Call 532-6865, ext. 20 or 22. Evenings, 1-457-2703. (4-8)

SAILBOAT—14' Laser. Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-457-2703. (4-8)

FOUR CARPET remnants. Dark brown, beige and taupe. Price range $15-$30. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (4-5)

PERSONAL REFRIGERATOR, 3 cubic feet, like new, $75 or best offer. 1429 Laramie, #15, after 5:00 p.m. and weekends. (4-5)

CLASSICAL GUITAR—Solid spruce top, nice inlay, good buy. $100. Call 539-1416. (4-6)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08

10' x 50' L.T.D., must be moved. Five miles west, carpeted, appliances, partially furnished, skirting, tile floors, washer hookups. 1-913-485-2540. (1-5)

1971 AMERICAN Homedale. Payments lower than rent. Call 539-1048 or 1-784-5909. (3-5)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1974, 400 Kawasaki—Inspected, new tire, seat, battery, etc., windshield, crashbar. Make offer. Call 539-3460 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5)

1978 YAMAHA 650 special. Clean, beautiful bike, maroon. Excellent mechanical. See to appreciate $1,000. Call 532-3472. (3-5)

YAMAHA XS3602D—runs well, needs some minor repair. 14,000 miles, $250, will negotiate. Call Quintin at 537-8410 between 3:00-4:00 p.m. (3-5)

1978 750 Honda—excellent condition, new battery, tune-up, 8,000 miles. Call anytime. 539-3464. (4-8)

HONDA MOPED for sale—excellent condition. For information call 539-0894. (4-9)

1981 YAMAHOOPER, 1,100 miles, excellent condition. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (4-5)

FOR SALE, 1981 Kawasaki CSR 305, 2,500 miles. Call 776-3718. (5-8)

1976 YAMAHA RD400C—Quicksilver farring, new battery, backrest, rack, shop manuals. $600. Paul, 1-494-2776 or 532-6354 (leave message). (4-5)

YAMAHA 100, 1970, 3,700 miles. Like new. 75 mpg. $300. Call 539-7535. (4-5)

FOUND 10

SET OF keys with residence hall keys near Car-dwell. Claim and describe at Keszle 103. (2-4)

GARAGE SALES 12

TRASH OR Treasure? World's largest indoor garage sale. Saturday, August 27, 8:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m., Potluff Hall, Cicco Park. Household items, furniture and appliances. Items not sold by 2:00 p.m. will be auctioned at that time. For consignments call: 537-0393 or 1-456-7511. Sponsored by Manhattan Solar Kiwanis Club. (4-5)

GARAGE SALE—All day Saturday. Stereo equipment, lamps, clothes, and apartment accessories. 1220 Ratone. (4-5)

HELP WANTED 13

THE CITY of Manhattan is seeking to fill part-time positions. Recreation Division. Positions are available in flag football, volleyball, softball, basketball, soccer and facilities supervision. Various instructors are needed in arts and crafts, bowling, gymnastics, dance, and basketball. Apply at Personnel Department, City Hall—11th and Reynolds by September 2, 1983. EOE—M/F/H. (1-6)

TODAY'S FASHIONS—Now taking applications for fashion representatives. Work at your convenience and earn up to $100 in merchandise credit and a $50 cash bonus. Applications being accepted August 22 through 26th. (1-5)

WAITRESSES and Waitresses, servers and cashiers, cook's assistants and dishwashers. We offer student pay plan, job variety and a centrally located work place where you work with other students. We require that you: Must obtain a Food Handler's Card, must be able to work 10 hours weekly, must be honest, reliable and display a sense of urgency, must be neat, clean and wear appropriate attire. We prefer to hire work study students and students who are eligible to work 30 hours per week. Apply at the K-State Union Food Service Office. (1-4)

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures. 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

FOUR CRISIS Center—Volunteers needed for a confidential, anonymous, and non-judgmental listening and crisis intervention service. Requirements: An open mind, concern, dedication, one evening shift each week, and attendance at the training session August 27 and 28, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., UFM Fireplace Room. Compensation: Experience in dealing with people and human concerns, a chance to contribute something more to Manhattan membership in a group of caring and concerned individuals. Last year we helped prevent over 60 suicides, and helped more than 2,500 people, but we can't continue without volunteers to answer the telephones. Please help. Call 532-5656 for more information. (2-5)

RECEPTIONIST—OFFICE Assistant needed in campus office. Type 60-65 wpm with telephone and filing work. $4.00-$4.50/hour, 10-15 hours/week. Work. Study Students Only. Call 532-6884 or 539-6613. (2-5)

FAMILY WOULD like college girl to live in for school year. Food and room in exchange for help. Write Box 2, c/o Collegian. (2-4)

PROFESSIONAL FAMILY seeking mature Christian to manage household responsibilities in exchange for room and board in their home. Smoking, drinking, pets not permitted. Must be able to drive, cook, help with entertaining, and relate well to older children. Musical and typing skills helpful. References required. Qualified applicants are invited to respond to Box 1, c/o Collegian, stating qualifications. (2-4)

TUTOR COUNSELORS for area high school participants in Upward Bound Math, Science, and History majors encouraged to apply. KSU students. Junior status or above, minimum GPA 2.5, 12-15 hours/week, flexible schedule. Ability to work with diverse groups. $3.35/hour, preference to work study students. Applications available. Upward Bound Program, 202 Horton Hall, 532-6497. Application and transcript due August 29, 5:00 p.m. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (2-4)

SENIOR COUNSELOR. Staff position 4 time for 16 months, 16 hours/week, $390/month. Tutoring, advising, career/personal counseling, and testing with senior high school students. Coordinate seminars and activities for participants. Bachelor's degree required. Offer related area, graduate students encouraged to apply. Ability to work with diverse groups. Submit application letter, resume, transcript, and names of three references to Upward Bound, 202 Horton Hall, 532-6497. Deadline August 29, 5:00 p.m. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (2-4)

WORK STUDY position (10 hours/week)—Women's Resource Center. Applications, 111 Horton Hall, 532-6497. Deadline August 31st. (3-5)

ORGANIST WANTED for Sunday morning student worship service in Danforth Chapel. For information contact: Lutheran Campus Ministry, 539-4451. (3-5)

HELP WANTED—Taking applications for lunchtime waitresses. Five days/week. Must be 21. Apply Kennedy's Claim. (3-5)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9)

COCKTAIL WAITRESSES, waitresses. Call 537-0852 between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. (3-5)

COCKTAIL WAITRESSES—experience preferred. Must be 21. Call 539-0525 between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. (4)

DEPENDABLE BABYSITTER needed for all home and some away football games. Prefer my home, your transportation. Call 532-8136 or 776-0033. (4-6)

LOST 14

LOST BOOKS Friday the 19th around noon at 10th and Bertrand. Reward for return. 1-494-2888. (3-5)

NOTICES 15

AUCTION: SEPTEMBER 12, 1983 at 6:30 p.m., evening. Located approximately 3 1/2 miles south from east end of Manhattan, Kansas River Bridge on Ashland Bottom Road #901. Approximately seven acres located on asphalt road; consists of 2.4 acres of good bottom land, trees and small creek. Open House on August 29, 1983 from 5:00-7:00 p.m. For other showing call auctioneer. Large farm house, near new kitchen, very good wall-to-wall carpet. Has approximately 1819 sq. ft., oversized detached double garage, hay and livestock pole shed, 12' x 54' mobile home. Terms are 10% down day of auction and balance due and payable on or before October 12. Taxes to be prorated. Arthur R. Dirks and Carla Carleton, owners. Milton Anderson, CAI, Auctioneers, 103 South 4th, Manhattan, Kansas, phone 776-4834. Earl Brown CAI, Vern Gannon CAI. (1-4)

Sigma Sigma Sigma Loves Their Pledges!

CHECK BALFOUR'S gigantic take to school sale! Sweats and shorts 20% off. Now through Saturday. (1-5)

NOTICE

Effective Sept. 1st, 1983, Word Processing Services will be located at 2312 Anderson in the Professional Place (across from Farm Bureau).

• Resumes
• Manuscripts
• Letters

Let us help you with your typing needs. 537-2810.

FREE LAYAWAY with Student ID at Fashion Shop and Beauty Salon, Westloop. Next to Bell Phone Center. 539-2921. Valid through August 30. (2-4)

PERSONAL 16

LAURIE—HAPPY 20th Birthday. Your ex-roomie. (4)

TO TRI Sigma Pledges: You are now bound for a fabulous year with Sigma Sigma Sigma and KSU! You are the greatest and we love you all! The Actives. (4)

ANN McCOSH—Congratulations to my fiancée and now prepare for a lifetime together. Love, Steve. (4)

KELLY DILLON—Happy Anniversary—No I don't want any 501 jeans! Thanks for all the fun. Love, Lon. (4)

I DON'T know what you've decided, but whatever happens, just remember, I love you and open arms. Schmucko. (4)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

VERY NICE condo with very reasonable rent and three nice roommates. Need one female roommate. Please call 537-8239. (1-5)

FEMALE WANTED to share three-bedroom duplex with two others. Furnished, washer and dryer, exceptionally nice Westloop area. $117/month, plus utilities. Call 539-7099 or 532-5591. (1-5)

TWO, QUIET, non-smoking, female roommates needed for modern apartment. 537-3294—ask for Mary. (1-5)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apartment, $305 a month plus utilities. One mile from campus. Call Debby at 537-7370. (1-4)

NEED ONE male to live with three others in very nice house one-half block from campus. Private room. Call 537-3977. (1-4)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice, two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Prefer lower classman. Call 776-7268. (2-5)

TODAY'S FASHIONS—Now taking applications for fashion representatives. Work at your convenience and earn up to $100 in merchandise credit and a $50 cash bonus. Applications being accepted August 22 through 26th. (1-5)

WAITRESSES and Waitresses, servers and cashiers, cook's assistants and dishwashers. We offer student pay plan, job variety and a centrally located work place where you work with other students. We require that you: Must obtain a Food Handler's Card, must be able to work 10 hours weekly, must be honest, reliable and display a sense of urgency, must be neat, clean and wear appropriate attire. We prefer to hire work study students and students who are eligible to work 30 hours per week. Apply at the K-State Union Food Service Office. (1-4)

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures. 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

FOUR CRISIS Center—Volunteers needed for a confidential, anonymous, and non-judgmental listening and crisis intervention service. Requirements: An open mind, concern, dedication, one evening shift each week, and attendance at the training session August 27 and 28, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., UFM Fireplace Room. Compensation: Experience in dealing with people and human concerns, a chance to contribute something more to Manhattan membership in a group of caring and concerned individuals. Last year we helped prevent over 60 suicides, and helped more than 2,500 people, but we can't continue without volunteers to answer the telephones. Please help. Call 532-5656 for more information. (2-5)

RECEPTIONIST—OFFICE Assistant needed in campus office. Type 60-65 wpm with telephone and filing work. $4.00-$4.50/hour, 10-15 hours/week. Work. Study Students Only. Call 532-6884 or 539-6613. (2-5)

FAMILY WOULD like college girl to live in for school year. Food and room in exchange for help. Write Box 2, c/o Collegian. (2-4)

PROFESSIONAL FAMILY seeking mature Christian to manage household responsibilities in exchange for room and board in their home. Smoking, drinking, pets not permitted. Must be able to drive, cook, help with entertaining, and relate well to older children. Musical and typing skills helpful. References required. Qualified applicants are invited to respond to Box 1, c/o Collegian, stating qualifications. (2-4)

TUTOR COUNSELORS for area high school participants in Upward Bound Math, Science, and History majors encouraged to apply. KSU students. Junior status or above, minimum GPA 2.5, 12-15 hours/week, flexible schedule. Ability to work with diverse groups. $3.35/hour, preference to work study students. Applications available. Upward Bound Program, 202 Horton Hall, 532-6497. Application and transcript due August 29, 5:00 p.m. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (2-4)

SENIOR COUNSELOR. Staff position 4 time for 16 months, 16 hours/week, $390/month. Tutoring, advising, career/personal counseling, and testing with senior high school students. Coordinate seminars and activities for participants. Bachelor's degree required. Offer related area, graduate students encouraged to apply. Ability to work with diverse groups. Submit application letter, resume, transcript, and names of three references to Upward Bound, 202 Horton Hall, 532-6497. Deadline August 29, 5:00 p.m. KSU is an AA/EEO employer. (2-4)

WORK STUDY position (10 hours/week)—Women's Resource Center. Applications, 111 Horton Hall, 532-6497. Deadline August 31st. (3-5)

ORGANIST WANTED for Sunday morning student worship service in Danforth Chapel. For information contact: Lutheran Campus Ministry, 539-4451. (3-5)

HELP WANTED—Taking applications for lunchtime waitresses. Five days/week. Must be 21. Apply Kennedy's Claim. (3-5)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9)

COCKTAIL WAITRESSES, waitresses. Call 537-0852 between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. (3-5)

COCKTAIL WAITRESSES—experience preferred. Must be 21. Call 539-0525 between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. (4)

DEPENDABLE BABYSITTER needed for all home and some away football games. Prefer my home, your transportation. Call 532-8136 or 776-0033. (4-6)

LOST BOOKS Friday the 19th around noon at 10th and Bertrand. Reward for return. 1-494-2888. (3-5)

NOTICES SEPTEMBER 12, 1983 at 6:30 p.m., evening. Located approximately 3 1/2 miles south from east end of Manhattan, Kansas River Bridge on Ashland Bottom Road #901. Approximately seven acres located on asphalt road; consists of 2.4 acres of good bottom land, trees and small creek. Open House on August 29, 1983 from 5:00-7:00 p.m. For other showing call auctioneer. Large farm house, near new kitchen, very good wall-to-wall carpet. Has approximately 1819 sq. ft., oversized detached double garage, hay and livestock pole shed, 12' x 54' mobile home. Terms are 10% down day of auction and balance due and payable on or before October 12. Taxes to be prorated. Arthur R. Dirks and Carla Carleton, owners. Milton Anderson, CAI, Auctioneers, 103 South 4th, Manhattan, Kansas, phone 776-4834. Earl Brown CAI, Vern Gannon CAI. (1-4)

Sigma Sigma Sigma Loves Their Pledges!

CHECK BALFOUR'S gigantic take to school sale! Sweats and shorts 20% off. Now through Saturday. (1-5)

Effective Sept. 1st, 1983, Word Processing Services will be located at 2312 Anderson in the Professional Place (across from Farm Bureau).

• Resumes
• Manuscripts
• Letters

Let us help you with your typing needs. 537-2810.

FREE LAYAWAY with Student ID at Fashion Shop and Beauty Salon, Westloop. Next to Bell Phone Center. 539-2921. Valid through August 30. (2-4)

PERSONAL LAURIE—HAPPY 20th Birthday. Your ex-roomie. (4)

TO TRI Sigma Pledges: You are now bound for a fabulous year with Sigma Sigma Sigma and KSU! You are the greatest and we love you all! The Actives. (4)

ANN McCOSH—Congratulations to my fiancée and now prepare for a lifetime together. Love, Steve. (4)

KELLY DILLON—Happy Anniversary—No I don't want any 501 jeans! Thanks for all the fun. Love, Lon. (4)

I DON'T know what you've decided, but whatever happens, just remember, I love you and open arms. Schmucko. (4)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

COUPLES GROUP MONTHLY GATHERINGS

A chance to meet other couples, enjoy fun and fellowship, and share who you are with others.

Aug. 27
Sept. 16
Oct. 14
Nov. 18
Dec. 9

all at 7 p.m.

At 2219 Alta Dr., home of Rod & Sharon Saunders. Call 539-4281 to find out what's going on!

RETREAT

REGISTRATION DEADLINE

October 28

Join us for some fun time away and an in-depth look at "Love and Intimacy" at Camp Chipewa (near Ottawa, Kansas). Leave Manhattan, 5 p.m., Friday, Nov. 4; return by 5 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 6. $20 per person.

SUNDAY SUPPERS

5:30 p.m.

Program Schedule (Sunday Supper)

Aug. 28	Hog Roast & Swing Dance
Sept. 11	The Church and Peace	Sister Barbara McCracken
18	Journey in the Past & Present—Middle East	Dave Lodge
25	Just Watercolors	Dan Weber
Oct. 2	Exceptional Children	Robert Zabel
9	Refugees—How Can We Help?	Sister Mary Kay Meyer
16	Solar Energy—One Answer to the Energy Shortage	Jim McKinnell
23	The Reagan Budget & the Poor	Wini Munson, Robert Carlson, Steve Hughes, Ron Clingenpeel, Jeff DeYoe
30	Pros & Cons of Being Clergy
Nov. 6	Changing Family Lifestyles	Tony Jurich
13	Autobiography as Theology	Dave Stewart
20	Stress & Student Life	Fred Newton
Dec. 4	Creative Approaches to the Job Market	Doug Adams

Hog Roast & Swing Dance
Aug. 28, 5:30 p.m.

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED
LET'S BE FRIENDS

539-4281

1021 DENISON

What is ECM?

ECM is the abbreviation for Ecumenical Christian Ministries—the campus ministry sponsored by United Methodist, Presbyterian USA, United Church of Christ, and Church of the Brethren churches. Participation is open to anyone.

Our purpose is to develop campus ministry that meets the needs of students and others of the campus in terms of fellowship, friends, community, personal growth, and growth in the faith journey. We hope to enable loving service to, with, and for others—to be "a ministry to serve." We seek to enable, encourage and foster leadership and creative abilities of students and others of the campus community so that they may accomplish ministry. We endeavor to encourage more humane, concerned, and just actions from and within the higher education process.

ECM believes in a questioning model of campus ministry. We believe there are fundamental human and faith questions with which we will always struggle. We believe that an important dimension of the faith journey is enabling each person to learn how best to ask, search, respond, and cope with faith questions and answers. Therefore our interactions seek to accomplish the following:

1. Journey together, search together, grow together, and learn from each other.
2. Be open to allow persons to participate, and make their own decisions, not have the decisions of ECM or anyone else forced on them.
3. Not be dogmatic; we seek credo not creed.
4. Admit not knowing all the answers, even though we have strong beliefs and opinions on some.
5. Encourage and give support to persons to be who they are and accept responsibility for that within a caring community.

ECM offers you:

A warm friendly gathering place. A chance to share interesting, meaningful, enjoyable programs.

Professional Staff

A concerned, caring attitude: striving to build a caring community

Counseling

A chance to help others: A chance to share your commitment

Prayer Chapel

Openness to your ideas, suggestions, participation, and leadership

Games

Library of historical and current theological books, and relevant periodicals

Audio-visual Equipment

Meeting rooms, a kitchen, and quiet space for study.

Breakfast and Meditation

Wednesdays
7:00 a.m.

1021 Denison Ave.

Join us at Mid-Week
for
Food and Thought

BIBLE STUDY

Every Monday at 7:00 p.m.
Starting Sept. 12

1021 Denison

Resource: Kerygma—Bible Study in Depth.

Bi/Polar Seminar

Oct. 7 & 8

1021 Denison Ave.

Cost: Student $21

Non-Student $30

Sponsored by Ecumenical Christian Ministries

BI/POLAR uses a psychological inventory process that leads you to a better understanding of your strengths and potentials; better understanding of others and appreciation of their differences; more self confidence and more confidence in your relationships with others; insights into how to communicate more effectively with other people; and a practical plan of action for your own personal growth. These are big claims, but those who have had personal experience with BI/POLAR know those claims will be accomplished.

Because you will receive a set of inventories to be filled out by yourself and 5 other people—
Please decide soon.

Registration deadline Sept. 19

MUSIC GROUP

Professionals & amateurs working toward performing music with a message. Call 539-4281 if interested.

INTRAMURAL TEAMS

Join us for the major team sports: athletic fun, spirit, and fellowship.

CAR WASH

September 10

$1.50

Proceeds to ECM semester break work study trip.

Jim Newton

Songweaver in Concert

September 6 7:30 p.m.

Forum Hall, K-State Union Cost - $1

—The Campus Ministry of—

United Methodist Church
United Church of Christ

Presbyterian USA
Church of the Brethren

Who you are,
who you become,
is enabled by those who love you

Depth Chart
Big Eight Skywriters quiz Dickey.
Sports, page 9

Staff/John Sleezer

Watermelon function

Finding a refreshing way to cope with summer heat, Traci Beougher, freshman in home economics, and Mary Culver, freshman in business, slurp a piece of watermelon at Putnam Hall's first function of the year Thursday evening.

State proposes work-sharing proposal with hopes of reducing unemployment

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Spokesmen for Kansas industry and labor today embraced the concept of "work-sharing" as a means of avoiding worker layoffs during hard economic times, but said they wanted to see details of any specific proposal before endorsing legislation.

Both Rob Hodges, executive director of the Kansas Industrial Council, a branch of the Kansas Association of Commerce and Industry, and Wayne Maichal, executive vice president of the Kansas State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, gave their organizations' tentative approval to the idea in appearances before the Legislature's interim Labor and Industry Committee.

Under work-sharing programs, companies voluntarily agree to reduce the number of days or hours their employees work each week in order to keep all of their workers on the job — rather than laying off part of their work force entirely — when the economy is down.

The workers draw reduced wages and get reduced unemployment benefits for the amount of time they are not working. The advantage for them is that fringe benefits, such as health insurance, are maintained without reduction.

The benefit to the employer is he maintains his skilled work force and does not lose his workers to other companies or other industries during hard times.

So far, California, Washington and Oregon are the only states which have adopted such programs, but the committee was told Indiana and Tennessee are considering such projects.

Some changes would be needed in Kansas' unemployment compensation laws to make the program work in this state, the panel also learned.

The committee, headed by Rep. Arthur Douville, R-Overland Park, took no action on the proposal, but is expected to return to the Legislature to recommend to the 1984 session that some action be taken to establish a voluntary program in Kansas.

Both Hodges and Maichal stressed that the program would have to be voluntary, with the employer, his employees and any labor union which represented the workers all agreeing to enter into it.

"Voluntary is the key — for the employer and for the employee," said Hodges.

"Work-sharing is designed to help an employer to maintain his work force during a bad economic time for the company. It also can be an attractive alternative to a complete layoff for a group of employees."

KACI has no formal position on work-sharing, Hodges said, but employers who have responded to a surveying agency, indicated their strictly voluntary.

Maichal, representing organized labor in Kansas, agreed.

"We think the concept is good; we certainly think there is something here to be gained," said Maichal.

"It eliminates the traumatic experience of being unemployed after 20 or 25 years, and it prevents the elimination of health care benefits."

Maichal said he thought questions from the committee indicated the issue was being made "overly-complicated."

Steve Goodman of the state Department of Human Resources said that agency's officials consider the concept "very workable."

Goodman said the department feels it could administer the program with very little increased cost.

Tribunal revokes Maranatha's appeal

By BRENDA ROTTINGHAUS
Staff Writer

Maranatha Christian Assembly has lost its appeal to Tribunal, the judicial branch of student government, so the group's registration as a campus organization for the 1983-84 academic year has been revoked.

This decision, announced Thursday, upholds the May 11 ruling by the University Activities Board which denied the group registration because of charges that Maranatha violated three Board bylaws.

Maranatha can make a final appeal to University President Duane Acker.

A memorandum released by Tribunal stated that it found the penalty handed down by UAB was not excessively harsh and the decision was not reached unjustly, as had been alleged by Maranatha in its appeal to Student Government Services.

Tribunal also found no violation of due process by UAB. It found no procedural error because the Maranatha adviser was not aware of all the organization's activities.

Maranatha has admitted failure to file notice four weeks in advance of a fund-raiser, and the group was found in violation of the UAB Policy Concerning Religious Activities.

In regard to one section of the policy, UAB found that Maranatha failed to exercise honesty in publicity by omitting the name of their organization in several advertisements pertaining to events they sponsored.

Maranatha also was found to be in violation of several guidelines regarding religious activities in the residence halls — one stating that theological literature may only be distributed in the main lobby or at the main desk with the permission of the hall director and the second, stating that door-to-door theological discussion or solicitation will not be allowed.

The original decision to revoke the group's registration was based on a recommendation made by the Student Organization Grievance Committee.

The case against Maranatha began March 25 with the filing of a formal written complaint by Bob Tedford, senior in agricultural engineering and former Maranatha member.

Reagan hails Hispanics, says nation progressing

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan, resuming efforts to broaden his political base before the 1984 election, told Hispanic business groups Thursday that his kind of economic program offers their best chance for advancement.

Reagan said he wanted everyone to succeed.

"This administration remains firm in its commitment to expanding minority owned businesses," he added. "Let's make one thing clear: Our goal isn't welfare or handouts, it's jobs and opportunity."

"To every cynic who says the American dream is dead, I say: Look at the Americans of Hispanic descent who are making it in the business world," he said. "With hard work and no one to rely on but themselves, entrepreneurs of Hispanic descent are not just building corporations — they're building a better America for all of us."

Reagan said the number of Hispanic-owned firms has increased 65 percent in five years — to about 363,000 businesses generating $18 billion in sales a year.

His speech to the Hispanic Economic Outlook Preview Luncheon came a day after a Hispanic leader attacked his administration.

"This president has done very little to address the problems of Hispanics in the United States," Ar-

Torres, executive director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, complained that Hispanics were "third in line" behind women and blacks in the White House effort to strengthen Reagan's political base in preparation for his likely reelection bid.

He acknowledged that Reagan has been meeting with Hispanics on his travels to Miami, Texas and elsewhere, but contended the president is limiting his contact to those who share his political philosophy.

Reagan used part of his speech to criticize Democrats, although not by name.

"Three years ago, pessimism totally inconsistent with our national character had spread across this land," said Reagan, referring to the time

Mall proposal prompts involvement

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

(Fourth in a series.)

Many Manhattan citizens have become actively involved in city government as a result of the proposed downtown redevelopment project.

The Downtown Redevelopment Advisory Board was created by a group of citizens opposed to an outlying mall.

On June 18, 1977, a conference titled "Where Do We Grow from Here?" was sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Manhattan, the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce and a grant from the Kansas Committee for Humanities.

Bernad Foerster, dean of the College of Architecture and Design and chairman of DRAB, gave a talk titled "Where Are We Going?" The talk addressed the options of an outlying mall or a downtown mall in Manhattan.

Out of this conference, a committee of 15 to 20 community members was formed. It was not official, but the group met fairly regularly, Foerster said.

"The committee asked the city commission to be formally recognized, and DRAB was born," he said. "We are trying to turn around public awareness. Every time the city had approached a developer, the developer said it's cheaper to build out in the cornfield because there is easier access to the land. We needed to make it acceptable for a developer to do as well (financially, downtown) as outside the town."

DRAB recommended to the commission that an outside study be done. The city chose a consulting firm from Boulder, Colo. which did the study "Downtown Manhattan: YES."

The study revealed that Manhattan could support a mall, the mall could be successful downtown, and recommended that the downtown area should be saved. The study also advised that a developer be hired.

The commission formed a committee (primarily commissioners) to interview developers. The committee traveled to the firms' offices, researched financial reputations and looked at their finished mall projects.

After the search was over, the city signed a contract with Forest City Enterprises, Cleveland.

Before the contract was signed, DRAB was mainly concerned with fighting off the threat of an outlying mall, Foerster said.

"Lately, DRAB has been attempting to keep people informed with the Poyntz of Interest publication every month," he said.

As soon as the Department of Housing and Urban Development approves the Urban Development Action Grant Manhattan has applied for, DRAB will help have public hearings, Foerster said. The board will respond to public interest, so the project will reflect the needs and wants of the citizens.

Other organizations have also become involved with the downtown area.

The Older Manhattan Neighborhood Association was formed to preserve older residential and commercial neighborhoods, increase public awareness of the virtues of the older areas, and to recommend policies helping maintain older neighborhoods, said Mike O'Neill, assistant professor of philosophy and member of OMNA.

OMNA became involved in downtown redevelopment when the first proposal was made for an outlying mall.

"If a major mall was built outside of town, Sears and Penney's would leave downtown," O'Neill said. "This would destroy the downtown and have a terrible effect on the older areas of town."

"Our first outright action was to oppose the proposals for outlying malls at public hearings. The arguments we presented were apparently persuasive to the planning board."

Another way OMNA presented its views was through the OMNAGram, a newsletter offering information on downtown redevelopment. O'Neill said OMNA's support of the downtown redevelopment project was primarily through the members and the newsletter.

"When issues came up that would threaten the downtown area, we opposed them," he said. "In terms of actually encouraging development, we played less of a direct role. A lot of things that we wanted to accomplish, we did, such as renovation of downtown and stopping an outside shopping center."

Another main concern of OMNA's was to "promote a climate of understanding," O'Neill said. "Elected city officials and city staff know how OMNA feels."

Jerome Lowenstein, vice president of Manhattan Federal Savings & Loan Association, said he is interested in the historic aspect of the downtown area. He is chairman of the nine-member Historic District Review Board.

Originally, the purpose of the group was to help property owners and leaseholders take advantage of income tax credits. The Historic District in Manhattan is the area from Third to Fifth streets and from Houston to Leavenworth streets.

"We tried to make the older downtown stores acceptable as a historic district for tax purposes," Lowenstein said. "We look at each individual building and try to make the area more organized, more uniform."

"How the downtown area looks 10 years from now will depend on now," Lowenstein said. "My involvement in the redevelopment is just the Historic District, not the entire project."

City Commissioner Suzanne Lindamood prepared her own market study to assess how the city could support a mall.

The study, titled "Some Comments On Market Assumptions Upon Which Our UDAG Application is Based," asks questions about the market study used to formulate the UDAG application.

The UDAG application lists potential sales for a mall with two major stores as $43.4 million, according to Lindamood's study. This is based on an assumption that sales would increase at 8 percent a year from 1980-85.

Lindamood cites the Kansas Business Review showing an increase in retail sales of 4.9 percent for the state from March 1982-83. Riley County had an increase of 3.6 percent.

"What evidence do we have that indicated the assumption of an 8 percent annual increase 1980 to 1985 is accurate and not overprojecting sales?" Lindamood said.

"The market study was done before the 1980 census results were in," she said. "People were led to believe things that aren't true."

The study stated that sales projections are based on a projection that the 1980 Manhattan household income would be $17,085, and 1985 household income would be $24,107.

However, the 1980 census found the median 1980 Manhattan household income to be $12,793 (mean being $14,930). The projected 1985 income is double the actual 1980 income.

"Do the census figures agree with the market study projections?" Lindamood asked. "Do we have reason to believe that 1985 household income will be twice the 1980 household income?"

"In order for the mall to meet the sales projections, all consumers in a four-county area would have to spend approximately 18 percent of their money at the mall," she said.

Lindamood gave copies of her market study to the other commissioners and to the city staff in July.

"I received a response from Gary Stith, but I haven't heard from the other commissioners," Lindamood said.

(In the final installment of this series Monday, Manhattan merchants air their views on the proposed mall.)

First figures show fewer enrolled

By The Collegian Staff

K-State enrollment is approximately 400 students less than a year ago, according to preliminary fall figures released Thursday.

William Feyerharm, assistant provost, said that as of noon Thursday, 17,006 on-campus students were enrolled at K-State, compared to 17,424 a year ago.

"Most of the decline appears to be in upperclass students," Feyerharm said. "We seem to have about the same number of new and transfer students as a year ago."

Feyerharm said some of the decline in upperclass students might be accounted for by toughened academic standards at K-State and economic conditions.

Late enrollment will continue for several more days. The University's official fall enrollment figure will be determined the 20th day of classes, Sept. 19. This official figure will include students who are currently signing up for off-campus courses.

Welcome back concert returns for third year featuring three bands, frisbee competition

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

An ultimate event awaits students this weekend.

The third annual Welcome Back Concert, featuring three area bands, and an Ultimate Frisbee Tournament comprise the Ultimate Welcome Back Weekend, sponsored by the Union Program Council Special Events Committee.

The three bands performing at the concert are Glee Club, The Secrets and the Jimmy Dee Band, said Barbara Burke, UPC adviser.

Glee Club, out of Lawrence, has three female members, who do most of the vocals, and three males, Burke said.

"Originally, the lead band was going to be Think Pink, but they split up over the summer," she said. "They (Think Pink) had two female leads, so we were looking for a band with female leads. We try to bring a variety of bands to the concerts."

Many students should recognize The Secrets because they've played in Aggieville several times, Burke said.

"They're a nice dance band," she said. "They play a lot of original stuff and some top 40. We've been trying to get them (for the Welcome Back Concert) for a couple of years, but there's always been scheduling conflicts."

The Jimmy Dee Band will round out the concert with old favorites.

"The Jimmy Dee Band is out of Hays and has a really big following out there," Burke said. "They're a stage or show band and play lots of music from the 50s and 60s. They wear matching sequin jackets and are really different from anything we've had before."

Music won't be the only attraction this weekend.

The Aerial Wizards, K-State's Frisbee team, will be co-sponsoring the Flint Hills Fantasy Ultimate Tourney with UPC.

"The Aerial Wizards approached us," Burke said. "They had (in the past) thought about doing something in conjunction with the concert."

Six to eight teams will compete in the double-elimination tournament

Saturday. The competition will begin at 9 a.m. on the intramural fields. A final game and a consolation game will be played.

KSDB-FM will be broadcasting the concert with an hour delay, Burke said. There will be album and T-shirt giveaways at the beginning of the concert and after each band's performance.

"Union Food Service will be operating a concession stand serving hot dogs, pop and large cookies," Burke said.

No beer or alcoholic beverages will be allowed.

In case of rain the concert will be moved to Forum Hall and will start at approximately the same time, Burke said.

Telephone strike persists as tentative contract fails

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Communications workers and several American Telephone & Telegraph Co. subsidiaries stumbled in contract talks Thursday, shattering the promise of peace labor raised five days earlier when tentative agreement was reached on a new national pact.

The walkout by the Communications Workers of America, the largest of the Bell System's unions, was to have ended Thursday. But the deadline set by the union leadership on Sunday, when a three-year national contract was accepted, passed without successful conclusion of local bargaining in several areas.

As the strike moved well into its third week, thousands of workers who belong to two smaller AT&T unions went back to work because local pacts had been negotiated to mesh with the national contract.

But the bulk of the 675,000 workers who struck Aug. 7 stayed off the job because the CWA kept its picket lines intact.

CWA President Glenn E. Watts told a news conference at union headquarters here that because of the negotiating problems for several AT&T subsidiaries, "the strike against the Bell System will continue in all parts of the country until we have reached and signed such local agreements." Some 525,000 CWA members remained on strike.

It was not clear how many of the 150,000 Bell System employees represented by two other unions went back to work. Watts said the CWA expected the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and Telecommunications International Union to respect CWA picket lines, even though the smaller unions have "reached agreement and otherwise would be going back to work."

Although Watts said the CWA would not sign any local agreements until all 34 local talks had been successfully concluded, it was apparent that major bargaining problems were confined to fewer than a half-dozen unspecified areas.

Such major issues as wage scales, benefit plans and job security provisions were resolved in national bargaining, which ended Sunday when the leaders of all three unions approved the tentative three-year settlement.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS is now taking applications for legislative assembly delegates. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL SEAT now open. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS is taking applications for 1983-84 steering committee. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

AGRICULTURE STUDENTS: One position is left for student senator. Pick up applications in Waters 120 and return by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

TODAY

TEACHERS OF OFF-CAMPUS COURSES for Continuing Education meet at 3:30 p.m. in Blue-mont 217 for orientation.

KSU RIFLE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in the Military Science building.

CHRISTIAN ACTION FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213 for a worship gathering.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Linda F. Jones at 10 a.m. in Blue-mont 364. The topic is "Specialist Physicians' Attitudes Toward Death and Dying."

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ramon A. Mata at 2:30 p.m. in Union 228. The topic is "Factor Analysis of Complexity Measures."

SATURDAY

AERIAL WIZARDS host the Flint Hills Fantasy Ultimate Frisbee Tournament Saturday at the recreation fields and Sunday across from Weber Hall lawn.

SUNDAY

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE meet at 12:30 p.m. at the Beta Sigma Psi house for a picnic.

STUDENT FOUNDATION meets at 5 p.m. in Union 206.

ALL INTERESTED STUDENTS meet at 5:30 p.m. at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries Center, 1021 Denison, for a hog roast and square dance.

NEWMAN CLUB meets at 6 p.m. in St. Isidore's Backyard for a free picnic.

COLLEGIATE 4-H meets at 6:30 p.m. in Umberger parking lot for a welcome back picnic.

K-LAIRES meets at 6:45 p.m. at the south side of the Union to leave for Wamego at 7 p.m. All square dancers are welcome.

CIRCLE K meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

AG ECON CLUB leaves at 6:30 p.m. from Waters Hall for a 7 p.m. ice cream social at Dr. Manuel's house.

PI KAPPA ALPHA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the Pike house.

KAPPA SIGMA STARDUSTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the Kappa Sig house.

BLUE KEY meets at 8 p.m. in Union 203.

CHRISTIAN ACTION FELLOWSHIP meets at 9 a.m. at Danforth Chapel for cooperative prayer.

MONDAY

ENGINEERING COUNCIL meets at 6:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

MARKETING CLUB membership sign up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Aug. 29 to Sept. 1 in Calvin Hall, first floor. Resume catalog service is available for members.

HOME ECONOMICS COUNCIL meets at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254.

BETA ALPHA PSI meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212. Program topic is "Public vs. Private Accounting."

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m. in Union 213.

MORTAR BOARD meets at 9 p.m. in the Justin Hall Lounge.

Fun Mountain Waterslide & Mini Golf

OPEN

Monday-Thursday 4 p.m.-11 p.m.
Friday-Sunday 1 p.m.-11 p.m.

East on Hiway 177 1/2 mile over viaduct
537-3870

50¢ off w/Student I.D.

Private Party Facilities Available

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE

Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

Let's get together

with the Wildcats on a road trip to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th

Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations
Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

Bocker's Two

THE SPREAD

Seven Hors d'oeuvres

$1 per plate
4-7 p.m.

Members & Guests Only
At the Ramada Inn

Aggie STATION

RESTAURANT & BAR

Welcome To . . .

TGIF DOUBLES!

- Double Well Hi Balls
- Free Hors d'oeuvres
- 70¢ Coors
- $1 Wine

JOIN AGGIE STATION
PLUS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

Kansas State

COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor: Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager: John McGrath

WELCOME BACK K-STATERS COORS TO YOU, ALL SEMESTER THROUGH!

THE BEST OF THE ROCKIES IS YOURS.

Junction City Distributors
238-6137

© 1983 Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis, Mo. Brewed with Pure Rocky Mountain Spring Water.

City rewards safe drivers

Damage to lightning arresters

Since the two power outages were not considered normal operating damages, Reith said K-State will have to pay some percentage of the bill. That sum, however, is not currently known, he added.

"We think it's a great way to

Along with a $5 check, police will present a citation certifying the good driver "was duly observed operating a vehicle in the city of Overland Park in a safe and courteous manner."

Lutheran Campus Ministry, Don Fallon Campus Pastor 539-4451

10% DISCOUNT W/KSU ID

THE JACKS

THE BEST IN LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Fri.—24 hours
Sat.—till 6 p.m.

McCain Auditorium is looking for students capable of selling lots of tickets and dealing with fascinating patrons. Applicants must be cheerful, enthusiastic, accurate, energetic and eager to talk about the performing arts. Work study eligibility preferred. Please call 532-6425 for an interview appointment. Duties start September 6th.

539-9967

Hwy 24 E. of K-Mart, Manhattan

[illegible]

Closed for lunch

Don't plan on taking care of any University business over the lunch 'hour.' K-State is closed from 11:50 a.m. to 1 p.m. every day.

This fact fast becomes evident when, as a freshman, you first go to your department office and discover the door locked. Then you learn that when university employees are taking their lunch hour-plus you might as well try to raise the dead as conduct any business with the University.

We realize that university employees need lunch breaks. But we wonder why the University does not realize that campus offices must be accessible to students during the lunch hour. The University's mission is to provide students with an opportunity to educate themselves, and the offices are support for the classes. Thus, since there are classes scheduled during the lunch hour, the offices which support these academic pursuits should remain open.

When students get their class schedules, there is no set lunch hour. There is also no set time for professors to sit out and eat. They all eat when they have the time.

The lunch hour is often the only time for students, especially those who work, to take care of business. It doesn't make sense for the offices which serve these students to be closed at any time during the day.

Something should be worked out so the offices are kept open during lunch. If the present working hours must be maintained, a staggered lunch break could be used, with one employee leaving the office at 11 a.m. and the other leaving when the first returned at noon. Certainly things would move more slowly but we do not see this as a good excuse for the University to shut down, for example, the registrar's office for an hour every day.

In offices with only one employee, addition of work-study students to take care of the offices during lunch might work. It's true that this student could not always provide the services needed, but at least someone would be there to answer questions or pass on requests from students who had no other time to come in or call.

We question whether a 70-minute lunch break is needed at all. A 30-minute break, with employees staggering their lunch times, makes a great deal more sense. This would permit closing of campus offices at 4:30 p.m., the time many of them effectively close for the day at present. It would provide students with more hours of access to campus offices, and permit employees to leave a half-hour earlier in the day.

Compared to other businesses in the community, the University is unique. You may not be able to get hold of a bank president during lunch, but at least you can get a secretary or someone else to help you.

The business of education is a full-time affair. We need the convenience and efficiency of an operation that functions all day. The world doesn't stop between 11:50 a.m. and 1 p.m. Neither should the University.

Don and Bob

Just when you thought it was safe to watch television news again.

I couldn't believe my eyes or my ears Tuesday. Yes, it's really true. Don Fambrough, former Jayhawk football coach, is really an aide to Sen. Bob Dole.

What does this mean, I thought. Is Dole (a KU alumnus) going to try and improve his image in Washington by hiring a football coach? Or is he just grandstanding?

All kidding aside, Fambrough will probably do his job well. But his appointment to Dole's staff does make me wonder what conversations will take place between Dole and Fambrough.

In fact, I can just imagine a conversation between them.

"Well, Don, I've decided to vote for more agricultural aid programs. How do the folks back in Kansas feel about this?"

"It'll be a sure touchdown, Bob. Just like when Frank Seuer dove over the Sooner line in '82."

"Yeah, I kinda figured it'd be a winner. How about my stand on the MX missile issue?"

"Well, Bob, I'd use a 3-4 defense on that one. Line up Carlie and Markie Alexander on the ends, and blitz the quarterback. It works like a charm."

I'm sorry. I just can't help but feel sorry for Fambrough.

It just won't be the same on Sunday nights anymore. No more "Don Fambrough Shows" (also known as "The Don Fambrough Apology Hour" to many Wildcat fans) to watch. Gosh, I guess we won't have Don to kick around anymore.

Don wasn't really that bad of a coach. The 1981 Hawks went to a bowl game. In 1982, the Hawks finished with a 2-7-2 record. Fam-

BRIAN LA RUE
Collegian Columnist

brough soon found himself out of work.

Poor Don went from being the toast of Lawrence to its whipping boy. Even Max Falkenstein, host of "The Don Fambrough Show," began asking Don some rather pointed questions as the team floundered.

I almost expected Max to ask Don, "Well, Don, when the Jayhawks lost the coin toss, you knew you were in trouble, right?"

That's a pretty extreme question, but Fambrough sometimes was grilled pretty good by Falkenstein. The loss to Wichita State hurt KU's pride; the loss to K-State (shown nationwide on WTBS, Atlanta) might have been the one which cost Fambrough his job.

That's why I can imagine this conversation between Dole and Fambrough:

"Don, the polls indicate my popularity is waning back home."

"Ah, Bob, don't worry about it. Why, you know that even after I was fired the second time, the KU alumni still liked me."

"Yeah, I guess that's true. I wonder how my stand on food stamps has affected my popularity."

"Bob, back in '81, we tried a man-to-man defense. It worked, so we stuck to it. Stick to what works for you."

"What about my stand on abortion?"

"Hm. That's a tough one. I think I'd let Bucky Scribner handle it."

"Who?"

"Our punter."

"Oh."

(Pause)

"What about the budget?"

"Well, Bob, I'd follow the coach's plays, no matter what."

"What if Reagan's wrong?"

"Then audibize on the line, Bob. Analyze your defense."

"How?"

"Pretend the Democrats are on defense. Tip O'Neill is the nose guard. Mondale and Glenn are the other linemen. Hart, 'Scoop' Jackson and Kennedy are the linebackers. Brown, Moynihan, Carlin and Askew are in the secondary."

"Okay. What next?"

"Well, look at the linemen. If they are in a three-point stance, they're going to look for a running play. If they are in a four-point stance, then they're looking for a pass. Just use the reverse of the play that they're looking for."

"Okay. What happens if I read the defense right?"

"Then it's a touchdown. You win the game. You're a hero."

"And if I mess up?"

"Well, you lose."

"Then what?"

"Probably, the coach will be fired."

"How do you know?"

"Trust me, Bob. I know."

Letters

Royals article in error

Editor,
When the 1983-84 Collegian was unveiled this week, I was hoping the new, commercial-size paper might encourage more professional journalism. Tracy Allen's article, "K.C. Royals have seen better days," though, returns the publication to its former status as the benchmark of the newspaper major leagues. Errors in the article include, but are not limited to:

- 1) Whitey Herzog managing the team to an "AL title and a spot in the World Series."
 - 2) John Mayberry listed as a player on the 1980 team.
 - 3) Larry Gura's '83 performance described as "near the top of the AL charts."
 - 4) The Royals team being built on "hitters who could hit the ball out of the ballpark."
- Admonishing the author and editor would serve no purpose, rather this letter is being submitted by an incurable baseball fanatic to suggest possible articles for the future. How about a discussion of the effect of home parks on successful team's talent makeup, a review of the facts about the Royals' aging players, or reviews of the division races that present fresh analyses — any competent sportswriter could write on these topics. Even I could author these articles (and would if requested by the Collegian). Granted every column of the paper cannot be expected to show astonishing insight, but dismal showings as this are inexcusable.

Andy Haun
Junior in electrical engineering

Laws apply to cyclists

Editor,
I am writing to urge bicyclists to obey traffic regulations on campus. I am referring particularly to the regulation which states that bicyclists are required to stop at stop signs. In the past few weeks I have seen many bicyclists who haven't even slowed for four-way stops. This habit could shorten their lifespans considerably. The main reason for this type of violation probably lies in the indifference which the campus police show toward the violation. I have yet to see campus police cite a cyclist for a moving violation, although I have often seen campus police monitoring an intersection in which a violation has taken place. Even though the lax attitude of campus police toward this type of violation doesn't exactly act as a deterrent, cyclists should still obey this regulation. Violations of this type by casual cyclists gives all cyclists a bad name. As a serious cyclist I do not care to be grouped with the casual cyclists, but unfortunately I am so grouped by motorists.

James McKinnell
Senior in mechanical engineering

Reagan's women's movement

WASHINGTON — Meet Nina May:

She's 31 and married, has herded cattle and studied law. She now runs her own graphic design firm in a Capitol Hill townhouse. Her works include a book, assorted paintings and a four-language newspaper produced in the Netherlands, from where she recently returned.

Peripatetic Nina (rhymes with China) recently read "Soviet Military Power," published by Ronald Reagan's Pentagon. She's also founded a group called Renaissance Women.

Yet Eleanor Smeal, Gloria Steinem and Phil Donahue need not apply for membership. Renaissance Women, like Nina May, don't like the Women's Movement.

"Feminists have duped the country," May declares. Her goal, she adds, is to "make people understand that they need not be intimidated" into accepting the feminist movement's agenda.

"Just because I'm a working woman, I'm on their rolls," say May, referring to NOW, the National Women's Political Caucus and other groups. "But I don't want to be categorized."

May cites two intimidating encounters as catalysts for her way of thinking. During her freshman year at Stetson University in Florida (her home state), May says, she dared to ask a visiting Betty Friedan why women couldn't be housewives and feel good about themselves, too. According to May, Friedan brushed her off condescendingly and a Stetson dean — a woman — told her to sit down.

Five years ago, when ERA supporters gathered on the Capitol steps, May and a friend formed a counter-protest of two. Soon there erupted a shouting match with former NOW president Smeal. When Capitol Hill policemen asked May to leave or face arrest, she says, it seemed to her that this so-called women's rights movement viewed freedom very selectively.

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

Last February, long-held resentment finally, if inadvertently, found expression when May decided to throw a party with the help of like-minded friends. It was the beginning of Renaissance Women, a group that, as an initial newsletter says, "truly represented the majority of women who don't want to deny the difference between men and women, but who want to develop their own individual potential as women..." and were already excited about America

....
In five months, asserts May, about 200 individuals have joined the two Renaissance Women chapters (the second is in Dallas), delving into a potpourri of activities, from aerobics and panel discussions to firearms practice and karate. That the group principally includes conservative Republicans with close ties to the Reagan administration is of no matter to May, who published a coloring book last year about "liberal inconsistencies"; she, in fact, tries "not to let myself be categorized as conservative... I'm going to say that I'm positive."

Some things, of course, may make her stereotypical. Among the early Renaissance crusades have been support for Reagan's defense and economic programs, opposition to a nuclear weapons freeze and educating Americans about the "myth" of the gender gap. Her own experience, May declares, shows how "it's not sex, but philosophical differences" that drive the women's movement. When May says, "May I ask you one question: Do you support the president?" it's like being asked whether one believes in God.

But Renaissance Women shy away from matters that are more divisive. Whatever their personal views, "we don't take stands on the social issues," says May. "We don't have a right to impose our social beliefs on other women." In May's opinion, there's something tacky about the extremes of a Phyllis Schlafly.

Therein may lie to a key to understanding the prospects of Ronald Reagan's women's movement. By May's characterization, a Renaissance Woman wants things — a strong defense, free enterprise and a healthy body, for example — that are very hard to argue with. Where the concerns are more personal and stickier, however, she'd rather avoid contentiousness.

Some women certainly will find this neo-feminism refreshing. Others may not find it any more enlightened than recent president gratitude for those who helped men grow out of skins and clubs.

Naps as a path to inner calm

This afternoon I had a nap lasting slightly more than an hour.

I've taken a nap every afternoon for as long as I can remember. Well, almost every afternoon. Being now 61 years old, there have been some afternoons, as well as a few years, when I couldn't do so.

During my passage through public school as a young boy, the only way I'd get a nap was by falling asleep in class, which I often did.

In the Army in 1945 and 1946, it was verboten to nap. (I don't know what the Army is like these days.) I somehow mastered dozing even when standing at attention! Or while leaning up against a barracks before going on a hike during basic training. Once I'd received a regular duty assignment, it wasn't difficult at all to arrange a few minutes of nap time by going to the toilet.

Through my years as a member of the so-called work force — you know, laboring by the sweat of my muscles or brain — sometimes it took ingenuity to find a way to nap. But I always managed. Best method of all, of course, was to nap for a half hour or so during the lunch hour.

When I worked as a technical writer at Douglas Aircraft Company in California during 1957 and 1958, I'd nap at lunch while sitting on the ground next to a tree. If it was raining, I'd sit at my desk.

Earlier, when I'd worked in a lemon packing house, I developed a ritual of taking a nap for 45 minutes after eating my lunch in the apartment I rented. (I lived less than a block from the packing house.) I'd turn on my radio to a station which broadcast classical music (Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Debussy) uninterrupted by advertising — and would immediately fall asleep. When the program broke for the news at five minutes until one o'clock, the music stopping would wake me up. And I'd get to work on time.

JOEL CLIMENHAGA
Collegian Columnist

Several times during my life I have worked at night. On newspapers, at Kaiser Iron and Steel on the graveyard shift, in warehouses as a guard. Couldn't nap in the afternoon on those schedules. Come afternoon I'd be sound asleep "for the night (day)," so to speak. Still I'd nap at four o'clock in the morning, or seven o'clock, or nine o'clock, which are strange times to take a nap. But I'd do it!

I have many friends who are into certain facets of Oriental philosophy — Zen Buddhism, Hinduism, and the like — who go to Ommm-ing now and then, rubbing stones, fingering worry beads, practicing yoga meditation — all as methods to finding inner calm. I don't scoff any of those methods. They all work for somebody!

As for me, however, I've found the best path to inner calm is by taking a nap each afternoon.

Used to be I was thought kind of strange for doing that. You know, lazy — unproductive — not making the best use of my time.

And then seven years ago I had a heart attack. Ever since, people have believed what I was doing was good for my health. And that's true. It is good for my health. But not just my physical health. It's good for my mental health, also.

Moreover, as I've grown older, people "understand" more, make less comment about why I have this habit of taking a nap in the afternoon. After all, older people are always forgiven for their excesses. (I remember my father used to take a nap every afternoon, too. Nobody made any comments about it. That was just "John's way." Perhaps his generation was less workaholic than ours. In any event, he lived to be 85 years old. Napping blissfully every afternoon for a half hour or so.)

I read somewhere that Thomas Edison never slept for seven or eight hours a night, like most of us do. Just took naps at regular intervals. Napped for half an hour, worked for 3½ hours, then napped for half an hour again. Did that six times a day.

I could live on such a schedule. I'm always waking up at night — to go padding around the house, drinking coffee, sometimes reading, trying to find something to do before going back to sleep. If I could just arrange my daytime occupational necessities to space my activities out the way Edison did, three or four hours of sleep out of every 24 would be plenty for me.

However, I don't think I really want to use Edison as a model. I also read one time that he ate nothing but milk and graham crackers! That would be too much! Give up tacos and hot green peppers? Never eat fried shrimp and rice with Louisiana hot sauce again? I could never bear such deprivation!

Napping in the afternoon is a wonderful thing — at least for me. Those few minutes just before I fall asleep in the warmth of the afternoon — lying on my bed in the study, looking through half-open eyes at the sun on the leaves of the trees outside my window — fill me with total peace.

My nap gives me complete calm — regardless of what happens during the rest of the day.

Junction City refiles Fort Riley annexation

By The Collegian Staff

Junction City has filed another motion with the Kansas Supreme Court for the annexation of Fort Riley.

The motion presented to the Supreme Court is different from the one which was ruled against July 15. The original annexation motion included land belonging to Manhattan and Riley County.

Richard Pinair, city attorney for Junction City, said Junction City has adopted an ordinance which redefined the boundaries in the proposed annexation area. The new motion doesn't include the two jointly-owned 10-acre tracts of land which were included in the original annexation proposal made in February 1982, he said.

Manhattan and Riley County have filed a motion with the Supreme Court asking to respond to Junction City's motion. Bill Frost, Manhattan city attorney, said. Frost said Junction City's new request is basically the same as the first one.

The original request was nullified when the 1982 Kansas Legislature passed a law which retroactively invalidated the annexation. At that time Manhattan challenged the annexation in Riley County District Court.

The original annexation appeal was declared void in Riley County District Court in October 1982. The court declared the Legislature's ruling — which prohibits any city from annexing territory or military installations under the control of the Secretary of Army — constitutional, according to the July 18 Collegian.

If the original annexation would have been allowed, it would have added 20,000 residents and 101,000 acres to Junction City. The annexation would have also provided an additional $1.25 million in federal revenue sharing money for Junction City.

Interviews for student senators to continue

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

In a 40-minute meeting, Student Senate opened their fall semester activities Thursday night in the Union Big Eight Room. Besides senators John Kohler and Bryan Brauer who did not return to school this semester to continue as senators, Bob Ohmes, a graduate senator, also vacated his seat for the remainder of his term.

Interviews for the three open positions will continue through next week. Kohler represented the College of Arts and Sciences and Brauer represented the College of Agriculture.

Senate made quick work of the bills before it — unanimously approving Jody Hackerott as assistant coordinator of the FONE, Laurie McCauley as associate coordinator of U-Learn and Dianne Urban as students' attorney.

A first reading of a bill commending George "Dent" Wilcoxon, professor of history, was approved. Wilcoxon has participated in senate for 23 years.

Another first reading of a bill revising regulations which govern the distribution of pamphlets and posting of signs on campus.

The revision, if passed, would clarify that organizations not registered with SGA cannot distribute material from tables in the Union. Non-registered groups can distribute literature in "free speech areas," Sally Routson, coordinator of Student Activities, told the senate. Registered groups can distribute literature on any part of campus.

The free speech areas are the island between Seaton Hall and the Union, the quadrangle north of Farrell Library and the quadrangle east of Calvin Hall. Senate will act on the bill when it meets next Thursday.

University President Duane Acker will attend the meeting to welcome senators back. Before the meeting, a reception will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Government Services office for Wilcoxon at which Acker and Chet Peters, vice president of Student Affairs, will speak.

Another highlight for senators in the upcoming months will be a visit by Kansas Regent Norman Brandeberry who will discuss the rising tuition costs in regent schools. A reception for Brandeberry will be held before the meeting in the SGS office.

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

CONCESSION MANAGERS WANTED

McCain Auditorium needs two go-getters who love to sell and arrange delicious desserts for sale at all performance events at McCain. Duties will include ordering, setting-up, clearing up and keeping an inventory of stock and food supplies. Work study preferred. Please call 532-6425 for a job interview. Work begins week of 9/1.

Today's Pop Quiz

Q. Where will you be Monday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.?

A. Enjoying the evening in style with the

Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra

Ticket prices: Public $15.00, Senior $14.00, Student $12.00

Tickets available at McCain Box office, noon-5 p.m., M-F, 532-6428

This program is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts, through participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

ENJOY Kansas City Star & Times

NEWSPAPERS
Delivered to your home
STUDENT SPECIAL
ALL SEMESTER—
ONLY $18.54

Mail in this coupon to:
KC Star
1412 Vista Lane
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
or sign up at Kedzie Hall
Room 103

*Delivery will begin upon receipt of payment.
Carrier—Jim Schroer 537-2318

THE KANSAS CITY STAR AND TIMES Student Discount

SEMESTER RATE $18⁵⁴

TAX INCLUDED

MORNING
EVENING
SUNDAY

This offer is made and limited to full time students of this university or college. It is made only to areas where delivery is made by a carrier or agent of The Star.

I agree to subscribe to The Kansas City Star and Times for the full semester at the special rate of $18.54. This price includes consideration for non-delivery when classes are suspended for holidays, fall, winter, or spring breaks and other periods when service is not requested. The offer becomes effective the day of registration and expires the last day of finals. Delivery to begin upon receipt of payment.

DATE _____
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____ ZIP _____
PHONE _____ APT _____
STUDENT I.D. # _____
UNIVERSITY _____
SIGNED _____

After Aggieville Why Not
Donuts in Aggieville...

THE DONUT HOLE

Since 1983
Donuts—Sandwiches—Ice Cream

We'll Start at 9:00 Friday Nite
and Keep Em Comin', Fresh & Hot, All Night

11th & Moro
Aggieville FRIDAY NITE SPECIAL
2 GLAZED DONUTS 30¢

"Hi, it's my first semester here at Kansas State and I don't know anybody and your Grandmother told my Aunt Jean that you're a nice guy and that I should look you up..."

Welcome to Miller time.

© 1983 Beer Brewed by Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, WI

University to begin lawn restoration

By LAURI DIEHL
Collegian Reporter

Some campus lawns which appear withered and dead are being renovated as part of a five-year lawn improvement project devised by Bob Bruce and Don Burns, University Facilities horticulturists.

"The plan is to begin at the south end of campus where it is needed most," Bruce said. Both renovation and overseeding — a seeding process which doesn't require the existing lawn to be destroyed — are planned, with Memorial Stadium scheduled to be renovated first, he said.

Renovation involves killing all existing vegetation with herbicide and reseeding the area with fescue grass seed.

As a result of the work being done, departments and groups which regularly use the field will move their activities elsewhere. Continuing Education and the Departments of Intercollegiate Athletics and Physical Education, Dance and Leisure Studies, in addition to the University soccer team, often use the field.

Tom Lee, superintendent of grounds, said it will be impossible for the annual Homecoming bonfire to be at Memorial stadium this year. He said if it is suitable, the grassy lot east of Weber Hall and north of the Derby Complex will be used instead.

Renovation of the stadium lawn is expected to be completed by the end of April or the first of May, Lee said.

In addition to the stadium, the lawn south of Anderson Hall and part of the intramural sports field will be renovated this year.

Work on the intramural field will not be completed until 1986. The 20-acre field will be renovated five acres per year over a four-year span, so most of the field will be available for use while the work is being done.

Raydon Robel, director of the Washburn Recreational Complex, said he doesn't believe the renovation will cause any major scheduling problems for intramural sports.

The Union lawns will be the major project in 1985. Bruce and Burns agree this is an important area.

"The Union is the focal point of the campus. Visitors see the lawns, and students like to play frisbee there," Bruce said.

Also scheduled for renovation are the lawns at Umberger, Call, Weber and King Halls.

The lawn south of the President's home will be overseeded in 1986 and the band practice field will be done during the final year of the improvement plan.

The schedule for lawn work is flexible.

"A lot depends on weather conditions," Burns said. "Or if there was a burnout (fire), we might reseed half the campus."

Lee said renovation of the intramural field will cost approximately $3,050 per five acres. Hiring a commercial contractor, however, would cost twice as much, he said.

"People are either going to say the renovation is cheap or complain about where their money is going," Bruce said. "It's a good price."

Underground sprinkler systems may be installed in some larger lawns, but Lee said these plans are still tentative.

Yamani funds scholarship for Arab-related studies

By The Collegian Staff

Saudi Arabia's minister of petroleum resources, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, has established a scholarship fund at K-State for students in Arab-related studies.

The Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani Scholarship Fund will provide a gift of $8,000 each year to an outstanding graduate or undergraduate student studying the Arab world, culture or Arab-American relations.

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, through which the scholarship was arranged, said plans have not yet been made for selecting the scholarship recipient or awarding the money.

As one of the leaders of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the sheikh visited K-State in March to deliver a Landon Lecture. His speech concerning OPEC oil price policies and the worldwide oil market was interrupted by hecklers in the audience.

Michael Suleiman, professor of political science, said Sheikh Yamani expressed an interest in providing "support for something worthwhile" at K-State to improve American understanding of the Arab world and culture.

EARN OVER $1,000 A MONTH THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR

If you're a Math, Chemistry, Physics, or Engineering major, the Navy has a program you should know about. It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate (NUPOC) Program, and if qualified you could earn $1,000 per month, for up to 24 months prior to graduation.

SOME OF THE BENEFITS INCLUDE:

- * $3,000 Bonus upon acceptance
- * 1 year of graduate level education
- * Unequaled hands-on training and experience using the most sophisticated up to date equipment
- * Immediate management responsibility
- * $23,000 starting salary—over $42K annually after five years
- * Free medical and dental care.

The NUPOC program can help you not only to complete college, it can also be the start of an exciting career. If you'd like to find out more, contact

ENGINEERING OFFICERS PROGRAM
800-821-5110

NAVY OFFICERS GET RESPONSIBILITY FAST.

DRS. PRICE, YOUNG & ODLE OPTOMETRISTS

General Practice
and All Type of Contact Lenses
Soft—Extended Wear—to Sleep with
Soft for Astigmatism
Flex—Oxygen Permeable
Fast Replacement
for Lost or Damaged Lenses
Payment Arrangements Available

WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER
PHONE 537-1118

THE DONUT HOLE

FREE ROLL OR
DONUT WITH THIS COUPON!
(Limit one per customer)

11th & Moro
AGGIEVILLE

Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Fri.-Sat. 24 hours
Sat.-till 6 p.m.

Weekend Special!

Call us.
539-0561
517 North 12th St.

Hours:
4:30pm-1am Mon-Thurs.
11am-2am Fri. & Sat.
11am-1am Sun.

We use only the freshest ingredients and 100% real dairy cheese.

We promise free delivery and fast 30 minute service to your door. All you have to do is call!

Prices do not include applicable sales tax.

Our drivers carry less than $10.00.
Limited delivery area.
© 1983 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12" cheese $5.15
16" cheese $7.35

The Price Destroyer
9 items for the price of 5
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Olives, Onions, Green Peppers, Ground Beef, Sausage, Ham, Extra Cheese
12" Price Destroyer $ 9.40
16" Price Destroyer $13.60

Additional Items
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Ham, Onions, Anchovies, Green Peppers, Olives, Sausage, Ground Beef, Jalapenos, Extra Cheese, Extra Thick Crust
12" pizza $.85 per item
16" pizza $1.25 per item
Pepsi/quarts available

$2.00 Off!

Good Friday, Saturday, & Sunday only.
$2.00 off any 16" 2-item pizza plus 1 qt. of Pepsi.
One coupon per pizza.
Expires: 12/31/83

Fast, Free Delivery
Good at listed locations.
34069 / 8211
DOMINO'S PIZZA

BUSHWACKER'S

• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Tonite

Old time Rock n' Roll
& Free Hors d'oeuvres

5-7 p.m.

Happy Hour: 4-8

2 Fers on HiBalls 75¢ Draws
$2 Blended Drinks

Drink of the Week:
Sea Breeze $1.25

Memberships Available at only $10 thru Aug. 31

531 N. Manhattan Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

Why pay more for women's casuals?

$10
Reg. $14.99
Similar girls' styles now $7.

You could pay more, but why?

Sale ends August 30.

Near Bluemont & Tuttle Creek Blvd.

514 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
(Adjacent to Wal-Mart Shopping Center)
Open 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Daily, 12-6 p.m. Sunday

Payless
Shoe
Source

© 1983 Volume Shoe Corporation

Beginning of Nichols renovation stills 15 years of controversy

Construction material lies in front of Nichols Gymnasium awaiting the start of the Nichols renovation project.

By The Collegian Staff

Renovation of Nichols Gymnasium is tentatively expected to begin within two weeks, marking the end of 15 years of controversy over the University's use of the structure.

The building, which was destroyed by fire Dec. 13, 1968, will house the Departments of Speech and Computer Science and will be used as storage space for Farrell Library when work is completed. The hull of Nichols will be thoroughly cleaned before ground breaking begins. Nichols Hall, which will be the new name of the building, is scheduled to open in fall 1985.

Vince Cool, associate director of University Facilities and one of the officials selected to help in the redevelopment planning of Nichols, said the renovation will cost between $5.5 to $5.75 million.

"Right now, we have $1.5 million dollars for the building and should get the remainder as of July of next year," Cool said.

The issue of whether to reconstruct the gymnasium was discussed by the Kansas Legislature for many years, but they made no decisions about the fate of the building.

Since last fall, when a referendum was passed in favor of renovating Nichols, University officials have been searching for funds to start reconstruction.

Eight contractors from Hutchinson, Wichita, Manhattan, Salina and Topeka submitted bids in July for general contracting work on the 72-year-old structure. R.D. Anderson Construction Co., Topeka, was chosen as general contractor, with a bid of $2,549,444.

Central Mechanical Construction Co., Manhattan submitted the low bid of $1,087,000 for mechanical work. Electric Equipment Co., Salina, which submitted a low bid of $357,500, will be doing electrical work.

U.S. ruling lifts year-old ban on material

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The year-old government ban on formaldehyde foam insulation was allowed to lapse Thursday, but debate over the safety of the product in homes rages on.

Use of the insulation became legal with a Justice Department decision not to appeal a court ruling that the Consumer Product Safety Commission had relied on faulty evidence in creating the ban.

"Frankly I'm very disappointed and very concerned," said Nancy Harvey Steorts, chairman of the commission. "I voted to ban that product because I thought it was a hazardous product."

She said she was informed of the decision to drop the case in a letter from Solicitor General Rex E. Lee, who said that while the circuit court may have erred in throwing out the ban, other factors also have to be considered in deciding whether to appeal.

Consumer advocates opposed the decision, and David Greenberg of the Consumer Federation of America said the ban had been the only bright spot for consumers in the Reagan administration.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian
Classifieds

TAKE A CLASSY DATE
TO A CLASSY PLACE
PUTT PUTT GOLF COURSE

Resumé
Service

Professional
Resumé Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

C'mon in for Breakfast!

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY ONLY!

All You Can Eat:
SCRAMBLED EGGS
PANCAKES
BACON SAUSAGE
HASH BROWNS
BISCUITS-GRAVY
DRINKS EXTRA

All You Pay:

$2.29

From 6 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

Kids 7 yrs.
and younger

$1.29

We don't just give you breakfast.
We give you a break.

Full Service Breakfast Menu Monday thru Friday

SIRLOIN STOCKADE
100 East Bluemont

WELCOME BACK, STUDENTS

You are cordially invited to attend services at

LIVING WORD CHURCH

located one mile south
on Highway 177.

Sunday Morning 10:00 A.M.

Sunday Evening—Small Groups 7:30 P.M.

Wednesday Evening 7:30 P.M.

Charismatic—Non-Denominational
Information: 776-0940 or 539-4828

PRUDENTIAL
RENTERS INSURANCE
The Right Kind of Protection
The Right Amount
And Maximum Value
776-5382 for Appointment
1430 Poyntz Ave. walk-in

Little Sisters of The Golden Rose

There will be a picnic at the house
at 12:30, Sun., Aug. 28.

Beta Sig House
See ya there!

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

TGIF!

$2 Pitchers

1-6

&

Free

Popcorn

619 N. Manhattan

ELEPHANT RIDES

Fri., Sat., Sun.
at Sunset Zoo
during regular hours:
9 a.m.-7 p.m.

RIDE INDY

a 12 yr. old, 8 foot, 3 ton
Asian Bull Elephant
Owner-Gary Anderson
$1.00 per ride

Sponsored by

The Palace
GIFTS AND NECESSITIES

Come to the Palace for all your
back to school needs.

- Cards • Candy • Cosmetics • Aspirin • Vitamins •
- Cold Remedies • Party Supplies • Posters • Film processing

SERVE YOURSELF AT OUR FOUNTAIN AND COFFEE BAR.
Open till 8:30 Mon.-Thurs.
GIFT REGISTRY—MASTERCARD/VISA

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville 539-7654

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

Sponsored by the

AG ECON CLUB

Time: 7:00 p.m.

Date: Sunday, Aug. 28th

Located at Dr. Manuel's farm meet at Waters Hall at 6:30 p.m.

for direction and rides

Friday Aug. 26 8-2
KSU Ballroom $1.50

Feel Right at HOME

STUDENT LOANS

Open your checking account with us and be eligible for low interest, government guaranteed student loans.

CHECKING ACCOUNTS

An account for every checking need, including one with unlimited free checking.

OTHER SERVICES

- *Certificates of Deposit
- *Savings Accounts
- *Drive-up Window
- *Night Depository
- *Republic Travelers Checks
- *Notary Service

HOME FEDERAL SAVINGS

Juliette at Humboldt • Manhattan • 776-1733

FSLIC

Sponsor of KSU Football on
WIBW-AM 580

AFL-CIO requests Bush's intervention in controversy over grain elevators

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The AFL-CIO is asking Vice President George Bush to intervene in a dispute over a proposed federal safety standard for grain elevators which that Reagan administration budget office complains would cost $100 million to enforce.

"The AFL-CIO is concerned about the continued attempts of the Office of Management and Budget to impose its judgment on the proposed standard on grain elevator safety," AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland wrote in a letter to Bush dated Aug. 18.

"This standard is the product of three years of intensive work by both the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the National Academy of Sciences, with full input from labor and industry," Kirkland wrote. "OSHA and the academy have the technical expertise to make such decisions and OMB does not."

OSHA sent the budget office on May 11 its proposed rules for preventing grain explosions and fires by limiting the accumulation of dust in elevators and mills to one-eighth of an inch. OMB asked

OSHA to reconsider the regulations.

Christopher DeMuth, OMB administrator for information and regulatory affairs, told a House committee in June that his agency had asked OSHA to delay action on the regulation because OMB had some "questions and difficulties about it."

DeMuth said the grain industry's standards had been effective and that accidents had declined. "We think the rule goes beyond what is necessary," he said, contending it would cost more than $100 million to implement.

On Aug. 10, the AFL-CIO executive council issued a statement saying prompt action was needed to prevent more grain explosions and workers' deaths.

The labor council accused OMB of "parroting the industry's arguments against strict controls of concentrations of explosive grain dust," and quoted the National Academy of Sciences as saying dust control was "the most important" preventive step in preventing explosions. The academy recommended holding dust levels to one-sixty fourth of an inch.

Suicide, depression increase as first-year pressures build

By College Press Service

College freshmen "face a tremendous amount of anxiety and pressure" resulting in high levels of suicide contemplation, eating disorders and self-doubt, according to a recent survey of students at an unnamed liberal arts college.

Twenty-five percent of all freshmen visiting the school's counseling center reported they had seriously considered suicide.

More than 75 percent said they sought counseling for psychiatric reasons.

"Clearly, students are under a great deal of pressure during their first year in college," said Professor Javad Kashani, a University of Missouri psychiatry researcher who co-authored the study.

"Freshmen are just changing from a high school life where it was free to live with mom and dad, where they had friends since childhood, and where they had a sense of community, to a college life where they have no support group, no ties to the community, and must manage things on their own," Kashani explained.

All these pressures, he said, mean freshmen "have much more serious pathologies," — eating disorders, suicide gestures, feelings of worthlessness, and trouble concentrating on their studies — than their upper class counterparts.

Indeed, he pointed out, the pressure on freshmen is so great that more than 40 percent of this fall's incoming students will not graduate with their class.

Welcome Back Students!

Your family at Westview Community Church invites you to attend services Sunday and meet your new pastor.

Pastor John Snook comes to us from Oklahoma, where he served as President of Bartlesville Oklahoma Wesleyan College since 1974.

Bring your friends and worship with us at

Westview Community Church
A Christ-Centered Community Church
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Sunday School 9:15 a.m. •
Worship 10:30 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

RICK & FRIENDS
404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222

Manhattan Appointments
Closed Mon. Sat. 8-3 Tues.-Fri. 9-6

Join Us for a Hog Roast and Swing Dance

5:30 p.m. Cost 50¢
Sunday, Aug. 28
1021 Denison

STUDENT MEMBERSHIP

- Unlimited Court Usage
- $25 initiation fee (one time)
- $100 per semester
- sauna
- glassed-in jacuzzi
- 1 squash court
- 2 indoor racquetball courts

- 3 indoor tennis courts
- 3 outdoor tennis courts
- free court usage for members
- weight room

(REFER TO MANHATTAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE — COUPON BOOKLET)

Cottonwood Club
Fun and Fitness for All Seasons
3615 Clifton Road 776-5060

We are 8/10 of a mile west of Westloop Pizza Hut on Clifton

Tau Kappa Epsilon Little Sister Rush Party Tuesday, Aug. 30 6:30 p.m.-8:00 p.m.

Manhattan Derby

720 N. 3rd St. 539-3510

Come by this weekend for these great buys!

12 PKS. COORS & COORS LT. $4.88 + tax
CIGARETTES single pack .81¢ + tax carton $7.85 + tax

You can get these great buys & more, only at Manhattan Derby!

Checks accepted with proper I.D.

Buy a Whopper and get a Whopper Jr. FREE!

(Value 87¢)
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. This offer expires 9/1/83. Good only at the Burger King restaurant, 3rd and Poyntz, downtown Manhattan, Ks.

Burger King — Reg. U.S. Pat. & TM Off 1982 Burger King Corporation

WELCOME BACK PICNIC FREE

FOR ANYONE INTERESTED IN FELLOWSHIP, FUN, & FOOD

SATURDAY
Aug. 27 6:00 P.M.

NEED A RIDE? MEET SOUTH OF UNION AT 5:45

SPONSORED BY INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

TUTTLE CRK. BLVD.

Sports Fanatic
Laramie at 12th — Aggieville —

Betcha didn't know... All-Big Eight receiver, Mike Wallace caught his first touchdown pass as a freshman — speaking of freshmen

Betcha didn't know... starting at 7 p.m. tonight, ALL FRESHMEN are invited to enjoy a free keg party, courtesy of Sports Fanatic

COME IN AND PLAY... TODAY!

"LET'S ALL GO TO DAIRY QUEEN" For a Peanut Butter Chocolate Chip Blizzard!

Sm. $1.10 Med. $1.35 Lg. $1.65

OPEN 10:30 A.M. TO 11 P.M. TIL MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT.

* Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Ave. D.Q. Corp. © Copyright 1974 Ave. D.Q. Corp.

1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

Speedwash

in Aggieville
1118 Moro

Beginning August 30th
DROP OFF LAUNDRY SERVICE
on Tuesdays and Thursdays
9 a.m.-noon
First Come First Service

See your Jostens' representative for a complete selection of rings and details of Jostens' Creative Financing Plans.

DATE: Mon-Fri August 22-26, 1983

TIME: 9am-4pm

PLACE: State Union bookstore 0302

Jostens' college rings offered daily at your bookstore

Quarterback job up for grab; Dickey says decision tough

By SEAN REILLY
Sports Editor

The question of who will start in the quarterback position on the football team may be answered as late as Sept. 3 when the Wildcats open their season against California State University, Long Beach.

"I may decide who is definitely going to start at quarterback 1:30 p.m. the day of the first game," Coach Jim Dickey said.

Earlier this week, Dickey said the starting job is Doug Bogue's until someone has proven they can beat him out.

Speaking before the Big Eight Skywriters Thursday, Dickey said there are three outstanding quarterbacks to consider for the position: Doug Bogue, Donnie Campbell and Stan Weber.

Dickey explained that the quarterback situation is similar to the dilemma facing him about the running backs and the number of receivers available.

Dickey said he is also concerned about the defensive secondary, where the number of players in the depth charts is not as abundant. Several defense players graduated last year.

"We lost seven players, and yes, I am a little worried about the situation," Dickey said.

The coaching staff has considered the possibility of having players play both offense and defense.

"Stan (Weber) will play quarterback before the season is over," Dickey said. "Weber will also play in the defensive secondary when we need him to do so."

Other players who might play both ways are Eric Mack, Bob Daniels and Dennis Allen. Mack will play primarily offense, while Daniels will play defensive tackle. Allen was moved from split end to right cornerback on defense last Sunday.

"Allen can cover the wide receivers really well," Dickey said.

Because of all the position changes occurring, Dickey said he is still unsure what the starting lineup will be.

"We'd like to go to practice and have something jump out at us. But that just doesn't happen," Dickey said.

Despite the shifting of players, Dickey said he is confident that the team is capable of competing.

"We can be better than last year's team. The teams in the Big Eight this season are very similar in makeup except for a few. The teams in the Big Eight are not as strong as they were 10 years ago when the Universities of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado finished one, two and three in the national football polls.

Dickey contends the football teams in the Big Eight are becoming similar in talent makeup because of the limit of 30 recruits who can be signed to a scholarship. This restricts schools from taking all the talent from other schools, Dickey said.

Players were given the day off from practice Wednesday and resumed Thursday using pads.

"After 25 days of practice I have been pleased with the performance of the team, especially during the hot weather," Dickey said. "It's going to be very important for our team to be excited about playing Saturday after Saturday. I feel very, very good at this point about the attitude and work habits of our players."

The only casualty the team has experienced from practice is the loss of center Jim Northcutt, who injured his knee. He is expected to be out for three to eight weeks.

"Jim had really prepared hard for this season to come back and start. During the strength test, he did outstanding for a person his size," Dickey said.

Tim Stone and Elmer Schmitz are currently battling for the center spot, he said.

Last season K-State had the best lowest number of turnovers in the Big Eight, with only 14 fumbles lost to opponents.

"It's an element of luck," Dickey said. "Actually, we work hard on preventing fumbles. If we can progress through two or three games and not give the ball up without a punt, we are doing pretty good."

"It is disappointing when we get the ball down inside the other team's 20-yard line and give it up because of a mistake."

Although the success of the team is important this season for Dickey, gone are the days when everywhere he looked, a story concerning his redshirt program appeared.

"Last year you guys (the press) would always be writing something on the redshirt program. I thought it was no big deal," Dickey said. "Nebraska has been doing it for years and no one questioned them about it. But when I did it at K-State, everyone thought it was a big deal."

Currently, Dickey has 54 players on the team who have been red-shirted some time in their collegiate careers. The Sporting News has dubbed the redshirts as the "Faithful 54."

Dickey said a winning season to him is "winning seven or eight games or winning more than you lose."

When K-State faces Long Beach State, the defense will confront the nation's total offense leader from last year, quarterback Todd Dillion, who gained 3,587 yards.

"To defeat Long Beach the pass rush and underneath coverage will have to be good. Once that is done I feel the secondary can cover the receivers — keeping Dillion from completing too many passes."

The game against Long Beach will be the first of three scheduled home games to be played under the newly-installed stadium lights.

Dickey said the Wildcats may have a slight advantage playing under the lights.

"It's tough to go on the road and play at night. The routine is just too hard to adjust for teams that normally play on Saturday afternoon."

"The lights should give us a little advantage at home. But our players will be sitting around on Saturdays trying to keep themselves prepared."

Dickey said he would rather play on Saturday afternoon.

"I don't mind night games, but I would rather play on Saturday afternoons. The schedule we have now allows us to do so, right when the weather is cooling off."

Currently, there are three non-conference games scheduled for night and a possible night game against Iowa State University to be shown on television station WTBS, Atlanta.

Athletic Director Dick Towers was unavailable for confirmation of whether the game will be played under the lights and shown on TV.

Now in his sixth year as Kansas State's head coach, Dickey is obviously not content to sit back and rest on the laurels of what many believe was a successful season. He said he wants another winning season, another bowl invitation and even greater respectability for a program that has long endured the tag of perennial loser.

Concentration

Jack Fritz concentrates on the baseball during batting practice at Frank Meyers Field while working out with the baseball team. The team had its first practice and walk-on tryouts Thursday in preparation for the fall season.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

TODAY—
"It's a hungry world," film series.
K-State Union
Rm. 207 or 205
11:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Today's films:
"Glass House" and
"Journey for Society"

Sponsored by American Baptist Campus Ministries.

Gregor's

Weekend
Specials

Fri., Sat., & Sun.

Combination Plate: Sirloin Steak, Shrimp, and Mushrooms Stuffed with Crab Meat $6.50
Cioppino (Shrimp, Scallops, Clams & Halibut in Sauce) Over Rice. $8.50

Served in both public dining room and private club

2605 Stagg Hill Rd.

776-1234

Magnavox
Back to School Special!

Model #CDP102—13" diagonal color portable with recessed pocket handles

- Electronic tuning
- In-line picture tube
- 100-1. Solid State
- Automatic Fine Tuning Circuit
- 3"x5" Speaker

Now—$299⁹⁵
only

Ghere's of Manhattan

316 Poyntz Downtown

MAKE TRACKS TO
KISTNER'S FLOWERS & GREENHOUSE

FOR

- CACTUS SALE 2 FOR $1.00
- SELECTED GREEN PLANTS
6-INCH POTS $5.00
- HANGING PHILODENDRON
10-INCH POTS $7.50

While They Last
Receive a Free
Carnation Just
for Tracking Through

KISTNER'S GREENHOUSE
HIGHWAY 177 SOUTH 1 MILE PAST VIADUCT
776-7989 776-7044

Entertainment
Line
1-762-4094

Call anytime for movie and concert info!

WHY NOT ENJOY YOURSELF
FOR LESS?

FRIDAY 1-7 p.m.
PITCHERS
$1.75

(BUDWEISER NOT INCLUDED)

HAPPY HOUR DAILY
10:30-6:00
111 South 3rd

me's
Tavern
home of the FISHBOWL

Bradley on U.S. team; track finals televised

By JUDI WRIGHT
Asst. Sports Editor

K-State's top middle distance runner, Mike Bradley, is representing the United States this weekend as he participates in track and field competition at the Pan American Games in Caracas, Venezuela.

Bradley, a member of the U.S. 1600-meter relay team, participated in a preliminary race Thursday and will compete in the televised finals Saturday.

"He's excited about running, but the (housing) conditions are poor," said Bradley's wife, Janet.

In a letter Bradley sent to Steve Miller, head track coach, Bradley said on a scale of one to 10, "Caracas, Venezuela doesn't score."

"It's hot, humid and conditions are poor," Bradley's letter stated.

The drug scandal also is on the minds of the athletes. Eleven U.S. track and field athletes dropped out of the competition due to the testing for steroid usage.

"They (U.S. Olympic Committee) are testing a lot of athletes for steroids and other drugs in preparation for the Olympic Games," Miller said. "I think all American athletes were tested."

Bradley was one of the American athletes remaining in Caracas, Venezuela, who voluntarily submitted to the steroid testing to determine if he qualified for competition. Bradley's wife said it was confirmed he wasn't on the drug.

"I'm glad he took the test," Miller said. "Now there's no question about him being on steroids."

Bradley will be running the second leg of the relay team behind Michael Babers from the Air Force Academy. Eddie Carey from the University of California in Irvine will be running third and either Cliff Wiley, University of Kansas graduate, or James Roll from Santa Fe Junior College in Florida will anchor the relay.

Bradley holds K-State records in the indoor 400-meter run, the 600-yard run, the mile relay and the outdoor 400-meter run. After returning from Venezuela, Bradley will begin to prepare for his last year of indoor track eligibility.

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Octoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

NOW OPEN Sunday, Al's Deli in Aggieville, 4:00-8:00 p.m. Super Sub Sunday. (4-5)

CIRCLE K Meeting—Sunday, August 28, 7:00 p.m., Union Room 207. Everyone Welcome. (4-5)

EXECUTIVE POSITION—Travel, responsibility, excellent benefits. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (5)

PINGA PARTY Saturday. (5)

MAKE YOUR car sparkle at the carwash at Union National Bank (Poyntz), Saturday, August 27, 1983, 1:00-4:00 p.m. Cars—$1.50, trucks—$2.00. Sponsored by Clovia Pledge Class. (5)

COME AND get acquainted with Collegiate 4-H! Welcome Back Picnic, Sunday, August 28 at Tuttle Shelter #3. Meet behind Umbarger at 6:30 p.m. for rides. Everyone welcome. (5)

ATTENTION 02

ATTENTION STUDENTS—Need low cost health insurance? Call Gross Insurance, 776-4709. An inexpensive alternative. (1-5)

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10)

TRAVEL—WE will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

PHOTOGRAPHER—AVAILABLE for weddings, reunions, fraternity/sorority party pictures. Reserve your dates early by phoning 776-8502 evenings. Ask for Brian. (3-7)

RIDERS—COLBY: Labor Day and two weekends/month. Call 532-3590 or leave message, 532-5582 Bob Brown. (4-8)

HEALTH INSURANCE
THE STATE FARM WAY

CALL BRUCE ARNOLD
AGENT
507 LEAVENWORTH
776-3800

State Farm
Mutual Automobile
Insurance Company
Home Office
Bloomington, Illinois

ALL GIRLS are invited to the Phi Kappa Theta Little Sis Rush Party, Saturday, August 27, 8:00 p.m. at the Phi Kap house, 1965 College Heights. (5)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COMPACT REFRIGERATORS for sale or rent. D&S Rental Center, 1927 Ft. Riley Blvd. Call 537-2250. (1-5)

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

TRAVELERS MOTEL—776-4836, three miles East on U.S. 24. Nice room, phone and cable color T.V. Low rate. Daily, weekly and monthly. (1-5)

FURNISHED, FIVE-room apartment. One and one-half blocks east campus, $250. Call 537-2858 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5)

STUDIO FOR rent—$185 a month. Utilities: pay electric only. Call 537-1210. (3-5)

ONE BEDROOM basement apartment, $180 month. Call 776-4378 after 5:00 p.m. $180 deposit. Lease thru July. (3-5)

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid, $210/month. 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

APARTMENTS, TRAILERS, nine month contracts. No children, no pets. 537-8494, 537-8389. (4-5)

NEW, FOUR-bedroom apartment. Near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Utilities paid. $550 per month with Rental Agreement. 776-1776. (4-7)

NEW APARTMENT—Furnished with air conditioning, dishwasher. Need one female to share with three other females. $130/month plus one-fourth of utilities. Call 539-2334. (4-5)

ONE-BEDROOM basement apartment, carpeted, washer/dryer. Call 776-8749. (5-6)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

NICE, ONE-bedroom basement, furnished. Trash and water paid. $190. Call 776-1185 or 537-0852. Ask for John. (5-6)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment available September 1st. One person to take over lease until May 31. Call 537-3896. (5-9)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

NICE, FOUR-bedroom house. Residential neighborhood, fenced backyard, fully carpeted. Parking for four cars, close to stadium. Nine or twelve month lease. Reasonably priced. 537-4753. (2-6)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 VW Rabbit Deluxe, $5500 or best offer. 1976 Honda CVCC Station Wagon, $2800. Call 1-784-6972 after 6:00 p.m. (1-5)

1971 OPEL 1900, 89,000 miles. Valve job, new camshaft, and valve lifters one year ago. Recent new hoses, exhaust system, and water pump. Excellent mechanically, body good. Asking $700. Call 776-0969. (1-5)

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition, like new, 37,000 miles. Negotiable. Call 776-0131 evenings. (2-7)

1972 AMC Matador. Good condition, dependable. $600. Call 539-3310. (2-6)

1971 MG Midget. New engine, tires and paint. $2,500. Call 1-239-6337. (3-7)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

APPLE II+, 48K, 1 disk drive, monitor, some software. Call 539-2042. (1-5)

ROCKSHOT AND TNT cards. Call Don at 537-4046. (1-5)

OFF YOUR Rocker Antiques has all types of furniture and accessories to make your room or apartment unique. 1930s telephones ready to use, old pictures, carpets, tables, rockers, etc. Friday-Sunday, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.; 1019 Houston. (1-5)

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risque greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

COMPUTER ACE1000 (Apple), 64K, two drives, 80 columns, monitor, Hayes modem, software, manuals. Call 539-5194. (2-5)

(Continued on page 11)

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

Support the American Heart Association.

LANGTON LIQUOR STORE
FULL SELECTION OF
FINE WINES &
IMPORTED BEER
COLD KEBS IN STOCK
$39-5269
LARAMIE & 12TH/AGGIEVILLE
MANHATTAN, KANSAS

Introducing
FOOTLIGHTS
Exercise &
Dance Wear
GRAND OPENING
Sales throughout the week
Aug. 22-27
Store hrs:
10:30-5:30 Mon.-Sat.
Thurs. till 8:00
1110 Laramie 537-3106

Wanna be a 'Cacia Girl?

Join the men of Acacia and the 'Cacia Girls for a Little Sister Rush Party.
Mon. night, Aug. 29
8:00-9:00 p.m.
Acacia Fraternity
2005 Hunting

SHARE OUR FAITH SHARE OUR JOY

You are invited to an Open House with the people of Peace between services this Sunday.

Peace Lutheran Church
2500 Kimball Ave.
Manhattan, KS 66502
(1/4 mile west of stadium)

8:00 a.m. Holy Communion
9-10:30 Open House
10:30 a.m. Holy Communion

KSU STUDENTS

1 Which Freshman is overwhelmed
by registration and classes at KSU?

2 Which Freshman
has discovered
Swannie's
yum-yum?

SWANSON'S BAKERY
225 Poyntz 776-4549

CLOSE, CONVENIENT, & COMING SOON: THE FIRST'S NEW UNIVERSITY BANK.

First National Bank is introducing a new banking facility built with you in mind—our new University Bank.

With a convenient location on the corner of Denison and Claflin, we've made banking as quick and easy as a walk to class.

The University Bank will be open for business in October. This exciting new bank will have 24-hour automatic tellers, full-service banking, and our helpful staff ready to serve your student needs.

Let our University Bank be your bank.
You'll be glad we're here.

BRANDING IRON 421 N. 3rd

"INTRODUCING"
THE "DROVER"

1/4 Lb. ALL BEEF
HAMBURGER
PICK-ONION-LETTUCE-TOMATO
ONLY 89¢

WITH COUPON—

COUPON FOR ONE DROVER
only 89¢ ★ CLIP AND SAVE

1/4 HAMBURGER with Pickles-Onion-Lettuce-Tomato
REG. 1.29

BRANDING IRON
421-N-3RD

GOOD FOR AUG-26-27-28
ONLY
1983

OPEN YOUR ACCOUNT NOW
AND LET US TREAT YOU
TO A FREE WHOPPER.

The First would like to give you a free Whopper from Burger
King. All you need to do is come on in and open your account with us. Manhattan's most convenient bank.

Offer expires September 30, 1983.

First National Bank

Only Manhattan Bank With Four Separate Locations

• Main Bank 201 Poyntz • Branch Bank 12th & Aggie
• Main Bank 3005 A. Street W. • Branch Bank 10th & Poyntz
All Locations 537-0200 Member FDIC

(Continued from page 10)

SCHWIMM CONTINENTAL 10-speed, light blue, with water bottle and frame pump. Great condition. $145. Call 539-0188. (3-7)

MID-SIZE REFRIGERATOR. Cheaper to own than rent. Perfect for dorm. 776-9270, evenings. (3-5)

CRAIG STEREO System: Receiver—25W. Dolby cassette deck, turntable, two speakers, $200. Call 537-0424. (3-6)

MUST SELL improved stock farm—subdivision possibilities, 550/acre. Call Lori Dunafon, 1-457-3687. Town and Country Real Estate. (3-7)

CANON A1, Canon 50 and 70-210mm lenses, super flash. Brand new. Sacrifice, $580. Complete. David, 539-6267. (3-8)

ORANGE BLOSSOM 14K gold 10 pt. diamond engagement ring. Has never been worn or modified. Retail value $375, will sell for $250. Call 537-8410 between 3:00-4:00 p.m. Comes with Dealers Appraisal. (3-5)

1.7 CUBIC foot refrigerator—Excellent condition. Seven months limited use, $80. Call Mark at 539-9598. (3-5)

FOR SALE—3-rail motorcycle trailer. Has coil springs, shocks, and lights, $250. Call Bryce at 539-9044 or 539-8677. (3-5)

GIBSON ELECTRIC guitar, Les Paul. One year old, $400. Call 539-6425. (3-5)

SOFA, CHAIR, end table, dishwasher, console stereo. Phone 539-8580. (4-5)

AIR CONDITIONER, used, in good condition, $200 or best offer. GE washer and dryer, almost new, 3 months old, bought for $780, asking price is $650. Please call 776-7978. (4-6)

BUNKBED SET with chest of drawers attached. Call 532-6865, ext. 20 or 22. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (4-8)

SAILBOAT—14' Laser. Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (4-8)

FOUR CARPET remnants: Dark brown, beige and taupe. Price range $15-$30. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (4-5)

REFRIGERATOR FOR sale, 3.2 cubic feet. Like new, with manual and stand, $117. Call 537-8097. (5-6)

USED SLAB doors, ideal for tables, desk, or drawing boards, $4 each. You pick up. 539-3020. (5-7)

1' x 12' RUSTIC barn siding. Great for interior decorating! Call 776-9775 or 537-0800 for more details. (5-6)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7705. (5-14)

1974 400 Kawasaki—inspected, new tire, seat, battery, etc., windshield, crashbar. Make offer. Call 539-3460 after 5:00 p.m. (1-5)

1978 YAMAHA 650 special. Clean, beautiful bike, maroon. Excellent mechanical. See to appreciate. $1,000. Call 532-3472. (3-5)

YAMAHA XS600—runs well, needs some minor repair, 14,000 miles, $250, will negotiate. Call Quentin at 537-8410 between 3:00-4:00 p.m. (3-5)

1978 750 Honda—excellent condition, new battery, tune-up, 8,000 miles. Call anytime, 539-3404. (4-8)

HONDA MOPED for sale—excellent condition. For information call, 539-0894. (4-9)

1981 YAMAHA HOPPER, 1,100 miles, excellent condition. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (4-5)

FOR SALE: 1981 Kawasaki CSR 305, 2,500 miles. Call 776-3718. (5-8)

1976 YAMAHA RD400C—Quicksilver fairing, new battery, backrest, rack, shop manuals, $600. Paul, 1-494-2776 or 532-6354 (leave message). (4-5)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08

10' x 50' L.T.D., must be moved. Five miles west, carpeted, appliances, partially furnished, skirting, tile downs, washer hookups. 1-913-485-2540. (1-5)

1971 AMERICAN Homedale. Payments lower than rent. Call 539-1048 or 1-784-5909. (3-5)

MOBILE HOME, September 1st—Five rooms, bath, close Manhattan, small court, patio, privacy, $5,000. Mornings, late evenings 1-456-7634. (5-9)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

YAMAHA 100, 1970, 3,700 miles. Like new, 75 mpg, $300. Call 539-7535. (4-5)

1981 HONDA XL500. Excellent condition. New rear tire. $1150/offer. 539-2343, ask for Blane. (5-7)

GARAGE SALES 12

TRASH OR Treasure? World's largest outdoor garage sale, Saturday, August 27, 8:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m., Pottorf Hall, Cico Park. Household items, furniture and appliances. Items not sold by 2:00 p.m. will be auctioned at that time. For consignments call: 537-0393 or 1-456-7511. Sponsored by Manhattan Solar Kiwanis Club. (4-5)

Dorm Girls!!!
Need more space??
We've built Bunk Beds for over 100 satisfied customers. $55. Call David, 539-6267 or Kip, 539-4638.

PERSONAL REFRIGERATOR, 3 cubic feet, like new, $75 or best offer, 1429 Laramie, #15, after 5:00 p.m. and weekends. (4-5)

CLASSICAL GUITAR—Solid spruce top, nice inlay, good buy, $100. Call 539-1416. (4-6)

REFRIGERATOR 4 cubic feet, almost new, cheaper than renting, $120. Call 776-3185, ask for Bob. (5-7)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Selfish one

4 Mideast org.

8 Nights before

12 Aitar words

13 Columnist Barrett

14 Jacob's son

15 Marshy areas, often

17 Garden vegetable

18 Decorative

19 Pair

21 Call for help

22 Subdued

26 Miser

29 Corral

30 Epoch

31 Eastern ruler

32 Tablet

33 Sports group

34 French soul

35 Auto

36 Colors

37 Chest of drawers

39 Equip

40 In the past

41 Black Sea port

45 Bankrolls

48 Uncultured ones

50 Desserts

51 Jai—Cheer

53 Goose egg

54 Transmitted

55 Some amount

DOWN

1 Hawaiian city

2 Scent

3 Graduate's garb

4 Speaker

5 Cornbreads

6 Finale

7 Did a chess ploy

8 Nudge

9 Victory sign

10 "The Three Faces of —"

11 Use a stool

16 Sci-fi

20 Came in first

23 Acute

24 Part of QED

25 Sweet potatoes

26 Close tight

27 Bullets

28 Vista

29 Average

32 Old radio schemes

33 Zoo critter

35 Gear part

36 Morsel

38 Singing voice

39 Eurasian tree

42 Rail bird

43 "—Lake"

44 Pale and gray

45 Broadway musical "The —"

46 Serve, perhaps

47 German article

49 Corrida cheer

CRYPTOQUIP

WMS HDBGH MSJD'I YGVSYU FYXHS
WD IMDF: UDRJ IRFSJBKXJVS.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — CAN YOU CALL PORCINE BARNYARD BUDDIES "PEN PALS"?
Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals O.

HELP WANTED 13

THE CITY of Manhattan is seeking to fill part-time positions. Recreation Division. Positions are available in flag football, volleyball, softball, basketball, soccer and facilities supervision. Various instructors are needed in arts and crafts, bowling, gymnastics, dance, and basketball. Apply at Personnel Department, City Hall—11th and Poyntz by September 2, 1983. EOE—M/F/H. (1-6)

TODAY'S FASHIONS—Now taking applications for fashion representatives. Work at your convenience and earn up to $100 in merchandise credit and a $50 cash bonus. Applications being accepted August 22 through 26th. (1-5)

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures: 1-800-621-0311. (1-10)

FOUR CRISIS Center—Volunteers needed for a confidential, anonymous, and non-judgmental listening and crisis intervention service. Requirements: An open mind, concern, dedication, one evening shift each week, and attendance at the training session: August 27 and 28, 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., UFM Fireplace Room. Compensation: Experience in dealing with people and human concerns, a chance to contribute something more to Manhattan, membership in a group of caring and concerned individuals. Last year we helped prevent over 60 suicides, and helped more than 2,500 people, but we can't continue without volunteers to answer the telephones. Please help. Call 532-6565 for more information. (2-5)

RECEPTIONIST—OFFICE Assistant needed in campus office. Type 60-65 wpm with telephone and filing work, $4.00-$4.50/hour, 10-15 hours/week. Work Study Students Only. Call 532-6964 or 539-6613. (2-5)

WORK STUDY position (10 hours/week)—Women's Resource Center. Applications, 111 Holton. Deadline August 31st. (3-5)

ORGANIST WANTED for Sunday morning student worship service in Danforth Chapel. For information contact Lutheran Campus Ministry, 539-4451. (3-5)

MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR COLLEGE GRADS

Exceptional opportunity providing experience in management of personnel, equipment and money. Start $18,000. $32,000 in 4 years. Excellent benefits. Ages 19-27, U.S. citizen, willing to relocate. Qualification test required. Send resume or call: 1-800-821-5110

NAVY OFFICER PROGRAMS

HELP WANTED—Taking applications for lunch-time waitresses. Five days/week. Must be 21. Apply Kennedy's Claim. (3-5)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0863. (3-9)

COCKTAIL WAITERS, waitresses. Call 537-0852 between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. (3-5)

DEPENDABLE BABYSITTER needed for all home and some away football games. Prefer my home, your transportation. Call 532-6136 or 776-0033. (4-6)

J. RIGGS West now accepting applications for part-time full employees, 317 Poyntz. Call 776-6338. (7-9)

PHOTOGRAPHER STUDENT to take pictures for Food Service events. Variable schedule and previous experience required. Call Judy Faeber for appointment, 532-6453. (5-7)

LOST 14

LOST BOOKS Friday the 19th around noon at 10th and Bertrand. Reward for return. 1-494-2868. (3-5)

WORRIED ABOUT my kids? Lost near Aggieville and campus. Neutered male cat, 10-15 pounds, yellow and white, declawed. Three-month, female kitten, beige and white patches. 537-3645. (5-10)

LOST ONE black closing vinyl folder near Weber Hall. If found contact Sam Bolinger at 776-9119 anytime. (5)

NOTICES 15

CHECK BALFOUR'S gigantic back to school sale! Sweets and shorts 20% off. Now through Saturday. (1-5)

BICYCLISTS

The Bluemont Bicycle Club invites everyone to join in a short leisure ride, Sat., Aug. 27, 9 a.m. Meet at North end of Student Union. Refreshments served. No FEE

PERSONAL 16

BANANA SPLITS! You top'em a mile high! Friday 2:00-3:30 p.m. in the K-State Union Stateroom. (5)

TONY BLAKE—Happy Birthday to a fantastic staff! Hope it's your best one ever! Love from 8th floor. (5)

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Dean! I hope you had a nice summer. Brother. (5)

MR. M. Many more special times await us. I love you. M. (5)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

VERY NICE condo with very reasonable rent and three nice roommates need one female roommate. Please call 537-4262. (1-5)

FEMALE WANTED to share three-bedroom duplex with two others. Furnished, washer and dryer, exceptionally nice. Westloop area. $117/month, plus utilities. Call 539-7099 or 532-5591. (1-5)

TWO, QUIET, non-smoking, female roommates needed for modern apartment. 537-3294—ask for Mary. (1-5)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice, two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Prefer lower classman. Call 776-7268. (2-5)

NON-SMOKING female to share apartment with three other girls. Close to campus, deck, patio, washer/dryer. $117.50. Call 539-1658. (2-5)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share house with two other women, one block from campus, $125/month and electricity. Call 539-8552. (2-5)

WANTED—NON-smoking female to share furnished apartment. $125 plus one-half utilities. Close to campus. Call 539-1088 evenings. (2-5)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Share very nice two bedroom trailer. Quiet location. $115/month plus utilities. 776-7223. (3-5)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Three upperclassmen seeking a fourth person to share private house. Will have own room and bathroom. Close to campus. Rent $137 plus utilities. Contact Mark or Jeff, 539-9214. (3-5)

CLEAN, NON-SMOKING roommate to share mobile home. $150, everything included. Call 539-7492 after 6:00 p.m. (3-5)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two-bedroom furnished apartment one block from campus, $130. Call 776-3062 or 537-1329. (3-10)

ROOMMATE WANTED—Female student wanted to share house, $140 per month, plus utilities. Call 539-9372 for appointment, ask for Mary. (4-5)

ROOMMATE to share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100 month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (4-8)

NON-SMOKING MALE roommate wanted to share apartment with two others. Roomy and close to campus. $116.67 plus one-third utilities. Call 539-5080. (4-5)

ROOMMATES NEEDED for nice, seven-bedroom house. Near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Water and trash paid. $135 per month. With Rental Agreement. Phone 776-1776. (4-7)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted for apartment, one block from campus. Have own room. Call 537-4856. (4-5)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL roommate wanted. Private bedroom. Prefer male graduate student. $130/month plus one-third utilities. Washer and dryer, air-conditioned, near campus, 914 Valtier. 776-9055 between 5:00 and 7:00 p.m. (4-7)

ROOMMATE NEEDED—Female, $130-$150 per month. Great location. Call 539-0884 for more information. (4-5)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment. Private bedroom, fireplace, balcony, pool. Call 539-4757. (4-8)

CHRISTIAN MALE wants roommate. Phone 913-263-2489 anytime, leave message. (5-8)

REAL DEAL! Big, newer house for two or three males. Washer/dryer, fireplace, garage, cable TV, large yard, quiet neighborhood. Non-smoking, responsible renters only. Call 537-7054 or 776-6883, leave message. Dog pen available. Rent very reasonable. (5-8)

WANTED: Very friendly female. Own room, one-fifth bills. Two blocks from campus. Call 539-5499. (5-8)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted, 1530 McCain Avenue. Close to campus. Call 539-0479 after 5:00 p.m. (5-7)

NON-SMOKING MALE roommate wanted to share one-bedroom apartment, close to campus, for fall semester only. Call 776-0893 after 8:00 p.m. (5-6)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-5)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (1-1)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (1-1)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8837. (3-30)

BOARDING—BOX stalls, and pasture with shelter. Lakeside riding, fine facilities at a very reasonable price. Ask for Steve, 539-2316 afternoons and evenings. (3-5)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Make's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (3-1)

COME MEET the girls Sunday. Now open Sunday, 4:00-8:00 p.m. in Aggieville. Super Sub Sunday. (4-5)

LICENSED CHILD care. Similar to nursery school, though smaller group. Educationally planned activities, field trips, fenced yard. Opening (1) girl, 2 1/2-6 years. Call 537-7984. (4-8)

TYPING EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (5-29)

WELCOMES 23

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Menonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries Building, at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (5)

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to Services, 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible Classes, 9:30 a.m. (5)

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN at Eighth and Leavenworth, (537-0518) celebrates in worship on Sunday morning at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. The Church School, including a special class for collegians and other young adults, meets at 9:30 a.m. For students needing rides, the bus schedule is: 9:10 a.m., West pickup—parking lot along Denison Avenue east of Goodnow Hall, 9:15 a.m. East pickup—street immediately south of Ford Hall, 12:10 p.m. (approximately) bus returns to KSU, the East and West pickup points. (5)

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN Church meets at 2800 Clifton Road (corner of Clifton and Broomfield). Students welcome! Bible study 9:30 a.m., worship 8:15 and 10:45 a.m., Evening Service 6:30 p.m. College Age Sunday School Class meets Sundays, 9:30 a.m. at Valentino's Pizza. For transportation call 776-5440. (5)

First Presbyterian Church 8th & Leavenworth (537-0518)

Celebrates in worship Sunday mornings at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. The Church school, (including University Students) class meets at 9:30 a.m. Pastor Philip Gittings.

For students needing rides, the Blue Bus stops along Denison Ave. along Goodnow Hall at 9:10 and across from Ford Hall at 9:15. Bus returns to campus after 11:00 service.

GRACE BAPTIST Church, 2301 Dickens, welcomes you to Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. and Worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Bus service from dormitories to 8:30 a.m. services and return to dormitories at 11:00 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Bristford, 776-0424. (5)

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 North 5th, Church School 9:45 a.m.; Worship 11:00 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. (5)

CHURCH OF THE Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Service, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6:00 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (5)

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church, 2221 College Heights Road. Bible Study, 9:30 a.m.; Regular Worship, 8:15 and 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Church Training, 6:00 p.m. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (5)

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH 612 Poyntz

8:45 a.m. Holy Communion
First Sunday of the month
9:45 a.m. Church School
11:00 a.m. Worship
5:30 p.m. Chapel Vespers
2nd & 4th Sundays
Charles B. Bennett—minister

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church Welcomes You! 9:15 a.m. Morning Worship 10:15 a.m. Evening Worship 8:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7173. (5)

TRINITY UNITED Presbyterian—Worship Service 10:45 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, 539-3921. (5)

MASSSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m., and 5:00 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily 4:30 p.m. Mass. (5)

WELCOME TO the Church of Christ, 2510 Dickens, Sunday, 9:30 a.m. Bible classes, 10:30 a.m., Worship and Communion, 6:00 p.m., Evening Worship, Harold Mitchell, minister. 539-6581 or 539-9212. (5)

COLLEGE AVENUE United Methodist Church, 1609 College Ave., near KSU Baseball Field, welcomes college singles and couples to study "Faith Meets Life" in our college class or to participate in our other varied adult groups at 9:30 a.m. Choir Practice 8:30 a.m. Worship 10:45 a.m. For transportation call Steve Hughes at 539-4191 or 539-3678. (5)

WELCOME ALL—Unitarian Fellowship of Manhattan Sunday Brunch, 9:00 a.m., Oak Grove Center on Zeandale Road (K&A team), one fourth mile east of K-177. 776-1562. (5)

Professor designs hitting program to help K-State baseball

By GARY VAN CLEAVE
Collegian Reporter

A baseball hitter's most helpful tool is probably his sight. Players like Pete Rose, Rod Carew and Carl Yastrzemski are known for their contact hitting because they watch the ball and never take their eyes off the ball.

Keen vision is a must in the game of baseball, and Larry Noble, associate professor of physical education, dance and leisure studies, has introduced an electronic timer which may offer new insight into the "science" of hitting.

He has been performing research on the mechanics of hitting for the past three years and plans to work with K-State baseball coach Bill Hickey and his players this fall.

Noble described how the device functions.

Two light beams, hanging from the backstop 25 feet above home plate, go straight down toward the plate. Two light sensors, one on each side of home plate, receive the light beams.

"When the bat is swung and comes in front of the first beam it starts the timer. The timer goes off when the bat passes through the second beam," he said.

An oscillator in a metal box, which reads the momentum of the swing, oscillates 400,000 times a second, Noble said.

"It's very precise," Noble said. "It took me quite a while to find this method. I was trying to do the measurement with laser beams, but it cost about $3,000 to build, plus you had the problem of safety when you're working with children."

Noble began work on the project when he was informed about the measuring device which is made by a research company in Texas to measure bullet velocities.

"I got a hold of one of them and modified it for bat velocity and it only cost a hundred dollars," Noble said.

The device measures the speed of the bat before it hits the ball. It can also aid in the player's stance, stride, swing and help him select appropriate bats.

"The only thing my device will allow the batter to do is to check the effect of it on bat speed...to see if the batter can swing harder, faster or concentrate the athlete's attention on one thing or another," Noble said.

Noble has filmed and analyzed top hitters of the University of Illinois baseball team and K-State's. Players from K-State who have been tested are Joe Goedert, Cary Colbert, Scott Pick and Don Grause.

During the summer, Noble measured the bat speed of 100 Little Leaguers, and he still is troubled by the findings of his research.

According to Noble, a 27-inch wood bat has "too much linear and rotational inertia" for a 10-year-old to swing, but for 7-, 8-, and 9-year-olds, 27-inch bats are commonplace. He also found that two 27-inch bats might vary in weight as much as two ounces and the "sweet spot" (the "meat" of the bat) might be more than an inch farther from the end of one bat than the other.

"It is important that a batter select a bat he can control, as well as one with which he can develop adequate momentum," Noble said. "While a batter can increase mass by using a heavier bat, this may result in less bat momentum and bat control."

Can this device actually work? Can it help a batter raise his batting average 20 or 30 points a year?

"I think that it can. I think it can cut down a little on the time and selection of the proper stance and bat," Noble said. "Quite honestly at this stage, though, when a player gets to the college level, he's pretty much figured all that out."

"There are times, though, when they are surprised. So it's in an area where it might help them and it might not," Noble said. "If they're not using the appropriate bat form then the device can help them. If they're already using it, then it won't."

LENA
How was your first week of college?

Love,
Kurt

LEGGIS JEANS
THE DISCOUNT
BLUE JEAN STORE
WHERE YOU BUY
BRAND NAME BLUE JEANS
FOR LESS.
CALVIN KLEIN
EVERY DAY LOW PRICE
$29.95

Hansen Nutrition Center
Food Supplements Natural Foods
Special Dietary Foods Appliances
Body Building Foods Books
"Diet cures what diet causes"
HOURS
9:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Mon.-Sat.
3112 Anderson Ave. 537-4571

* Polley FLORIST 539-7643 *
* HAS RELOCATED *
* 1132 Garden Way *
* Across from Westloop—one block *
* west of Anderson Avenue stoplight *
* FLOWERS FOR EVERY OCCASION *

AUDITIONS FOR MUSIC DEPT. ENSEMBLES

1. Marching Band: See Mr. Stan Finck for audition time.
2. Jazz Band: auditions will be 6-10 p.m., Tues. evening, Aug. 23, Rm. 201, McCain Auditorium. Sign up for times outside of band office, Rm. 226, McCain.
3. Symphonic Band: (Wind Ensemble): Contact Mr. Al Cochran, Rm. 224, McCain for an audition time.
4. Orchestra: Contact Mr. Ralph Winkler, Rm. 113, McCain.
5. Collegium Musicum (early music): Contact Sara Funkhouser, Rm. 223, McCain.

(For further information about any of these groups contact Al Cochran at 532-5740.)

ALL UNIVERSITY STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE
TO AUDITION AND ARE ENCOURAGED TO DO SO.

KEEP ON TRACKIN'

THE CHASE IS ON

KANSAS STATE FOOTBALL '83

Student season tickets on sale now at the Central Ticket Office in Ahearn Fieldhouse
9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

$24 for 6 great games.

It's the game and a lot more!

Al's Deli

718 N MANHATTAN
539-8033

IN AGGIEVILLE

Sunday Special
Super Sub Sale
Serving Sunday 4-8 p.m.

When it
comes to pizza,
PTA comes to you.

Better Pizza!
Better Deal!

PTA's Great

PIZZA
COUPON

537-9500

Feed a Group of Four
For $7⁰⁰

Any Large 1-Item Pizza and 4-14 oz.
Cups of Pepsi Delivered Free.

FREE DELIVERY
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

Manhattan
1127 Moro
CA26

Limited Service Zone
One Discount Per Order
Expires Sept. 28, 1983

Side arm

K-State hosts
Ultimate Frisbee
Tournament
Sports, page 8

Begin stuns Israeli cabinet with resignation

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Menachem Begin announced Sunday he intended to resign but gave his stunned political allies 24 hours to try to change his mind. The decision triggered political turmoil and the prospect of an election two years ahead of schedule.

Begin's announcement, at the end of a routine Cabinet meeting, came without warning and cited no reason.

It was quickly followed by an announcement from Defense Minister Moshe Arens that it would have no effect on plans for Israeli troops to pull back into southern Lebanon soon.

Israel Radio quoted Begin as telling his ministers: "I feel that I am not functioning as a man with my responsibilities should function."

Officials at the meeting said Begin made his announcement in a few softspoken sentences at the end of the Cabinet session.

Those present said his words were greeted with astonished silence, followed by strong protests. "We received the news with pain, sorrow and a refusal to accept it," said Education Minister Zevulun Hammer.

Begin left the Cabinet meeting looking frail and solemn and climbed into his bullet-proof limousine for the short ride to his home. Reporters were kept back and he made no statement.

Cabinet ministers and leaders of the parties in Begin's coalition were unanimous in saying they would fight to change the prime minister's mind.

Supporters set up booths in several public places, seeking signatures on a petition to keep Begin in office.

The 70-year-old prime minister was to meet with heads of the coalition parties Monday before deciding whether to tender his resignation officially to State President Chaim Herzog. His closest allies insisted they did not know whether Begin's decision was final.

Begin has been prime minister for six years and is known to be despondent over the death of his wife in November and the ever-increasing Israeli casualty toll in Lebanon. There has been no indication that Begin is ill, despite a history of heart trouble.

Deputy Prime Minister David Levy said Begin resigned "for personal reasons" but would not spell them out.

Begin's announcement opens three immediate possibilities: He could retract his decision, or resign and form a new coalition, or call an election. Israel Television said the latter was the most likely, adding that the voting would probably be held jointly with municipal elections already set for Oct. 25.

If Begin chooses not to head the next government, the strongest contender for the post is Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, 68, one of the few politicians still alive who go back with Begin to his days as a guerrilla leader fighting the British and Arabs for Israeli independence.

The most popular candidate, according to the polls, is Defense Minister Arens, 57, but he has to be elected to the Knesset, Israel's parliament, in order to serve as prime minister.

He cannot be a candidate unless Begin calls an election.

Also in the running are Levy, 45, a

Moroccan-born former construction laborer who is popular among Sephardi Jews native to Middle Eastern countries, and Finance Minister Yoram Aridor, 49, who has a firm power base in Begin's governing Likud Bloc.

An outside candidate is former Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, who was expelled from Likud in 1981 for rebelling against the prime minister but remains popular with the public. Weizman recently met with Begin, sparking speculation he might be in line to return to a leadership post.

With Sunday an ordinary working day in Israel, people clustered around radios to hear the latest on Begin.

"I'm not a Likud supporter, but Begin is one of the greatest people ever to rule this country and it breaks my heart," said Yehuda Shimoni, manager of a Tel Aviv coffee shop.

Moshe Fidel, a farmer and opponent of Begin's government, said that even if it didn't mean the opposition Labor Party would take over, he hoped for "at least some change in this amateurish government."

The economy, suffering from triple-digit inflation and a ballooning trade deficit, has severely damaged Begin's prestige and led the splinter TAMI faction to threaten to quit his coalition unless the rich are more heavily taxed.

There was speculation on Israel Radio that Begin's move was a ploy intended to dissolve the threat from TAMI — the initials are from the Hebrew words for National Tradition Movement — with a warning of early elections, which TAMI opposes.

A senior adviser of Begin, who declined to be identified, insisted "this is not a trick," and said Begin fully intended to resign although he was open to discussion.

If Begin quits, the opposition Labor Party could claim first option on forming a coalition, since it is the largest faction in the Knesset. But its chances of finding partners to form a majority are slim, since most of the small parties lean towards Begin's nationalist-religious doctrines.

Labor has 50 seats to Likud's 46 in the 120-member Knesset, and Begin governs in coalition with 18 members of small parties.

Marines, Lebanese engage in combat

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — U.S. Marines battled Lebanese militiamen — believed to be Shiite Moslems — for 90 minutes Sunday in the first firefight involving American forces since their arrival last year, a Marine spokesman reported.

Warrant Officer Charles Rowe said the battle broke out about 4:30 p.m. when a joint Marine-Lebanese army checkpoint in the Hayy es-Sulum section of south Beirut came under attack.

"The outpost received two rpg's (rocket-propelled grenades) and some small arms fire, and the Marines returned the fire with rifles and machine guns," Rowe said.

He reported there were no casualties among the defenders and said he did not know if the attackers suffered any losses.

The most serious damage was done by one of the grenades when it hit an abandoned building that is part of the checkpoint, Rowe said.

He said about 30 Marines were manning the outpost along with a smaller number of Lebanese soldiers.

Marine officers assumed the attackers were from the Shiite Moslem militia group, Amal, which had fought Lebanese army troops in Beirut's southern districts and near the international airport south of the capital earlier Sunday afternoon.

That fighting forced the closure of the airport — the second time this month that the country's only international, commercial airport has been shut down because of sectarian fighting.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., where President Reagan is vacationing, assistant White House press secretary C. Anson Franklin issued a statement saying, "There was small arms fire in the area of the Marine emplacement. At one point, they returned fire briefly. There were no American casualties. The president was informed and will continue to be informed."

Late Sunday, state-run Beirut radio reported that Christian and Druse militia traded artillery and rocket fire in the Alek mountains, six miles east of the capital.

Beirut radio and television stations also reported that fighting in low-income suburbs south of the city resumed following a late afternoon lull.

Weather discourages attendance at concert

By LORI BERTELS
Staff Writer

The third annual Welcome Back Concert was a "hot" concert in the literal sense of the word.

High temperatures Sunday afternoon may have been responsible for the relatively small turnout on Weber Hall lawn, but those who braved the heat heard a wide variety of music from three bands.

Opening the concert was the Lawrence-based group, Glee Club. The group played mostly upbeat pop tunes along with a few jazz and rhythm and blues songs.

Next on stage was the Manhattan-based band, the Secrets. As the Secrets played their rock'n'roll, the crowd got a little bigger and a little rowdier.

In regard to the heat, lead singer Brent Hoad said, "Air conditioning's for amateurs."

The Jimmy Dee Band closed the concert with music from the '50s.

There also was a lot of action, such as coordinated movements and dance steps, on stage. And just when the crowd thought the keyboard player was the quiet one of the group, he jumped to the front of the stage, sang and danced to the Stray Cats' song "Rock This Town."

Staff/Allen Eyestone

Jimmy Dee, right, lead singer for the Jimmy Dee Band, encourages the crowd as he does a dance on stage during the third annual Welcome Back Concert Sunday afternoon on Weber Hall lawn.

After redevelopment: Is survival financially impossible?

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

(Last of a series.)

Business owners and lease holders east of Third Street in Manhattan are uncertain about the prospect of downtown redevelopment.

"I'm not against downtown redevelopment," said Doug Long, owner of Mel's Tavern, 111 South Third Street, and Mel's Alley, 113 South Third Street. "I feel something needs to be done, but there's a better location downtown (to put a mall)."

"I think the heart of downtown would be a great location," Long said. "The Woolworth building (Fourth Street) stood vacant for so long, and Houston Street (Pub) was empty, too. All it boils down to is that the city's being unfair to the people down here (in the relocation area)."

If the city goes ahead with the redevelopment and mall project, businesses located east of Third Street from Leavenworth to Pierre Streets, will be relocated. Businesses in the 500 block of Poyntz Avenue also will be relocated as a result of office building projects in the area.

Henry Oppy, owner of Oppy's Standard, has been at 301 Houston Street for 22 years. He said his was the first service station in Manhattan.

Oppy's Standard also would be moved if the downtown redevelopment project is approved, but Oppy is neither for nor against the project.

"I'd just as soon stay here," he said. "But if it goes through, I guess I'll move. I have two lots behind the bulk plant (111 Third Street) where I could relocate, if the arterial goes in. If the arterial doesn't go in, I might look for something else."

The southern arterial is designed to improve access across south Manhattan and to keep highway traffic off residential streets and out of the downtown area.

David Kershaw, of Kershaw Ready-Mix Concrete and Sand Co. Inc., said he would like to see a timetable for downtown redevelopment. Kershaw Ready-Mix also would be relocated when development begins.

"We have a pretty big entity to move," he said. "A timetable would be nice so we could make plans to move the plant."

Jean Farrell, of Farrell TV and Electronics, 215 Poyntz Ave., is opposed to the mall project. She said the project needed a timetable.

Long, whose two establishments would be relocated, said the city won't tell him what they'll pay for his buildings.

"My property's worth $75,000 to $80,000 for the tavern alone," Long said. "I have two good businesses that are paid for," Long said. "I imagine they (city) would move me, but they wouldn't put me back into business. My rent would be five or six times as much as my property tax is now."

Long said he'll start legal condemnation procedures with the city to try to get the money his property is worth — if he is forced to move his businesses.

Long said he feels "handcuffed." He's looking for property, but said property prices will inflate because other merchants also will need land if the Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) application is approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. He said he can't move now, because the city cannot help him relocate until the UDAG application is approved.

"I'll still own the property, but they'll have the right to go in and tear it down," Long said.

The city has set aside $8.25 million for acquisition of property and relocation of businesses, but Long said he doesn't believe this is enough money.

"I talked to the assistant redevelopment coordinator at Wausau (Wis.), and they (Wausau's city staff) set aside $16 million for acquisition and relocation. They had six square blocks (of businesses to relocate) and we have 12. We only have one-fourth to one-third of what it's going to take to move everybody."

The city of Wausau has a population of 32,000 and recently completed an enclosed downtown mall.

Long, whose current building payments are $1,200 per month, also asked the coordinator in Wausau how much it would cost to rent space in their mall.

If he moved his tavern and club into the Wausau Mall, the rent for a comparable amount of square feet, public spaces, storage and office space would be $14,383 each month.

"If they (the city) made a fair offer, 90 percent of the people would say go ahead...I would like to know how much that's going to be (relocation funding) so I can have time to work my future around," Long said.

"If they're going to put me out of business, what will they do to put me back in?" he wondered.

Staff/Allen Eyestone

Doug Long, owner of Mel's Tavern and Mel's Alley, is concerned with how the proposed downtown redevelopment will affect his businesses.

'Convincer' to promote safety belt use

By The Collegian Staff

The "Convincer," a device developed by the Kansas Department of Transportation to illustrate the benefits of wearing safety belts, will be on campus Wednesday, and K-State Police Lieutenant Jim Tubach said he hopes the machine will live up to its name.

U.S. Department of Transportation statistics state that of the more than 35,000 traffic deaths each year, over half could have been prevented by the use of safety belts. The Convincer is part of an effort to promote their use.

Tubach said KDOT and campus police will cooperate in the campus demonstration, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. between the Union and Seaton Hall. Student participation will be encouraged.

Approximately the length of a small room, the Convincer consists of a movable metal car seat with a safety belt at one end of a metal track. The seat slides down the track and collides into a metal barrier.

The speed of the seat's descent, which can be either four, seven or 10 miles per hour, is determined by the angle of the track. After the simulated collision, the seat is returned to the starting position by a motor and locked into place until the rider is ready to go.

Riders will be insulated from the impact of the simulated collision by the safety belt. The intent is to illustrate the amount of force that is produced even at low speeds and to show the effect of the safety belt in protecting the passenger.

"Once you ride down in it at four miles per hour and come to a sudden stop, you'll be convinced," Tubach said. The seemingly slow speeds are deceptive, he said.

"I rode down in it at four miles per hour, and I wouldn't want to ride it any faster."

Tubach said campus police made a special request for use of the device before Labor Day because of the number of students who will be driving during the weekend.

Operators return to work under tentative settlement

By The Associated Press

Telephone operators began returning to work Sunday after a three-week, nationwide strike against American Telephone & Telegraph Co. ended with local agreements between a union and the last of 34 Bell System subsidiaries.

"As soon as the picket lines came down, some of the people came into the offices, even though they weren't scheduled to work, just to celebrate together," said Bob Sells, a spokesman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Little Rock. "There was absolute jubilation."

Tentative agreement on the last local contracts was reached at 2:05 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Sunday between the Communications Workers of America and two AT&T subsidiaries, Bell of Pennsylvania and Western Electric, said CWA spokeswoman Rozanne Weissman.

Union officials said those returning to work and relieving management personnel were operators and others scheduled to work Sunday. The rest of the CWA's 525,000 members were told to go back to work Monday at their regular starting times.

Even though a national agreement was reached Aug. 21, settlement of the strike, which began Aug. 7, was held up by local negotiations between CWA and the 34 Bell subsidiaries.

"I will have no problem presenting it to the membership," said Kansas City CWA president John Gieseke. "The agreement will be ratified, at least in our local."

The CWA said the tentative nationwide contract provides an immediate 5.5 percent pay raise, or $30 a week, for employees who have been with AT&T for five years.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS is now taking applications for legislative assembly delegates. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL SEAT now open. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

ARTS AND SCIENCES STUDENT SEAT now available. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS is taking applications for 1983-84 steering committee. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

AGRICULTURE STUDENTS: One position is left for student senator. Pick up applications in Waters 120 and return by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

PHI KAPPA TAU LITTLE SISTERS will meet at 10 p.m. at the Phi Tau House.

INFORMATION AND SIGN UP MEETING will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 1 for the Winfield Bluegrass Festival Mini Trip. Sign up will continue through 4 p.m. Sept. 8. Sign up in Union Activities Center.

TODAY

ENGINEERING COUNCIL meets at 6:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

MARKETING CLUB membership sign up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Aug. 29 to Sept. 1 in Calvin Hall, first floor. Resume catalog service is available for members.

HOME ECONOMICS COUNCIL meets at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254.

BETA ALPHA PSI meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212. Program topic is "Public vs. Private Accounting."

AG STUDENTS AND FACULTY meet at 7 p.m. south of Waters Hall for the annual watermelon feed.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m. in Union 213.

MORTAR BOARD meets at 9 p.m. in the Justin Hall Lounge.

FARMHOUSE LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at Farmhouse.

KSU HORSEMAN'S ASSOCIATION OFFICERS meet at 7:30 p.m. in Weber Hall lobby.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union Big 8 Room.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR DECORATORS - KSU STUDENT CHAPTER meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 207.

TUESDAY

KSU HORSEMAN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 107.

AG COMMUNICATORS OF TOMORROW meet at 6:30 p.m. in Kedzie 216.

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

NAMA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

WHEAT STATE AGRONOMY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

GERMAN TABLE meets at noon in Union Stateroom 1. Anyone interested in German conversation is welcome.

INDEPENDENT READING PROGRAM meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 173 for an organizational meeting.

HOME ECONOMIC OPEN HOUSE STEERING COMMITTEE EXECUTIVES meet at 4:15 p.m. in Hoffman Lounge in Justin Hall.

ADULT & OCCUPATIONAL GRADUATE CLUB meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 2. Dr. Charles Oakley will be speaking on non-credit adult learning.

KANSAS STATE STUDENT SPEECH LANGUAGE HEARING ASSOCIATION will meet at 5:30 p.m. in the City Park near the shelter house for a picnic and meeting. Bring your favorite dish.

ENGINEERING AMBASSADORS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE meet at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

KSU AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meet at 7 p.m. in Seaton 164K to discuss important business for coming year. All Hams invited to attend, members or not.

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING (ALL MAJORS) meet for placement orientation meeting from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

MATH, PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY, CHEMICAL SCIENCE, BIOCHEMISTRY, GEOLOGY, GEOPHYSICS, STATISTICS MAJORS meet for placement orientation meeting from 4 to 4:50 p.m. in Eisenhower 15.

Join COLLEGE REPUBLICANS

THIS IS STATE MEMBERSHIP WEEK
AUG. 29 - SEPT. 2

Stop by TABLE No. 1 in the UNION

DARK HORSE TAVERN

Monday
$2.25 Pitchers
7-10
619 N. Manhattan

INTERNATIONAL FOODS

921 N. Washington
Junction City, Ks.
Phone: 238-7654

Foods from
Puerto Rico, Trinidad,
Norte, Centro, Sur America,
Nigeria, Jamaica, Thailand,
China, Mexico, Germany
and many other countries.

OPEN
10 a.m.-6 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

Manhattan Montessori School
a Christian approach
1225 Bertrand

Limited afternoon openings (2-4:15) for 2½ year olds through kindergarten.

Manhattan Montessori School is beginning its 8th school year this fall. The public is invited to find out more about it. Call 539-8014 and set a time to come by & visit the school.

Lee London Rider
Regular $28.95

On Sale Now
Just $24.95

1207 Laramie
Aggieville

10% off all DANKIN Leotards & Tights and Capezio Ballet & Toe Shoes . . .

at Ballard's Sporting Goods
—headquarters for your dance and exercise apparel needs.

Ballard's IN AGGIEVILLE

Experience the Basics
Be all you can be Army ROTC

Army ROTC Fall Schedule

COURSE	TITLE	CR	HR	SECT	TYPE	REF	No.	DAYS	HOURS
MSCI 100	Mountaineering	01	A	REC	17050	M	0230
		01	B	REC	17060	M	0330
		01	C	REC	17070	T	0330
		01	D	REC	17080	W	0830
MSCI 102	Basic Rifle	01	A	REC	17090	M	0830
		01	B	REC	17100	M	0930
		01	C	REC	17110	T	0830
		01	D	REC	17120	T	0930
		01	E	REC	17130	W	0830
		01	F	REC	17140	W	0930
		01	G	REC	17150	W	0230
		01	H	REC	17160	U	0830
		01	I	REC	17170	APPT
MSCI 103	Orienteering	01	A	REC	17180	T	0830
		01	B	REC	17190	T	0130
		01	C	REC	17200	W	0830
MSCI 200	Leadership & Leaders	01	A	REC	17210	M	0930
		01	B	REC	17220	T	0130
MSCI 201	Leadership Guidance	01	A	REC	17230	U	0830
		01	B	REC	17240	U	0130
MSCI 202	Map Reading	01	A	REC	17250	M	0930
		01	B	REC	17260	W	0930
MSCI 203	Care of Combat Casualty	01	A	REC	17270	M	0830
		01	B	REC	17280	T	0830
		01	C	REC	17290	T	0930

University for Man Registration
Wednesday, August 31, 9am-2pm
K-State Union

Dog Obedience
Stockmarket Basics
Pocket Billiards
Swing Dance
Beer Making
Tanning Hides
Aerobics
Diamonds

Luncheon Financial Series
Self Defense for Women
Quilting
Kayaking
Astronomy
Pizza
Cooking for L&L
Weight Control

Catalog Available - K-State Union, Farrell Library

The Palace
GIFTS AND NECESSITIES

Open til 8:30 Mon.-Thurs.

- Cards • Candy • Cosmetics • Candles • Baskets •
- Memo Boards • Party Supplies •
- Posters • Film Processing •

SERVE YOURSELF AT OUR FOUNTAIN GIFTS GALORE!

GIFT REGISTRY—MASTERCARD/VISA

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville 539-7654

10th NITE MONDAYS!

10th

• 10th Second Draws & Pitchers 8-11 PM!

ROCKIN' K BAR

K

TUES. IS LONG NECK NITE!

Tau Kappa Epsilon Little Sister Rush Party
Tuesday, Aug. 30
6:30 p.m.-8:00 p.m.

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291-020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor..... Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager..... John McGrath

Closed Classes as of Today.

00000	04000	06000	05500	09120	10180	11490	14010	15130	20060	22070	24540	26120	27510	30030	33300	34440	35430	36050
00080	04120	07160	08410	09130	10190	11700	14090	15260	20070	22080	24550	26130	27520	30040	33310	34450	35440	36060
00120	04160	07200	08450	09170	10230	11740	14130	15300	20110	22120	24580	26160	27550	30070	33340	34480	35470	36090
00160	04200	07240	08490	09210	10270	11780	14170	15340	20150	22160	24600	26180	27570	30090	33360	34500	35490	36110
00200	04240	07280	08530	09250	10310	11820	14210	15380	20200	22210	24640	26220	27610	30130	33400	34540	35530	36150
00240	04280	07320	08570	09290	10350	11860	14250	15420	20240	22250	24680	26260	27650	30170	33440	34580	35570	36190
00280	04320	07360	08610	09330	10390	11900	14290	15460	20280	22290	24720	26300	27690	30210	33480	34620	35610	36230
00320	04360	07400	08650	09370	10430	11940	14330	15500	20320	22330	24760	26340	27730	30250	33520	34660	35650	36270
00360	04400	07440	08690	09410	10470	11980	14370	15540	20360	22370	24800	26380	27770	30290	33560	34700	35690	36310
00400	04440	07480	08730	09450	10510	12020	14410	15580	20400	22410	24840	26420	27810	30330	33600	34740	35730	36350
00440	04480	07520	08770	09490	10550	12060	14450	15620	20440	22450	24880	26460	27850	30370	33640	34780	35770	36390
00480	04520	07560	08810	09530	10590	12100	14490	15660	20480	22490	24920	26500	27890	30410	33680	34820	35810	36430
00520	04560	07600	08850	09570	10630	12140	14530	15700	20520	22530	24960	26540	27930	30450	33720	34860	35850	36470
00560	04600	07640	08890	09610	10670	12180	14570	15740	20560	22570	25000	26580	27970	30490	33760	34900	35890	36510
00600	04640	07680	08930	09650	10710	12220	14610	15780	20600	22610	25040	26620	28010	30530	33800	34940	35930	36550
00640	04680	07720	08970	09690	10750	12260	14650	15820	20640	22650	25080	26660	28050	30570	33840	34980	35970	36590
00680	04720	07760	09010	09730	10790	12300	14690	15860	20680	22690	25120	26700	28090	30610	33880	35020	36010	36630
00720	04760	07800	09050	09770	10830	12340	14730	15900	20720	22730	25160	26740	28130	30650	33920	35060	36050	36670
00760	04800	07840	09090	09810	10870	12380	14770	15940	20760	22770	25200	26780	28170	30690	33960	35100	36090	36710
00800	04840	07880	09130	09850	10910	12420	14810	15980	20800	22810	25240	26820	28210	30730	34000	35140	36130	36750
00840	04880	07920	09170	09890	10950	12460	14850	16020	20840	22850	25280	26860	28250	30770	34040	35180	36170	36790
00880	04920	07960	09210	09930	10990	12500	14890	16060	20880	22890	25320	26900	28290	30810	34080	35220	36210	36830
00920	04960	08000	09250	09970	11030	12540	14930	16100	20920	22930	25360	26940	28330	30850	34120	35260	36250	36870
00960	05000	08040	09290	10010	11070	12580	14970	16140	20960	22970	25400	26980	28370	30890	34160	35300	36290	36910
01000	05040	08080	09330	10050	11110	12620	15010	16180	21000	23010	25440	27020	28410	30930	34200	35340	36330	36950
01040	05080	08120	09370	10090	11150	12660	15050	16220	21040	23050	25480	27060	28450	30970	34240	35380	36370	36990
01080	05120	08160	09410	10130	11190	12700	15090	16260	21080	23090	25520	27100

U.S.-Israeli relations may improve with Begin resignation

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — State Department officials believe Prime Minister Menachem Begin is serious about wanting to resign, an action that should lead to smoother U.S.-Israeli relations but probably little change in Israel's basic policies.

Although officials questioned Sunday didn't rule out that Begin might be threatening a resignation as a ploy to rally support for his policies, they thought it more likely the 70-year-old prime minister intended to resign, if not immediately then in the near future.

"My own feeling is he has just had enough, and he is hanging it up," said one Mideast expert who insisted he not be identified.

Begin canceled a trip to Washington to meet with President Reagan in July, citing personal reasons. That led some State Department experts to conclude a resignation might not be far off.

But officials here and with the president in Santa Barbara, Calif., said they were not informed in advance of Begin's announcement of his intention to resign, made to a meeting of his Cabinet Sunday. Larry Speakes, the White House deputy press secretary, said U.S. officials first learned of the development through news reports.

State Department spokesman Sandra McCarty said, "This is an internal Israeli political matter and it would not be appropriate for us to comment on this issue."

Begin is thought here to have been in a weakened physical and mental state since the death of his wife last year. There also is informed speculation that he has been depressed by the outcome of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, which he supported, and the large number of Israeli casualties, the criticism of the invasion in Israel and Israel's difficulty in extricating itself from Lebanon with its goals only partly realized.

Israeli Ambassador Meir Rosenne said Sunday he thought there would be "a final attempt" by the Israeli Cabinet to try and talk Begin out of resigning at a meeting on Monday. Rosenne said on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley" that even if there is a resignation, the government becomes a transitional government until there are elections or someone else forms a new government.

He said Begin's Likud coalition would try to name a successor if Begin resigns. The other major party is the Labor party, headed by Shimon Peres.

"I think in foreign policy there isn't much difference between the two parties," Rosenne said, an obvious reference to the feeling among many U.S. officials that Labor party would be more reasonable in trying to work out an agreement to end the Israeli occupation of the West Bank.

But a State Department official said Peres might be given the first chance to form a new government since Labor has more members in the Knesset, 50, than the Likud party, which has 48. The Likud rules through a coalition with smaller parties. The most likely successors to Begin in the opinion of several officials here are David Levi, the deputy prime minister, and Moshe Arens, the defense minister and former ambassador to Washington. Yitzhak Shamir, the foreign minister, also is considered a leading candidate.

Support the
March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

MR. K'S

Monday is

PROGRESSIVE PITCHERS!

- $1.50 Pitchers 7-8
- $1.75 Pitchers 8-9
- $2.00 Pitchers 9-10

2 FER TUESDAY TOMORROW!

LUNCH SPECIAL
Monday-Saturday

A gigantic
BBQ BEEF SANDWICH
WITH FRIES
$2.95

Try our MONDAY NIGHT BBQ DINNER SPECIAL

at Hibachi Hut
ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MORD IN AGGIEVILLE

608 N. 12th 539-9906
Coupon Expires 9/3/83—Not valid with other offers

Welcome Back KSU Students!

Come to scrumpdillyishusland for all your favorite Dairy Queen Treats!

Dairy Queen Brazier

1015 North 3rd • Manhattan

©Copyright 1974, Am. D.Q. Corp.

FLYING LESSONS AIRCRAFT RENTAL PILOT SERVICES free ground instruction flexible scheduling reasonable rates

J. Van Swaay

537-0132

Monday

Hi Rollers

$1.50

(9-3)

at

COWBOY PALACE

Where it don't make no difference

209 Pointz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

Welcome Back!

$2.00 off a haircut with this ad.

Student I.D. required
expires Sept. 16, 1983

REDKEN Nexxus New Man
210 Humboldt
776-5651

Auntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

MAE'S LUNCH

Monday-Friday
11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

FRENCH DIP

with your choice of Chips, Cottage Cheese,
Potato Salad or
Fresh Fruit $2.00

Wine with Lunch,
as always,
is 2 for the price of 1

Expires Sept. 3, 1983

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Let's hear it for the Yearbook!

"CHEESE"

Your yearbook portrait will be taken at:

Union 209

Mon.-Fri. 8:30-12:15 and 1:30-5:15

Beginning TODAY

Sign up now for appointments in Union 209.
Don't be left out of the Royal Purple!

(If you haven't purchased a yearbook or picture sitting, come to Kedzie 103 between 8-5, 1984 Royal Purple: $9.50; Picture sitting: $3.50)

LATE TO CLASS AGAIN?

Because You Couldn't Find A Parking Space?

YAMAHA QT50K

NOW ONLY 399.00*

*Price includes freight and set up

M-F 9-5:30
Sat. 9-12:00

BROOKS YAMAHA

Hwy 24 E. of K-Mart, Manhattan

QT50K
Yamahopper

Yamahoppers can be parked with bicycles on campus. They also get approx. 100 mpg.

776-6371

AMERICAN BAPTIST CAMPUS MINISTRY

Baptist Campus Center 1801 Anderson
539-3051

FELLOWSHIP MEAL AND WORSHIP

5-7 P.M.-TUESDAYS
Dave Stewart-Campus Minister

COUPON

I NEED A HUG
Clip and cash in when you're feeling low
No limit-No expiration

Houseplants
Florida's Finest

Don't miss our 5th annual
Truckload SALE!!!

- | | |
|---------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 4 1/2' Areca Palms... $14.95 | 5' Weeping Fig $24.95 |
| 4' Yucca Cane or Tip... $14.95 | 8' Norfolk Pine $34.95 |
| 3' Hawaiian Sheflera... $14.95 | 4' Norfolk Pine $19.95 |
| 3 1/2' Rubber Tree... $14.95 | 5' Dracaena... $24.95 |
| 3' Philodendron Sellom $14.95 | 5' Corn Plant $24.95 |
| 4 1/2' Weeping Fig $14.95 | Full Fan Palms $19.95 |
| 3 Kinds of Crotons $14.95 | Differnbachia $24.95 |
| 3' Hawaiian Ti... $14.95 | Chinese Evergreen $11.95 |
| 4' Reg. Sheflera... $17.95 | Boston Fern Baskets $5.99 |

We don't say "TRUCKLOAD" just as a gimmick — We actually went to Florida and personally selected the prettiest, healthiest, biggest plants we could find for the money. Don't miss this once a year opportunity!

Open 9-9 daily.
Westside Market
Just west of town on K-18 (Ft. Riley Blvd.) by the Holidome

FINE FRUITS
FRESH VEGIES
FAST SERVICE

ENTERTAINMENT
August-September

31 JIM SWENEY & THE JUMPSHOTZ
—Pop Rock—

2 THE ZOO
—Reggae—

3 MOJO
—Rock, Blues—

the Avalon

1122 Moro UPSTAIRS 539-9703

Groups must live by the rules

Tribunal is to be applauded for its decision Thursday to uphold the University Activities Board's denial of campus registration to Maranatha Christian Assembly.

While the original controversy involving Maranatha concerned the question of brainwashing after a University professor had his daughter, a former member of the group, "deprogrammed," the ruling by UAB dealt with other areas.

So, though the question of whether the group is brainwashing its members remains a gray area, the violations Maranatha was found guilty of are clearly black and white issues.

The first violation dealt with the group's failure to file notice with UAB four weeks before holding a fund-raiser. The other two violations were both in the area of the UAB Policy Concerning Religious Activities. The first of these concerned Maranatha's lack of honesty in omitting the group's name from advertisements of group-sponsored activities.

UAB also decided that the group had violated several guidelines concerning religious activities in residence halls, including distribution of theological literature other than in the main lobby or at the main desk and practicing door-to-door theological discussion or solicitation.

While it is not our wish for any student group to be wronged through denial of the right of registration, we agree with UAB and Tribunal in the decision. All groups must act within the guidelines set up by the University for the protection of the student body.

We hope this decision will urge all campus groups to operate within the guidelines provided by UAB. No group should practice deception to gain membership, nor should it break the rules to achieve its goals.

Meeting the medical costs

Who would offer rewards to the unproductive and punish those who would rather work? The State of Kansas has done just that in the case of David Rookstool of Emporia. Rookstool and his wife have two sons, the eldest of whom has a rare blood-vessel condition in his brain.

While Rookstool was going to school and collecting welfare, the state was paying the medical bills for his sick boy. However, since he has accepted a job, the medical coverage has been withdrawn. The boy is expected to eventually die of a stroke unless he receives treatment, scheduled for September at the New York University Medical Center.

Because the disease is rare, the Rookstools have had trouble finding any organization or agency to help pay the medical bills.

The state has already invested nearly $50,000 in the boy's lack of good health. The September treatment for Bucky is expected to cost $20,000 to $25,000.

Rookstool's new job, however, pays only about $10,000 a year.

From the perspective of straight buying power, the Rookstools are better off now than when they were collecting welfare checks. But with the loss of the medical care, they are losing out. It will take years for them to get out of debt if they borrow for the treatment.

The situation makes us wonder why welfare recipients (who frequently prefer to not work) should be rewarded for their failure to produce, while those who work for a living (even if they do not make enough to meet their expenses) suffer to make ends meet?

Our system of state health care needs to be re-examined. There is no need for those who require medical attention to go deeply in debt or even die without the treatment, merely because they cannot afford the costs. The difference between life and death should not be measured with a dollar sign.

Utilizing your tuition dollars

At first it seemed outrageous. Tuition is how much this year? What for?

For a coliseum that we'll never get to use? For the rising cost of education and instruction that doesn't stop at the price of tuition and is not going towards the salaries of instructors? For services of the well-debated Holton Hall which serves only specific audiences? For academic computer training when we already have a computer science department?

These changes, whether new or increased fees, resulted in an $87.75 increase on students' personal finances.

That $87.75 could have paid for 29 pitchers of beer, 98 TV dinners or 117 loads of laundry. Instead, we choose to accept what is called the rising cost of education and pay the price to get our fee cards stamped and our IDs punched.

Slow change is more easily unnoticed.

When students paid $238 per semester for tuition 10 years ago, who would have thought it would more than double in a decade?

This year's tuition increased 20 percent. At this rate, in 10 years, the generation of K-State students, who'll be the first to use the proposed coliseum, will pay $3,408.50 per semester for their education.

Watch out for slow changes.

Now unless you want to transfer "down" to the University of Kansas where the tuition is $16.50 less than what you just paid, the best thing to do is make the most out of your $550.50.

EDEE DALKE
Collegian Columnist

To begin this optimistic view of a pessimistic situation, consider the "incidental" part of tuition — $410 (as long as you're a Kansan). This is said to cover "approximately 20 to 25 percent of instructional costs."

The other 75 to 80 percent comes from government funding. The 2,408,000 residents of Kansas pay taxes for the University to function. Many of these paying patrons have never stepped foot on our campus — let alone have children that will ever attend K-State. If it weren't for these governments subsidies, we'd be paying $1,600 each semester.

Also, think of the opportunities to get your money's worth out of the $55 "student health fee." It would cost you between $19 and $25 for a doctor's appointment at a local hospital.

As long as you can survive the wait, you can see a doctor for free at Lafene Student Health Clinic. In other words, to make use of the money you have spent on Lafene, you need to get sick about three times this fall.

You also have paid $15 in order to work out by funding the K-State recreation administration and the programs it offers. This enables you to use courts, pools, fields, the weight and exercise room and the soon-to-be-added saunas. A local health club offers only a part of these facilities and their cost is $195 per semester.

For the $25 "activity fee" you paid, you purchased interest in 28 different campus organizations — along with the chance to watch the folly of Student Senate as it rations the dollars and cents to these groups each year.

Just to mention a few, this includes: free legal advice which would be costing you about $15 per half hour; $3 for a subscription to the Collegian which would cost $15 per semester; $2 to have fine arts on campus (whether or not you can afford to go to them); $12 to make use of the Union where spending an afternoon sleeping on a couch could make up for a $24 room at a motel in town; and many other services or organizations that can satisfy almost every need.

Creativity is needed, whether it is by the administration, thinking of ways to spend your tuition, or by you thinking of ways to use what's spent.

Get your $550.50 worth out of K-State. Just get plenty of exercise at the rec center, get into legal problems, and get sick at least once a month.

And remember, next year you'll have to be even more creative.

"THIS HERE'S THE NEW LANDING STRIP FOR THE SHUTTLE COLUMBIA, YOU DINGDONG — NOT THE COLOMBIAN SHUTTLE!"

Downtown malls

Downtown malls and redevelopment schemes are in the consciousness of a great many people these days in many towns and cities in this country. And this has been going on for quite a number of years.

I don't remember where or when I first heard of a downtown redevelopment program. It was, at the very latest, after the end of World War II. Such programs probably were being talked about before then, even.

Places like Pottstown, Pa.; Upland, Calif.; and Chapel Hill, N.C. — (in all of which I have lived at one time or another) — have gone through this process. I've read about such programs being planned — later to be argued about, sometimes accepted, sometimes rejected — in Boise, Idaho; Jonesboro, Ark.; Wausau, Wis.; Las Cruces, N.M.; and Omaha, Neb. — as well as in various suburban areas near St. Louis, Los Angeles, Chicago, Boston, and New York.

I imagine that in every state of this country there have been communities that have considered the idea of downtown improvement in the wake of the old main street aging.

When the question came up in all of these places, there had to result a choosing up of sides. Some people would be for it. Some would be against it. Some would say it cost too much. Others would say it ought to be done, regardless of cost. Local newspapers would editorialize about it. Letters in support and letters against would be written to the editor. Speeches would be made. Politicians would run for office, taking a stand one way or the other as part of the reason for being elected.

JOEL CLIMENHAGA
Collegian Columnist

Conversations would occur on the subject — some friendly, some angry — in the barbershops, pool halls, banks, bars, churches on a Sunday morning, gas stations, anywhere that two or more people might be.

And then, after awhile, it would all get settled — sooner or later, one way or the other.

I have an opinion as to how it ought to be settled — that is, how it ought to be considered beforehand in order to reach a proper settlement — just as I have an opinion on almost any subject. (Not that my opinion is any better — or any worse — than the opinion of someone else. Only that it is my opinion.)

As a side comment, I caution the citizens of any community considering such an issue as this from believing too much of what the politicians say about the matter. A common characteristic of most politicians is an extraordinary tendency to forget many statements made in a campaign once they are elected.

At the heart of my opinion as to what ought to be considered beforehand is a question I never hear raised. I've never heard the question asked by others nor have I ever read the question in any newspaper article about the subject. Because I've never heard the question asked, I have to wonder if city councils, or residents of a town, when considering malls or other redevelopment schemes, ever ask themselves: "What will this town look like to the eyes of a boy or girl now 10 years old who comes back here to visit in 50 years?" Or to the eyes of someone 20, just about to leave to take a job somewhere else, when that person comes back 40 years from now to track down old acquaintances?

It happens that I've lived in a considerable number of different places during my life. And from the time I was very young, going wherever it was my preacher-father went, I've traveled back and forth, up and down, many many times through this country.

As I've grown older, one of my greatest joys has been to return to these places in which I once lived — to see what they look like now.

In later columns I'll write about some of these places. My memory of what these places were when I was 10 and 20 is keen. I'll describe them through the poetic eyes of my memory, as well as what they are now.

All of them have changed, of course.

But some, even in changing, preserved the historical flavor of what they had been. Others, sadly, shoveled their past into gutters alongside vacant lots — having ignored the memory behind the eyes of a person once 10 years old.

Here and now briefs

WASHINGTON — American colleges may have found the way to avoid a revival of 1960s-style campus activism, and also shoot themselves in the foot.

Such are the unfortunate implications of this month's College Board summary of tuition costs across the country. On the average, the Board says, students will have to pay $4,700 to attend public universities and colleges and $8,500 at private institutions — 12 percent and 11 percent more, respectively, than they did last year.

Meanwhile, in the real world, the Consumer Price Index rose only 2.6 percent for the year ending last June 30.

Higher-edflation has not gone without its defense by administrators, who readily declare that since the mid-1970s college costs increased slower than inflation and are only now catching up.

Yet it has burdened today's students with weighty financial considerations. According to Education Department estimates, for example, participation in the Guaranteed Student Loan program will this fall top 2.8 million, or 36 percent of the nation's 7.2 million full-time students; in 1970, with perhaps two-thirds the number of eligible students, there were only 860,000 guaranteed loans. Meanwhile, a recent UCLA study found that 66 percent of all seniors at four-year institutions held at least a part-time job during school last year, compared to 36 percent in 1971.

Financial obligation, one hopes, encourages responsible behavior, but excessive doses of it can foster the narrow-minded focus — money, money, money — common on campus today. In excessive quantities, it makes law, medical and business schools so perfunctorily popular, and activism and liberal arts out of vogue.

When the price of knowledge takes

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

such a toll, academia's recent concerns about the direction of higher education and college students seem rather amusing.

American culture may have found its highest expression, but you can soon judge for yourself.

This fall MCA Television will premiere "The Pop 'N' Rocker Game." As one might suspect, contestants will field questions about rock'n'roll trivia and then, according to promotional material, "at the drop of a correct answer, the stage explodes into a surprise performance by that top rock'n'roll star"

Such are the extremes that some production companies will go to succeed in the wake of cable television's extraordinarily popular Music Television (MTV).

A wonderful piece of bureaucratic babble, from a recent 150-page Federal Reserve Board report on credit card use: Following a two-year study, the Fed concluded that plastic money turns consumers into neither big spenders nor impulse buyers.

How is Honduras receiving its present dose of 5,000 U.S. troops? According to The London Daily Telegraph, many Honduran newspapers side with Tegucigalpa support for the deployment. One daily, however, the independent El Tiempo, headlined a recent editorial, "Everything is lost, including honor."

Many Hondurans may only believe that the U.S. dollars brought by American Marines are worth as much as any show of force.

Banned for two decades until 1981 as decadent and bourgeois, body-building is making a strong comeback in China. The sport is drawing lots of bodies into classes offered at Shanghai's Sports Palace.

The international marketing firm of Frost and Sullivan has published a "United States Defense Equipment Catalog," a first attempt by U.S. arms makers to promote their wares through a comprehensive catalog. Frost and Sullivan intends to limit the book's sales to an "elite international audience" of 5,000.

Two books on women's rights, due out this fall, are sure to draw different conclusions. Utah senator Orrin Hatch, who is leading the fight against the many-lived Equal Rights Amendment, has written a book on the measure's many ills. Meanwhile, Eleanor Smeal, former president of the National Organization for Women and still active as a Washington consultant, is working to complete a book on women's growing electoral power and their unfinished legislative agenda.

Letters

Dedication doesn't pay the bills

Editor,
You can blame the typesetter, the proofreader or ??? The fact remains, the Collegian is full of grammar and construction errors. At the same time the paper blasts education, one sees journalism as not being any above the same criticism. Secondly, if teachers cannot strike, how can they ever catch up with AT&T? Being dedicated to teaching, being dedicated to students and being dedicated to a school system are not worth much when the AT&T bill, the electric bill, the food bill, and yes, even the KSU tuition bill rolls around. Be realistic with teachers. The "I just love children" syndrome pays few bills.

R.L. Ohlsen Jr.
Assoc. prof. special education

K-State under scrutiny; officials question priorities

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's educational priorities are being questioned by agricultural professionals, a state spokesman said, and a joint meeting of the Kansas House of Representatives and Senate Agricultural Committees will meet Tuesday and Wednesday on campus to familiarize themselves with University's goals.

Raney Gilliland, a spokesman for the Kansas Legislative Research Department, said the future of K-State's agriculture plans have been criticized by agriculture's private sector.

"There has been some questioning of the University's priorities as far as agricultural endeavors," Gilliland said.

Meat organizations, in one case, are questioning the restoration progress of Weber Hall's meat laboratory.

"There's some concern, and one that I know of is the remodeling and expansion of Weber Hall," Gilliland said. "That has not received top priority from the University, and I think some of the livestock...people question that."

The committees, headed by Fred Kerr, Republican senator from Pratt, and Bill Fuller, Republican representative from Miltonvale, will begin their hearings at 9 a.m. Tuesday in Union 212.

The committees will meet in the same room both days, and the meetings are open to the public.

Tuesday morning, the committees will meet to hear University officials brief them on the University's mission as a land grant university. After lunch, the committees will visit Shellenberger, Waters, Weber and Throckmorton Halls.

The session resumes at 9 a.m. Wednesday with University administrators reviewing agriculture teaching, research and extension programs.

Agricultural professionals will have their chance Wednesday afternoon to air their views about K-State's agricultural future.

Talking machine aids sight-impaired students

By LAURI DIEHL
Collegian Reporter

The computer speaks with a metallic, but not unpleasant, voice as it reads a typewritten copy of "The Star Spangled Banner."

A machine that speaks is no longer a science fiction. Farrell Library recently received a Kurzweil Reading Machine which can read printed material aloud for visually-impaired students and faculty.

The reading machine, valued at $29,800, was a gift from the Xerox Corp. It was one of 200 machines given to colleges and universities throughout the country. Wichita State University and the University of Kansas received similar machines.

The reading machine has different programs for different reading material, such as typewritten or printed pages. It cannot read handwriting, italics, pictures, red ink or languages other than English.

The machine uses an Optical Character Recognition System which scans the page and recognizes each printed character. It then groups the letters into words and pronounces them.

"The computer has been programmed with 1,000 linguistic rules and 1,500 exceptions to these rules," said Virginia Quiring, associate dean of libraries. "This allows the machine to pronounce the words."

The reading machine does more than read. It also can serve as a calculator. Numbers are entered on a keyboard like an adding machine. The machine will pronounce each number entered and the mathematical function being used.

When all numbers have been entered, it will say the answer. Quiring was the first to be trained to use the machine.

"The reading machine arrived at the end of June," Quiring said. "But it had to be installed, and I went for training on how to use the machine in August."

Quiring will train three other staff members who will train visually-impaired students and faculty to use the machine. The three are: Gretchen Holden, director of Services for Students with Physical Limitations; Nancy Wooten, assistant instructor and head of the Audio-Visual Department at the library; and Meredith Litchfield, assistant director and coordinator of audio-visual and microforms at the library.

Quiring said there are six visually-impaired students at K-State, and they will have first priority for using the reading machine. Students from other schools and members of the general public may make appointments by calling the Audio-Visual Department desk at 532-6516.

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

Wanna be a 'Cacia Girl?

Join the men of Acacia and the 'Cacia Girls for a Little Sister Rush Party.

Mon. night, Aug. 29
8:00-9:00 p.m.

Acacia Fraternity
2005 Hunting

FALL SEMESTER WEIGHT CONTROL CLASSES

First Classes:

- Wed. Aug. 31
- 11:30 a.m. & 1:30 p.m.
- At Lafene Student Health Center
- Room 19

Paid Student Health Fees required.

CLINIQUE

Skin care that works because it's based on your skin needs.

ALL PRODUCTS ARE ALLERGY TESTED—100% FRAGRANCE FREE

Exclusively

Broune's
DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

CALL
776-4776
FOR APPOINTMENT

MARKETING CLUB

Membership Sign-up
Mon.-Thurs. 8:30-2:30
Calvin 1st Floor

Resume catalog service available for members

IMPRESSIONS

Hair care center

HAIR SHACK

We'll Give You
Hair That's Easy
To Live With!

Do you want a trouble free style that won't slow you down in the back to school race?—We'll give you that styling ease with a hair-cut designed to go with your personal hair texture allowing it to flow naturally.

For hair that's carefree and really easy to get along with stop by our salon today. FREE hair consultation! Stop in or call!

Debbie
Annette
Debby Lee
Mary Ann
Vel Eddie
Kyoko

Chris
Linda
Sue
Kyoko

Owned by Kyoko

537-1332
Lover Level
411 Poyntz

776-1014
Old Town Mall
523 S. 11th

SAVE
ABOUT 30%

SAVE
ABOUT 30%

the TRY GENERIC BRAND™

REDKEN/NEXXUS

SUGG. RETAIL

8 oz. Amino Pon Shampoo	2.95
32 oz. Amino Pon Shampoo	8.50
8 oz. Esture Shampoo	5.50
32 oz. Esture Shampoo	13.50
8 oz. Airst	4.50
13 oz. Amino Pon Hairspray	5.25
4 oz. Climatress Cond.	5.75
16 oz. Climatress Cond.	17.50
4 oz. Phinal Phase Cond.	4.11
16 oz. Phinal Phase Cond.	12.48
4 oz. P. T. S-77 Cond.	6.25
16 oz. PPT S-77 Cond.	14.25
4 oz. Ultriance Cond.	5.95
8 oz. Mira-9 Cond.	5.25
32 oz. Nexxus Assure Shampoo	11.75
32 oz. Nexxus Therapy Shampoo	13.85
16 oz. Nexxus Emure Cond.	12.95
4 oz. Nexxus Emure Cond.	4.98
16 oz. Nexxus Humectress	15.00
4 oz. Nexxus Humectress	5.28
16 oz. Nexxus Keraphix	22.50

THE GENERIC BRAND

RETAIL

8 oz. Amino Pon Shampoo	2.29
32 oz. Amino Pon Shampoo	5.95
8 oz. Esture Shampoo	3.69
32 oz. Esture Shampoo	9.39
8 oz. Airst	3.15
13 oz. Amino Pon Hairspray	3.69
4 oz. Climatress Cond.	3.98
16 oz. Climatress Cond.	10.89
4 oz. Phinal Phase Cond.	2.89
16 oz. Phinal Phase Cond.	8.69
4 oz. P. T. S-77 Cond.	4.39
16 oz. PPT S-77 Cond.	9.89
4 oz. Ultriance Cond.	4.19
8 oz. Mira-9 Cond.	3.69
32 oz. Nexxus Assure Shampoo	8.19
32 oz. Nexxus Therapy Shampoo	9.69
16 oz. Nexxus Emure Cond.	8.98
4 oz. Nexxus Emure Cond.	3.25
16 oz. Nexxus Humectress	10.49
4 oz. Nexxus Humectress	3.89
16 oz. Nexxus Keraphix	10.98

CONSUMER PRODUCTS CAN SAVE YOU ABOUT 30% OVER THE RETAIL PRICE OF THE NAME BRAND. TELL THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE NAME BRAND AND THE GENERIC BRAND.

GLAMOUR WORLD
BEAUTY SUPPLIES
1104 WATERS
Just North of Village
Plaza Shopping Center

OVER 1000
SALON
ITEMS
IN STOCK

Expires 6 Sept.

10%
OFF
STOREWIDE
COUPON
DAILY 9:30-6 SAT. 10-5

NEW VISOR DAY TUESDAYS!

Meet Your Friends At . . .

1 + 1
MONDAYS!

• Buy 1
Get 1 Free
7-10:00

Draft Beer
Items

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...
WIKIE'S
HOME OF THE WILDCATS

Cut your own rug

No wonder seagrass is featured in so many home decorating magazines. It looks, feels, sounds, even smells natural. It's unique because you can buy as much rug as you want. Take measurements, drive to Pier 1 and take home the number of squares you need. Seagrass is reversible, so it takes lots of wear. And it's practically partyproof: to remedy spills, cut out stained squares and sew in new ones.

From our 9' x 36' bales you can buy as little as one 12" square, or as many as you'll need for a big project.

Chinese seagrass 59¢ a square

The new
Pier 1
collections

Pier 1 Imports:

323 Houston
(next to Sears)

The Phone Connection

BACK TO SCHOOL SPECIAL

$19.95
til Aug. 31

Regular $28.95

Webcor 720

One piece extension phone, last number redial, three position ringer volume, rotary or tone dialing, with wall mounting holster, one year guarantee.

The Phone Connection

414 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
776-4429

808 N. Washington
Downtown Junction City
762-4444

'White Chicks' encore performance provides evening of light comedy

By TOM DOWNING
Collegian Reviewer

"We pay far too much money in taxes to have our peace disturbed," claims suburban housewife Maude Mix.

Maude is the main character of John Ford Noonan's comic play, "A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking." The play, presented Friday and Saturday nights in the Purple Masque Theatre, was a return engagement from the Summer Repertory Theatre.

Maude's tranquil, highly organized life of reading for the blind, cookie baking and jogging on the golf course is disturbed by a new neighbor from Austin, Texas.

The new gal is Hanna Mae, played by Terri Myers, who invades Maude's privacy and initiates a friendship. Myers gives an incredible amount of depth to her Texas cheerleader character, and Linda Johnson plays the reserved Maude to near perfection.

Despite serious problems in the script, the play succeeded because of exceptional acting by Myers and Johnson. The first two scenes are light and comic — Hanna Mae pushes her way into Maude's kitchen, helping herself to a cup of coffee and a great deal of run-on conversation. There are many funny lines that prepare the audience for a comic play.

But suddenly, the play becomes dramatic. We find out that Hanna Mae's husband, Carl Joe, has slept with Maude earlier that morning. This scene was believable because Johnson acts with real remorse and guilt.

Eventually, Maude throws Hanna Mae out, and the act ends with the phone ringing. She knows it's her husband Tyler and she screams, "Damn it, Tyler, if you'd been here, none of this would have happened." — a dramatic ending to a comic beginning which is successful because of the actress.

This play is a simple story about two women becoming friends and revolting against their husbands.

The other two plays presented over the summer were "Da" and "The Fifth of July." They are more complex plays; their meaning extends beyond the action that happens on stage.

The many symbols scattered throughout "White Chicks" convey a meaning when they are used. Hanna Mae's broken cup, Maude's sensitivity to special things in the air, and their blood bond are some examples.

However, these symbols are never repeated so that they become important. This is one reason why "White Chicks" pales in comparison to the other two plays, but the actresses save this play — making the performance first rate.

Much of the credit for "White Chicks" success goes to student-director Kevin Brown who has a flair for comic situations. Nothing was left to chance; each facial expression and every movement was given careful attention — resulting in an enjoyable evening of light comedy.

One could say that it is a welcome relief from the "heavy" plays that deal with some in-depth treatment of a social problem. On the other hand, it also could be said that John Ford Noonan isn't contributing to the immense body of great literature.

TONIGHT
$2.25 PITCHERS 7-10 p.m.
TUESDAY
LADIES—50¢ DRAWS
1 p.m. to midnight

1120 Moro 539-9064

Division of Continuing Education
Kansas State University

PRIVATE LESSONS
KSU DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC and Division of Continuing Education
Fall 1983

Private lessons in: piano, voice, guitar, saxophone, flute & strings.
FEES: $85 for the semester; 1 undergraduate KSU credit is available for an additional $29 (or at no cost for full-time enrolled students).
Enroll: Call 532-5566 or Umberger 317
Aug. 22-Sept. 9

RESTAURANT & BAR

Welcome To . . .

5¢ BEERS
MON. NITES!

• 5¢
Second Beers
In Bar
7-12!

JOIN AGGIE STATION PLUS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

Babies Don't Thrive in Smoke-filled Wombs

When You're Pregnant, Don't Smoke!

Support the
March of Dimes
Birth Defects Foundation

Bring a friend & this coupon with you to receive

1/2 Price Off

Haircut, Shampoo & Blow Dry
(Offer good thru Sept. 30)

Selected RK shampoos Buy one Get one Free

All services performed by students who are closely supervised by instructors.

Appointments Taken
Mon.-Fri. 8:15 a.m.-8:30 p.m.
Sat. 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
Call 776-4794

CRUM'S BEAUTY COLLEGE
512 POYNTZ

Monday Madness

$7.00

Mondays Only...
Pay only $7.00 for a 16", 1-item pizza plus 1 free quart of Pepsi (Price includes tax).
One coupon per pizza.
Expires: 12/31/83

Fast, Free Delivery™
517 North 12th St.
Phone: 539-0561
34069 / 6311

Name _____
Address _____

Fast...Free Delivery™

Call us. 539-0561
517 North 12th St.

Hours:
4:30pm-1am Mon.-Thurs.
11am-2am Fri. & Sat.
11am-1am Sun.

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12" cheese $5.15
16" cheese $7.35

The Price Destroyer™
Limited portions of 9 items for the price of 5.
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Olives, Onions, Green Peppers, Ground Beef, Sausage, Ham, Extra Cheese
12" Price Destroyer™ $9.40
16" Price Destroyer™ $13.60

Additional Items
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Ham, Onions, Anchovies, Green Peppers, Olives, Sausage, Ground Beef, Jalapenos, Extra Cheese, Extra Thick Crust
12" pizza $.85 per item
16" pizza $1.25 per item

Pepsi/quarts available
Prices do not include applicable sales tax. Our drivers carry less than $10.00.
Limited delivery area.
©1983 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

KSU Horsemen's Association

Meeting Tues., Aug. 30
7:30, Weber 107

Officers meeting, Monday, Aug. 29
Weber Lobby

THE DONUT HOLE

- Stop by on your way to class for fresh donuts.
- On your noon break drop by for a sandwich.
- After class, take a break with a donut or fresh pastry.

11th & Moro Aggieville

FIRST SEMESTER SPECIALS BEGIN AUG. 29!

Pick your favorite Course

Schedule: MTWTh 9pm-12am ShowBiz

Intro to Italian	$1.25
<small>(Pizza by the slice & a beer)</small>
Advanced Italian	$8.00
<small>(Large 1-ingredient pizza)</small>
In depth Studies	$2.50
<small>(Pitcher of beer)</small>
Electronics Lab	$1.00
<small>(8 game tokens)</small>

*Each course lasts the whole semester
Prerequisite: None

SHOWBIZ PIZZA PLACE

519 Richards Drive

EARN OVER $1,000 A MONTH THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR

If you're a Math, Chemistry, Physics, or Engineering major, the Navy has a program you should know about. It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate (NUPOC) Program, and if qualified you could earn $1,000 per month, for up to 24 months prior to graduation.

SOME OF THE BENEFITS INCLUDE:

- * $3,000 Bonus upon acceptance
- * 1 year of graduate level education
- * Unequaled hands-on training and experience using the most sophisticated up to date equipment
- * Immediate management responsibility
- * $23,000 starting salary—over $42K annually after five years
- * Free medical and dental care.

The NUPOC program can help you not only to complete college, it can also be the start of an exciting career. If you'd like to find out more, contact

ENGINEERING OFFICERS PROGRAM
800-821-5110

NAVY OFFICERS GET RESPONSIBILITY FAST.

DIRECTORS CHAIR . . . $34.99

Compare at $49.99, a classic furnishing for college apartments. Pier 1 is a direct importer of these chairs from Thailand, which eliminates middleman mark up and now the savings is yours.

The new Pier 1 collections
323 Houston (next to Sears)

Professor tries freezing 'pita' bread dough

El-Sayed I. Mousa prepares balady bread dough for baking in Shellenberger Hall's Grain Science Laboratory. To his left are finished loaves. Mousa, a visiting grain science professor from King Saud University in Saudi Arabia, will remain at K-State through Sept. 21.

By AMY HOOVER
Collegian Reporter

A staple food of the Middle East, balady bread, may be mass produced for the first time as a result of the work of El-Sayed I. Mousa, an Egyptian professor visiting from Saudi Arabia and doing research in the Department of Grain Science and Industry.

Balady (which means traditional) bread is better known to Americans as pita or pocket bread. Nutritionally, the bread is important to millions of low-income people in the Middle East because it provides a large portion of energy and protein in their diets, Mousa said.

Because the bread stales easily, it has never been possible to mass produce it efficiently, Mousa said. He is working with C.C. Tsen, professor of grain science and industry, to develop a means of freezing the bread dough.

If the dough can be frozen while maintaining its quality, it could be distributed to small bakeries and baked fresh as needed, Tsen said.

The round, flat bread is made from flour, yeast, salt and water, Mousa said. It rises in the oven and separates into two thin layers when baked at approximately 600 degrees for two or three minutes.

Mousa is experimenting with white flour, whole wheat flour and 85 percent extraction flour, which means 85 percent of the wheat kernel is used. Most American bread uses 72 to 74 percent extraction of the kernel, but people in the Middle East prefer the higher extraction, Mousa said.

Tsen said the research will benefit the United States as well as the Middle East. He said the frozen bread industry is growing in this country and predicted continued growth.

"People like the smell and taste of fresh bread, and this (research) makes it possible," he said.

Mousa, who is on sabbatical leave from King Saud University, Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, arrived in early July and will leave Sept. 21.

He earned his Ph.D. from North Dakota State University. NDSU and K-State are the only schools in the United States which offer grain science programs.

Besides conducting research, Mousa said another goal of his visit is to establish future cooperation between K-State and King Saud University in the field of grain science.

Police to offer Chiefs' cards

By The Collegian Staff

Kansas City Chiefs' fans may want to keep their eyes open for K-State Police officers this fall. The officers will be giving away free Chiefs cards to children again this year, Lieutenant Jim Tubach said.

The purpose of the card giveaway is to establish better relations between youth and police and to promote crime prevention, Tubach said. On the backs of the 10 new player cards are illustrations of football terms and crime and safety tips for children.

The campus police will be one of more than 160 police departments in the four-state area of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska to participate in the program this year.

The cards will be given away at all home football games and at Jardine Terrace, he said. All officers at the games and on patrol at Jardine will carry the cards with them.

Résumé Service
Professional
Résumé Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

Attention Ag Students:
WANT TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE?
RUN FOR AG. STUDENT SENATE!
(1 position left)

Pick up applications at Waters 120
Applications due 8/30 at 5 p.m.
For more information call 532-5737

SONY TAPES
SUMMER
SUB-SALE

2 FREE WITH 10

Cases of 90 minute cassettes start at $15.90

Stereo Factory

1126 Moro 776-5507

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE

Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

Speedwash

Beginning August 30th
DROP OFF LAUNDRY SERVICE
on Tuesdays and Thursdays
9 a.m.-noon
First Come First Service

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
WED. & THURS. ONLY

STAR TREK
BLOOPERS
SHOW

NEVER SHOWN ON T.V.

Sponsored by KAPPA SIGMA

A RARE COLLECTION OF UNRELEASED OUT-TAKES
FROM FAMOUS T.V. SHOWS
KEDZIE HALL
Rm. #106

August 31 & September 1
7 P.M. & 9 P.M. both nites

KSU Students with I.D. $3.00 all others $4.00

LIMITED GOOD SEATING—COME EARLY—NO CHILDREN PLEASE

Get
2 bucks and a free extension cord (while they last)

The student body demanded "Let there be light!" And turn-ons responded. Five great, hi-tech study and dorm lamps to throw a lot of light on any subject... all at prices within reason. Then the student body asked, "What else is in it for us?" Again turn-ons responded... $2 back on every lamp you purchase from your book store plus a free extension cord, the one item (other than cash) you never can find whenever it's needed! But to get in on this most illustrious offer ever—you must get over to your book store soon!

Get thee to thy book store fast!

turn-ons
THROW A LOT OF LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT!

k-state union
bookstore

ULTIMATE

A member of the Topeka "Ungnomes" cools down after a game.

Members of the Manhattan "Aerial Wizards" and the Wichita "Gyrations" go high to grab the disk.

Mike Boisvert, senior in wildlife biology, side arms the disk under the outstretched arm of a member of the Wichita "Gyrations."

Frisbee tourney highlights Ultimate weekend

By JUDY MILLS
Staff Writer

A field of 14 men, clad in a variety of bermuda shorts, cleats, cut-up sweats, T-shirts and bandanas, began their Sunday morning with Gatorade and jugs of water on hand as the championship game for the first Flint Hills Fantasy Ultimate Tournament started.

Reggae music played through the crowd from a "jam-box" on the sidelines as the Manhattan Ultimate Frisbee Club, the Aerial Wizards, began chanting "Wizards, Wizards..." in preparation for the championship game.

"The spirit of Ultimate is the most important aspect of the game. It's a neat game because the responsibility of fair play is in the hands of the players. There aren't any referees," said Mike Boisvert, senior in wildlife biology and captain of Aerial Wizards.

The tournament took place Saturday and Sunday at the intramural fields.

"The game (Ultimate) takes a lot out of you. It's like a combination of football and soccer — although you use a frisbee instead," Boisvert said.

"You run the whole time. It's supposed to be a non-contact sport, but sometimes it's not," said Jay Jeter, junior in bakery science.

Ultimate is played by two seven-member teams, and the object of the game is to score goals.

To score a goal, a player must be able to successfully pass the Frisbee to another teammate in the end zone of the opposing team. A turnover occurs when the pass is knocked down, intercepted, incomplete or touches an out-of-bounds area, according to the Ultimate Players Association in the Proposed Eighth Edition Rules of Ultimate.

The only way the disc can be moved is by passing, and the thrower is not allowed to take any steps while making a pass, according to the UPA rules.

Seven teams from Lawrence, Wichita, Winfield, Topeka, Kansas City, and Centralia, Mo. participated in the double-elimination tournament.

First place was won by the Casual Sex Pistols from Kansas City. The Aerial Wizards received second place after being defeated by the Casual Sex Pistols in the championship game Sunday morning.

The Horrorizontals, from Lawrence, won third place by defeating the Ozone Outlaws from Centralia.

"This is a sport where everyone gets really close. No one ever has to stay in a motel at a tournament because you can always stay with the other Ultimate team members. You know everyone really well," Boisvert said.

Every Ultimate player, when describing the game, is quick to mention the spirit of the game — sportsmanship.

"Highly competitive play is encouraged, but never at the expense of the bond of mutual respect between players, adherence to the agreed-upon rules of the game and the basic joy of play," according to the proposed rules of Ultimate from the UPA.

"Taunting of opposing players, dangerous aggression, intentional fouling, or other 'win-at-all-costs' behavior must be avoided by all players," the rules state.

An "energy circle" held at different times during the tournament helps keep the spirit of Ultimate in the games.

"It (an energy circle) shows the sportsmanship of the players. It happens after the games and it makes

Continued on page 9.

AG STUDENTS AND FACULTY

You are all invited to a WATERMELON FEED

South of Waters Hall

TONIGHT August 29 7:00 pm

Sponsored by Ag Student Council and Alpha Zeta

(All departmental clubs will be represented.)

The Sports Fan-atic

Laramie at 12th—Aggieville
Office: 539-0525; Bar 539-9849

Betcha didn't know ... Monday Nite Football
Tonight at 8 P.M.,
Nebraska vs
Penn State. Enjoy
75¢ DRAWS & HOUSE
HI-BALLS during the first quarter.

Betcha didn't know ... This week's "Special of the Week" is the
Dr. J.—an orange drink with vodka—
ONLY $1.75.

Betcha didn't know ... When the lights flash on the interior Sports Fan-atic sign, you can buy pitchers for $2.00!

Betcha didn't know ... The nickname "Wildcats" was given in 1915 because of the teams "fighting
spirit."

COME IN AND PLAY ... TODAY!

"UPC... We do it right!"

Wed., Aug. 31
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thurs., Sept. 1
3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
$1.50

"* / Schepisi demonstrates an uncommon genius for the cinematic form... This film is as close to poetry as you'll see"

— THE BOSTON GLOBE

PART OF THE INTERNATIONAL FILM SERIES

JOHN BIGGS

IN CONCERT

Thursday, September 1
8 p.m., K-State Union
Catskeller

Admission: $2

Doors open at 7 p.m.

Tickets available at the door or in the Activities
Center, 3rd Floor
Union, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.,
September 1 ONLY!

k-state union
program council

WINFIELD BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

September 17-18, 1983

Escape with UPC Travel Committee
to Winfield Fairgrounds for the Bluegrass Festival. Your cost of $37 includes transportation and two day
ticket.

Information and Sign Up Meeting:
Sept. 1, 7 p.m., Union Rm. 208. Sign up continues through Sept. 8 in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor, Union.

k-state union
upc travel

NOONERS "Students Entertaining Students"

UPC Coffeehouse is now accepting applications for its annual Nooners series: "Students Entertaining Students." Anyone with any kind of talent should pick up applications in the Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union. For more information call 532-6571.

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

Football coach believes history to repeat itself this season

By LARRY BOYD
Staff Writer

Just as Coach Jim Dickey is hoping his K-State Wildcats will appear in a bowl game again in 1983, Chuck Driesbach, defensive secondary coach, said he also hopes history will repeat itself.

In 1980, Driesbach's unit gave up only 91.4 yards passing per game to lead the nation in pass defense. Circumstances indicates the 1983-84 season will be about the same as they were in 1980 — perhaps enabling Driesbach's corps to have another season near the top of the NCAA passing defense charts.

"When Greg Best, Phil Switzer and Gary Morrill were sophomores, we led the nation in pass defense because we had a great defensive line with Monte Bennett, Steve Clark and James Walker," said Driesbach, now in his fifth year at K-State.

Bennett, Clark and Walker all have continued their careers in the National Football League.

This season, although the secondary will have some unfamiliar names, Driesbach said he believes they will be stronger and quicker than the 1980 squad and will be supported by a better defensive line.

The defensive back with the most game experience is left cornerback Ivan Pearl, who was timed in the 40-yard run in 4.54 — the second fastest time on the Wildcat squad.

The 5-foot-10, 190-pound senior played in every game last season and tallied 26 tackles — including eight against University of Colorado.

"Right now, we're working hard as a team and getting our coverages down for the year," Pearl pointed out.

"We're doing a lot of learning this year," he said of the secondary. "As a senior, I answer a lot of questions and give a lot of help to the younger players."

Pearl said he likes the looks of the juniors and sophomores in the defensive secondary.

"The sophomores and juniors we have now will be a great defensive secondary someday," he said, referring to backs such as Nelson Nickerson, Scott Wentzel and David Ast.

Driesbach also has praise for the young backfield.

"I've been pleased with all of the defensive backs," he said. "But they (Nickerson, Wentzel and Ast) really seem to shine."

Nickerson, a 5-foot-11, 177-pound junior, has been a reserve for two years. Last season he played behind defensive back Greg Best, a United Press International first team Big Eight selection and an Associated Press second team conference pick. Best is now with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the NFL.

At the strong safety position, Scott Wentzel is holding his third position in three years on the Wildcat squad. The Manhattan product has played linebacker and defensive tackle and is considered one of the best all-around athletes on the team.

"Right now I'm just working on my technique and learning what to do," the 6-foot, 203-pounder said. "We're right where we should be. We'll be ready."

No doubt the secondary will have to be ready for the season opener here Saturday, when the nation's total offense leader in 1982, quarterback Todd Dillon of California State University at Long Beach, comes to Manhattan.

Dillon ran and passed for 3,587 yards last year, which is the second highest total in National Collegiate Athletic Association history. He also completed 57 percent of his passes for 19 touchdowns.

"We're looking forward to playing against him," Pearl said. "It's been pushed into our heads that he's an outstanding passer. We can't be loafing, and we've got to look for the pass."

Also preparing for Dillon's passing will be free safety David Ast, a 6-foot-1, 181-pound sophomore who was redshirted last year.

Driesbach said a big weakness of the defensive secondary is game experience, but reminded not to forget that the players have been in the system for two or three years.

"I'm very pleased with where we are," Driesbach said. "We're improving and ready to accept the challenges of this season."

"Our goal is to make whoever we play earn what they get. We've been stressing to our backs not to give up anything easy, and we'll gain respect in the league as an aggressive secondary. Our backs are to the point where they're excited about getting their chance."

The defensive secondary players aren't the only ones who are excited about the 1983 season. Linebacker Stu Peters said he has been ready for the opener since Friday night's practice under the new lights at KSU Stadium.

"I was ready to play Friday night when the lights came on," the senior weakside linebacker said. "The coaches have us right where we should be at this point in the season."

The 5-foot-11, 213-pounder appeared in every 1982 contest and had 23 tackles — including 10 in the Independence Bowl.

"We've worked a lot on pass protection and we've got to have great underneath coverage this year," Peters said. "Everything in front of us (the linebackers) has got to be stopped."

"I'm always trying to consider the situation and what the offense will probably run," he said.

In preparing for the season opener, Peters said he has concentrated on combinations of pass drops and running plays because Long Beach will try "to put the defense asleep by passing a lot and then calling a draw play or a run."

"I feel like their formations are predictable. We'll be ready," Peters said.

He admitted that the pressure would be on the linebackers because of the young secondary. However, he described them as not only young, but hungry.

"Right now some of the positions still haven't been decided and I know we have a great freshmen crop of linebackers. We do have a kind of no-name defense, but we'll have some good games and the no-names will soon be household names," Peters said.

"Everyone in our defensive line is awesome," he said, referring to All-Big Eight performer Reggie Singletary, as well as two-year lettermen Bob Daniels and Mark Newton along with three-year letterman L.E. Madison.

Volleyball team adds another coach

By TRACY ALLEN
Staff Writer

She's described as a winner; someone who's determined to be the best — even if it requires long hours and tedious training.

"I want to establish a successful program here," said Ginger Mayson, K-State's new assistant volleyball coach. "I want the players to experience some of the things that I had — satisfaction."

Although Mayson is new to the Wildcat program and the Big Eight Conference, her presence at K-State should move the Wildcats a step further in their quest for a spot in the national rankings.

Mayson replaced Bill Fritsch, former graduate assistant for the Cats the last two years.

"She brings a lot of expertise that we've never had in our program," said Scott Nelson, K-State head volleyball coach. "She's no paper pusher who does a lot of piddly or 'gofer'-type work. She's more in line of a co-coach."

Raised in Mobile, Ala., Mayson is no stranger to the sport. She lettered four years in volleyball at the University of South Alabama — serving as team captain twice.

However, volleyball wasn't the only sport Mayson excelled in while at South Alabama. For three years, she was the backbone for the South Alabama basketball squad.

Because of her love for volleyball, Mayson said she continued in the sport — switching from player to coaching — in which for two years, she helped South Alabama to a 56-26 record. Her 1982 team placed second in the Sun Belt with a 42-13 record, which included a 17-match winning streak — the best record in the school's nine-year volleyball history.

Before coaching at South Alabama, Mayson made even more of a mark on the high school level coaching at Julius T. Wright School for girls in Mobile.

Mayson's basketball and volleyball teams dominated the Alabama High School polls. Her cagers won the state title in 1978, and her spikers finished third in state the same year.

Even though she believes in success, Mayson said she doesn't place much emphasis on goals.

"I try not to set goals too far in advance because I might be disappointed," Mayson said.

As assistant coach, Mayson will be involved in promotional aspects, team training and recruiting.

Because of the lack of funds, which limits the volleyball's ability to recruit, Mayson said that she will try to concentrate more on players in the Midwest.

"We're trying to go for people who are socially and economically used to this area so they won't have to go through so much of an adjustment," Mayson said.

Since K-State is one the few schools in the nation that has two volleyball coaches, Nelson said the addition of Mayson will help improve the K-States' program.

"We're able to do more things now that Ginger is on staff," Nelson said. "We're able to recruit and train our girls more efficiently."

"If one of us were to go out of town, we will still have a head coach who has a source of knowledge as to what to do," he said.

With the first competition one week away on Sept. 2 at Fort Hays State University, both Nelson and Mayson are excited about the season.

Although K-State is still a few years away from being a national power, Mayson said that it won't be long before K-State will be recognized as a school for volleyball.

"We are excited about competing, and we feel that in the next few years, we will be able to compete with most schools around the country," Mayson said.

Bradley's relay team breaks Pan Am record

By The Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — The beleaguered United States track and field team capped its worst Pan American Games performance with six victories Sunday — its biggest gold medal haul of the 1983 competition.

The most impressive was the men's 1,600, in which Mike Bradley of K-State combined with Alonzo Babers, James Rolle and Eddie Vary to shatter the Pan Am record with a clocking of 3:00.47. The previous mark was 3:00.76, by a U.S. team in 1971.

Brazil, with Agberto Guimaraes, the 800 and 1,500 gold medalist, running the third leg, finished second in 3:02.79, and Cuba was third in 3:03.15.

Individual gold medals were won by Kathy McMillan in the women's long jump and Roger Kingdom in the men's hurdles.

The most brilliant running, however, was turned in by Elliott Quow.

Quow's brilliant anchor run for the men's 400-meter relay team highlighted a U.S. sweep of the four relays for the other victories — the men's and women's 400s and the men's and women's 1,600s.

Frisbee tourney

Continued from page 8
sure there are no hard feelings between players. It's also good for the spectators. I think they get a kick out of it," Jeter said.

Both teams form one large circle on the playing field. Clapping and chanting "Got that spirit, yeah, yeah, the Ultimate spirit, yeah, yeah," all the players did a routine which resembles a stretch exercise. They simultaneously shook their arms, heads and rears and jumped up and down.

Ultimate is a player-officiated game and there's usually not too many arguments between the teams, Jeter said.

"Usually an argument is solved by someone just giving in or someone just gets tired of arguing," he said. "About the only time there's an argument is over whether someone went out of bounds."

"I think the tournament had a really good turnout. It's too bad it couldn't have been held at a better facility — like maybe the old stadium," said Steve Payne, campus representative for a local beer distributor. "I think it's an up and coming sport that's fun to watch and play."

Ultimate was created by a team of high school friends in 1973, who then, at different colleges, spread the game across the nation, Boisvert said.

Ultimate is a less traditional sport that doesn't get very much attention, Jeter said.

"A lot of people think it's a hippie sport. But it's not. That's why we decided to work with the Union Program Council."

"Frisbee players are different from all other breeds of people. They have their own style. They're not like any other clique or group of people," Jeter said.

"It was a great tournament. It was a great party," said George Abrams, member of the Horrorozontals.

Staff/Chris Stewart

K-State's new assistant volleyball coach, Ginger Mayson, "wants to establish a winning team."

A GLASS ACT.

"KSU on the Rocks" glass FREE with the purchase of any medium or large pizza at the Godfather's Pizza® restaurant just off Campus. Very Classy. (Available while supplies last. One glass per pizza only. Not valid with other offers.)
Now delivering anywhere in Manhattan. Ask for details.

Godfather's Pizza®
1118 Laramie • 539-5303

Attention Brides

Bridal Department Close-Out

ENTIRE STOCK

50 to 75%

Savings of up to $300⁰⁰ or more per gown

ALL BRIDAL GOWNS WILL BE SOLD NOW!

No Layaway

No Charges

No Free Alterations

Buy NOW and Save A LOT!!

SIZES
5/6 to 13/14

Broune's
Downtown Manhattan

Over 100
Gowns available
Bianchi bridal originals

Don't be a heartbreaker

Exercise regularly.

American Heart Association
WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Classified

Display Classified Rates
One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENT 01
WANTED: ADVENTUROUS companions to experience the basics in Army ROTC. For more information contact Major Pat Mitchell, MS 101 or 532-6754. (6)

NOTICE
Effective Sept. 1st, 1983, Word Processing Services will be located at 2312 Anderson in the Professional Place (across from Farm Bureau).
• Resume's
• Manuscripts
• Letters
Let us help you with your typing needs. 537-2810.

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Oktoberfest! October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

LAMBDA CHI Presents: There will be a meeting tonight at 7:00 p.m. at the Lambda Chi house. (6)

ATTENTION 02
PHOTOGRAPHER—AVAILABLE for weddings, reunions, fraternity/sorority party pictures. Reserve your dates early by phoning 776-8502 evenings. Ask for Brian. (3-7)

RENTERS INSURANCE THE STATE FARM WAY
CALL BRUCE ARNOLD AGENT
507 LEAVENWORTH
776-3800
State Farm Fire and Casualty Company
Home Office: Bloomington, Illinois

RIDERS—COLBY: Labor Day and two week-ends/month. Call 532-5900 or leave message, 532-5582. Bob Brown. (4-8)

ROCK BAND with professional intentions is seeking lead guitarist, able to learn material quickly. Call 537-7738. (6-10)

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (11-10)

TRAVEL—WE will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

Dorm Girls!!!
Need more space??
We've built Bunk Beds for over 100 satisfied customers. $55. Call David, 539-6267 or Kip, 539-4638.

PHI TAU Little Sisters—Get ready for a year of parties and surprises starting at 10:00 p.m. tonight! (6)

HEALTH INSURANCE THE STATE FARM WAY
CALL BRUCE ARNOLD AGENT
507 LEAVENWORTH
776-3800
State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company
Home Office: Bloomington, Illinois

STUDENT MAID Service—$12.00/week, includes ironing. Call Larry, 539-8391 or Dan, 539-2929. (6-7)

CAR POOL—Participants to join car pool from Topeka to Manhattan. On campus from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday. Call Kay, extension 6278 or Bill, 1-235-5145. (6-8)

FOR RENT—MISC 03
COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

PRIVATE ROOM for grad or senior, non-smoking male. Newly decorated, private entrance, two blocks from college. 539-2703. (6-9)

FOR RENT—APTS 04
QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210/month, 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

NEW, FOUR-bedroom apartment. Near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Utilities paid. $550 per month with Rental Agreement. 776-1776. (4-7)

ONE-BEDROOM basement apartment, carpeted, washer/dryer. Call 776-6749. (5-6)

NEWLY REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

NICE, ONE-bedroom basement, furnished. Trash and water paid. $190. Call 776-1185 or 537-0852. Ask for John. (5-6)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment available September 1st. One person to take over lease until May 31. Call 537-3898. (5-9)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05
NICE, FOUR-bedroom house. Residential neighborhood, fenced backyard, fully carpeted. Parking for four cars, close to stadium. Nine- or twelve-month lease. Reasonably priced. 537-4753. (2-6)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06
1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition, like new, 37,000 miles. Negotiable. Call 776-0131 evenings. (2-7)

1972 AMC Matador. Good condition, dependable, $600. Call 539-3310. (2-6)

1971 MG Midget. New engine, tires and paint, $2,500. Call 1-239-6337. (3-7)

1971 VW Bug—Real good school car. I'm not beautiful, but I run good, $975. J & L Bug Service, 1-494-2388. (4-8)

SPORTY 1982 Datsun 200SX, electric, vocal warning system, 5-speed, air conditioning. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

CONVERTIBLE 1969 Fiat 124 Spyder, 5-speed, excellent condition. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

1973 PLYMOUTH Duster—Six cylinders, manual transmission. Runs and looks good. $700. Call 776-5893. (4-8)

FORD TORINO station wagon—White, 6 cylinders, 78,800 miles. Good condition, good mileage, air conditioner, $850. Call 776-3561. (5-8)

1973 FORD Torino wagon. Running condition, new battery, stereo, cassette, air, heat, $550, negotiable. 539-5829. (5-9)

FOR SALE—MISC 07
ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

SCHWINN CONTINENTAL 10-speed, light blue, with water bottle and frame pump. Great condition, $145. Call 539-0188. (3-7)

MID-SIZE REFRIGERATOR. Cheaper to own than rent. Perfect for dorm. 776-9270, evenings. (6-7)

CRAIG STEREO System: Receiver—25W, Dolby cassette deck, turntable, two speakers, $200. Call 537-0424. (3-6)

MUST SELL improved stock farm—subdivision possibilities. 550-acre. Call Lori Dunston, 1-457-3687. Town and Country Real Estate. (3-7)

CANON A1, Canon 50 and 70-210mm lenses, super flash. Brand new. Sacrifice, $580. Complete. David, 539-6267. (3-8)

AIR CONDITIONER, used, in good condition, $200 or best offer. GE washer and dryer, almost new, 3 months old, bought for $780, asking price is $650. Please call 776-7978. (4-6)

BUNKBED SET with chest of drawers attached. Call 532-6865, ext. 20 or 22. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (4-8)

SAILBOAT—14' Laser. Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (4-8)

CLASSICAL GUITAR—Solid spruce top, nice inlay, good buy, $100. Call 539-1418. (4-6)

REFRIGERATOR: 4 cubic feet, almost new, cheaper than renting, $120. Call 776-3185, ask for Bob. (5-7)

REFRIGERATOR FOR sale, 3.2 cubic feet. Like new, with manual and stand, $117. Call 537-8097. (5-6)

USED SLAB doors, ideal for tables, desk, or drawing boards, $4 each. You pick up. 539-3020. (5-7)

1' x 12' RUSTIC barn siding. Great for interior decorating! Call 776-9775 or 537-0800 for more details. (5-6)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

FRIGIDAIRE AUTOMATIC washer, $125. Phone 776-6978. (6-8)

YAMAHA ACOUSTIC guitar. Excellent condition, like new. Price negotiable. Call Grub at 537-0967. (6-10)

EP COMP 1 water ski. Excellent condition. Call 539-1135. (6-9)

MUST SELL 10-speed, "Free-spirit" bicycle, 26", $40; cassette deck, Panasonic w/Dolby, $70; Onkyo turntable, $60 or best offer. Call 539-9102 after 6:00 p.m. (6-8)

WOMEN'S 10-speed, 24-inch Huffy touring bike. Call 776-0620 after 6:00 p.m. (6-10)

UNDERWOOD MANUAL office typewriter, $35. Call 776-7277. (6-8)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08
MOBILE HOME, September 1st—Five rooms, bath, close Manhattan, small court, patio, privacy, $5,000. Mornings, late evenings 1-456-7634. (5-9)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09
1978 750 Honda—excellent condition, new battery, tune-up, 8,000 miles. Call anytime, 539-3404. (4-8)

HONDA MOPED for sale—excellent condition. For information call, 539-0894. (4-9)

FOR SALE: 1961 Kawasaki CSR 305, 2,500 miles. Call 776-3718. (5-8)

1961 HONDA XL500. Excellent condition. New rear tire. $1150/offer. 539-2343, ask for Blane. (5-7)

1978 AAF moped, low mileage, excellent condition, $165. Call 537-8771 after 5:00 p.m. or weekends. (6f)

FOR SALE: 1977 Honda 750-4, very good shape. Must go! 776-3718 after 6:30 p.m. (6-10)

FOUND 10
SET OF Keys. Identify and claim at towel cage in Ahearn or call 532-6765. (6-8)

HELP WANTED 13
PHOTOGRAPHER. STUDENT to take pictures for Food Service events. Variable schedule and previous experience required. Call Judy Flecker for appointment, 532-6453. (5-7)

THE CITY of Manhattan is seeking to fill part-time positions. Recreation Division. Positions are available in flag football, volleyball, softball, basketball, soccer and facilities supervision. Various instructors are needed in arts and crafts, bowling, gymnastics, dance, and basketball. Apply at Personnel Department, City Hall—11th and Poyntz by September 2, 1983. EOE—M/F/H. (1-6)

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures: 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9)

DEPENDABLE BABYSITTER needed for all home and some away football games. Prefer my home, your transportation. Call 532-6136 or 776-0033. (4-6)

J. RIGGS West now accepting applications for part-time fall employees, 317 Poyntz. Call 776-6336. (7-9)

THE CITY of Manhattan is seeking to fill part-time positions. Recreation Division. Positions are available in flag football, volleyball, softball, basketball, soccer and facilities supervision. Various instructors are needed in arts and crafts, bowling, gymnastics, dance, and basketball. Apply at Personnel Department, City Hall—11th and Poyntz by September 2, 1983. EOE/M/F/H. (6)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Treble or bass
5 Bread order
8 Actress
12 Pueblo Indian
13 Deep sea shocker
14 Central American tree
15 Presently
16 Migratory birds
18 Most sagacious
20 Evening party
21 Hunt for bargains
23 Behave
24 European bird
28 Surge
31 River in Brazil
32 Takes out
34 Negative vote

35 Brewer's need
37 Osprey
39 Epoch
41 Always
42 Sunshade
45 Wandering
49 American songbirds
51 Charles Lamb
52 Corner
53 French assent
54 Realtor's sign
55 Appends
56 Cyst

57 Gadgets for Nicklaus
DOWN
1 Chew: colloq.
2 Actress
3 Epic poetry
4 Best
5 Renewals
6 Evergreen tree
7 Greek underground
8 Violation
9 Scrubbing the mission
10 American inventor

11 — majeste
17 Mauna —
19 Storehouse
22 Volcano on 24 Obscure
25 Wood sorrel
26 Having natural ability
27 Fails to take out partner's bid
29 Split pea of India
30 Ogle
33 Prophet
36 Social clans
38 Stern
40 Cuckoo
42 Recorded proceedings
43 Political subdivision
44 Expand
46 Medicinal plant
47 Shade of green
48 Small boys
50 Owing

Answer to Friday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP

8-29

ICSW CROHRV JYSOBV OHBZ OQL
JHSRQYGWLSG: 'BLRZ IL VHYS LCSG.'

Friday's Cryptogram: THE COMIC HERO'S LIKELY PLACE TO SHOP: YOUR SUPERMARKET.
Today's Cryptogram clue: B equals L.

Durland receives final touches before dedication

By JULIE MAH
Copy Editor

The late August sun creates a distorted impression of the tower of limestone and glass that is Durland Hall Phase II — the latest addition to the campus.

Completed after two years of construction, the building will house all administrative offices and central services of the College of Engineering, the Department of Electrical Engineering and the Department of Mechanical Engineering, said Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering.

The new facility, connected to Durland Hall Phase I by a lobby, was ready for the first day of classes he said.

"We have a few labs that are not 100 percent," he said. "All the teaching labs are ready. For the most part, we're ready to go."

Durland II is the second stage in the construction of the engineering complex. The first building was completed in 1976 and a third, to be located west of Phase II, is scheduled for the late 1990s.

The new addition also houses the Engineering Experiment Station and has a remote computing center. According to Rathbone, computer terminals will be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week with access to the main campus computer. Durland II also contains two video classrooms which will be used for preparation and presentation of video tapes.

A main feature of the new building is the 180-seat Paslay Lecture Hall, equipped through a gift of $100,000 from K-State alumnus LeRoy Paslay.

Rathbone said the hall is furnished both aesthetically and acoustically. Amplification is not needed, he said. An instructor will be able to speak at the blackboard and be heard by students sitting in the last row.

The Kansas Legislature allocated

$7.6 million to be used for the planning and construction of the building, Rathbone said.

"More than $1 million has been raised in private monies to supplement the $7.6 (million)," he said. "The money will be used primarily for equipment, office and lounge furniture and special seating in the lecture hall."

A student and faculty lounge, added to the original plan during construction, is located on the second floor of the three-story structure and overlooks the lobby.

"It is a beautiful addition to the building," Rathbone said. Art exhibits will be on display periodically in the lounge.

Another feature is a satellite receiver dish on the roof which will be used for both research and electrical engineering and possibly for receiving satellite presentations, he said.

Although the engineering departments will be using the facilities

most of the time, classrooms, the lounge and other areas are available to the University community, he said.

Another project underway is a pendulum clock that will be located in the lobby of the new building. The project is a cooperative effort by the faculty in the art and engineering departments.

The oak base of the clock, matching the woodwork in the lobby, resembles a "big hot tub," according to Elliot Pujol, associate professor of art and collaborator of the project with Barbara Terrell, K-State art graduate.

The 10-foot base will be covered by more than 90 hemispheric globes of enameled spun copper, Pujol said. They will be bolted to the base.

The clock mechanism is being designed by Everett Haft, professor of electrical engineering, and Hugh Walker, professor of mechanical engineering.

The project should be completed before the dedication ceremonies Sept. 30, Rathbone said.

"It's really been a challenge and a pleasant experience putting this whole thing together," Pujol said.

The new building will house more than 35 different laboratories as well as nine classrooms and the lecture hall. According to the dean, the building is ready for use, but new equipment acquisitions will continue.

"We're pretty well done. We've accomplished our goals to continue to improve our equipment and our labor," Rathbone said. "It's an ongoing process. You're never static in terms of your laboratories. We're always upgrading and improving."

Celebrate Life!

Help the

March of Dimes
Fight
Birth Defects

"EYE OF THE WILDCAT"

Keep on Trackin' to our office
for contact lenses

- Tinted (to change the color of your eyes)
- Extended Wear (to sleep with)
- Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- Regular type (for near and far sightedness)
- Toric (for astigmatism)
- Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Contact us for Replacement Lenses
and Solutions in Stock.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock, P.A.
Practice of Optometry
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Manhattan, Ks.

Parker presents 2500 chances your father never had.

 10 Grand Prizes. A Texas Instruments 99/4A home computer system worth $1,995.00.	 500 Second Prizes. A Texas Instruments 99/2 basic computer worth $99.95.	 2000 Third Prizes. A Texas Instruments student math calculator worth $25.00.
---	---	---

Enter the Parker Top-of-the-Class Sweepstakes and you could win something that can give you a real advantage in life.

Your own Texas Instruments home computer.

While you're at it, pick up something better to write with, too. A Parker Jotter ball pen.

Its microscopically-textured ball grips the paper to help prevent messy blobbing and skipping.

And it writes up to five times longer than most ball pens.

Look for sweepstakes entry forms and details at your college bookstore. But do it soon. With over 500 computers to win, this is one sweepstakes worth entering. While you still have the chance.

To enter the Parker Top-of-the-Class Sweepstakes, no purchase is necessary. Void where prohibited. All entries must be received no later than October 15, 1983. ©1983 TPCC.

KEEP ON TRACKIN'

It's the game and a lot more!

Student season tickets on sale
now at the Central Ticket
Office in Ahearn Fieldhouse
9 a.m. — 4:30 p.m.

$24 for 6 great games.

KANSAS STATE FOOTBALL '83

Football standout
Singletary expects a good season
Sports, page 11

Attack by Moslems claims two Marines

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Mortar shells fired by Moslem militiamen killed two U.S. Marines Monday and at least 36 Lebanese perished in fighting that broke out when the Lebanese army tried to crack down on Shiite Moslem militias. The militiamen seized control of parts of west Beirut.

The first Marine combat deaths in Lebanon came during the hardest fighting in Beirut since the Israeli invasion in June 1982. The new battles posed a serious challenge to President Amin Gemayel's 11-month-old government.

See related story, page 3

In Washington, a Marine Corps statement said 14 other Marines were "slightly wounded." Reports here had listed eight of the Marines as seriously wounded.

The Marine Corps communique identified the slain Marines as 2nd Lt. Donald Losey, 28, of Winston-Salem, N.C., and Staff Sgt. Alexander M. Ortega, 25, of Rochester, N.Y. It noted the number of Marines reported wounded had risen throughout the day and said the "increase of wounded numbers occurs as Marines report to aid stations."

The Marines were killed and wounded by mortar shells fired by members of the pro-Iranian Shiite militia group Amal. The shells landed on Marine positions at the international airport on the south side of Beirut, a Marine spokesman here said.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said that the fire that hit the Marines "appears to have been directed at the Lebanese armed forces positions."

The American peacekeepers retaliated with a 40-minute attack by artillery, mortar and helicopter gunships that silenced the militia batteries, the spokesman reported.

The Lebanese casualties in the second day of fighting between the army and Amal included 25 civilians and 11 soldiers killed, and 130 civilians and 60 troops wounded, 16 of the troops seriously, Beirut police reported. An Italian sergeant of the peacekeeping force was also slightly wounded.

The Shiites captured an unknown number of army troops and several armored personnel carriers, but Shiite casualties were not reported.

By nightfall, Amal militiamen were in control of several residential neighborhoods in Moslem west Beirut as well as all crossing intersections to Christian east Beirut.

The only army presence left in west Beirut was near Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan's office at the entrance to Hamra, the main commercial thoroughfare, and near the American University of Beirut in the Manara neighborhood.

Gemayel interrupted a four-hour emergency Cabinet session at his presidential palace in Baabda, in the pine woods east of the city, to discuss the situation with U.S. presidential envoy Robert C. McFarlane.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., President Reagan expressed "profound sorrow" over the death of the two Marines.

The militiamen also captured an unknown number of army troops and during the afternoon seized the two-channel west Beirut branch of the government television station for four hours. They charged the government violated an agreement for a cease-fire at noon by ordering about 10,000 troops with tanks and armored personnel carriers to lay siege to Shiite strongholds.

Staff/Wes Wilmer

Jim Fair inspects the progress of his second-year plants grown by the Cordone-Curtain method of growing grapes.

Kansas wine production earns a toast

By MATT MCMILLEN
Collegian Reporter

Kansas is known throughout the world as the breadbasket of America, but soon wine may be associated with the state, as are wheat fields and grasslands.

"Kansas is on the verge of becoming a very good wine state," said Jim Fair, a retired Manhattan businessman who said he owns the largest vineyard in the state.

"Missouri was the first wine region in the United States, and it is close to Kansas. The climate and soil do not differ a whole lot."

"I made my first wine when we had too many grapes in the backyard, and then last year we started the vineyard."

Fair, 57, now has a 20-acre vineyard, which he said he hopes to double in size within a year or two.

In 1880, Kansas produced one million bottles of wine. During prohibition, winemaking ceased and never regained its popularity. But, last year, a law regulating production and sale of wine was passed, allowing winemakers to begin production.

The biggest problem Fair said he faces is finding the best type of grape to grow in the state. He is experimenting with 11 different types of grapes.

"The best grape to use really depends on the area — you need to fit the grape to the area and cultural practices. One type of grape may grow well in California, but it won't do well in Kansas," he said.

Fair's vineyard is a family enterprise he shares with his two sons. Fair retired a year ago and said he anticipated a great deal of work in getting the vineyard started.

"It takes a lot of time and money to start a vineyard, and once they're started, it's kind of a perpetual thing. Once the vineyard is well-established, we'll need to do a lot of spraying and pruning."

Irrigation is important in growing a grape crop. The dry summer has not hurt the grapes, and those planted in early spring will soon be ready to harvest, Fair said.

"Kansas has a good soil for grapes. I have a heavy clay soil about two feet under the topsoil," he said. "I usually give each plant about five or six gallons of water twice a week."

After the grapes are harvested, the winemaking process begins.

"Not only is it a simple process, but it is also a very inexpensive one. If you have a good grape, there is almost no cost at all. The better the grape, the less sugar needs to be added. The most important thing is to get the proper PH and brix (sugar content)," Fair said.

Fair summarized the winemaking process in a few steps. After the stems are removed from the grapes, the grapes are crushed and put into a vat and sulphite is added to kill wild yeast.

The grapes are then placed in wine yeast to ferment. Once this happens, the grapes are settled in a sealed container. The juice is vacuumed off the top and the sediment is left at the bottom.

"Of course, this is very simplified, but there is not much to it," Fair said.

Before it is finished the wine must sit for a specific amount of time, depending upon the type it wine.

"The white wines take less time than reds. You can drink a white wine in a little over a year. But a hearty red wine must sit from four to seven years," Fair said.

He said starting a vineyard would be an excellent additional source of income for farm families.

"Since it is such an inexpensive process, farm families could make good profits. They already have (basic) equipment and know-how to start a vineyard, and they understand irrigation and soils."

"You can usually get around eight tons of grapes to an acre," Fair said. "You can get around 900 bottles of wine to one ton. At four to six dollars per bottle, that is some good money."

Fair bottles the wine himself. Kansas has no wineries now, but Fair said he has hopes of building his own.

"We will probably build a winery in the future, but that is quite an investment, especially since you don't sell any wine for well over a year," he said. "I think that is why young people will have a hard time getting into the wine business. It is a shame that people usually have to wait for retirement age to do this."

Fair has been involved in winemaking for five years and said his wine is still improving.

"Someone can't just go out and make a good wine. It takes experience and learning. Winemaking really is an art."

Resignation postponed; Begin to decide today

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Menachem Begin kept Israel in suspense Monday by delaying his planned resignation for the second time. But he promised final word on Tuesday morning.

Members of Begin's Herut Party said after meeting with him late Monday that he promised to announce his decision on Tuesday morning. They said he would make the announcement at a meeting with leaders of his ruling coalition after seeing U.S. special Mideast envoy Robert C. McFarlane.

Ehud Olmert, a member of Herut's parliamentary faction, said after meeting with Begin, "His mood is very relaxed."

Olmert told reporters that Begin had said nothing to change his impression that Begin "is resolved to retire." But Ronnie Milo, another parliamentary deputy and Begin's son-in-law, said the chances were 50-50 that Begin would stay on.

A crowd of 50 supporters gathered across the street from Begin's home in the Rehavia quarter of Jerusalem, chanting, "Begin, king of Israel, lives." They waved placards urging him not to resign, including one which said, "Begin, don't abandon us at a time of trouble."

Heads of the ruling coalition parties spent about three hours pleading with Begin to change his mind.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir was mentioned in the Israeli media as Begin's likeliest successor. But Israel Army radio later reported that Deputy Premier David Levy had solid backing too.

Coalition Chairman Abraham Shapira said an early election was possible, and mentioned November as a likely date. He said he did not know whether Begin planned to run for re-election.

Twenty-four hours after Begin dropped his bombshell announcement at a routine Cabinet meeting, the reasons for his move remained largely unknown, and throughout the country, Israelis kept their radios tuned to live broadcasts from the doorstep of Begin's office.

Israel radio said Begin told his colleagues his reasons were strictly personal. Begin appeared to be quashing reports that he had become fed up with his Cabinet.

Begin also denied the notion that he felt too feeble to lead Israel through tough political and economic times, the radio said. At one point Health Minister Eliezer Shostak said he understood that Begin did not feel physically and mentally on top of his job, but Begin cut him short saying "no, that isn't the reason," the radio reported.

Gunmen hold hostages at Tehran airport

By The Associated Press

Four Arabic-speaking gunmen holding 17 hostages aboard a hijacked Air France jetliner at the Tehran airport fired shots into the air and warned of "extreme measures" if France rejects their demands, Iran's Tehran Radio reported early Tuesday.

Broadcasts monitored in Cyprus and other points said the hijackers, who have threatened to blow up the plane and hostages, set a new deadline of 9 a.m. Tuesday — 11:30 a.m. CDT — for a French response. Tehran Radio said the shots were fired into the air from a rear door of the Boeing 727 that was seized Saturday and landed at the Tehran airport Sunday after stops in Switzerland, Sicily and Syria. The aircraft is surrounded by Iranian security forces.

The gunmen, also armed with grenades, demand that France end its support for the Chad government and stop selling arms to Iraq, which is at war with Iran. French officials said there would be no change in government policies.

Iran has called the hijacking an "inhuman act" and demanded that all the hostages, including two or three Americans, be freed.

Iran's official IRNA news agency also reported the 9 a.m. deadline and in a dispatch received in Nicosia, Cyprus, said negotiations were "deadlocked after 27 hours while the plane remains heavily guarded by security forces."

It quoted Reza Tabataba'i, a Foreign Ministry official involved in the negotiations, as saying he hoped the French government would "cooperate to solve this issue in the best possible way."

Tehran Radio said the hijackers were demanding written replies from France to these questions: Why is the French government giving military and economic assistance to the "imposed regime" of Chadian President Hisssein Habre against the Chad revolutionaries?

Why do French forces assist Israeli armed forces against Lebanese and Palestinian revolutionaries in Lebanon? Why is France providing military and economic assistance to Iraq?

The radio station said the hijackers also were demanding that France release a number of Arab prisoners from French jails, with the names of the prisoners to be provided once France agrees.

City to provide fire protection for campus

By KARRA PORTER
Collegian Reporter

The power plant is empty now, and the 1947 Ford fire truck has been stripped of its equipment and duties. The University volunteer fire department is extinct.

In its place is the Manhattan Fire Department, which took over campus fire protection this summer. Earlier in the year, the University and the city reached an agreement to replace the University's all-volunteer fire department with full-time fire protection from the Manhattan Fire Department.

A one-year interim contract, which officially began July 1, was signed in which University agreed to pay the city $57,000 for fire protection.

Larry Reese, Manhattan Fire Department deputy chief, said the transition went smoothly.

"It's really been a good transition. Since we took over in the summer-time, it gave us some time — not a lot, but some time — to do some preplanning on the buildings and campus as a whole," he said.

Much of the preplanning involved developing routes of travel through campus. The University fire department had only one truck and it was not difficult to plan a response, Reese said. But now, a normal response to a reported fire made by the city fire department will include sending two engines, a ladder and a captain in a van to the scene.

"It makes it a little more difficult to watch the routes that the trucks take, so we won't have two apparatus trying to use the same fire hydrant," Reese said.

Other training has been necessary to combat unfamiliarity with the campus, K-State Fire and Safety Officer Larry Zentz said. Being unfamiliar with the campus could be a temporary obstacle for the city firefighters. The former campus fire department was made up of students and campus maintenance personnel, Zentz said.

"We had plumbers and electricians, so if there was a gas leak, for instance, someone knew where it was located and could turn it off." Knowledge of the design of buildings was another advantage of the crew, he said.

The city department is in the process of becoming more familiar with the campus structures and water systems by working closely with University Facilities, Reese said. Once the familiarization is complete, he said he foresees no problems with campus fire protection.

"There's nothing terribly unique about it. What the campus presents is major structures, some very close to each other, some with hazardous materials."

The difference, Reese said, is that "it's a new total responsibility. We have been on campus for every major fire, but not as the responsible party. Now, we will use whatever we have available to extinguish the fire."

What the Manhattan department does have available is much more equipment than the former campus system, Reese said, which might create a congestion problem at the scene of a fire.

As a result, campus police have agreed to close down traffic in the area surrounding a fire. One example of what could happen at a major fire, Reese said, would be possible damage to a five-inch diameter hose, a powerful and expensive hose. If a car ran over it, the hose, which costs $800 per section, would be damaged and the water supply would be cut off to the firemen.

No additional personnel or equipment was added to the city department when it assumed the duties of campus protection, Reese said.

Except for preplanning, the extra duties haven't added much to the Manhattan department's workload, Reese said. There have been no structural fires on campus since the changeover, although there have been several fire runs made. Most have been reports of smoke or possible fire hazards.

"We're anticipating an average of 80 to 100 fire runs a year," Reese said.

For the former University firemen, there will be no more runs. Zentz, a former driver on the volunteer crew, said he will miss his job.

"I guess your adrenalin flows when you make a run. You never know what's going to happen when you do get in on one," he said.

Zentz and the other volunteers have gone back to their regular lifestyles.

Students may get another chance to participate in campus firefighting after the completion of the new fire station in late 1984 or early 1985, Reese said.

"We've projected into the new facility living areas for student firefighters. The student firefighting programs will benefit us and the entire community," he said.

Reese said he is very pleased with the new system of campus fire protection.

"I'm much more pleased with what they've got now than what they were getting. I'm not knocking (the volunteer firemen); they did a very good job with what they had."

Area rape rate rises within past year; local groups, police stress awareness

By KRISTI NELSON
Collegian Reporter

Summer has meant more than just a heat wave in Riley County. Eleven of 13 rapes this year have occurred since June, with four of these occurring near campus.

Lt. Steve French of the Riley County Police Department said these statistics have more than doubled from last year. The Kansas Bureau of Investigation reports a three percent rape crime increase statewide.

To aid in rape and crime prevention, the RCPD has a night investigation squad and an evening walking patrol in Aggieville. French stressed that students should not be hesitant to report suspicious activities or report harassment.

"Rape, as a rule, is a crime of opportunity," French said. He said he discourages accepting rides home from Aggieville with new acquaintances.

RCPD Supervisor Ann Hosler said women need to follow the common rule of safety in numbers. Rapists rarely attack two persons.

"Always walk with a friend," she said.

Hosler said she urges new students attending the University this fall and students living off campus for the first time to follow safety measures for self-protection. Watching for frequent strangers, knowing neighbors well and not hesitating to call the police are all part of rape awareness, she said.

Both the campus Women's Resource Center and the Crisis Center Inc., in Manhattan, offer information, pamphlets and trained professionals to help rape victims or persons who wish to take precautions against rape.

Caroline Peine, director of the WRC, offered several safety precautions. She said if a woman is sleeping in a room with open windows, she should make sure screens are securely locked.

Some measure should also be taken to control the height to which the window can be raised, she said. This can be done by inserting a wooden dowel in the frame above the sliding window. Hammering a nail in the window frame will also prevent the window from being raised high enough for an assailant to enter, Peine said.

She said planting cactus in the window sill can be effective and piling empty aluminum cans in front of the window will form a barrier, which if disturbed, will fall and produce noise.

Judy Davis, director of the Crisis

Center, said a pattern of local successful rapes has taken place in homes where window screens were cut or torn for entry.

Davis suggested using window coverings to avoid provoking an attack. More than 70 percent of all rapes are planned, she said, with both victim and place predetermined.

K-State Police Department Lt. Jim Tubach said between five to six persons patrol campus during the evening. He encouraged students to walk in lighted areas of campus with a friend.

Tubach said students should use the blue-lighted phones in case of emergency. When the phone receiver is lifted, a signal automatically relays to the dispatch and a patrol officer is sent to the scene, he said.

Escort services are available on campus by calling Haymaker or Marlatt Halls. Van Zile Hall is also planning to establish an escort service, Debby Britt, Van Zile secretary, said.

"People often assume rape takes place with a stranger. Acquaintance rape is very common," Peine said.

Date rape and social rape are often not reported. It is important to make reports to the police, Peine said. Reports can be made without pressing charges, she said, or by an anonymous call to 911.

Rape victims should get help and report the incident immediately, according to a brochure about rape from the Crisis Center. Bathing or changing clothes destroys evidence, the brochure said. A local rape crisis center can offer information on what to do and where to go.

Manhattan's Crisis Center employs four full-time and two part-time professionals in addition to student interns and volunteers. The center's phone line, 539-3736, operates 24 hours a day.

The WRC offers a weekly rape survivors' support group meeting. This group provides a safe environment in which women may share their experiences, feelings and coping strategies as well as give mutual support and attempt to dispel myths, Sue Reiger, assistant director, said.

The resource center also sponsors Women Against Rape, a group that will meet at the Washburn Recreational Complex to learn self-defense and attack prevention, Reiger said.

Rape is a crime of violence and can happen to anyone, French said. The best precautions are awareness and prevention.

Car wreck injures students

By The Collegian Staff

One member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity was seriously injured when the car he was riding in missed a curve on Carnahan Creek Road east of Tuttle Creek Reservoir. The accident occurred at approximately 9:30 p.m. Friday, said an official of the Pottawatomie County Sheriff's Department.

Bruce Cook, sophomore in construction science, is in St. Luke's Hospital in Kansas City, Mo. with serious multiple injuries, said Barbara Robel, Greek Affairs adviser.

The driver of the car, Greg Schmidt, was treated and released at St. Mary Hospital. Schmidt is a junior in feed science and management and is also a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

There was no evidence of skid marks and no ticket has been issued, the sheriff's official said.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

We're having an information meeting tonight, Aug. 30, at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre. Come and meet some people who jump out of perfectly good airplanes, see our parachuting equipment, watch a movie, and sign up for a first jump class this fall. We'll try to answer ALL your questions... come check us out!

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB

Western Auto SUPER SAVER

FREE Speedometer
With purchase of 26 in. or 27 in.
Western Flyer Supreme 10-Speed
A 24.99 Value! $22.75/8.9

Bikes Sold in the Carton

Save 40.00

129.99

Your Choice—Men's or Women's 26 in. or Men's 27 in. 10-Speed

• Supre-Lite cut-away lugged frames
• Shimano RS derailleur dual position brake levers
• Rat trap pedals with safety reflectors. Ea. 34-2956.57.58

Men's 27 in. 12-Speed Bike. 34-2964-4 139.99

Western Auto

Sale Prices Good Thru Saturday
We reserve the right to limit quantities

Burnett Automotive

210 N. 4th 776-4806

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS is now taking applications for legislative assembly delegates. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL SEAT now open. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

ARTS AND SCIENCES STUDENT SENATE SEAT now available. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS is taking applications for 1983-84 steering committee. Apply in SGS office by 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

AGRICULTURE STUDENTS: One position is left for student senator. Pick up applications in Waters 120 and return by 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

INFORMATION AND SIGN-UP MEETING will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 1 for the Winfield Bluegrass Festival Mini Trip. Sign-up will continue through 4 p.m. Sept. 8. Sign up in Union Activities Center.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS membership drive is this week. Come visit the table in the Union.

TODAY

MARKETING CLUB membership sign-up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Aug. 30 to Sept. 1 in Calvin Hall, first floor. Resume catalog service is available for members.

KSU HORSEMAN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 107.

AG COMMUNICATORS OF TOMORROW officers meet at 6:30 p.m. in Kedzie 216.

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

NAMA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

WHEAT STATE AGRONOMY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

KSU HORSEMAN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 107.

GERMAN TABLE meets at noon in Union Stateroom 1. Anyone interested in German conversation is welcome.

INDEPENDENT READING PROGRAM meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 173 for an organizational meeting.

ADULT & OCCUPATIONAL GRADUATE CLUB meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 2. Dr. Charles Oakleaf will be speaking on non-credit adult learning.

KANSAS STATE STUDENT SPEECH LANGUAGE HEARING ASSOCIATION meets at 5:30 p.m. in the City Park near the shelter house for a picnic and meeting. Bring your favorite dish.

HOME ECONOMIC OPEN HOUSE STEERING COMMITTEE EXECUTIVES meet at 4:15 p.m. in Hoffman Lounge in Justin Hall.

ENGINEERING AMBASSADORS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

KSU AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Seaton 164K to discuss important business for coming year. All Hams invited to attend, members or not.

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING (ALL MAJORS) meet for placement orientation meeting from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

MATH. PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY, CHEMICAL SCIENCE, BIOCHEMISTRY, GEOLOGY, GEOPHYSICS, STATISTICS MAJORS meet for placement orientation meeting from 4 to 4:50 p.m. in Eisenhower 15.

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union 208.

PEP COORDINATING COUNCIL meets at 8 p.m. in Union 203. This is an important meeting.

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES meets at 8:30 p.m. in Blumont 111.

WEDNESDAY

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Alazack M. Alsenoy at 10 a.m. in Room A of the Vet Med Library. The topic is "Comparative Light and Electron Microscopic Study of Experimental Actinobacillus Seminis Mastitis in Ewes."

Apple STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR
TACO TUESDAY!
• TACOS FOR LUNCH OR DINNER
• 99¢ MARGARITAS
TOMORROW IS LASAGNA WED.!

Some of our classrooms aren't classrooms
This semester, try something impossible:
• Mountaineering
• Orienteering
• Care of Combat Casualties
• Map Reading
ARMY ROTC.
LEARN WHAT IT TAKES TO LEAD.

VISOR DAY TUESDAYS!
• Free Kite's Visor With 6 Pitchers (Regular Price)
Visor pitcher coupons good any Tuesday
MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...
KITE'S BAR AND GRILLE

GOODSON AUTO TRIM
Tailor Made Seat Covers
Tanneau Covers—Boat Covers—Convertible Tops
Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery
207 Poyntz
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

All Business Majors
FREE BEER!
Finance Club Membership Drive
Thurs., Sept. 1, Kites Backroom 7:30

The Sun Survival Kit
CASH $12.99 with any $10.00 purchase of Sun Protection Products
MERLE NORMAN
The Place for the Custom Face

Kansas State COLLEGIAN
THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 026) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.
OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.
SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.
SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.
THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.
Editor: Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager: John McGrath

Closed Classes as of Today.

00040	03770	06570	08430	09070	10350	12420	14310	15670	20340	22140	24570	26440	28270	31640	33880	34750	36120
00080	03840	06640	08490	09080	10360	12430	14320	15680	20350	22150	24580	26450	28280	31650	33890	34760	36130
00120	03900	06700	08550	09090	10380	12450	14340	15700	20370	22170	24600	26470	28300	31670	33910	34770	36140
00160	03960	06760	08610	09130	10400	12470	14360	15720	20390	22190	24620	26490	28320	31690	33930	34790	36160
00200	04020	06820	08670	09150	10420	12490	14380	15740	20410	22210	24640	26510	28340	31710	33950	34810	36180
00240	04080	06880	08730	09170	10440	12510	14400	15760	20430	22230	24660	26530	28360	31730	33970	34830	36200
00280	04140	06940	08790	09190	10460	12530	14420	15780	20450	22250	24680	26550	28380	31750	33990	34850	36220
00320	04200	06990	08850	09210	10480	12550	14440	15800	20470	22270	24700	26570	28400	31770	34010	34870	36240
00360	04260	07050	08910	09230	10500	12570	14460	15820	20490	22290	24720	26590	28420	31790	34030	34890	36260
00400	04320	07110	08970	09250	10520	12590	14480	15840	20510	22310	24740	26610	28440	31810	34050	34910	36280
00440	04380	07170	09030	09270	10540	12610	14500	15860	20530	22330	24760	26630	28460	31830	34070	34930	36300
00480	04440	07230	09090	09290	10560	12630	14520	15880	20550	22350	24780	26650	28480	31850	34090	34950	36320
00520	04500	07290	09150	09310	10580	12650	14540	15900	20570	22370	24800	26670	28500	31870	34110	34970	36340
00560	04560	07350	09210	09330	10600	12670	14560	15920	20590	22390	24820	26690	28520	31890	34130	34990	36360
00600	04620	07410	09270	09350	10620	12690	14580	15940	20610	22410	24840	26710	28540	31910	34150	35010	36380
00640	04680	07470	09330	09370	10640	12710	14600	15960	20630	22430	24860	26730	28560	31930	34170	35030	36400
00680	04740	07530	09390	09390	10660	12730	14620	15980	20650	22450	24880	26750	28580	31950	34190	35050	36420
00720	04800	07590	09450	09410	10680	12750	14640	16000	20670	22470	24900	26770	28600	31970	34210	35070	36440
00760	04860	07650	09510	09430	10700	12770	14660	16020	20690	22490	24920	26790	28620	31990	34230	35090	36460
00800	04920	07710	09570	09450	10720	12790	14680	16040	20710	22510	24940	26810	28640	32010	34250	35110	36480
00840	04980	07770	09630	09470	10740	12810	14700	16060	20730	22530	24960	26830	28660	32030	34270	35130	36500
00880	05040	07830	09690	09490	10760	12830	14720	16080	20750	22550	24980	26850	28680	32050	34290	35150	36520
00920	05100	07890	09750	09510	10780	12850	14740	16100	20770	22570	25000	26870	28700	32070	34310	35170	36540
00960	05160	07950	09810	09530	10800	12870	14760	16120	20790	22590	25020	26890	28720	32090	34330	35190	36560
01000	05220	08010	09870	09550	10820	12890	14780	16140	20810	22610	25040	26910	28740	32110	34350	35210	36580
01040	05280	08070	09930	09570	10840	12910	14800	16160	20830	22630	25060	26930	28760	32130	34370	35230	36600
01080	05340	08130	09990	09590	10860	12930	14820	16180	20850	22650	25080	26950	28780	32150	34390	35250	36620
01120	05400	08190	10050	09610	10880	12950	14840	16200	20870	22670	25100	26970	28800	32170	34410	35270	36640
01160	05460	08250	10110	09630	10900	12970	14860	16220	20890	22690	25120	26990	28820	32190	34430	35290	36660
01200	05520	08310	10170	09650	10920	12990	14880	16240	20910	22710	25140	27010	28840	32210	34450	35310	36680
01240	05580	08370	10230	09670	10940	13010	14900	16260	20930	22730	25160	27030	28860	32230	34470	35330	36700
01280	05640	08430	10290	09690	10960	13030	14920	16280	20950	22750	25180	27050	28880	32250	34490	35350	36720
01320	05700	08490	10350	09710	10980	13050	14940	16300	20970	22770	25200	27070	28900	32270	34510	35370	36740
01360	05760	08550	10410	09730	11000	13070	14960	16320	20990	22790	25220	27090	28920	32290	34530	35390	36760
01400	05820	08610	10470	09750	11020	13090	14980	16340	21010	22810	25240	27110	28940	32310	34550	35410	36780
01440	05880	08670	10530	09770	11040	13110	15000	16360	21030	22830	25260	27130	28960	32330	34570	35430	36800
01480	05940	08730	10590	09790	11060	13130	15020	16380	21050	22850	25280	27150	28980	32350	34590	35450	36820
01520	05990	08790	10650	09810	11080	13150	15040	16400	21070	22870	25300	27170	29000	32370	34610	35470	36840
01560	06050	08850	10710	09830	11100	13170	15060	16420	21090	22890	25320	27190	29020	32390	34630	35490	36860
01600	06110	08910	10770	09850	11120	13190	15080	16440	21110	22910	25340	27210	29040	32410	34650	35510	36880
01640	06170	08970	10830	09870	11140	13210	15100	16460	21130	22930	25360	27230	29060	32430	34670	35530	36900
01680	06230	09030	10890	09890	11160	13230	15120	16480	21150	22950	25380	27250	29080	32450	34690	35550	36920
01720	06290	09090	10950	09910	11180	13250	15140	16500	21170	22970	25400	27270	29100	32470	34710	35570	36940
01760	06350	09150	11010	09930	11200	13270	15160	16520	21190	22990	25420	27290	29120	32490	34730	35590	36960
01800	06410	09210	11070	09950	11220	13290	15180	16540	21210	23010	25440	27310	29140	32510	34750	35610	36980
01840	06470	09270	11130	09970	11240	13310	15200	16560	21230	23030	25460	27330	29160	32530	34770	35630	37000
01880	06530	09330	11190	09990	11260	13330	15220	16580	21250	23050	25480	27350	29180	32550	34790	35650	37020
01920	06590	09390	11250	10010	11280	13350	15240	16600	21270	23070	25500	27370	29200	32570	34810	35670	37040
01960	06650	09450	11310	10030	11300	13370	15260	16620	21290	23090	25520	27390	29220	32590	34830	35690	37060
02000	06710	09510	11370	10050	11320	13390	15280	16640	21310	23110	25540	27410	29240	32610	34850	35710	37080
02040	06770	09570	11430	10070	11340	13410	15300	16660	21330	23130	25560	27430	29260	32630	34870	35730	37100
02080	06830	09630	11490	10090	11360	13430	15320	16680	21350	23150	25580	27450	29280	32650	34890	35750	37120
02120	06890	09690	11550	10110	11380	13450	15340	16700	21370	23170	25600	27470	29300	32670	34910	35770	37140
02160	06950	09750	11610	10130	11400	13470	15360	16720	21390	23190	25620	27490	29320	32690	34930	35790	37160
02200	07010	09810	11670	10150	11420	13490	15380	16740	21410	23210	25640	27510	29340	32710	34950	35810	37180
02240	07070	09870	11730	10170	11440	13510	15400	16760	21430	23230	25660	27530	29360	32730	34970	35830	37200
02280	07130	09930	11790	10190	11460	13530	15420	16780	21450	23250	25680	27550	29380	32750	34990	35850	37220
02320	07190	09990	11850	10210	11480	13550	15440	16800	21470	23270	25700	27570	29400	32770	35010	35870	37240
02360	07250	10050	11910	10230	11500	13570	15460	16820	21490	23290	25720	27590	29420	32790	35030	35890	37260
02400	07310	10110	11970	10250	11520	13590	15480	16840	21510	23310	25740	27610	29440	32810	35050	35910	37280
02440	07370	10170	12030	10270	11540	13610	15500	16860	21530	23330	25760	27630	29460	32830	35070	35930	37300
02480	07430	10230	12090	10290	11560	13630	15520	16880	21550	23350	25780	27650	29480	32850	35090	35950	37320
02520	07490	10290	12150	10310	11580	13650	15540	16900	21570	23370	25800	27670	29500	32870	35110	35970	37340
02560	07550	10350	12210	10330	11600	13670	15560	16920	21590	23390	25820	27690	29520	32890	35130	35990	37360
02600	07610	10410	12270	10350	11620	13690	15580	16940	21610	23410	25840	27710	29540	32910	35150	36010	37380
02640	07670	10470	12330	10370	11640	13710	15600	16960	21630	23430	25860	27730	29560	32930	35170	36030	37400
02680	07730	10530	12390	10390	11660	13730	15620	16980	21650</

Carlin to consider high technology proposal

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A blue-ribbon panel of Kansas business leaders today capped seven months of work by presenting Gov. John Carlin with 31 pages of recommendations for developing high technology industry in the state.

The Task Force on High Technology Development, led by former U.S. Sen. James Pearson, produced 40 wide-ranging proposals for expanding and attracting high tech industry to the state — including several suggestions that promise to be very controversial.

"We think high technology development in Kansas is feasible," Pearson said in a ceremony in the governor's office. "In our report we set out the advantages Kansas offers to high technology industry, and some of the disadvantages."

"Basically, we think we should expand high technology on its existing base and create new high technology industry on that base. We should expand on what we do best. I think we know more about our state now than we did before and that will help."

Pearson said the task force tried to produce a formula the governor will use as a blue-print for his recommendations to the 1984 Kansas Legislature. The group, composed of 21 business and industrial leaders from all professional fields, presented Carlin with 40 high tech proposals — including 19 "priority recommendations."

The list of suggestions includes scrapping Kansas' unit banking system in favor of multi-bank holding companies and liberal branch banking, overhauling the state property tax system and immediately increasing high school graduation requirements.

Besides the proposals, the task force also gave Carlin a suggested timetable for implementation of the plan.

"We think Gov. Carlin ought to take this document and use it as he sees fit," Pearson said. "I'm sure he'll consider it a blueprint for his recommendations to the Legislature."

Pearson predicted that controversy over the banking proposals, the tax changes and emphasis on education in the high tech development formula was inevitable.

"Inevitably you get controversy with some issues but it would be silly to duck them," Pearson said. "And really, they are minor when you consider the mass of the report — the body of things such as the quality of life and education issues. Some of these things will attract more attention, though."

The report is broken into four sections: Business Climate-Quality of Life; Research and Development; Marketing and Promotion; and Work Force.

The major theme throughout the report centers on the need to remove restrictions from businesses and banks to allow growth and rapid expansion. Specific suggestions include the multi-bank and property tax proposals — such as tax exemptions for manufacturers' equipment, machinery and inventories.

The task force also promoted removal of "excessive restrictions on small-growth companies by reviewing the impact of state regulations on the state business climate" and revamping the state banking code and securities laws.

Educational issues were stressed in the report and suggestions included calling on the Board of Regents to encourage consulting contracts between university faculty and industry. The plan also calls for expansion of the "Centers of Excellence" established by the 1983 Kansas Legislature.

On the topic of high school graduation requirements, the advisory group called for mandatory computer science work plus exposure to foreign languages and fine arts. Specifically, the report calls for four years of English, three years each of mathematics and social studies, two years each of science, foreign language and fine arts and half a year of computer science.

The state Board of Education voted in July to raise graduation standards to require four years of English, three years of social studies, two years each of math and laboratory science and one year of physical education. The other eight hours would be left to the discretion of local school districts.

Carlin said he was pleased to receive the report and commended the group for its quick work. He refused to comment on specific parts of the report, but said some proposals would be implemented immediately through changes in administrative rules and regulations.

Other suggestions would require more study and possibly be submitted to the Legislature for consideration.

"Of course, high technology is a complex field and the committee did a very good job," Carlin said. "We have to recognize our potential and zero in on those areas and attempt to expand. You have to build on your strengths. We know for sure that within this state we have some excellent opportunities, some great potential for developing high technology industry."

Peacekeeping forces to stay in Beirut

By The Associated Press

SANTA BARBARA — President Reagan, while expressing "profound sorrow" at the first two combat deaths of U.S. Marines in Beirut, ordered on Monday that the size and mission of the peacekeeping forces remain unchanged.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, meanwhile, pointedly suggested Syrian and Soviet complicity in the shelling that also wounded 14 other Marines.

Reagan, vacationing at his mountaintop ranch, conferred on the matter via telephone with Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State George P. Shultz in Washington. Counselor Edwin Meese III and national security adviser William P. Clark, working out of offices in Santa Barbara, also joined the session.

Earlier, Bush, Shultz, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Gen. John Vessey, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had met as a "special situation" group to assess developments in Lebanon and draft recommendations for Reagan.

Speakes said Reagan accepted their call for no change in the size, mission or patrol area of the 1,200 U.S. Marines taking part in the multi-national peacekeeping force.

Speakes said those issues remain under continuing review and indicated it may yet be changed.

The dead were identified as 2nd Lt. Donald Losey, 28, of Winston-Salem, N.C., and Staff Sgt. Alexander M. Ortega, 25, of Rochester, N.Y. They were the first killed under fire since a contingent of 1,200 Marines was sent to Beirut a little more than a year ago as part of an international peacekeeping force.

A Defense Department spokesman said the wounded suffered only minor injuries and would not be identified.

The deaths of Losey and Ortega prompted calls by influential members of Congress for Reagan to invoke the War Powers Act, a step that would require the Marines to be withdrawn within 90 days unless Congress approves keeping them in Lebanon.

"We can no longer have the president denying that there is imminent danger in Lebanon," said Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, a contender for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination. Such a move also was endorsed by Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Speakes said that while congressional leaders were being briefed on developments, he did not anticipate any formal notification to Congress under the War Powers Act. He did say the "special situation" group ordered a review to make sure the administration was complying with the law.

State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said, however, that the administration's obligations under the War Powers Act were "under intensive study" as a result of the fatal attack on the Marines. He said the administration will "take whatever action is called for."

PROGRAM ASSIGNMENT DUE? CAN'T FIND A TERMINAL?

Buy or rent a terminal and modem for your computer class! Now you can access the KSU computer in the comfort of your own home using your telephone. Avoid the rush! Prices start at $495 per semester, $795 per year. Call Manhattan Computers at (913) 539-5216, or stop by 227A Poyntz (upstairs).

Meet your friends at

Memberships Available at only $10 thru Aug. 31
531 N. Manhattan Office 539-9727 Bar

Tonight
BUSHWACKER
BLASTER NITE
$1.25 all night
HAPPY HOUR: 4-9
2 fers on hi balls
75¢ draws
$2 blended drinks

FALL SEMESTER WEIGHT CONTROL CLASSES

First Classes:

- Wed. Aug. 31
- 11:30 a.m. & 1:30 p.m.
- At Lafene Student Health Center
- Room 19

Paid Student Health Fees required.

SENATE SEAT NOW OPEN

ARTS & SCIENCE STUDENTS
Apply by Wednesday at 5:00 in SGS Office

KSU Horsemen's Association

Meeting Tonight — 7:30
Weber 107

FLYING LESSONS
AIRCRAFT RENTAL
PILOT SERVICES
free ground instruction
flexible scheduling
reasonable rates

J. Van Sway

537-0132

LONG NECK NITE

TUESDAYS!

- All Long Necks Only 75¢! (7 p.m.-closing)

ROCKIN' K BAR

MOUNTAIN OYSTER FRY THURS.

from $150

As distinctive as your own fingerprint.
Your engagement Diamond.
Select it from our large collection;
wear it proudly and beautifully

REED & ELLIOTT
Jewelers

CERTIFIED GEMOLOGIST
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

Diamond Specialists

402 Poyntz

776-4000

DIRECTORS CHAIR . . . $34.99

Compare at $49.99, a classic furnishing for college apartments. Pier 1 is a direct importer of these chairs from Thailand, which eliminates middleman mark up and now the savings is yours.

The new
Pier 1
collections
323 Houston
(next to Sears)

City fire protection

The University has wisely decided to take the job of fighting fires out of the hands of volunteers and give it to professionals.

For years the volunteer department, largely a band of K-State students and physical plant workers, had responded to fire calls on campus. As the deputy chief of the Manhattan Fire Department put it, "They did a very good job with what they had."

The problem with the volunteer department was "what they had." The volunteer department had limited and outdated equipment. Even with the city department responding to campus calls, the first truck on the scene would be the volunteers'. They were limited in what they could do at a fire.

Also, the volunteers had other jobs and were trained to be firefighters on the side. Their main focus was what they were hired to do with the University.

There are many advantages of having the city take care of campus fire protection. The personnel will be men whose only job is that of a fireman. They are trained specially for that purpose, and often have more experience in responding to calls.

There is also the advantage of equipment. The city has two engines and a ladder responding to calls from the Poyntz fire station. The trucks are newer than the volunteer department's 1947 truck. The city has more money to spend on new equipment, especially now that the University is paying the city $57,000 a year for the fire protection.

The $57,000 investment represents, in our opinion, a fine fiscal decision. The sum is small compared to the cost of replacing a building destroyed by fire. K-State needed the extra fire protection.

Although there are still weak points in the changeover process, it should not take long for them to be worked out. If the University and the city work together on the problems, such as access to the nooks and crannies of Seaton Hall in event of fire, the campus could have the best fire protection possible.

But with disbanding the campus volunteer fire department, we must not fail to recognize the fine efforts and contributions of the volunteers toward campus protection. The volunteers are to be applauded for their commitment and dedication to the University.

In a day when so many people are going on strike for higher wages, it is a pleasure to find people who are willing to volunteer their time and efforts to aid the community. We hope that when the new fire station is built, the volunteers who served the campus before will again be given the chance to use their skills.

Pan Am drug games

For the first time in the 32-year history of the Pan American Games, athletes have been stripped of their medals for using drugs determined illegal by the competition's governing bodies.

The drug detection effort is apparently designed to ensure that athletes will not depend upon drugs for better performance or training assistance. Those individuals who have the win-at-all-cost attitude must now rethink their goals and objectives.

On August 23, the day that weightlifter Jeff Michels of Chicago tested positive for steroids and was stripped of his three gold medals, 13 of the United States' athletes suddenly left Caracas, Venezuela, before their competition began.

Even more of a punishment for Michels is the fact he faces banishment from the Olympic games in Los Angeles next summer.

So now, perhaps we will discover if athletes will continue to gamble on drugs which may help in the short run but in the long run will likely take their toll.

In 1967, Sports Illustrated reported that a doctor polled more than 100 runners. He asked them whether they would take a drug that could make them Olympic champions if they knew it might injure or kill them in a year.

More than half the athletes said they would.

It would be disappointing for fans who have not given up the dream that big time competition and amateur sports can coexist to see the win-at-all-cost attitude prevail. Perhaps the testing in Caracas is a necessary, though sad, step in the right direction.

Not long ago Americans were proud that their athletes won events against persons from Eastern Bloc countries — where it was "known" that every athlete was aided by drugs.

With the introduction of the new drug-detection processes, the possibility of drug-free Olympic Games may exist for now. That is, until some individuals find a way around these procedures.

Collegian editorials reflect the views of the Collegian and its editor. The editorials are unsigned for this reason and reflect the opinions of contributing members of the editorial board. The board determines the editorial stand of the Collegian on current issues. The Collegian editorial board members are: Paul Hanson, Editor; Brad Gillispie, Editorial Page Editor. Lucinda Ellison, Sandy Lang, Sean Reilly, Becky Schoof, Alan Stolfus, Kacia Stolfus, Dee Anne Thomas and Rhonda Wessell.

Letters

Life is full of inconveniences

Editor,
I have worked on this campus for a number of years and have listened to students' complaints about a variety of topics. Although I admit that there are complaints that are legitimate, I also find that a lot of these "complaints" center around what is and isn't convenient for the students.

The editorial in the August 26 Collegian is an example. It is inconvenient to the students that offices are closed during the lunch hour and so it should be changed. It is unclear to me how keeping offices open over this hour helps to fulfill the aim of the University ("that of providing educational opportunity to the students").

As one who has helped students set up their class schedules I have met with a great deal of students reluctant to sign up for early morning and late afternoon classes simply because it is inconvenient. It is true that students don't have set times for lunch. However, staff personnel don't have much choice in the way our work hours are scheduled. I can imagine what would happen if I told my supervisor that I wouldn't be in until 10 a.m. because I don't like to get up early and that I would not work any later than 4 o'clock in the afternoon, especially on Fridays, because, after all, I have other things to do. The point is that university offices are open a total of eight hours a day and I find it hard to believe that a student can't find some time in his schedule during those eight hours to visit a university office other than the time when staff are on lunch break. As far as a student's work preventing him from doing so, one does what anyone who works does when trying to schedule a personal appointment of some kind or needs to run an errand of a personal nature — you ask for time off. I know of no employer who does not allow such time off and would probably rather pay a wage than in the cases of students, employers are more lenient than with their regular staff.

Maybe we who work from 8 to 5 should ask the local businesses, doctors' offices, etc. to stay open past 5 o'clock because it is inconvenient for us to schedule appointments, run errands, etc. during regular hours.

Offices being closed over the lunch hour may be a matter of inconvenience but life is full of inconveniences and all of us who are part of this university have our share — students, professors and staff.

Mary Brazzle
Secretary I

Dept. doesn't close

Editor,
Your editorial "Closed for Lunch" makes a good deal of sense. Nonetheless, you have offended the secretaries in at least one of the University's largest departments, since we in the English Department have not closed for lunch since 1979. Perhaps, then, your generalization about departments is too sweeping.

Henry J. Donaghy
Dept. Head, English

Open adoption records

Ann Landers really stepped on it big time this time.

First of all I'd like to point out that I am not an avid Landers reader. In fact this was the first column I've read for a long time.

Last Monday I was skimming the headlines in another newspaper, and I came across a headline dealing with closed adoption records. This subject is of interest to me, since I am adopted, so I thought I'd read the letter.

The letter was from a woman who wished to adopt a child. She asked Ann if all adoption records were open. She said that when she did adopt a child she did not want to "live in fear that one day I will hear a voice on the other end of the phone or meet face-to-face at my front door a woman who says 'I want to see the child you adopted fifteen years ago. She belongs to me.'"

Before this woman even considers adopting a child, she should get this fear under control.

She said that she could not think of anything that would be more disruptive to a child than a stranger to demand entry into a young person's life.

I wonder if she worries about her child's life, or her own.

If adopted children are told they are adopted when they are old enough to understand, the entrance of a birth mother or father would not be such a surprise, and possibly a blessing.

The worst thing that can happen is a birth parent showing up when the child has no idea he or she is adopted.

Adoption is an important event in a child's life, and most children never get to remember the experience. If a parent keeps it a secret, and the child finds out, the child could feel a deep resentment. They can feel lied to, and in fact they have been. This time can be even more stressful for both child and parent if it happens during puberty, when children are sometimes resentful of a parent's authority. A new birth parent can bring a welcome change into a stormy relationship.

But if the bond between child and adopted parents is strong, the relationship will survive. Most will become stronger.

Many adoptive parents use excuses like, the time was never right, or I was afraid it would disrupt the child if he knew.

Parents answer, with pride, questions of young children about what it was like for mom when they were born, or how it felt to carry them. But they hide the fact that they went through a great deal to raise a child that was not theirs at birth.

The legal hassle of adopting a child matches any "natural birth process" you can possibly imagine. If you have any doubts, just ask someone who is trying to adopt. The waiting list is years long, their financial affairs are reviewed, their homes invaded to make sure they are "fit" for a child. No state goes to this extent when a couple can have their own children. I wonder how many childless homes there would be if they did.

Many children who know they are adopted have questions about their heritage, questions on why they were "given up." To close all adoption records is a crime which leaves these questions unanswered.

In Kansas, adoption records are opened to adopted children over the age of 18. In most states those records are closed. Ann Landers, in her wisdom, just supported a bill in Illinois to seal these records forever.

An adoption registry has been proposed in Kansas, in which both adopted children and natural parents could register. This registry could assist adopted children obtaining more complete medical records on their biological family, a big help in obtaining information about inherited diseases and identifying potential organ donors.

A Kansas City-area group, Concerned United Birthparents, also wants an educational program that would help children and parents prepare for a reunion.

The registry could also teach children how to search for their parents, or parents for children. It might also ensure that both parties want to be found.

I am not saying that all adopted children, or birth parents want to be united. That is simply not true. Many people want to forget the child they gave away, and many adopted children don't want to bother with their birth parents.

But many children do want to know about their heritage, and many birth parents spend a part of each day wondering about the child they chose, for whatever reason, to give up.

Adoption registries, like the one now being considered, and open adoption records will help many children and parents answer questions that nobody else can.

Paraquat showmanship

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's decision to enlist the controversial herbicide paraquat in his battle against marijuana may achieve the administration's goal of encouraging Latin American countries to do the same.

Earnest concern about pot, however, is insufficient reason to begin a domestic spraying program. High-priced showmanship might be a suitable description for Washington's most controversial anti-drug effort since Congress briefly suspended overseas use of the U.S.-made chemical in 1979.

To date, only national forest land in Georgia and Kentucky has undergone a treatment that federal officials contend could involve as many as 40 states. In Northeastern Tennessee, federal teams employing 20 agents and two helicopters combed Cherokee National Forest for two days for possible spraying before deciding that its marijuana patches were unsuitable. As a precaution against tipping off pot farmers, the Drug Enforcement Administration is remaining secretive about future spraying sites.

White House drug abuse policy officials, led by former University of Mississippi drug researcher Carlton Turner, openly admit their targets are more political than anything else. Since 1981, when Congress lifted its ban on subsidies for paraquat export, the U.S. has had more trouble pushing the herbicide on such prominent pot exporters as Colombia and Peru than it did on Mexico during the '70s. By instituting a domestic program, said Drug Abuse Policy Office spokesman Patrick McKelvey, "We're trying...to show that we're not being hypocritical."

McKelvey insists that paraquat represents no health hazard to residents living near targeted areas. Of the contaminated pot which manages to reach the marketplace, McKelvey says that its unwitting users face only a limited health risk.

He cites as proof a study, conducted by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, which found that as much as 99.8 percent of tested paraquat samples decomposed during combustion.

But opposition from assorted governors, members of Congress and private health and environmental groups shows that the consensus on paraquat is hardly unanimous. Doubts about paraquat's benignancy exist principally as a result of studies by the federal government itself. In 1979, the then Department of Health, Education and Welfare under Secretary Joseph Califano (who, among other recent projects, oversaw an investigation of drug abuse on Capitol Hill) called paraquat a health risk, as did the National Academy of Sciences in a report issued last year.

Last month, in the American Journal of Public Health, the CDC's Philip J. Landrigan wrote that, according to a computer-assisted study, as many as 300 U.S. marijuana smokers may have inhaled harmful doses (500 milligrams) of paraquat annually from 1975 to 1979. Perhaps more importantly, Landrigan added that CDC researchers had not considered the potential pulmonary damages from the inhalation of 4,4'-dipyridyl, a toxic chemical produced by the combustion of paraquat and found in much larger residual quantities.

Though U.S. farmers are said to spray up to 11 million acres of crops with paraquat annually, a June 1983 Science Digest article said that as many as 500 persons may have died as a result of paraquat's agricultural uses. In that light, the deleterious effects of spraying near national recreation areas and water supplies seem less dismissable.

Even the Chevron Chemical Co., one of two firms licensed to sell paraquat in the U.S., has voiced its concern about the domestic spraying to the DEA. "Because of all the unknowns," said Chevron spokesman G. Michael March, "we prefer that our product not be used on marijuana."

Meanwhile, the administration's effort to limit paraquat applications to, in McKelvey's words, "areas that are hard to get to," only exposes its economic inefficiency. Even those who support marijuana eradication would have to look skeptically on a program that has as targets patches with no more than 13 plants each, as was the case in Georgia recently, or nets 19 plants in all, as happened in Kentucky last weekend.

Such unimpressive statistics would seem sufficient to prod the White House to seek economies of scale, at least. As McKelvey even admits, "The Colombians have been encouraged to employ paraquat principally because of the enormous pot acreage in their country."

Yet is the administration prepared to spray renowned marijuana farms of California, a mecca for environmentalists? Given state and local officialdom's hostile response to date, will the White House wish to risk alienating more states as November 1984 draws near?

If not, then the latest paraquat scare may be shortlived. But the president will have gone to much expense and some risk to bluff a few Latin nations and many more skeptical Americans.

Shoppers save with generic drugs, no-frills food

By JOHN CREGO
Collegian Reporter

Packaging of drugs and supermarket items is changing from an array of colors and designs to the simplistic contrast of black and white. Generic white-labeled products, found today in many supermarkets, are becoming more popular among consumers across the nation.

In addition, many doctors are recommending substitution of generic drugs for the more expensive name brands.

"Kansas has a good substitution law for generic drugs," said Wayne T. Gregoire, a local pharmacist.

Although provisions are made for the exchange of name brands of drugs for generic brand drugs, the pharmacist may not make the change without permission from the doctor.

"The permission is given on the prescription form. The doctor may also give the change order over the phone in Kansas," Gregoire said.

Because the quality of all drugs is controlled by federal law, all of the generic drugs are the same quality as the name brands. The generic drug must be chemically and therapeutically identical to the name brand product before the Federal Drug Administration will allow it to be sold.

FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy said in the February 1978 FDA Consumer, "There is simply no evidence to support the notion of serious quality difference between generic and brand name drugs."

"We make sure that the customer knows about a change from a brand name drug to a generic drug. If the customer gives permission to change, then we do it," Gregoire said.

"Most people will exchange because of the one-third to one-half savings with the generic brand drug. It is a good deal and it makes sense to save money," he said.

Brand names and actual drug names are sometimes confused by the general public. The Bayer Co., for example, makes aspirin. St. Joseph Co. also makes an aspirin product and gives it the company name.

But, an aspirin, is an aspirin, is an aspirin. The FDA Consumer states, "any product that is aspirin has all the identical properties of any other product that carries the aspirin name."

The only difference between an extra-strength aspirin and a regular-strength aspirin is the size of the tablet. An extra-strength aspirin costs more simply because it is larger. The generic brand tablet is identical to the name brand.

The FDA Consumer said, "It is a popular misconception that brand name drugs are produced only by large well-known firms, while generics are made by small unknown companies. A small drug company can put a name brand on its product just as a large company can market a drug under its generic name."

"Since the name of the actual manufacturer of a drug does not have to appear on the product label (except in a few states), neither consumers nor pharmacists may be aware that a drug carrying the brand name of one company actually was made by another firm," the magazine states.

"Not only must each drug meet FDA requirements, so must each drug company. All firms must register with FDA; all are subject to periodic inspection, must follow FDA Good Manufacturing Practice Regulations (GMPs) that touch on every aspect of making drugs, from building maintenance to quality control."

The generic craze is not limited to drugs. In almost all supermarkets the drab white cans of generic products are found.

As food prices soar, consumers are turning to generic foods to save money on their total food bill. The selection of these generic foods is growing with their increasing popularity among consumers.

But, the FDA is trying to discourage the term "generic" for these food products and to replace the term with the name "no-frills."

The November 1978 FDA Consumer said, "FDA officials have discouraged the use of that name for this type of food because it may confuse consumers, who will think the term has a meaning similar or equivalent to generic drugs, which is not the case."

The same FDA report said "the term referred to as no-frills means no-frills packaging. It describes a method of merchandising or marketing scheme, not a class of food."

No brand names or advertisements are located on the "no-frills" packaged or canned food. Usually, fresh meats and vegetables are not included in the marketing plans because these items are not usually packaged and sold under brand names.

But the FDA has requirements for these foods, as well as for the generic drugs. One part of these requirements is that all ingredients of the no-frills product must be listed on the outside of the package or can, along with nutrition information and weight. No-frills products must carry the word "imitation" if it applies, which is the same requirement as for brand name imitations.

Some of the major differences in no-frills food are color, size and sometimes tenderness.

"The idea behind no-frills merchandising seems to be that some products, which are less appealing to the consumer, may be sold for less, although they are just as safe and nutritious as the more appealing products," the November 1978 FDA Consumer said.

"The no-frills food sells really well," said George Kandt, manager of a Manhattan supermarket. "We have been stocking these products for the last six years and we are always getting new products."

"We sell lots of paper products and the cake mixes are as good as any name brand on the market. A lot depends on how well the food is prepared and how good the cook is."

Judy Brown, junior in home economics and mass communication, is a long-time user of no-frills products. She said she did not use many no-frills products before moving to Manhattan, because the small town where she lived did not have many of the no-frills products.

"The reason I started using these products was strictly economic. The best method I have found is to simply experiment with them until I find one that I like," Brown said.

"I have found that the amount of money I save more than compensates for a little bit of difference in color of the vegetables," she said.

Auction features convertible Rolls

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — You can find just about anything when the government auctions off surplus property, everything from old trucks and cars to beat-up typewriters to ... an almost new Rolls-Royce.

The General Services Administration on Thursday will auction off 93 vehicles, including a 1979 Rolls Royce Corniche convertible seized after it was used in a drug transaction.

The silver car with maroon interior has air conditioning and automatic transmission, but no special options.

"What else do you need besides a Rolls?" asked auctioneer Frank DeLizza.

He said the car has only 5,850 miles, is in "immaculate" condition and probably would retail for about $120,000.

After the auction DeLizza is going to miss the Rolls.

"I sit in it and just drool," he said.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

CLINIQUE

Skin care that works
because it's based on
your skin needs.

ALL PRODUCTS ARE
ALLERGY TESTED—
100% FRAGRANCE FREE

Exclusively

Broune's
DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

CALL
776-4776
FOR APPOINTMENT

Monday
Hi Rollers
$1.50
(9-3)
at
COWBOY PALACE
Where it don't make
no difference
209 Payne 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

Hair by
RICK & FRIENDS
404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222
Manhattan
Appointments
Closed Mon. Tues.-Fri. 9-6
Sat. 8-3

Aggie STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR
Tuesday Nite Out! ...
99¢ Margaritas
and Tonic
Drinks
Tuesdays 7-12:00!
JOIN AGGIE STATION PLUS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

Auntie Mae's Parlor
TONIGHT
IMPORT BEER NIGHT
Choose a bottle of
HEINEKEN • MOOSEHEAD • $1.25
MOLSON • FURSTENBURG
7 p.m. to Close
Wednesday
HIGH ROLLERS 8:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.
Thursday
ALL YOU CAN DRINK 9 p.m. - 12:00 a.m.
616 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE 539-9967

Get to the answers faster. With the TI-55-II.

What you need to tackle the higher mathematics of a science or engineering curriculum are more functions — more functions than a simple slide-rule calculator has.

Enter the TI-55-II, with 112 powerful functions. You can work faster and more accurately with the TI-55-II, because it's preprogrammed to perform complex calculations — like definite integrals, linear regression and hyperbolic — at the touch of a button. And it can also be programmed to do repetitive problems without re-entering the entire formula.

Included is the Calculator Decision-Making Sourcebook. It makes the process of using the TI-55-II even simpler, and shows you how to use all the power of the calculator.

Get to the answers faster. Let a TI-55-II show you how.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
Creating useful products
and services for you.

WHAT ME JUMP???

SKYDIVE!

We're having an information meeting tonight, Aug. 30, at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre. Come and meet some people who jump out of perfectly good airplanes, see our parachuting equipment, watch a movie, and sign up for a first jump class this fall. We'll try to answer ALL your questions... come check us out!

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB

Alternative fuel to shape future, Glickman says

By The Associated Press

WICHITA — The future of general aviation in the United States may hinge on the development of alternative fuels, Congressman Dan Glickman, D-Kan., said Monday.

Following a congressional subcommittee hearing in Wichita on alternative aviation fuels, the Fourth District representative from Wichita said Americans still worry about a possible fuel shortage, which hurts general aviation sales.

Glickman said one way to increase light-plane sales is to "develop the technology so that a pilot will know that if he can't find petroleum or gasoline he can go to the alcohol and put them right into the same plane. Or he can find liquid methane and do the same thing."

While the government will test fuels and provide some research money, the private sector should handle development, the congressman said.

If American industry doesn't develop alternative fuels, foreign companies will, Glickman said. The attitude of the General Aviation Manufacturers Association has been "much too conservative" on the issue of alternative fuels, he said.

During the Subcommittee on Transportation, Aviation and Materials hearing, an Experimental Aircraft Association engineer told Glickman and Congressman William Carney, R-N.Y., that the Federal Aviation Administration should drop its ban on burning automobile gasoline in airplanes.

Harry Zeisloft of Hales Corners, Wis., the EAA's chief research engineer, said the use of regular automobile gasoline in small planes could save plane owners $300 million a year.

"There's no question in my mind that a review of the specifications of both aviation gas and auto gas show that auto gas is completely compatible with lower-compression aircraft engines," he said.

In addition to hearing witnesses from government, the general aviation industry and other interested businesses, the congressman took a flight in a Beech Aircraft Corp. experimental plane that burns liquid methane.

Script takes professor to New York

By KIM HUTCHISON
Staff Writer

They probably won't be singing "Ah, Kansas" when Norman Fedder, associate professor of speech, arrives in New York City today. Instead, the Amas Repertory Theatre, an off-off-Broadway showcase theatre, will begin production of

Norman Fedder

"The Buck Stops Here," a play written by Fedder with music and lyrics by Richard Lippman.

"It is a great honor to have your play produced on off-off-Broadway and difficult to get produced," Fedder said.

"The Buck Stops Here," a play about Harry S. Truman, was written by Fedder in 1980. His interest in American and Jewish history led him to write about Truman's partnership with Eddie Jacobson, a Jew.

Fedder has written approximately 20 other plays, some of which have been produced at other universities and for television. In the Department of Speech, he specializes in helping student playwrights.

Fedder's one-act play was first performed in 1981 at the Jewish Heritage Theatre, which he began. Last year, the Amas Theatre agreed to produce the play.

"At the time, they (the Amas Theatre) were the first group willing to produce the play," Fedder said. While in New York City, Fedder will interview the director, work with the choreographer and scene designer, help select the cast and watch the first week of rehearsals.

Fedder said three types of theatres exist in New York City. The first and most elaborate are those on Broadway in the Times Square area. The most expensive productions are staged there. Some musicals cost as much as $3 million to produce.

The smaller off-Broadway theatres feature long-running productions which may be performed for up to a year. Often these plays are later performed on Broadway. Others, such as "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," make it as hits off-Broadway without ever going to Broadway.

The third category of theatres are known as off-off-Broadway, or showcase theatres. Showcase productions are limited to 16 performances. Fedder said this is the longest time actors and actresses will work for equity — a minimum wage paid to them for their performances.

"It is a way to get interesting work for a minimum expenditure," he said. In addition, the play will be seen by potential Broadway producers. Fedder said the cost for producing "The Buck Stops Here" will exceed $20,000. The play will open Oct. 27 and run four weeks.

"Amas means 'You love' in Latin," Fedder said. The theatre, located near Fifth Avenue, was begun in 1968 by Rosetta LeNoire, a black actress. Close to Harlem, the theatre features multi-racial casts. Three or four musicals are staged each year. The Amas Theatre has the largest sales of season tickets of the off-off-Broadway theatres, Fedder said.

Fedder met Lippman after the play was performed at the Jewish Heritage Theatre. An actress brought the two together.

"Lippman had written about 18 songs dealing with Truman," Fedder said. The play underwent a dozen rewrites until it was developed into the two-act musical.

Lippman lives in St. Louis. A former insurance salesman, he composes full time now. His song "St. Louis Is My Home" was chosen as the bicentennial song for the city.

"The Buck Stops Here" is set in Independence, Mo., and Washington, D.C., between the years 1894 and 1953. The play chronicles Truman's life from age 10 to 69.

Fedder said he believes the play is unique because it is a drama put to music.

"Many musicals today are frivolous, they don't treat events seriously," he said, adding that the play is an accurate account of the events in Truman's life.

"It's a poor-boy-makes-good story," Fedder said.

Study finds dioxin traces in bodies of unexposed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — New Canadian and U.S. studies suggest that a "background" level of the toxic chemical dioxin may be present in many people's bodies, even if they never have experienced a known exposure to the contaminant.

"The human is literally a garbage dump as an end point for chemicals in our environment," Alvin L. Young of the Veterans Administration Agent Orange Projects Office said Monday. The VA and the Canadian government presented papers on dioxin at a meeting of the American Chemical Society.

The VA studied 23 veterans who either served in Vietnam, where the dioxin-tainted herbicide Agent Orange was used extensively, or who had more recent exposure to the defoliant during disposal operations. It then compared them to 10 veterans with no Vietnam service or other known dioxin exposure.

Small concentrations of dioxin were found in the body fat of 12 of the 23 believed exposed to the chemical and in four of the 10 without known exposure, Young told reporters.

That suggests that dioxin in body fat is not related to Agent Orange exposure, but may be a fact of life for many people, he said. Levels of contamination ranged from the lowest detectable level, about 3 parts per trillion, to 99 parts per trillion. Presence of dioxin did not necessarily mean ill health, he added.

"There appears to be a (dioxin) background level in the general population," Young said, adding that a more extensive study by the VA and the Environmental Protection Agency based on a national bank of human tissues will yield more conclusive data. Results of that study are due in 1985.

The chemical is highly toxic in laboratory animals and is a suspected cancer causer, but exactly how it affects humans is the subject of a raging scientific debate and many studies. It is the contaminant that prompted the federal buy-out this year of the town of Times Beach, Mo.

"There are a wide variety of health problems, but they are the sort of health problems one sees in a population of males who are getting older," said Young. "Nothing stands out that says this may be related to dioxin or Agent Orange exposure."

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE

Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

Tau Kappa Epsilon
Little Sister Rush Party
Tuesday, Aug. 30
6:30 p.m.-8:00 p.m.

TROY

DUBLIN

Wherever you go, from Maine to California, you're in Dexter, USA. And Dexter gets you there fashionably in these dress casuals, made in the USA. Perfect for any occasion, their lightweight soft leathers and great styling have the look you're looking for. Wherever you're going.

Dexter
Shoemakers to America

McCall's Shoes . . . A Manhattan tradition since 1961

WHAT ME JUMP??? SKYDIVE!

We're having an information meeting tonight, Aug. 30, at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre. Come and meet some people who jump out of perfectly good airplanes, see our parachuting equipment, watch a movie, and sign up for a first jump class this fall. We'll try to answer ALL your questions . . . come check us out!

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB

the casual encounter

Ultra Cords
for
Her

The Fit
The Styles
The Colors
We've got them all for you in straight leg, London
Rider or Gathered
Riders styles by

Ms. Lee
at the casual encounter
1208 Moro in
Aggieville

Win $20,000 worth of Super Bowl '84 excitement! Your group of 8 could win expenses for hotels, transportation, meals, cash and the best Tampa, Florida has to offer! Just come in and fill out an entry blank in our store. Your entry also makes you eligible to win one of 25 Sony 50" projection TV's or a Lee Sport Bag! Hurry, deadline for entry is September 16. No purchase necessary. Void if prohibited by law.

Enter the Ultra Cord
Sweepstakes

Cut your own rug

No wonder seagrass is featured in so many home decorating magazines. It looks, feels, sounds, even smells natural. It's unique because you can buy as much rug as you want. Take measurements, drive to Pier 1 and take home the number of squares you need. Seagrass is reversible, so it takes lots of wear. And it's practically partyproof: to remedy spills, cut out stained squares and sew in new ones.

From our 9' x 36' bales you can buy as little as one 12" square, or as many as you'll need for a big project.

Chinese seagrass . . . 59¢ a square

The new
Pier 1
collections

Pier 1 Imports:

323 Houston
(next to Sears)

VISA

MasterCard

Rayl drops appeal threat, accepts pay cut, transfer

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Gary Rayl, deposed director of the state's largest prison — Kansas State Penitentiary (KSP) at Lansing — on Monday accepted without complaint a demotion and slight salary cut to become warden of two state minimum-security inmate honor camps.

Rayl agreed to the change, ordered by Secretary of Corrections Michael Barbara on Aug. 19 for alleged insubordination, after a two-hour meeting Monday with the corrections chief. Barbara said there was never any chance Rayl would be returned to KSP, despite a state senator's demand last week that the director be reinstated.

One day after the demotion was announced, Rayl publicly denied he disobeyed orders in 18 separate incidents, as charged by Barbara. However, Rayl stood silently Monday as Barbara told reporters the charges of "willful disobedience and insubordination" were valid. "We can talk about it all day — whether he's right or I'm right — but I just want to put it behind us," Rayl said. "It's in the best interest of the institutions, the department, the state and everyone involved that this matter be resolved. As far as I'm concerned the matter has been resolved."

Rayl, 45, dropped his threat to appeal the demotion to the state Civil Service system. In exchange, his salary was trimmed just $8-per-month — a total $96 per year — and the job change was referred to as a transfer rather than demotion in his service record.

In addition, Rayl, a Kansas native who's logged 16 years of service to the state, was given six weeks paid leave-of-absence to move his family to El Dorado and take care of personal affairs in Lansing.

The controversy surfaced four weeks ago when Rayl refused to comply with a written order to establish an inmate tutoring program. Rayl says he did agree to that order and produced a letter he sent to Barbara, dated Aug. 15, in which he stated his acceptance, under protest.

However, Barbara said the letter did not arrive until Aug. 22, three days after Rayl's demotion was announced. Barbara added there had been 17 earlier instances in which Rayl did not follow his commands.

"We had a very amicable discussion," Barbara said. "This incident is completely behind us. It's forgotten and we're going on from here."

Barbara and Rayl emerged from the meeting about 1 p.m. and issued a joint statement, which said:

"As a result of discussions between the secretary, Director Rayl and their respective representatives, the parties have agreed that Director Rayl will be transferred to the directorship of the honor camps (at El Dorado and Toronto) at an annual salary of $40,236, effective this date, and Director Rayl will report to the honor camps on Oct. 3, 1983; until that time, he will be on vacation leave in order to coordinate the move of his family and close his personal affairs at Lansing.

"This action is a result of each party acknowledging that the good of the appropriate institutions, the Department of Corrections and the state of Kansas in general requires this matter be resolved as soon as possible."

It was signed by Barbara, Rayl, Charles E. Simmons, chief legal counsel for the department, and Kenneth Crockett, Rayl's attorney.

Barbara said the addition of Rayl to the honor camp staff may serve as the "impetus" for revising the salary structure for prison directors and expanding the state's minimum security prison system.

The ousted prison director, who had been in the KSP post nearly 18 months, will receive about $2,600 more than his predecessor at El Dorado. Barbara said the salary would be warranted if the responsibilities of the job were increased.

"We've been considering a request for more honor camps and if we did add a camp the duties of that job would be increased quite a bit," Barbara said. "I think prison directors are underpaid anyway and this might just give us the impetus to look at the whole salary structure."

Versatility, youth spark Glee Club

By SUE SCHMITT
Arts and Entertainment Editor

Don't expect to hear an ordinary rhythm & blues band at a performance of the Glee Club. The band isn't typical of the small combos which are so popular in the area.

Glee Club performed in Manhattan three times last week; twice in the Avalon and also at the Welcome Back Concert sponsored by UPC. The band is advertised as a pop and rhythm & blues band, but plays many more styles. There is a strong "Motown" influence in the band's music as well as jazz and gospel.

The band is larger than most area bands, consisting of six musicians; three men and three women. But size isn't the only thing that separates this band from others.

Instrumentation makes Glee Club's sound more original than most. The use of saxophones, Hammond organ, vibraphone and even accordion gives the music a different sound.

The average listener may be dismayed to find that guitars do not play a leading role in the band. The lack of a predominate guitar may seem to be a weakness, but for Glee Club, it is a strength. It's refreshing to hear a band that isn't enslaved to guitars. This is not to say that guitarist Sue Malloy, and bass player Dave Underwood are not competent players.

The three female members sing — with Becky Reed as lead vocalist. Jennifer Miyana and Malloy back up Reed vocally, as well as instrumentally.

Reed has a good voice for the type of music Glee Club performs. It is a clear, strong and controlled voice, but it, like many voices, gets a little monotonous. She has her own style, but after a while, the lyrics begin to sound alike.

The band utilizes Malloy and Miyana's voices to fit different styles of music fairly successfully. Malloy and Miyana may not have as well-trained voices as Reed, but both have different singing styles that add some variety to the band's music.

When listening to Glee Club, the two members to notice are brothers Greg and Gary Mackender. They brought the band together and seem to be the most accomplished musicians in the group. Gary keeps the band going with strong rhythm and bright, innovative licks on drums.

Staff/Wes Wilmer

Glee Club member, Greg Mackender, plays a number of instruments in the group.

But Greg is the most versatile musician in the band. Playing tenor and baritone sax, vibes, piano and Hammond organ, he never stands in the same place twice during a performance.

Besides playing five instruments, Greg also writes the band's original compositions and acts as its leader. Although the individual musicians are talented, the band itself still shows some symptoms of youth. Again, the songs sometimes begin to sound alike. This may be due to the musicians getting into the rut of playing the same style, or perhaps the songs are too much alike.

There are also minor problems — like intonation — that keep Glee Club from sounding like a polished professional band. But all of this may be expected. After all, the band is young.

Data sheets replace lines at career center

By The Collegian Staff

A new system of signing up for on-campus interviews is being used by the Career Planning and Placement Center in an effort to eliminate the need for students to camp out for job interviews.

Instead of waiting in line for days to be able to sign up for the limited number of interviews available per employer, students will now fill out a data sheet, file it with the center and decide which employers they want to interview with, said Bruce Laughlin, director of the center.

The center will then mail a copy of the data sheet to the employer, who will decide which students to interview. A list of interviewees will then be sent back to the center and students will be informed whether they will have an interview, Laughlin said.

There are some pitfalls with the new system, Laughlin said. It could hurt students who don't look good on paper but who might make a good impression in person. In addition, students may sign up for an excessive number of interviews. There is also some concern that prospective employers will only look at the grades of the student, he said.

Even with its drawbacks, Laughlin said he believes the new system will be more effective.

"Employers realize that they all can't have the top 15 students at the school and will take that into consideration when they make their selection," he said.

He also said the data sheets are better than resumes for getting facts about a student and employer-candidate matches do occur.

Because each student makes a commitment to interview when he signs up, Laughlin said he hopes students will not sign up for more interviews than they will be able to handle.

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

1120 More 539-9064

Tonight LADIES get
50¢ DRAWS
1 P.M. to Midnight

TOMORROW
STARVIN' MARVIN and the DEXATRIMS with MORE LADIES NITE specials

Aggie Hair Port

776-7377
711 N. 11th
Aggieville

PERM SPECIAL

Our regular $48.00 perms are now on special for $35.00!
(cut is included)

Offer good now through Sept. 2.
Guys & Gals Welcome!
("Our profession is hair care")

MCCAIN
AUDITORIUM

SEASON 1983-84 JOIN THE CROWD

Today's Pop Quiz

Q. Where will you be Monday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.?

A. Enjoying the evening in style with the

Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra

Ticket prices: Public $15.00, Senior $14.00, Student $12.00
Tickets available at McCain Box office, noon-5 p.m., M-F, 532-6428

This program is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts, through participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

Get down to business faster. With the BA-35.

If there's one thing business students have always needed, this is it: an affordable, business-oriented calculator. The Texas Instruments BA-35, the Student Business Analyst.

Its built-in business formulas let you perform complicated finance, accounting and statistical functions — the ones that usually require a lot of time and a stack of reference books, to help you get the most out like present and future value calculations, amortizations and balloon payments.

The BA-35 means you spend less time calculating, and more time learning. One keystroke takes the place of many.

The calculator is just part of the package. You also get a book that follows most business courses: the Business Analyst Guidebook. Business professors helped us write it, to help you get the most out of calculator and classroom.

A powerful combination.

Think business. With the BA-35 Student Business Analyst.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
Creating useful products and services for you.

Drought hampers crop productivity

By RHONDA WESSEL
Agricultural Editor

Drought and hot weather is not only making living conditions uncomfortable, but also is drastically reducing the productivity of Kansas grasslands and field crops.

Pastures in Riley County are mostly prairie fields for hay production, Mike Christian, Riley County agricultural extension agent, said.

"In comparison with 1982's hay crop, the amount of hay produced in Riley County has been reduced by half," he said. This may cause a hay shortage during the winter months, depending on the severity of the winter.

Grazing cattle will have to be taken from pastures earlier than normal or cattlemen will have to supplement feeding with range cubes or hay, Christian said.

Under normal summer conditions, it takes approximately seven acres to pasture a cow and calf and four acres for a steer. During this drought, however, that average has about doubled, Christian said.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has granted local Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Offices (ASCS) the authority to allow cattlemen to graze cattle on land designated for conservation under the acreage reduction, paid diversion and payment-in-kind programs.

To receive such aid, individual counties must apply through their local ASCS office. Riley County, however, has not applied for special grazing privileges.

Second District Rep. Jim Slattery said the agriculture department is only "creating an illusion" of helping farmers by issuing the special grazing provisions for drought-plagued counties.

"Most of this land was scheduled to be released at midnight on Sept. 30 anyway, and the (agriculture) department's announcement means very little to most farmers in northeast Kansas," Slattery said. "Much of this land is not ready for immediate grazing."

"Most farmers who have applied for this type of help are planning ahead in case there is a severe winter this year, as opposed to relying on the special provisions for immediate help," Christian said. "Most farmers take their cattle off pasture about the same time this provision begins."

Slattery said, "It is my concern that announcements like this give the urban segment of this nation the idea that the federal government is helping the farmers when in fact, very few farmers will benefit."

Christian, on the other hand, said the special grazing provisions will help the farmers who receive the aid, but so far only 23 of 105 counties in Kansas have applied for the aid and only 18 of those have received permission to graze cattle in restricted areas.

The problem, according to Slattery, is that farmers will be forced to endure unneeded red tape about procedures that should be automatic.

"Of course, the existing programs will benefit some farmers. However, following the last three years of a chaotic farm economy, common sense tells us that these programs provide little substantive help to farmers at a time when Washington is trying hard to create the appearance that assistance is being provided," Slattery said. "The bottom line is the only thing that is going to help farmers now is rain."

Rain will help soybeans, milo, and to some extent, grassland, but it is too late for the corn crop, Christian said.

Farmers can still get about 80 to 90 percent of the value of a good corn silage if they don't cut it too quickly.

"With careful attention paid to nitrate levels as well as moisture content, most farmers with cattle to feed should be able to make the most of a bad situation," said Gerry Kuhl, assistant professor of animal livestock extension. The losses will be in tonnage produced and not in the feed value of the silage, he said.

Nitrate levels in drought-stressed corn, sudan and sorghum must be tested more carefully than in a typical season to ensure farmers can safely feed silage without the potential of nitrate poisoning, Christian said.

"If a farmer is using his own water source, such as well water, the nitrate level in the water should also be tested. There is a possibility the nitrate level in the silage is not high enough to kill the animal, but the combined nitrate level of the silage and the water may," he said.

Drought may also cause prussic acid to form in plants. Prussic acid causes cyanide poisoning in animals.

"While some animals apparently develop some tolerance to high nitrate feeds, as far as I know, there is no tolerance for prussic acid. Animals just don't live long enough to develop a tolerance," Dr. Homer Caley, extension veterinarian, said.

"I haven't heard of too many cases where either high nitrate levels or prussic acid have been a problem in this area, but farmers should be aware of the potential problem," Christian said.

An area list of laboratories which test for nitrate levels and prussic acid is available at the Riley County Extension Office.

Mob witness dies in hospital

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Joseph V. Agosto, a key government witness in the trial of six men accused of skimming $280,000 in gambling receipts from the Tropicana Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, died Monday.

Agosto, 61, one-time entertainment director of the Tropicana, died in a Kansas City-area hospital. He reportedly suffered from several ailments, including diabetes.

Federal authorities refused to comment on Agosto's death and would not say where it occurred.

Agosto testified during a monthlong trial this summer that gambling proceeds were skimmed from the Tropicana, transported to Kansas City, and split between the Kansas City and Chicago mobs.

Five defendants were found guilty on July 1 — Carl Civella, Carl DeLuna and Charles Moretina, who the government contended were leaders of organized crime in Kansas City — and Anthony Chiavola Sr. of Chicago and Carl W. Thomas of Las Vegas. All are awaiting sentencing.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Parched corn stands wilting in a sunbaked field near Zeandale, eight miles east of Manhattan on Kansas

Highway 18. Dry, hot weather has caused extensive damage to farm crops this summer.

DRS. PRICE, YOUNG & ODLE OPTOMETRISTS

General Practice

and All Type of Contact Lenses

Soft—Extended Wear—to Sleep with

Soft for Astigmatism

Flex—Oxygen Permeable

Fast Replacement

for Lost or Damaged Lenses

Payment Arrangements Available

WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER

PHONE 537-1118

ADD SUM* FUN TO YOUR LIFE

The STUDENT USHERS of McCain* are once again recruiting active, energetic, upbeat students who like to help others have fun and who are lovers of the performing arts.

Do YOU fit this description? McCain NEEDS YOU to volunteer hours to usher at professional performances and at student productions. In return for your time we will give you free tickets to exciting events on the 1983-1984 McCain Performance Series.

Join us at an Orientation Meeting in the McCain Lobby on Tuesday, August 30 at 4:45 p.m. FOR FUN JOIN SUM*.

LEVI SHRINK-TO-FIT

Reg. $25.00

Now $17.99

LEVI-BOOT CUT

Reg. $24.00

Now $15.99

SEDGFIELD

From $19.99

CALVIN KLEINS

From $36.00

Free T-shirt with each pair of Sedgfields

9-8:00 Mon.-Fri.

9-6:00 Sat.

12-5:00 Sun.

539-6890

Pizza Hut® Sport Bag $1.00

Get this durable nylon sport bag for just $1.00 when you buy a medium or large pizza at regular price at a participating Pizza Hut® restaurant.

Offer good while supplies last. Not valid in combination with any other Pizza Hut® offer. Offer good with eat-in or carryout purchase.
© 1983 Pizza Hut, Inc.

AGGIEVILLE
WESTLOOP
3RD & MORO

539-7666
539-7447
776-4334

FOR DELIVERY CALL • 539-7666

KSU STUDENTS

1. Which student is looking forward to a semester of hard work?

2. Which student is looking forward to a semester of hard work and a Swannie's run?

SWANSON'S BAKERY

225 Poyntz

776-4549

NOW OPEN IN AGGIEVILLE

Instant printing

A NEW PRINTING & COPY SHOP

★ FEATURING ★

INSTANT

OFFSET PRINTING &

XEROX COPIES

24-HOUR TYPESETTING
REPORT & BOOKLET BINDING
REDUCTIONS & ENLARGEMENTS
GRAPHIC / TECHNICAL CAMERA

ALL TYPES OF PRINTING
FLYERS ■ BUSINESS CARDS ■ BROCHURES
NEWSLETTERS ■ ENVELOPES ■ RESUMES
LETTERHEADS ■ INVITATIONS ■ POSTERS

SAME DAY SERVICE!

1211 Moro

539-5749

The Phone connection

BACK TO SCHOOL
SPECIAL

$19.95 til Aug. 31

Regular $28.95

Webcor 720

One piece extension phone, last number redial, three position ringer volume, rotary or tone dialing, with wall mounting holster, one year guarantee.

The Phone Connection

414 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
776-4429

VISA

808 N. Washington
Downtown Junction City
762-4444

Proposed park troubles city planners

By JUDY MILLS
Staff Writer

The Riverside Park, Preserve and Trail Committee has decided to give the Manhattan city staff a "breather" concerning the proposal to use land around the levee system for a riverside park.

The Riverside Park Committee is an ad hoc committee comprised of citizens interested in utilizing the land around the levee system for a riverside park. Located east of the city, the levee runs four miles along Wildcat Creek and the Kansas and Blue Rivers.

According to Ron Klataske, regional vice president of the National Audubon Society, the committee is planning to give the city staff an opportunity to pursue the questions of city ownership, costs and Corps of Engineers approval of the project.

The riverside park would include a trail system which would border the south and east sides of Manhattan along the 315 acres of public land bordering the flood control system.

The proposed park would allow public access to the dike area for jogging, hiking or biking. The proposal provides for a limestone cover over the levee trail, for joggers and cyclists, which would cost less than $13,000, Klataske said.

The proposal was endorsed by the Manhattan Parks and Recreation Advisory Board and supported by the Manhattan City Commission. The land is now off-limits to the public.

There are two issues which must be resolved before the city commission can move ahead on the proposal.

"What we're doing is two-fold. First, the city manager's office is writing a letter to the Corps of Engineers to see whether the levee can be used for this sort of thing. There's also some potential legal problems that need to be resolved. It's not known for sure whether the city has the right to put such a park on the levee," Tim Vanatta, director of the Parks and Recreation Department, said.

The Corps of Engineers must be contacted because the corps constructed the levee system and now serves as adviser over the area.

"As adviser, we also review all planned developments that are proposed near the levee to determine if any adverse effects to the levee system would result from the development," said Phillip Rotert, chief of the planning division of the Army Corps of Engineers, in a letter to Klataske.

Vanatta said it may not be legal for the city to build a riverside park on land acquired for the dike system through the right of eminent domain, which is acquiring private property for public use.

Students select WIBW; KSDB second in poll

By The Collegian Staff

A survey conducted last spring shows the campus radio station, KSDB-FM, ranks second in listenership among K-State students.

In comparison with area radio stations, KSDB was followed by KJCK-FM and KMKF-FM. WIBW-FM in Topeka topped the survey with 28.8 percent of the students tuning in to the station.

Brian O'Neill, assistant adviser to KSDB, said, "The survey showed that what we're doing is working. There are three radio stations with the same format as us."

The survey was conducted during the last two weeks of April by 50 student volunteers who were enrolled in radio and television courses at the time.

David MacFarland, associate professor of journalism and mass communications, started the survey six years ago. It was designed to allow radio stations to determine how they compare with other stations among the listening audience. MacFarland said that because the survey has been used for six years, it can now be used to trace trends in listenership.

The survey was conducted using sample phone numbers that were taken from the Manhattan telephone book and the K-State campus directory. The volunteers recorded 255 responses for the survey.

"We're very pleased with the results. KSDB is getting a lot better known these days. We believe we should remain the alternative," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said KSDB's different format and the fact that it broadcasts 25 percent fewer commercials may be the reason for its high listenership.

Computers aid in administration, instruction

By WAYNE PRICE
Collegian Reporter

Fifty-four Vector microcomputers and 14 Zenith 100 computers were recently purchased by the Departments of Agriculture and Economics for academic and administrative uses.

All the computers were purchased from Personnel Computers, an Overland Park company, said Freddie Poston, associate professor of entomology and coordinator of the purchase. The Vector computers, the larger of the two types, were purchased in June and distributed throughout the agriculture department.

The software, training of personnel and installation brought the total costs of the Vectors to approximately $378,000, Poston said.

"The Vector computers will mainly aid research and extension programs and a number of administrative duties," he said.

"During research, large amounts of data are collected which naturally leaves room for human error. In some instances, instruments can be hooked to the computers and control much of an experiment," Poston said. "The large amounts of data collected from these experiments can be collected and recorded easily (with the use of the new Vector computers)."

Administrative uses of the Vector computers include bookkeeping, budgeting, personnel and salaries. Poston said these services will be helpful for management of the agricultural economics department.

The Agriculture Extension Office also uses the Vector computers for a new mailing system to provide a new source of information for farmers.

"We think this new medium contains many advantages for farmers who might have questions or problems about a number of situations," Poston said.

The 14 Zenith 100 computers, located on the third floor of Waters Hall, are being used for several classes stressing use of computers in combination with agri-business.

Smaller than the Vector computers, the Zenith 100s cost approximately $2,100 each. The cost of training personnel and remodeling a classroom which houses these computers is approximately $40,000. The economics department conducted the purchase of the Zenith computers for classroom use.

"One of the ag economics classes that wasn't even filled up filled immediately (because of the computers)," Poston said.

The Zenith 100s are connected to a device which allows information from the computers to travel through a phone system and connect to other computers in different departments. This system is turned off at night so that it cannot be used without authorization, Poston said.

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

today's fashions

THE DISCOUNT
BLUE JEAN STORE

NEW
ZENA
PINSTRIPES

REGULAR $28.95

INTRODUCTORY PRICE
JUST $23.95

1207 LARAMIE AGGIEVILLE

MR. K'S

Welcome To . . .

2 FER TUES!

2 Fer
Draws &
Pitchers
7-10:00

Lunch at Mr. K's 11:30 a.m.-8 p.m.!

LATE TO CLASS AGAIN?
Because You Couldn't Find
A Parking Space?

YAMAHA QT50K
NOW ONLY 399.00*

*Price includes freight and set up

Brooks YAMAHA
Hwy 24 E. of K-Mart, Manhattan

M-F 9-5:30
Sat. 9-12:00

776-6371

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

WED. & THURS. ONLY

STAR TREK

BLOOPERS

SHOW

NEVER SHOWN ON T.V.

Sponsored by KAPPA SIGMA

A RARE COLLECTION OF UNRELEASED OUT-TAKES
FROM FAMOUS T.V. SHOWS

KEDZIE HALL
Rm. #106

August 31 & September 1
7 P.M. & 9 P.M. both nites

KSU Students with I.D. $3.00 all others $4.00

LIMITED GOOD SEATING—COME EARLY—NO CHILDREN PLEASE

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Students' station preferences

K-State Saves With Us

We're member and dollar strong

More than 2,300 Kansas State University employees and their families save at the campus credit union, where total assets exceed $3 million.

On-campus convenience

Drop by the credit union office in Anderson Hall to do your business, or use the campus mail to make savings deposits and loan payments.

Insured savings earn big dividends

High-yielding passbook savings and three-month certificates of deposit are insured up to $100,000 by a federal government agency. Dividends are declared and paid quarterly.

Helpful low-cost loans

The credit union is truly an economical place to borrow money because it is a federally chartered, non-profit organization.

Life savings insurance

Each dollar of savings is matched, at no extra charge, with a dollar of life insurance up to $3,000 for qualifying members.

Loan protection insurance

In case of a borrower's death prior to the age of 70, the unpaid balance of a loan is repaid by insurance.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants.

Anderson Hall, Room 24A
Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Monday through Friday
532-6274

New campus attorney performs advisory role to students

By NANCY MALIR
Staff Writer

Dianne Urban said no one ever told her she could be a lawyer, yet that's exactly what she is.

As the new students' attorney, Urban's job of advising students about legal matters is not the sort of lifestyle she expected to follow 15 years ago when she left her job as a medical technologist to raise a family.

"When I got my first degree it was just something to fall back on. I never thought my children would grow up," she said.

After working part time at Manhattan's Memorial Hospital for two years as a medical technologist, Urban said she "saw how much of life was ahead of me."

Because she was no longer content to remain at home and did not want to work as a medical technologist, Urban decided to pursue a career in law.

"Becoming a lawyer is not like some dream I always had. When I decided I didn't want to be a med tech forever, I didn't know what I wanted to do."

To help her select a new career, Urban attended career and life-planning workshops at the University. She said she considered studying to become an art or science instructor for a while.

Students' attorney, Dianne Urban.

However, Urban said she decided the chances of she and her husband — an associate professor of biology — becoming employed in the same geographical area would be remote.

"One of the possibilities I became aware of was law. I hadn't thought before that getting the degree could be a workable solution, because of having to attend school outside Manhattan," she said.

After her interest in law increased, Urban said she found commuting to Topeka's Washburn University every day for three years was not only possible, but well worth the effort. She received her juris doctor degree in May 1982.

Urban said that before she began attending law school she considered the fact that jobs, including those in the field of law, are not easy to come by in Manhattan.

"I thought about this before I went to school, and I thought about the students' attorney position before I went to school," Urban said.

Following her graduation, Urban was employed from September to June 1982 by the Riley County attorney's office.

She became the students' attorney June 6, although she was not formally approved by Student Senate until Aug. 25.

Urban said she is looking forward to the legal environment the University has to offer.

"A lot of the people I see here are people who can't afford an attorney. I've always liked the idea of being able to help people who need it and don't necessarily have the money to afford it."

Urban said a tremendous amount of variety pervades her position, since students seek help with problems that cover all areas of the law.

"There's also a strong element of education in what I do — in advising students, talking to clients and giving talks to student groups," she said.

Summing up her duties, Urban said, "If any student or student organizations have questions about any areas of the law, I'm available."

Urban's role as students' attorney is chiefly advisory. She may practice litigation only in rare cases.

Urban said students may now obtain help in writing wills through her office.

Though still adjusting to her new position, Urban said she would like to remain at K-State for a while.

"I've gone through a lot of changes recently. I ran for the state legislature (65th district) and worked in the county attorney's office. I would like to settle into something."

Originally from LaGrange, Texas, Urban received a degree in medical technology from the University of Texas at Austin in 1967.

Though Urban said summer was the ideal time to begin her position because the slower pace allowed her time to do research, she is looking forward to the atmosphere that abounds on a campus full of students.

"The campus is an exciting place to be since the students have come back. I'm looking forward to this year."

Staff/Andy Nelson

Babies Don't Thrive in Smoke-filled Wombs

When You're Pregnant, Don't Smoke!

Support the
March of Dimes
Birth Defects Foundation

May you run free as a Fox.

If there's radar, SuperFox Vixen will let you know with plenty of time to spare. Its super-heterodyne power gives you up to ten times the range and sensitivity of ordinary radar detectors. And, like every Fox, SuperFox Vixen is backed by Fox's exclusive limited lifetime warranty.

Ride free. Ride with the Fox.

SUPERFOX VIXEN RADAR DETECTOR

FOX You can't trap a Fox.

4 Models in Stock

Starting at $95.00

Stereo Factory

1126 Moro

776-5507

Add Bacon to your Vistaburger

39¢

Crisp, crunchy bacon adds just the right "something extra" to your favorite Vista sandwich. Try some on a Vista, a Texas, a Triburger, or even a Hot C-Ham. Bacon a la carte makes a meal special—at Vista!

Vista RESTAURANTS

1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Locations in
Manhattan
Lawrence
Emporia
& Topeka

PUTT PUTT GOLF
OWNED & STAFFED
100% KSU WILDCATS

Manhattan Montessori School
...a Christian approach
1225 Bertrand

Limited afternoon openings (2-4:15) for 2½ year olds through kindergarten.

Manhattan Montessori School is beginning its 8th school year this fall. The public is invited to find out more about it. Call 539-8014 and set a time to come by & visit the school.

Let's get together

with the Wildcats on a road trip
to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations
Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

$15.00

worth

of free accessories
with purchase
of any new bicycle:

Trek Fuji
Schwinn Bianchi

the PATHFINDER

1111 Moro Aggieville 539-5639

AMERICAN BAPTIST CAMPUS MINISTRY

Baptist Campus Center 1801 Anderson
539-3051

FELLOWSHIP MEAL
AND WORSHIP

5-7 P.M.-TUESDAYS

Dave Stewart-Campus Minister

COUPON

I NEED A HUG
Clip and cash in
when you're feeling low

No limit-No expiration

Pizza Transit Authority®
When it comes to pizza, PTA comes to you.

MONDAY & TUESDAY STUDENT/FAMILY NIGHT

Buy any Large 4 ingredient Pizza and get up to a Small 4 ingredient

FREE

537-9500

1127 MORO
AGGIEVILLE
A30C

Not Good With Any Other Special
No Coupon Needed

FREE DELIVERY
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

Attention Brides
Bridal Department Close-Out
ENTIRE STOCK

50 to 75%

Savings of up to $300⁰⁰ or more per gown

ALL BRIDAL GOWNS WILL BE SOLD NOW!

No Layaway

No Charges

No Free Alterations

Buy NOW and Save A LOT!!

SIZES
5/6 to 13/14

Broune's
Downtown Manhattan

Over 100
Gowns available
Bianchi bridal originals

All-American candidate, Reggie Singletary, is confident about upcoming season.

Singletary prepares for final year

By KEVIN DALE
Staff Writer

REGGIE! REGGIE! REGGIE!

At one time a baseball player in the Big Apple inspired fans to chant his name using his bat. Now, in the Little Apple, a football player is doing the same with bruising tackles and drive-stopping quarterback sacks.

Reggie Singletary, 6-foot, 250-pound defensive tackle, has been firing up his teammates and K-State fans for two years, and now he is ready for his best season ever.

After two seasons Singletary has compiled impressive statistics — but he is by no means finished. Last year, Singletary was credited with 73 tackles, 47 of which were made solo. He also had 20 sacks for 71 yards in losses. He was the team's most efficient stopper. But he said he still believes it was not a good year for him.

"Last year was a down year for me," Singletary said. "People knew I was hurt a couple of times and they also ran away from me a lot."

Most of the teams the Wildcats faced have found it necessary to run away from Singletary. After only two years, Singletary holds the K-State record in tackles for losses with 48 for minus 228 yards.

"If I can hit the ball carrier before he gets to the (offensive) line then I'll get him down every time," he said.

"Reggie is big and quick," Mo Latimore, assistant head coach, said. "You very seldom get a player like him. He has so much raw talent. He is the one exception to the rule."

The K-State coaches are not the only ones who believe Singletary is a great asset.

"Reggie Singletary is no ordinary football player," Oklahoma head coach Barry Switzer, said. "He is, in my opinion, along with Rick Bryan (University of Oklahoma), one of the best defensive players in the country. Singletary has been among the toughest defensive players we've had to battle over the past several years. He is a great pass rusher and plays lights out. He is an extremely aggressive player who our team and coaching staff have a lot of respect for."

Head Coach Jim Dickey could not agree more.

"Reggie is so quick and he has a great nose for the ball. If he can keep his quickness he should have another great year," Dickey said.

This may be the defense's toughest year as the Big Eight sports three Heisman Trophy candidates — Marcus Dupree, Ernest Anderson and Mike Rozier.

Singletary, however, said he is not intimidated by anyone. Oklahoma's sensational sophomore, Dupree, who has set his goal at 2000 yards this season does not impress Singletary.

"If he's good, he deserves the publicity, but he can't go around saying he's going to gain 200 yards on us. I'm not going to let him. The team's not going to let him."

"Every time he gets the ball I'm going to be on him. I know he can hurt you if he gets outside, but I'm not going to let that happen."

When asked about the 80-yard run Dupree had against K-State last year, Singletary answered, "I wasn't in on that play."

Singletary said he has a lot of respect for Nebraska's Rozier, who probably has the most realistic shot at the Heisman.

Singletary and Rozier played against each other in the junior college ranks before they made the switch to major college football.

Singletary played for Cowley County Community College and Rozier played at Coffeyville Junior College.

"I like him because he is low-key," Singletary said. "I would really like to meet him someday."

Singletary also said he respects Ernest Anderson of Oklahoma State University, who led the nation in rushing a year ago, because he does not have a great offensive line in front of him as Rozier does.

Singletary said the best position for him, to get at opposing ball carriers, is noseguard, but he will play where he can most help the team.

"I like to play noseguard because the running backs can't run away from me there. If they go right, I can go right. If they go left, I can be there too. I don't like to be away from the action and at tackle sometimes I can't get to the ball."

"If I want to get to the ball I just have to use my ability and go after it with all I have," he said.

Sometimes getting to the ball is not too easy since many teams have been double-teaming or even triple-teaming Singletary on every play.

"Sometimes it wears me down, mostly it just makes me mad," he said. "But when I am double-teamed, it just opens things up for the other guys and that's good."

"When Reggie is double-teamed, that gives us an advantage over the other team," Latimore said. "If you have two other guys who can do the job, then you have a good chance to make the stop. We have the people that can take advantage of that kind of situation."

He said he considers Singletary's skills off the field as important as his skills on the field.

"Reggie is like a player-coach," he said. "He helps me a lot with the younger players, always trying to teach them our system."

One recruit who is benefiting from Singletary's experience is Curtis Hughes. Hughes was playing behind Singletary's backup Rob Kauffelt until Kauffelt was injured. Hughes was then moved behind Singletary and has yet to give up that position.

Singletary said he believes passing on information and experience is a big part of playing.

"If some of the younger players knew the system as well as I do, they might be just as good," he said.

Right now, he is not worried about anyone taking his job away, Singletary said.

"My goal this season is to have a great year and stay clear of injury," he said. "I just want to play the best I can and get the team to another bowl game. I feel I am probably the best defensive tackle around, and I'm going to try my best to prove it. This is it for me. I have to go all out."

To the fans, Singletary seems to be going all out on every play. His lightning fast quarterback sacks get the crowd chanting and the chanting just fires him up even more.

"The coaches and the other players get you keyed up before the game and when you get out and you can hear the people, it really gets you going," he said. "Before the game I get a little nervous and I can feel the butterflies in my stomach. When I come out of the locker room I feel as though all eyes are on me. I have to do well."

Ninth Pan American games conclude with ceremony

By The Associated Press

CARACAS, Venezuela — The IX Pan American Games may have more of an impact on the 1984 Olympics through politics and administration than athletics.

The games, which officially ended with closing ceremonies Monday night, are designed to do two things — promote sportsmanship and cooperation among the nations of the Western Hemisphere and help get their athletes ready for the Summer Olympics the next year.

Competition generally was of high quality at the Caracas championships. There were five world records and dozens of Pan Am marks established, and the United States got a good look at some competitors who certainly will be stars in Los Angeles in 1984 — such as Cuban gymnast Casimiro Suarez, the individual gold-medal champion of Pan Am 1983, with six.

But in America's long-range planning for hosting its first summer games since 1932, the most significant development in Caracas might have dealt not with lap times or knockouts, but with a gas chronometer and a mass spectrophotograph.

Those machines, looking somewhat like a pair of microwave ovens, were the centerpieces of a state-of-the-art laboratory that conducted the biggest crackdown on drug use ever in international sports.

Sixteen athletes — 11

weightlifters, a cyclist, a fencer, two track men and a volleyball player — were found to have illegal substances in their systems. In 12 of the cases, the drug was anabolic steroids — synthetic hormones which can add muscle bulk and, thus, increase strength, but which also have been found to have shattering side effects.

Of the athletes cited for drug use, 10 were medalists, and they were stripped of their prizes. One Cuban weightlifter Daniel Nunez, also lost a world record he had set in the snatch while sweeping the 132-pound class. He and 14 others had their names and medical records sent to national Olympic committees and international sports federations for possible sanctions.

Olympic hopefuls train at K-State

By STEVEN A. BURNETT
Collegian Reporter

Participating in the Olympics is a dream for many, but reality for an elite few.

Manhattan is not the site of the 1984 Summer Olympic Games, but for four Olympic hopefuls, this is where it all begins.

The four, Fred Torneden, Manny Bautista, Terry Drake and Ronnie Waynes, are here training for the Olympic trials, which are held at different times for each event.

But why did this group of gifted athletes leave comfortable surroundings and secure jobs to train in Manhattan when they could have easily stayed home and trained?

The answer is simple. They came here because of Steve Miller, K-State head track and cross country coach.

Fred Torneden has qualified for the Olympic trials in the men's marathon, a road race which covers 26 miles and 385 yards, with a time of 2 hours, 14 minutes. The qualifying standard for the Olympic trials is 2:19:04.

"The main reason I'm here is Steve Miller. I like him because he's a winner and he helps you mentally and emotionally," Torneden said. "His attitude rubs off on his athletes. I consider him as being one of the top collegiate distance coaches in the U.S."

Torneden left a job at Cessna Aircraft Co. in Wichita and is not working while he's here training.

"There are ways to generate money," he said. "The Athletic Conference, or TAC, is the governing body for track and field, and they subsidize qualified athletes so they can train."

"I will also run some road races which offer cash prizes and still maintain my amateur standing. You can do this by establishing a trust fund with the TAC and putting all the money won in the fund," Torneden said.

Torneden is a very dedicated athlete. He said he wants to be the best he can and "one of the fastest marathoners in the nation."

Manny Bautista also qualified in the men's marathon, having run a qualifying 2:18:34 in San Francisco last July. Bautista left a coaching job at California Polytechnic State University to come here and train.

"My reason for coming here is three-fold," he said. "One, to be reunited with Coach Miller, who coached for five years at Cal Poly Tech. Two, to accept an assistant coaching job at K-State. And thirdly, that my wife Barbara can work on her master's degree in physical education at K-State."

Bautista said he believes the Olympic trials will be a good indication of how well the United States will fare in the Olympics.

"The race will probably be won with a time of 2:10:00 or faster," he said. "But the marathon is very dependent on the conditions, like how fast or slow the course is."

Bautista said Los Angeles appeals to him as an Olympic site because "track and field will get a place in the spotlight."

Bautista competes for an international track club called Sub 4. Members of the club include Steve Scott, U.S. mile record holder and John Walker, ex-world mile record holder.

Terry Drake's situation is a little different than Torneden's and Bautista's. Drake has not yet qualified for the Olympic trials in the steeplechase, an event just short of two miles long with 35 barriers which runners must jump over. His best time of 8:48 is only eight seconds off the 8:40 qualifying standard.

Miller is also Drake's reason for coming to Manhattan.

"Coach Miller takes away the doubts," Drake said. "He builds you up all the time, takes away the uncertainty, and helps you to believe in yourself."

"I'm so close to qualifying that I had to come here to be coached by the best. I'm very dedicated to making the Olympic trials."

Athletes In Action, a Christian athletic group, sponsors Drake, who has represented AIA in Eastern Europe as well as the United States.

Drake said his goal is to return to Europe to continue competing and share his faith, "not only as an ambassador for track and field but for Christ, too."

Ronnie Waynes, the fourth athlete training with Miller, is a national NCAA division II long jump champion who also comes from California. His leap of 26-feet-4½, surpassed the Olympic trials qualifying mark of 25-feet-9.

Not only has Waynes qualified in the long jump, he also qualified for the Olympic trials in the 100 meters with a time of 10:31, but will not be competing in the race. The qualifying time in the 100 meters is 10:35.

"I just run the 100 meters to get into shape for the long jump," Waynes said. "I put my concentration on jumping."

Waynes also made a sacrifice to train under Miller.

"I had to quit school at Cal Poly Tech in the middle of the summer semester," he said. "I left behind a lot of friends and my mother to come out to a place where I'd never been."

"Leaving mom was the biggest sacrifice, but she gave me the OK to come out here. I don't want people to think that I'm a mama's boy because I'm not, it's just that I owe an awful lot to her," Waynes said.

Waynes was also coached by Miller at Cal Poly Tech.

"The man is great, he treats me well and is my guardian while I'm here," he said. "Coach Miller is a friend, somebody who cares."

Waynes, who is attending K-State and majoring in juvenile corrections, said he is confident that he can make the U.S. Olympic team.

"I already know that I can compete with the best," he said. "I'm ready to pursue my goal — competing at the Olympic trials."

These four athletes make it quite clear how they feel about training under Coach Miller, but how does Miller feel about them training under him?

"It's a burden, but it's worth it," Miller said. "I wish people could see what these athletes have gone through to get here."

"They're here because of me, and our program at K-State. I'm concerned about one thing, and that's getting them into the best possible shape — mentally and physically," he said. "I also have the ability to get them into good-quality meets."

Athletes on the K-State squad said they like the idea of the four athletes being here.

"It's exciting to have them here and working out with us," said Marc Keys, cross country team member. "It helps everyone here to see that there is athletics after college."

Deb Pihl, a member of the track team, said, "It helps to support the program having these people here."

While these four athletes have traveled many miles to train here, several K-State athletes have previously had times that would qualify. However, qualifying times have to be attained between June 17, 1983 to June 3, 1984. If they attain their times or distances before the deadline, they will attend the Olympic trials.

K-State women who have qualifying times are: Pihl in the 1500 and 3000 meters; Pinkie Suggs in the shotput and discus; Julie Waage in the javelin; and Donna King in the 100 and 200 meters and Rita Graves in the high jump. Kelly Wenlock has qualified in the long jump but will compete for Great Britain.

The men with qualifying times include Veryl Switzer and Rodney Brogden in the long jump; Doug Lytle in the pole vault; Donnie McKinnis and Ray Hansen in the javelin; Mike Bradley in the 400 meters; and Julius Mercer in the intermediate 400-meter hurdles.

Staff/Allen Eyston

Under the supervision of head track coach Steve Miller, foreground, are four Olympic hopefuls (left to right) Terry Drake, Fred Torneden, Manny Bautista, and Ronnie Waynes who are training with the track team.

Classified

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Octoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individual groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-9908. (2-17)

FREE BEER, free pool when you join the fight against M.D. this week-end at J. Riggs West. Pool-a-thon players free beer. Pick-up M.D.A. package today. Budweiser Auction Monday at 2:00 p.m. Beer signs, clocks, etc. to the highest bidder. K-State, KU Challenge Match Monday at 3:00 p.m. Open all night Sunday. Free pool with donation to M.D. Join us this Labor Day. J. Riggs West, 317 Poyntz. (7-10)

ADVENTURE, TRAVEL—Responsible position for management trainee. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (7)

ATTENTION 02

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10)

TRAVEL—WE will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

TICKETS!

The Sports Fanatic buys and sells tickets for local sporting events—both advance and last minute. Come by in person or call 539-0525 (or 539-9849).

PHOTOGRAPHER—AVAILABLE for weddings, reunions, fraternity/sorority party pictures. Reserve your dates early by phoning 776-8502 evenings. Ask for Brian. (3-7)

SCHOLARSHIP MONEY

for those who qualify
call AIR FORCE ROTC
532-6600

RIDERS—COLBY: Labor Day and two week-end/month. Call 532-3590 or leave message, 532-5582. Bob Brown. (4-8)

ROCK BAND with professional intentions is seeking lead guitarist, able to learn material quickly. Call 537-7738. (6-10)

CAR POOL—Participants to join car pool from Topeka to Manhattan. On campus from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday. Call Kay, extension 6278 or Bill, 1-235-5145. (6-6)

RENTERS INSURANCE

THE STATE FARM WAY

CALL BRUCE ARNOLD AGENT

507 LEAVENWORTH

776-3890

State Farm Fire and Casualty Company
Home Office: Bloomington, Illinois

STUDENT MAID Service—$12.00/week, includes ironing. Call Larry, 539-8391 or Dan, 539-2929. (6-7)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electric and manual, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

PRIVATE ROOM for grad or senior, non-smoking male. Newly decorated, private entrance, two blocks from college. 539-2703. (6-9)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid, $210/month, 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

NEW, FOUR-bedroom apartment. Near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Utilities paid $550 per month with Rental Agreement. 776-1776. (4-7)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment available September 1st. One person to take over lease until May 31. Call 537-3896. (5-9)

EXCELLENT for upperclassman, graduate student or married couple. Only one-bedroom mobile home left to rent. Has study, air conditioner, clean quiet location. Campus one mile. No children, no pets. 537-8380, or 537-8494. (7-10)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1973 PLYMOUTH Duster—Six cylinders, manual transmission. Runs and looks good. $700. Call 776-5893. (4-8)

1973 FORD Torino wagon. Running condition, new battery, stereo, cassette, air, heat, $550, negotiable. 539-5829. (5-9)

1976 AUDI Fox, four-speed, sun roof, AM-FM, great gas mileage, $900. Call 539-1268. (7-9)

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition, like new, 37,000 miles. Negotiable. Call 776-0131 evenings. (2-7)

1971 MG Midget. New engine, tires and paint, $2,500. Call 1-239-6337. (3-7)

1971 VW Bug—Real good school car. I'm not beautiful, but I run good, $975. J&L Bug Service, 1-494-2388. (4-8)

SPORTY 1982 Datsun 200SX, electric, vocal warning system, 5-speed, air conditioning. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

CONVERTIBLE 1969 Fiat 124 Spyder, 5-speed, excellent condition. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

SCHWINN CONTINENTAL 10-speed, light blue, with water bottle and frame pump. Great condition, $145. Call 539-0188. (3-7)

MID-SIZE REFRIGERATOR. Cheaper to own than rent. Perfect for dorm. 776-9270, evenings. (6-7)

MUST SELL. Improved stock farm—subdivision possibilities, 550/acre. Call Lori Dunafon, 1-457-3687. Town and Country Real Estate. (3-7)

CANON A1, Canon 50 and 70-210mm lenses, super flash. Brand new. Sacrifice, $580. Complete. David, 539-6267. (3-8)

Dorm Girls!!!

Need more space??

We've built bunk beds for over 100 satisfied customers, $50. Call David, 539-6267 or Kip, 539-4638.

SAILBOAT—14' Laser. Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-465-2703. (4-8)

REFRIGERATOR: 4 cubic feet, almost new, cheaper than renting, $120. Call 776-3165, ask for Bob. (5-7)

USED SLAB doors, ideal for tables, desk, or drawing boards, $4 each. You pick up, 539-3020. (5-7)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds, $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

FRIGIDAIRE AUTOMATIC washer, $125. Phone 776-6978. (6-8)

YAMAHA ACOUSTIC guitar. Excellent condition, like new. Price negotiable. Call Grub at 537-0967. (6-10)

EP COMP 1 water ski. Excellent condition. Call 539-1135. (6-9)

MUST SELL: 10-speed, "Free-spirit" bicycle, 26", $40; cassette deck, Panasonic w/Dolby, $70; Onkyo turntable, $60 or best offer. Call 539-9102 after 6:00 p.m. (6-8)

WOMEN'S 10-speed, 24-inch Huffy touring bike. Call 776-0620 after 6:00 p.m. (6-10)

UNDERWOOD MANUAL office typewriter, $35. Call 776-7277. (6-8)

DESK (TOP 2' x 3'), $25; double bed frame, $12; trombone (reasonable). Call 539-3439. (7-9)

ABSOLUTELY SUPER home for professors. Eugene Field. Five bedrooms on cul-de-sac. Nadine Green, G&A Realty, 537-7486. (7-8)

TYPEWRITER—PORTABLE. Smith-Corona, manual, works perfectly, $50. Call 539-6357. (7-9)

FOR SALE—Typewriter, bowling ball and weight set. Call 776-6495 after 5:00 p.m. (7-8)

KAWASAKI JET ski 440. Call 537-3977. (7-8)

FOR SALE: Small 110 volt dryer. Great for apartments, $60. Call 537-4341, after 4:00 p.m. (7-10)

NEW DUNLOP tires: Three 6.50-13 inch, 4 ply, $30 each. Call 539-7919. (7-9)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08

MOBILE HOME, September 1st—Five rooms, bath, close Manhattan, small court, patio, privacy, $5,000. Mornings, late evenings 1-456-7634. (5-9)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1978 750 Honda—excellent condition, new battery, tune-up, 8,000 miles. Call anytime, 539-3404. (4-8)

HONDA MOPED for sale—excellent condition. For information call, 539-0894. (4-9)

FOR SALE: 1981 Kawasaki CSR 305, 2,500 miles. Call 776-3718. (5-8)

1981 HONDA XL500. Excellent condition. New rear tire, $1150/offer. 539-2343, ask for Blane. (5-7)

1978 AAF moped, low mileage, excellent condition, $165. Call 537-8771 after 5:00 p.m. or weekends. (6f)

FOR SALE: 1977 Honda 750-4; very good shape. Must go! 776-3718 after 6:30 p.m. (6-10)

FOUND 10

SET OF keys. Identify and claim at towel cage in Ahearn or call 532-6765. (6-8)

FOUND: SET of keys left in Registrar's Office. Identify and claim in Anderson 118. (7-9)

KEYS FOUND on campus. Call 539-7864 after 7:00 p.m. to describe and claim. (7-9)

HELP WANTED 13

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures. 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9)

J. RIGGS West now accepting applications for part-time fast food employees, 317 Poyntz. Call 776-6338. (7-9)

PHOTOGRAPHER: STUDENT to take pictures for Food Service events. Variable schedule and previous experience required. Call Judy Flecker for appointment, 532-6453. (5-7)

BABYSITTER—ONE block from campus, Tuesday, Wednesday and/or Thursday mornings. Call 537-1949. (6-7)

VALENTINO'S PIZZA is taking applications for delivery personnel. Drivers must be at least 18 years of age and provide own transportation. Openings are for evening shifts. Must be able to work weekends. Hourly wage plus commission. Apply in person during business hours. (6-8)

CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE WANTED

Sharp, self-confident, energetic and enthusiastic sophomore or junior student to promote and sell winter and spring break National Collegiate Fun Weeks and Weekends ski and sun trips. Earn big commissions, free trips and incentive bonuses. Join the team, call Sunchase Tours Inc. toll free 1-800-321-5911 for more information by September 6th.

WANTED: STUDENT to work mornings and weekends on hog and crop farm located four miles east of Manhattan. Call 539-1930, evenings. (7-8)

EXTENSION ASSISTANT/Temporary, full time, assist in the development of microcomputer software for the production of Kansas corn. M.S. in Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Entomology, or Agricultural Economics, experience or training in agricultural production, and good communication skills required. Responsibilities: Collection and documentation of information for decision algorithms, and field testing software packages. Contact Dr. F.L. Poston, Department of Entomology, Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506. Phone: 913-532-6154. Kansas State University is an equal employment/affirmative action employer. (7-11)

LOST 14

WORRIED ABOUT my kids! Lost near Aggieville and campus. Neutered male cat, 10-15 pounds, yellow and white, declawed. Three-month, female kitten, beige and white patches. 537-3645. (5-10)

NOTICES 15

SKYDIVE

The K.S.U. Parachute Club will be holding an information meeting for those interested in making their first jump at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theater. There will be a regular meeting for members in the same room at 7 p.m.

NOW ACCEPTING full-time children for Puppetland, an all day nursery, with an accelerated educational program, a degreed teacher, and a small group ratio of 1 to 5. 539-1514 (Jean). (6-10)

HEALTH INSURANCE

THE STATE FARM WAY

CALL BRUCE ARNOLD AGENT
507 LEAVENWORTH
776-3890

PERSONAL 16

DARA—I just wanted to surprise you once and to let you know just how much I love you. Have a special day. Tony. (7)

MEN OF Delta Upsilon: Sorry this is late, but I wanted to thank you all for making a very special day all that much more special. Love, Nola. (7)

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Bamm-Bamm. You made the big "21"! I hope you have a fantastic day. I'm thinking about "You Mean More to Me," spaddies and "Hello"—so you know I love you. Have a happy one. Angel. Love you bunches, Betty. (7)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two-bedroom furnished apartment one block from campus. $130. Call 776-3062 or 537-1329. (3-10)

ROOMMATE to share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100 month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (4-8)

ROOMMATES NEEDED for nice, seven-bedroom house. Near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Water and trash paid $130 per month with Rental Agreement. Phone 776-1776. (4-7)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL roommate wanted. Private bedroom. Prefer male graduate student $130/month plus one-third utilities. Washer and dryer, air-conditioned, near campus, 914 Valtier. 776-9055 between 5:00 and 7:00 p.m. (4-7)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment. Private bedroom, fireplace, balcony, pool. Call 539-4757. (4-8)

WANTED: VERY liberal female. Own room, one-third bills. Two blocks from campus. Call 539-5499. (5-8)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted, 1530 McCain Apartments. Close to campus. Call 539-0479 after 5:00 p.m. (5-7)

CHRISTIAN MALES looking for two non-smoking roommates. Large five-bedroom house, $87.50 per month plus utilities. 776-4546. (6-10)

SPACIOUS, NICE apartment—own room and one-half utilities. Close to Aggie and campus. Call 539-1191, 776-0617. (6-8)

FEMALE—CAMPUS East Apartments. Furnished, pool, balcony. See to appreciate. One block from campus. 776-7045

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice two bedroom apartment with three other girls. $112 a month, close to campus. If interested stop by 1010 Thurston, apartment 7. Evenings best. (6-10)

TWO MALE roommates to share four bedroom house. Private room, $100 per month, one-fourth utilities. Call 537-2935 after 5:00 p.m. (7-11)

FEMALE WANTED to share a five bedroom house, $140 per month plus utilities. For more information call Mary, 539-9372. (7-8)

WANTED—RESPONSIBLE female roommate for three bedroom apartment. Rent negotiable. 539-7489. (7-8)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female to share two-bedroom apartment three blocks from campus, $112.50 a month plus utilities. 537-0854. (7-10)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-6537. (3-30)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (31f)

LICENSED CHILD care. Similar to nursery school, though smaller group. Educationally planned activities, field trips, fenced yard. Opening (1) girl, 2½-6 years. Call 537-7884. (4-8)

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service
1-494-2388, St. George

TYPING EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (5-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-6526. (6-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters Insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (6-15)

NEED A tutor? Physics 500 and lower, Math 400 and lower. Call Mike at 776-9058. (6-10)

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-6174. (7f)

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials. 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 1983. Call Elaine Barryhill, independent Beauty Consultant. 537-3233 days, 1-456-7251 evenings. (7-29)

WANTED 21

FAMILY WOULD like college girl to live in for school year. Food and room in exchange for help. Write Box 2, c/o Collegian. (6-9)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Balkan native

5 Astern

8 Speck

12 Pure form of trona

13 Join together

14 Commercial metal

15 Obscures

16 City in Oregon

18 City in Washington

20 Charon's destination

21 Miner's quest

22 Craze

23 Ridiculously naive

26 The Big Apple

30 Summer refresher

31 Operate

32 Future fish

33 City in Wisconsin

36 City in Georgia

38 Seine

39 Hobo

40 Condition

43 City in Tennessee

47 City in New Jersey

49 River in France

50 Maple genus

51 Pub drink

52 Bring up

53 Throw

54 Favorite

55 Old serf

DOWN

1 Beer foam

2 City in Pennsylvania

3 Incarnation of Vishnu

4 "The Hub"

5 "An—a day ..."

6 Ice mass

7 Son of Odin

8 A woman of fashion

9 Toward the mouth

10 Vocal quality

11 Goals

17 Melt

19 Endeavor

22 Bog

23 Eccentric wheel part

24 Harem room

25 Communist

26 Convent

27 Sea animal

28 Character in "Winnie the Pooh"

29 Cognizance

34 Buries

35 Crystal ball

36 Silent

37 French physicist

39 American poet

40 Petty quarrel

41 Mexican dish

42 Sweet, pulpy fruit

43 Jetty

44 Colors

45 Formerly Persia

46 Withered

48 Plant fluid

8-30

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 8-30

Q O I H M G J I ' D F Y J E F H I X Q Y E U Q E
D Z M U Z : E G E T Y U Q O I X E M T Q.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — MARK ANTONY CURTLY TOLD THE CORNHUSKERS: 'LEND ME YOUR EARS.'
Today's Cryptquip clue: E equals O.

A short course in long distance.

LONG DISTANCE CALLS	MINS.	BELL	MCI	SAVINGS
Boston College to Providence	1	$.28	$.14	50.0%
Marquette to Dallas	4	1.14	.75	34.2
Northwestern Univ. to Reno	7	1.96	1.33	32.1
Univ. of Kentucky to Lubbock	30	8.04	5.72	28.9
UCLA to Cleveland	8	2.50	1.70	32.0
Univ. of Texas to San Francisco	12	3.28	2.29	30.2
Georgetown Univ. to St. Louis	5	1.40	.93	33.6
New York Univ. to Miami	2	.64	.38	40.6

Rates show comparative pricing between Bell's evening rate and MCI's evening rate. Final rate authorities on all tariffed services are MCI Tariff FCC #1 and AT&T Tariff FCC #263.

Take one look at the above chart and you can see that making a call on MCI can save you up to 50% off Bell's rates.

Of course, this doesn't just hold for the cities mentioned but for any other town in any other state in the continental U.S., as well as to Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and major cities in Canada.

It doesn't matter how much or how little you call, either.

So look for your MCI campus representative to sign up. Or send in this coupon for more information.

MCI

The nation's long distance phone company.

MCI Telecommunications Corp.
College Promotion
1133 19th Street, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036
1-800-821-7171

I want to cut the cost of my long distance calls up to 50%.
Please send me more information.

Name _____

Name of School _____

School Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone Number at School _____

Permanent Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Average amount of monthly long distance calls $ _____

KS-1

Intramural intensity
Flag football competition begins
Sports, page 11

Housemother adopts Theta Xi members as 'sons'

By VIKKI WATSON
Staff Writer

Sue Kimbrough has been married twice and has no children.

This year, however, she has 46 sons.

Kimbrough is not a fluke in medical history or a Guinness Book of World Records entry. She is, however, housemother for the Theta Xi fraternity — a token mom, and at times a real mom, to the 46 members of the house.

She's been a housemom for the last 15 years, starting on the K-State campus at Triangle fraternity, then venturing to the Delta Chi fraternity and Delta Zeta sorority at Oklahoma State University. She later went to Washburn University in Topeka and spent two years at the Alpha Phi sorority. She has spent her last eight years at Theta Xi.

That may be considered quite a bit of "mothering" for a woman who never had children of her own. It also contrasts with her earlier life following her college days, when Kimbrough studied dance at the University of Arkansas. She also attended Tulane University, Louisiana State University and Northwestern University before going abroad to receive her master's degree in Paris.

Kimbrough's life after college was busy and included running her own 500-pupil dance school. It was after years of strenuous instruction that she turned to the job of housemother.

"It was so much work with the dance school that when I became a housemother it was like I died and went to heaven," she said.

Her responsibilities now include meal planning, grocery shopping and hosting house functions. She also gives the men periodic lectures on social manners.

And it is when she talks of these men — or boys, as she calls them — the 79-year-old's eyes glisten with affection.

"They (the boys) really are sweet to me," she said. "I think I love them so much because I don't have any children of my own."

Her 46-member "family" is a dedicated, loving bunch. And protective, too, she said, especially when it comes to disclosing her age.

"They don't want me to say how old I am," she laughed. "They say I don't look that old."

Kimbrough said she's seen a lot in her 15 years of being a housemother. She has enjoyed an attachment to both the sorority and fraternity members she has served.

And what about the differences between life with approximately 50 girls and life with 50 boys? They are only slight, she said, with the exception of a few day-to-day experiences.

"If the girls didn't have a date, I'd just suffer right along with them," she said. "If the boys don't have a date, I think it's their own fault."

It is this sharing that seems to make Kimbrough special. Besides her official duties, you'll also find her cooking late-night snacks with house members and spending her summers and falls crocheting individual Christmas gifts for each boy. She makes purple and white scarves for each new member and then crochets a prechosen gift for each older member.

"It takes all summer to get it done," she said. "(But) I think the boys are very appreciative of what you do."

"And I like to work in the kitchen. A lot of times the boys and I like to cook together at night. They are so cute."

Those are just a few of her extra activities, however. Kimbrough's typical day includes a long walk before breakfast, errand-running, button sewing for the boys and attending concerts or sporting events.

Kimbrough said her favorite hobbies are crocheting, reading and swimming. An avid bridge player, Kimbrough teaches the game to boys in the house and will also instruct at a Manhattan senior citizen center later this fall.

"I don't have any spare time. I can't imagine people having time on their hands," she said.

The busy life of a housemother is ideal, Kimbrough said, particularly for an older woman. It is not, however, a job fit for just anyone.

"A person has to have a good sense of humor and love young people to be a good housemother," she said. "If you can be kind like a grandmother to them it works out. It's a wonderful thing for an older person."

Kimbrough also views the entire Greek way of life as wonderful — an experience she highly recommends to every young girl or boy.

"I think it (sorority and fraternity living) prepares them for life better than any other way," she said. "I've seen young men come in here so shy they're almost afraid to say anything and by the end of the year you see so much improvement."

"I think they get so much from a sorority or fraternity that they can't get any other way."

It's a system that fits this bubbly, dark-haired lady just fine. And she won't be leaving, either — especially if she has anything to say about the matter.

"As long as I can do the job well I'd like to continue to be a housemother," Kimbrough said. "But I do hope when I get to where I can't do it well that they'll let me go."

"I won't ever quit — they'll have to let me go," she added jokingly.

And it may, in fact, just be awhile before she does quit. Before she quits working, quits laughing and just quits being "mom."

"I get so attached to them (the boys). These boys are all the children I have."

U.S. forces to remain in Lebanon

By The Associated Press

SANTA BARBARA — As U.S. Marines came under fire in Beirut for the third day, President Reagan refused Tuesday to characterize the fighting as a combat situation subject to a congressional decision whether to order withdrawal of American troops.

Instead, the president sent a letter to congressional leaders outlining the three days of fighting, in which two Marines were killed and 14 were wounded Monday. He said that by late Tuesday a cease-fire was in effect in Beirut and firing on Marine positions had ceased.

"In the meantime, U.S. forces will be prepared to exercise their right of self-defense should such attacks recur," the president said.

"I believe the continued presence of these U.S. forces in Lebanon is essential to the objective of helping to restore the territorial integrity, sovereignty and political independence of Lebanon," Reagan wrote in letters to Senate and House leaders.

"It is still not possible to predict the duration of the presence of these forces in Lebanon; we will continue to assess this question in the light of progress toward this objective," he said.

From his vacation ranch high in the Santa Ynez mountains, Reagan recapped fighting that has enveloped the 1,200 U.S. Marines in Beirut since Sunday. He said U.S. Marines came under small-arms fire in the area of the Beirut airport Sunday and returned the fire and that there were no injuries to the Americans.

In Monday's fighting, in which the two U.S. Marines were killed, the American positions came under mortar, rocket and small-arms fire, and several artillery rounds fell near the amphibious support ship Iwo Jima stationed offshore. Reagan said the Marines returned fire with artillery, small arms and rocket fire from a helicopter gunship.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Sue Kimbrough has been 'mom' to the men of Theta Xi fraternity for the past eight years.

Begin letter ends era; replacement next step

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Menachem Begin wrote his letter of resignation Tuesday, setting off a scramble in his party to pick a successor who could hold his right-wing government coalition together.

"I cannot go on any longer," the 70-year-old prime minister told colleagues who begged him to change his mind.

Although he delayed submitting his resignation to President Chaim Herzog, political circles were convinced that the six-year Begin era, which brought Israel peace with Egypt and war in Lebanon, was over.

Cabinet members from Begin's Herut Party met Tuesday night to try to decide on the procedure for choosing a successor to lead the party and the Likud bloc, the conservative alliance dominating the coalition government.

The chief contenders were Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, 68, and Deputy Prime Minister David Levy, 45, and Israel radio said Shamir was preferred. But Levy denied this, saying nothing had been decided.

Other Likud leaders appealed to Begin to withhold his resignation for a few days to allow time to choose a successor. He promised an answer Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Israel radio said the opposition Labor Party, which dominated the government for the first 29 years of Israel's 35-year existence, was contacting potential defectors in the government.

The religious parties that hold the balance of power have pledged publicly to remain with the government. But if Herut and the Likud cannot agree quickly on a leader, the allegiance of the minor parties might weaken under the pressure of inducements that Labor is sure to offer them.

After he resigns, Begin will continue as caretaker prime minister until a new government is formed. His spokesman, Uri Porat, said he expects him to withdraw from political life. But he added that Begin had promised to campaign for the Likud if neither it nor Labor can form a majority government, and elections must be held.

Begin made his surprise announcement of his intention to resign at the weekly Cabinet meeting Sunday, then delayed while his associates pleaded with him to change his mind.

"You have to understand that the members of the Herut movement see Menachem Begin not just as a man who was prime minister for six years but a man who for 40 years was a leader, a guide, a mentor, a man who knew how to rescue us in any situation," said a Likud member of Parliament, Michael Kleiner.

But Cabinet leaders said when they called on him Tuesday, they found him penning his resignation letter.

"We won't let you do it," exclaimed Economics Minister Yaaqov Meridor, a comrade from their guerrilla days fighting for Israeli independence.

"Then I'll do it without your permission," Begin replied as he finished the letter and sent it to be typed.

Parties in park officially forbidden; Mayor denies 'understood agreement'

By LUCINDA ELLISON
Manhattan Editor

Parties — now is the prime time. Students are back and get-togethers naturally seem appropriate.

The weekend before school starts usually brings a host of welcome-back parties and bashes as returning students locate acquaintances.

Although Manhattan City Park is appealing as a location for such congregations, the area is now definitely off-limits for such activities. Because of a city law, parties in the park were officially forbidden this year by Mayor Wanda Fateley.

Locating an appropriate gathering place has always been a problem. Returning students gathered for many years in the Fairchild Terrace Area, Barbara Robel, adviser for Greek Affairs, said. Due to complaints from surrounding residents, the park became an attractive alternative.

"We (Greek Affairs) simply try to facilitate some type of gathering for all students, not just Greeks, to renew old friendships," Robel said.

"For the past two years, we've done it (had parties in Manhattan City Park). This would have been the third year," she said.

Although the city has never approved of parties in the park, students were allowed to gather in the area, under an "understood agreement," said Brett Lambert, sophomore in pre-law and director of public relations for Greek Affairs.

"We had an unwritten agreement that we (Greek Affairs) would monitor parties in the park," he said.

Lambert said students were asked to pour alcoholic beverages in paper cups, and no one was allowed to leave the party or drive with alcoholic beverages.

In return for being allowed use of the area, students were responsible for cleaning up the morning after the festivities.

"Everybody was happy," Lambert said.

"It's always been the job of Greek Affairs to cooperate with city officials and the public," he said. After prohibition of gatherings in the park, Greek Affairs will no longer be responsible for students gathering in the park, Lambert said.

Because students were meeting in residential areas, a meeting between city, University, and Riley County Police Department officials was held two years ago.

According to Alvan Johnson, director of the Riley County Police Department, the city didn't approve of the gathering, yet at the same time agreed not to turn students out of the park at the established curfew time.

"My reaction to the whole issue is that the City Commission adopts ordinances which are standards for the community to live by. I, as director of the police department, cannot waive these standards for such instances," Johnson said.

No permission was ever granted allowing consumption of alcoholic beverages in the area, Johnson said.

This year, as in previous years, Greek Affairs tried to establish permission for another get-together in the park.

After members of the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Executive Council talked to various city officials and the Riley County Police Department, Robel was informed that the park was off-limits for such a gathering.

"We had talked to the usual group of people, and then I received a phone call from Mayor Fateley. She said in no way would this be allowed," Robel said.

"We had no choice but to notify the Greek houses that they should probably be gathering elsewhere."

Robel said that since there were no contacts with non-Greeks, these people were informed through word of mouth.

Fateley said her first experience with the gatherings in the park began with her service on the City Commission three years ago.

"I got calls at midnight. People were relating to me that the police said the city had okayed parties in the park."

"I don't know how the informal agreement was made, but that's when they started congregating in the park. History has evolved that it was an unofficial agreement. I don't necessarily agree with it," Fateley said.

"It isn't fair and it isn't very adult (the agreement). I guess by the time you're in college, you should be more responsible," she added.

After the Interfraternity Council contacted the chief of police and city staff, Fateley was informed that students were once again requesting permission for use of the park for a gathering the weekend before school started.

"No one has ever officially done it (given permission). It's not down in black and white. You can't," Fateley said.

"I wrote Barb Robel a letter saying I'm going to put it down in black and white. The city does not condone breaking city ordinances."

"I frankly didn't know whether my taking action would be like waving a red flag in front of the bull. I'm interested to see what the actual result was," she said. "I did ask the director of police to let me know what complaints they had and how much extra time was spent. I guess one of the results is if they (students) don't congregate in the park, they do at their own residences."

Although citizens living in and around areas inhabited by students may have been affected by the move of gatherings into residential areas, Fateley said residents should expect this to some extent.

"Everybody wants to move the problem from their backyard to somebody else's backyard," she added.

According to Robel, the move of parties back into residential areas did create some problems.

"I think the problems were that the students are going to get together somewhere, somehow. Students, Greeks as well as non-Greeks, got together at Greek houses. Consequently, there were several unhappy neighbors," Robel said.

Although parties at off-campus residences may have caused problems, police handled the situation well, Lambert said.

"In all honesty, the Riley County Police Department did an exceptional job. They avoided somewhat uncomfortable situations. They did not overreact. They, at all times, had the direct public interest at heart," Lambert said.

"We (Greek Affairs) knew the parties would take place no matter what we said or anyone else said. In a lot of instances, we felt the help we could offer was going unheeded."

"When you have parties until 2 or 3 a.m. no should have to put up with that. Greek Affairs in no way condones anyone infringing on the rights of citizens," he added.

Dance group to add glitter, spirit at games

By The Collegian Staff

There will be more purple at football games and women's basketball games this year. The added color will be provided by the Wildcat Dancers, an offshoot of the K-State Pridettes.

The dancers, a group of eight women, will "assist in promoting spirit," said Lisa Mays, graduate in guidance education and student Pridette sponsor.

The group will be performing dance routines on the alumni side of the football stadium and will serve as cheerleaders for women's basketball.

The women will wear purple uniforms with purple and white sequins, and each dancer will carry pompons of metallic silver and purple.

Mays said the act will provide a glittery, shiny effect to the games.

The routines performed at the football games will be similar to those done by cheerleaders for professional football teams, Mays said. The responsibilities of the dancers and the K-State cheerleaders will be separate.

"They (the dancers) are not cheerleaders in the sense that they will not be doing any acrobatics or stunts. They will mainly be doing sideline routines and promoting spirit," Mays said.

The group will perform as regular cheerleaders at all women's basketball games, a job done in the past by eight chosen Pridettes. All must try out first for the Pridettes before trying out for the dancers.

Tryouts are held each spring, Mays said, to allow time during the summer to practice and attend camp. This summer, each dancer attended a dance convention.

The eight Wildcat dancers are Dana Duden, senior in office administration; Lee Ann Griffith, junior in journalism and mass communications; Susan Hatcher, senior in finance; Gina Hayes, sophomore in business administration; Sierra Munson, junior in special education; Janie Ochoa, junior in fashion marketing; Julie Pierson, sophomore in business administration; and Cathy Spain, junior in finance.

Senate to meet Thursday

By The Collegian Staff

Scheduled for Student Senate's consideration Thursday is the approval of Dana Hawkins, junior in radio and television, as chairman of the State and Community Affairs Committee.

Senate will begin its meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight

Room.

Senate also will vote on revisions to the KSU Literature and Notice Regulations, which govern where recognized and non-recognized organizations can distribute materials on campus.

President Duane Acker is scheduled to speak to senators, but no topic has been announced.

Correction

An article in Tuesday's Collegian concerning a telephone survey of radio listenership in the Manhattan area was misleading, due to editing errors. The article quoted Brian O'Neill, assistant adviser to KSDB, as saying "the survey showed that what we're doing is working. There are three radio stations (KJCK-FM, KMKF, and WIBW-FM) with the same format as us."

The quote should have read, "there are three radio stations with the same format — and us."

In the same article, KSDB was reported to run 25 percent fewer commercials than other stations. The article should have stated that the station broadcasts 75 percent less breaks (which can be either commercials or "public service" announcements) than other stations in the listening area.

Because of a reporting error, the Collegian incorrectly reported Thursday that the K-State-KU Canoe Race will be Oct. 10-11. The correct dates are Sept. 10-11.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student Office.

INFORMATION AND SIGN-UP MEETING will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 1 for the Winfield Bluegrass Festival Mini-Trip. Sign-up will continue through 4 p.m. Sept. 8. Sign up in Union Activities Center.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS membership drive is this week. Come visit the table in the Union.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT is now accepting new members for the fall term. All majors are welcome.

DIEHLER GALLERY is open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in West Stadium.

TODAY

MARKETING CLUB membership sign-up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Aug. 30 to Sept. 1 in Calvin Hall, first floor. Resume catalog service is available for members.

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Alzarook M. Alsenoy at 10 a.m. in Room A of the Vet Med Library.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral dissertation of Phillip O. Barry at 1 p.m. in the A&O Conference Room.

MICROBIOLOGY CLUB meets at 3:30 p.m. in Leasure 201.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE STAR AND LAMP meet at 9:30 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Phi house.

SIGMA DELTA PI Spanish Study Sessions at 7 p.m. in Denison 215. Everyone welcome.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet for basic information about the application process from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. in Union 205.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONICAL ENGINEERS sign up for membership from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. in Cardwell Hall Lobby and in Durland Hall Auditorium.

COALITION FOR HUMAN RIGHTS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 204.

THURSDAY

GRADUATE STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 1:30 p.m. in the SGS offices.

AG STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 135.

HORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Waters 244.

KSU RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 230. Executive committee meeting is at 7 p.m.

THE PHYSICS DEPARTMENT PLANETARIUM offers a slide program from NASA about the Voyager missions to Saturn and Jupiter at 8 and 9 p.m. in Cardwell 407. It is hoped that visitors will be able to view Saturn and Jupiter through a 16-inch telescope, and the observatory will also be toured.

PI KAPPA ALPHA LITTLE SISTER RUSH PARTY will be at 8 p.m. at the Pike house.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENTS SOCIETY OF AMERICA meets at 7:30 p.m. at Last Chance.

MINORITY ENGINEERS STUDY CENTER

new hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 6 p.m. in Durland Hall 32.

SOCIAL WORK CLUB WATERMELON FEED at 7 p.m. in City Park Shelter.

K-STATE CREW meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 208.

COLLEGIATE 4-H officers meeting at 6:30 p.m. and business meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Union 213.

FAMILY ECONOMICS PROFESSIONAL SECTION will meet at 4 p.m. in Justin 327.

SIGMA DELTA PI SPANISH TABLE meet in Union Stairroom 2. Program topic is "What Would You Like to See Sigma Delta Pi Do This Year?" Anyone interested in practicing Spanish welcome.

AICHE meet at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

KSU WOMEN'S SOCCER CLUB meet at 6:30 p.m. on west side of intramural soccer fields.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION meets at 6:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

29 YRS OF KSU TRADITION!

SORORITY BARTENDERS WED. NITES!

A D Pis Tonite!

Had lunch at Kite's Grille?

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S BAR AND GRILL

MR. K'S

LADIES NITE EVERY WEDNESDAY!

Mr. K's Ladies Get . . .

- FREE ADMISSION ALL NITE
- FREE DRAW and 25' DRAWS ALL NITE

If You Haven't Been To Mr. K's . . . You Haven't Been To Aggieville!

functions

Our Grand Opening Sale is still in progress—

Special Low Prices On—

- Back packs!
- Sport duffles!
- Study lamps!
- Shelving!
- Storage units!
- Rugs!
- Glassware!
- Cookware!
- Dinnerware!

1123 Moro in Aggieville
10-8 daily 1-5 Sunday

Closed Classes as of Today.

00060	03400	06630	08620	09120	10360	12140	14360	16170	20340	22420	24800	26730	28340	31970	34020	35130	36970
00060	03400	06630	08620	09120	10360	12140	14360	16170	20340	22420	24800	26730	28340	31970	34020	35130	36970
00120	04170	06890	08630	09130	10370	12150	14370	16180	20350	22430	24810	26740	28350	31980	34030	35140	36980
00120	04170	06890	08630	09130	10370	12150	14370	16180	20350	22430	24810	26740	28350	31980	34030	35140	36980
00180	04230	06950	08690	09190	10430	12210	14430	16240	20410	22490	24870	26800	28410	32040	34090	35200	37040
00180	04230	06950	08690	09190	10430	12210	14430	16240	20410	22490	24870	26800	28410	32040	34090	35200	37040
00240	04290	07010	08750	09250	10490	12270	14490	16300	20470	22550	24930	26860	28470	32100	34150	35260	37100
00240	04290	07010	08750	09250	10490	12270	14490	16300	20470	22550	24930	26860	28470	32100	34150	35260	37100
00300	04350	07070	08810	09310	10550	12330	14550	16360	20530	22610	25000	26930	28540	32170	34220	35330	37170
00300	04350	07070	08810	09310	10550	12330	14550	16360	20530	22610	25000	26930	28540	32170	34220	35330	37170
00360	04410	07130	08870	09370	10610	12390	14610	16420	20590	22670	25060	26990	28600	32230	34280	35390	37230
00360	04410	07130	08870	09370	10610	12390	14610	16420	20590	22670	25060	26990	28600	32230	34280	35390	37230
00420	04470	07190	08930	09430	10670	12450	14670	16480	20650	22730	25120	27050	28660	32290	34340	35450	37290
00420	04470	07190	08930	09430	10670	12450	14670	16480	20650	22730	25120	27050	28660	32290	34340	35450	37290
00480	04530	07250	08990	09490	10730	12510	14730	16540	20710	22790	25180	27110	28720	32350	34400	35510	37350
00480	04530	07250	08990	09490	10730	12510	14730	16540	20710	22790	25180	27110	28720	32350	34400	35510	37350
00540	04590	07310	09050	09550	10790	12570	14790	16600	20770	22850	25240	27170	28780	32410	34460	35570	37410
00540	04590	07310	09050	09550	10790	12570	14790	16600	20770	22850	25240	27170	28780	32410	34460	35570	37410
00600	04650	07370	09110	09610	10850	12630	14850	16660	20830	22910	25300	27230	28840	32470	34520	35630	37470
00600	04650	07370	09110	09610	10850	12630	14850	16660	20830	22910	25300	27230	28840	32470	34520	35630	37470
00660	04710	07430	09170	09670	10910	12690	14910	16720	20890	22970	25360	27290	28900	32510	34560	35670	37510
00660	04710	07430	09170	09670	10910	12690	14910	16720	20890	22970	25360	27290	28900	32510	34560	35670	37510
00720	04770	07490	09230	09730	10970	12750	14970	16780	20950	23030	25420	27350	28960	32570	34610	35720	37550
00720	04770	07490	09230	09730	10970	12750	14970	16780	20950	23030	25420	27350	28960	32570	34610	35720	37550
00780	04830	07550	09290	09790	11030	12810	15030	16840	21010	23090	25480	27410	29020	32630	34660	35770	37590
00780	04830	07550	09290	09790	11030	12810	15030	16840	21010	23090	25480	27410	29020	32630	34660	35770	37590
00840	04890	07610	09350	09850	11090	12870	15090	16900	21070	23150	25560	27490	29100	32690	34710	35820	37630
00840	04890	07610	09350	09850	11090	12870	15090	16900	21070	23150	25560	27490	29100	32690	34710	35820	37630
00900	04950	07670	09410	09910	11150	12930	15150	16960	21130	23210	25620	27550	29160	32750	34760	35870	37650
00900	04950	07670	09410	09910	11150	12930	15150	16960	21130	23210	25620	27550	29160	32750	34760	35870	37650
00960	05010	07730	09470	09970	11210	12990	15210	17020	21190	23270	25680	27610	29220	32810	34810	35920	37670
00960	05010	07730	09470	09970	11210	12990	15210	17020	21190	23270	25680	27610	29220	32810	34810	35920	37670
01020	05070	07790	09530	10030	11270	13050	15270	17080	21250	23330	25740	27670	29280	32870	34860	35970	37690
01020	05070	07790	09530	10030	11270	13050	15270	17080	21250	23330	25740	27670	29280	32870	34860	35970	37690
01080	05130	07850	09590	10090	11330	13110	15330	17140	21310	23390	25800	27730	29340	32910	34910	36020	37710
01080	05130	07850	09590	10090	11330	13110	15330	17140	21310	23390	25800	27730	29340	32910	34910	36020	37710
01140	05190	07910	09650	10150	11390	13170	15390	17250	21370	23450	25860	27790	29400	32970	34960	36070	37730
01140	05190	07910	09650	10150	11390	13170	15390	17250	21370	23450	25860	27790	29400	32970	34960	36070	37730
01200	05250	07970	09710	10210	11450	13230	15450	17310	21430	23510	25920	27850	29460	33030	35030	36130	37750
01200	05250	07970	09710	10210	11450	13230	15450	17310	21430	23510	25920	27850	29460	33030	35030	36130	37750
01260	05310	08030	09770	10270	11490	13290	15510	17370	21490	23570	25980	27910	29520	33090	35090	36190	37770
01260	05310	08030	09770	10270	11490	13290	15510	17370	21490	23570	25980	27910	29520	33090	35090	36190

Officials ponder merit pay feasibility

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Several top state government administrators debated the wisdom of merit pay for state employees before a legislative committee today, with Secretaries Robert C. Harder and Michael Barbara calling for its abolishment.

Harder, head of the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, said merit pay tends to reward only a favored few while creating dissension among the rest of the employees.

Barbara, secretary of the Department of Corrections, said the high achievers are going to produce regardless of a merit system.

Both said advancement within the agency is adequate reward for employees.

Their stands brought strong disagreements from Charles "Jaime" Schwartz, secretary of Economic Development, and Stan Koplick, executive officer of the state Board of Regents.

"Any money we have available should be distributed across the board to all employees," said Harder, who has headed up SRS and its predecessor agency for nearly 15 years. "Merit pay ought to be a thing of the past."

Harder said any extra money should be given to employees as a bonus in a single year, but not built into their base salaries.

"I think the evaluation system...ought to become the standard by which they advance," he told the interim Committee on Efficiency in State Government.

"The evaluation system establishes their place in the ranks. Their chances of advancing are directly related to their position in the evaluation system. The minute you use merit pay on top of that you distort the evaluation system."

"When you give merit pay to 5 percent of your people, then 95 percent of them are going to be unhappy."

"It seems to me it would be a lot better to give attention to the cost-of-living problems. That way, people will stay with the system because they don't think it's subject to the whims of management. Promotion is their reward."

Barbara, who has headed the state's penal system just 7½ months, said he agreed with Harder.

"If you're truly effective with your evaluation system, you're talking about the top five percent of your employees," he said.

"They're the drivers; they're the achievers. They're going to advance anyway. I agree if there is money available it should be spread across the board to all employees."

However, Schwartz told the committee, which completed two days of roundtable discussions with heads of state agencies: "Not having merit pay is terrible. I would find the money right now (to fund it)."

"To me what you wind up with, if you don't reward your best employees, is they leave. We don't keep people. They come, they work and they leave (because) we have such close contact with the private sector."

Schwartz said he believes that if the Legislature provided money for five percent pay increases, all state employees should get four percent cost-of-living hikes and the other one percent should be reserved for merit increases.

He said in a small agency such as he runs, there are five key employees he needs badly to retain and without the incentive of merit pay it's very difficult.

Koplick told the committee Kansas has been able to maintain its quality university faculty over the years because of its merit pay system.

From merit pay money provided by the 1983 Legislature, Koplick noted, university faculty members in Kansas will be receiving pay increases of up to 23 percent on Jan. 1. He said such increases are critical to retaining quality faculty at the regents' institutions.

Night liftoff delights, awes shuttle riders

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The Challenger astronauts, awed and delighted as any Earth-tied spectator by their night ride into the sky, faced the major money-making task of their mission Wednesday, launching a satellite that will beam telephone calls and television across a million square miles of India.

The launching, like everything else on this eighth shuttle mission, was to take place while most of America was asleep. For the astronauts, who see a sunrise or a sunset every 45 minutes, it was one of the first items on Day 2 of their six-day flight.

"Just generally, a great time is being had by all," commander Richard Truly said Tuesday as the astronauts were preparing for bed. At mission control, in Houston, it was only midday.

By then, mission specialists Dale Gardner and Guion Bluford were well along in a living-cell separation experiment that holds the promise of new treatment for diabetes. Bluford is the first black American in space, a fact that President Reagan said, "we acknowledge proudly."

Challenger was 17 minutes late getting off the ground early Tuesday because the launch area had been buffeted by thunder, lightning and rain. The storm cleared out in the nick of time; officials already were prepared to postpone the liftoff by at least a day.

The shuttle brought a temporary dawn to the Kennedy

Space Center four hours early as its twin rockets burned with light that rivaled the sun. The sound of 6.5 million pounds of thrust made the ground quake.

The spectacle was awesome not only on the ground.

Truly described the ride to orbit as "driving through a fog bank." Pilot Dan Brandenstein said the light from the rocket boosters made them feel as if they were inside a bonfire. And Gardner thought "it looked like we were totally enveloped in a ball of flame."

Gardner said that from what Truly said and what he's heard from other shuttle astronauts, this first night launch of a shuttle was "a whole different ball game, but it was fun."

Because of the bad weather, the ascent was not seen from as far away as predicted, although the flame was visible as a small red-orange glow in Miami, 200 miles south. Even at the launch pad the flame was in view for less than three minutes.

The fifth crewman aboard Challenger is Dr. William Thornton, whose job it is to continue research into the space sickness that has afflicted nearly one of every two shuttle astronauts. The 54-year-old physician, the oldest American ever to go into space, set right to work, conducting tests on himself and fellow crewmen.

Because of the celestial geometry involved, the satellite called Insat had to be deployed precisely at 3:49 a.m. EDT. That made a night launch necessary.

Auto program aids in settling disputes

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A free third-party arbitration program to assist Kansans with complaints about automobile dealers and some car manufacturers was announced Tuesday by an industry group.

The program, sponsored by the Kansas Motor Car Dealers Association, is called the Kansas Automotive Consumer Action Program, or AUTOCAP. Thirty-one other state car dealer groups offer similar arbitration services, including Iowa and Colorado.

"The AUTOCAP program was begun by the industry in an effort to solve some of our own problems and give the consumer a free, easy-to-use public service program whereby they can seek assistance in solving a disagreement they may have with a franchised new car and truck dealer without going through legal channels," said Jim Clark of Lawrence, Kansas director of the National Automobile Dealers Association board of directors.

Clark, who operates a car dealership in Lawrence, announced the start of the program at a statehouse news conference along with Attorney General Robert Stephan, who praised the program as another means of consumer protection.

"It is refreshing to see businessmen in the private sector who are willing to assist consumers in resolving complaints," said Stephan. "If AUTOCAP works, and I believe it will, I hope it will serve as a model for other industries in assisting consumers without our intervention."

The program will be based in Topeka, and an office staff will field complaints by letter or telephone. First, an attempt will be made by the staff to mediate any dispute between a consumer and dealer.

If that fails, a panel of eight people — four each representing consumers and auto dealers — will review the case and make a decision.

"All material will be held in strictest confidence, and no names will be used during the panel discussion," said Clark. "Panelists will not know the names of the persons involved so that no preconceived prejudices will enter into the decision."

The decision is not legally binding on either party, which allows consumers to take the matter to a court or to the attorney general's office if they so desire. However, auto dealers participating in the program will voluntarily honor the arbitration panel's finding, according to Clark.

He said members of the Kansas Motor Car Dealers Association would be participating, about 400 dealerships or 90-95 percent of all Kansas car dealers.

FOR THE FUN OF IT
PLAY PUTT PUTT
TONIGHT

Betcha Didn't Know...
Bluebird
Our #1 Band

Thursday
Friday
Saturday

Betcha Didn't Know...
Bluebird
Our #1 Band

FOR THE FUN OF IT
PLAY PUTT PUTT
TONIGHT

The Sports Fan-atic

CLINIQUE

Skin care that works because it's based on your skin needs.

ALL PRODUCTS ARE ALLERGY TESTED—100% FRAGRANCE FREE

Exclusively

Broune's
DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

CALL 776-4776 FOR APPOINTMENT

Aggie Station

RESTAURANT & BAR

Welcome To...

75¢ DRINKS WED. NITES!

•75¢ Well Drinks Wed. Nites 7pm-1am!

JOIN AGGIE STATION AND ITS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

'WORK YOURSELF INTO A BARGAIN HERE!'

GALS:

- Zena & Chic Jeans $5.00 OFF!
- Levi California Straights & Selected Fashion Denim $22.88!
- Brittania Jeans $19.88!

GUYS:

- Brittania Fashion Denim $19.88!
- Coats 25% OFF!

"WE'RE MORE THAN JUST A JEAN STORE"

MON.-SAT. 10-6 THE JEAN STATION THURS. 10-8:30

AGGIEVILLE

DINNER IN AGGIEVILLE

Steaks • BBQ Ribs
Chicken • Sandwiches
Cold Beer

Hibachi Hut

608 N. 12th 539-9906

BEGINNING COUNTRY SWING

DANCE CLASSES

- MON. 7-8:30
- TUES. 7-8:30
- TUES. 9-10:30
- WED. 7-8:30

Limited space available so sign up at the Rockin K today. Four week course begins week of Sept. 12 for $12 per person; $20 per couple.

ROCKIN K BAR

712 N. Manhattan • 539-9933

Experience the Basics

Be all you can be Army ROTC

MOUNTAINEERING RIFLERY ORIENTEERING

Army ROTC Fall Schedule

COURSE	TITLE	CR	HR	SECT	TYPE	REF No.	DAYS	HOURS
MSCI 100	Mountaineering	01	A	REC	17050	M	0230
		01	B	REC	17060	M	0330
		01	C	REC	17070	T	0330
		01	D	REC	17080	W	0830
MSCI 102	Basic Riflery	01	A	REC	17090	M	0830
		01	B	REC	17100	M	0930
		01	C	REC	17110	T	0830
		01	D	REC	17120	T	0930
		01	E	REC	17130	W	0830
		01	F	REC	17140	W	0930
		01	G	REC	17150	W	0230
		01	H	REC	17160	U	0830
		01	I	REC	17170	APPT
MSCI 103	Orienteering	01	A	REC	17180	T	0830
		01	B	REC	17190	T	0130
		01	C	REC	17200	W	0830
MSCI 200	Leadership & Leaders	01	A	REC	17210	M	0930
		01	B	REC	17220	T	0130
MSCI 201	Leadership Guidance	01	A	REC	17230	U	0830
		01	B	REC	17240	U	0130
MSCI 202	Map Reading	01	A	REC	17250	M	0930
		01	B	REC	17260	W	0930
MSCI 203	Care of Combat Casualty	01	A	REC	17270	M	0830
		01	B	REC	17280	T	0830
		01	C	REC	17290	T	0930

Attention Student Bodies!

1/3 off for students!

Student I.D. gets you an additional 1/2 off Magic Mirror's already low prices.*

Convenient Terms... choose your method of payment from several convenient options. Visa & Mastercard gladly accepted.

For Women Only... you'll enjoy personalized service and the most modern facilities available.

Vacation Time Honored... you'll pay only for the time school is in session.

* I.D. must be current and validated.

FINAL DAYS

Magic Mirror

Call Now For Your FREE Figure Analysis

1106 Waters Appt. Only 539-1983

Auntie Mac's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

MAE'S LUNCH

Monday-Friday
11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

FRENCH DIP

with your choice of
Chips, Cottage Cheese,
Potato Salad or
Fresh Fruit $2.00

Wine with Lunch,
as always,
is 2 for the price of 1

Expires Sept. 3, 1983

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Bring the Marines home

It is time to get the Marines out of Lebanon.

After the death of two Marines in Beirut Monday, the U.S. peacekeeping contingent engaged in heavy fighting with Moslem militiamen again Tuesday. It appears that the U.S. forces, as well as the French and British forces, have lost the influence and respect they once had in Lebanon.

The United Nations countries that are involved in Lebanon now have a choice to make. It is clear that the mere presence of the U.S., British and French forces in Beirut is not enough to bring peace.

In the past, fighting sometimes still continued when the Marines were "keeping the peace" in the Middle East, but no U.S. forces were directly involved in the fighting. Now, however, the Americans have become involved, both killing and being killed.

The time has come for President Reagan to make a decision. The United States either has to commit itself to the war in Lebanon by sending more troops, or ship the Marines out of Beirut.

Because the situation in Lebanon is so volatile and because the United States has nothing to gain by getting further involved in the conflict, Reagan should pull the Marines out of Lebanon.

The Christian and Moslem militias have such a canyon between their respective viewpoints that there is little chance of peace until one of the groups is defeated by the other. It may be discouraging to realize, but only a bloodbath is likely to end the violence in the area. A civil war like the one in Lebanon cannot be stopped by an outside force with any hope of establishing a lasting peace.

The United States would not be what it is now had any other nation (in a misguided attempt to bring about peace to the entire world) stepped between the North and the South, telling them to learn to live together in peace, despite the huge differences between the two sides.

The United States can act as a mediator between battling countries; we can send advisers to other countries; we can even sell weapons to other countries. But when it comes to sending troops to a nation and getting involved in a civil war there, history should have taught us by now that we have overstepped our bounds and need to back out.

Football, not dancers

It looks as though the college football teams are trying to pattern themselves after the professional teams. If there isn't enough excitement on the football field, draw the fans' attention off the game and onto the sidelines.

This will be the first year for the Wildcat Dancers. The group of eight women is to perform on the alumni side of the football stadium, as well as during the women's basketball games. The dancers are supposed to "provide a glimmering, shiny effect to the game." They will not be cheerleaders; their job is to "assist in promoting spirit."

We wonder why people are so intent upon putting little shows into football games? Most people who go to the games are there to watch the Wildcats play football or hang around with their friends. Some get drunk while they're doing it, but the main intention is to watch the game. If the fans want sequined dancers with metallic pompons, they can watch Solid Gold or Monday Night Football on TV.

A difference between college and professional sports events has been the amount of glitter. The pros saw fit to add sparkle to their shows so people would not be bored while both teams play out their conservative game plans. But both professional and college football once depended on pure football action to excite the fans.

K-State's cheerleading squad is the second best (if not the best) in the country. Leave it to the cheerleaders to get the crowds psyched up about the Wildcats. If the team is playing poorly and being beaten badly, not even a group of dancers is going to get the fans excited about the game.

Keep football on the field and show business on the stage. Get rid of the sequins and glitter and give us good football action.

Annexing Fort Riley

Is everything up-to-date in Junction City?

A good question to ask. Junction City reannexed Fort Riley July 29, and has asked the Kansas Supreme Court to allow this annexation to become legal.

I thought the issue had been settled July 15, when the state's high court ruled that Junction City could not annex the Army base. It upheld a 1982 law which retroactively prohibited any city from annexing any territory or military installation under the control of the Secretary of the Army.

It all stems back to April 1982. Junction City wanted to annex Fort Riley because of "historical links" between the fort and the city. The fort, which is located in Riley and Geary counties, has a population of approximately 20,000. Most of the 101,000-acre military base is located in Riley County.

On April 6, 1982, Junction City commissioners approved the first reading of the annexation ordinance. At 12:15 a.m. April 7, the commission met and approved the second reading of the ordinance. A cry of "Foul play!" arose all across Riley County — and for good reason.

One reason was because Junction City's ordinance was flawed. In addition to annexing the fort, Junction City annexed land which was owned by Manhattan and Riley County. Junction City's commissioners claimed this was a "small oversight" and could be easily corrected.

Another reason for concern was the possible loss of revenues to Junction City. Riley County has a sales tax. Since most of Fort Riley is in

BRIAN LA RUE
Collegian Columnist

Riley County, this would mean some of the revenues collected from the tax would go to Junction City. The base, many Riley County residents feared, would not get any benefits in return.

In addition to county revenues, Junction City also could have gained an additional $1.25 million in federal revenue sharing money by annexing the fort.

However, the most important reason for concern was Junction City's violation of the state's open meetings law.

The open meetings law benefits everyone in Kansas. It provides for a time lapse between the first and second readings of an ordinance. This allows the public time to study the proposed action, comment on the proposed ordinance, point out errors in the proposal, and allows commissioners time to consider their action.

The open meetings law applies to city commissions, school boards and all other agencies, boards and committees covered by the law. It means governmental bodies must be responsible to the public, because it is the public's money which is spent by these bodies. The law keeps the seat of power where it belongs — with an informed public.

After Junction City's action, the Kansas Legislature passed a law which prohibited the annexation. Manhattan and Riley County filed a motion to stop the annexation.

Shawnee County District Judge Terry Bullock heard the case in October 1982. On Oct. 28, Bullock ruled Junction City's annexation was "null and void and of no further force or effect whatsoever." He declared the Legislature's ruling constitutional. Bullock also held that the April 7 meeting did not comply with the open meetings law.

Junction City appealed Bullock's ruling to the Kansas Supreme Court. On July 15, it upheld Bullock's ruling and voided the annexation.

I thought this would be the end of the issue. But Junction City still hadn't accepted its fate.

On July 29, Junction City's commissioners approved the second reading of an ordinance which annexed only Fort Riley and repealed the faulty ordinance. A motion has been filed with the state's high court to rehear the case. Manhattan and Riley County have also filed a motion with the court, asking it to respond to Junction City's motion.

The court should act on this case as quickly as possible. It should set down the rule once and for all to Junction City — Fort Riley cannot be annexed. Junction City also should be assessed all legal costs incurred by its actions.

Maybe then everything will be up-to-date in Junction City.

Letters

KSDB needs bluegrass

Editor,
Your article "Students Select WBW" (Collegian, Aug. 30) referred to a listener preference poll conducted last spring. I think it would be useful to take a poll of musical preferences as well. I have noticed a growing interest in the Manhattan/K-State community for programming centered around folk and bluegrass music. In the next few weeks, John Biggs (Sept. 1) and DeDanann (Sept. 19) will be performing to appreciative audiences at K-State, and many students and Manhattan residents will be making their annual trek to Winfield for the Walnut Valley Festival. KANU-FM (Lawrence) has the "Flint Hills Special" program on Sunday nights. I think a similar program on KSDB would be very popular.

Marty Gurtz
Research Associate
Biology Department

Article supports 'rape myth'

Editor,
The article pointing out the rising number of rapes occurring in Manhattan, in one sentence subtly encourages adherence to a rape myth. The article quoted Davis as advising the use of window coverings so as not to provoke an attack. The use of the word "provoke" implies that the window, in not being covered and, therefore, the person who did not cover it, are involved in a cause-effect situation. A rapist may utilize an uncovered window in order to facilitate his criminal attempts, but he is not provoked — he is utilizing information for a crime of aggression that he planned. Rape survivors have enough social pressures to deal with — it does not need to be implied that they are responsible for the rapist's behavior.

Pat Tetreault
Graduate student in psychology

Bright lights of Main Street

The lights of the main street in any town are always bright to the eyes of a young person. I don't know of any young person who does not smell magic and romance and the excitement of activity upon walking down Main Street (or High Street or Grand Boulevard, or whatever it's called) — particularly at night.

At times I'm inclined to think this was more true when I was young than now. Other times, I think perhaps I am only growing older and the excitement of my youth is just a remembered thing. I do know that when I look at young people walking down the main street of a town today I still see a glow and an awe in their eyes.

There have been many times in my life that I have gone back to the main street of a town in which I had lived to see if the lights were still bright, to find out if I could still smell the magic.

Last year, my wife and I were in California on an extended visit. While there, I went back to Upland, where I had lived for 12 years as a child and young man. When my father took his family to Upland to live (that was in 1933; I was 11 years old), it had a population of just over 6,000. Its population now is 48,000. I had been told the old central business district had been completely redeveloped. I was amazed at how much of the original flavor remained.

When it comes to downtown redevelopment schemes, there are, of course, several sides. But I can't think of any place I've known where downtown redevelopment caused long-term suffering. Any suffering which did happen would have occurred anyhow.

The original central business district of Upland which I had known as a boy comprised about four or five blocks, all of which remain. A dividing stretch of grass and trees had been put down the center of Second Avenue, the old main street, so traffic had to crawl through very slowly. Even so, that old business district was intact. The buildings had been repaired — with the exception of a five-and-dime and a hotel gutted by fire, victimized by an act of God, as it were. The spaces where those buildings had been were cleaned out, neatly, with no spoilage of the view. Some of the buildings were changed from their original use, of course. The old post office is now a laundromat. A church on one corner has changed its denomination. What had been the weekly newspaper office is now a dry-cleaning establishment. Although the building still stands, used now for offices, Tony Caso's Grocery — where I had gone with my coaster wagon on many a Monday morning before the sun came up, there to fish through the discarded vegetables in the back alley to find feed for our chickens — no longer exists, remaining only in my memory.

JOEL CLIMENHAGA
Collegian Columnist

But the restaurants are still there. The drugstore and the bank buildings — now much improved in looks — still face each other across the corners of the main intersection. The pool halls, the bar at the end of the street, the jewelry store, the barbershop, are all there. The movie theater and the soda fountain next to it are still in business. In the next block to the theater there is a funeral home which has been in operation for more than 50 years — across from it the Kansas Apartments, in which I had lived when I was a young man (never dreaming then I would live in the state of the same name).

Up Second Avenue a few blocks, what had been the Carnegie Library is now part of the complex of city offices. Close by, several residential blocks are gone, replaced by a big new post office and an even newer library. However, I was astonished to see still standing an ancient eucalyptus tree which had been on the edge of that old residential area. I had played Tarzan swinging through the jungle in that tree when I was 12 years old! Several other trees, though, which had also been near that old eucalyptus tree, are there no more.

The most significant thing to me was the fact that the historical authenticity of that old central business district had been preserved. Moreover, three blocks away from the old business district, the lemon packinghouse where I had worked for 48 months as a young man still hums. Across the street from it the orange packinghouse also continues to go full tilt. (In Ontario, and Cucamonga, and Alta Loma — all just a few miles from Upland — the old citrus packinghouses are now closed down.) Not only had I worked in that lemon packinghouse, but when I was even younger, still in junior high school, I had walked the streets daily selling magazines — The Saturday Evening Post, The Ladies' Home Journal, and The Country Gentleman. And everything is still there. True, certain houses are now gone. But the streets and the people are still there.

As I walked through that business district last year, it wouldn't have surprised me at all had I seen Doc Goodwin or Old Pete Ganard or Steve, whose last name I never knew, men with whom I had worked in the lemon packinghouse, coming down the street toward me. Although they are all dead now, they're still very much alive in my memory.

Meanwhile, with the growth in population, there have been at least four shopping areas developed in Upland farther out from the old main street. All of them, too, are thriving. In short, the newer suburban shopping centers and the old central business district have helped each other!

Some people have felt displaced in Upland by the changes through the years. Nevertheless, what is most apparent is that today Upland is a better place than it would have been without downtown redevelopment.

And I'm convinced that is the case in any place that has tried to keep its main downtown area thriving. Whatever the method, whatever the cost, however that cost is met, downtown redevelopment has never hurt — not in the long haul!

Certainly that has been the case with Upland, Calif.

In Upland, the bright lights of my youth are still shining.

Library hires guards as security measure

By KIMBERLY MAY
Collegian Reporter

Two student security guards were hired at Farrell Library this fall due to a change in the maintenance staff's working hours and uneasiness among other staff members about closing procedures.

Brice Hobrock, dean of libraries, said that last spring and early summer, the maintenance staff's hours changed so they now work during the day. They formerly worked an evening shift until 2 a.m. and were available to serve as library security and close the building. The change in hours transferred the responsibilities to other library staff members.

Hobrock said staff members felt insecure about closing the library when checking the floors and turning out lights. The staff expressed their concern to the Kansas Association of Public Employees, who investigated the situation.

"We'd been discussing the possibilities of hiring a regular security guard and included it in the 1985 budget request," Hobrock said. He said that because of the cutbacks in the state university budgets requested by Gov. John Carlin, the library was unable to hire a regular employee.

He said the library contacted the K-State Police Department, which said there were many students interested in such positions.

The library took applications and hired two students who had previously worked at the library as the new security guards. Campus police volunteered to train and equip them.

The student guards, Greg Bussing, sophomore in chemical engineering, and Chris Steinlage, sophomore in agriculture mechanization, were trained for four hours by campus police. During training, they learned how and who to call if an incident occurs, how to use a radio and walkie-talkies, and the procedures in closing the library.

The students were given $300 worth of equipment by the police, including walkie-talkies, flashlights and uniforms.

"The student guards are on duty from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. nightly. Their job is to create more security within the building and serve as backup to the staff in closing the library," Hobrock said. While many libraries at other Big Eight Conference universities are experiencing serious problems, such as personal attacks on individuals within the building, K-State has not experienced any incidents of a serious nature," Hobrock said.

"The hiring of student security guards for the library can be considered a precautionary measure to prevent incidents before they occur," Hobrock said. "Part of our responsibility is to make the library secure to both employees and patrons, before an incident happens," he said.

Menninger's fails as law agency site

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — State architectural officials Tuesday recommended against the purchase of the east campus of the Menninger Foundation as a possible site for a law enforcement complex in Topeka, saying any such proposals would be too expensive.

John Hipp, director of architectural services, delivered the conclusion in a report to the Joint Committee on Building Construction, which reviews and makes recommendations on capital improvement projects for the Legislature.

Officials of the Menninger Foundation had offered to sell the 40-acre east campus to the state for $5 million, and the Division of Architectural Services studied the proposal as a possible site for consolidating state law enforcement agencies — the Kansas Highway Patrol headquarters in Topeka, the Highway Patrol Training Center in Salina, the Kansas Bureau of Investigation in Topeka, the state Law Enforcement Training Center in Hutchinson.

"The conclusion reached from the study is that the acquisition and renovation of the existing Menninger buildings with required new additions is not cost effective," Hipp said in his report to the committee.

In explaining that conclusion, Hipp said the average age of the existing buildings is 38 years, which means they would require extensive remodeling, and the building designs are not compatible with the proposed conversion to house the law enforcement agencies.

Both the Highway Patrol and the KBI had indicated to the committee in the past that the Menninger Foundation campus would accommodate their needs.

Hipp outlined several options considered in the feasibility study, each with different combinations of new and renovated buildings for the law agencies. The total price tags ranged from $13.4 million to $19.6 million, which included the $5 million land purchase.

In comparison, Hipp said construction of new building on the grounds of the Topeka State Hospital to house the Highway Patrol, its academy and KBI would cost $11.4 million or $17.8 million for a shared complex for all the agencies including the Hutchinson training center.

"When the purchase cost is added to the construction cost, no alternatives are less in cost than new construction on state owned property," Hipp's report said of the Menninger campus in northwest Topeka.

In addition, Hipp said it was not cost effective to renovate the existing buildings of the training center in Hutchinson and the Highway Patrol Academy. The costs would be $6.4 million for the training center and $3.6 million for the patrol's academy.

The committee took no formal action on the Menninger feasibility report, but its chairman, Sen. August Bogina, R-Lenexa, said the report likely will end further legislative discussion of the Menninger proposal.

"His recommendation will probably kill any consideration of the east campus," Bogina said of Hipp's report.

On other matters, Hipp told the panel that the Department of Administration has selected the Topeka State Hospital grounds for the site of a new state printing plant, which is estimated to cost nearly $4 million.

The 1984 Legislature will be asked to appropriate money so construction can begin next summer. Hipp said it is estimated that the new plant will be finished either in the summer or fall of 1985. The existing plant, just south of the statehouse, will be demolished.

In addition, Hipp said a parking lot just south of the State Office Building has been picked as the site for a new steam heating plant for the Capitol complex. The 1983 Legislature provided funding for the project over the next two years.

"We anticipate letting this project in early 1984 with it being completed in the fall of 1984," Hipp said in a memorandum to the panel. "We believe that this new plant could save as much as $1 million each year in Capitol complex utility costs."

Support the American Heart Association.

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian Classifieds

there's
Money to be Made thru
Classified

CHIROPRACTIC CARE

WE PROVIDE CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS FOR $12.00. OTHER FEES PROVIDED ON REQUEST.
• SPORTS INJURIES • HOME, AUTO & WORK ACCIDENTS
• KSU STUDENT, FACULTY AND STAFF
• BONE, MUSCLE, NERVE AND JOINT DISORDERS

DR. WALDO E. SCHELLENGER
AVENUE CHIROPRACTIC OFFICE
1500 POYNTZ AVE.
MANHATTAN, KANSAS 537-8305

All Business Majors

FREE BEER!

Finance Club Membership Drive
Thurs., Sept. 1, Kites Backroom 7:30

TRY OUR DRIVE-UP WINDOW

Let's all go to brazier.

1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

DAIRY QUEEN

OPEN 10:30 A.M. TO 11 P.M.
TIL MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT.

* Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Am. D. Q. Corp.
© Copyright 1974, Am. D. Q. Corp.

Baking Science Club

BAKE SALE

Shellenberger
Hall
every Wed.
From 3:30-5:30

(While goods last)

Tired of the Same Old Crowd?
Try...

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRINKERY

Tonight
TONIC NITE!

all tonic drinks $1
HAPPY HOUR: 4-9 p.m.

2 Fers on HiBalls 75¢ Draws
$2 Blended Drinks

Memberships available at only $10 thru Aug. 31
531 N. Manhattan in Aggieville Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

LATE TO CLASS AGAIN?
Because You Couldn't Find
A Parking Space?

YAMAHA QT50K
NOW ONLY 399.00

*Price includes freight and set up

BRICKS & YAMAHA
Hwy 24 E. of K-Mart, Manhattan

Yamahoppers can be parked with bicycles on campus.
They also get approx.
100 mpg.

776-6371

M-F 9-5:30
Sat. 9-12:00

START THE YEAR RIGHT!
KSU & the Manhattan Mercury

Take advantage of the SPECIAL STUDENT PACKAGES and receive total coverage of K-State news, sports, and events. In addition, you will receive regional and national coverage of news as well as money saving coupons and ads from local merchants.

The FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR starts with order, and ends May 9, 1984. Included are automatic stops for Christmas and Spring Breaks.

FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR ~~$32.00~~ $32.50
FIRST SEMESTER ~~$16.00~~ $15.95

Payment must be received by September 5, 1983

Keep for your records: Paid _____ on Check No. _____

Amount $ _____

Send or Bring form to: The Manhattan Mercury,
5th and Osage, Manhattan, KS, 66502

YES, I want to receive The Manhattan Mercury for the

☐ FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR ~~$32.00~~ $32.50

☐ FIRST SEMESTER ONLY ~~$16.00~~ $15.95

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

STUDENT ID NO. _____

SIGNED _____

For Office Use Only

ROUTE NO. _____

☐ Payment Rec'd ☐ Payment Pend.

KSC 8208

Save $4 and $5
Hunt Club; top to bottom.

Sale 15.99

Reg. $20. Simply stated, this is one of the finest casual looks around. Our Hunt Club™ cotton polo in lots of colors. Junior sizes P.S.M.L.

Sale 16.99

Reg. $22. The jean in which to be seen. Our Hunt Club™ corduroys in great color choices for junior sizes 5 to 15.

Store Hours:
Daily 9-6
Thursday 9-8:30
Sunday 12-5

JCPenney
4th and Houston
Manhattan, Kansas

Plenty
of free parking!

Democratic chairman announces resignation

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Democratic State Chairman Robert Tilton announced Tuesday he is resigning next month from the leadership post he has held since 1981, saying "it is time to put in a new team with new ideas."

Tilton, a Topeka lawyer, announced his resignation in a prepared statement and indicated that Larry Gates, an Overland Park lawyer and current Democratic state treasurer, was the prime candidate to replace him.

"We have fine young leaders in our party that need to move ahead," Tilton said in his statement. "Governor Carlin has indicated he would like to have Larry Gates of Johnson County succeed him. I support the governor in this desire and will work for Mr. Gates in his effort to become state chairman."

Tilton has led the state Democratic Party since his election to the post in February 1981. He replaced Larry Bengtson of Junction City, who did not seek re-election.

In addition, Jim Ploger, executive secretary of the state Democratic Party, said he would leave his post. Both of the resignations will be effective on Sept. 17, the date of the next Democratic state committee meeting.

Ploger, of Kinsley, has held his post since Feb. 1, 1979. He said he plans to remain active in politics, but has not found another job. Traditionally, the party chairman selects the executive secretary who is the main day-to-day administrator.

Tilton, in the prepared statement, said, "For the past seven years, I have served as either Shawnee County chairman or state chairman for the Democratic Party. This has caused me to postpone personal goals that I can now be able to work toward."

Tilton led the party during the 1982 elections, in which Democrats seeking statewide offices were very successful. The highlight, of course, was the re-election of Gov. John Carlin to a second four-year term. In addition, Democrats picked up a second congressional seat with the election of Rep. Jim Slattery of Topeka.

Carlin, in a prepared statement, praised both Tilton and Ploger for their work.

"The years of Bob's service were years of great challenge to the Democratic Party in Kansas, and it is to Bob's everlasting credit that we have achieved so much and have before us such significant potential for future achievement," Carlin said.

Siesta time

Mary Ann Forgy, sophomore in general, found a shady spot on the steps of the Union — the right conditions for collecting her thoughts.

Staff/Andy Nelson

the Avalon

Tonight
NO COVER UNTIL 9 P.M. FOR
JIM SWENEY and the JUMPSHOTZ

75c House Drinks and 50c Draws
7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

$1.25 Kamakazi and a Draw 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.
$1.00 Cover 9 p.m. to Close

THURSDAY—LADIES ONLY 7 p.m.-9 p.m.
$2.00 ALL YOU CAN DRINK
No Men Admitted Until 9 p.m.
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
Don't Miss our own TGIF and TGIS

1122 Moro UPSTAIRS IN AGGIEVILLE 539-9703

TONIGHT

GIRLS FREE
No Cover 7 p.m.-9 p.m.

PLUS 1 FREE STEIN and $1.00 OFF PASS

Entertainment By
STARVIN' MARVIN and the DEXATRIMS

SATURDAY Don't miss the First with TGIS
GUIDO TOLEDO'S HOUSEHOLD WORDS

1120 Moro 539-9064

"Cook Out Headquarters for your Labor Day Weekend"

USDA Choice Beef Table Trim
T-Bone Steak $3.89 lb.

USDA CHOICE Beef Boneless Top
Sirloin Steak $3.89 lb.

USDA Choice Beef Boneless
K.C. Steak $4.99 lb.

At least 70% lean
Ground Beef 99¢ lb.
(3 lbs. or more)

Regular and Hawaiian Honey
Wilson 93% Fat Free whole boneless

HAM $2.29 lb.
water added 2-4 lb. avg.

Wilson Corn King
Franks 79¢
(12 oz. package)

Open regular hours Labor Day 7 a.m.-10 p.m.

Jim Newton

Songweaver

In Concert

Sept. 6 7:30 p.m.

Forum Hall, K-State Union

Tickets $1.00 (at the door)

Free Mini-Concert 12:00 Noon
Union Courtyard

Jim Newton is loving, provides a sensitive blend of sound theology, good humor, penetrating, powerful and original music performed with artistic excellence.

Sponsored by American Baptist
Campus Ministry
and ECM

K-State Saves With Us

We're member and dollar strong
More than 2,300 Kansas State University employees and their families save at the campus credit union, where total assets exceed $3 million.

On-campus convenience
Drop by the credit union office in Anderson Hall to do your business, or use the campus mail to make savings deposits and loan payments.

Insured savings earn big dividends
High-yielding passbook savings and three-month certificates of deposit are insured up to $100,000 by a federal government agency. Dividends are declared and paid quarterly.

Helpful low-cost loans
The credit union is truly an economical place to borrow money because it is a federally chartered, non-profit organization.

Life savings insurance
Each dollar of savings is matched, at no extra charge, with a dollar of life insurance up to $3,000 for qualifying members.

Loan protection insurance
In case of a borrower's death prior to the age of 70, the unpaid balance of a loan is repaid by insurance.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Anderson Hall, Room 24A
Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Monday through Friday
532-6274

Suicide may be 'easy way out' for freshmen

By KELLY ROBINSON
Staff Writer

All our times have come.
Here, but now they're gone.
Seasons don't fear the Reaper.
Nor do the wind, the sun, or the rain.

We can be like they are.
Don't fear the Reaper.

Copyright 1976, Columbia Records

The lyrics may ring a bell. They are from the 1976 release "Don't Fear the Reaper," as recorded by the musical group Blue Oyster Cult.

The words to this song tell the story of suicide. The Reaper represents death — a seducer enticing a young woman into taking her own life.

Suicide is not an unfamiliar subject among college students. A recent study of several unnamed liberal arts colleges determined that contemplating suicide is not an uncommon practice — especially among freshmen.

Last week, a College Press Service news release said it was estimated that one of four freshmen considers suicide.

Anthony Jurich has been dealing professionally with the problem of suicide for 11 years.

"I am actually a man with three hats," he said. "I am a professor of family and child development, I'm a faculty adviser for the FONE Crisis Center, and I work with marriage and family counseling at the Family Center. Through these positions, I come in contact with a lot of suicide cases."

Jurich specified "a lot" as meaning 93 suicide calls within the last year — about 65 percent of which were from students.

"Chances are, if someone calls at four o'clock in the morning and somebody's hanging from a ledge somewhere, I'm there," he said.

Through his experience with college students, Jurich said he has some speculations why the number of freshmen considering suicide is so high.

The first is the transition from a home/community situation to a university atmosphere. Jurich said for the "city kid" this move is difficult, but for the "rural kid" it can be especially traumatic.

"These students are from places like Agra or Goodland where they know everybody," he said. "When you come to K-State, you are a number. This is very disconcerting for a freshman."

Second, Jurich pointed out that many freshmen mislabel daily events as "crises" while their upperclass counterparts are able to take the same situations in stride.

An upperclass student who has plumbing problems in his or her apartment may simply call the landlord, but the freshman who clogs the sink in a residence hall may find the situation catastrophic.

"He'll (the freshman) think, 'Oh my God, it's all my fault. They're going to make me pay for the sink and fix the whole dorm,'" Jurich said.

Third, he said freshmen are not aware of resources available on campus or the basic procedures of the University.

"A lot of this University is misleading," he explained. "A freshman goes into the Union and has no idea where to go and there's all this confusion, all these people buzzing around looking like they know what they're doing."

What is misleading, Jurich said, is the competent appearance of the University when the freshman feels very incompetent.

"It is hard to stop the momentum, once it has started," Jurich said. "If a freshman does happen to reach out and ask for help, only to be ridiculed by an upperclassman, he begins feeling very lonely, and thinks 'I can't do it myself' and 'There's something wrong with me.'"

It is these feelings of loneliness and foolishness that leave an open invitation to self-doubt, self-hatred, depression and ultimately suicide, he said.

"The definition of depression is anger turned inward," Jurich explained. "It drains the person of energy tremendously, leaving less energy to reach out for help." This leads to an air of desperation that scares people away, compounding loneliness and isolation, he said.

"We had a girl commit suicide because her boyfriend didn't want to go out with her on weekends," he said. This boyfriend didn't even know he was her boyfriend, Jurich said. They had gone out twice.

"But she was so desperate that she thought he was her boyfriend," he said.

At such a point of loneliness and helplessness, death begins to look friendly, Jurich said.

The peak times of the year for suicide attempts are the first month of school, the week during and after midterm exams, during and after finals, and around any holiday, he said.

Jurich also pointed out that the number of seniors considering suicide probably rises before final exams because they are under the stress of leaving college friends and finding a job.

Financial worries also push students to suicide, Jurich said. He responded to 72 suicide calls in 1982, 52 in 1981 and 26 in 1980.

"You can see the year it went up so high is the year Reagan took office," Jurich said. "Between his cutbacks in aid and our tuition increases, the student really suffers."

It is not that upperclassmen don't experience stress, Jurich said, but the fact that everything is new for freshmen makes them a more vulnerable prey to the seductive, enticing "easy way out."

Rik Seefeldt, who is working toward his doctorate in counseling and psychology, said other stress factors include being surrounded by strangers and forced to make new friends, lack of nearby family support, increased use of alcohol and drugs, and the "what are you going to do with your life now?" pressures.

Seefeldt said the best thing college campuses can do to prevent suicide is to be wary of myths and warning signals.

One of the most misunderstood myths about suicide, Seefeldt said, is that people who talk about attempting to take their own life are merely starving for attention.

"Almost everybody who attempts suicide will mention it to somebody either overtly or covertly," he said. "They may even laugh afterward, but they should still be taken seriously."

Another myth is that one should never ask a person if he is considering suicide, Seefeldt said.

"Thinking about suicide is a common thing," he explained. "If a person mentions it, go ahead and ask them 'Are you thinking about killing yourself?' If the answer is yes, offer support and suggest they see somebody professionally."

Seefeldt listed some warning signals:

1. Change in behavior — depression, difficulty in concentrating, careless attitude toward class attendance and studying.

2. Change in social behavior — frequently, a socially active person suddenly stays home, becoming a loner.

3. Unusually long periods of sadness.

4. Lack of energy, loss of interest in social activities, loneliness, alcohol and drug abuse.

Seefeldt said approximately three times as many females as males attempt suicide, but about three times as many males as females are successful.

"This could have a lot to do with the different methods that males and females tend to use," he said. "Women tend to use less violent means such as pills. Men tend to use more violent ways, such as shooting themselves in the head."

Services available on campus that deal with suicide include the Family Center located in the Ellen Richards Lodge; the Student Development Center in Holton Hall; the Mental Health Clinic in Lafene Student Health Center; and for crisis situations, the FONE crisis hotline, 532-6565.

In addition to these services, Jurich said he believes that upperclassmen should be more willing to assist freshmen in getting oriented with the University.

"I have great faith in the students of K-State," he said. "I believe that 90 percent of them are wonderful. But it is the other 10 percent who dump on freshmen that really hurt."

"Remember what it's like to be a freshman," he said.

Another reminder from Jurich: when one commits suicide, he dies alone.

"If you think everybody's going to say, 'Wow, things must have really been tough for him or her,' you are wrong," Jurich said. "They are going to say, 'Boy, what a waste, he or she was so talented. Boy, was that dumb.'"

Came home last night of sadness
And it was clear that she couldn't go on

The door was open and the wind appeared

The candles blew and then disappeared

The curtains flew and then he appeared

Saying don't be afraid
And she had no fear
Then they started to fly
She became like they are
Don't fear the Reaper.

Copyright Columbia Records

HAIR BY RICK & FRIENDS
404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222
Manhattan
Appointments
Closed Mon. Tues.-Fri. 9-6
Sat. 8-3

Catons Plantation
RESTAURANT

TONIGHT
BBQ BUFFET
RIBS, BEEF & CHICKEN
$3.95

All you can eat
Plus 25¢ draws

At the Ramada Inn 17th & Anderson

CHAMPERS hair design studio

Back to School Special
For All Students

Shampoo, hair cut, & blowdry styling
$10.00 with coupon
Values to $15.00
One coupon per client
Expires Sept. 30, 1983

Mon.-Fri. 8-8
Sat. 8-5

REDKEN
We use and prescribe Redken Products

613 N. Manhattan
Manhattan, Kansas
539-7621

The Topeka Capital-Journal

STUDENTS

Special student subscriber offer! Your $17.00 semester subscription price, will give you the very best State, Local, National, and SPORTS news that is available in Kansas.

FOR HOME DELIVERY SERVICE
Contact: JEROME BERRY 776-1552

SONY TAPE'S
SUB-SALE

2 FREE WITH 10

Cases of 90 minute cassettes start at $15.90

Stereo Factory
1126 Moro 776-5507

Let's get together

with the Wildcats on a road trip to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th
Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations
Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

Turn Your TAN into CASH!

SOUTHERN SUN TANNING SALON is sponsoring a tanning contest OCTOBER 6th 1983 at the Sports Fan-Attic

For more information contact SOUTHERN SUN TANNING SALON 776-8060

PRIZES!
Grand Prize: Accommodations at Breckenridge, Co.

1st Prize:	Women	$ 300
	Men	$ 300
2nd Prize:	Women	$ 150
	Men	$ 150
3rd Prize:	Women	13 Free Tanning Sessions
	Men	13 Free Tanning Sessions

Wolff Tanning Equipment

Briefly

By the Associated Press

Kennedy, son will not be charged

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Neither Sen. Edward Kennedy nor his 16-year-old son Patrick will be charged with a crime for removing a walrus tusk from a state wildlife refuge, a district attorney says.

"The district attorney's office has concluded that no criminal violation took place," said District Attorney Vic Krumm.

He said that while removing the 24-inch tusk from a beach on Round Island on Aug. 15 violated terms of a permit that allowed Kennedy's party to visit the strictly controlled refuge, the Massachusetts Democrat had returned the ivory to Alaska.

A state Fish and Wildlife Protection Division spokesman said at the time of the incident that removal of animal parts from the sanctuary is a misdemeanor with a possible maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

While the permits do warn that a violation is a misdemeanor, there are no criminal statutes or regulations to back up the warning, Krumm said.

Round Island is part of the Walrus Islands State Game Sanctuary located about 70 miles off Dillingham.

Open truck carries Aquino's body

MANILA, Philippines — A flatbed truck was draped in black Wednesday to carry the body of Benigno Aquino on a 19-mile funeral procession through Manila to its burial place.

Neither police nor members of the Aquino family would predict how many people might crowd Manila's streets to honor the slain opposition leader but several schools were given a holiday, and some newspaper printed maps of the route.

Meanwhile, President Ferdinand E. Marcos' government announced it had identified Aquino's slayer as a "notorious killer, a gun for hire," named Rolando Galman y Dawans, 33.

A military report said Galman had a long record of robbery, kidnapping and murder and had been employed by crime syndicates and "subversive elements." But it did not suggest who might have hired him to gun down Aquino, Marcos' chief political opponent, as he landed at Manila international airport on Aug. 21 after three years of self-exile in the United States.

Virus corrects genetic defect

NEW YORK — A genetic defect responsible for a severe human brain disorder has been corrected in the laboratory by infecting defective human cells with a virus that inserts a new gene into them, thereby restoring normal function, researchers said Tuesday.

It is the first time viruses have been used in human cells to correct a genetic defect responsible for a human disease, the researchers said.

The researchers estimated that it will be four or five years before the technique moves out of the laboratory and into trials with patients.

The disease, known as Lesch-Nyhan syndrome, is a brain disorder that results in mental retardation and strange behavior patterns, including a tendency toward self-mutilation and compulsive aggressive behavior, according to Richard Leavitt, a spokesman for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation. It strikes males almost exclusively, occurring once in every 50,000 male births.

Car in lake contains two bodies

DULUTH, Minn. — A car that was dragged out of Lake Superior on a ship's anchor contained two bodies and was registered to a man whose wife vanished five years ago with a longshoreman, police said Tuesday.

The bodies appeared to be those of a man and a woman, police said, but their identities and cause of death had not been determined.

"After we determine the answers to those questions, we may or may not have a crime," said Fred Sowl, a Duluth police detective.

The crushed auto was discovered by chance about noon Monday when the crew of an ore ship hauled in an anchor. The car, which had been in about 30 feet of water, was impaled on the anchor.

Police wouldn't speculate on how the car got to the bottom of the harbor. The 1978 Oldsmobile Toronado was taken to a dock, where it was being examined.

"The car was fairly badly crushed," Sowl said. "The boat anchor I'm sure did a lot of the damage."

Skeptics doubt monster's existence

DRUMNADROCHIT, Scotland — Monster hunters are out in force on Loch Ness again. So are skeptics, who attribute photographic "proof" of Nessie's existence to tricky lighting and ducks.

"I have been here three weeks and at least 20 people have told me they have seen the Loch Ness monster — and they were drinking tea not whiskey," said Erik Beckjord, 35, of Seattle, a wildlife photographer who is convinced that Nessie exists.

Beckjord believes that film showing a white wake and three dark shapes moving away, which he videotaped Aug. 6 in Urquhart Bay, possibly shows three of the creatures.

But skeptics at Drumnadrochit, the village of 400 people and the hunters' main base, say the images are ducks and the dark shapes are mistaken impressions caused by tricks of light.

Beckjord said that's ridiculous because ducks would not show up at that distance, a quarter mile from shore.

Electrical engineers Rikki Razdan from Boston and Alan Kielar from Buffalo, N.Y., both 24, are on the Loch shore with $100,000 worth of electronic scanning gadgetry, linked to a raft filled with sonar.

The equipment has recorded fish but nothing like a monster and both men are skeptical.

"We have studied all the books and all the photographs going back 50 years, and all the sonar recordings of strange shapes underwater and we find no scientific evidence for the claim that monsters are here," Kielar said.

New poison kills 'super rats'

WASHINGTON — The growing number of "super rats" that are resistant to most poisons may be in trouble. Scientists said Tuesday they have developed a new super poison.

Researchers at Lilly Research Laboratory in Greenfield, Ind., have discovered a new odorless poison called bromethalin that they say is highly effective against rats and mice which are now resistant to the most widely used poisons.

Because the poison kills in an entirely different way than classical poisons like strychnine or anticoagulants like warfarin, resistant rats are highly susceptible to it, said Dr. Barry Dreikorn.

Dreikorn told a briefing at the national meeting of the American Chemical Society that the pesticide has been registered with the Environmental Protection Agency for use in and around buildings.

He said it should be on the market by spring with initial uses controlled by professional exterminators. But he held open the chance that the compound eventually would be available to consumers when it is safely packaged for use around children and pets.

Anti-nuke blockade planned

MUTLANGEN, West Germany — Anti-nuclear demonstrators plan to blockade a U.S. Army base Thursday to launch a "hot autumn" of protests against the deployment of new American missiles in West Germany in December.

Authors Heinrich Boell and Guenther Grass, Daniel Ellsberg and Daniel Berrigan from the United States, and prominent left-wing West German politicians are to join the 72-hour blockade in this south German town, the organizers said.

At least 1,000 people are expected to take part in the first of a three-month series of sit-ins, lie-ins and other acts of civil disobedience throughout West Germany. They will sit down on the 200-yard-long black-topped road into the Mutlangen base to prevent vehicles from entering or leaving. Mutlangen is one of several bases in West Germany that will get the new missiles.

Record yields to alter wheat program

By JANICE STUCKY
Staff Writer

In spite of a record-breaking 1983 wheat crop, the 1984 wheat payment-in-kind program will still take place, but with some changes, according to William Tierney, agricultural economics marketing specialist.

Nationally, 79.0 million acres were harvested in 1982, but only 61.0 million acres were harvested in 1983, Tierney said.

"In Kansas, 13.2 million acres were harvested in 1982 compared to 10.8 million in 1983. That means from an acreage standpoint, the program was successful."

The latest figures for Kansas show that wheat yields in 1983 increased by 20 percent despite the 18 percent reduction in harvested acres.

"The increase was due to a tremendous record-breaking yield per acre. In 1982 in Kansas, an average of 35 bushels per acre were harvested. In 1983, 42 bushels per acre were harvested, exceeding by 5 bushels per acre the previous record. That is a tremendous increase over the previous record," Tierney said.

Besides cooperative weather, several factors contributed to the record crop, Tierney said.

"There has been a trend toward increasing yields due to improved wheat varieties, improved cultivation practices and increasing the application of other inputs (such as fertilizer). Everyone expected that yields, given normal weather, would be up.

"If a farmer has 100 acres of crop land and is asked to plant only 50 percent of it, he will use the most fertile land available. We had good weather, and high-yielding varieties have rapidly been increasing in use, not only in Kansas, but in the entire United States," Tierney said.

In spite of the strategy used by wheat farmers, Tierney still believes the PIK program was successful.

"What we need to do is evaluate the PIK program from a with or without standpoint," he said. "Without PIK, we would have possibly had record wheat acreage and record wheat yields. As it is, we had sharply reduced wheat acreage but experienced offsetting record wheat yields."

However, because the program was extremely expensive, some modifications were made to the 1984 program, Tierney said.

These changes included a higher acreage reduction program (30 percent in 1984 compared to 15 percent in 1983), lower PIK payments (75 percent in 1984 compared to 95 percent in 1983), no full-farm base PIK option, no paid land diversion, and no hay and grazing provisions.

"Next year, participation in the program is expected to be far less, he said. "Last year participation was 75 percent. Next year, we'll be lucky if we get 50 percent participation. The program is just not as attractive."

This will contribute to the surplus that currently exists, Tierney said.

"Given upward trends in wheat yields and insufficient participation in wheat programs, production in 1984 and 1985 will be relatively high and stocks should continue to build," he predicted.

In the short run, a farmer can survive by paying his operational costs and paying his fixed costs gradually. However, an increasing number of farmers aren't making any money. Farm foreclosures are expected to be higher this year, he said.

Part of the problem, in addition to greater yields in the United States, is the current decline in wheat exports.

"We have a projected decrease of 22 percent in exports from two years ago. China has had a record crop and the Soviets have had their best crop in four years, Tierney pointed out. "The less-developed countries have had a decline in purchasing power."

"There have been better crops in major purchasing countries, and we have had increasing competition from our major competitors — Australia, Argentina and Canada.

With the continuing trend in yields and drop-off in exports, we will, consequently, end up with a larger surplus," he said.

There are two ways to look at the size of surpluses, Tierney said. "You can treat them as 'burden-some' reserves or 'strategic' reserves. Without the current reserves in corn we would be in really bad shape this year due to the drought," he said.

Despite some negative publicity the 1983 wheat program has received, Tierney said he still firmly believes that the program was successful.

"It did a heck of a lot," he said. "Whether it was worth it (the cost), that's a value judgment."

In spite of Secretary of Agriculture John Block's most recent announcements of the 1984 wheat program, some changes will most likely occur, Tierney surmised.

"It's quite possible that when Congress reconvenes in September, the program we have now will be substantially revised," he said.

"Senator Dole and others have proposed modifications. Policy analysts in Washington believe it's possible that it may be made more attractive, and there may be more participation (than expected). The last card hasn't been dealt."

THE LITE ALL-STAR TEAM.
24 OF THE GREATEST NAMES EVER
TO PUT ON A UNIFORM.

AND BOB UECKER.

1 Frank Robinson 2 Grits Gresham 3 Bob Uecker 4 Ray Nitschke 5 Ben Davidson 6 Tommy Heinsohn 7 John Madden 8 Billy Martin 9 Steve Mizerak 10 Dick Butkus 11 Boog Powell 12 Koichi Numazawa 13 Jim Shouder 14 Matt Snell 15 Deacon Jones 16 Mickey Spillane 17 Don Carter 18 Boom Boom Geoffrion 19 Marv Throneberry 20 Bubba Smith 21 Jim Honochick 22 Lee Meredith 23 Red Auerbach 24 Rodney Dangerfield 25 Dick Williams

EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

© 1983 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, WI

Computer wizards increase high-tech crime

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — When the Colt .45 pistol was introduced in 1873, it was tagged The Great Equalizer — size and strength hardly mattered when a man held a Colt. A century later, the computer is the new equalizer, and it is radically changing the scope of crime.

"The computer has democratized white-collar crime," says August Bequai, a Washington, D.C., lawyer who specializes in industrial security. "It has made it possible for a 12-year-old to steal with impunity."

White-collar crime is no longer limited to the clever and the privileged. With an inexpensive personal computer and a telephone, it has become so simple to commit a computer crime, the experts say, that anyone can do it.

The recently disclosed escapades of Milwaukee's 414s have made that clear.

The 414s, a group of young computer enthusiasts who named themselves after the Milwaukee telephone area code, romped through computers at a New York hospital, a government nuclear weapons lab and a California bank.

All it took was a little research and a few good guesses to evade the almost non-existent security at the institutions.

There are several ways to break into computers. Some are as easy as looking up a password in an engineering library.

Other security breaches, usually practiced by professionals who already have access to computer programs, are fancy. Take the "logic bomb," for example.

"If you want to write a mystery novel these days that will make you a lot of money, you could write one around logic bombs," says Rob Kling, professor of computer science at the University of California at Irvine. "There's a lot of mystery: Are they there? Will they work?"

A logic bomb is an addition to a computer program, and it works like a time-bomb. It is set to commit a crime at a certain time or under specific conditions. Then it self-destructs, leaving no traces.

"When the conditions are right, it executes the fraud, commits the crime and disappears," says Donn Parker, a computer security expert at Stanford Research Institute International in Menlo Park, Calif., and author of four books on computer crime and computer security.

A Trojan horse is a related code, aptly named because it is secretly inserted into another program and carries the criminal instructions and the logic bomb to execute them.

Trojan horses are ideal for fraud, says Los Angeles police Detective Robert Nieto, coordinator of major fraud investigations. One could be set up to credit a bank account each month with a penny from all other accounts, making the recipient rich without attracting attention.

The majority of computer crime, however, is far less sophisticated. Most computers have little or no protection against intruders.

"We get so busy making the things do what we want them to do we forget to provide adequate safeguards," says Robert Courtney, a computer-security consultant and former head of data security at IBM.

"The point I'm continually trying to make is that it's fairly easy to make these systems secure, but none of them are inherently secure," he says.

The 414s are facing criminal charges, but they are not likely to be given serious punishment, if past treatment of computer criminals is any guide.

"We've seen instances where they steal a lot of money, and they get two or three years' probation," says Bequai. "Computer criminals are not Robin Hoods. They're criminals like anyone else."

Stanley Mark Rifkin is an example of what can happen to computer criminals. He pleaded guilty in 1979 to wire fraud in the theft of $10.2 million from Security Pacific National Bank. In exchange for his plea, the government dropped charges that he had, while free on bail, hatched a separate scheme to steal $50 million from another bank.

Rifkin was sentenced to eight years in prison. He served less than three years and is now running the computer system at the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Washington. "He's a valued member of the staff," says Carol Rogers, association spokeswoman. "Needless to say, he's an expert on computers."

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

BLUE RIVER
PUB
50¢
Fish Bowls
Thurs., Sept. 1
Starting at
4 p.m. to midnight
537-9877
located by Tuttle
Creek Dam

We are pleased to announce our Bridal couple

Pricilla Gary
Michael Sweeney

who have selections listed in our Bridal Registry

THE BATH SHOP
and
Cook's Nook
421 Poyntz
776-6980

KSU Racquetball Club

Meeting Wed., Aug. 31
8:00 Rm. 207 Union

New member recruitment
Any level of play: Novice to open

Old members please attend
(or you will be reverse pinched)

Society for the Advancement of Management is now signing up new members

Wednesday & Thursday
9:00-3:00
in the Union

Find out about the business world through meetings, guest speakers, and field trips.

Open to all Majors

Auntie
Mac's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE

TONIGHT

HIGH ROLLERS

Any Single Liquor Drink

$1.25

8:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

Memberships Available
616 N. 12th 539-9967

Wednesday

3 Fers
10 pm-11 pm

2 Fers
11 pm-1 am

at
COWBOY PALACE

Where it don't make
no difference

209 Poyntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

The Palace
GIFTS AND NECESSITIES

Open til 8:30 Mon.-Thurs.

- Cards • Candy • Cosmetics • Candles • Baskets •
- Memo Boards • Party Supplies •
- Posters • Film Processing •

SERVE YOURSELF AT OUR FOUNTAIN
GIFTS GALORE!

GIFT REGISTRY—MASTERCARD/VISA

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville 539-7654

2 FOR 1
SALE

August 15-September 3

Look into fashion at b & l Optical's
2 for 1 Sale! We have the lenses you need and the frames you want!
Pay full price on a pair of high fashion glasses and get a single pair of single vision glasses for free.

• Greg Cassini
• Anthony Martin
• Jordache

• Zsa Zsa Gabor
• Arnold Palmer
• Mary McFadden

Some boutique frames not included.

b & l
OPTICAL STUDIO
1210 MORO • 537-1574
Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m., Sat. 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.

DRS. PRICE, YOUNG & ODLE OPTOMETRISTS

General Practice
and All Type of Contact Lenses
Soft—Extended Wear—to Sleep with
Soft for Astigmatism
Flex—Oxygen Permeable
Fast Replacement
for Lost or Damaged Lenses
Payment Arrangements Available

WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER
PHONE 537-1118

Welcome Back!

$2.00 off a haircut
with this ad.

Student I.D. required
expires Sept. 16, 1983

REDKEN Nexxus New Man
210 Humboldt
776-5651

Applications

are now available for
KSU Agriculture Ambassadors

in Waters Hall 120
from 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Please return applications to Waters 120 before 5:00 p.m., Fri., Sept. 2.
Interviews will be Sept. 7-8.

88.1 KSDB-FM Fall 1983

	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday	Sunday
6 AM	NPR's "Morning Edition" and local news and weather
7
8
9	"Jazz in the Morning" Ken Charles and Will Perry						9 AM
10							10
11						"Autumn Classics" Angie Schamhorst Classical	11
NOON	New Album Rock (Some music donated by Oasis Records & Tapes, 1128 Moro)					Rock Album Countdown	NOON
1							1
2	NPR's "All Things Considered" (5:30 p.m.)						2
3							3
4							4
5							5
6							6
7	"Messages" Rick Sleppy & Jason Lopez Christian Rock	"The Country Club" Greg Zuercher Country	"Rock Oldies" Kerry Mills & Doug Prochaska Oldies	"Jam the Box" Malcolm Briggs Soul			7
8							8
9							9
10	New Album Rock (Some music donated by Conde's, 407 Poyntz)						10
11							11
MIDNIGHT							MIDNIGHT
1 AM							1 AM

News at :27 afternoons: major newscasts at 6:29 a.m., 8:29 a.m., noon, and 5:15 p.m. Sports at 7:29 a.m., 12:10 p.m., and 5:25 p.m.

88.1 . . . Manhattan's first FM, 532-6960.

Review

Film depicts contradictions between priests, brothers

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

Temptation is the main subject of discussion for both students and teachers at a Roman Catholic boarding school in Fred Schepisi's "The Devil's Playground."

The belief that "an undisciplined mind is the devil's playground" is taught with great vigor by the brothers when the boys go through puberty.

Schepisi has built the entire film about the sexual repression that is ultimately promoted. Using a documentary-like approach, he explores the ramifications of a system where self-denial is practiced so that one "can be among God's chosen few."

Instead of following only the actions of a single character, the film depicts the actions of all the people at the school. The film has a central character, but his actions are only used as a focal point upon which to build the story of the entire school.

This character, Tom Allen, is met with contradictory stories from the brothers. One explains that puberty is "one of the miracles of life," while another forces the boys to wear swimsuits in the shower so they may resist temptation.

These differences within the school are emphasized by an aged priest who asks, "What's wrong with masturbation?" And referring to the self-denial, he says, "You only end up hating your body."

In fact, some of the brothers have problems of their own. Two brothers rid themselves of their clerical garb and go to a rugby match where they release their aggressions drinking beer and shouting at the top of their lungs. Another feels tortured by the sight of the female bodies he sees while at a public swimming pool.

Within the school, a group of the boys form a masochistic cult where they transfer their lust for violence to their own bodies. The fallacy of the teaching begins to become clear to the brothers after the death of one of the masochistic fanatics.

The impact that the teachings have had upon the brothers themselves can be seen when one of the brothers breaks down and professes, "I hate life! The body won't be denied! It rules the mind. Give in! That's the only answer. Give in or lose your mind!"

The film's message, that denying the boys their own adolescence and expecting them to act as adults is unnatural, comes through very clearly.

With "The Devil's Playground," Fred Schepisi has created a compelling, if rather predictable, indictment of a system of schooling. Instead of reducing the situation to the ridiculous melodrama of "Taps" or "Lords of Discipline," Schepisi allows the material to remain simple and honest. He allows the events to speak for themselves without feeling the need to spice up the action for the sake of entertainment. As a result, the material has a much greater impact.

Videodiscs aid in lab experiments

By DENISE CHARTIER
Collegian Reporter

Besides redefining modern business and entertainment, computers are simplifying the learning process.

Dean Zollman, physics professor, is using computer videodiscs to replace difficult-to-demonstrate laboratory experiments.

Zollman is co-author of the videodisc, "The Puzzle of the Tacoma Narrows Bridge Collapse." Zollman collaborated with Robert G. Fuller, University of Nebraska, and Thomas C. Campbell, Illinois Central College, to create the Tacoma Bridge videodisc for John Wiley and Sons, Inc. publishers.

An experiment involving the videodisc was offered as extra credit for students in a Man's Physical World I class Zollman taught last semester.

Zollman said viewing the bridge collapse and doing the measurements and calculations greatly enhances a student's comprehension of physics.

A Cardwell Hall laboratory equipped with eight video display terminals serves as the area where students observe the videodisc in action.

A single viewer sits before a small television where a brief history of the Tacoma Narrows Bridge is presented and actual footage shows the bridge twisting and swaying in a strong wind and ultimately collapsing.

After the short film, a question appears on the screen asking the physical causes of this disaster.

The viewer then pushes a button on the micro-computer which comes to life with a simulated version of the incident — a tiny model car perched on a model bridge swaying dangerously in an artificially-produced wind — and the viewer works the problem.

Zollman, who worked on the disc from August 1981 to August 1982 at the University of Utah, said he plans to continue use of the bridge videodisc in the course because it successfully brings students in contact with images outside the classroom.

Control is an important part of the videodiscs, Zollman said.

"I think the main advantage of what we are doing over the present system is that it allows the student to move at a pace comfortable for them. It allows the student to make errors along the way. If a student doesn't understand some point, he can stop or go back and view the section again," Zollman said.

Three levels of instruction on the bridge videodisc — green, blue or red — provide material specifically written for a student's ability in mathematics and physics.

Judy Nolte, junior in elementary education and a physics student, said Zollman's videodisc was great extra credit.

"I hadn't heard of the bridge and so learning of its history and collapse was interesting, but in the beginning, it was difficult to use the computer," Nolte said.

Dan Landau, fifth-year student in computer science, found the extra credit videodisc experiment to be unique.

"To see something happen and then work with the videodisc itself is a great educational experience," Landau said.

The National Science Foundation provided a grant which supported equipment for the videodisc lab and for continued work, Zollman said.

Zollman, one of three American experts invited to participate in a videodisc symposium at British Open University this summer, has co-authored three other videodiscs besides the Tacoma Bridge disc. Two are expected to be published this year, and the fourth is now in contractual negotiations with the University of Utah and John Wiley and Sons, Inc.

"In all, four years of work went into the completion of the four videodiscs. We now expect to turn out videodiscs quicker in the next round," Zollman said.

This proposed "next round" is being submitted to the National Science Foundation for production of 20 videodiscs with the cooperation of several universities, but Zollman said it is a competitive situation, and there is a possibility the proposal will not be approved.

"Where it's all going will depend a little bit on the University budget over the next few years," Zollman said.

Get Personal
in Collegian
Classifieds

Orientation for tutors for the FRIENDSHIP TUTORING PROGRAM will be Sept. 1, 7:00 p.m., Cardwell 103. We need you if you can give 2 hours a week to a Manhattan student on a one-to-one relationship.

Call Bev Wiebe
776-6566 for more information

Résumé Service

Professional
Résumé Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

Manhattan Montessori School
...a Christian approach
1225 Bertrand

Limited afternoon
openings (2-4:15) for 2½ year olds through kindergarten.

Manhattan Montessori
School is beginning its 8th school year this fall. The public is invited to find out more about it. Call 539-8014 and set a time to come by & visit the school.

Betcha didn't know ... Isaac Jackson is the only Wildcat to have rushed for 2,000 yards (2182 yards; 1971-1973)

Betcha didn't know ... The Royals vs. league-leading White Sox at 7:30 tonight—Watch 'em on our giant T.V.'s!

Betcha didn't know ... Through our "Ticket Exchange Service" we have several reserved seats available from $5.00 to $7.00 to the Long Beach State game.

Betcha didn't know ...
BLUBIRD—Thursday through Saturday—flyin' high on rock 'n' roll. Grand Slam 4 for 1's—Thursday at 8:00 p.m.!

The Sports
Fan-atic
Laramie at 12th—Aggieville
Office: 539-0525, Bar 539-9849

NOW OPEN

Open
8-8 M.-Sat.

VILLAGE PLAZA

Open
8-6 Sun.

AUTO WASH

Automated Auto Wash
Featuring!

Pre-wash, wheels cleaned, Felt brush wash and blow dry Extras — Hotwax, Polishwax, under body wash and Rust inhibition
Accommodates Cars, pickups and Vans
Next to Alco

BLUE RIVER PUB

50¢ Fishbowls

Thursday Night from

4 p.m. to Midnight

also

SMOKEY HILL RIVER BAND

Thursday—8 p.m. to midnight Saturday—8 p.m. to midnight

$2.00 cover charge for band

Monet

FASHION BASICS

Whatever Fashions you choose for Fall, choose Monet to make it complete.

Campbell's
Complete Tabletop Bridal Registry

1227 Moro
in Aggieville

5th & Poyntz
Downtown

"UPC... We do it right!"

Wed., Aug. 31
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thurs., Sept. 1
3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
$1.50

International Film Series Passes are on sale now in the Union Box Office or in the Activities Center and can be used for this film. The price of $6.00 for six admissions means a savings of $3.00.

K-state union
upc kaleidoscope

PART OF THE INTERNATIONAL FILM SERIES

JOHN BIGGS

CANCELLED DUE TO ILLNESS CONCERT

Tickets available at the door or in the Activities
Center, 3rd floor
Union, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.,
September 1 ONLY!

Thursday, September 1
8 p.m., K-State Union
Admission: $2

Doors open at 7 p.m.

K-state union
program council

K-state union
upc coffeehouse

WINFIELD BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

September 17-18, 1983

Escape with UPC Travel Committee
to Winfield Fairgrounds for the Bluegrass Festival. Your cost of $37 includes transportation and two day
ticket.

Information and Sign Up meeting:
TOMORROW, SEPT. 1, 7p.m., Union
Rm. 208. Sign up continues through Sept. 8 in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor, Union.

$37

K-state union
upc travel

"WAYS OF SEEING"
K-State Union
Art Gallery
Thru Sept. 9

Monday-Friday
8am-5pm

Included in the exhibition are works by such notable artists as Grant Wood, Thomas Hart Benton, Ben Shahn and Nathan Oliveira.

K-state union
upc arts

Ex-prep track star aims for nationals

By VIKKI WATSON
Staff Writer

At one time Anne Stadler didn't want to run cross country. She thought it would be too difficult.

She is now the third-fastest all-time girls' prep miler in Kansas.

Stadler, a freshman currently competing on the women's cross country squad, was the 6A state mile champion last spring and also finished second in the 6A state cross country championships last fall.

She also set a Kansas Relays record in the mile run last year with a winning time of 4:57.22. Her season best of 4:55.32 in the mile is the time that placed her on the Kansas all-time prep honor roll.

Quite impressive for the thin, blonde-haired girl who waited until her sophomore year in high school to follow the advice of a friend persuading her to run.

"I was interested in running in junior high, but I kind of chickened out," said Stadler. "I was just afraid. It sounded too hard."

She overcame her fear, however, and began running competitively on Shawnee Mission East High School's mile and two-mile relay teams. Her times weren't too impressive, she said.

"I was happy, but they (the times) weren't anything to write home about," she said.

It wasn't long until improvement — rapid improvement — came her way.

"I started running under the distance coach because I just wasn't a sprinter," she said. "When I started putting in some miles, things started coming together."

Indeed things started coming together. So much, in fact, that they led to her impressive senior statistics and eventually to Steve Miller, head men's and women's cross country and track coach.

Miller was the vital influence in Stadler's decision to attend K-State, which she chose over Drake University, the University of Kansas and the University of Nebraska.

"Coach Miller is a good coach, and after talking to him, I was incredibly impressed," she said.

Miller was equally impressed with Stadler's running ability.

"She's very, very outstanding," he said. "Her potential is only curbed by her own desire. I feel she's just beginning her career."

Stadler's desire is apparent: improvement only comes through dedication and hard work.

"You have days when you're really not into running," she said. "But you feel so much better when you've finished a workout. It just gives me a feeling of accomplishment."

How much Stadler accomplishes will depend on how mentally tough she becomes, Miller said. The intensity level of the K-State program is much higher than that of a high school.

"Anne can be outstanding," Miller said. "How outstanding is directly proportional to how her emotional stability grows."

"The next big thing is how she's going to develop and how competitive she's going to become. She should be a national-caliber athlete," he said.

For a girl who terms herself as "friendly," being truly competitive might be difficult. However, Stadler said she views the tougher college competition as a challenge.

"I can be pretty competitive, but it depends on what I'm doing," she said.

Conservative, yet optimistic, Stadler said her goal this year is to compete successfully in the upcoming cross country and track seasons.

"I want to be in the top seven (on the cross country squad) and be able to compete in nationals," she said.

Intramurals underway

By The Collegian Staff

Intramural flag football began its season Tuesday with 174 teams signed up.

"There seems to be a lot of enthusiasm and there should be some great competition," said Steve Martini, intramural director.

Between the three leagues (men's, women's and co-rec), the men's league will probably be most competitive because of the number of teams signed up, Martini said.

Within the men's league, there are three divisions — fraternity, resident hall and independent. Although the fraternity and resident hall divisions have a set number of teams because each house or floor is allowed one team, the independent division has increased, Martini said.

He said competition in the co-rec leagues is becoming greater each year. He also said the co-rec league is one of the fastest-growing leagues in terms of popularity.

Because of the turnover of students participating each year in intramurals, Martini said it is really difficult to predict the outcome of the season.

"If I had to pick some favorites, the defending champions would be good picks," Martini said.

Some of the defending champions are Pi Beta Phi sorority in the women's division, the Do Gooders in the independent division, Marlatt Two in the resident hall division, and fraternity and all-University champions, Tau Kappa Epsilon.

"The team started when several students transferred from Cloud County Community College," said Dave Schmidt, senior in construction science and coach of this year's team.

Clark Renfro, sophomore in fisheries and wildlife biology and coach of this year's TKE team, said a fourth all-University title might be difficult to win because of the competition.

John Veach, Phi Gamma Delta, hauls in a pass despite intense coverage by Matt Siuda, Tau Kappa Epsilon, in the final play of their intramural game. The play tied the game.

Stadium lights to permit additional night football games

By GARY VAN CLEAVE
Collegian Reporter

K-State will be able to host more nighttime football games and will prepare for possible future televised games due to the University's purchase of lights for KSU Stadium.

Saturday evening's game with California State University, Long Beach, will be the first played under the new lights installed by Acker Electric of Manhattan.

Dick Towers, athletic director, said the lights were added by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics in hopes of drawing bigger crowds to home games.

Because the University is not traditionally strong in sports compared to other Big Eight Conference schools like the University of Oklahoma and the University of Nebraska, K-State has to look for ways to attract people to ball games, Towers said.

"K-State has not had a winning tradition, and until that's established, we have to promote, market and do everything possible to make our games available for people at their convenience," he said.

Other factors also were involved in the decision to purchase stadium lights.

"I realized last year that we would have three games in September and that one of them would be Sept. 3, when there would be a good chance it would be warm," Towers said, "and it would be much more enjoyable to watch the game at night."

"The other thing we needed was flexibility, so if we have the opportunity for a night television game, we'll be ready," he said.

Each light pole contains 286 1,500-watt lamps aimed at 150 points on the field. Each of the six poles — there are four on the west side of the stadium and two on the east — also will have a light aimed at the parking lots, Towers said.

The poles are 160 feet high, and each unit weighs 14 tons.

With all the construction bills and bills for auxiliary lighting (in case of emergencies) figured in, the project cost $450,000, Towers said.

"The money comes out of athletic department funds," he said. "No state money or special fund-raising drive was used."

The lights are being paid for partially from money received last season when revenues from televised games with the Universities of Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and the University of Wisconsin during the Independence Bowl were placed in a fund by the Big Eight Conference and distributed among each member school.

Besides Saturday's game, the other two scheduled night games are with Texas Christian University Sept. 17 and the University of Wyoming on Band Day, Sept. 24.

A game with Iowa State University Nov. 12 is currently scheduled as an afternoon game. However, if negotiations between the University and television station WTBS, Atlanta, are completed, the game may be played at night and be televised. Towers said the Turner Broadcasting System officials should announce their decision next week.

Towers said the evening games should help Manhattan businesses — especially those in Aggieville.

"I think they (Manhattan businesses) will like it (the night games) because people will be coming to town in the afternoon to shop and then go to the ball game that night," he said. "I think it also will give the merchants a chance to have a full day's work, close up the shop, and then come out to the game, which is what some of them want to do."

Towers said Saturdays are important sale days in any community, and if an afternoon game is played it could disrupt business between noon and 5 p.m.

"In this case, we have not disrupted that at all," he said. "In fact, we may have helped it. So, I think it should be a plus for our merchants."

Some Aggieville merchants said they aren't sure about the bonuses the night games will offer.

"I've given a lot of thought to that, and I really don't know the answer," Fred Lechner, owner of The Sports Fan-Attic, said. "In our business, it's really difficult to forecast what's going to happen."

Terry Ray, owner of Kite's, Mr. K's, Rockin' K, Aggie Station and Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon, has his own view.

"We are cautiously optimistic about it," he said. "The athletic department tells us having the night games should increase attendance, which will be good for us. At the same time, we feel it might detract a little bit from our business."

"We're for Kansas State, we're for a strong football program, and we're hoping this will be good for all of us," Ray said. "At this point, we just don't know."

"Now, if every game had the interest of a last year's night game with KU, I'm sure it would be just fine because people are still going to party no matter if the game is in the afternoon or evening," Lechner said.

"That particular weekend was one of my best weekends since I've been in Aggieville," he said. "So, certainly on the basis of that weekend, I can't be too pessimistic about it."

Lack of depth may slow Cowboys

By The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla. — Oklahoma State University Coach Jimmy Johnson thinks his Cowboy football team has the first-team equipment to brush aside the frustrating memories of a year ago and produce a solid, winning season.

But what happens if the equipment fails?

"Then," the coach says, "we've got trouble."

Johnson told the Big Eight Skywriters on Tuesday that lack of depth is the biggest problem for the Cowboys, who, with All-America tailback Ernest Anderson leading the charge, appear at least to have the offensive firepower to match last year's high-octane brand.

Anderson led the nation in rushing last year with 1,877 yards, the fifth-best single-season total in NCAA history. But Johnson, lacking any other effective weaponry, was forced to rely too heavily on his star pupil.

Anderson carried the ball an average of 32 times a game, and the Cowboys slumped to a 4-5-2 season, far below what Johnson had expected of them.

This year, the coach is planning a more diversified attack.

"We have a chance to be a good football team, but our lack of depth is going to hurt us. If some of our better players get hurt, we're stuck for alternatives besides playing someone who's inexperienced," Johnson said.

"We've also got to correct our mistakes of a year ago, especially in our passing game and our fumbles. If we can do those things, and if we stay healthy, I think we'll compete."

Oklahoma State piled up an average of 400 yards a game in offense last year, second in the league only to Nebraska, but tossed up 19 interceptions and 16 fumbles.

Johnson took a step toward remedying the trouble by replacing Ike Jackson, last year's starting quarterback, with Rusty Hilger, who led the Cowboys to a 7-4 record and an Independence Bowl bid in 1981 before sitting out last season with a shoulder injury.

At 6-foot-4, Hilger stands tall in the pocket, a prospect that pleases his coach.

"With Rusty in there, we plan to throw the ball a lot more than last year," Johnson said. "This way, we can take some of the pressure off Ernest."

Johnson also feels good about who Hilger will be throwing to. John Chesley, the team's leading receiver before succumbing to a knee injury four games into the 1982 season, returns at tight end. At the wide receiver posts are Jamie Harris, a transfer from Texas Tech University who has run the 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds, and Kenneth Brown, a redshirt freshman.

Ralph Partida and Kevin Igo, a 257-pound senior who bench-presses 400 pounds, will be the offensive guards, while redshirt sophomore Paul Blair and three-year letterman John Cegielski will start at tackle. David Tucker, a former tight end, will be at center.

"The offensive line right now is the most pleasing spot of our football team," Johnson said. "They've been working hard, and they look good."

Nebraska win worries coach

By The Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne said Tuesday he's not so sure his No. 1-ranked Cornhuskers are as awesome as they appeared when they routed defending national champion Penn State in the inaugural Kickoff Classic.

"We're probably not as good as many people think we are," Osborne said by phone from Lincoln, Neb. "And Penn State probably is not as bad as people think they are. It was a game that can cause some over reaction."

The Cornhuskers dominated the

The key to the offense, though, is the soft-spoken Anderson, who insists he would happily sacrifice another 1,000-yard year — and contention for the Heisman Trophy — if it meant success for the team.

"It would be hard for me to repeat what I did last year," said Anderson, who set an NCAA record in a 1982 game by carrying the ball on 15 straight plays. "Last year, I had a lot of yards, but we didn't have a good season. That's all I want — a solid, winning season."

Joining Anderson in the backfield is Kelly Cook, who surprised observers in fall drills by taking the fullback job away from Shawn Jones. Jones led Oklahoma State with 788 yards rushing in 1981 but sat out last season with a leg injury.

The Cowboys' defense is drastically revamped, with Johnson moving two former offensive stars to the other side of the field, starting an inside lineman at defensive end and praying that no one gets hurt.

Leading the charge is Rodney Harding, a 6-2, 235-pound end who the coach says he will move to tackle if he can find adequate outside help. Harding, a junior, averaged seven tackles a game and lends experience to a defensive unit that lost five starters.

Nittany Lions as few teams ever have in their 44-6 victory Monday night at Giants Stadium. It matched Penn State's worst loss since Joe Paterno became their coach 17 years ago.

"I think we're a very good football team. The question in my mind is where do we go from here," Osborne said. "It'd be very easy for our players to believe our No. 1 ranking and the nice things said about them and not work hard. If that happens, we'll lose some games."

"On the other hand, they could feel it's a good beginning and want to improve some," he added. "I think we have a lot of potential."

Staff/John Sleser

Coach Jim Dickey talks with players after the first night practice at KSU Stadium. The addition of the lights will allow for more flexibility in the scheduling of games.

McEnroe wins

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Top-seeded John McEnroe, after a minor flareup with an official, shook off his lethargic start and sloppy play Tuesday to abruptly halt Trey Waltke's bid for an upset and move into the second round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

After Waltke grabbed a 2-0 lead, the three-time U.S. Open champion raised the level of his game and swept past his opponent 6-3, 5-7, 4-6, 6-0, 6-1.

Earlier, Tim Wilkison, a big-serving left-hander who is ranked 73rd in the world, shocked eighth-seeded Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina 6-2, 6-3, 7-6, while Tracy Austin, a two-time champion here and seeded fourth in the women's singles, withdrew from the tournament with a rib injury that has sidelined her since June.

No. 15 Vitas Gerulaitis also had to come from behind, eliminating Marcos Hocesvar of Brazil 3-6, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4. Hocesvar had a 5-1 lead and three match points in the third set.

In night matches at the National Tennis Center, third-seeded Jimmy Connors took on India's Ramesh Krishnan, and the highest-seeded woman to see action on the first day, No. 3 Andrea Jaeger, faced Betsy Nagelsen.

Austin, who won the singles crown here in 1979 and 1981, said she will not play in tournaments until November. She has been troubled by stress fracture of a rib that causes sharp pain when she attempts to hit a backhand.

Besides the U.S. Open, Austin said she will miss the U.S. Women's Indoor Championship in Hartford, Conn.; the Virginia Slims of Detroit; and a tournament in Stuttgart, West Germany.

Waltke, who delighted Wimbledon fans this year when he appeared on court dressed in long white pants and a white shirt with the sleeves rolled up, held a winning margin over McEnroe going into Tuesday's match.

The right-hander from Los Angeles had defeated McEnroe in their last two meetings, in 1981 in Memphis and earlier this year in Las Vegas, Nev. And he appeared he might increase his career mark against the world's No. 1-ranked player to 3-1 as McEnroe was far off the sharp form that had carried him to victory at Wimbledon.

Spani out 6-8 weeks; team adds linebacker

By Staff and Wire Reports

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Veterans Gary Spani and J.T. Smith were placed on the injured reserve list Tuesday, and the Kansas City Chiefs said both players would be out for six to eight weeks.

Spani underwent orthoscopic surgery Tuesday at Research Hospital, Kansas City, Mo.

Doctors determined that Spani has a partial tear of the medial ligament in his left knee, a Chiefs spokesman said.

Spani injured his knee in the final pre-season game against the Chicago Bears when he was preparing to make a tackle.

Dave Klug will replace Spani at inside linebacker.

In other moves Tuesday, the Chiefs claimed linebacker Steve Potter on waivers from the Miami Dolphins and re-signed rookie running back Willie Abrams, who had been cut by the team Monday.

Seven-year veteran tight end Al Dixon was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles for an undisclosed draft choice earlier Tuesday.

Spani, in his sixth year, had played in 70 of a possible 73 games with the Chiefs, and was the team leader in tackles four straight years.

Smith, a wide receiver and punt returner, was injured in the Aug. 13 pre-season game against Detroit. He is ninth on the National Football League's all-time punt return list, averaging 11.5 yards on 155 returns.

In Potter, Kansas City acquired a third-year player who was in every Miami game last year. Potter was all-Atlantic Coast Conference at the University of Virginia and signed on with the Dolphins in 1981 as a free agent.

Classified

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Octoberfest October 6, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 778-5908. (2-17)

FREE BEER, free pool when you join the fight against M.D. this week-end at J. Riggs West. Pool-a-thon players free beer. Pick-up M.D.A. package today. Budweiser Auction Monday at 2:00 p.m. Beer signs, clocks, etc. to the highest bidder. K-State, KU Challenge Match Monday at 3:00 p.m. Open all night Sunday. Free pool with donation to M.D. Join us this Labor Day. J. Riggs West, 317 Poyntz. (7-10)

UNIVERSITY FOR Man fall class registration. K-State Union, today, 9:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Catalogs available—K-State Union, Farrell Library. (8)

THE VARSITY of the K-State Crew Team will have a meeting Thursday, September 1 at 8:30 p.m. in Room 208 in the Union. (8-9)

ATTENTION 02

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10)

TRAVEL—WE will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

RIDERS—COLBY: Labor Day and two week-ends/month. Call 532-3590 or leave message, 532-5582. Bob Brown. (4-8)

ROCK BAND with professional intentions is seeking lead guitarist, able to learn material quickly. Call 537-7738. (8-10)

SCHOLARSHIP MONEY
for those who qualify
call AIR FORCE ROTC
532-6600

CAR POOL—Participants to join car pool from Topeka to Manhattan. On campus from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday. Call Kay, extension 6278 or Bill, 1-235-5045. (8-8)

TICKETS!

The Sports Fan-atic buys and sells tickets for local sporting events—both advance and last minute. Come by in person, or call 539-0525 (or 539-9849). Reserved tickets, $7.00; Long Beach State. Call Now!

ADVENTURE, TRAVEL—Responsible position for management trainee. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (8)

HAVING A party? Experienced D.J.'s available. Reasonable rates. Contact Doug or Mike at 776-9771 anytime. Accoustical Atmosphere's. (8-10)

(Continued on page 13)

Have story
or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

LADIES NITE!
Ladies get
1st draw Free
1st pitcher for $1 & $2.25
pitchers.
619 N. Manhattan

It's Magic...

3+2 FERS

WED. NITES!

- 3 Fers 8-9:00
- 2 Fers 9-10:00
- On Draws

ROCKIN' K BAR

LADIES NITE THURS.!

Health Insurance Costs Too High?
Call Wade Wentling for
an alternate plan

Keating & Associates Dial 537-0366
225 Southwind Place or Security Mutual Life—Nebraska 539-7753

FALL SEMESTER WEIGHT CONTROL CLASSES

First Classes:

- Wed. Aug. 31
- 11:30 a.m. & 1:30 p.m.
- At Lafene Student Health Center
- Room 19

Paid Student Health Fees required.

KSU Horticulture Club
will hold its first meeting Thursday, Sept. 1 in Waters 244
Everyone's Welcome!

ATTENTION:

Needed: Two Season KSU Football Tickets. For section 23 or 24, rows 15-35.

Will pay big $
Call 776-4448.

WELCOME BACK K-STATERS COORS TO YOU, ALL SEMESTER THROUGH!

THE BEST OF THE ROGKIES IS YOURS.
Junction City Distributing Co. Inc.
238-6137

© 1983 Adolph Coors Company, Golden, Colorado 80401. Brewer of Fine Quality Beers Since 1873.

(Continued from page 12)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis, Makeup, wig, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

PRIVATE ROOM for grad or senior, non-smoking male. Newly decorated, private entrance, two blocks from college. 539-2703. (8-9)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (8)

GARAGE FOR rent. Call 537-2130. (8-10)

GARAGE—1131 Vattier, one block from campus. $25 for half, $40 for all per month. Call 776-5682 evenings. (8-12)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210/month, 1131 Vattier Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment available September 1st. One person to take over lease until May 31. Call 537-3896. (5-9)

EXCELLENT FOR upperclassman, graduate student or married couple. Only one-bedroom mobile home left to rent. Has study, air conditioning, clean quiet location. Campus one mile. No children, no pets. 537-8389, or 537-8494. (7-10)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition. 37,000 miles. $5,500 or best offer. Call 776-0131. (8-11)

1971 VW Bug—Real good school car. I'm not kidding, but I run good, $975. J&L Bug Service, 1494-2388. (4-8)

SPORTY 1982 Datsun 200SX, electric, vocal warning system, 5-speed, air conditioning. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

CONVERTIBLE 1969 Fiat 124 Spyder, 5-speed, excellent condition. Call 539-8970. (4-8)

1973 PLYMOUTH Duster—Six cylinders, manual transmission. Runs and looks good. $700. Call 776-5893. (4-8)

1973 FORD Torino wagon. Running condition, new battery, stereo cassette, air, heat, $550, negotiable. 539-5829. (5-9)

1976 AUDI Fox, four-speed, sun roof, AM-FM, great gas mileage, $950. Call 539-1266. (7-9)

1969 MERCURY, 4-door, air conditioning. Runs well, good condition mechanically. Call 776-1812 after 5:00 p.m. (8-10)

1966 MUSTANG: 1969 Bel-Air, four door, 1946 Chevy, two door; $400 each or best offer. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, raffle greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

CANON A1, Canon 50 and 70-210mm lenses, super flash. Brand new. Sacrifice, $580. Complete. David, 539-6267. (3-8)

FOR SALE: Small 110 volt dryer. Great for apartments. $60. Call 537-4341, after 4:00 p.m. (7-10)

NEW DUNLOP tires: Three 6.50-13 inch, 4 ply, $30 each. Call 539-7819. (7-9)

CAR STEREO—Fujitsu 10 and/or four speakers. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

OLDS AMBASSADOR saxophone. Excellent condition. Price negotiable. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

10-SPEED bike, good condition, for school/work, $75. Flute with case/stand, excellent condition, $150. Call 537-1123. (8-10)

SAILBOAT—14' Laser. Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (4-8)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

FRIGIDAIRE AUTOMATIC washer, $125. Phone 776-6978. (8-8)

YAMAHA ACOUSTIC guitar. Excellent condition, like new. Price negotiable. Call Grub at 537-0967. (8-10)

EP COMP I water ski. Excellent condition. Call 539-1135. (6-9)

MUST SELL: 10-speed, "Free-spirit" bicycle, 26", $40; cassette deck, Panasonic w/Dolby, $70; Onkyo turntable, $60 or best offer. Call 539-9102 after 6:00 p.m. (8-8)

WOMEN'S 10-speed, 24-inch Huffy touring bike. Call 776-0620 after 6:00 p.m. (8-10)

UNDERWOOD MANUAL office typewriter, $35. Call 776-7277. (8-8)

DESK, (TOP 2' x 3'), $25; double bed frame, $12; trombone (reasonable). Call 539-3439. (7-9)

ABSOLUTELY SUPER home for professors. Eugene Field. Five bedrooms on cul-de-sac. Nadine Green, G&A Realty, 537-7466. (7-8)

TYPEWRITER—PORTABLE. Smith-Corona, manual, works perfectly, $50. Call 539-6357. (7-9)

FOR SALE—Typewriter, bowling ball and weight set. Call 776-6495 after 5:00 p.m. (7-8)

KAWASAKI JET ski 440. Call 537-3977. (7-8)

YAMAHA CR-240 stereo receiver, Akai GXC-7400 cassette deck. Both in excellent condition! 537-9326. (8-10)

SCHWINN VOYAGER 11.8, 12-speed, 24" frame. Excellent condition, $250. Call 539-5248. (8-10)

MOTORS-FORD 380, $100; Chevy 216, $100; Chevy three-speed, $50. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

KING-SIZE water bed, complete, $150. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08

MOBILE HOME, September 1st—Five rooms, bath, close Manhattan, small court, patio, privacy, $5,000. Mornings, late evenings 1-456-7634. (5-9)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1978 750 Honda—excellent condition, new battery, turn-up, 8,000 miles. Call anytime, 539-3404. (4-8)

HONDA MOVED for sale—excellent condition. For information call, 539-0894. (4-9)

FOR SALE: 1981 Kawasaki CSR 305, 2,500 miles. Call 776-3718. (5-8)

1978 AAF moped, low mileage, excellent condition, $165. Call 537-8771 after 5:00 p.m. or weekends. (8f)

FOR SALE: 1977 Honda 750-4; very good shape. Must go! 776-3718 after 6:30 p.m. (8-10)

FOUND 10

SET OF keys. Identify and claim at towel cage in Ahearn or call 532-6765. (6-8)

FOUND: SET of keys left in Registrar's Office. Identify and claim in Anderson 118. (7-9)

KEYS FOUND on campus. Call 539-7864 after 7:00 p.m. to describe and claim. (7-9)

SIX KEYS on silver ring found in Umlinger Hall, room 317. Call 532-5566 to identify and claim. Ask for Kay. (8-10)

FREE 11

FREE KITTEN—playful, trained. Call 539-9553 after 5:00 p.m. (8-9)

HELP WANTED 13

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures: 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9)

J. RIGGS West now accepting applications for part-time field employees, 317 Poyntz. Call 776-6338. (7-9)

HELP WANTED!
Now accepting applications for full and part time help. Experience preferred. Please call 776-4117 for interview appt.

DAIRY QUEEN
1015 N. 3rd
Ask for Mr. Frye

VALENTINO'S PIZZA is taking applications for delivery personnel. Drivers must be at least 18 years of age and provide own transportation. Openings are for evening shifts. Must be able to work weekends. Hourly wage plus commission. Apply in person during business hours. (8-8)

EXTENSION ASSISTANT/Temporary, full time, assist in the development of microcomputer software for the production of Kansas corn. M.S. in Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Entomology or Agricultural Economics, experience or training in agricultural production, and good communication skills required. Responsibilities: Collection and documentation of information for decision algorithms, and field testing software packages. Contact Dr. F.L. Poston, Department of Entomology, Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506. Phone: 913-532-6154. Kansas State University is an equal employment/affirmative action employer. (7-11)

WANTED: STUDENT to work mornings and weekends on hog and crop farm located four miles east of Manhattan. Call 539-1930.

MANAGEMENT POSITIONS
The U.S. Navy is accepting applications for Naval Officer positions involving . . .

- Financial Management
- Inventory Control
- Merchandising
- Transportation
- Operations Research
- Purchasing
- Data Processing
- Systems
- Personnel Management
- Administration

Education or experience in the above areas not required but desirable.

QUALIFICATIONS: BA/BS degree or college seniors, age 19-34, U.S. citizenship, qualifying score on screening test.

SALARY: Starting at approximately $19,200 projected, $30,000 plus in four years.

BENEFITS: Medical/dental/life insurance coverage, 30 days annual vacation, use of recreational facilities, planned promotion program.

Call Navy Officer Programs toll free 1-800-821-5110.

NEED FARM help with farm experience. No smokers. Your spare time during week and weekends 776-5255. (8-12)

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST for independent clinical laboratory. Experience preferred. Part time. Send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502. (8-14)

FULL TIME service station attendant, 54 hours/week 2:30-11:30 p.m. Klepper Oil Co., 223 North 3rd. (8-10)

LOST 14
WORRIED ABOUT my kids! Lost near Aggieville and campus. Neutered male cat, 10-15 pounds, yellow and white, declawed. Three-month, female kitten, beige and white patches. 537-3645. (5-10)

LOST—RED Levis wallet. I would appreciate its return. No questions asked. Reward. Call 539-5156. (8-9)

NOTICES 15

NOTICE
Effective Sept. 1st, 1983, Word Processing Services will be located at 2312 Anderson in the Professional Place (across from Farm Bureau).

- Resume's
- Manuscripts
- Letters

Let us help you with your typing needs. 537-2810.

NOW ACCEPTING full-time children for Puppetland, an all day nursery, with an accelerated educational program, a degreed teacher, and a small group ratio of 1 to 5. 539-1514 (Jean). (8-10)

PERSONAL 16

F.Y.C.Y.F.L. Dub-Dee. (8)

CONGRATULATIONS MERLE and Laurie! Heard the news. I'm looking forward to another roommate. Mark. (8)

MELANIE—YOU are a dynamite big sister! Thank you for everything! Love, Call. (8)

HEY MEDVITZ—This is your big day. Make it a good one. Happy B-day, Owie, Owie, Owie Love, Heidi, Cathie and Sherry. (8)

S. STONE—Happy Birthday, you're no longer a leenie-bobber! This is a way to celebrate, side by side studying H.B. Let's make the most of my last year. You're the greatest! Love, Frack. (8)

A Special Thanks to UPC, Brothers, Busch and all those individuals who helped make the Flint Hills fantasy ultimate tourney a success. It was kicks for sure. Aerial Wizards.

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two-bedroom furnished apartment one block from campus. $130. Call 776-3062 or 537-1329. (3-10)

ROOMMATE to share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100 month plus one-third utilities. Redoubt Estates, 776-2015. (4-8)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment Private bedroom, fireplace, balcony, pool. Call 539-4757. (4-8)

WANTED: VERY liberal female. Own room, one-fifth bills. Two blocks from campus. Call 539-5499. (5-8)

CHRISTIAN MALES looking for two non-smoking roommates. Large five-bedroom house, $87.50 per month plus utilities. 776-4548. (8-10)

SPACIOUS, NICE apartment—own room and one-half utilities. Close to Aggie and campus. Call 539-1191, 776-0617. (6-8)

FEMALE—CAMPUS East Apartments. Furnished, pool, balcony. See to appreciate. One block from campus. 776-7045

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice two bedroom apartment with three other girls. $112 a month, close to campus. If interested stop by 1010 Thurston, apartment 7. Evenings best. (8-10)

TWO MALE roommates to share four bedroom house. Private room, $100 per month, one-fourth utilities. Call 537-2935 after 5:00 p.m. (7-11)

FEMALE WANTED to share a five bedroom house, $140 per month plus utilities. For more information call Mary, 539-9172. (7-9)

WANTED—RESPONSIBLE female roommate for three bedroom apartment. Rent negotiable. 539-7489. (7-8)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female to share two-bedroom apartment three blocks from campus. $112.50 a month plus utilities. 537-0654. (7-10)

MALE ROOMMATE needed to share nice, furnished, two-bedroom apartment. Rent $150 plus one-half utilities. Call 776-8389 after 6:30 p.m. (8-10)

MALE TO share six bedroom, three baths. Very close to campus. Own room. $220/month includes all utilities, food, rent. Call 539-5837. (8-9)

THREE NON-SMOKING roommates needed to share a spacious, furnished, three-story house. Furnished, washer/dryer. Call 776-0281. (8-12)

NEEDED—ONE male roommate. Private room, can be furnished. Water, trash paid. Off-street parking. Deposit needed. $130 negotiable. 537-4753. (8-12)

ONE OR two roommates needed to fill three-bedroom house, three blocks from campus, five from Aggieville. Water, trash paid. Fireplace, two-car garage, private pool. $175 for one or $240 for two. Deposit required. 537-4753. (8-12)

WANTED—FEMALE roommate for apartment, $130/month plus one-third electricity—share bedroom. Great location. 539-0884. (8-9)

NON-SMOKING LIBERAL. Own room, fall, spring and summer. $135 month, 1320 Laramie. 537-3645. (8-12)

WANTED—NON-SMOKING male roommate to share one-bedroom apartment close to campus for fall semester only. Call 776-0893. (8-10)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted to share apartment close to campus. Washer/dryer, patio, deck. $117.50. Call 539-1658. (8-10)

WANTED FEMALE, studious upperclassman to share trailer house. $75/month plus utilities. Call 776-8358. (8-10)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female roommate, $175/month all utilities paid. Call 539-8628. (8-14)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Flora Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 More, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8637. (3-30)

LICENSED CHILD care. Similar to nursery school, though smaller group. Educationally planned activities, field trips, fenced yard. Opening (1) girl, 2½-6 years. Call 537-7884. (4-8)

TYPING: EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (5-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-8528. (8-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters Insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (8-15)

NEED A tutor? Physics 500 and lower, Math 400 and lower. Call Mike at 776-9056. (8-10)

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-6174. (7f)

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service
1-494-2388, St. George

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials, 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 1983. Call Elaine Berryhill, Independent Beauty Consultant, 537-3233 days, 1-456-7251 evenings. (7-29)

WANTED 21

FAMILY WOULD like collage girl to live in for school year. Food and room in exchange for help. Write Box 2, c/o Collegian. (8-9)

WANTED: INFORMATION concerning vandalism of little yellow truck parked east of Pathfinder on Saturday the 27th. Left door was kicked in. 539-4584. (8)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Inept actor
 - 4 Goes before face or late
 - 7 Part of the chancel
 - 8 Chord
 - 10 T.S. or George
 - 11 Flinched
 - 13 She went to visit
 - Grandma
 - 16 — Amin
 - 17 Snug retreats
 - 18 Payable
 - 19 Dispatched
 - 20 Bunyan's ox
 - 21 Gratifies
 - 23 Begin
 - 25 Very small
 - 26 Sour
 - 27 "The — and I"
 - 28 Comedienne
 - 30 Edomite city

- DOWN
- 1 Spyri heroine
 - 3 Theater performance
 - 4 Use block letters
 - 5 Encircles
 - 6 Every
 - 7 Extorted money
 - 8 '60s dance
 - 9 East Indian cedar tree
 - 10 Son of Gad
 - 12 Distrust

SERB AET MOTE
URAO PLY IRON
OIMS PORTLAND
SEATTLE HADES
ORE FAD
CORN NEW YORK
ADE RUN ROE
MADISON MACON
NET BUM
STATE BEMPHIS
PATERSON EURE
ACER ALE REAR
TOSS PET ESNE

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

- 33 He huffed and he puffed
- 36 Muddy deposit
- 37 Hives
- 38 Mountain chain
- 39 Cetacean: comb. form
- 40 Son of Odin
- 41 Abstract being

- 2 Love god
- 3 Theater performance
- 4 Use block letters
- 5 Encircles
- 6 Every
- 7 Extorted money
- 8 '60s dance
- 9 East Indian cedar tree
- 10 Son of Gad
- 12 Distrust

- 14 Animal lairs
- 15 Ruby or Sandra
- 19 Pig's place
- 20 Nocturnal creature
- 21 Grieves
- 22 Actress
- Lansbury
- 23 Poet
- Teadale
- 24 Vilify
- 25 Asian festival
- 26 Locomotor ataxia
- 28 — blouse
- 29 Kind of moth
- 30 Milton and Byron, e.g.
- 31 Actor Ray
- 32 Moot
- sighting
- 34 Baseball maneuver
- 35 Small songbird

CRYPTOQUIP 8-31
MFQGWUMH TCFJJHC'G UKHWC TQKHJ
JW: XL YHWX LC MLX XL YHWX.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — THE JUDGE'S BIG OBJECTION
TOSKUNK: ODOR IN THE COURT.
Today's Cryptquip clue: X equals T.

State officials reevaluate ag funds, priorities

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

Members of the Kansas Senate and House Agricultural Committees are trying to keep their two-day University visit as positive as possible.

In his opening statement Tuesday morning, Bill Fuller, R-Miltonvale and chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said agriculture is "the number one industry in the state and when you consider only seven-tenths of one percent of the state budget flows into agriculture, then that's embarrassing."

"We are here to better understand the programs and become better partners in publicizing this product (the University)," Fuller said. "We are here in a positive sense — not to criticize."

K-State has caught the brunt of agriculture professionals' frustrations about the deteriorating condition of Weber Hall, said Fred Kerr, R-Pratt, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee. Kerr's speech came Monday afternoon after committee members toured University agricultural sites and buildings, including Weber and Shellenberger Halls.

But those frustrations aren't restricted to agriculture professionals, Kerr said.

While money is short statewide, many people believe there's not enough money for their own particular interests, he said. Agricultural professionals are frustrated and, therefore, have questioned University goals.

"Yes, there's been some frustration that Weber has not moved faster," the senator said. "And the committee members certainly want to encourage that agriculture be a top priority (in state funding)."

President Duane Acker gave committee members an overall review of University goals and structure Tuesday morning. A more specific breakdown of agricultural programs will be discussed this morning.

"As a land grant institution, we could consider the whole state as our campus," Acker said in opening his two-hour presentation.

The No. 1 University mission is instruction, followed by research and public service, he pointed out.

K-State has become a University "for the sons and daughters of the working class," Acker said, just as Abraham Lincoln envisioned when he established land grant institutions.

The Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine will face a higher rate of faculty turnover in the next five years than any other college, Acker told the 22 committee members. Many faculty members began their teaching careers after World War II when there was a large push by the federal and state governments to encourage agricultural research and are now at retirement age, he said.

When asked about enrollment in agricultural curriculums, Acker said enrollment has declined 15 percent during the past five years. But David Mugler, associate dean of agriculture, pointed out that enrollment in agriculture increased 300 percent in the 15 years prior to 1977.

Enrollment should stabilize in the future, Mugler predicted after the morning session, because of the demand for graduates.

"We have never met the demand for graduates. Students aren't naive, either. They'll enroll where they see there's a need," he said.

Agriculture students' backgrounds are shifting, Mugler said, from the traditional rural backgrounds to urban backgrounds.

"We have more students from Johnson County than any other county in the state," Mugler said.

Acker came to the point, however, when asked if students were getting as good as education as possible in light of short funds.

"No, they're getting shortchange."

ed."

In this period of short funding, universities will have to make do with what fundings they have, Kerr said, and, in that sense, Durland Phase II may be too elaborate.

"You get that feeling when you take a campus tour like we did this morning and go from Durland Phase II to Willard Hall," Kerr said. After the session with Acker, the committee members took a whirlwind campus tour and a larger tour of agricultural facilities in the afternoon.

Student safety is a main concern, Kerr said and questioned the elaborateness of Durland while parts of Willard are inadequate. Some of the new building's features could have been saved and the money used to make improvements in Willard, he added.

"In times when funding is short, we (the Legislature) have to encourage the different segments to work with each other as much as possible. If space can be better utilized, even if it means department space is short, then we recommend they work together," Kerr said.

This afternoon, various farm organizations and agricultural groups including the Kansas Pork Producers Council, Kansas Livestock Association, Kansas Soybean Growers and the Kansas Wheat Commission, will address the two committees about what direction the University should be taking.

At 7:30 a.m. today, Brian Mohler, an international economist from the U.S. State Department, will meet with the committees.

All meetings of the committees are in Union 212 and are open to the public.

Police nab 600 pot plants, five suspects in Baldwin raid

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE — Police rounded up five suspects and confiscated 600 marijuana plants in raids in rural Baldwin, according to authorities.

Three men and two women from Baldwin, were booked into the Douglas County Jail in Lawrence after the raid Monday night. All were later released on bond.

The five were scheduled to appear in court Friday on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to sell.

The Baldwin raids were carried out by 20 officers from Lawrence, Douglas County and the Kansas Bureau of Investigation. The plants were located by air surveillance on several different pieces of property.

In another case, a Lawrence man pleaded innocent to charges filed after a weekend raid on a marijuana field.

Joseph Ellenbecker, 36, entered the plea in Franklin County Circuit Court on Monday. Ellenbecker was arrested Friday when Franklin County authorities found 1,100 marijuana plants growing in a mile field northwest of Ottawa.

Ellenbecker was arrested after authorities saw him tending plants in the field, according to Franklin County Sheriff Rex Bowling.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL
BIKE SALE!
BASSETTS BIKE SHOP
(Downtown)
217 Poyntz 537-8832
For the best in Sales
& Service

NISHIKI BICYCLES 20% off
FREE $20 worth of accessories
with NEW bike purchase*

*Nishiki Bikes not included in this offer.

- NEW
- USED
- PARTS
- ACCESSORIES
- REPAIR

CENTURION—NISHIKI—KHS—TAKARA—DIAMOND BACK

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

WED. & THURS. ONLY

STAR TREK

BLOOPERS

SHOW

NEVER SHOWN ON T.V.

Sponsored by KAPPA SIGMA

A RARE COLLECTION OF UNRELEASED OUT-TAKES FROM FAMOUS T.V. SHOWS

KEDZIE HALL
Rm. #106

August 31 & September 1
7 P.M. & 9 P.M. both nites

KSU Students with I.D. $3.00 all others $4.00

LIMITED GOOD SEATING—COME EARLY—NO CHILDREN PLEASE

STUDY—DISCUSSION OPPORTUNITIES

LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY

Bible Study—"You Are Beautiful, My Love"
—A Biblical Study on Sexuality

Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 6, 4:30-5:30 p.m. at the Campus Center, 1021 Denison.

Sept. 6 & 13 ... Relationship and Reality, Genesis 2-3 and Colossians 1:12-23
Sept. 20 & 27 ... Sensuality and Spirituality, Song of Songs 4-8, I Corinthians 7:1-7
Oct. 4 & 11 ... Power and Passion, Esther, I Corinthians 11:2-16
Oct. 18 & 25 ... Covenant and Care, Jeremiah 31, John 15:12-17

Christian Faith—
"What Do We Believe as Christians?"

Sundays, 10:15 a.m., Danforth Chapel

Aug. 28 ... Who Am I? Freedom, Suffering
Sept. 11 ... Who Is God? Science, Creation, World Religions
Sept. 18 ... What Is Sin? Illusion, Guilt, Evil
Sept. 25 ... Who Is Jesus? History, Savior
Oct. 2 ... Who Is the Holy Spirit? Mission, Church
Oct. 9 ... How Should We Live? Love, Sexuality, Vocation
Oct. 16 ... Where Are We Going? Dying, Hope, Eternity

Faculty-Student Discussion

Thursdays, 11:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.,
Stateroom 1, Union Cafeteria

Discussing common concerns, Getting to know faculty and students personally, Sharing life and faith.

Lutheran Campus Ministry, 1021 Denison, 539-4451,
Don Fallon, Campus Pastor

Feel Right at HOME

STUDENT LOANS

Open your checking account with us and be eligible for low interest, government guaranteed student loans.

CHECKING ACCOUNTS

An account for every checking need, including one with unlimited free checking.

OTHER SERVICES

- *Certificates of Deposit
- *Savings Accounts
- *Drive-up Window
- *Night Depository
- *Republic Travelers Checks
- *Notary Service

HOME FEDERAL SAVINGS

Juliette at Humboldt • Manhattan • 776-4733

FSLIC

Sponsor of KSU Football on WIBW-AM 580

REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE •

CARPET SALE

REMNANTS
NEWLY RESTOCKED

DORM ROOMS, BATH ROOMS, BEDROOMS, AREA RUGS, LIVING AND DINING ROOMS, BOATS, PORCHES, ETC.
ALL SIZES, TYPES AND COLORS AT SPECIAL REMNANT PRICES

OVER 100 TO CHOOSE FROM

WALLPAPER SALE

ON OUR MOST POPULAR BOOKS
SAVE 15% TO 35%

ROLL STOCK ON SALE

OVER 30 DIFFERENT STYLES & COLORS ON SALE

- * RARE TOUCH, ANSO IV NYLON (REG. $15.40) SALE $12.99
- * ARMSTRONG ROYAL RAPTURE (REG. $16.99) SALE $14.50
- * BARN BURNER NYLON SCULPTURE (REG. $12.99) SALE $9.49

PLUS MANY MORE

NO-WAX VINYL SALE ARMSTRONG, CONGOLEUM, TARKETT, SALE PRICED FROM $4.99 SQ. YD.

OUTDOOR TURF SALE PORCHES, PATIOS, BOATS, CARS, ETC. SALE $3.99 AND UP

1/2 PRICE SAMPLE SALE PIECE TOGETHER FOR AREA RUGS • 10' x 27' SALE 50¢ 12'x18' 25¢

BRYANT CARPET AND HOME DECORATING CENTER
MANHATTAN

OPEN:
Mon. — Fri. 9:30-5:30
Sat. 9:30-4
776-4367

SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE • REMNANT SALE •

Fast pitch

Softball team returns four starters.

Sports, page 9

Sprinkle sprinkle

A student leaving the Veterinary Medicine Complex is silhouetted by the late evening sun as sprinklers seem to engulf the shadowy figure.

Sprinklers have been running frequently in an attempt to keep the campus grass green throughout the summer.

Staff/John Sleezer

Legislators explore University's priorities

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

Agriculture is Kansas' largest industry and if the state is to progress as a leader in the field, then K-State needs to improve its existing agriculture programs. Two significant ways to improve that position are the renovation of Weber Hall and the addition of Throckmorton Hall Phase II.

Those capital improvements were frequently brought up Wednesday afternoon in testimonies by representatives of agriculture organizations to the Kansas Senate and House Agriculture Committees. The committees were on campus Tuesday and Wednesday to familiarize themselves with the University's agricultural goals.

John Meetz, executive director of the Kansas Livestock Association, told the 24 members of the two committees that the state ranks fourth nationally in livestock receipts. Annually, Kansas livestock sales include $2.6 billion for cattle, $315 million for hogs and $8.9 million for lamb. The state ranked third last year behind Nebraska and Texas in the number of cattle slaughtered at 3.6 million.

But the cattle industry is not increasing, he said.

"Since the early 1970s and the cattle bust in 1973 and 1974, the industry has matured and probably won't be increasing," Meetz said. "We need to live within that and not be looking for expanded consumption nationally."

Because of the stagnating market, the industry now has to find new livestock byproducts.

"There are bound to be some byproducts of that animal that we have not been able to discover," Meetz said. "But Kansas State University cannot get into the byproduct game because Kansas State doesn't have the facilities."

The meat lab in Weber Hall has been outdated for several years and research projects are limited because of a lack of freezer space. As the research and extension service for the livestock industry, the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry must bring Weber Hall up to modern standards, Meetz said.

"Animal research dollars have to expand in the future. The state does have a responsibility to the $3.1 billion livestock industry. Industry doesn't have the responsibility to buy bricks and mortars, that's the legislature's duty," he said. "What the industry is responsible for is providing money for research."

The slowness of renovating Weber, which has been on the University capital improvement list for several years without improving in status, has irritated some agriculture groups which questioned K-State's mission. Weber ranks fourth on the improvement list behind the completion of Nichols Gymnasium, chemical/biochemical greenhouses and phase one of a chemical/biochemical building.

"The primary mission of K-State, as I understand it, is, as a land grant college, to teach and research agriculture and put that research on the land for the farmers," said D.D.

Cox, also from the KLA. "The University's thrust has been to the contrary, going to other areas."

Cox suggested the College of Agriculture's budget be separated from other University budgets for consideration by the Kansas Board of Regents as is the College of Veterinary Medicine and the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, Kan.

"We cannot provide three or four great universities in this state. We can't try to outdo all of the other major institutions in every curriculum," he said in calling for specialized universities.

Bill Fuller, R-Miltonvale and chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, agreed with Cox when asked about specialized universities after the committees adjourned.

"I would not go so far as making K-State or any other regent school one function," Fuller said. "But the state of Kansas has more education for its population, with universities and junior colleges, than any other state in the nation."

"What we have to do as citizens, as legislators, is sit down and decide what type of education we want to pay for. I think there's a great deal of merit in focusing on just a few areas for each school."

K-State has a worldwide reputation in agriculture which it has to maintain, said Fred German of the Kansas Pork Producers. But the University cannot maintain that reputation with its present facilities.

Weber is antiquated and overcrowded and does not offer modern equipment. Students, therefore, are not getting a modern education, German said. Certain innovative meat-packing procedures will become routine at other universities because of modern equipment, he said, "but not at Kansas State."

But just as important as renovating Weber is the completion of Throckmorton Phase II and additional greenhouses, crop science specialists said.

Gordon Congers, president of the Kansas Soybean Association, pressed for the additional greenhouses. Soybean acreage worldwide is about to stabilize, he said, so increased production is needed to meet the growing demand.

"So where is this extra yield to come from?" he asked. "Research has to begin now, and you just can't do basic research without a greenhouse."

"If we can't have the whole bale of hay (Throckmorton Phase II and the greenhouses), then give us the greenhouses."

"It seems to me these two days have been like two days out on my farm," Fuller said. "I see a whole tubful of things that need to be done but I don't have enough time to do them all."

The work has just begun for the two agriculture committees, he said, in that the information gathered in the past two days now has to be digested and put to work.

"I want to use our influence with the Ways and Means Committee to expedite funding for Weber and Phase II and the expansion of the international grain program," the representative said.

Inside

Brian Mohler, State Department economist, told visiting members of the Kansas House and Senate Agricultural Committees that exports from the Common Market are harming American agriculture. See page 3.

Nancy Murfin, sophomore in education, makes a full time job of showing registered quarter horses. See page 7.

Lebanese storm West Beirut

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT — About 10,000 Lebanese army troops, backed by tanks, artillery and machine guns, swept into west Beirut in three columns Wednesday, routing Druse and Shiite Moslem militiamen in fierce house-to-house combat. The state radio said the troops restored control over virtually all the city's Moslem sector.

Thunderous artillery barrages, either from Syrian-held positions outside the city or Lebanese army batteries, shook the city. Police said 24 people were killed, including six Lebanese soldiers, and 49 wounded. The army said it captured 50 militiamen, including seven Palestinians and four Syrians.

The latest deaths brought the casualty toll in the fighting that began Sunday to 79 killed, including two U.S. Marines, five Frenchmen and 27 Lebanese soldiers, plus 326 wounded, including 14 American Marines, seven French troops, three Italians and 89 Lebanese soldiers.

The Americans, French and Italians are part of an international peacekeeping force in Beirut.

Fighting also broke out in Tripoli Wednesday between rival Moslem militia groups, and police said 25 people were killed and 60 wounded in the battles 50 miles north of Beirut.

With the army pursuing the militiamen in west Beirut, President Amin Gemayel offered his political opponents a "national reconciliation dialogue" designed to "chart Lebanon's future within the framework of territorial integrity and total sovereignty."

But Druse leader Walid Jumblatt, whose Progressive Socialist Party militiamen battled the army alongside Shiite Moslems, rejected the offer and called on all other Lebanese politicians to do the same.

Wilcoxon resigns student senate post

By HEATHER WOODSON
Staff Writer

Something is missing in Student Senate this year. That something is the presence of George Dent Wilcoxon, professor of history.

Wilcoxon served as faculty representative to Student Senate for 23 years. He said he resigned this fall because poor health had decreased his efficiency as a member of senate.

"I have missed more meetings in the last year than I have before because of several illnesses," Wilcoxon said. "It's time to give this thing away to someone younger and more vigorous."

"Dent has dedicated more time to student government than any other faculty member at the University," said Chet Peters, vice president for student affairs. "It's uncommon to see that kind of dedication, for that length of time, without relief."

Wilcoxon also served as member of the senate Finance Committee for the 23 years he was a member of senate. It is on the committee that he had the most input, Peters said.

"He has been available for advice and council, but did not try to persuade the senate to a particular point of view," Peters said. "He saw it as his role to make sure full information was available for decision-making by the senate."

"Looking back at the time and effort contributed, I'd say very few individuals have made the kind of contribution Dent Wilcoxon has (made) to K-State," said Pat Bosco, assistant vice president of student affairs and former student body president.

"He made his contribution quietly and without regard to any other reward but the sense of pride in a job well done," Bosco added.

Many of the changes in student government since 1960 have been due to the increasing size of the student body and senate, Wilcoxon said.

"There is a more formal spirit now. The move to the Big Eight Room (from other rooms on the second floor of the Union) added to that. In the old days, around the Big Eight Room, we sat around tables and got to know each other better," he said. "The move caused a bit of separation among senators."

The size of the senate has increased from 22 members in 1960 to 61 today. The greater number makes it harder to get to know all the members, he said.

"Things used to be much less institutionalized. Of course, there was less money to dispense," he said. "It seems as if the student activity fee has gone up constantly."

"Originally, no one in student government was salaried. Even the secretary was chosen from among the students and did her work gratis."

Today, the student body president, Student Senate chairman, finance committee chairman and Student Governing Association secretary are all salaried.

"The rebellion of the late '60s was rather hard to live through," Wilcoxon recalled. The dissatisfaction with the Vietnam War caused protests on campus, he said.

One of the outcomes of the protest movement was the idea of hiring a students' attorney, Wilcoxon said. The first students' attorney was hired on a part-time basis for about $7,000 a year. The next year, the position was changed into a full-time position and the salary was doubled.

"That position is now very expensive," Wilcoxon said. The students' attorney's salary and office expenses are paid out of the student activity fee.

"In the late '60s, some senators were hostile to the administration and to the two faculty members of senate. I think they regarded us as stooges or spies for the administration," Wilcoxon said, chuckling.

There were resolutions passed during that time against the Vietnam War, he said. College chaplains attended the meetings and encouraged students to sign up as conscientious objectors.

"The relationships between students and administration are better now than they have been in the past," Wilcoxon said.

Senate has taken on more important problems through the years, partly because of the greater amount of money available for allocations, he said.

"Former student senators have mentioned to me the change in the major issues, saying, 'Our main problem used to be finding enough parking spaces for students or extending the hours of the swimming pool in the City Park (before K-State had the natatorium).'"

Wilcoxon said.

There has been no real change in the role of women students in student government, Wilcoxon said. There have been several student leaders who were women.

"I have never heard anyone say that because someone's a woman, she would not be able to do an executive job," he said.

"I was surprised to see Angela Scanlan run for student body president (in 1981). She definitely had the student government experience, but I wondered if the male prejudice would stop her from winning. I was agreeably surprised when she won the election," Wilcoxon said.

"Our first black student body president was Bernard Franklin (elected in 1975). He has gone on to become quite successful in business and was appointed to the Board of Regents."

"Many student leaders have gone on to be successful in other fields," Wilcoxon continued. "I would say that student government is good training for a successful career in life afterwards."

A reception in Wilcoxon's honor will be at 6:30 tonight in the Student Government Services office.

Staff/Andy Nelson

George Wilcoxon resigned his post as faculty representative on Student Senate after 23 years because he said ill health has prevented him from fulfilling his responsibilities effectively.

Memorial park honors slain local patrolman

By The Collegian Staff

Residents of the Dix Addition on Manhattan's east side have another place for their children to play, a park named in the memory of a Riley County police officer who was killed in the line of duty last year.

Don Harbour Memorial Park, located just south of the Adult Learning Center on Casement Road, was completed about a month ago. Crews labored throughout the summer renovating the area, which had been unused for some time, said Tim Vanatta, Manhattan parks and recreation director.

Harbour, a 22-year veteran of the Riley County Police Department, was shot Aug. 9 while answering a call about a man trying to sell a stolen gun at a pawn shop in Ogden.

A high-speed chase followed the shooting, and the man believed to have fatally wounded Harbour shot and killed himself just before reaching a roadblock near Waterville in Marshall County. Harbour's wife and two daughters survive.

Planning for the park began five years ago when Annette Moran, a Dix Addition resident, found the nearest park to be too far for her children to walk to.

Moran lobbied city officials for funds to renovate the park on property owned by the Manhattan public school district. In December 1982, the city allocated approximately $12,000 in unclaimed revenue sharing funds to equip the old playground.

Equipment at the facility includes swings, slides, a balance beam, an overhead ladder, a cargo net and several climbing platforms.

"Names were looked at and our department had worked closely with Don," Vanatta said. "We ran the name by all the (local) governmental agencies and they agreed with it."

Riley County police Capt. Larry Woodyard said officers at the department are pleased with the memorial to the senior patrolman.

"There was a lot of public sentiment regarding Officer Harbour," Woodyard said. "A lot of people wanted to do a lot of things to show that sentiment."

Plans for a dedication ceremony at the park are not final, Vanatta said.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student office.

INFORMATION AND SIGNUP MEETING will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 1 for the Winfield Bluegrass Festival Mini Trip. Signup will continue through 4 p.m. Sept. 8 in the Union Activities Center.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS membership drive is this week. Come visit the table in the Union.

JERRY LINTON is showing recent paintings through Sept. 14 in the Diebler Gallery in West Stadium. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for regular registration for the administration of the LSAT is Oct. 1.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the pre-professional skills test required for admission to all teacher education programs at all regents institutions is Sept. 10 in Holton 204. The test will be given Sept. 24.

TODAY

MARKETING CLUB membership signup will be from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in Calvin Hall, first floor. Resume catalog service is available for members.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet for basic information about the application process from 1:30 to 3 p.m. in Union 205.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS membership signup is from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. in Cardwell Hall lobby and in the Durland Hall atrium.

BIOLOGY AND MICROBIOLOGY MAJORS meet from 4 to 4:50 p.m. in Ackert Hall for a placement orientation meeting.

FASHION MARKETING MAJORS meet from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in Justin 326 for a placement orientation meeting.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in Denison 124.

FRIENDSHIP TUTORING PROGRAM meets at 7 p.m. in Cardwell 103 for tutor orientation.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

GRADUATE STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 1:30 p.m. in the SGS offices.

AG STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 135.

HORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Waters 244.

KSU RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 230. Executive committee meeting is at 7 p.m.

THE PHYSICS DEPARTMENT PLANETARIUM offers a slide program from NASA about the Voyager missions to Saturn and Jupiter at 8 and 9 p.m. in Cardwell 407. It is hoped that visitors will be able to view Saturn and Jupiter through a 16-inch telescope, and the observatory will also be toured.

PI KAPPA ALPHA LITTLE SISTER RUSH PARTY will be at 8 p.m. at the Pike house.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENTS SOCIETY OF AMERICA meets at 7:30 p.m. at Last Chance.

SOCIAL WORK CLUB WATERMELON FEED is at 7 p.m. in the City Park Shelter.

K-STATE CREW meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 208.

COLLEGIATE 4-H officers meeting is at 6:30 p.m. and business meeting is at 7:30 p.m. in Union 213.

FAMILY ECONOMICS PROFESSIONAL SECTION meets at 4 p.m. in Justin 327.

SIGMA DELTA PI-SPANISH TABLE meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2. Program topic is "What Would You Like to See Sigma Delta Pi Do This Year?" Anyone interested in practicing Spanish is welcome.

AIChE meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

KSU WOMEN'S SOCCER CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. on the west side of the intramural soccer fields.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION meets at 6:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

Don't be a heartbreaker

Exercise regularly.

American Heart Association
WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Thursday
Jack nite
&
Black Velvet
1.50 ea (9-3)
at COWBOY
PALACE
Where it don't make
no difference
209 Poyntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

CREW
Varsity Meeting
Thursday night 8:30
Rm. 208 Union
For more information call
539-2318 or 532-2362

CLINIQUE

Skin care that works
because it's based on
your skin needs.

ALL PRODUCTS ARE
ALLERGY TESTED—
100% FRAGRANCE FREE

Exclusively

Broune's
DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

CALL
776-4776
FOR APPOINTMENT

YOU'RE INVITED

To a reception honoring
Dr. George "Dent" Wilcoxon, who recently resigned as faculty representative on the Student Senate, after serving for 23 years.

SGS Office, K-State Union
6:30 p.m.
Thursday, September 1

Coast to Coast

Blue Hills
Shopping Center
Tuttle Creek Blvd.
and Kimball
in Manhattan 538-8881

RETIREMENT—
GOING OUT OF BUSINESS
SALE

AT LEAST 25% OFF ON EVERYTHING
25 TO 60% OFF ON "SPECIAL SALE"
ITEMS WITH TAGS ATTACHED.

For Example: Bicycles, Barbequers, Children's Pools and Toys, Lawn Chairs, Life Jackets, Picnic Supplies, Vacuum Cleaners and Pocket Knives, plus items from all Departments.

All Sales Final

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Sun. 11:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

MR. K'S

Welcome To

1¢ NITE!

• 1¢ Second Draws &
Pitchers
Thurs. 7-10

Jiffin' Tomorrow!

Aggie Hair Port

776-7377

711 N. 11th
Aggieville

PERM SPECIAL

Our regular $48.00 perms are now on special for $35.00!

(cut is included)

Offer good now through Sept. 2.

Guys & Gals Welcome!

("Our profession is hair care")

Closed Classes as of Today.

00040	03630	06570	08610	09120	10380	12440	14420	17060	20710	22420	24910	26690	28310	31970	34020	35120	36940
00080	03770	06630	08620	09130	10390	12470	14430	17080	20720	22430	24920	26700	28320	32030	34030	35130	36950
00120	03860	06740	08630	09140	10400	12500	14440	17100	20730	22440	24930	26710	28330	32040	34040	35140	36960
00160	03950	06830	08640	09150	10410	12510	14450	17110	20740	22450	24940	26720	28340	32050	34050	35150	36970
00200	04040	06920	08650	09160	10420	12520	14460	17120	20750	22460	24950	26730	28350	32060	34060	35160	36980
00240	04130	07010	08660	09170	10430	12530	14470	17130	20760	22470	24960	26740	28360	32070	34070	35170	36990
00280	04220	07100	08670	09180	10440	12540	14480	17140	20770	22480	24970	26750	28370	32080	34080	35180	37000
00320	04310	07190	08680	09190	10450	12550	14490	17150	20780	22490	24980	26760	28380	32090	34090	35190	37010
00360	04400	07280	08690	09200	10460	12560	14500	17160	20790	22500	24990	26770	28390	32100	34100	35200	37020
00400	04490	07370	08700	09210	10470	12570	14510	17170	20800	22510	25000	26780	28400	32110	34110	35210	37030
00440	04580	07460	08710	09220	10480	12580	14520	17180	20810	22520	25010	26790	28410	32120	34120	35220	37040
00480	04670	07550	08720	09230	10490	12590	14530	17190	20820	22530	25020	26800	28420	32130	34130	35230	37050
00520	04760	07640	08730	09240	10500	12600	14540	17200	20830	22540	25030	26810	28430	32140	34140	35240	37060
00560	04850	07730	08740	09250	10510	12610	14550	17210	20840	22550	25040	26820	28440	32150	34150	35250	37070
00600	04940	07820	08750	09260	10520	12620	14560	17220	20850	22560	25050	26830	28450	32160	34160	35260	37080
00640	05030	07910	08760	09270	10530	12630	14570	17230	20860	22570	25060	26840	28460	32170	34170	35270	37090
00680	05120	08000	08770	09280	10540	12640	14580	17240	20870	22580	25070	26850	28470	32180	34180	35280	37100
00720	05210	08090	08780	09290	10550	12650	14590	17250	20880	22590	25080	26860	28480	32190	34190	35290	37110
00760	05300	08180	08790	09300	10560	12660	14600	17260	20890	22600	25090	26870	28490	32200	34200	35300	37120
00800	05390	08270	08800	09310	10570	12670	14610	17270	20900	22610	25100	26880	28500	32210	34210	35310	37130
00840	05480	08360	08810	09320	10580	12680	14620	17280	20910	22620	25110	26890	28510	32220	34220	35320	37140
00880	05570	08450	08820	09330	10590	12690	14630	17290	20920	22630	25120	26900	28520	32230	34230	35330	37150
00920	05660	08540	08830	09340	10600	12700	14640	17300	20930	22640	25130	26910	28530	32240	34240	35340	37160
00960	05750	08630	08840	09350	10610	12710	14650	17310	20940	22650	25140	26920	28540	32250	34250	35350	37170
01000	05840	08720	08850	09360	10620	12720	14660	17320	20950	22660	25150	26930	28550	32260	34260	35360	37180
01040	05930	08810	08860	09370	10630	12730	14670	17330	20960	22670	25160	26940	28560	32270	34270	35370	37190
01080	06020	08900	08870	09380	10640	12740	14680	17340	20970	22680	25170	26950	28570	32280	34280	35380	37200
01120	06110	08990	08880	09390	10650	12750	14690	17350	20980	22690	25180	26960	28580	32290	34290	35390	37210
01160	06200	09080	08890	09400	10660	12760	14700	17360	20990	22700	25190	26970	28590	32300	34300	35400	37220
01200	06290	09170	08900	09410	10670	12770	14710	17370	21000	22710	25200	26980	28600	32310	34310	35410	37230
01240	06380	09260	08910	09420	10680	12780	14720	17380	21010	22720	25210	26990	28610	32320	34320	35420	37240
01280	06470	09350	08920	09430	10690	12790	14730	17390	21020	22730	25220	27000	28620	32330	34330	35430	37250
01320	06560	09440	08930	09440	10700	12800	14740	17400	21030	22740	25230	27010	28630	32340	34340	35440	37260
01360	06650	09530	08940	09450	10710	12810	14750	17410	21040	22750	25240	27020	28640	32350	34350	35450	37270
01400	06740	09620	08950	09460	10720	12820	14760	17420	21050	22760	25250	27030	28650	32360	34360	35460	37280
01440	06830	09710	08960	09470	10730	12830	14770	17430	21060	22770	25260	27040	28660	32370	34370	35470	37290
01480	06920	09800	08970	09480	10740	12840	14780	17440	21070	22780	25270	27050	28670	32380	34380	35480	37300
01520	07010	09890	08980	09490	10750	12850	14790	17450	21080	22790	25280	27060	28680	32390	34390	35490	37310
01560	07100	09980	08990	09500	10760	12860	14800	17460	21090	22800	25290	27070	28690	32400	34400	35500	37320
01600	07190				10770	12870	14810	17470	21100	22810	25300	27080	28700	32410	34410	35510	37330
01640	07280	09980	08990	09500	10780	12880	14820	17480	21110	22820	25310	27090	28710	32420	34420	35520	37340
01680	07370	09980	08990	09500	10790	12890	14830	17490	21120	22830	25320	27100	28720	32430	34430	35530	37350
01720	07460	09980	08990	09500	10800	12900	14840	17500	21130	22840	25330	27110	28730	32440	34440	35540	37360
01760	07550	09980	08990	09500	10810	12910	14850	17510	21140	22850	25340	27120	28740	32450	34450	35550	37370
01800	07640	09980	08990	09500	10820	12920	14860	17520	21150	22860	25350	27130	28750	32460	34460	35560	37380
01840	07730	09980	08990	09500	10830	12930	14870	17530	21160	22870	25360	27140	28760	32470	34470	35570	37390
01880	07820	09980	08990	09500	10840	12940	14880	17540	21170	22880	25370	27150	28770	32480	34480	35580	37400
01920	07910	09980	08990	09500	10850	12950	14890	17550	21180	22890	25380	27160	28780	32490	34490	35590	37410
01960	08000	09980	08990	09500	10860	12960	14900	17560	21190	22900	25390	27170	28790	32500	34500	35600	37420
02000	08090	09980	08990	09500	10870	12970	14910	17570	21200	22910	25400	27180	28800	32510	34510	35610	37430
02040	08180	09980	08990	09500	10880	12980	14920	17580	21210	22920	25410	27190	28810	32520	34520	35620	37440
02080	08270	09980	08990	09500	10890	12990	14930	17590	21220	22930	25420	27200	28820	32530	34530	35630	37450
02120	08360	09980	08990	09500	10900	13000	14940	17600	21230	22940	25430	27210	28830	32540	34540	35640	37460
02160	08450	09980	08990	09500	10910	13010	14950	17610	21240	22950	25440	27220	28840	32550	34550	35650	37470
02200	08540	09980	08990	09500	10920	13020	14960	17620	21250	22960	25450	27230	28850	32560	34560	35660	37480
02240	08630	09980	08990	09500	10930	13030	14970	17630	21260	22970	25460	27240	28860	32570	34570	35670	37490
02280	08720	09980	08990	09500	10940	13040	14980	17640	21270	22980	25470	27250	28870	32580	34580	35680	37500
02320	08810	09980	08990	09500	10950	13050	14990	17650	21280	22990	25480	27260	28880	32590	34590	35690	37510
02360	08900	09980	08990	09500	10960	13060	15000	17660	21290	23000	25490	27270	28890	32600	34600	35700	37520
02400	08990	09980	08990	09500	10970	13070	15010	17670	21300	23010	25500	27280	28900	32610	34610	35710	37530
02440	09080	09980	08990	09500	10980	13080	15020	17680	21310	23020	25510	27290	28910	32620	34620	35720	37540
02480	09170	09980	08990	09500	10990	13090	15030	17690	21320	23030	25520	27300	28920	32630	34630	35730	37550
02520	09260	09980	08990	09500	11000	13100	15040	17700	21330	23040	25530	27310	28930	32640	34640	35740	37560
02560	09350	09980	08990	09500	11010	13110	15050	17710	21340	23050	25540	27320	28940	32650	34650	35750	37570
02600	09440	09980	08990	09500	11020	13120	15060	17720	21350	23060	25550	27330	28950	32660	34660	35760	37580
02640	09530	09980	08990	09500	11030	13130	15070	17730	21360	23070	25560	27340	28960	32670	34670	35770	37590
02680	09620	09980	08990	09500	11040	13140	15080	17740	21370	23080	25570	27350	28970	32680	34680	35780	37600
02720	09710	09980	08990	09500	11050	13150

Foreign market hurts U.S. agricultural sales, official says

By NANCY MALIR
Staff Writer

The European Common Market is now the second largest agricultural exporter in the world and its large output is interfering with U.S. exports, a State Department international economist told members of the Kansas Senate and House

Agriculture Committees Wednesday morning.

Speaking at a 7:30 a.m. meeting, Brian Mohler told the legislators he handles trade relations with the Common Market and is aware of its exporting role. He works in the office of Regional, Political, and Economic Affairs in the State Department's Bureau of European Affairs.

"The concern of Washington and the farming community is the loss of third world countries to Europe as places to export," Mohler said.

Europe is producing a surplus of agricultural products, he said, and this excess hurts competitive countries like the United States — making trade an international problem.

"Late last year, the situation got out of hand, and over the past several months, there have been a series of discussions between the United States and Europe," he said.

While there is an increased dialogue and awareness of differences between the United States and the Common Market, Mohler said better trade relations still have a long way to go.

Aside from poor relations threatening European-American trade deals, Mohler voiced another imminent concern — the possible security risks diplomatic tensions could present.

"Strong U.S. initiative in the area of agriculture could tip the balance of whether or not American missiles will be established in Europe.

"However, the United States will continue to press for meaningful reform."

Following Mohler's 30-minute presentation, the committees adjourned for breakfast before meeting with administrators from the College of Agriculture to review college programs.

John O. Dunbar, dean of the agriculture college, began by citing an evaluation of the college from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

"Despite serious financial inadequacies, a highly positive image of Kansas State University exists," Dunbar said. "The College of Agriculture has a sound agricultural program taught by highly qualified faculty members, and its superior academic advising program."

"Clearly, Kansas State University has one of the most outstanding cooperative extension programs in the United States and is to be commended for its success in involving citizens as volunteer workers."

Dunbar, noting inflation and recession have reduced resources for K-State's agricultural operations, told the legislators that building needs are necessary.

Phase II of Throckmorton Hall, the modernization and addition to Weber Hall and the replacement of the beef research barn at the Southeast Branch Station, which was destroyed by fire last year, are areas Dunbar said necessitated work.

David Mugler, associate dean and director of resident instruction, spoke after Dunbar and said the college's objectives include knowledge and understanding, skills, professional attitudes and orientation, and personal and leadership development.

Enrollment in the undergraduate programs has dropped from 2,344 in 1977 to 1,960 in the fall of 1982.

The drop has also hit the nation's other land grant institutions, he said, adding that K-State's graduate school enrollment has risen in recent years. And, according to Mugler, 84 percent of the college's graduates remain in Kansas after graduation.

"Though we have limited resources, we are meeting the needs of the students as best we can," Mugler said.

Speaking about the college's research program, Kurt Feltner, associate dean and associate director of the agricultural experiment station, listed 10 research priorities including soil-conserving crop production systems, genetic manipulation and biotechnology to improve animal productivity, improving foreign trade opportunities for U.S. agricultural products and controlling livestock diseases.

Feltner also cited some research problems.

"Ag research must be continuous to be effective," he said, so discontinuing research because of budget cuts is detrimental.

In addition, research has advanced so far that easier projects are not common anymore and today's research costs more, he said.

Concluding the morning's presentation, Fred Sobering, associate dean and associate director of the Cooperative Extension Service, said Kansas has a stronger county input in extension than many states even though state staff has been reduced to six positions because of budget cuts.

Marines will retaliate, secretary of state says

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration said Wednesday that American Marines on peacekeeping duty in Lebanon will continue to fight back if attacked.

Meeting with reporters, Secretary of State George Shultz also said he does not believe there has been any "concerted effort to single out the Marines and to target them" but that they have been caught up in "generalized violence."

Two Marines were killed and 14 were wounded Monday when their positions near the Beirut airport were attacked by artillery from radical Moslem militiamen.

As for the future, Shultz said, "Let no one doubt, if attacked, the Marines will take care of themselves with vigor."

He also called on Syria, which has a big combat force in the embattled country, and all other parties to support reconciliation efforts of President Amin Gemayel.

Shultz also said the 1,200-man Marine contingent, part of the multinational peacekeeping force, would not be increased.

The secretary said President Reagan is complying with the War Powers Act of 1973 by keeping Congress informed of the Lebanese situation.

Have story
or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Electrical Related Majors

The
Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE) is taking memberships from
8:30 - 11:30 A.M.

August 31, Sept. 1

at Durland Hall Atrium
and
Cardwell Hall Lobby
Keep Your Career Growing
Join IEEE

Betcha didn't know . . .

THURSDAY

• BLUBIRD

• Grand Slam
4 for 1's
Both Levels
(Starts at 8 p.m.)

FRIDAY

• BLUBIRD

• WIBW TGIF
Party (4-6 p.m.)
— $2.00 Pitchers
— Free Albums
— Free Caps
— Free Shirts
— Free Posters

SATURDAY

• BLUBIRD

Playing After game (10-2)

• 2 Free Kegs
for freshman
(3 p.m. to 6 p.m.)
• Open 10 a.m.
• 1982 KSU
Football Highlights
(All day)

Kitchens Plus

WOK SET

only $13.95

3rd & Humboldt

537-4046

The "Department" Store

OLD TOWN MARKET

Coors & Coors Light

12 oz. 12-packs

4.70 warm

5.20 cold

Coors, Budweiser & Miller

12 oz. 6-pack cans

2.50 warm

2.70 cold

Miller Lite

12 oz. 6-packs

2.70 warm

2.90 cold

323 South 17th St.
24 hr. convenient grocery
539-3132

PROGRAM ASSIGNMENT DUE? CAN'T FIND A TERMINAL?

Buy or rent a terminal and modem for your computer class! Now you can access the KSU computer in the comfort of your own home using your telephone. Avoid the rush! Prices start at $495 per semester, $795 per year. Call Manhattan Computers at (913) 539-5216, or stop by 227A Poyntz (upstairs).

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

Thursday

$ Dollar Days $

$1 Cover

$1.25 Pitchers

7-Midnight

619 N. Manhattan

Today's Pop Quiz

Q. Where will you be Monday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.?

A. Enjoying the evening in style with the

*Saint Louis
Symphony Orchestra*

Ticket prices: Public $15.00, Senior $14.00, Student $12.00

Tickets available at McCain Box office, noon-5 p.m., M-F, 532-6428

This program is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts, through participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

The GASLIGHT BOUTIQUE

"The Fun Place To Shop In Aggieville"

1118 Moro
Aggieville

M-S 10-6:00
Thurs. 10-8:30

POWER FOR SALE.

The power of accomplishing more. Of working smarter. With a business computer from Vector.

It helps in business planning and forecasting, as well as simplifying your complicated accounting tasks. And streamlines all those tedious typing chores. Not to mention producing professional memos, letters and reports.

Vector gives you the power of word and data processing you'd expect from much larger computers. All in a very economical desktop model.

We will be glad to show you the entire line of high-powered, low-cost computers and demonstrate their capabilities.

We'll prove that power can be bought inexpensively.

BRONCO COMPUTER SYSTEMS

714 Poyntz 776-0745
Also in Mankato (913) 378-3116

VECTOR
VECTOR GRAPHIC INC.
THE COMPANY COMPUTER®

Talk About A Taco!

(Piñata's White Flour Taco)

only $1.35

only
$1.35

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11 Sun. 11-10

Piñata.
Blumont & North Manhattan

539-3166

K-Stater's . . . This Bud's For You.

Aggie Lounge
All Season's (The Barn)
Blue River Pub
Brothers
Cowboy Palace
JD's Garden Restaurant
J. Riggs West
Mel's Tavern
My Place
Rogers Tavern
Pizza Hut #1
(Aggieville)
Rooks Recreation
Show Biz Pizza
Stable Influence
Third Street Pub
Valentino's

Funding options need thought

It is encouraging that members of the Kansas Senate and House Agricultural Subcommittees have come to Manhattan to check out the University. We can only hope they will act on what they have discovered.

Some of the legislators were apparently surprised by what they saw when they compared Durland II and Willard halls. The lack of funding for buildings is one thing they could not help but notice.

The conclusion some of the members are apparently coming to is that the University either needs private funding for facilities or that the state's universities should be centralized. In light of the present budget woes, they have begun to believe that the state cannot provide money for all the needed buildings.

Durland II was built with a great deal of private funding from engineering firms. It was a case of firms realizing the need to invest in the future of engineering by providing better teaching and training facilities for students.

So now the legislators will have to decide whether to push for more private contributions to, and resulting private control of, the state universities. It is an issue the students will have to ponder as well.

The state invests heavily in college educations, admittedly with an eye to the continuity of society, but also for the benefit of students, who pay only approximately 25 percent of the cost of their education at public universities in Kansas. But the state can be expected to do only so much.

With private funding for buildings, the University could move at a greater pace in upgrading facilities. For example, agricultural industries could perhaps be persuaded to invest in the upgrading of Weber Hall, business-oriented firms could chip in for Calvin Hall, and geological and geophysical firms could pay for the renovation of Thompson Hall.

But what price will these corporate entities exact for their contributions? So far, with the exception of Durland, major donations seem to be for academically trivial affairs, such as a sports practice facility — the Brandeberry Building.

All students deserve an equal opportunity to learn in modern facilities on up-to-date equipment, whether they be in animal science, engineering or business. To accomplish this, Kansans will have to decide whether to press for more private contributions or to centralize the state university system.

Collegian editorials reflect the views of the Collegian and its editor. The editorials are unsigned for this reason and reflect the opinions of contributing members of the editorial board. The board determines the editorial stand of the Collegian on current issues. The Collegian editorial board members are: Paul Hanson, Editor; Brad Gillispie, Editorial Page Editor. Lucinda Ellison, Sandy Lang, Sean Reilly, Becky Schoof, Alan Stolfus, Kecia Stolfus, Dee Anne Thomas and Rhonda Wessel.

Public has to pay for education

According to a recent Gallup Poll, the American public thinks schools should toughen the requirements for promotion of students and should supply students with more homework.

These ideas would accomplish two things. Students would be in school longer, and less homework would get done than ever before.

Let's face it. Homework, especially in high school, was not one of your main priorities. Can you really say you did all the homework assignments teachers gave you? Did you really read all those chapters in those dreary old textbooks? Do you solemnly swear that you read all the books you wrote book reports on, or did you rephrase the summary on the back of the book like almost everybody else?

Yes, I thought so.

Term papers — now there's another story. Think about it for a minute. Did you write those 10-page papers, or did you reword your sister's or brother's paper from two years ago? Or worse yet, did you pay the "class brain" to write it for you? Sure you did.

And one more thing, can you really remember what you were supposed to learn from writing all those sentences? Can you name all the parts of a sentence, or remember how to spell all the words you wrote ten times each?

So the general public thought more homework is in order. Well you can't do homework if you don't learn in class. How many times did you start to do an assignment and had to stop because the teacher hadn't explained the assignment clearly or left out some information in the lecture that you were sure you had listened to? Or was the teacher so boring you drifted off to another world for that part of the lesson?

I don't think homework would have been so bad in high school if we hadn't been brought up with such bad attitudes about it. Homework was something you got more of if you talked in class, didn't turn in your previous homework assignment, didn't bring your book, pencil or paper to class, or anything else that happened to annoy the teacher that day. Somehow it doesn't make sense to me to give a student more homework if he didn't do the first assignment. Few people want to be punished, and let's face it, to most high school students homework is just another form of punishment.

Homework needs to become a positive thing from the word go. It needs a better image than the one it has. If teachers would make homework fun, or at least less tedious, and especially find some other way to punish students, perhaps the homework that is assigned would get done.

But don't hold your breath.

Of course the ultimate punishment for not doing your homework is staying in school for another year.

Just think. You could be the first kid on your block to attend the senior prom three or maybe (if you're lucky) four times.

High school is where the "final judgement" is. It is there where a board of teachers decide whether you are educated enough to be sent out into the real world. By age 18 you're ready whether some stuffy old principal says you are or not.

If children are to be kept back in school it should be at the grade school level when the basics are being taught. It would seem the lesser of two evils to be eight in the second grade than 19 and a senior in high school. Somehow the situation seems more hopeless at age 19 than eight.

Unfortunately, poor students are not always held back in grade school, and when they reach high school they become problems. High school teachers blame grade school teachers, and grade school teachers say they have too many students. Principals say they need more money, the public says they gave at the office, and ultimately the student is the one who loses.

The public should be willing to put its money where its mouth is. Testing to advance students, especially grade school students, could be a good idea. But it will cost more money, and the public is not willing to pay. If we have to keep students in school longer to get the education they need, the public must be willing to pay for the extra teachers, books and materials needed.

Is more homework needed or just better teachers? Teachers who are more organized, enthusiastic and can spread their enthusiasm to their students in homework assignments that are more than just tedious term papers or reading a textbook written in the 1960s by Dr. Boring and Mr. Dull.

But all of this will cost money; time after time the public votes down higher taxes and tells the schools to cut costs.

I think it's time the public starts to put out or shut up.

Letters

KSDB special programs

Editor,

Marty Gurtz' letter "KSDB Needs Bluegrass" (Collegian, Aug. 31) addresses an issue which we at KSDB-FM must deal with all the time: that of what special music programs, if any, we should present on the station.

Gurtz' assertion that a survey of music listening preferences would be useful is right on target. A question of that nature was included on the spring radio survey. We asked our sample, "What type of music do you not hear enough of on the radio?" The results gave us some useful information, but will likely disappoint Gurtz. The people surveyed listed Rock-Top 40 as the type of music they did not hear enough of, believe it or not. Bluegrass music was not listed by any person, although country-pop came in second. (Our special program, "The Country Club," Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m., focuses on that style of music.)

Since 40 percent of our weekly schedule already consists of special programs, we are extremely cautious about adding others. In order to add a special program to the schedule, we must have a knowledgeable disc jockey to work the shift; we must have an adequate library of the music type; and we must have sufficient demand. For bluegrass music, we have none of these. However, we are always open to suggestions about both our regular and special music programs.

Brian O'Neill
Assistant Adviser
KSDB-FM

Dancers deserve opportunity

Editor,

Not only is the editorial entitled: "Football, not Dancers," extremely chauvinistic, it is also very unfair to eight hard-working young women who are doing the job they were asked to do.

Why pick on a squad who's main purpose is to attract attention to the K-State Wildcat football team, not from it? I find it hard to believe that you could condemn the Wildcat Dancers while, in the same paragraph, mention the incidence of intoxication in the stadium without offering any criticism.

I feel we should at least be given a chance and I'm also very sorry if you seem to have difficulty concentrating on the game. Maybe you could just overlook us and consider asking Mr. Fink to have the band hum the music so as not to cause you any further interruptions.

LeeAnn Griffith
Junior in Journalism and mass communications

PSST...SOMEBODY'S USING STEROIDS HERE AT THE PAN-AM GAMES...PASS IT ON.

Keep the Olympics out of court

LOS ANGELES — Mary Decker, world champion, looks angry when she runs. It's a visage of the determination that led the 25-year-old California native to two gold medals at this month's track-and-field championships in Helsinki.

Angry could also describe how Mary Decker, woman, feels about the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and its affiliates. With more than 50 other women athletes from around the world, Decker has filed suit here to add two running events — the 5,000 meters and 10,000 meters — that Olympic organizers refuse to include in the 1984 Games.

One defendant, the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing committee, says its rules make any additions impossible. Plaintiffs Decker and Co. contend the only obstacle is blatant sexism on the part of international committee members who wrongfully view women's events as money losers. While Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Julius Title won't decide who's right for at least two months, the decision shouldn't be his to make.

For their part, American planners for the Los Angeles Games are puzzled by the suit filed by Susan McGreivy, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney, on behalf of the female athletes. They're proud of the 12 new women's events, including a marathon and a 3,000-meter race, they helped to place on the Los Angeles program. "We have been sympathetic to the goals of women in sports," said a defensive Peter V. Ueberroth, LA organizing committee president. Added an LAOOC aide: "The suit is like the ACLU suing Martin Luther King for not doing enough for civil rights."

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

Initially, at least, one gets an entirely different impression talking to McGreivy, who swam for the U.S. in the 1956 summer Games. In her mind, the Los Angeles organizers are part of a male-oriented "network" that has discriminated against women athletes since a "very hostile" Baron Pierre de Coubertin began reviving the modern Games in 1894. When Ueberroth touts the efforts made on behalf of women, McGreivy charges, "It's like they're saying 'We've stopped slavery' and then saying how much they've done for blacks."

Numbers alone seem to justify the women's case. Only about one-third of Los Angeles' 220 events will involve women competitors. Of course, many competitions — the pole vault, hammer throw and steeple chase, for example — may never break the sex barrier. Yet despite what one U.S. team official called the enormous number of new female track competitors, the IOC has honored women's modest demands for "parity" with minimal enthusiasm.

Although the deliberations of international athletic organizations have tested even the best sports sleuths, McGreivy claims to have evidence of a subcommittee proposal made last year to the International Amateur Athletic Association to have the 5,000 meter and 10,000 meter events included in this year's world championships. The IAAA leadership ignored the proposal, McGreivy suggests, because the IOC executive committee was reluctant to see either event sanctioned as world-class, and therefore, worthy of 1984 Olympic competition.

McGreivy insists that Decker and Co. don't view their suit as a punitive jab at chauvinistic tradition. A mere two running events would do them very nicely, thank you, and could be added at virtually no extra cost and in time for official tryouts next April.

But the likelihood that at least one of those events — the 5,000 meter — will be on the 1988 program in Seoul underscores a fact about this bit of Olympic litigiousness: 5,000-meter and 10,000-meter races in 1984 would primarily benefit Mary Decker and ace Norwegian marathoner Grete Waitz, each of whom would likely add another gold medal to their tally. If the all-male IOC executive committee ignores a court order to add both races, the understandable interests of two great athletes could throw the 1984 Olympiad into a judicial quagmire.

While such a prospect may do more than Decker and Co.'s well-publicized Helsinki announcement to make IOC executives acquiescent, it would mean an unsightly legal solution for an essentially internal political problem. Athletic squabbles don't belong in the courts.

Welcome to war — er ... K-State

Rod Saunders
Guest Columnist

As K-State's infamous registration lined up in the street and "mazed" through Ahearn, a young woman with a small child entered the doors. The child ran in ahead, quickly turned, ran back toward Mom and said, "Mother, Mother, there's a war going on in here."

Without question that is the best one-line description ever made of K-State Registration. Even the very attractive painting of Ahearn cannot change the ponderous, cattle-herd atmosphere. As a professor recently mentioned, "It is oppressive, and to some it seems 'war'-like in a matter of sorts." It is amazing that you folks put up with this year after year.

There are other "war"-like situations here, (you've experienced the lines of registration). Now will come lines for concert tickets, basketball tickets, intramurals, meals, classes, etc. And the worst of all, lines that don't exist to put your car between.

Then there are the crowd scenes, some of which can get rather testy — in Aggieville, at football games (yeah, there really will be crowds there this year), at "preaching" or "demonstrations" on "the island" between Seaton and the Union, or the same in the Union. Yes, sometimes, even the religious groups here seem to be having their version of the "holy wars." You must watch out for the "It's Time to Prey" syndrome, as Tom Glass rightly called it last year.

Of course, life in the residence halls (you can't say dorms), or the greek houses, or off campus can be a battle, and everyone knows how much "love ain't lost" between the GDIs, greeks, and dormies. We've already had one "war," and it's obvious who has all the "firepower" — just ask the men moved from Smith House.

And then there is the "war" for jobs — either work-study or in town. It is a very tough job market. It has even been called a "slave-labor" job market, due to the very low pay and the reality of all the people from K-State and Fort Riley available for jobs. "I only know I never wanted to work at McDonald's, but what else is there?" a student said.

Then there is the "war" among local businesses for your attention and your dollars — fast-food, stereo, banks, clothiers, discounters, bars, clubs.

All in all, a fairly dismal, depressing battle-zone reality exists as a part of the K-State community. Or is this maybe, perhaps, just possibly a tad too negative and pessimistic?

In every one of these situations there are chances for some fun, some learning, some real relationships. This is not to say many of these situations don't need to be improved, or even changed drastically — and I hope some of you now here will work endlessly and tirelessly to make some of the needed changes. It is to say that we need to keep some proper perspectives. Our "wars" here do not compare at all with Chad/Libya, Iran/Iraq, El Salvador, or others, nor can they even be mentioned in the same breath with what Karl Menninger is calling the move toward global suicide — nuclear weapons. And most of us around here are relatively young, energetic, in reasonably good health, happily active, enjoying what we do, and hopeful for a better future. And there are a good number of good, caring people around here who really are here to be helpful and supportive in any way they can — they know that the only reason the University exists is because you are here.

The good times are not automatic, and hope for the future is irrelevant if you do not care enough to work toward that good and that hope, to, with, for and on behalf of others. I hope you "win" the "war." Welcome to K-State.

(Editor's note: Rod Saunders is the campus minister for Ecumenical Christian Ministries.)

Fear of fat may prove unhealthy

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — Youngsters who skip meals because they are afraid of getting fat may slow or permanently stunt their growth and delay their sexual development, a study has found.

Although doctors have long recognized that poor nutrition is dangerous during childhood, the researchers say their report is the first to identify fear of obesity as a cause of short stature and delayed puberty.

The researchers described 14 youngsters, most of them from affluent families, who failed to go through adolescence or grow because they skipped meals and did not get enough calories.

"The most important pressure was a desire to be slim and lean and remain attractive," said Dr. Fima Lifshitz, one of the researchers.

One youngster was permanently stunted, but the rest grew and matured after switching to normal diets.

Results of the study, conducted at North Shore University Hospital in Manhasset, N.Y., were published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The researchers are unsure how common the problem is. But Lifshitz said a survey being conducted at a high school shows that up to 3 percent of the students appear to be short because of poor nutrition.

The children in the Manhasset study, who ranged in age from 9 to 17, had sought medical help because they were "late bloomers," Lifshitz said. "They were not going into adolescence at an age when most of their friends were zooming up."

Unlike victims of the self-starvation disorder called anorexia nervosa, these youngsters did not appear to be dangerously malnourished. Instead, Lifshitz said, "They all looked like short kids."

Most of the children came from homes in which thinness was highly valued. Even after the problem was identified, some parents were reluctant to feed them more. One mother worried that she would "end up with a short, fat son" when the diet therapy was over.

The youngsters' fear of fat was eventually outweighed by worry that they would be short and not develop sexually.

When treatment started, the patients were eating between 32 percent and 91 percent of their recommended daily calories. Many were not getting enough protein. Three ate mostly candy bars and junk food, while the rest avoided these snacks.

Their yearly weight gain averaged three pounds and their growth was just over one inch. After they started eating properly, they put on 24 pounds a year and grew nearly three inches.

The most severely affected was a 17-year-old boy who was five feet tall and weighed 72 pounds. In the next year and a half, he grew six inches and put on 50 pounds.

Except for one girl who was permanently stunted, Lifshitz said all the others appeared to be developing well during three years of follow-up.

Crash simulator proves convincing

By KARRA PORTER
Collegian Reporter

Most people were smiling as they got in. But expressions of surprise replaced the smiles as they got out. One ride on the Convincer was enough.

The Convincer, a Kansas Department of Transportation simulated-crash device, was displayed from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday between the Union and Seaton Hall. K-State Police representatives manned the device and an information table nearby.

Crowds outside the Union and on the steps of Seaton watched as riders stepped into the car seat locked into position about three feet above the ground. Campus policemen Cpl. Richard Herrman and Sgt. Robert Mellgren tightened the shoulder and seat belts and gave last-minute advice.

"Don't put your tongue between your teeth. We've had a couple of people bite their tongues. And don't brace yourself too hard. Ready?"

After its release, the car seat rolled down the track at a speed of four to five miles per hour and stopped abruptly when it hit the barrier.

The riders' first reactions ranged from a dull look of surprise to mild outbursts of profanity.

"It hit a lot harder than I thought it would," said Gerri Hettenbach, senior in statistics.

Most reactions were mainly surprise at the force of the impact, Herrman said. The demonstration got off to a slow start because "once they've seen it done, very few will go on it," he said.

Later, the activity picked up as friends cheered on prospective riders. Mike Finnegan, professor of anthropology, took the challenge and was surprised by the impact.

"Four or five miles per hour isn't much," he said, "but who knows what hitting at four or five miles per hour is like? That was a harder jolt than I expected."

The Convincer seemed to have accomplished its goal.

"I'm convinced. I'll wear my seat belt home Friday," said Derrick Holt, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine.

Andre Kelley, sophomore in journalism and mass communications, agreed. "That was a lot more than I expected," he said. "I'm going to wear my seat belt."

Hettenbach was not so sure. "I probably won't wear my seat belt," she said, "but it convinced me."

Brother's
AGGIEVILLE

1120 More

539-9064

TONIGHT 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. $2.00 PITCHERS
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
GUIDO TOLEDO'S HOUSEHOLD WORDS

Join us SATURDAY Afternoon for AGGIEVILLE'S 1st TGIS

BLUE RIVER

PUB

50¢

Fish Bowls

Thurs., Sept. 1

Starting at

4 p.m. to midnight

537-9877

located by Tuttle
Creek Dam

DEC 26 - JAN 10 83-4
AGRICULTURAL TRAVEL TOUR
AUSTRALIA NEW ZEALAND HAWAII
INFORMATIONAL MEETING
Thurs., September 1, 7:00 p.m.
Throckmorton 124

McCALL'S SHOES

A MANHATTAN TRADITION
SINCE 1961

Go Bass to class!

Bass

313 Poyntz—downtown Manhattan

Don't forget the Watermelon Feast at 4:00 today. It will be held at Quinlan Natural Area (behind Boyd, Van Zile & Putnam Halls). All new and old members welcome.

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Scoping
for some fun?

75¢ Well Drinks

Tonight 9-11

HAPPY HOUR: 4-9

2 fers on hi balls 75¢ draws

$2 blended drinks

Drink of the week:
49er Grinder $1.25

531 N. Manhattan

Office 539-4321

Bar 539-9727

THURSDAY NIGHT!

All You Can Eat $7.50

Salad
Sauerbraten
German Meatballs
Leipzig Style Vegetables
and Apfelpannkuchen

Raoul's Escondido
215 S. Seth Childs Rd.

1817 Ft. Riley Blvd. Manhattan
539-0240 Open 10-6 Mon.-Sat.

START THE YEAR RIGHT!

KSU & the Manhattan Mercury

Take advantage of the SPECIAL STUDENT PACKAGES and receive total coverage of K State news, sports, and events. In addition, you will receive regional and national coverage of news as well as money saving coupons and ads from local merchants.

The FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR starts with order, and ends May 9, 1984. Included are automatic stops for Christmas and Spring Breaks.

FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR $33.00 $32.50 SPECIAL!

FIRST SEMESTER $16.00 $15.95

Payment must be received by September 5, 1983

Keep for your records: Paid _____ on Check No. _____

Amount $ _____

Send or Bring form to: The Manhattan Mercury,
5th and Osage, Manhattan, KS. 66502

YES, I want to receive The Manhattan Mercury for the
FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR $33.00 $32.50
FIRST SEMESTER ONLY $16.00 $15.95

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

STUDENT ID NO. _____

SIGNED _____

For Office Use Only
ROUTE NO. _____ Payment Rec'd _____ Payment Pend. _____

KSC:EDW

J. Riggs west inc.

$100 PITCHERS
THURS 7-10
FRI 2-6

Join the Fight against Muscular Dystrophy
this Labor Day Weekend
at J. Riggs West

• POOL-A-THON Starts Sunday Nite at 9 p.m.

Free Prizes for POOL-A-THON PLAYERS
Stop in and get your MDA package today.

• Budweiser Auction Monday at 2 p.m.

Signs, Clocks, Budweiser. Merchandise to the Highest Bidder.

• K-State vs KU Challenge Match Mon. at 3 p.m.

Robbie Madenjian — KSU & Nat. Intercollegiate Pocket Billiard Champion vs.
Jim Conard — KU Champion 3 yrs.

Free Pool starts 9 p.m. Sun.
with Donations to M.D.

Open All Night Sunday 317 Poyntz 776-6338

Rec Complex adds equipment, saunas

By MATT MCILLEN
Collegian Reporter

The Washburn Recreational Complex features several additions and improvements this year, but air conditioning is not one of them.

Only administrative offices in the complex are air conditioned.

Lack of air conditioning does not seem to have affected use of the complex, according to Steve Martini, assistant director of the complex.

"You don't see as many teams practicing football as in other years, but overall, the heat hasn't really stopped people from working out," he said.

"We do have fan units that pump in outside air," Raydon Robel, complex director, said. "But if it is 102 degrees outside, it will be at least that hot inside. When they were building the complex, we were having an energy crisis, and it just would have cost too much (to operate an air conditioning system)."

Plans are now in the exploratory stage to air-condition all of the building except the upper eight racquetball courts and the large gym, Robel said.

The multi-purpose dance and combatives room on the second floor has been converted into a fitness area, sharing part of the dance space.

Eight pieces of computerized Hydra-fitness equipment, including three electronically-controlled stationary bicycles, were added to the area. An inversion machine and stretching bars (to stretch the back) also were included for a total cost of about $14,000, Robel said.

"This fitness area was the first step in trying to meet the demand for weight and fitness equipment," he said.

The hydraulic circuit machines are designed to give a total body workout from legs to arms.

Lifecycles are bicycles which measure calories burned per hour and heart rate after use, Robel said. A 12-minute ride provides a maximum aerobic workout that automatically increases and decreases pedal pressure to simulate hills, states an information chart about the bicycles.

A vertical chest press and a pull-over machine, both Universal equipment, also were added in the weight room. New speakers in the small gym were installed to improve music quality for the increasingly popular exercise, aerobics and jazzercise classes, Robel said.

Two new saunas, one in each of the men's and women's locker rooms, will be completed this month, he said. They will seat 10 to 12 people.

Changes have been made in plans for the Rec Services Triathlon. The running-cycling-swimming event will be held Sept. 10 instead of during the spring semester.

"People are usually in better shape right after summer," said Joyce Halverson, assistant director in charge of free time recreation. Scheduling the triathlon in fall avoids cold-weather bicycle training in March and conflicting spring activities.

All three events will be held at Tuttle Creek Reservoir this year, Halverson said, instead of holding the swimming competition in the Natatorium.

Deadline to sign up for the triathlon is Sept. 2, she said.

Although entries so far are few, Halverson said she is "reasonably confident" that last year's 80 entries can be matched.

Manhattan Parks and Recreation Service will co-sponsor the triathlon this year, enabling Manhattan residents as well as K-State students to enter, she said.

"We also have age groups this year," Halverson said. "This will make it easier for more people to win. Competition will be divided between individuals and teams, she said.

Attendance at the recreation complex continues to increase, Robel said, and the complex employs over 100 students.

"Our objective is to continue to grow and try to meet the needs of the students," he said.

Architecture dean resigns, plans to teach full time

By The Collegian Staff

Bernd Foerster, professor and dean of the College of Architecture and Design, recently announced he will return to full-time teaching beginning with the fall, 1984 semester.

Foerster has asked Provost Owen Koeppel to appoint a search committee to recommend candidates for the deanship. Koeppel said he would meet with the faculty of the college today to discuss priorities for establishing a search committee.

"I hope to name the committee members so that a search may be underway before the end of September," Koeppel said.

Foerster was named professor and dean of the architecture college in 1971 after serving on the faculty at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y., for 17 years.

He is a fellow of the American Institute of Architects and is chairman of the Manhattan Redevelopment Advisory Board. Foerster also serves on the board of trustees for the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Foerster is a past president of the Kansas Society of Architects, the Manhattan Arts Council and the Riley County Historical Museum trustees.

Energy program receives extension

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A federally funded program to help low income Kansans pay their cooling bills or to buy fans and air conditioners has been extended for another month because of continued hot weather across the state.

The program, called the Low Income Energy Assistance Program or LIEAP, was scheduled to expire Wednesday but will be continued through Sept. 30, said Kathy Valentine, a program specialist for the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services. The agency administers the program in the state.

There are two parts to the program. One is primarily directed at the elderly and disabled, while the other is for low income people who have a medical emergency because they lack any cooling device or are without electricity.

The program for the elderly and disabled was started in July, and has provided $2.2 million to help 20,000 Kansas households pay their utility bills this summer, according to Valentine.

A person can get up to $198, but the amounts vary according to a person's income, house size and type, and geographic location in the state. The average payment has been $114 this year. The state had about $3 million for this part of LIEAP. Last year about $2.1 million was spent.

The medical emergency phase of LIEAP, started in early August, provides up to $100 to low income people to pay delinquent utility bills to prevent disconnection of service or to have service restored. Also, the program will pay up to $50 for a person to buy a fan or $150 for an air conditioner.

So far, SRS has spent about $50,000 out of an available $500,000 for the medical emergency phase.

Checks to buy fans or air conditioners are sent directly to vendors, while payments for utility bills are two-party checks made out to the individual and the utility company.

Valentine said Wednesday that applications for assistance are available at all local SRS offices across the state.

2001 Evergreen Circle 539-4324

Bible Study and Fellowship

Every Thursday
7:00 p.m. Union 207

"UPC... We do it right!"

WINFIELD BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

September 17-18, 1983

$37

Price includes transportation, camping fees and two day ticket.

Information and Sign Up Meeting: TONIGHT, SEPT. 1, 7 p.m. Union 208
Sign up continues thru Sept. 8, Activities Center, 3rd Floor, Union

k-state union
upc travel

JOHN BIGGS

IN CONCERT

CONCERT TONIGHT HAS BEEN CANCELLED. IT WILL BE RESCHEDULED AT A LATER DATE.

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

RONNIE MILLSAP

Friday, September 30, 1983
8 p.m.
Ahearn Fieldhouse

Tickets: $10.00, $9.50, $9.00

Send check or money order to:
UPC Special Events,
Parents' Weekend 1983
P.O. Box 193
Manhattan, KS 66502

k-state union
program council

k-state union
special events

Attention:

All women interested in soccer, the KSU Women's Soccer Club will have an organizational meeting 6:30 Thursday at the west end of the intramural soccer fields.

For info, call 539-2531.

The Hair Experts
NEW LOCATION
1209 MORO
"Behind Last Chance Barbeque" 776-4455

SWINGIN' LADIES NITE

THURSDAYS!

- All ladies get:
- FREE ADM.
 - FREE DRAW
 - 25' DRAWS ALL NITE!

ROCKIN' K BAR

MOUNTAIN OYSTER FRY TONITE!

Tonight LADIES ONLY
7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
$2.00 ALL YOU CAN DRINK on House Drinks
Beer and Wine
No Men Admitted
Before 9 p.m.
$1.00 Cover 9 p.m. - Close

Weekend TGIF and TGIS
Specials include
Free hors d'oeuvres,
No Cover Charge, Free
Music and Drink Specials
Tonight JIM SWENEY
and the JUMPSHOTZ

the Avalon
1122 Moro UPSTAIRS 539-9703

TAKE A "BUCKLE BREAK" AND SAVE!

THIS WEEKEND TAKE A BREAK AT BRASS BUCKLE...AND SAVE!

GUYS JEANS 14⁸⁸ AND 18⁸⁸! LONGSLEEVE DRESS SHIRTS 11⁸⁸ <small>INCLUDES KENNINGTON, LOREN SCOTT</small> SHORTSLEEVE SHIRTS 6⁸⁸ AND 11⁸⁸ <small>INCLUDES ALL SS KNIT SHIRTS</small> GUYS CORDS 18⁸⁸ ALL BELTS 20% OFF <small>ZEPELIN KENNINGTON</small> SUNDAY & LABOR DAY MONDAY ONLY! LEVI'S BOOT CUT & BIG BELLS 14⁹⁵ 10% OFF <small>ANY GUYS SWEATER AND SLACKS/CORD COMBINATION (ANY BRAND ANY PRICE!)</small> ALWAYS FREE ALTERATIONS! OPEN SUNDAY & LABOR DAY MONDAY AFTERNOON!	GALS FASHION DENIMS $5 OFF 19⁸⁸ 15⁸⁸ <small>ONE GROUP LOW AS</small> LITTLE GALS JEANS 20% OFF SHORTSLEEVE TOPS & SHIRTS 15 to 30% OFF GUYS COATS & JACKETS 10 to 20% OFF RABBIT FUR COATS 10% OFF <small>BUY NOW!</small> SKIRTS WOOL PLAIDS 20% OFF SWEATERS/BLOUSES 20% OFF CORDS/SLACKS 1/4 OFF <small>One Group</small> SUNDAY & LABOR DAY MONDAY ONLY! LEE STRAIGHT LEG JEANS 19⁹⁵ BRITANIA EL PASO JEAN 19⁹⁵ 10% OFF <small>REG. BLUE DENIM HEAVY DENIM 5 PKT</small> ANY SWEATER & CORD OR SLACKS COMBINATION (ANY BRAND ANY PRICE)
--	---

DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

Nancy Murfin and Randy's Trouble, five-year national champions in pole bending, complete a turn in one of the many "speed events" they competed in at a AQHA horse show in Washington, Kan. this past weekend.

Murfin straightens Investigator's reins before English equitation.

After completing the western horsemanship pattern, Murfin settles into her saddle.

An Unbeatable Combination

Showing registered quarter horses is a full-time job in itself, but Nancy Murfin, sophomore in education, finds time to carry a full-time class load.

However, "showing quarter horses is time-consuming and can sometimes interfere with school," she said.

Although Murfin has only shown in quarter horse shows for five years, she has been riding since she was three years old.

"My sister just put me on top of a horse one day, and I've been riding ever since," Murfin said. During grade school and high school, she participated in 4-H competition and was the 1981 Kansas High School All-Round-Cowgirl.

"To start showing horses, you must have a close friend who has already shown horses to help you get started," she said.

When Murfin started showing on the quarter horse circuit, she bought a higher quality horse than the one she used in 4-H competition. She then received training from Karen Russell, a Hutchinson trainer, for two years.

"After that, Ray Logan, a trainer from Augusta, helped me to polish up the rough ends," Murfin said.

She participates in the amateur showmanship, western pleasure, western horsemanship, western riding and English pleasure events. These events are all judged on the combination of the horse's and showman's ability to perform together as one unit. Murfin also enters pole bending which is a timed event, but it also takes coordination of both the rider and the horse together.

Murfin is currently showing three horses: Randy's Trouble, a 16-year-old mare; Investigator, a nine-year-old gelding; and Wells Sport, a four-year-old mare.

Murfin and Randy's Trouble lead the nation in cumulative points in pole bending. Points are figured by placings, the number in the class, and the show type. She also leads the nation in total horsemanship points with Investigator.

Some of her most impressive wins include: four-time national youth champion in pole bending; amateur national pole bending champion; and reserve world champion in both pleasure and pole bending. Murfin also was the youth pole bending champion at the All-American Quarter Horse Congress in Columbus, Ohio, which is the largest horse show in the world.

When looking for a horse to buy, Murfin looks for a refined, built horse that moves "nicely underneath" because that is what a judge looks for. She prefers to purchase a horse that is unknown to the show arena.

Murfin now trains her own horses. She works for about a year with each horse or until she feels the horse has mastered its event and then starts showing it. Once she has the horse to this stage, she doesn't work the horse in that event until the show so the horse will not get tired of performing.

"It would be like going to school all the time for me — after a while you would get sick of doing the same old thing," Murfin said.

While she is at school, Murfin has a man ride her horses for her. "All he does is just ride them around the barn, he doesn't try to train them," she said. When she goes home, she sometimes takes her horses swimming in a pond or just rides them in the pasture.

Murfin admits that it's hard to be a full-time student and show horses full-time. Not only because she is away from her horses, but because she misses so much school. Last year, the Quarter Horse Congress was during mid-terms, and she missed a week of school. She also goes to a show every weekend which adds to lost study time.

Although showing is time-consuming and costly, Murfin loves showing anyway because it is a family hobby. "It brings our family closer together," she said. When Murfin goes to a show, the whole family goes. Her father and sister also show in the amateur competition.

But despite the long hours and hard work, Murfin plans to continue showing throughout the rest of her undergraduate work.

story by Mark Meng
photos by
Allen Eyestone

Briefly

By The Associated Press

Bomb digs hole without exploding

OCALA NATIONAL FOREST, Fla. — A live 500-pound bomb went astray during Navy target practice and slammed into a woodland road here, creating a 2½-foot-deep hole even though it didn't explode, authorities say.

A dump truck blundered into the hole before the crater was filled in. "He saw the bomb coming down, but couldn't stop in time. He drove right in," said Ken Ergle, Marion sheriff's spokesman.

The general-purpose bomb was meant for the Navy bombing range a mile from the stretch of Forest Road 88 where it hit Tuesday afternoon.

The truck driver, Johnny Teate, 25, of Wildwood, waited for help, "apparently believing the bomb was a dud," Ergle said. But he found out otherwise from Navy bomb squad members who had been searching for the errant ordnance, and "he got out fast."

The road was closed, the bomb was defused by Navy experts and the crater was filled in, Ergle said.

Deputies recruit marijuana burners

WILLOWS, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies who found $48 million worth of marijuana plants growing among corn stalks recruited rescue squads, volunteer fire departments and state forestry officials Wednesday to help destroy the pot.

"There is such a large amount we've had to incorporate some help," deputy Peter Ramirez said. "It's just amazing what we found."

Four men were arrested Tuesday after an anonymous telephone tip led officers to the 60,000 plants on a 20-acre farm in Capay, about 80 miles northwest of Sacramento. Authorities said the pot was worth $48 million. More arrests were predicted.

"It was a major, sophisticated operation judging by the watering system, a balcony where they kept a lookout with high-powered binoculars and they had four dogs for watchdogs," Oliver said.

Some of the men tried to flee when about a dozen deputies arrived on the property, but offered no resistance when arrested, Oliver said.

The plants weighed about two pounds each cleaned of stalks and grew up to 6 feet high, he said.

The sheriff's department immediately began recruiting officials from search and rescue squads, fire departments, the California Department of Forestry and other agencies to pull out the illegal weeds by the roots, dump them into trucks and transport them to a burning site.

Booked for investigation of cultivation of marijuana and released on bail were James Weith, 40, of Capay, whom authorities said leased the farm; John Bjorklund, 19, of Salt Lake City; Michael Hoffman, 20, of San Jose; and David O'Brien, 38, of Orland.

Controversial school guide updated

NEW YORK — Campuses fumed a year and a half ago when The New York Times' education editor published a college guide that assigned schools star ratings as if they were restaurants. A revised edition will soon appear in book stores, and it seems designed to soothe at least some of its many critics.

The second edition of the "Selective Guide to Colleges," by Edward B. Fiske, (Times Books, $9.95) profiles 275 of the nation's most selective four-year schools — 10 more than the first edition published in the winter of 1982. That edition sold more than 80,000 copies.

The new edition, with a publication date of Sept. 28, changes the book's controversial star-rating system, which gave each school from one to five stars for academic quality, social life, and quality of life. The problem was that some schools — Brown University for one — added up the stars from all three categories and touted themselves as "12-star" or "14-star" schools.

This time, the book hopes to prevent that by assigning stars for academics, telephone-shaped symbols for social life, and asterisks for quality of life.

Americans slain on Colombian bus

BOGOTA, Colombia — A band of gunmen pulled three Americans off a bus in northern Colombia and shot them, killing two and wounding the third, the U.S. Embassy said Wednesday.

The two men killed in the attack Tuesday near the city of Riohacha were Gerald Burgin, 26, and Charles Lee, 25, and the wounded man — apparently left for dead — was James Joseph Mackenzie, said embassy press officer Al Laun.

Laun said he did not have their hometowns, but the Barranquilla daily newspaper El Heraldo said all were from Florida.

The three men were the only people taken off the bus and none of the other passengers was threatened or harmed, the paper said. It said they arrived in Colombia last week from Miami.

The Americans were on a bus that left Maicao, a smuggling center on the Venezuelan border, for Riohacha, a Caribbean port town in the heart of Colombia's marijuana-trafficking area, El Heraldo said. It added that the bus was stopped about three miles from Riohacha, the paper said.

Al Cooley, the U.S. consul in Barranquilla, said in a telephone interview that Mackenzie was hospitalized in Riohacha and authorities were considering transferring him to the town jail. His condition was not known.

Cooley said he had no details about the attack, but said a vice consul had gone to Riohacha to talk with Mackenzie.

Felon supervises school district

PLEASANT PLAINS, Ark. — A felon hired as superintendent of schools here six weeks after leaving prison said Wednesday that he wouldn't approve of just any convict running school operations.

Doug Adams, a former state representative who turned himself in for a crime committed while president of a bank, has been defending himself against the protests of scores of parents, who have picketed the school demanding that he be let go.

Adams, in a telephone interview, said not all felonies are alike. "It would depend on what the offense was and how it was handled," he said. "To me, there are different kinds of offenses."

Adams, 41, former president of First Security Bank of North Arkansas at Horseshoe Bend, served nine months for illegally obtaining more than $156,000 from the bank.

The school board hired Adams Aug. 25 to replace Hubert Long Jr., who resigned. A state representative from 1973 to 1978, Adams was one of eight candidates for the job.

One parent opposing the appointment, Doug Smith, said Wednesday that parents didn't know about Adams' criminal record before he was hired.

"When you're dealing with your children, a felon should be a felon," Smith said. "If you're right, you're right. If you're wrong, you're wrong."

Town battles over 'art'

VAIL, Colo. — Sculptor Claes Oldenburg wants to erect a giant orange fishing pole above a creek in this fashionable mountain town, but local residents are far from hooked on the idea.

The proposed $190,000 artwork would form an arc 160 feet long, almost half the length of a football field. Dangling from the tip would be its catch — a 50-gallon "tin can," which appears to have snared much of the opposition.

"I think it's sacrilegious to place a giant tin can in our stream and call it art, no matter who did it," said travel agency owner Jan Strauch.

But Mayor Rod Slifer likes the idea. He believes Oldenburg's steel fishing pole will shower prestige on Vail and provide a "cornerstone" for further artistic development.

SAVE AT ELEK-TEK

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
BA-11	33	PC-200 (NEW)	52
BA-35	22	TI-Programmer	50
TI-36-SP	17	TI-5040-II	49
BA-55	43	TI-5130	60
TI-55-II	33	TI-5142-II	75
TI-57	29	TI-5219	130
TI-66 (NEW)	52	TI-5310	97

$189

COMPACT COMPUTER 40
34K bytes of ROM, 6K bytes of RAM, Constant Memory Feature, Convenient plug-in applications software, Enhanced BASIC programming language, Easy-to-use typewriter-style (QWERTY) keyboard, Battery-powered, 31 character LCD display, Peripheral interface connector.
Big discounts on software and accessories too.

HEWLETT-PACKARD
LCD PROBLEM SOLVERS
HP-10C Scientific	$54
HP-11C Scientific	70
HP-15C Scientific	90
HP-12C Financial	90
HP-16C Programmer	90
HP-97 Desktop Scientific	560

HP-41C	$145
HP-41CV	200
Optical Wand	95
Card Reader	145
Printer (82143A)	283
Quad RAM (for HP-41C)	60

HP-11C ACCESSORIES
Ext. Memory Module	60
Ext. Function Module	60
Time Module	60
HP-11C Loop Module	95
Digital Cassette Drive	335
Printer (HP-11C)	335

WHILE LIMITED QUANTITIES LAST
50-60% off orig. mfr. suggested prices

HP-32E Scientific	32.50
HP-34C Scientific	50.00
HP-37E Financial	32.50

SAVE 75% OFF LIST ON
PC-1501 BASIC COMPILER
BASIC language, 1424 step program capacity with 26 memories, and 24 digit display
ORIGINAL LIST PRICE $40 ELEK-TEK $40.

TOLL FREE ORDER LINE
800-621-1249
EXCEPT Illinois, Alaska, Hawaii

KEEP THIS AD FOR FUTURE REFERENCE
IT WILL NOT BE REPEATED

Accessories discounted too. Maximum off may be used on phone. Mail Order's Cash, Money Order, Pay. Check (2 weeks only). Sorry no C.O.D.'s. Add $4.00 for item. $1.00 on add'l items. $1.00 shipping. In IL address add 6% tax. Prices valid to change. WRITE (no call) for free catalog. 30-day return policy for defective merchandise only. ALL ELEK-TEK MERCHANDISE IS BRAND NEW, 1ST QUALITY AND COMPLETE.

ELEK-TEK, Inc.
6057 N. Lincoln Ave. Chicago, IL 60645
(800) 621-1249 (312) 677-7840

Let's get together
with the
Wildcats on a road trip to Lexington

On September 8th thru the 11th
Plan now to join the Cats in Kentucky. A bus will leave on the evening of Sept. 8 and return on Sept. 11. The price is $150 to $180 per person which includes: full transportation, lodging, refreshments on the bus and a ticket to the game.

Make reservations
Call or write
Track Tours
Box 434
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
1-537-3723

"EYE OF THE WILDCAT"

Keep on Trackin' to our office for contact lenses

- Tinted (to change the color of your eyes)
- Extended Wear (to sleep with)
- Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- Regular type (for near and far sightedness)
- Toric (for astigmatism)
- Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Contact us for Replacement Lenses and Solutions in Stock.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock, P.A.
Practice of Optometry
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Manhattan, Ks.

When it comes to pizza, PTA comes to you.

Pizza Transit Authority

PTA'S GREAT PIZZA COUPON

537-9500

Feed a Group of Four For $7.00

Any Large 1-Item Pizza and 4-14 oz. Cups of Pepsi Delivered Free.

Not Good with Other Specials. Limit One Coupon Per Pizza. Expires Sept. 4, 83.

FREE DELIVERY
IN 30 MINUTES OR LESS
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

Jim Newton
Songweaver

In Concert
Sept. 6 7:30 p.m.
Forum Hall, K-State Union

Tickets $1.00 (at the door)

Free Mini-Concert 12:00 Noon
Union Courtyard

Jim Newton is loving, provides a sensitive blend of sound theology, good humor, penetrating, powerful and original music performed with artistic excellence.

Sponsored by American Baptist Campus Ministry and Ecumenical Christian Ministries

Labor Day Sale
Open September 5, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

20% off

Comfort blend action separates. Sale 7.20
Reg. $9. Face the elements in our toasty long-sleeve crewneck sweatshirt. Lots of solids in acrylic/cotton fleece. Gunmetal in acrylic/cotton/polyester. Men's sizes S,M,L,XL.

Sale 7.20
Reg. $9. Our matching sweatpants are comfortably detailed with drawstring waist and elasticized ankles. Men's sizes S,M,L,XL.

Sale $12
Reg. $15. For chilly morning runs, zip into this hooded sweatshirt that matches the pants. Men's sizes S,M,L,XL.

Sale 11.99
Plain Pockets® cords.
Reg. $15. The student in our Plain Pockets® boot-cut western jeans has 'he savings in his pocket! 14-rib cotton/polyester corduroy for men's waist sizes.

JCPenney
4th and Houston
Manhattan, KS

Store Hours:
Daily 9-6
Thursday 10-8:30
Sunday 12-5

Logos: JCPenney, VISA, MasterCard

File photo
K-State men's basketball coach Jack Hartman is greeted by University of Indiana coach Bobby Knight prior to last year's basketball game between the two schools. Hartman completed coaching the U.S. basketball team at the Pan American Games last week and Knight will be the basketball coach for the United States at the 1984 Olympics.

Hartman returns home following Pan Am win

By SEAN REILLY
Sports Editor

Home again after coaching in the Pan American Games in Caracas, Venezuela, K-State men's basketball coach, Jack Hartman, said he's glad to be back.

"Feels great to be back," Hartman said. "I did enjoy the stay in a foreign country."

Hartman's U.S. basketball team included college players from across the United States such as Big Eight Conference selection Wayman Tisdale of the University of Oklahoma. The team competed for two weeks against teams from other Western Hemisphere nations.

Hartman said the U.S. win of the gold medal was "very satisfying, needless to say, particularly in view of the short time we had together (two weeks) and the quality of the other teams."

Hartman commented that it was hard for American sports fans to appreciate the competition because they don't have the opportunity to see the other teams play.

As for the players, they were very excited, proud and happy to capture the gold medal, Hartman said.

"We had good bouts offensively. Different boys rose to the occasion offensively, which allowed us to use many players," he said.

Although the team arrived in Venezuela with 12 team members, it ended up with 10. Chris Mullins fractured a bone in his foot while playing an exhibition game against Puerto Rico and returned to the United States. Michael Cage also returned when he was notified that a family member was seriously ill.

"We played with 10 players, which presented a problem, especially when we had five games in five days the last week of competition."

With a limited number of players, Hartman said the team's performance went through a period of adjustment.

"When we first got there, our games were so-so — average at best. After a while, our game became much better. The two weakest games happened to be on television," Hartman said.

Fine performances were turned in by players like Tisdale and Sam Perkins of the University of North Carolina — two individuals Hartman said were consistently good.

"Everybody else had their moments," he said.

One adjustment the American players had to make was learning the international rules.

"The rules were not really that hard to get used to. One rule I did not know about concerned shouting at a player you were guarding while they shoot," Hartman said. "A player from our team shouted at a player

Continued on page 10

'Cats face tough non-conference foes

Could K-State's football team "Keep on Tracking" this year as the promotional slogan suggests?

Whether or not the Wildcats will live up to their motto may very well depend on how they do in their first four games against non-conference foes — as was the case last year.

Last season, K-State's football team began one of its most successful seasons by thumping its first three non-conference opponents: the University of Kentucky, South Dakota University and Wichita State University.

This year, the team begins its 88th season with three of its non-conference home games slated to be played under the recently-installed lights of KSU Stadium.

Starting his sixth season, Coach Jim Dickey and his staff will attempt to repeat or better last year's 6-5-1 record and receive another bowl bid.

Wildcat fans who are expecting a non-conference schedule as easy as last year's will be disappointed.

Facing the 49ers of California State University in Long Beach, in the first game of the season here this Saturday, the defense — particularly the inexperienced defensive secondary — will need to be prepared against a formidable opponent, quarterback Todd Dillon.

"You have a hard time finding someone else better in the conference," 49ers' head coach, Dave Currey, said of Dillon.

Dillon led the nation in Division IA in total offense with 3,587 yards, 3,517 of which were passing yards.

The 49ers, after a sluggish 1-3 start last season, closed the season with a 6-5-0 record — 5-1 in league play — which earned them second place in the pass-happy Pacific Coast Athletic Conference.

Though the information about

Dillon has been pounded into the K-State defensive secondary's heads, it may be to no avail if Dillon succeeds in exploiting the group's inexperience. This could mean a barrage of 59 passes — which he threw and threw against Fresno State University last season — or 453 yards — which he accumulated against San Jose State University in the same year.

Returning on the offense besides Dillon are seven players.

Running back Lenny Montgomery and fullback Alfred Rowe combined for nearly 800 yards on the ground last season, relieving the pressure on Dillon to throw.

At the receiver position, the 49ers return five players — each of whom caught more than twenty passes last season.

The 49ers also welcome back three members of the defensive line, assuring experience.

The next scheduled opponent is the University of Kentucky, which finished last season with a dismal 0-10-1 record.

Kentucky's only tie last season came against the University of Kansas.

When K-State played Kentucky last season, it marked the trail to a bowl appearance. In that game, the Cats dominated the game, winning by a score of 23-9.

That game was also the first test of the redshirt program Dickey had implemented the season before when he selected 17 players, including eight senior starters, to sit out a full year.

In that game, however, the Cats scored their touchdowns as a result of miscues. Kentucky mishandled three kickoffs.

It also must be remembered that the Cats were only ahead by a 13-2 score during the early moments of the fourth quarter, so K-State must be wary of this year's contest. The game will be played at Lexington, Ky.

Kentucky returns only five players on offense including tailback George Adams, Randy Jenkins at quarterback and a total of six on defense, anchored by defensive back Brian Williams.

It may be out of the question to ask whether Kentucky can be an improved team as they face at least three teams ranked among the top twenty in pre-season polls: Auburn University, University of Georgia and Louisiana State University.

The Cats may have a lot to "croak" about following their home stand against their third opponent, the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University. Not much is known about this team other than that some experts forecast they will be a surprise team in the strong Southwest Conference.

Of course they will not stand a chance in finishing ahead of perennial first-division teams such as the University of Texas, Southern Methodist University and the University of Arkansas, but they still may be able to improve upon their record of 3-8-0 last year.

The Horned Frogs have a new coach and have already moved some personnel around, with the biggest change being the conversion of defensive back Egypt Allen — a high school all-American — to running back. Since Allen was reported to have had an outstanding spring training, look for him to take the ball north and south for big numbers this year.

With Allen, the offensive backfield will be the best aspect of the team, along with an improved offensive line.

"We will be good defensively," Coach Jim Wacker said.

The last non-conference opponent game may virtually turn out to be a shootout between the Wildcats and the Cowboys of the University of Wyoming, who finished 5-7-0 last year.

The Cowboys' biggest problem last season was trying to find a quarterback they could depend on. However, Coach Al Kincaid recruited a quarterback, Ernie Jackson, who may cure the team's passing woes.

The Cowboys, however, may experience a different problem this season — depth. They lack capable backups in every position.

Wyoming's quarterback situation and lacking depth could remind one of what K-State's scenario is like at the present, so look for those two to engage in a "hot damn, bar the doors, Kat!" game that just may determine who has the better quarterback and depth.

A review of the rest of K-State's football schedule will be released right before conference play begins (when I get a better idea of what the Cats' chances will be in the Big Eight following the non-conference showing).

Wilander wins in second day of Open

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Fifth-seeded Mats Wilander advanced into the second round of the United States Open Tennis Championships Wednesday with a 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Guy Forget in a battle of teen-agers.

The match opened the second day of action under leaden skies at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow.

Wilander dropped the first set to the 18-year-old left-hander from France, but recovered, losing only five more games in the next three sets.

Wilander, who celebrated his 19th birthday a week ago, was one of the pre-tournament favorites at the Open after defeating top seeds John McEnroe and Ivan Lendl at the ATP tournament in Cincinnati two weeks ago.

France's Yannick Noah, showing no ill effects from his knee injury or from a rain delay, defeated young Scott Davis 6-1, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4 Wednesday in a first-round match in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The fourth-seeded Noah, who captured the French Open in May — the first Frenchman to win that clay court title since 1946 — was joined in the second round by Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, the No. 2 seed, who brushed aside Florin Segarceanu of Romania 6-2, 6-0, 6-2 at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow, and No. 5 Mats Wilander of Sweden, who stopped Guy Forget of France 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Also winning her opening-round match Wednesday was defending women's champion Chris Evert Lloyd, who dropped the first game before crushing Britain's Shelly Walpole 6-1, 6-0.

Noah has played only one Volvo Grand Prix tournament since the French Open — partly because of a 42-day suspension and because of tendinitis in his right knee.

The injury forced him to retire during a match in the Players' International tournament in Montreal, and he later pulled out of the ATP Championships for the same reason.

Against Davis, a member of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup team and a qualifier here, Noah's all-court game was in command. The match was delayed for 75 minutes after Davis held serve to begin the fourth set. But Noah got the only service break he needed in the seventh game, then served out for the match.

The rain put off the first-round match of Martina Navratilova, the top women's seed. She will meet Emilie Raponi Longo of Argentina in the first match on Thursday.

Besides Lloyd, other seeded women who won their opening-round matches Wednesday included No. 9

Andrea Temesvari of Hungary, No. 14 Jo Durie of Britain, No. 10 Zina Garrison, No. 13 Barbara Potter and No. 13 Claudia Kohde of West Germany.

Temesvari stopped Jill Davis 6-3, 7-6; Durie ousted Ros Fairbank of South Africa 6-1, 6-3; Garrison eliminated Leigh Thompson 7-5, 6-1 and Kohde defeated Marie-Christine Calleja of France 6-2, 6-2.

Other seeded men who advanced were No. 12 Johann Kriek, who ousted Harold Solomon 5-7, 7-5, 7-5, 6-4; and No. 13 Steve Denton, who stopped Mike Gandolfo 7-6, 6-4, 6-4.

"I'm not the greatest starter," Lloyd admitted when asked about dropping the opening game. "That's why when I win the toss, I choose to receive serve."

After that, it was a breeze for the women's No. 2 seed as she reeled off the next 12 games.

Team aim: to win

By TIM FILBY
Collegian Reporter

With a winning 1983 softball season behind him, K-State's best since 1977, Coach Ralph Currie expects his team to be just as successful this year.

Last year, the softball team finished 20-16. The highlight of the season came during the Big Eight Conference tournament when K-State upset Oklahoma State University — ranked fifth in the nation at the time. K-State went on to finish fourth in the tournament.

Currie said it is time for K-State to move up in Big Eight competition.

"Our softball program has been down a long time, so it's time we showed people that K-State can play softball," he said.

Currie returns four starters from last year's team: Rachelle Borders, Annette Kirkham, Pam Rufener and Leslie Taylor.

Rufener, a senior first baseman, is the top performer from last season, Currie said. She batted .319 to lead last year's squad.

Borders, a third baseman, is the only other returning senior on the squad. Kirkham and Taylor play at catcher and left field respectively, and both are sophomores.

The team would have had a fifth returning starter back this year but Kelly Scoles, all-Big Eight shortstop last year, did not return to the team because of scholastic problems, Currie said. He said he may move Taylor from the left field spot to fill the position left by Scoles.

K-State has added several new recruits: junior college transfers Kathy Gilpatrick, Sherri Chacey and Donna Osborne — all of whom will see playing time this year, Currie said.

Gilpatrick, a pitcher, pitched in a state tournament in California this summer and was credited with one win. Chacey, a catcher, was a junior college second-team all-American last season. Outfielder Osborne is a "good fielder," Currie said.

Four freshmen also have joined the squad. Joyce Holly, an outfielder from Manhattan; Alise Wilson, a pitcher from Kansas City; Cindy Campbell, a catcher from Topeka; and Susie Buchman, an infielder from Paola are all good prospects, Currie said.

He said that although this year's team will be young, it will still be competitive.

"We'll make mistakes at the start of the season," Currie said. "It will be a matter of getting the team to play together, but I think we'll do fine."

The fact that several players have had tournament experience in the Big Eight and from summer leagues will be important toward the latter part of the season, Currie said.

This season, like last year, Currie plans to stress defense to his club.

"Defense is the most important part of the game," Currie said. "In practice, we'll work on defense 75 percent of the time and hitting the other 25 percent."

Last season, K-State had only one player with a batting average over .300 yet they still won 20 games, primarily because of their defense, Currie said.

Although the team will be defensive-minded, its hitting should be better this season, Currie said.

"Holly, Rufener, Wilson and Borders can all hit really well," Currie said. "The key offensively this season will be to score runners when we get them on base."

Alise Willson unleashes a pitch during batting practice during the women's softball team's second practice Tuesday.

Staff/Allen Eystone

Coach 'starting over' with ball squad

By GARY VAN CLEAVE
Collegian Reporter

John Lennon said it best when he sang his hit single "Starting Over." Starting over — that's just what the K-State baseball program is doing after struggling to an 18-25 record in 1982. It started the season with 16 wins in its first 20 games.

Coach Bill Hickey and several first-year players he spent most of the summer recruiting are all part of the program's new start.

Hickey plans on building his ball club around key veterans returning from last year and quality first-year players.

Hickey has put his squad through workouts for 1½ weeks, and although he still doesn't know how many will try out (walk-ons try out today), he said he definitely likes the quality of the 33 players he currently has on the field working out.

"I'd say the biggest thing we can say about our players right now is their attitude and willingness to listen," Hickey said. "They've shown they want to learn to win. They've come out and spent three to four hours every day for the past 1"

Baseball team tryouts today weeks just on instructional work."

"It's easy for the kids at this age to just hang back and not do anything, but these kids haven't," he said. "They've been eager to be out here. We're impressed with that."

Looking at some of last year's returnees, Hickey named four players who are expected to help carry the club with their leadership.

Outfielder Eric Gossett is coming off an eye injury he suffered last year when he batted .268. He played in 22 of 43 games, but his most impressive statistic is that he did not make an error in 60 put-out chances.

Catcher Steve Goodwin has the highest batting average among the returnees. He clipped along at a .275 pace in 38 games and tied with Mark Teague and Cary Colbert in home runs with four.

Two others listed by Hickey — a former K-State baseball player — are Jack Fritz and Jay Kvasnicka. "Jack played as a utility infielder, and he gives us that distinction of being a little older and more experienced," Hickey said. "He's been able to help some of the younger kids adjust to some of the play they're going to have to go through here."

"Kvasnicka, who batted .262 in 41 games, has been around the league two years. I think he's going to be a great asset in the infield because of his experience."

"We've got four pitchers who have been around the conference. They understand what it's going to take to play at Kansas State and what it takes to play against Oklahoma," Hickey said in reference to Gerry Zimmerman, 0-2 and team leader with 40 strike outs; Scott Lichlyter, 2-1, 5.14 earned run average; Mike Wilkerson, 5-5, 4.50 ERA; and Lynn Lichter, 2-3 and team leader with two saves out of the bullpen.

Asked to remark about some of his top newcomers, Hickey stared at his players and said with a smile, "Spurgeon (catcher Scott), he's big and strong (5-foot-11, 208 pounds). He makes a lot of mistakes, but he's going to hit the ball for us."

"John Tirrell is going to be a great second baseman at Kansas State, it's just (that) he's got to get a little maturity on him."

"We've got a couple of kids at third base right now, Jim Dowty and Mike Jones, who both have great speed. We're talking about getting down the first-base line (90 feet) in 4.0 or 4.1 seconds, and that's extremely quick."

Two freshmen pitchers should see considerable action for Hickey this fall and next spring, when the real season starts.

"Tim McKinnis is 100 percent better than when I saw him last summer," Hickey said. "I liked him last summer when I recruited him, but in these last couple weeks, he's made great improvements fundamentally, and he's ahead of where I expected him to be."

"Rick Carriger is going to be a solid pitcher for us. He's got a lot of experience as a senior out of Oklahoma. He's pitched against teams from the Tulsa, Bartlesville and Oklahoma City areas, so he's faced a lot of good ballclubs."

"As for evaluating both these guys, physically, they're both the same. Timmy just needs that game experience to get himself going. Rick needs it, but he's had a little higher level of play. Both are going to be fine young pitchers."

Another first-year signee is Manhattan High graduate Todd Thamer. Thamer is a junior after playing the last two years at Oscar Rose Junior College in Midwest City, Okla.

Hickey originally planned to put Thamer in the outfield, but moved him to shortstop. Hickey said Thamer possesses great speed.

"This may be the best speed K-State's had in the last four to five years. Right now, we've got about four kids that can really run," Hickey said.

"But again, they're young. Maybe that's going to be the greatest thing about watching these kids mature as we go through the year," he added.

"We're not looking at them whipping the Big Eight teams, but they're going to be in every ballgame because they're going to be fighters," said an optimistic Hickey.

Walk-on tryouts for the baseball team are scheduled for 3 p.m. at Frank Meyers Field.

Hickey currently has 33 players working out, but said he hopes to pick up a few walk-on players.

Hartman returns

Continued from page 9

and received a technical foul."

The Americans also had problems with their living conditions, Hartman said.

"The conditions were deplorable. Nothing was finished when we got there. The plumbing was unreliable and the workers were around when we got there."

After a week in the housing provided, Hartman moved his team to the Caracas Hilton. Other coaches did the same.

During the Pan American competition, it was reported nearly everyday that drugs had been used by some individuals. The basketball team was checked after every game for the presence of illegal drugs.

"After each game, a player was selected from each team to undergo testing to determine if any drugs were present. The only problem it presented for us was waiting for the player to be released. Sometimes it would take an hour or even two."

It was policy at the Pan Am games for officials to randomly test one individual from a team sport to determine whether any illegal substances were present.

Hartman said he is unaware of drug use by college athletes in the United States. "I never think about it. In coaching basketball, it just never comes up," he said.

Asked what suggestions he could lend to future Pan Am games, Hartman said, "I question whether a country should host the games if they are not financially capable to do so. The games were a big political issue in Venezuela, which is one reason the place was not finished when we arrived."

Moses breaks record

By The Associated Press

KOBLENZ, West Germany — Edwin Moses of the United States established a world record in the 400-meter hurdles Wednesday with a time of 47.02 seconds, improving his own previous mark of 47.13 established July 3 in Milan, Italy.

Moses' record came at the start of an international track and field competition in this Rhineland city.

It marked the fourth time that Moses improved on the 400-meters hurdles record.

Before Milan, he had run 47.45 in Los Angeles in 1977 to improve his previous mark of 47.64 in Montreal a year earlier.

Prior to Moses, John Akili-Bua of Uganda had been the world record holder with a 47.82 timing established at the Munich Olympics in 1972.

Second behind Moses was Andre Phillips of the United States, who was clocked at 48.26 and third, American David Lee in 48.65.

West Germans Harald Schmidt, 48.92, and Uwe Schmidt, 50.36, took the other places in a competition run in perfect summer weather.

Major League Standings

NATIONAL LEAGUE					AMERICAN LEAGUE
East Division					East Division
Pittsburgh	W	L	Pct.	GB	Baltimore	W	L	Pct.	GB
Philadelphia	66	63	.519	—	Milwaukee	77	52	.597	—
Montreal	66	64	.508	1½	Detroit	74	57	.565	4
St. Louis	65	65	.500	2½	New York	72	57	.558	5
Chicago	59	73	.447	9½	Toronto	72	62	.537	7½
New York	55	78	.414	14	Boston	63	69	.477	15½
					Cleveland	57	76	.429	22
West Division					West Division
Los Angeles	77	55	.583	—	Chicago	75	57	.568	—
Atlanta	76	57	.571	1½	Kansas City	64	67	.489	10½
Houston	70	62	.530	7	Oakland	65	69	.489	11
San Diego	66	69	.489	12½	Texas	61	72	.459	14½
San Francisco	63	70	.474	14½	California	61	71	.462	14
Cincinnati	61	73	.455	17	Minnesota	57	76	.429	18½
					Seattle	50	82	.379	25

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

May you run free as a Fox.

If there's radar, SuperFox Vixen will let you know with plenty of time to spare. Its super-heterodyne power gives you up to ten times the range and sensitivity of ordinary radar detectors. And, like every Fox, SuperFox Vixen is backed by Fox's exclusive limited lifetime warranty.

Ride free. Ride with the Fox.

4 Models in Stock

Starting at $95.00

Stereo Factory

1126 Moro 776-5507

KSU Horticulture Club

will hold its first meeting Thursday, Sept. 1 in Waters 244

Everyone's Welcome!

10% off all DANSKIN Leotards & Tights and Capezio Ballet & Toe Shoes . . .

at Ballard's Sporting Goods —headquarters for your dance and exercise apparel needs.

Kitchens Plus
"Auntie Em"
T-Shirts
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046 The "Department" Store

Bockers Two
T.N.T.
Toss "N"
TEQUILA
50¢ TACOS
with drinks
$1.00 Margaritas
4-7 p.m.
Starring John Hajda
4-6 p.m.
Members & Guests only
At the Ramada Inn

Little Sister Rush Party

Thursday, Sept. 1-7:30 p.m.

Fiji House (Phi Gamma Delta)
1614 Fairchild

If transportation needed, call 539-9711

Pizza Hut Sport Bag $1.00

Get this durable nylon sport bag for just $1.00 when you buy a medium or large pizza at regular price at a participating Pizza Hut® restaurant.

Offer good while supplies last. Not valid in combination with any other Pizza Hut® offer. Offer good with eat-in or carryout purchase.
© 1983 Pizza Hut, Inc.

AGGIEVILLE
WESTLOOP
3RD & MORO

539-7666
539-7447
776-4334

FOR DELIVERY CALL • 539-7666

Experience the Basics Be all you can be Army ROTC

Army ROTC Fall Schedule

COURSE	TITLE	CR	HR	SECT	TYPE	REF	No.	DAYS	HOURS
MSCI 100	Mountaineering	01	A	REC		17050	M		0230
		01	B	REC		17060	M		0330
		01	C	REC		17070	T		0330
MSCI 102	Basic Riflery	01	D	REC		17080	W		0830
		01	A	REC		17090	M		0830
		01	B	REC		17100	M		0930
		01	C	REC		17110	T		0830
		01	D	REC		17120	T		0930
		01	E	REC		17130	W		0830
		01	F	REC		17140	W		0930
		01	G	REC		17150	W		0230
MSCI 103	Orienteering	01	H	REC		17160	U		0830
		01	I	REC		17170	APPT
		01	A	REC		17180	T		0830
		01	B	REC		17190	T		0130
MSCI 200	Leadership & Leaders	01	C	REC		17200	W		0830
		01	A	REC		17210	M		0930
		01	B	REC		17220	T		0130
MSCI 201	Leadership Guidance	01	A	REC		17230	U		0830
		01	B	REC		17240	U		0130
MSCI 202	Map Reading	01	A	REC		17250	M		0930
		01	B	REC		17260	W		0930
MSCI 203	Care of Combat Casualty	01	A	REC		17270	M		0830
		01	B	REC		17280	T		0830
		01	C	REC		17290	T		0930

Classified

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Octoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

FREE BEER, free pool when you join the fight against M.D. this week-end at J. Riggs West. Pool-a-thon players free beer. Pick-up M.D.A. package today. Budweiser Auction Monday at 2:00 p.m. Beer signs, clocks, etc. to the highest bidder. K-State, KU Challenge Match Monday at 3:00 p.m. Open all night Sunday. Free pool with donation to M.D. Join us this Labor Day. J. Riggs West, 317 Poyntz. (7-10)

THE VARSITY of the K-State Crew Team will have a meeting Thursday, September 1 at 8:30 p.m. in Room 208 in the Union. (8-9)

EXECUTIVE POSITION—Travel, responsibility, excellent benefits. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (9)

LAMBDA CHI Alpha will host a Little Sister Rush Party next Tuesday, September 6 at 8:00 p.m. (9)

HEY K-STATERS—The 1983 KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race is coming. Independent teams welcome. Contact Lee (532-3424) or Keith (532-3657) for more information. Let's win! (9-12)

ATTENTION 02

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10)

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

ROCK BAND with professional intentions is seeking lead guitarist, able to learn material quickly. Call 537-7738. (8-10)

SCHOLARSHIP MONEY

for those who qualify
call AIR FORCE ROTC
532-6600

HAVING A party? Experienced D.J.'s available. Reasonable rates. Contact Doug or Mike at 776-9771 anytime. Acoustical Atmosphere's. (8-10)

WHEN IT'S party time, call D.J. Dave Guthals, 539-7512. Vast music selection. Top quality equipment. Lots and lots of experience, 539-7512. (9-13)

HEY K-STATERS—Don't miss out on the fun of the KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. (9-12)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeups, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

PRIVATE ROOM for grad or senior, non-smoking male. Newly decorated, private entrance, two blocks from college. 539-2703. (8-9)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (81f)

GARAGE FOR rent. Call 537-2130. (8-10)

GARAGE—1131 Valtier, one block from campus. $25 for hall, $40 for all per month. Call 776-5682 evenings. (8-12)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210/month, 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0569. (5-14)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment available September 1st. One person to take over lease until May 31. Call 537-3898. (5-9)

EXCELLENT FOR upperclassman, graduate student or married couple. Only one-bedroom mobile home left to rent. Has study, air conditioner, clean quiet location. Campus one mile. No children, no pets. 537-8389, or 537-8494. (7-10)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition. 37,000 miles. $5,500 or best offer. Call 776-0131. (8-11)

1976 AUDI Fox, four-speed, sun roof, AM-FM, great gas mileage. $900. Call 539-1268. (7-9)

1969 MERCURY, 4-door, air conditioning. Runs well, good condition mechanically. Call 776-1812 after 5:00 p.m. (8-10)

1966 MUSTANG; 1969 Bel-Air, four door; 1946 Chevy, two door; $400 each or best offer. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risque greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paperbacks, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

SAILBOAT—14' Laser Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (9-10)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

YAMAHA ACOUSTIC guitar. Excellent condition, like new. Price negotiable. Call Grub at 537-0967. (6-10)

EP COMP 1 water ski. Excellent condition. Call 539-1135. (8-9)

WOMEN'S 10-speed, 24-inch Huffy touring bike. Call 776-0620 after 6:00 p.m. (8-10)

DESK, (TOP 2' x 3'), $25; double bed frame, $12; trombone (reasonable). Call 539-3439. (7-9)

TYPEWRITER—PORTABLE. Smith-Corona, manual, works perfectly. $50. Call 539-6357. (7-9)

FOR SALE. Small 110 volt dryer. Great for apartments. $60. Call 537-4341, after 4:00 p.m. (7-10)

NEW DUNLOP tires. Three 6-50-13 inch, 4 ply, $30 each. Call 539-7918. (7-9)

CAR STEREO—Fujitsu 10 and/or four speakers. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

OLDS AMBASSADOR saxophone. Excellent condition. Price negotiable. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

10-SPD bike, good condition, for school/work, $75. Flute with case/stand, excellent condition, $150. Call 537-1123. (8-10)

YAMAHA CR-240 stereo receiver, Akai GXC-7400 cassette deck. Both in excellent condition! 537-9328. (8-10)

SCHWINN VOYAGEUR 11.8, 12-speed, 24" frame. Excellent condition. $250. Call 539-5249. (8-10)

MOTORS-FORD 360, $100; Chevy 216, $100; Chevy three-speed, $50. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

KING-SIZE water bed, complete, $150. Call 776-5677. (8-10)

KAYAK, SPRAY skirt. Voyageur flotation bag, $75. Call 539-8484 after 10:00 p.m. (9-10)

SONY VTR 25 receiver, Pioneer PC-115D turntable, Pioneer CF-4242 cassette deck. All good condition. Call 537-9313. (9-11)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08

MOBILE HOME, September 1st—Five rooms, bath, close Manhattan, small court, patio, privacy, $5,000. Mornings, late evenings 1-456-7634. (5-9)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

HONDA MOPED for sale—excellent condition. For information call 539-0894. (4-9)

1978 AAF moped, low mileage, excellent condition. $165. Call 537-8771 after 5:00 p.m. or weekends. (81f)

FOR SALE. 1977 Honda 750-4, very good shape. Must go! 776-3718 after 6:30 p.m. (8-10)

FOUND 10

FOUND: SET of keys left in Registrar's Office. Identify and claim in Anderson 118. (7-9)

KEYS FOUND on campus. Call 539-7864 after 7:00 p.m. to describe and claim. (7-9)

SIX KEYS on silver ring found in Umlberger Hall, room 317. Call 532-5566 to identify and claim. Ask for Kay. (8-10)

FREE 11

FREE KITTEN—playful, trained. Call 539-9553 after 5:00 p.m. (8-9)

GARAGE SALES 12

WOWEEEEEE! LOTS of student stuff and more. Popcorn poppers, beanbag chair, room stuff, furniture, appliances, rugs, baby accessories. Saturday, 8:00 a.m., 1008 North 8th, between Kearney and Thurston. (9-10)

FOUR FAMILY Yard Sale—2422 Rogers, Friday 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Saturday 8:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. Clarinet, bicycles, furniture, new fabric, toys, go cart, mini bike, color TV, jeans (all sizes), clothing, new ceramic tile, sewing machine, children's desks and chairs, aquarium, snow suit. No checks. Rain or shine. (9-10)

HELP WANTED 13

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn free trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures. 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

EARN $500 or more each school year. Flexible hours. Monthly payment for placing posters on campus. Bonus based on results. Prizes awarded as well. 1-800-526-0883. (3-9)

J. RIGGS West now accepting applications for part-time fall employees. 317 Poyntz. Call 776-6338. (7-9)

EXTENSION ASSISTANT/Temporary, full time, assist in the development of microcomputer software for the production of Kansas corn M.S. in Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Entomology, or Agricultural Economics, experience or training in agricultural production, and good communication skills required. Responsibilities: Collection and documentation of information for decision algorithms, and field testing software packages. Contact Dr. F.L. Poston, Department of Entomology, Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506. From: 913-532-1514. Kansas State University is an equal employment/affirmative action employer. (7-11)

NEED FARM help with farm experience. No smokers. Your spare time during week and weekends 776-5255. (8-12)

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST for independent clinical laboratory. Experience preferred. Part-time. Send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502. (8-14)

FULL TIME service station attendant, 54 hours/week, 2:30-11:30 p.m. Klepper Oil Co., 223 North 3rd. (8-10)

PART-TIME Secretary/Bookkeeper. Big Lakes Regional Council. Monday-Friday, 25 hours per week. Starting Salary $4.50 per hour. Experience preferred. Contact Council Office, 1006 Poyntz, Manhattan, 776-4859. Applications will be accepted through September 2, 1983. (9-10)

LOST 14

WORRIED ABOUT my kids! Lost near Aggieville and campus. Neutered male cat, 10-15 pounds, yellow and white, declawed. Three-month female kitten, beige and white patches. 537-3645. (5-10)

LOST—RED Levi's wallet. I would appreciate its return. No questions asked. Reward. Call 539-5156. (8-9)

LOST: WALLET, northeast campus. Reward! Call Ron at 776-0820. (9)

NOTICES 15

NOW ACCEPTING full-time children for Puppetland, an all day nursery, with an accelerated educational program, a degree teacher, and a small group ratio of 1 to 5. 539-1514 (jean). (8-10)

GET PSYCHED for the Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. More information contact Keith, 532-3657 or Lee, 532-3425. (9-12)

OPEN HOUSE at Living Learning School, 1011 Osage, Sunday, September 4, 2:00-4:00 p.m. Enrollment available for students ages four and up. (9-10)

LEAN GREENS! All your can eat! Super Salad Bar. Pile your plate high with fruit, salads, and fresh veggies. Don't forget the cheddar block and homemade bread! 4:30-6:30 p.m. tonight only in the K-State Union Staircase! (9)

PERSONAL 16

POOCH: HOW'S life at the old age of 21? Remember, if things get rough, just take the derivative and set it equal to zero. No, Lisa doesn't live here. Happy Day after the big 21 Birthday! Your partners in crime—Brenda and Leanne. P.S.—Beware of "T-parties!" (9)

WEST FIVE Little Sisters—Swannie's was a good start. Mariell 1. (9)

ZETA TAU Alpha, Linda Funk! I can't think of a better way to spend a day than with you, my forever friend! Tri-sig love, Mary Ann. (9)

TO THE Women of Ford Four: The Men of Haymaker 1 say it's love at first sight! Be prepared for an awesome time at Big Ern's in September, fersher! Love, Hay 1. (9)

TRACI LYNN—The next time we go running, please wear your knee pads! Love ya bunches, Jeff. (9)

CHI CHI: Happy Birthday! May your chimne change be hot one tonight! From your co-workers, Squeaky, Boomer and Brillo. (9)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

CHRISTIAN MALES looking for two non-smoking roommates. Large five-bedroom house, $87.50 per month plus utilities. 776-4546. (8-10)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice two bedroom apartment with three other girls. $112 a month, close to campus. If interested stop by 1010 Thurston, apartment 7. Evenings best. (8-10)

TWO MALE roommates to share four bedroom house. Private room, $100 per month, one-fourth utilities. Call 537-2935 after 5:00 p.m. (7-11)

FEMALE WANTED to share a five bedroom house, $140 per month plus utilities. For more information call Mary, 539-9372. (7-9)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female to share two-bedroom apartment three blocks from campus, $12.50 a month plus utilities. 537-0654. (7-10)

MALE ROOMMATE needed to share nice, furnished, two-bedroom apartment. First semester only. $150 plus one-half utilities. Call 776-8388 after 6:30 p.m. (8-10)

MALE TO share six bedroom, three baths. Very close to campus, own room. $220/month. Includes all utilities, food, rent. Call 539-5837. (8-9)

THREE NON-SMOKING roommates needed to share a spacious, furnished, three-story house. Furnished, washer/dryer. Call 776-0281. (8-12)

NEEDED—ONE male roommate. Private room, can be furnished. Water, trash paid. Off-street parking. Deposit needed. $130 negotiable. 537-4753. (8-12)

ONE OR two roommates needed to fill three-bedroom house, three blocks from campus, five from Aggieville. Water, trash paid. Fireplace, two-car garage, private pool. $175 for one or $240 for two. Deposit required. 537-4753. (8-12)

WANTED—FEMALE roommate for apartment, $130/month plus one-third electricity—share bedroom. Great location. 539-0884. (8-9)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL. Own room, full, spring and summer. $135 month, 1320 Laramie. 537-3645. (8-12)

WANTED—NON-SMOKING male roommate to share one-bedroom apartment close to campus for fall semester only. Call 776-0893. (8-10)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted to share apartment close to campus. Washer/dryer, patio, deck. $117.50. Call 539-1658. (8-10)

WANTED: FEMALE, studious upperclassman to share trailer house. $75/month plus utilities. Call 776-8358. (8-10)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female roommate, $175/month, all utilities paid. Call 539-6626. (8-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share house with three other girls. Private room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 537-0708. (9-12)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share nice duplex, own bedroom. Call 776-1530 after 6:00 p.m. or 1-738-2623 during weekend. (9-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice house. $85 a month plus one-half utilities. Walking distance to campus and downtown. Graduate student preferred. Call 537-1570. (9-11)

ROOMMATE: STUDIOUS male to share three bedroom house. Will have private bedroom—$100 a month rent. Call 539-6711. (9-12)

ROOMMATE WANTED—One-fourth rent, utilities, own room, washer, dryer, off-street parking. Call 539-9214. (9-11)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share one-bedroom apartment six blocks from campus. $105/month plus utilities. Call 539-7973. (9-14)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8637. (3-30)

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service

1-494-2388, St. George

TYPING EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (5-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-6528. (8-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (8-15)

NEED A tutor? Physics 500 and lower. Math 400 and lower. Call Mike at 776-9056. (8-10)

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-6174. (71f)

TICKETS!

The Sports Fan-atic buys and sells tickets for local sporting events—both advance and last minute. Come by in person, or call 539-0525 or (539)9849. Several reserved tickets available: $5.00, $6.00 & $7.00. Long Beach State. Call Now!

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials. 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 1983. Call Elaine Bernhill, Independent Beauty Consultant, 537-3233 days, 1-456-7251 evenings. (7-29)

COSTUMES By the thousands. Complete rabbits, chickens, gorillas, tigers, bears and more. Flappers, Play Boy Bunnies, French maid, dance hall girls, much more. Ask for whatever you'd like to reserve now for Halloween. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (9-50)

EXPERIENCED CHILD care—Full time, hot lunch, snacks, fenced yard. Northview. Two and up. 776-8523. (9-12)

TRISH'S TYPING Service—Everything from letters to dissertations. Call Trish after 5:30 p.m. at 539-6263. (9-19)

WANTED 21

FAMILY WOULD like college girl to live in for school year. Food and room in exchange for help. Write Box 2, c/o Collegian. (8-9)

DRUMMER LOOKING for band: or keyboard and lead guitarists. Call 537-0498. Leaves message. (9-10)

WANTED TO BUY 22

FREEZER: 5-10 cubic foot, upright. Evenings call 537-3751. (9-10)

WANTED TO buy: A twin size mattress and box springs. Call 532-3698. (9-12)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Rough try
5 Ninny
8 Andy's partner
12 Attraction
13 Famed pharaoh, for short
14 Den
15 Solar disc
16 Health resort
17 European capital
18 Strength
20 Talk crazily
22 Road illuminators
26 Sire
29 Crimson
30 Wolf down
31 Bauxite et al.
32 Drill need
33 Walk nervously
34 Pose
35 Wrath
36 Bereaved one
- 37 School VIP
40 Southwestern
41 Basis

University cancer center provides communication, research

By JOAN SEITZER
Collegian Reporter

One of four individuals will contract cancer in their lifetimes, and faculty and students at the K-State Center for Basic Cancer Research are studying anti-cancer treatments and how cancer develops in an effort to combat the disease.

"Every individual will be touched, either directly or indirectly, by cancer in their lifetime, so the K-State scientists are seeking basic information to understand cancer and improve chemotherapy," said Dr. Terry Johnson, director of the center and the Division of Biology.

Research for the center is done in laboratories across campus, including those in the departments of biology, chemistry, foods and nutrition, laboratory medicine, and biochemistry.

The center is the only such center in Kansas and serves as a communication and research vehicle for Kansans and the surrounding states, Johnson said.

Illness postpones Biggs performance

By The Collegian Staff

The John Biggs concert has been cancelled. Biggs was scheduled to play at the Catskeller at 8:00 tonight, but cancelled the performance because of illness.

Although the show has been cancelled, there is a chance Biggs will perform here later this semester.

"We are trying to reschedule the concert. We just feel terrible about it, and so does he," said Marilyn Gilbert, program adviser for the Union Program Council.

Biggs, a Manhattan native and K-State graduate, is a folk singer. He has toured with recording artists such as the Atlanta Rhythm Section, Pablo Cruise, Anne Murray and the Ozark Mountain Daredevils. He has also toured throughout the United States and Western Europe.

Man charged in rape case

By The Collegian Staff

A man has been charged by Riley County Attorney Colt Knutsen with rape and sodomy.

Between 2:30 and 3 p.m. Friday, Aug. 26, the man allegedly forced his way into a central Manhattan home and raped a 19-year-old woman and forced her 20-year-old boyfriend to perform acts of sodomy.

The man is being held in the Riley County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond. A preliminary hearing is pending.

Kitchens Plus
BANDANAS
48 colors
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046 The Department Store

"Cancer research has existed for about 20 years at K-State, but only within the past two to three years has a mechanization of coalescing within departments across campus occurred," Johnson said.

The Anti-Cancer Drug Laboratory was added to the center in 1982. The lab is under the direction of Dr. Jean-Pierre Perchellet and funded by private donations.

Researchers at the center are studying the mode of action and the basis of toxicity of anti-cancer drugs while seeking an alternative method to chemotherapy, Johnson said.

Immediate development of more effective and less toxic anti-cancer compounds is aided by the addition of the laboratory, he said.

In the laboratory, students and faculty are studying why chemotherapy drugs are toxic to the body, why drug resistance develops and what drugs show potential for providing a more effective, but less toxic, form of treatment for cancer. This includes studying carcinogens and tumor promoters, he said.

According to a pamphlet written by Johnson, carcinogens are substances which initiate cells into a state of malignancy through cellular changes. These substances cause cells to be susceptible to cancer, but are not responsible for initiating the disease. Tumor promoters are chemicals assisting the survival, growth and spreading of cancer cells. This occurs after initiation.

"There will always be cancerous diseases, and the carcinogenic effect cannot be reversed," Johnson said. "What is needed are chemicals to inhibit tumor growth by antagonizing the promoters."

The search for these chemicals and their functions is a main objective of the lab, he said.

The lab's studies are aided by the recently-formed Cancer Research and Education Advisory Council.

Members appointed to three-year terms by President Duane Acker include physicians, clinicians, educators, business professionals and citizens. The group was developed to increase regional communication about cancer-related problems and attract continuing public support for the lab.

Support and funding for the center comes from several sources. The biology division produced "Accepting a Challenge," a presentation designed to stimulate cancer awareness and promote funding.

"I have given presentations from Great Neck (Kan.) to Kansas City (Mo.). I feel the center is a community project because donations are involved. It (the center) is good for the University, for Kansas, for the national cancer organizations and for public awareness of cancer," Johnson said.

"Competition for national funds has intensified recently, and only institutions providing quality educational and research programs will be awarded such funds.

"The center has an increasing amount of competitive extramural dollars awarded to them — doubling within recent years. The main source of competitive grants to the division totaled $2.75 million last year," he said.

The faculty of the center competed with other institutions of cancer study in the nation and were awarded a predoctoral student training grant of $280,000 from the National Cancer Institute.

"Private donations by thoughtful citizens are a principal source of funds for cancer research," Johnson said.

The goal for private donations for the laboratory is $250,000. More than $170,000 has been collected so far. Financial assistance is still sought for equipment, graduate student stipends, undergraduate scholarships, and research support connected with the lab.

"Now the program is really working for us, and is spreading itself," said Pat Adams, administrative assistant of the biology division.

"I like to emphasize that we are trying to involve the students in this. It is not just a faculty research program," Johnson said.

As a result of contributions from private citizens, a new program of undergraduate student cancer research awards has been established. With the aid of a faculty sponsor, students competitively submit research proposals that are reviewed by a faculty committee. The objective of the research awards is to allow qualified undergraduate students an opportunity to participate in cancer research that is continual in the biology division. Last year, seven of these awards were granted, Johnson said.

"The success of the center is the result of the dedication and performance of those people involved in the development of the Center for Basic Cancer Research and the Anti-Cancer Drug Laboratory," he said. "Their combined skills, experience and commitment to excellence will continue to be the strongest resource for the future."

"With these resources, we (the cancer biologists) are confident that we can successfully meet these rigorous challenges which we will face in cancer research and education."

Staff/Chris Stewart

Dr. Jean-Pierre Perchellet, in charge of the Anti-Cancer Drug Laboratory, uses newly acquired equipment to aid in his research of an anti-cancer drug.

Auntie Mae's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE
TONIGHT

ALL YOU CAN DRINK

House Drinks,
Beer and Wine

GIRLS $3.00
GUYS $5.00

9 p.m. to 12 a.m.

Memberships Available
616 N. 12th 539-9967

Fun Mountain

BEER BASH

10 FREE KEGS
4 hours waterslide

Price
Guys ... $4.50
Gals ... $3.00

Friday, Sept. 2
8:00 p.m. til 12:00 p.m.

Just over the Viaduct
537-3870 at 177 & 18

Meet Your Friends At ...

2 FERS THURSDAYS!

2 Fers
7-10:00
Draft beer, Pop,
Popcorn

Plus ... $2 Pitchers
For Pledges 10-11:30!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT ...

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

29 YRS OF KSU TRADITION!

A.S.K. NEEDS YOU!

A.S.K. IS

- A statewide student lobbying group.
- Dedicated to student progress.

A.S.K. IS looking for:

- Students who care about the future of Ks. Regent Schools.
- Young energetic students who desire to have a voice in Ks. Pol.
- Men and women who wish to influence their own futures.

APPLY FOR POSITIONS
IN THE SGA OFFICE OR CALL 532-6541

THE LAST
blast sale

UP TO 70% off

ALL SPRING and SUMMER Merchandise

1130 Moro
Aggieville
Open: Mon.-Sat. 10-6:00
Thurs. 10-8:30 Sun. 12-5

FORT COLLINS, CO. Campus West
GREELEY, CO. The Weekly Mail
COLUMBIA, MO. The Daily Star
LAWRENCE, KS. The Star-Bulletin
MANHATTAN, KS. Aggieville

carousel

Soviets attack jet, 265 killed; U.S. leaders call act 'heinous'

By The Associated Press

The United States said Thursday a missile fired by a Soviet fighter pilot destroyed a South Korean 747 jumbo jet, killing all aboard, when the commercial airliner strayed over Kremlin defense outposts on islands near Japan. The estimated 265 victims included Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga., and at least 30 other Americans, the government said.

President Reagan, in California, registered his "disgust that the entire world feels at the barbarity of the Soviet government in shooting down an unarmed plane."

"Words can scarcely express our revulsion at this horrifying act of violence," said Reagan.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz declared there is "no excuse whatever for this appalling act," and the State Department branded an account forwarded by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as "totally inadequate" — because it neither acknowledged that the plane had been blown from the skies Wednesday nor accepted any responsibility.

Department spokesman John Hughes said late Thursday there were "30 plus" Americans on Korean Air Lines Flight 7, including McDonald, and there were no survivors. He said the United States would join South Korea in asking for an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council today "to air what is a heinous action on the part of the Soviet Union."

The jumbo jet was in Soviet airspace above Sakhalin, an island military outpost whose southernmost tip is within 100 miles of Japan, U.S. officials said.

A heat-seeking missile, called an Anad, was fired from an SU-15, a 1960s-vintage interceptor and one of eight fighters which tracked the airliner, according to Pentagon intelligence sources who asked that they not be identified. The Soviets have a fighter base on Sakhalin, a mountainous island 20 miles from the Soviet Union's east coast.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan would cut short his California vacation and return to Washington on Saturday, two days early, to meet with his advisers over the Soviet action and events in the Mideast.

The KAL jumbo jet was blown from the skies at 2:26 p.m. EDT Wednesday, U.S. officials said. The flight originated in New York, had refueled in Anchorage, Alaska, and was about 1,000 miles from its destination, Seoul, when it was shot down.

The Soviet pilot was close enough to see the airliner, and the Soviets had tracked it for 2½ hours — ample opportunity to know it was a civilian flight, officials said. At first, defense officials said the plane which fired the missile was a MiG 23 — one of the Soviet Union's best and fastest fighters. Later, however, they said it appeared to have been an SU-15, code-named Flagon.

Intelligence sources said the Soviets have about 35 SU-15s and 30 MiG 23s based at Sakhalin.

The Kremlin's first public comment was an anemic Tass story which said the South Korean plane "has been lost," and made no mention of a military attack. Later, Tass changed its story to say that an "unidentified aircraft" twice violated Soviet airspace over Sakhalin and that Soviet fighters "were sent aloft" to try to help it land. The plane ignored "signals and warnings," Tass said, then "continued its flight in the direction of the Sea of Japan." Again, the account said nothing of the plane being shot down.

Whatever the Soviet motive, said presidential spokesman Larry Speakes, "There are no circumstances that can justify the unprecedented attack on an unarmed civilian aircraft."

In New York, U.S. officials said the United States was "very, very actively considering" calling for action on the matter by the U.N. Security Council. That could hardly prove more than a gesture of form, since the Soviet Union, like the United States, has veto power over the council.

Shultz agreed, saying the United States views the deed "with revulsion."

Some leaders of Congress called for retaliation against the Soviets. Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said the United States should immediately cancel its new grain sale to Moscow in return for the "reprehensible, horrible, inexcusable and outrageous" Soviet behavior.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., agreed, saying "To be feeding the pilot who shot that missile at this plane with our wheat, I find to be unacceptable morally. And I think if we refuse to do so there is a chance that we will change Soviet behavior over a long period of time."

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee said "Such a brazen attack on a commercial plane carrying civilian passengers is reprehensible, and I think it demands the utmost scrutiny and attention."

An aide to McDonald suggested the Soviets may have shot down the plane because they knew the congressman, a staunch anti-communist, was aboard. "We think of him as the first victim of World War III," said Tommy Toles. But U.S. military officials said that Soviet paranoia about the security of air and naval installations in the area was more likely the reason.

Soviets claim downed jet ignored signals, warning

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union said Thursday that an "unidentified aircraft" twice violated Soviet airspace over Sakhalin island and that Soviet fighters "were sent aloft" to try to help it land.

The brief report from the official Tass news agency said the plane ignored "signals and warnings" from the fighters and "continued its flight in the direction of the Sea of Japan."

The report made no reference to the plane being a Korean Air Lines jumbo jet with 269 people aboard that the U.S. government said was shot down by a Soviet fighter over Sakhalin.

White House demands explanation for Russia's 'appalling' air attack

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, ordered by President Reagan to demand "an immediate and full accounting" from the Soviet Union for the shooting down of a South Korean commercial airliner, said Thursday he will raise the issue directly with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko next week.

"The United States reacts with revulsion to this attack," Shultz said.

Shultz already was scheduled to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko in Madrid next week. He said he wouldn't cancel the meeting but would use it to "hear what he (Gromyko) has to say about this."

Shultz said he expects to have an explanation much sooner for what he called "this appalling act."

Undersecretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger summoned Moscow's acting ambassador, Oleg Sokolov, to the State Department Wednesday morning to demand an explanation. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Burt said he awoke Sokolov at home with a telephone call during the night, when it became known something had happened to the aircraft over Soviet territory.

But hours later, Burt told reporters, "They have told us nothing so far."

Shultz said, "We can see no explanation whatever for shooting down an unarmed commercial airliner, no matter whether it is in your air space or not."

The incident came at time when U.S.-Soviet relations have been improving slightly. Washington and Moscow last week signed a five-year grain sale agreement, and the Reagan administration recently lifted restrictions on sales of pipeline-laying equipment.

Congressional leaders reacted swiftly Thursday to the shooting down of a Korean airliner by a Soviet fighter plane, expressing outrage, fury and revulsion.

The firing of a missile at an unarmed South Korean airliner people, including Rep. Lawrence P. McDonald, D-Ga., was "nothing less than murder," Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., said in an interview on Cable News Network.

D'Amato called for an immediate convening of the United Nations so the matter could "be put forth before the world body of public opinion."

"The incident is an outrage, seemingly without provocation or reasonable explanation," said Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., the second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"Obviously we don't know all the details yet, but the Soviets' action is totally incomprehensible at this point."

Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., called it "reckless and vulgar" and "with no justification within the bounds of law or conscience."

Water slide

Having some fun in the hot afternoon sun, Jeff Regehr, senior in business, and Dan Hoffman, senior in accounting, cooled off at a waterslide located east of Manhattan. Hot weather will continue today with highs in the mid 90s.

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Shamir wins party voting

By The Associated Press

TEL AVIV, Israel — Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, a former guerrilla leader and secret agent, won his Party's nomination Thursday to succeed outgoing Prime Minister Menachem Begin, Israel Radio reported. Shamir was elected by a majority of his Herut Party's central committee.

Shamir defeated Deputy Premier David Levy by 437 votes to 302, election chairman Yohanan Vinitzky announced. There were seven void votes.

Warlord threatens attack on Marines

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT — Druse warlord Walid Jumblatt threatened Thursday to attack the U.S. Marines as the Lebanese army mopped up Druse and Shiite Moslem resistance in west Beirut. President Reagan ordered 1,600 more Marines to Lebanese waters to back up the 1,200 Marines ashore.

Both Jumblatt and Nabih Berri, head of the Shiite Moslems' Amal militia, accused the Marines of siding with the Christian-dominated Lebanese army.

Jumblatt told reporters in Damascus, Syria, his militia would attack the Marines and other troops of the 5,400-man multinational peacekeeping force "unless they remain neutral" in the new Lebanese crisis.

"The mere fact that they (the Marines) are providing the Lebanese factional army with logistic support, expertise and training is enough for us to consider them enemies," he added.

Berri in a separate statement said the Marines "who came to Lebanon as an element in the multinational peacekeeping force have turned into a fighting force against Moslems in Lebanon."

U.S. spokesmen say the Marines only fired on Shiite and Druse gun positions that attacked them during the fighting this week.

Defense Department officials in Washington said the 1,600-man 31st Marine Amphibious Unit would sail for Lebanon from East Africa today aboard the assault ship Tarawa and several other amphibious ships.

The officials said the force would stand off the Lebanese coast, where the U.S. 6th Fleet already has a sizable task force, and there were no plans to send the additional Marines ashore.

The Western White House announced that Reagan also directed the aircraft carrier Eisenhower to remain in the region.

Meanwhile, the Lebanese army searched west Beirut for weapons and for Druse, Amal and leftist Mourabitoun militiamen from whom they regained control of the western half of the capital in hard fighting Wednesday.

Sporadic rifle shots were heard as the U.S.-trained troops flushed out dozens of men, blindfolded them and hauled them off. Witnesses said they saw at least three jeeploads of prisoners.

Residents ventured cautiously out after the lifting of a 24-hour curfew and four days of fighting and heavy bombardment in which at least 94 people were killed. The dead included two U.S. Marines, five French soldiers and 42 Lebanese troops, and at least 413 people were reported wounded.

City denies parade permit for Aggieville rally

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

A pep rally planned to take place in Aggieville got the city's veto Tuesday.

The pep rally, sponsored by Pep Coordinating Council, will be in the McCain Auditorium parking lot at 10:00 tonight instead.

Willie the Wildcat and head football coach Jim Dickey will be at the rally, which will feature performances by the marching band, the cheerleaders and the new Wildcat Dancers.

"I doubt that any players will be there, because they usually stay in Junction City the night before the game," said Fred Severance, sophomore in agricultural education and president of PCC.

"PCC is a service organization which supports the athletic programs," said the substitute Willie the Wildcat and former president of PCC. He performs at the women's basketball games and at events which the other Willie can't attend.

The purpose of PCC is to give students a way of supporting K-State athletics without participating in sports, Severance said.

"We originally wanted to have the pep rally and a parade in Aggie," the substitute Willie said. "I talked to a city commissioner (Rick Mann) and he gave me the number of the city engineer's office to call for a parade permit."

He and Severance also contacted Sonny Ballard, president of the Aggieville Merchants Association, to see how the merchants' felt about the rally.

"We asked Sonny Ballard if it was OK, and he said whatever Aggieville could do for us, they would," Severance said. "He said it was hunky-dory for us to have it in Aggieville."

"But I guess not all the merchants belong (to the Aggieville Merchants Association) because of the high cost. Maybe some merchants who are not members were opposed."

PCC began planning the pep rally Aug. 23.

"The (Riley County) police department told us we had to talk to the city engineer's office, buy three permits and get the Aggieville Merchants' permission in writing," Severance said. "We were all ready to go pay for the permits, when we got a call saying we couldn't have it. Willie (the substitute) and I don't know who called. We've been trying to find out and nobody (at the city offices) seems to know anything about it (the phone call)."

"We thought it was all set and then they called us and said it had been debated and the request was turned down," the substitute Willie said. "We are allowed to paint purple paws on the streets of Aggieville, though."

The paws were painted on the streets of Aggieville from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. today.

PCC will be distributing pompons to the first 10,000 people at the game Saturday and giving away purple helium balloons, donated by downtown and Aggieville merchants.

"We want to stir up interest for the first game," Severance said. "We want people to support the Cats and get more people to stay in Manhattan this weekend for the game."

Inside

The Beecher Bible and Rifle Church in Wabunsee is now more than 125 years old. See page 7.

OOE budget increase Acker's main goal

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

Increasing the University's Other Operating Expense budget by one percent is President Duane Acker's No. 1 goal for the academic year. That increase alone would add $700,000 to the OOE budget.

Outlining some of his goals for the school year, Acker spoke to Student Senate at its meeting Thursday night in the Union Big Eight Room.

"I firmly believe my life is much easier if I lay out at the beginning of the academic year a set of goals I want to accomplish," Acker said.

OOE now accounts for 17 percent of the annual budget, but other education administrators believe 30 percent is an appropriate amount for OOE budgets, Acker said.

When breaking down the University budget into instruction, research and extension fields, the president said instruction's OOE is well under 10 percent. OOE pays for teaching supplies and additional materials.

With a higher OOE, University faculty will have better support in the classroom, he said.

Realigning the instructional directions of the colleges of veterinary medicine and education are Acker's second and third goals for the year.

Donald Trotter, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, has announced his resignation effective next summer. Acker said he and Owen Koepp, University provost, will visit with the college's faculty and plot a future course while searching for a replacement.

Education has recently received a lot of national attention, so Acker said he is going to work with the education college to identify its goals. With six education colleges within the Kansas Board of Regents system, K-State's college may want to pursue its strong points, he said.

Acker said the money raised from the $10 academic support fee collected from students this year will be used to place computers in classrooms and help fund Farrell Library. He said he did not know how long the fee would be charged because appropriations from the regents cannot be predicted.

Plans for pictured University identification cards which were to be reissued to new students this semester were changed this summer when equipment to make the cards was discovered to cost more than expected, Acker said.

Patrolmen promote alcohol awareness

By KARRA PORTER
Collegian Reporter

Kansas Highway Patrol officers were on campus Wednesday in an effort to increase students' awareness about drinking and driving.

As part of a pre-Labor Day traffic safety educational effort, the Highway Patrol manned an informational table between Seaton Hall and the Union from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Officers at the table answered questions and explained various procedures relating to drinking and driving and the Kansas drunken driving law. The law, which went into effect July 1, 1982, established mandatory punishments for persons convicted of drunken driving, and Highway Patrol Trooper Earl Stackhouse said it seems to be helping.

"From our viewpoint, the number of drinking drivers is down," he said.

It is not really possible to tell how much of the decrease is a result of the law, he said.

"Maybe we're just missing them, or maybe people are just getting smarter," he said.

The officers also explained their procedure when they spot an apparent drunken driver.

Trooper Charles McElwee said officers who stop a suspected drunken driver first see how long it takes him to find his driver's license. Inability to readily locate the driver's license is a sign that a person's reactions are impaired, he said.

If the driver appears to be intoxicated, he is given a series of sobriety tests.

"We ask them to say their ABCs," McElwee said. "Most drunken people can't say the alphabet — no matter how much education they've had."

Other tests check ability to touch the tip of the nose and to stand still. Most tests require more than one motor response, Stackhouse said, because driving involves numerous motor responses.

A driver who flunks the tests is read his rights and arrested, McElwee said. A breath test using a "crimper," or breath analyzer, is then given.

The suspect blows into a small tube connected to a plastic bag on the other end and to another tube on the side. The air at the top of the lungs fills the bag, McElwee said, and the deeper air is channeled into the other tube. This tube is then "crimped" or squeezed and becomes three compartments in one, capturing one breath sample in each part of the tube, he said.

Breath samples from the Manhattan area are sent for chemical analysis to the divisional headquarters of the Highway Patrol in Salina, McElwee said.

Arrested drivers are handcuffed and taken to jail. "If you're caught on Friday, you'll be in jail until Monday," McElwee said.

A chart at the table listed the punishments for drunken driving. Under Kansas law, a drunken driving conviction is punishable by a mandatory 48-hour jail sentence or an exchange of 100 hours of community service.

A first conviction also carries a fine of $200 to $500 and automatic suspension of the driver's license for 90 days to one year. An alcohol treatment program also is required.

The law mandates a jail sentence of not less than 90 days and not more than one year for a second conviction. A $500 to $1000 fine also is imposed, as well as suspension of the driver's license and required community service.

A third conviction brings a fine of $1000 to $2500, a jail sentence of 90 days to one year, mandatory community service and an automatic one-year revocation of the driver's license.

The officers also told passers-by about REDI — Report Every Drunk Driver Immediately. REDI is a cooperative effort between the Kansas Community Alcohol Safety Action Project and the Kansas Highway Patrol and features a 24-hour toll-free number. REDI literature tells how to spot a drunken driver and gives statistics indicating the magnitude of the problem.

A REDI pamphlet states that on any given weekend evening, one of ten cars is driven by someone who is legally drunk.

"A drunken driver is worse than someone with a loaded gun," said one student who stopped at the table.

Trooper Tom Stohr agreed. "With someone coming at you with a gun, at least you can see it coming — not so with a drunken driver," he said.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student office.

JERRY LINTON is showing recent paintings through Sept. 14 in the Diebler Gallery, West Stadium. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MINORITY ENGINEERS STUDY CENTER's new hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 6 p.m. in Durland Hall 32.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for regular registration for the administration of the LSAT is Oct. 1.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the pre-professional skills test required for admission to all teacher education programs at all regents institutions is Sept. 10 in Holton 204. The test will be given Sept. 24.

TODAY

PUERTO RICAN STUDENT ORGANIZATION meets at 7 p.m. in Union 307.

BIG LAKES DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER is sponsoring a sale of plants grown in K-State greenhouses from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Adult Training Center at 1500 Hayes Dr.

TUESDAY

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration is from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

ADULT AND OCCUPATIONAL GRADUATE CLUB meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union 203. Paul Taylor, Ph.D. will speak on "Education: A View from the Comic Pages."

C'mon in for Breakfast!

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY ONLY!

All You Can Eat:

SCRAMBLED EGGS
PANCAKES
BACON-SAUSAGE
HASH BROWNS
BISCUITS-GRAVY
DRINKS EXTRA

All You Pay:
$2.29

From 6 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.
Kids 7 yrs.
and younger
$1.29

We don't just give you breakfast.
We give you a break.

Full Service Breakfast Menu Monday thru Friday

SIRLOIN STOCKADE
100 East Bluemont

BEER BASH

10 FREE KEGS
4 hours waterslide

Price
Guys . . . $4.50
Gals . . . $3.00

Friday, Sept. 2
8:00 p.m. til 12:00 p.m.

Just over the Viaduct

537-3870

at 177 & 18

Buy a salad platter and get a medium soft drink

FREE

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. This offer expires 9/8/83. Good only at the Burger King restaurant, 3rd and Poyntz, downtown Manhattan, Ks.

Burger King — Reg. U.S. Pat. & TM Off. 1982 Burger King Corporation

Magnavox Back to School Special!

Model #CDP102—13" diagonal color portable with recessed pocket handles.

- * Electronic tuning
- * In-line picture tube
- * 100-1. Solid State
- * Automatic Fine Tuning Circuit
- * 3"x5" Speaker

Now—$299⁹⁵
only

Ghere's of Manhattan

316 Poyntz Downtown

BEFORE THE GAME . . .

Stop by the Donut Hole for fresh donuts, sandwiches, ice cream, or pastries!

11th & Moro
In Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Fri. 24 hours
Sat. till 6 p.m.

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor..... Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager..... John McGrath

START THE YEAR RIGHT!

KSU & the Manhattan Mercury

Take advantage of the SPECIAL STUDENT PACKAGES and receive total coverage of K-State news, sports, and events. In addition, you will receive regional and national coverage of news as well as money saving coupons and ads from local merchants.

The FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR starts with order, and ends May 5, 1984. Included are automatic stops for Christmas and Spring Breaks.

FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR $33.00 $32.50

FIRST SEMESTER $16.00 $15.95

Payment must be received by September 5, 1983.
Keep for your records: Paid _____ on Check No. _____

Amount $ _____

Send or Bring form to: The Manhattan Mercury,
5th and Osage, Manhattan, Ks. 66502

YES, I want to receive The Manhattan Mercury for the
FULL SCHOLASTIC YEAR $33.00 $32.50
FIRST SEMESTER ONLY $16.00 $15.95

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

STUDENT ID NO. _____

SIGNED _____

For Office Use Only

ROUTE NO. _____ Payment Rec'd _____ Payment Pend. _____

Closed Classes as of Today.

00060	03010	06030	09020	09140	10000	12070	14430	17000	20720	22300	24950	26730	29380	31970	34610	35130	36920
00080	03060	06040	09030	09160	10020	12080	14450	17010	20730	22310	24960	26740	29390	31980	34620	35140	36930
00120	03100	06080	09070	09180	10040	12100	14470	17030	20750	22330	24980	26760	29400	31990	34640	35160	36950
00160	03140	06120	09110	09200	10060	12120	14490	17050	20770	22350	25000	26780	29420	32000	34660	35180	36970
00200	03180	06160	09150	09220	10080	12140	14510	17070	20790	22370	25020	26800	29440	32020	34680	35200	36990
00240	03220	06200	09190	09240	10100	12160	14530	17090	20810	22390	25040	26820	29460	32040	34700	35220	37000
00280	03260	06240	09230	09260	10120	12180	14550	17110	20830	22410	25060	26840	29480	32060	34720	35240	37010
00320	03300	06280	09270	09280	10140	12200	14570	17130	20850	22430	25080	26860	29500	32080	34740	35260	37020
00360	03340	06320	09310	09300	10160	12220	14590	17150	20870	22450	25100	26880	29520	32100	34760	35280	37030
00400	03380	06360	09350	09320	10180	12240	14610	17170	20890	22470	25120	26900	29540	32120	34780	35300	37040
00440	03420	06400	09390	09340	10200	12260	14630	17190	20910	22490	25140	26920	29560	32140	34800	35320	37050
00480	03460	06440	09430	09360	10220	12280	14650	17210	20930	22510	25160	26940	29580	32160	34820	35340	37060
00520	03500	06480	09470	09380	10240	12300	14670	17230	20950	22530	25180	26960	29600	32180	34840	35360	37070
00560	03540	06520	09510	09400	10260	12320	14690	17250	20970	22550	25200	26980	29620	32200	34860	35380	37080
00600	03580	06560	09550	09420	10280	12340	14710	17270	20990	22570	25220	27000	29640	32220	34880	35400	37090
00640	03620	06600	09590	09440	10300	12360	14730	17290	21010	22590	25240	27020	29660	32240	34900	35420	37100
00680	03660	06640	09630	09460	10320	12380	14750	17310	21030	22610	25260	27040	29680	32260	34920	35440	37110
00720	03700	06680	09670	09480	10340	12400	14770	17330	21050	22630	25280	27060	29700	32280	34940	35460	37120
00760	03740	06720	09710	09500	10360	12420	14790	17350	21070	22650	25300	27080	29720	32300	34960	35480	37130
00800	03780	06760	09750	09520	10380	12440	14810	17370	21090	22670	25320	27100	29740	32320	34980	35500	37140
00840	03820	06800	09790	09540	10400	12460	14830	17390	21110	22690	25340	27120	29760	32340	35000	35520	37150
00880	03860	06840	09830	09560	10420	12480	14850	17410	21130	22710	25360	27140	29780	32360	35020	35540	37160
00920	03900	06880	09870	09580	10440	12500	14870	17430	21150	22730	25380	27160	29800	32380	35040	35560	37170
00960	03940	06920	09910	09600	10460	12520	14890	17450	21170	22750	25400	27180	29820	32400	35060	35580	37180
01000	03980	06960	09950	09620	10480	12540	14910	17470	21190	22770	25420	27200	29840	32420	35080	35600	37190
01040	04020	07000	09990	09640	10500	12560	14930	17490	21210	22790	25440	27220	29860	32440	35100	35620	37200
01080	04060	07040	10030	09660	10520	12580	14950	17510	21230	22810	25460	27240	29880	32460	35120	35640	37210
01120	04100	07080	10070	09680	10540	12600	14970	17530	21250	22830	25480	27260	29900	32480	35140	35660	37220
01160	04140	07120	10110	09700	10560	12620	14990	17550	21270	22850	25500	27280	29920	32500	35160	35680	37230
01200	04180	07160	10150	09720	10580	12640	15010	17570	21290	22870	25520	27300	29940	32520	35180	35700	37240
01240	04220	07200	10190	09740	10600	12660	15030	17590	21310	22890	25540	27320	29960	32540	35200	35720	37250
01280	04260	07240	10230	09760	10620	12680	15050	17610	21330	22910	25560	27340	29980	32560	35220	35740	37260
01320	04300	07280	10270	09780	10640	12700	15070	17630	21350	22930	25580	27360	30000	32580	35240	35760	37270
01360	04340	07320	10310	09800	10660	12720	15090	17650	21370	22950	25600	27380	30020	32600	35260	35780	37280
01400	04380	07360	10350	09820	10680	12740	15110	17670	21390	22970	25620	27400	30040	32620	35280	35800	37290
01440	04420	07400	10390	09840	10700	12760	15130	17690	21410	22990	25640	27420	30060	32640	35300	35820	37300
01480	04460	07440	10430	09860	10720	12780	15150	17710	21430	23010	25660	27440	30080	32660	35320	35840	37310
01520	04500	07480	10470	09880	10740	12800	15170	17730	21450	23030	25680	27460	30100	32680	35340	35860	37320
01560	04540	07520	10510	09900	10760	12820	15190	17750	21470	23050	25700	27480	30120	32700	35360	35880	37330
01600	04580	07560	10550	09920	10780	12840	15210	17770	21490	23070	25720	27500	30140	32720	35380	35900	37340
01640	04620	07600	10590	09940	10800	12860	15230	17790	21510	23090	25740	27520	30160	32740	35400	35920	37350
01680	04660	07640	10630	09960	10820	12880	15250	17810	21530	23110	25760	27540	30180	32760	35420	35940	37360
01720	04700	07680	10670	09980	10840	12900	15270	17830	21550	23130	25780	27560	30200	32780	35440	35960	37370
01760	04740	07720	10710	10000	10860	12920	15290	17850	21570	23150	25800	27580	30220	32800	35460	35980	37380
01800	04780	07760	10750	10020	10880	12940	15310	17870	21590	23170	25820	27600	30240	32820	35480	36000	37390
01840	04820	07800	10790	10040	10900	12960	15330	17890	21610	23190	25840	27620	30260	32840	35500	36020	37400
01880	04860	07840	10830	10060	10920	12980	15350	17910	21630	23210	25860	27640	30280	32860	35520	36040	37410
01920	04900	07880	10870	10080	10940	13000	15370	17930	21650	23230	25880	27660	30300	32880	35540	36060	37420
01960	04940	07920	10910	10100	10960	13020	15390	17950	21670	23250	25900	27680	30320	32900	35560	36080	37430
02000	04980	07960	10950	10120	10980	13040	15410	17970	21690	23270	25920	27700	30340	32920	35580	36100	37440
02040	05020	08000	10990	10140	11000	13060	15430	17990	21710	23290	25940	27720	30360	32940	35600	36120	37450
02080	05060	08040	11030	10160	11020	13080	15450	18010	21730	23310	25960	27740	30380	32960	35620	36140	37460
02120	05100	08080	11070	10180	11040	13100	15470	18030	21750	23330	25980	27760	30400	32980	35640	36160	37470
02160	05140	08120	11110	10200	11060	13120	15490	18050	21770	23350	26000	27780	30420	33000	35660	36180	37480
02200	05180	08160	11150	10220	11080	13140	15510	18070	21790	23370	26020	27800	30440	33020	35680	36200	37490
02240	05220	08200	11190	10240	11100	13160	15530	18090	21810	23390	26040	27820	30460	33040	35700	36220	37500
02280	05260	08240	11230	10260	11120	13180	15550	18110	21830	23410	26060	27840	30480	33060	35720	36240	37510
02320	05300	08280	11270	10280	11140	13200	15570	18130	21850	23430	26080	27860	30500	33080	35740	36260	37520
02360	05340	08320	11310	10300	11160	13220	15590	18150	21870	23450	26100	27880	30520	33100	35760	36280	37530
02400	05380	08360	11350	10320	11180	13240	15610	18170	21890	23470	26120	27900	30540	33120	35780	36300	37540
02440	05420	08400	11390	10340	11200	13260	15630	18190	21910	23490	26140	27920	30560	33140	35800	36320	37550
02480	05460	08440	11430	10360	11220	13280	15650	18210	21930	23510	26160	27940	30580	33160	35820	36340	37560
02520	05500	08480	11470	10380	11240	13300	15670	18230	21950	23530	26180	27960	30600	33180	35840	36360	37570
02560	05540	08520	11510	10400	11260	13320	15690	18250	21970	23550	26200	27980	30620	33200	35860	36380	37580
02600	05580	08560	11550	10420	11280	13340	15710	18270	21990	23570	26220	28000	30640	33220	35880	36400	37590
02640	05620	08600	11590	10440	11300	13360	15730	18290	22010	23590	26240	28020	30660	33240	35900	36420	37600
02680	05660	08640	11630	10460	11320	13380	15750	18310	22030	23610	26260	28040	30680	33260	35920	36440	37610
02720	05700	08680	11670	10480

Downing Korean jet violates 'spirit of law'

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Soviet Union may not have technically violated international law by apparently shooting down a Korean Air Lines jumbo jet. But an attack on a civilian jetliner certainly violates the spirit of the law, according to legal experts.

"The law is not completely clear," said Oliver Lissitzyn, a longtime international law professor at Columbia University. "Legally speaking, this is a very messy situation."

By law, any nation may intercept foreign aircraft violating its air space. That air space corresponds to the 12-mile border limits under the law of the sea. Any foreign aircraft that is intercepted can legally be escorted out of the air space it is violating, or it can be ordered to land either by radio contact or by accepted international signals. The most common signal is for the intercepting plane to fly alongside, in visual contact, and tip its wings.

If the intruding plane refuses to be escorted out of the air space or refuses to land, the traditional procedure is for the interceptors to fire a warning shot similar to the shots fired "across the bow" at sea.

If the intruding plane still refuses to leave the air space or land, the interceptors may fire upon it.

The problem is that there is no clear-cut legal distinction between how to handle intruding military and civilian planes. The world agrees that a nation has the perfect right to knock down a bomber from an unfriendly country. The world also agrees that an unarmed, clearly marked commercial plane carrying passengers should never be fired upon for merely straying off course.

But what if the civilian plane ignores radio messages or visual signals and tries to escape? What if there is reason to believe the civilian plane is loaded with sensitive electronic spying devices? The experts say the Soviet Union could use those arguments in their defense.

"I would be surprised if the Soviets apologize on their knees," said John Hazard, a Columbia professor who specializes in the Soviet legal system. "I'm sure they will try to justify it."

"If they say they tried to fire a warning shot and the plane crashed trying to evade it — or if the warning shot accidentally hit the plane — then that's different than if they tried to hit it," said Gerrit Gong, a Soviet specialist at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington.

"The Soviet government will feel, I think, a great responsibility to explain what happened," he added. "Appearing civilized is very important to the Soviet Union. They do not want the world to believe they are a country that shoots down civilian planes."

Farrell simplifies information search

By KATHY BARTELLI
Collegian Reporter

Farrell Library is introducing a new computerized mini-search service this fall for undergraduates which is similar to research services provided to faculty and graduate students.

Quick Undergraduate Easy Search Topic (QUEST) is provided specifically for undergraduate students and is designed to help find up to 10 sources of information for research projects and other assignments.

QUEST is part of a research project being conducted by Ann Scott, library administrative services officer, and Nancy Flott, of the School of Library Science at Emporia State University, to determine undergraduate library needs.

"There is a likelihood that undergraduate research needs can be ignored at a large institution like K-State, and we want to be sure to serve their (the undergraduates) needs as best as we can," said Dwayne Schrag, coordinator of reference and information services.

Statistics show that undergraduate students make little use of on-line searching. Schrag said he hopes to encourage its use among K-State students as well as develop computer literacy among the reference staff. The staff have been trained to use QUEST, he said.

QUEST, as opposed to the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature, is capable of encompassing up to two concepts and can combine those ideas easily, Schrag said.

If a student were doing a term paper on secondary education, QUEST could easily combine two concepts and give the student sources of information that deal specifically with education in high school, Schrag said. When using the Reader's Guide, the student has to look under the education heading and hope to find information that deals with high schools, he said.

Another advantage of QUEST is that it contains six data bases. The magazine index and the newspaper data base are much like the Reader's Guide and cover general topics, Schrag said.

In addition to these, QUEST contains ERIC, an education data base, and AGRICOLA, which covers agricultural topics as well as food and nutrition. The other two data bases are PAIS, public affairs information service, and ABI/Inform, a business data base, Schrag said.

QUEST is a simplified version of the On-line Search Service (OSS) the library already has for faculty and graduate students. OSS is capable of handling many concepts at one time, he said.

Schrag said he does not believe that most undergraduate students will have a need for a more detailed search than QUEST can provide.

"I don't know that the typical undergraduate will have a complicated enough research project to require more than two concepts," Schrag said. "Any undergraduate who has a more complicated search is welcome to come and we will honor their request for a search."

QUEST is located at the reference desk on the first floor of the library. To do a search, a student has to fill out a QUEST form at the reference desk and the librarian will run the search, Schrag said, but it is left to the librarian's discretion whether or not to run the search.

"The terminal is not user-friendly enough for the students to run the search," Schrag said.

The search gives the student a computer copy with up to 10 of the most current sources of information on the topic.

"We would like for it (the topic) to be academically-oriented. We're not interested in looking up who was the batting champion last year." Schrag said if any librarian thinks that the information needed by a student can be gathered easily by the manual method, the student will be referred to the Reader's Guide.

QUEST is available for student use from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and in the evenings from 6 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

CANCER
CAN BE BEAT

BACK-TO-SCHOOL BIKE SALE! BASSETTS BIKE SHOP (Downtown)

217 Poyntz 537-8832

For the best in Sales
& Service

- NEW
- USED
- PARTS
- ACCESSORIES
- REPAIR

NISHIKI BICYCLES 20% off
FREE $20 worth of accessories
with NEW bike purchase*

*Nishiki Bikes not included in this offer.

CENTURION—NISHIKI—KHS—TAKARA—DIAMOND BACK

Kitchens Plus
FOR LADIES ONLY
CALENDARS
Chippendale, Up Front
and Looking Good
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046
"The Department Store"

TAKE A CLASSY DATE
TO A CLASSY PLACE
PUTT PUTT GOLF COURSE

Putt Putt Golf

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

TGIF!

$2 Pitchers

1-6

&

Free

Popcorn

619 N. Manhattan

RIDE OUR STADIUM BUSES!

• Buses Start 5:30 PM Sat. (only $1 round trip):

FOOTBALL IS HERE!

Pre-Game
and Post-Game
Parties:

KITE'S Bar Opens 10 AM
Grille Hours 11:30 AM-11:30 PM

MR. K'S & Bars Open 11:30 AM
ROCKIN K Sandwiches 11:30 AM-7 PM

AGGIE Club Opens 11:30 AM
STATION Restaurant 11:30 AM-11 PM

LAST Bars Open 11:30 AM
CHANCE Bar-B-Que 11:30 AM-11:30 PM

Ride Our Stadium Buses!

TONIGHT
AND
SATURDAY

GUIDO TOLEDO

Don't miss the unique combination of musicians formerly with THE ARTISTS and SECRETS*

TGIF 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. TODAY—Party with LIVE MUSIC • NO COVER CHARGE • FREE POPCORN • 50¢ DRAWS • $2.00 PITCHERS
TGIS PREGAME PARTY—SATURDAY—Cheer on the Cats with NO COVER CHARGE • FREE POPCORN • COLD BEER
1120 Moro FREE LIVE MUSIC DURING TGIF AND TGIS 539-9064

Auntie Mae's Parlor

TGIF HAPPY HOUR

Free Hors d'oeuvres • $1.25 House Drinks
50¢ Draws • $2.00 Pitchers
3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

PRE GAME PEP RALLY

SATURDAY — 2 p.m. to 7 p.m.
$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS • $1.00 KAMAKAZI
50¢ DRAWS • $2.00 PITCHERS
SANDWICH BUFFET BEGINS AT 4 P.M.
Only $1.00 for each trip through it

LATE NIGHT HAPPY HOUR

Friday and Saturday 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.
AGGIEVILLE

616 N. 12th

539-9967

Coors LIGHT BEER 12/12 oz cans $4³⁹ cold

Coca Cola 6 12 oz CANS $1⁵⁹ cold

PRICES GOOD THRU LABOR DAY

1102 Laramie
Main St. in Ogden
2706 Anderson
All Open 24 Hrs.

Located for
Your Convenience

The Friendly
Country Store.
3 Miles East on Hiway 24
Open 6 a.m. Till 1 a.m. Daily

MINI
CONVENIENCE

MART
GROCERY

Today's fashions

Zena Pinstripe—$23.95
Lee London Riders—$24.95

Rain Checks available
Sale ends Sept. 6th, 1983

Today's fashions

1207 Laramie St.

Best blue jeans
store in town
Best prices in town

T.G.I.F.

THE SPREAD

Seven
Hors d'oeuvres

$1 per plate
4-7 p.m.

Members & Guests Only
At the Ramada Inn

Aggieville belongs to students

Manhattan's leaders seem to be trying to keep students on campus and out of "their" city.

The city put another damper on semester activities when the K-State Pep Coordinating Council was told they would not be permitted to have a football pep rally in Aggieville.

This decision took place shortly after city officials told Greek affairs that Manhattan would not permit the annual get-together party in the Manhattan City Park. While the city's refusal to allow Greek affairs to use the park is understandable, making Aggieville off-limits for a pep rally is overstepping the bounds.

The city prohibits alcoholic beverages in the city park. Because there would be beer and other liquor at the party, the party prohibition is clearly justified.

Aggieville, however, is a different story. The district "belongs" to the students, in a sense. The stores and bars in Aggie are geared towards students. The students provide the money that keeps the place alive. Without the students, Aggieville would likely cease to exist.

One has to question the city's reasons for denying use of Aggie for a pep rally. Is it because the students would be too rowdy? Then perhaps the city needs an ordinance which would close the bars on Friday and Saturday nights, especially after the home football games. Maybe it's because people who live around Aggieville complain that there would be too much noise. We doubt it. Anybody who lives close to Aggieville has learned to live with the inconveniences.

The city did agree to let PCC paint purple paws on the streets of Aggieville. Thank you, Manhattan. Considering how much money is spent at Manhattan businesses on any game day (not to mention when Nebraska and Oklahoma come to town), combined with the dollars students spend in town throughout the year, we agree that the University deserves at least this minor consideration.

You can keep the park, Manhattan, it's yours. But give Aggieville back to those to whom it really belongs — the students.

Homemade ice cream

It's time for the Labor Day holiday.

Many people will celebrate Labor Day by staying indoors, near the air conditioner. Some will venture out to lakes and indulge in one last swim, one last water skiing venture, one last picnic before the end of summer. Some will spend the holiday weekend at various functions organized by labor unions, celebrating another three-day weekend.

I will spend this Labor Day in Manhattan, catching up on homework, working, partying and sleeping. This, however, is not my favorite way to spend a holiday. I would rather be at home, making ice cream.

There's nothing better I like to do on a hot, humid holiday than make homemade ice cream — unless it's barbecuing steaks. When I do both, it's a great weekend.

I really like to cook. When I stayed in an apartment this summer, I cooked when I had time. Summer school and being the editor of the Collegian usually didn't leave me time to "cook" much more than a toasted cheese sandwich. When I did have time to cook, I tried to cook a variety of foods. I usually did a good job, except for the homemade pizza I burned in 10 minutes. (Sorry about that one, Lloyd and Andy.)

However, barbecuing does not take a lot of skill. You can even burn the meat a little — just as long as you cover it up with barbecue sauce. Just tell whoever complains, "Hey, I thought you wanted the real charcoal flavor in your steak (or hamburger or chicken or whatever)."

You can even accidentally drop the food on the ground, as long as you brush it off and mumble "Oops, right on the waxed paper." No one will ever know (or care). Trust me. I'll never tell.

Nothing tops off a long, hot day at the barbecue grill better than homemade ice cream. Some people have said, "Real Men don't eat ice cream." Well, they're wrong. Real Men (and Real Women and Real Children) crank their own ice cream.

BRIAN LA RUE
Collegian Columnist

That's right. I don't like to use a motorized ice-cream maker. I like to control the freezing of the ice cream. Besides, it's a lot easier to brag about making the stuff yourself when you've sat outside in the hot sun (or even the hot shade), cranking the ice cream to its frozen state.

To make the frozen delight, you need an ice-cream maker, about 25 pounds of crushed ice, about a pound of rock salt, a large bowl, two spoons, a spatula and two glasses of iced tea (hey, it gets hot working out there).

Making ice cream is usually a two- or three-person job. You get the best results when three people help — one to mix the ingredients and two to crank. The ice cream will freeze quicker when two people crank it, because cranking it does tire your arms.

Be sure you have enough ice and salt. The key ingredient is the salt — the more you have, the more ice it melts, which lowers the temperature of the ice water, which freezes the ice cream. Never be afraid of using too much rock salt.

I'm going to share with you my mom's ice cream recipe. I think it's a good one — I've never complained, anyway.

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM

(Makes 6 quarts)

In a large mixing bowl, beat 6 eggs. Add 3 cups of sugar mixed with 5 tablespoons of flour. Add 2 pints of half-and-half (or 1 pint of half-and-half and 1 pint of whipping cream, or 2 pints of whipping cream), 1 can of evaporated milk, and 4 or 5 tablespoons of vanilla. Mix everything.

After mixing all of the ingredients, put the mixture into the ice cream maker's canister, and add about one-half gallon of whole milk.

Put the paddle in the canister, put the lid on it and take it out to the maker. Set it inside the maker and lock the crank in place. Place about two inches of ice around the canister, then place a handful of rock salt on top of the ice. Start cranking.

Keep adding ice and salt in layers until the lid of the canister is covered. Crank at a constant speed until it becomes too hard to crank. Have the second person start cranking, and keep them cranking until they cannot crank it any longer.

Scoop the ice off the top of the lid and about one inch deep around the canister. Save this ice — you'll need it. Drain a little salt water off, so you don't get any in the ice cream. Wipe off the lid and open it.

If the ice cream is still runny, it needs to be cranked more. If it's almost frozen into solidity (or harder), then it's ready.

Remove the paddle from the canister. Use the spatula to keep most of the ice cream in the canister. Place the paddle in the bowl and set it aside for a minute.

Place a sheet of waxed paper over the open canister, then put the lid back on it. Cover the lid with more ice and salt. Place a towel or rug over the maker, and set it in the shade for approximately four hours. Grab a spoon and clean off the ice cream which stuck to the paddle.

Pat yourself on the back — you've just made ice cream. Now, go get the grill ready for those steaks.

Still a nice town

As a continuation of earlier comments about downtown redevelopment schemes, in part of which I indicated I would describe places where I once lived, this column is about Pottstown, Penn. (Length requirements of a single column prohibit my telling all I want to, so what I'll write about Pottstown will be in two parts.)

When I was 19 years old, the very first full-time job I ever had — (that is, something other than soda jerk or magazine salesman or gardener) — was with The Pottstown Mercury, the town's main newspaper, published each morning. My shift was from seven at night until three in the morning, six nights a week. I was a pro-freader. Weekly salary was $16. At the age of 19, I was glad for the job. (It's one of those coincidences of places and names that the daily newspaper here in the town where I now live is also The Mercury.)

In those days, the population of Pottstown was about 25,000. Three small satellite towns — Stowe to the west, Sanatoga to the east, and North Coventry (now called South Pottstown) on the southern side of the Schuylkill River — swelled the urban population to about 30,000.

A few years ago I went on a leisurely trip to visit friends and relatives in Pennsylvania. My wife and one of our daughters went with me. Naturally, going to Pottstown was also included. It was the first time I had been back there in more than 20 years.

We stayed in a brand-new Holiday Inn, which had been built outside the old edge of town, across a creek. At first the streets looked very unfamiliar to me. Of course — they were all new!

One afternoon I went over to The Pottstown Mercury building — one block off the main street — to see if I could find out what had happened to Shandy Hill, the man who had hired me and had been my first boss. From the outside that building was the same. Inside were changes, but nothing outlandish. Oh, the old composing room and press room were gone. No giant inky-black presses to roll later. New clean presses now. And the clattering linotype machines, with their strange, sweet odor of melting lead, were gone. In their places, antiseptic-looking word processors.

I found out Shandy was still alive,

JOEL CLIMENHAGA
Collegian Columnist

over 80 years old now, still writing a chit-chat column two or three times a week. Even though she wasn't supposed to, the editor gave me Shandy's unlisted number so I could call him later.

My wife, together with our daughter, walked with me down the one block to the main intersection of town at the corner of High and Hanover.

I felt a terrible sinking in my stomach. What had been the main section of town had become what was to my eye a shambles.

On the south side of High Street, in what had once been the central business area, four entire blocks had been razed! A vacant area remained, covered with weeds and mounds of dirt. Across that vacant area, on the far skyline, stood the brooding hulk of what had once been the Reading Railroad Station; it was now deserted, waiting to become a skeleton.

Pomery Lucci's Commercial Bar and Grille, which had once been the home of the free lunch and 10 cents a glass draft beer, was gone.

There was no Crystal Restaurant, at one time an all-night joint beyond compare, anymore; in that building was a walk-up sandwich place with narrow booths. I went in, ordered a salami sandwich; it was good, but it didn't match the ones Marty Sahagian had made in the old days. Across the street, the old Merchant's Hotel, where entertainers from off the famed Keith Circuit had come on weekend stands, had been destroyed.

That place which had been Frankie McAndrews' Shuler House, where the newspaper guys had enjoyed many a convivial session after getting off work at three o'clock in the morning, was only a memory. Once there had been several movie houses in the main section of town. All of them had been closed — one burned out, another put to some use other than that of a theatre.

Not until six or eight blocks down the main street, at a corner where there was a funeral home, did the scene become familiar to me again. Half the buildings left were vacant. The windows above the old five-and-dime store were boarded up — obviously closing that old storage area where I had seen the local gambling kingpin beat the underworld czar from Reading at poker early one winter morning in 1942, thereby keeping a red-light district from coming to Pottstown.

The only new building which had been constructed in all those blocks was a bank at the corner of High and Hanover. And to that building up, a clock which had gonged every hour on the hour was removed. In its place was a thing with a face gashed by hands which looked like futuristic spears and, inside the clock-works, some stupid electronic chimes. If it had not been for the deep tolling of the tower clock in the Hanover Street Lutheran Church several blocks up the street, I would have thought I was not in the same town in which I had once lived.

To my eye, the whole scene was hideous.

When I talked with Shandy Hill later, I asked him what had happened. He told me that the town citizenry had been unwilling to support the development of a downtown mall. Several other people expressed the same opinion. Everyone had thought private business would eventually rejuvenate the area. In the middle of redevelopment, however, recession had hit, money had run out, and private business had moved into a giant shopping complex to the north of town — three miles from the old main street.

All this sounds pretty negative, I know. However, my visit to Pottstown wasn't truly unpleasant. Many nice places from the past remained.

Just that downtown area — that's what made my stomach lurch!

Pottstown itself is still a very nice town!

While I was there, I renewed several old acquaintances and saw a number of places which pleased my memory. And I'll write about that in my next column.

Letters

Telethon deserves support, donations

Editor,

Labor Day makes it a three-day weekend. A time for most people to relax. To do some recreational activities, have a little fun, go to the lake, play a little tennis, go drink a few beers with friends. Generally relax, get laid back—

So why should you watch that Jerry Lewis Telethon thing? It's not a fun, mindless activity to do. I mean, the guy will do anything for money. He keeps bombarding you with the plea to give money to help cure this disease, MD.

He acts frantic, like time is running out, he acts like it's real important, like someone was going to die. I would like to say that someone is.

Children, suffering with MD, are in wheelchairs and walking is like a dream, something of long ago. Even before, they lost the ability to raise their arms and even hold their heads up. Before their muscles wasted away, by this disease, MD.

If Jerry Lewis goes to drastic measures to raise money, it's because he has to. Because muscular dystrophy is a drastic disease, nobody gets better. Children are dying from it now — today, as we amuse ourselves with some fun games.

So in this weekend of fun and games, do something responsible. Do something for someone else. Give to Jerry Lewis and the telethon for muscular dystrophy.

I do, and I really don't have to anymore. You see, my youngest brother died from MD two years ago.

Larry Zvolanek
Graduate student in fine arts

Money not a cure-all

Editor,

Darcy Ward's article "Public has to pay for education" addresses a very complex problem only superficially. Ms. Ward's solution is more money. However, in the past two decades we have seen increases in taxes and school budgets but a slip in the quality of education.

The ideas presented in the article are very interesting, but offered no comment as to how one should implement these ideas. If you could motivate teachers and, more importantly, the students, you would have quite an item to sell that would solve 96 percent of today's problems. Being an educator and a taxpayer, I am faced with this problem every day. Money is not the cure for all ailments, and surely not a complete solution to this problem. It is much too easy to ask for money instead of using creativity to come up with ideas. I do not wish to list ideas here or this letter would be too long.

It is not time for the public to put out or shut up but rather it is time for students to put forth more effort.

J.W. Sparapany
Graduate student in chemistry

Spirit group merits support

Editor,

Re: Wednesday's editorial concerning the Wildcat Dancers.

The editor seems to think that the formation of the Wildcat Dancers is an indication of the K-State football team's inability to properly entertain its audience. I quote: "If there isn't enough excitement on the football field, draw the fan's attention off the game and onto the sidelines."

I believe the editor has misinterpreted the purpose of the Wildcat Dancers. I doubt these young ladies spend long hours rehearsing routines and earning money for costumes, etc., in order to get attention from a large crowd of people. There are much easier and less expensive ways to do this.

This K-State spirit group can hardly be compared to professional football cheerleaders. Collegiate performers do not receive salaries for their investments of time, labor and money. Also, their performances are not meant to be viewed in the same light as many of the pro teams' "jiggle girls."

Any individual — dancer, cheerleader, band member, flag corps or drill team member — who volunteers his or her time to contribute to the pageantry of a K-State sporting event deserves a pat on the back — not a slap in the face.

Kay Quinn
Senior in Journalism and mass communications

Program provides job experience; matches student's major with work

By MIKE HEDGES
Collegian Reporter

In a time of financial aid cutbacks, K-State students can find some relief in a bill passed last spring by the Kansas Legislature designed to help state universities fund a work-study program.

"If a student qualifies for our program, he will be matched with an employer in the Manhattan area who owns a business that is in the same area as the student's major," said Bob Evans, director of financial assistance. "We will not put a student in a job that is not related to his major."

The legislature allotted $70,531 to the University which will be matched by K-State. A total budget of $141,062 will be used for the work-study program, Evans said.

Evans also said he believes the program will be beneficial to students.

"A lot of students have the concern that they will have no job experience when they graduate," he said. "This program, along with creating financial assistance to students, is set up to create a kind of stepping stone to finding a job after graduation."

"The program is set up for every student at K-State, but in most cases an upperclassman is given a little more consideration than a freshman applying for the same job," Evans said.

To apply for the program, a student must fill out a Kansas Student Data Form and a Family Financial Statement, both available in Room 116 of Fairchild Hall. Evans said the forms will be available for at least a month.

"We set the student up with the employer, making sure that the work time doesn't interfere with his class schedule. So far, things have gone smoothly," Evans said.

Response to the program has been slow, with 60 to 70 students enrolled in the program, Evans said. He said approximately 75 to 100 students will be accepted for the program, depending on the types of jobs in which they are placed.

"Since this is the first year for the program, a lot of students don't even know that this is available to them. But I'm sure when it gets more publicity, we will have a better response. Right now, for as short a time as we have had the program, I'd say it has been successful," he said.

Businesses in Manhattan have been responsive to the program, said Tom Whalen, director of operations for the Chamber of Commerce.

"The Chamber sent out a response sheet to the businessmen in the Manhattan area, and in all but a couple of cases the general attitude was that this was something that could be beneficial to their business, because they only have to pay half of the (student) employee wages," Whalen said.

State's failure to communicate upsets regents, sparks complaint

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY — Members of a state legislative committee have promised to improve communications with the Kansas Board of Regents, after regents' complaints they were not informed of the possibility of selling the hospital at the University of Kansas Medical Center.

The regents' complaints were aired Thursday when they met at the medical center with six members of the interim legislative budget committee, which is studying the feasibility of such a change.

The possibility of selling the hospital or turning it over to a private management firm was revived in June when it was disclosed that Senate President Ross Doyen and Sen. Paul Hess, R-Wichita, had talked with officials of hospital management companies.

John Montgomery, president of the regents, told legislators at Thursday's meeting he regretted they were pursuing the idea.

"The Board of Regents has never been informed except through the press that you were going to do this," Montgomery said.

But Hess said the possibility of selling the hospital was first brought up two years ago.

"This issue is not new. It isn't some bombshell that all of a sudden exploded. I'm not saying that free enterprise reign and teaching be trash-canned," Hess said.

Hess said the medical center must "aggressively market (and) sell our wares." He noted there is strong competition among area hospitals and that such marketing is necessary.

Bell Memorial Hospital on the medical center campus was completed about four years ago and has often been a source of controversy in the Legislature. Last year the state lost about $6 million at the hospital, but university officials said there was a $5 million balance during the recently completed fiscal year.

"The $5 million balance at the end of fiscal 1983 is not just an accident," Montgomery said. "It's important for us to give this management team the time to do what we know they can do."

Montgomery told Hess, "The constant publicity of your studies isn't beneficial to marketing. Anytime you say you're studying something, that leads people to believe there's something wrong."

J. Riggs West
Join the Fight against Muscular Dystrophy this Labor Day Weekend at J. Riggs West

- POOL-A-THON Starts Sunday Nite at 9 p.m.
- Free Prizes for POOL-A-THON PLAYERS
- Stop in and get your MDA package today.
- Budweiser Auction Monday at 2 p.m.
- Signs, Clocks, Budweiser Merchandise to the Highest Bidder.
- K-State vs KU Challenge Match Mon. at 3 p.m.

$100 PITCHERS
THURS 7-10
FRI 2-6

Robbie Wademan — KSU & Nat. Intercollegiate Pocket Billiard Champion
Jim Conrad — KU Champion 3 yrs.
Free Pool starts 9 p.m. Sun. with Donations to M.D.
Open All Night Sunday 317 Poyntz 776-6338

Blubird

FRIDAY
Playing aftergame (10-2)

- 2 Free Kegs for Freshman (3 p.m.-6 p.m.)
- Open 10 a.m.
- 1982 Football Highlights (All Day)
- 2 for 1's Upper level (4 p.m.-6 p.m.)

SATURDAY
Playing aftergame (10-2)

- 2 Free Kegs for Freshman (3 p.m.-6 p.m.)
- Open 10 a.m.
- 1982 Football Highlights (All Day)
- 2 for 1's Upper level (4 p.m.-6 p.m.)

MONDAY

- NFL Kickoff DALLAS at WASHINGTON
- 75¢ers during mystery quarter
- FREE DRINKS

Guess the number of sacks, fumbles and interceptions by halftime.

The Sports Fan-atic
Laramie at 12th—Aggville
Office: 539-0525, Bar 539-9849

ALL YOU CAN EAT
FRIDAYS
$3.95
Taco Buffet

This Friday evening, from 5 to 8 p.m., in Reynard's Backroom fill yourself with Tacos, Tostitos, Sanchos, homemade Chili and Spicy Cheese Dip. Drink up on 50¢ steins and 12 pitchers.

REYNARD'S EAST Restaurant
ONE FREE BEER WITH TACO BUFFET

IN THE WILMINGTON CENTER
OPEN 8:00 a.m. - 8 p.m. Mon-Sat. 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. Sun.

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRINKERY

Tonite
Old time Rock n' Roll & Free Hors d'oeuvres
Happy Hour: 4-8
2 Fers on HiBalls 75¢ Draws
$2 Blended Drinks
Saturday
(Opening at 1:00)
Pre-game sandwiches & don't forget our game day bus to the stadium.
Drink of the Week:
49er Grinder $1.25
Memberships Available
531 N. Manhattan Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

The shortest distance between two schools is Long Distance.

With friends at other schools you can compare what's in... and what's out.

Discuss the itinerary for your next trip, and encourage your friend not to be quite so well prepared. ("I just don't think you'll need your skis in New York City...")

Solicit and/or provide solace and encouragement in the depths of a mid-term all-nighter.

The fact is, being away at different schools just gives you that much more to talk about. Luckily, when you call anyone in Kansas after 11 pm weeknights, or anytime between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday, you can talk 10 minutes for $1.68*. Or less, depending on where you call. Going away to school is even more fun when you share it with a friend. Especially a friend who's away at school!

Reach out and touch someone.

Southwestern Bell

*Price applies to calls dialed One-Plus without operator assistance. Same rate applies from 11pm to 8am every night. Tax not included.

Briefly

By the Associated Press

Goat gets crash course in driving

REELSVILLE, Ind. — A nanny goat that decided to take a crash course in driving promptly totaled an ice cream truck into a hickory tree.

It happened Wednesday when Ronald Lee, 26, stopped his roaming truck to take a curbside order from Devon Fellows.

Lee engaged the parking break and left the door open. Suddenly, the goat jumped into the cab, apparently knocked off the brake and, with Lee and Fellows watching, took the truck down a hill into the tree, state trooper David Collins said.

The goat wasn't hurt, but "she was bellowing — or whatever they do," Collins said.

Volleyball spells trouble for police

SUPERIOR, Wis. — The sport of volleyball has been serving up some trouble for police in this northwestern Wisconsin city.

Chief Robert Bennett wants the City Council to prohibit bars from serving liquor to patrons playing on adjacent volleyball courts.

"There is no way we can enforce complaints of loud, boisterous and other disturbances of the peace and public order ordinances and statutes, if the athletic contests are licensed outside of the premises," Bennett said in a report to the council.

Owners of two Superior taverns, the Ale Haus and Hennessy's 3-Star Lanes, have asked the council to extend their liquor licenses to include volleyball courts adjoining their property.

Ale Haus owner Gerald Engleking credits the popularity of volleyball with saving his business and would like to enhance profits by serving — liquor — on the court.

But the police chief said, "It is true that once these off-premises are licensed, nothing prohibits them from golf-putting tournaments, rock concerts, mud-wrestling contests, male and female strip contests and numerous other undesirable activities not conducive for public display on the main streets of a city."

Engleking objected, saying his court is out of the public's vision and he's willing to put up a fence to keep minors out and litter in. He also said there have been no complaints about the volleyball.

Cruise ship hits oil tanker

ISTANBUL, Turkey — A Turkish cruise ship and a Cypriot oil tanker collided in the Dardanelles Strait, but there were no injuries and only slight damage, a port authority source reported Thursday.

The source, who requested anonymity, said the 8,089-ton Turkish cruise ship Akdeniz and the Cypriot Dona Myrto collided Wednesday night in the Nara Burnu point of the 41-mile-long waterway which opens into the Aegean Sea.

The 17,383-ton freighter suffered "insignificant" cracks in its hull close to its gangway, the official said. The ship was carrying diesel oil to Lebanon from an unspecified Soviet port in the Black Sea, he said.

The Turkish passenger ship, with 243 Turks aboard, sustained holes in the starboard section but steamed to Izmir on the Aegean after emergency repairs, the official said.

Gas chamber awaits killer

PARCHMAN, Miss. — Jimmy Lee Gray, convicted of raping, sodomizing and suffocating a 3-year-old girl, waited Thursday to die in Mississippi's gas chamber just after midnight, having lost a last-ditch appeal to the nation's highest court.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused in a 6-3 decision to stop Gray's execution, apparently dashing his last hope to avoid stepping into the stainless steel death chamber at 12:01 a.m. Friday.

"He appears to be relatively calm," Corrections Commissioner Morris Thigpen said of the slightly built Gray, who waited in a small death row cell a few feet from the gas chamber.

"He seemingly accepted what is going to happen."

Gray, 34, spent the day meeting with friends and ministers and talked on the telephone with his mother and brother, who live out of state.

None of Gray's relatives was to be among the witnesses to the execution. His mother twice told state officials she wanted her son to die for the 1976 slaying of Deressa Jean Scales, a child who lived near his apartment while he worked as a computer programmer in Pascagoula.

Prosecutors said Gray sexually abused the child, suffocated her by holding her head in a mud puddle and then threw her body from a bridge.

Carter reverses stand on Salvador

WASHINGTON — Former President Jimmy Carter, who recently described the Salvadoran government as "one of the most bloodthirsty" in the world, said Thursday he believes the United States should support that government while insisting on improved protection of human rights there.

Speaking with reporters after testifying in private before the National Commission on Central America headed by former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Carter said he agrees with the administration that it is proper for the United States to oppose Nicaraguan-based subversion and to support the Salvadoran government.

"At the same time, we should pursue aggressively the alleviation of social suffering and the enhancement of human rights," Carter said.

Carter said he has no doubt that such a policy would win adequate support from the American public and Congress when combined with U.S. support for regional peacemaking efforts.

Carter's remarks appeared to contrast sharply with those he made six weeks ago when he said, "I don't agree with what President Reagan is doing in Central America."

At the time, he said Reagan had reversed his policy of linking military aid to improved human rights performance in El Salvador, which he described as "one of the most bloodthirsty regimes, perhaps in the world."

French ambassador visits Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — The French ambassador to the United States, Bernard Vernier-Palliez, arrived Thursday to represent his nation at the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris.

The treaty formally ended the Revolutionary War and pushed the boundaries of the United States farther west to include the area that is now Indiana.

"Of course, France was there as the godfather at this baptism of independence," Vernier-Palliez said shortly after his arrival for a three-day celebration of seminars and speeches by American and French scholars that ends with a re-enactment of the signing.

"We know that but for France, the United States would not exist and but for the United States, France would not be a free country anymore, so that creates tremendous links between the countries," the ambassador said.

Quadruplets separated for school

TURLOCK, Calif. — Like most mothers seeing her kids off for their first day in kindergarten, Connie Smith offered these words of caution: "Don't get dirty."

The warning was for Gavin, but it easily could have been meant for Trevor or Kirstin or Meredith — the rest of the quadruplet 5-year-olds of Connie and Roger Smith.

The Smith quadruplets began kindergarten at Crowell Elementary School on Wednesday, excited about their new experience.

The hugged their mother outside the school 100 miles southeast of San Francisco, then held hands as they headed inside.

The children, born Nov. 3, 1977, were split into two classes but will attend the same morning session.

"Trevor and Meredith are the most dominant of the four, so they were put in one class, and Kirstin and Gavin were put in another," Mrs. Smith said.

Controversial report to stay in library

By LEE WHITE
Collegian Reporter

A report showing specific locations of archaeological remains near Tuttle Creek Reservoir won't be removed from Farrell Library as requested by a ranger at the local office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, a library official said Tuesday.

Leslie Manning, associate dean of libraries, said the corps-sponsored report will not be removed from the library, but may be moved to a section where it can be checked out only on request.

No one will be denied access to the report, Manning said.

The controversy concerning the publication began about a month ago when Paul Weidhaas, a corps ranger at Tuttle Creek, asked the library to place the report in a collection to which the public would be denied access.

Weidhaas said he found the report while doing research in Farrell and asked that it be removed from the shelves because he feared vandals might damage the 132 sites listed in the report.

Weidhaas' letter stated that because the report was not listed as material required by the Freedom of Information Act to be released, then the report should not be accessible to the public, Manning said.

"I took a look at that letter and told her it was the library's decision whether to remove the material," University Attorney Richard Seaton said. Calling Weidhaas' action attempted censorship would be "carrying it a bit too far," he added.

Seaton said although his job is not to decide whether the library should keep a book on its shelves, he would leave the report in some type of circulation.

Weidhaas said the sites, all on government property, are targets for vandals and those attempting to steal artifacts. Although Weidhaas said there is a problem with people damaging the remains, he has never arrested anyone for that offense.

"I have talked to someone picking up arrowheads on government property, but I got the feeling he just didn't know any better," Weidhaas said. Stealing from or damaging archaeological remains on government property is a federal offense.

Law enforcement agencies charged with protecting the Tuttle Creek area include the corps, the Kansas Fish and Game Commission, the Kansas Park and Resources Authority, the Riley County Police Department and the Marshall and Pottawatomie counties' sheriff departments.

Weidhaas said although the agencies are necessary to protect the area, it is unlikely they will catch anyone in the act of damaging the remains because the sites are spread over a wide area. Signs that could be placed at the sites to ward off trespassers would only call attention to the locations, he said.

Another reason Weidhaas wants the report kept confidential is that one of the sites listed in the report has been registered on the National List of Historic Places.

"All the site is is a field," Weidhaas said. "It has been excavated and everything of value, to a point, has been taken out."

Archaeologists from the Smithsonian Institution, K-State and the University of Kansas have excavated the site which contained material dating back to 4000 B.C., Weidhaas said.

Tuttle Creek's sites are not like the Indian ruins in New Mexico and Arizona, Weidhaas said, and when work is not being done on a site, most people wouldn't know the site was there.

Weidhaas said he didn't know from which corps department Farrell received the report, but it was supposed to be placed in "special collections."

Manning said the library purchased the report from either the corps or the KU Museum of Anthropology. One copy may have come from the Government Printing Service, she said.

Robert Ziegler, who wrote the report for the corps while a KU graduate student in 1976, said he cannot understand how restricting access to the report would protect the sites.

Ziegler said the five maps in the report are not highly detailed, but he did include the sites' quarter and section numbers so people could locate the remains.

Seaton and Weidhaas both said they haven't considered litigation over the matter.

If Farrell officials don't remove the report, Weidhaas said he will "make some phone calls and try to get a hold of the person in charge" at the library.

"We feel very comfortable with (Seaton's) decision," Manning said.

This is the second request this year to remove material from Farrell, she said. A request by an alleged author to have his work removed was denied, Manning said, because the library owned the book and officials didn't believe the person who contacted them was the author.

March of Dimes
SAVES BABIES

HELP FIGHT
BIRTH DEFECTS

Happy
B-Day
P.D. Baby

Love You
Tomorrow —
And Even Longer!

Joanie Baby

Kitchens Plus
BRIDAL REGISTRY
Call or stop
for details
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046
"The Department Store"

Mobile Acoustics

the car stereo professionals

$10.00
Layaway

Car Stereo Blowout

Every item in the store on sale . . .

Concord—Blaupunkt—Westport Labs—Proton—Jensen—Majestic—Pyle—Pioneer—Sanyo—Marantz—Alphasonik—Clarion—Roadstar—Magnadyne—Kenwood—Boston Acoustics—ADS—Sony—Linear—Zapco—Audio Mobile.

3rd & Bluemont

Sony
LN90
$1.50 each

ONLY

2
D
A
Y
S
L
E
F
T

F
R
I.S
A
T.

Local Businessman Suffers From Saletosis

John R. Heritage, owner and founder of The Sound Shop and co-owner of Mobile Acoustics, was found this morning committing bizarre retail acts. At press time he was still wildly lowering prices on all home and car stereo gear at both locations. He is suffering from the rare but noncommunicable disease, saletosis, characterized by a flagrant disregard for retail prices and total obsession with quality service. He holds the office of president in the Department of Redundancy Department where he is president.

His outstanding achievements as Head of Concerned Apathetics may never be known since he failed to attend a single meeting in five years. He also took great pride in the fact that he would not join any organization that would have him as a member.

The detrimental effects his condition has on prices may be viewed at The Sound Shop—1204 Moro in Aggieville or at Mobile Acoustics, 3rd & Bluemont anytime between 10:30 and 6:00 this Friday and Saturday.

—Advertisement—

ALL equipment in the store is on sale.

$10.00 Layaway

Home Stereo

1204 Moro

Blowout

"your sound alternative"

Yamaha—Technics—Mitsubishi—Sanyo—JBL—Boston Acoustics—Nakamichi—Kenwood—NAD—Pioneer—DCM—Onkyo—AKAI—Bose—ADS—JVC—Hitachi—AAL—B&O.

Maxell
C90UDXLII
$2.99 ea.

Historic church keeps town alive

The Beecher Bible and Rifle Church

By CATHY KARLIN
Features Editor

It was hot in the church.

A doubtful breeze sifted lazily through the gnarled elms and Scotch pines, which did little to shade the church from the simmering August sun.

Only a few cars traveled by on the rock and gravel roads of Waubunsee — past the house where old Captain Mitchell used to hide runaway slaves in his attic or past the graveyard where a century of blasting prairie winds have nearly erased the names and dates from the tombstones of Waubunsee's first citizens. The most noticeable reminder of the pioneers from Connecticut who came to Kansas to fight slavery, however, is the church.

It stands, in silent splendor, only 15 miles from the K-State campus.

But to visit the Beecher Bible and Rifle Church is to travel more than a hundred years back in time.

On the last Sunday in August, while the nation celebrated the 20th anniversary of the momentous Freedom March to Washington led by Martin Luther King Jr., the people of Waubunsee were remembering another journey for freedom. They gathered in the old church, which is believed to be the first interracial Congregational Church in Kansas, for their annual homecoming celebration — a time to honor their ancestors who came west with Bibles and rifles to defend their faith and ideas of freedom.

The homecomers are becoming older and fewer in number — only about 20 this year — and the meeting was shorter than usual because of the heat. But the important thing is that they remember.

As its name implies, the Beecher Bible and Rifle Church was founded by people who were serious about defending their faith and freedom.

It was during the cold Connecticut winter of 1856 that the dream for the church in Kansas originated. Feelings against the newly-passed Kansas-Nebraska Act (which enabled Kansas settlers to decide the state's position on slavery) were at their peak when a group of New Haven citizens formed a group dedicated to making Kansas a free state.

According to the Andreas History of Kansas, on Feb. 17, 1856, Charles B. Lines announced his intention to start a colony in Waubunsee. In less than a week, 85 people had volunteered for the venture — leaving their homes and businesses to move west.

Membership increased to 90 at the group's first meeting. Lines, as their president, gave a short talk explaining the purpose of the colony and the necessity of having the public help supply the colonists with weapons. By the close of the meeting, 27 Sharps rifles had been pledged to the colony, 25 of which were pledged by famous Congregational minister and abolitionist Henry Ward Beecher.

A farewell meeting for the colonists was held March 31. Beecher presented each of the members with a Bible and a rifle "to defend his faith and ideas of freedom." He continued:

"In Kansas, let these rifles hang above your doors as the old revolutionary muskets do in the New England homes. May your children in another generation look upon them with pride."

With this stirring farewell, the organization set out for Kansas and reached their destination April 28.

Only 41 of the original members survived the trip. Those who arrived in Waubunsee worked to organize the mile-square town into streets and city lots. The settlers also formed the nucleus of "The Prairie Guard" and spent six weeks defending Lawrence from attacks by border ruffians from Missouri.

Besides using their rifles, the colonists made sure they expressed their ideals through less violent means.

They built a church from native stone and walnut wood. Complete with belfry, balcony, hand-hewn pews and plenty of hitching posts in the church yard, the First Church of Christ was dedicated in May 1862. However, in memory of its colorful history, the church has always been identified as the Beecher Bible and Rifle Church.

The aging process of the church

Staff/Andy Nelson

Beecher Bible and Rifle Church member Maxine Sumners leans on a pew to tell about the history of the church.

can be traced in the time-worn grooves which have roughened the exterior walls. Man-made changes have also left their mark on the church.

The rows of straight-backed pews are no longer divided by a wooden partition in order to separate the men and women. In 1901, a tapering spire and vestibule were added, along with an iron fence to encircle the church yard. In 1956, a youth group put in a new floor, a tile ceiling and replaced the old coal stoves with modern heaters.

Throughout the years, the church has suffered from periods of nonuse and disrepair. However, weekly services have been held for the past 33 years — with the original bell to toll the call to church.

"We're not ones for fine or fancy clothes, but come for the word of God," said 85-year-old Ethel Morgan, lifelong resident of Waubunsee and the first black member of the congregation.

"We try to be friendly and make everyone welcome. It should be that way in God's house," she said.

According to Maxine Sumners, services are held by two preachers from Wamego who alternate Sundays.

"We also have a lot of people fill the pulpit just to say they've preached here," Sumners added.

Another regular member of the congregation is 83-year-old Shelby Campbell, who drives over from Westmoreland every Sunday. Because the Beecher Church is one of Kansas' historical landmarks, Campbell said he thought he'd "better beef up the attendance. I want to keep the church going. I like the services, they're a lot simpler. I don't like complicated rituals."

The size of the congregation has dwindled to about 12 regular members — less than half the amount of the 28 charter members. The size of the town also has dwindled. The store and post office are gone, and the Waubunsee school has been divided into apartments.

"Nothing, really, is keeping us

(the town) alive," Sumners said.

Though passers-by might agree that there are little signs of life in Waubunsee, Ethel Morgan would offer another opinion. She said her friends and neighbors share a sense of community and commitment which began with the people whose names and "Born in New Haven" can still be read on the crumbling tombstones nearby.

"The people here — there are no words to describe how kind they are," Morgan said. "I don't want for anything. When I'm sick they write me, send cards, pray for me."

"I'd rather be here than anywhere else on earth."

SUNDAY NIGHT

Fried Chicken & Spaghetti $3.95

All you can eat
5:30-7:30

At the Ramada Inn

WATERBED $140.00
COMPLETE

Includes:

Unfinished Extended Frame, Standard Plywood Pedestal and Deck, Heater and Thermostat, Stand Up Liner, Lap Seam Full Flotation Mattress, Fill Kit, and Water Treatment

$70.00
Everything except the wood!
KITS

Park Avenue Waterbeds
1217 MORO AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN

INTERNATIONAL FOODS

921 N. Washington
Junction City, Ks.
Phone: 238-7654

Foods from
Puerto Rico, Trinidad, Norte, Centro, Sur America, Nigeria, Jamaica, Thailand, China, Mexico, Germany and many other countries.

OPEN
10 a.m.-6 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

1128 Moro
Friday, Saturday & Sunday—10% Off all tapes
all new releases

M-Sat 10-6:30
Thurs 10-9:00
Sun 1-5

539-8727

EAT WITH US SUNDAYS!

Sandwiches & Kurly K Fries
5-8:00 p.m.

Hickory Smoked Bar-B-Que
5 p.m.-10 p.m.

All You Can Eat Bar-B-Que $5.95

Dinner Menu
5:30-8:30 p.m.

Aggieville

CATS

With the Cat's '83 football season approaching we'd like to remind fans of Manhattan city ordinances concerning alcohol consumption.

It is unlawful for any person to drink, consume or have in possession an open container of cereal malt beverage while upon public streets, alleys, public parking lots, roads or highways within the city.

Penalties for those found guilty of violating any of the above provisions:

- (1) $10-$100 in fines,
- (2) up to 30 days imprisonment, or
- (3) both a fine and imprisonment.

Alcohol & other Drug Education Service
101A Holton Hall, 512-6412
Funded by SRS Alcohol & Drug Abuse Services

VILLAGE PLAZA SUPER WEEKEND

FRI SAT SUN

SUPER WEEKEND

ALL LEATHER PRO TURF
150
Reg $9.95
SUPER SALE $49.95

(In Stock Only)
Mon-Fri 9-8
Sat 9-6
Sun 12-5

SUPER WEEKEND

SALE!
14K Gold Earrings
NOW 50% OFF
Hurry, or you'll miss our spectacular, 14K gold earring sale! Fashion designs, originally $20-450 are now on sale for 50% off.
PFEFFLEY JEWELERS
539-1751

SUPER WEEKEND

MENS

Shirts and Knits
All Short Sleeves S-M-L-XL
Levis; Kennington; DEE-CEE

$9.99

FASHION WORLD

SUPER WEEKEND

TAKE OUT ONLY! INDIVIDUAL SPAGHETTI $1.50
Sauce or meatballs

537-4350 Restaurant

Special programs to enhance fall performances at McCain

By LORI BERTELS
Staff Writer

Special programs designed to enhance each of the performances at McCain Auditorium have been added to this year's schedule.

The first of these programs is the Green Room Series, which will be in the Green Room of McCain for 30 minutes preceding an evening's performance, said Doreen Bauman, director of McCain.

The first of the Green Room Series will host Joseph Schwantner, composer-in-residence for the St. Louis Symphony, scheduled to perform Sept. 12, said Edith Hinrichs, head of audience development at McCain.

Schwantner will play and explain one composition he was commissioned to write for the St. Louis Symphony and will discuss some other contemporary musical pieces.

"Schwantner also will hold a workshop for music majors and composition students to demonstrate his method of composition and to discuss music as a career," Hinrichs said.

The Green Room lectures are open to anyone holding a ticket for that night's McCain performance.

Coffee Concerts, a second McCain attraction, will be in the lobby of McCain before the evening's scheduled event. The performers at these concerts will be either faculty or student groups provided by the music department, Bauman said.

The Coffee Concerts "are open to anyone who happens to walk through the lobby during the performance," she added.

"The Steve Landesberg First and Last Annual Stand Up Comic Competition" is another event sponsored by McCain this year as a prelude to Landesberg's performance Sept. 23.

The comic competition, which is limited to K-State students, starts at 7 p.m. Sept. 14, in McCain with a preliminary screening of the competing comics.

Judging of the comic's seven- to ten-minute routine will be done by selected students and faculty members. Finalists will compete in a "comic showdown at high noon in the Union courtyard" on Monday, Sept. 19, Hinrichs said.

Finalists will receive T-shirts that say they were finalists in the competition and tickets to the Landesberg show.

The winner will perform five minutes of comedy on stage with Landesberg at the opening of the show and will be invited to a reception for Landesberg after the performance.

Landesberg said he "would rather do five minutes of schtick with the winner" than have the winner perform alone, Hinrichs said.

Another way awareness of McCain performances will be spread is through mini-concerts performed by students. These concerts will be in the Union courtyard at noon sometime during the week of a McCain event. Complimentary tickets to that week's show at McCain will be in return for students' services or performances.

"There will be a dance performance if a dance company will be performing, and if it's a theater company — something theatrical," Bauman said.

The new review review

A huge tractor truck is on display in the Union.

The truck, part of the exhibit "Ways of Seeing," is located in the Art Gallery next to the Little Theater through Sept. 9.

If you've never stopped by the gallery, you ought to — especially if you're like me, don't know too much about painting, and walk around looking at art displays saying things like, "That's nice."

But if you couldn't say why you think that's nice, then this particular exhibit might help you become more of a critic.

In keeping with my general ideas on the function of a critic, I'm not going to review this exhibit because, quite frankly, I still don't know what I'm talking about.

I know that I learned something, namely the formal elements of the visual arts which are color, line, shape, paint texture and light. Or maybe I already knew that but just forgot.

This is a fantastic first exhibit for the gallery because it provides something concrete to use when evaluating the forthcoming exhibits.

TOM DOWNING
Collegian Reviewer

Reviewers never see things the way I do.

But that's the point of criticism. We both see the same thing, but you see something different — why is this? "Ways of Seeing" shows you the answer, tells you the answer, and if you stand in the gallery and talk to someone else, you can participate in the answer.

When you think about it, this is what makes being human a wondrous experience. Forget about your assignments for a moment. Think about the applications of this in everyday life.

Your professor sees your design project as a jumble of useless lines, but you see it as a dishwasher. You walk into an apartment and a young woman is seated on the couch looking like she's stoned. But upon closer examination, you understand what she is really doing. She is looking at an Escher print.

Finally, you read an article in the Collegian labeled review, and you expect to read some guy's opinion about the latest Union Art Gallery show, but instead you find something else which could or could not be a review.

"Ways of Seeing" shows that there are different ways of looking at the same thing. It makes statements about the role of the artist and how he or she functions in society. The same thing can be said for critics.

You won't agree with everything I have to say — maybe only a small portion — or perhaps nothing at all. I always read other people's reviews with scorn.

Critics give away too much of the story. Why go to a movie if you already know that Dustin Hoffman gets the kid in the end?

This week's cable movie highlights in review

By MICHAEL YOUNG
Collegian Reviewer

Mr. Halpren and Mr. Johnson

Cable TV business is now big enough to produce some of its own programming. One of these made-for-cable ventures premiered last weekend on HBO.

"Mr. Halpren and Mr. Johnson" stars Laurence Olivier and Jackie Gleason, in the respective title roles. It is a chance to see two contrasting masters together.

Halpren, who has retired from a warehouse job, is burying his beloved wife, Flo, when the show opens. The well-dressed Johnson, who is an accountant, asks to place a flower on the grave. Halpren is surprised that a stranger would make such a request, but he is even more confused when Johnson says he wasn't a stranger to Flo.

Most of the film is structured around the title characters' meeting for drinks a few weeks later. Johnson tries to explain the long-term relationship that began before Halpren and his wife were married. Halpren can only find innuendos and accusations.

Olivier, who rules the scenes, has a few moments when his character is not portrayed as a whining, old twit, but through much of the long scene in the bar, his shrill voice is unpleasant and seems unnecessary. Gleason has measured each gesture and inflection, and sometimes he can be caught remembering, not acting.

Both men still demonstrate great talent, but they don't have the right vehicle. The story skips over their many emotions; and the direction, for both the actors and the camera, is static and unimaginative.

The drama's basic idea and Gleason and Olivier's craftsmanship still make this show interesting and somewhat engaging — if not enthralling.

Gregory's Girl

"Gregory's Girl" is a small film. It wasn't made with a big studio budget or stars. It also is from the unusual cinematic source of Scotland.

Although it is very Scottish in the sound of the dialogue and the setting, it is a universal movie.

Gregory (Gordon John Sinclair) is a gangly high school soccer player. His team has lost eight games before the first frame is shown. His coach, Dorothy (Dee Hepburn), opens Gregory's starting spot for the best available athlete.

Sinclair gives a wonderful performance as the unbelievably shy and happily-romantic Gregory. His little sister teaches him the ways of the world. His parents are hardly ever seen and make dates with Gregory for breakfast — like business meetings.

Dorothy is an attractive, self-assured blonde who is clearly the team's best player. She captures Gregory's fancy — along with the fancy of the rest of the lecherous school.

Praise is due for the film's unending attack of the funny and the touching. There is the high jumper who doesn't jump, Gregory's unforgettable answer when a girl asks him out, and the "hand ballet" at sunset.

The supporting cast is alive and disciplined for their age. It's not an especially deep film, but it is lovingly honest about the transitions in life.

Vice Squad

"Vice Squad" is a useless, bloody, adolescent eruption of the violence we've all heard is in the streets. The typical burnt-out cop gets the usual prostitute with the thinnest appearance of a heart-of-gold, but with all the warmth of linoleum at morning, to catch the standard psychopathic pimp. There's no reason to care about these characters or this film, unless you're into mindless senselessness.

'Sweet dreams' come true after years of musical study

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — She studied the classics at London's Royal Academy of Music, and he ran off with a band at age 14 and went on to play every kind of music from African to medieval.

But together, as the Eurythmics, Annie Lennox and David Stewart have taken the world by storm with the hit, "Sweet Dreams Are Made of This." They also have a surprising stage show that sizzles with some of the best blue-eyed soul to cross the Atlantic in recent memory.

Make that green-eyed soul. With her huge emerald eyes, iridescent orange crew cut and masculine attire, Lennox looks like a technicolor Grace Jones. But her "get-down" song stylings are reminiscent of Aretha Franklin.

So, how does a nice girl from Aberdeen, Scotland learn to sing like that?

"When I was 15 and starting to go out with boys, I used to sneak out to dances when I could," she says in a pleasant Scottish burr during a recent tour stop in Los Angeles. "Although I didn't realize it, the music was all Motown — people like Otis Redding, the Supremes. I think I was more influenced by that than by the Beatles."

But it was not until she was past her teens that she seriously took up singing. She spent three years studying flute and piano at the Royal Academy. Her classical training gave her a strong sense of rhythm and harmony which she has put to use with the Eurythmics.

"Thanks To Our Customers" WE COULDN'T HAVE DONE IT WITHOUT YOU

There may have been times during the past few weeks when you were inconvenienced by the strike that affected our company. Sometimes, that meant you had to wait a little: for a number from Directory Assistance, maybe, or to have a phone installed or repaired, or even to place a long distance call. When those things happened, you weren't getting the service you were accustomed to, but you were patient and understanding, and we did our best to live up to your good faith.

Well, the work stoppage at the phone company that caused some of the delays in your service is over now. We're pleased to say that all our employees are back on the job. We missed them, and we're glad to be working side by side again, because we have a lot of work to do. We want to catch up in places where we might have fallen behind during the work stoppage, and we have to get ready for January 1, 1984, when the Bell System is broken up and Southwestern Bell starts a new company and history of serving your telecommunications needs to your satisfaction.

We will be telling you more about the new Southwestern Bell as we approach January 1. For now, the one thing we really want to say is that we appreciate you as customers, and we're going to do our absolute best to keep you pleased with us.

Thanks for your patience and cooperation. You were great.

Southwestern Bell

Why pay more for "go anywhere" shoes?

$14
Reg. $16.99

You could pay more, but why?

Payless Shoe Source

Near Bluemont & Tuttle Creek Blvd.
(Adjacent to Wal-Mart Shopping Center)
Open 9 am - 9 pm Daily, 12 - 6 pm Sunday

© 1983 Volume Shoe Corporation

Saturday's showdown to feature Dillon

By JOEL TORCZON
Copy Editor

K-State fans will finally get to see whether the football team will "keep on tracking" — as the promotional slogan says — when the Wildcats open its 87th season of intercollegiate football against California State University, Long Beach at 7 p.m. Saturday in KSU Stadium.

The game — which marks the first meeting between the two teams — will be one of three non-conference home games to be played under newly installed lights — the first permanent lights installed in school or Big Eight Conference history.

The Cats, who are coming off their first winning season (6-5-1) since 1970 and their first bowl appearance (Independence Bowl), will face a stiff obstacle in their quest to repeat or better last year's showing — 49ers quarterback Todd Dillon, an all-conference first team and honorable mention All-American selection.

"Todd Dillon is an impressive young man," said Coach Jim Dickey, who begins his sixth season as the Cats' head mentor. "He's a good thrower and moves in the pocket to avoid the rush effectively."

"He doesn't run often, but when he does, it's for good yardage. We'll have to keep him contained."

Dillon, a 6-foot, 190-pound junior college transfer (San Joaquin Delta College, Stockton, Calif.), wreaked havoc with opposing defensive secondaries in his first major college competition last season as he led the nation in total offense in a single year with 3,587 yards; 3,517 of that through the air.

In addition to becoming the No. 2 man in National Collegiate Athletic Association history for his offensive output, he set 16 school and Pacific Coast Athletic Association records.

Dillon is one reason why the 49ers are pre-season conference favorites. Last year, after a 1-3 start, Dillon helped the team close the season in a 5-2 rush, including a second-place conference finish to undefeated Fresno State University with a 5-1 mark.

In one game, Dillon burned pre-season conference favorite San Jose State University for 453 yards in a 22-21 upset, which earned him Sports Illustrated Offensive Player of the Week. He also unleashed a school record 59 passes against Fresno State.

What does all this mean for K-State's defensive secondary, which suffered the loss of key performers including Greg Best, Jim Bob Morris, Gary Morrill and Phil Switzer?

"They (Long Beach) will present an immediate challenge to our defense, particularly our secondary," Dickey said. "We're young and inexperienced back there the way it is, so to open with such a great passing team like Long Beach is really a way to learn quickly."

"Looking at Dillon on film, he's just a tremendously gifted passer. He'll be as good as (any quarterback) we face all year."

Though the Wildcats will lose the "K-State Eight," last year's eight senior starters who sacrificed their 1981 seasons to return in 1982, they now have the "Faithful 54," a group of 54 players who have redshirted at some point in their careers to add numbers which they hope to compete with.

While the Cats return only five starters on offense and four on defense, the older, more mature players in the upper classes may give K-State back-to-back winning seasons. The last time such a feat occurred was in 1953-54.

"Everybody's been talking about the redshirt deal (the loss of red-shirted seniors) and how we're going to fall flat on our face this year. I think we have a chance to be the best team K-State has ever had," said Doug Bogue, a fifth-year senior who will be the Cats' starting signal-caller against the 49ers.

Bogue's primary receiver will most likely be junior split end Mike Wallace, an all-Big Eight selection a year ago when he caught 37 passes for 693 yards including a school record six touchdown grabs in one season.

Greg Dageforde will get the nod at the tailback spot in place of injured Josefatu Faraimo and team up with fullback Mark Hundley.

The two will run behind an offensive line which lost four of five starters from last year's squad. Despite being inexperienced, the line will be huge. At the tackles will be juniors Jeff Koyl, (6-5, 273) and the lone returning starter, Damian Johnson, (6-5, 280). The guard spots will be taken up by Randy Voelker, (6-4, 254) and Calvin Switzer, (6-1, 256). Andy Harding, (6-2, 233), will replace injured senior starter, Jim Northcutt, at center.

On the defensive side, it will be up to all-Big Eight first team tackle Reggie Singletary and end L.E. Madison to help out the secondary by putting pressure on Dillon, and it is this that has Dave Currey, 49ers' head coach, worried.

"K-State has two impressive individuals — (Reggie) Singletary and (L.E.) Madison. If you can't block them, then you won't be able to pass or run," Currey pointed out. "Aggressive defense is what gave Kansas State its success last year."

Not a starter returns among the linebackers and defensive backs, nevertheless, Currey said that shouldn't be the main factor in deciding the outcome of the game.

"It's the first game, and the mistake made in this game will be a major factor and the kicking game," Currey said. "K-State has a good kicking game."

"K-State is impressive, sound...makes very little mistakes — if any — (and is) a well-coached, well-disciplined team."

Currey said he finds the preparation for this game a difficult one.

"We haven't seen them (K-State) before," he said. "They present us with a lot of problems in preparing a game strategy."

Despite being considered conference favorites, Currey said he nevertheless is excited about competing against K-State.

"K-State is our biggest challenge for us. I have a lot of respect for the Big Eight and K-State," he said.

"We are ready to play a game. We've been hitting ourselves for some time."

The 49ers will have 14 starters back — seven each on offense and defense.

"We're a veteran team returning — we have many players that played last year," Currey pointed out.

Among the returning veterans expected to help the 49ers include running back Lenny Montgomery, offensive tackle Lloyd Taylor and linebacker David Howard, who were all-PCAA first team and Associated Press All-America honorable mention selections in 1982.

TODD DILLON...
HIS 3,587 YARDS IN TOTAL OFFENSE IN A SEASON RANKS HIM NO. 2 IN NCAA HISTORY... IN HIS FIRST SEASON FOR LONG BEACH 49'ERS!

Currey said he hopes the players besides Dillon will contribute and give the 49ers a balanced attack.

"Our goal is not to throw as much, not to lead the nation in passing, but to win more football games," he said.

That may be comforting news to the Cats' defensive secondary, but they should still be wary.

After all, Dillon was reported by the 49er coach to be "further along than he was at this time last year."

"He is in excellent shape, but just needs a little rest now and some time to sharpen up for the game."

Carol Adolph, ticket manager, said she expects a crowd of approximately 23,000 for the night game with Long Beach.

The night game "gives no real advantage (for either team)," Currey notes. "We will have a chance to practice under the lights before the game."

"It should be an exciting game."

Tommy McVay

Dave McGinnis

Bob Long

Football coaching staff adds three

By The Collegian Staff

Three new assistants have recently joined Head Coach Jim Dickey and other members of the K-State football coaching staff.

Bob Long, Dave McGinnis and Tommy McVay said they are greatly impressed with Dickey's football program and the quality of players on the squad.

Long, a 1971 K-State graduate, is no stranger to Wildcat football, having lettered as a split end for K-State in 1968 and 1969. He also worked as a graduate assistant.

Last year, Long served as head football and wrestling coach at Wyandotte High School in Kansas City. During the 1981 season, he was defensive coordinator and strength coach at Coffeyville Community College.

Long will coach the tight ends at K-State.

McGinnis is familiar with the high quality of Big Eight athletes since he acted as junior varsity coach and head of the defense secondary at the University of Missouri from 1975-77.

McGinnis, a 1973 graduate of Texas Christian University, is responsible for coaching the Wildcat defensive ends.

K-State's signal callers will no doubt be guided by a winner, as Coach McVay has compiled an impressive 100-32-1 Kansas prep coaching record in 13 years.

McVay, who recently finished a 10-year term as head coach for Derby High School, led the 6A team to four league, district and regional championships and a second place state finish in 1975. He was honored as the Ark Valley League Coach of the Year in 1974, 1975 and 1982 and compiled a sparkling 74-27 record while at Derby.

Before coaching at Derby, McVay guided Protection High School to a three-year record of 26-5-1 and the 1972 state 1A runnerup title.

McVay's philosophy of coaching involves motivating players.

"All kids want to be motivated," said McVay, a 1967 graduate of Southeastern Oklahoma College. "I try to get kids to believe that they're as good as their opponents. If a person believes enough in themselves, they can do anything they want to."

Rugby club aims for top four

By KELLY WENLOCK
Collegian Reporter

K-State's rugby club was among the top 12 clubs in the nation last year, and Bill Sexton, rugby coach, hopes that this year, after a successful recruiting season, it will make it to the top four.

The club is scheduled to start the fall season with all players returning plus 15 rookies. During the fall season, the club will focus mainly on the Heart of America Union Tournament in Kansas City.

Rugby is divided into territories and further subdivided into unions. The territories represent major areas within the United States. K-State is in the Heart of America Union and in the Western Territory.

The spring season is more important and the club will work towards the national championships, Sexton said. Participation in nationals is achieved by winning first the union and then the territory — leaving just four clubs to challenge for national honors. K-State reached the final four in the national championships in 1981.

The rugby program started at K-State in the early 1970s. Despite it being a relatively new sport, there are already six players on the Union Representative Club — composed of the top players in their respective union.

"We are still learning about how we should be playing," said Jeff Brunner, a member of the Union Representative Club and K-State's club.

One of the ways the club is learning is by incorporating into their game the New Zealand style of play.

Sexton and Bill Knopick, member of the club, spent the past summer touring New Zealand with a University of Kansas rugby club. They encountered a much more positive, attacking rugby. Sexton said he is trying to implement the positive aspects of New Zealand style into K-State rugby.

Sexton emphasized that rugby is a group effort and encourages a "team feeling," focusing on what he calls "we (club-orientated) rugby" not "me (individual-orientated) rugby."

Despite the ambition of the club, they are restricted by limited funds — receiving an estimated $500 from the Sports Club Council. Funds also are raised through an annual alumni game, the sale of T-shirts, donations and the remainder is covered by the players.

Rugby is a club sport, so membership is open to anyone who wishes to attend practice sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6 p.m. at the intramural fields.

The club's first game is Sept. 17 in Topeka at the Kaw Valley Tournament. Their first home game is Oct. 1 against the Wichita Barbarians.

Connors advances in tennis tourney

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Getting his game into high gear, Jimmy Connors roared past Sweden's Thomas Hogstedt 6-1, 6-2, 6-3 Thursday to move into the third round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Joining Connors in the third round was Britain's John Lloyd, who upset 10th-seeded Jose Higuera of Spain 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. It is the first time this year that Lloyd, the husband of Chris Evert Lloyd, has reached the third round in any tournament.

In the women's draw, top-seeded Martina Navratilova breezed through her first-round match, crushing Emilse Raponi Longo of Argentina 6-1, 6-0 in just 40 minutes.

In night matches at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow, sixth-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina played American Tom Cain, while Andrea Temesvari of Hungary, seeded ninth in the women's draw, met Virginia Wade, at 39 the oldest player in the main singles draw.

Other seeds to follow Higuera to the sideline were Barbara Potter and Claudia Kohde of West Germany.

Lisa Bonder toppled Potter, the No. 11 women's seed, 7-5, 6-7, 7-6, while Bonnie Gadusek eliminated No. 13 Kohde 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

No. 11 Gene Mayer outlasted South African Christo Steyn 3-6, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 and No. 14 Elliot Teltscher staved off Sammy Giammalva 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 4-6, 6-2.

In women's play, No. 3 Andrea Jaeger eliminated Elise Burgin 6-2, 6-3; No. 6 Wendy Turnbull of Australia downed Sharon Walsh 6-3, 6-3; No. 7 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany ousted Peru's Laura Arraya 6-1, 6-3; and No. 12 Kathy Rinaldi defeated Vicki Nelson 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Carling Bassett of Canada was on the verge of losing, down 1-3 in the final set, when she won the final five games to post a 5-7, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Lea Antonopolis.

For Lloyd, victory was super sweet. Although he won the mixed doubles titles at the French Open in 1982 and at Wimbledon earlier this year, his ranking in singles has plunged in the last four years. Once ranked in the top 30 in the world, Lloyd came into the U.S. Open ranked 272nd on the Atari-ATP computer.

To get into the main draw, he had to fight his way through qualifying.

Playing on the hardcourts at Flushing Meadow, Lloyd broke Higuera in the third and ninth games en route to capturing the first set. Then came the critical second set.

Higuera broke Lloyd's service in the fifth game, but Lloyd broke right back. Then Higuera took a love-40 lead on Lloyd's serve before the British Davis Cupper hit five winners as he fought from behind to hold serve.

From then on, the match belonged to Lloyd, as he broke Higuera again in the 10th game to take the second set, then broke his Spanish opponent in the 12th game of the third set to close out the match.

Connors never was in trouble against his young Swedish opponent. But Hogstedt has posted career victories over Mats Wilander and John Alexander, and two weeks ago took a set from John McEnroe.

Against Connors, however, Hogstedt dug himself a deep hole with unforced errors, a hole that Connors closed up with his relentless attacking style.

Saturday's starting lineups

These are the tentative starting lineups for Saturday's game between Long Beach and K-State.

Long Beach

OFFENSE

LE-21 Jerry Montgomery, Sr., 6-3, 170
LT-66 Lloyd Taylor, Sr., 6-1, 245
LG-66 Johnny Lee, Sr., 6-3, 240
C-55 John Puzar, Sr., 6-4, 240
RG-62 Gary Flecci, Sr., 6-3, 254
RT-78 Chuck Page, Jr., 6-2, 270
TE-69 Greg Lacy, Jr., 6-3, 281
QB-10 Todd Dillon, Sr., 6-4, 191
RB-31 Lenny Montgomery, Sr., 5-7, 175
FB-25 Mark Templeton, Jr., 6-1, 200
FL-26 Billy Ervin, Sr., 5-11, 183

DEFENSE

LE-90 Mike Trudsen, Sr., 6-3, 240
LT-63 Ken Adams, Sr., 6-2, 210
LT-60 Craig Bradley, Jr., 6-1, 250
RE-84 Nathan Phillips, Jr., 6-4, 245
WLB-5 David Howard, Sr., 6-2, 225
MLB-33 Marc Bevilacqua, Jr., 5-11, 223
LCB-44 Joe Donohue, Sr., 6-3, 228
LCB-17 John Hendy, Jr., 6-4, 190
SS-9 Eric Johnson, Sr., 6-4, 202
FS-12 Tim Golden, Sr., 5-9, 180
RCB-6 James Pruitt, Jr., 5-4, 170
P-19 Jeff Carter, Jr., 6-1, 185

K-STATE

OFFENSE

SE-20 Mike Wallace, Jr., 6-2, 175
WT-67 Jeff Koyl, Jr., 6-5, 272
WG-60 Randy Voelker, Jr., 6-4, 254
C-50 Andy Harding, Soph., 6-2, 233
SG-10 Calvin Switzer, Jr., 6-1, 256
ST-68 Damian Johnson, Jr., 6-5, 280
TE-84 Mike Russell, Jr., 6-3, 213
QB-7 Doug Bogue, Sr., 6-1, 185
TB-41 Greg Dageforde, Soph., 6-4, 203
FB-29 Charles Crawford, Jr., 6-1, 190
PK-10 Steve Willis, Jr., 6-2, 194

DEFENSE

LE-97 L.E. Madison, Sr., 6-4, 217
LT-96 Reggie Singletary, Sr., 6-4, 254
NG-80 Mark Newton, Sr., 6-3, 262
RT-81 Bob Daniels, Jr., 6-3, 250
RE-5 Scott Lauridsen, Sr., 6-3, 206
LB-92 Bill Keeley, Jr., 5-11, 200
LB-48 Stu Peters, Sr., 5-11, 208
LCB-16 Ivan Pearl, Sr., 5-8, 176
SS-33 Scott Wentzel, Jr., 6-1, 185
FS-17 David Ast, Soph., 6-4, 174
RCB-3 Nelson Nickerson, Jr., 5-10, 171
P-2 Scott Fulhage, Jr., 5-11, 187

Pregame briefs

Bus service to and from the football games will be provided again this year, said Jack Connaughton, assistant director of the Union.

"Buses will leave from the south entrance of the Union starting at 5:30 p.m. for the night games and noon for day games," he said.

The last bus will leave 15 minutes before the scheduled kickoff.

"Because Junction City Transportation is sponsoring the service, not the Union, there will be a 50-cent charge for a one-way trip," Connaughton said. "Buses will be making trips back to the Union after each game."

Connaughton said parking will be available at the Union parking lots for people driving to meet the buses.

Ticket windows at KSU Stadium will open at 1 p.m. Saturday for fans who wish to purchase tickets for the Saturday night contest.

The Central Ticket Office in Ahearn Field House will be open from 1-4 p.m. on evening game days. Ticket windows and gates at KSU Stadium will open at 5 p.m. for evening games. Early arrivals may begin parking in the lots at 3:30 p.m.

K-State Chief of Police Art Stone said fans attending night football games at KSU Stadium this year should take precautions against the increased opportunity for theft in the parking lots.

"The parking lots will not be as fully illuminated as the playing field, and it will be easier for a thief not to be seen," he said. "People should make sure they properly secure their automobiles and the property within the auto to prevent possible theft."

In another related matter, Stone said his force will be on the lookout for violators of the public drinking laws on state properties. The stadium is located on state grounds and the law forbids the consumption of alcoholic beverages on these grounds, Stone said.

Paradis calls play-by-play

By The Collegian Staff

For the past three years, fans could listen to play-by-play broadcasts of K-State football and basketball games through the "Voice of the Wildcats," Steve Physioc. But beginning Saturday, the job will be belong to Ron Paradis, sports director at WIBW in Topeka.

The job became vacant in July when Physioc announced that he had accepted a position as sports editor at WLWT in Cincinnati.

"It's an excellent opportunity. I think every broadcaster would like to do the major leagues," Physioc said, referring to his coverage of the Cincinnati Reds baseball team, the Cincinnati Bengals football team and the University of Cincinnati Bearcats sports.

Paradis, a 1967 K-State graduate in radio-television and speech, is no rookie when announcing K-State football and basketball games. He announced the games for four years before giving up the reins to Physioc.

"I am delighted to be back here after four years of announcing and then being away for another three years," Paradis said.

Ron Paradis

Pigskin picks

It's that time of the year again! The smell of popcorn, the "sis-boom-bahs", the cool, crisp autumn days and the visit to your favorite bookie.

And once again, we introduce the near-knowledgeable pigskin prognosticators to select this season's football games.

Each week, we will select college teams — the majority of them involving Big Eight Conference teams — and a few professional teams which may provide valuable tips and information for those interested in placing their bets with any bookie willing to accept them.

At no time will we accept any responsibility for your failures, but we will for your success.

The prognosticators are all Collegian staff members with the exception of Dan Owsley, a roommate of Sports Editor Sean Reilly and a walking sports encyclopedia — as Reilly attests — who may lend some credibility to the Collegian staff. After all, our job really is to prevent errors from appearing in the Collegian — not to prevent errors in making selections.

Other glorified, "heads-held-high" (for the time being) individuals include: Paul "Tex" Hanson, diety (editor) of the Collegian; Judi Wright, assistant sports editor and our Phyllis (George) Brown; Kevin Dale, our overpaid, underworked staff writer; Joel Torczon, our copy editor who draws the silly cartoons for our article; and Andy "Crash" Nelson, who will roam the sidelines taking pictures of the action (and perhaps some cheerleaders).

After rushing to the nearest Shop Quik to purchase several football magazines (every pigskin prophet has a foolproof plan in making selections; this is ours) to give us a clearer idea of what to expect this season, we now step forth and give you our crystal ball message.

It is agreed that the "Crummy Game of the Week" is without a doubt Wake Forest vs. Appalachian State. We apologize, but there just aren't very many interesting games this week.

Most of us are in agreement that for K-State to effectively stop the 49ers of Long Beach State, it must get to their quarterback Todd Dillon, who led the nation in total offense with 3,587 yards last season, before he gets to them (however, breaking his arm would be an unsportsmanlike suggestion).

K-State's neighbors — the Kansas Chicken...er...Jayhawks and its nemesis (KU's, not ours), the Wichita State Shockers — are expected to win their games against foes who have everything to gain and nothing to lose (sorry to make you paranoid, KU and WSU).

You want the picks? Well, it comes, but let's hear that nice, long "Gooooooooooooooooooooo..."

Dan Owsley

Air Force Academy 24 vs. Colorado State 17
Wichita State 35 vs. Missouri Southern 6
Georgia 21 vs. UCLA 13
SMU 35 vs. Louisville 7
Tennessee 21 vs. Pittsburgh 17
Wake Forest 31 vs. Appalachian State 17
KU 23 vs. Northern Illinois 7
K-State 21 vs. Long Beach 21
Kansas City Chiefs 31 vs. Seattle 17
N.Y. Jets 27 vs. San Diego 33

Joel Torczon

Air Force Academy 20 vs. Colorado State 27
Wichita State 38 vs. Missouri Southern 3
Georgia 17 vs. UCLA 14
SMU 34 vs. Louisville 6
Tennessee 27 vs. Pittsburgh 17
Wake Forest 28 vs. Appalachian State 14
KU 31 vs. Northern Illinois 6
K-State 28 vs. Long Beach 24
Kansas City Chiefs 29 vs. Seattle 17
N.Y. Jets 20 vs. San Diego 31

Kevin Dale

Air Force Academy 20 vs. Colorado State 14
Wichita State 17 vs. Missouri Southern 10
Georgia 10 vs. UCLA 7
SMU 30 vs. Louisville 7
Tennessee 10 vs. Pittsburgh 7
Wake Forest 27 vs. Appalachian State 0
KU 28 vs. Northern Illinois 10
K-State 6 vs. Long Beach 0
Kansas City Chiefs 14 vs. Seattle 23
N.Y. Jets 35 vs. San Diego 42

Top 20

The following Top 20 list as selected by a four-member panel of Collegian staff members which is based on an accumulation of points (20 for first, 19 for second, 18 for third, etc.):

1. Nebraska (2).....	78
2. Oklahoma (2).....	73
3. Texas.....	70
4. (tie) Michigan.....	66
Notre Dame.....	66
6. Auburn.....	61
7. Florida State.....	61
8. (tie) Penn State.....	56
Tennessee.....	56
Ohio State.....	36
11. North Carolina.....	35
12. Georgia.....	34
13. Arizona.....	34
14. Southern Methodist.....	28
15. (tie) USC.....	15
Iowa.....	15
17. Alabama.....	14
18. UCLA.....	11
19. (tie) Maryland.....	8
Arizona State.....	8

Judi Wright

Air Force Academy 14 vs. Colorado State 28
Wichita State 36 vs. Missouri Southern 7
Georgia 24 vs. UCLA 10
SMU 28 vs. Louisville 3
Tennessee 14 vs. Pittsburgh 13
Wake Forest 9 vs. Appalachian State 14
KU 28 vs. Northern Illinois 6
K-State 21 vs. Long Beach 17
Kansas City Chiefs 28 vs. Seattle 24
N.Y. Jets 17 vs. San Diego 32

Tex Hanson

Air Force Academy 27 vs. Colorado State 13
Wichita State 35 vs. Missouri Southern 10
Georgia 24 vs. UCLA 17
SMU 34 vs. Louisville 13
Tennessee 17 vs. Pittsburgh 14
Wake Forest 21 vs. Appalachian State 13
KU 29 vs. Northern Illinois 6
K-State 24 vs. Long Beach 21
Kansas City Chiefs 18 vs. Seattle 14
N.Y. Jets 27 vs. San Diego 28

Sean Reilly

Air Force Academy 21 vs. Colorado State 10
Wichita State 16 vs. Missouri Southern 10
Georgia 14 vs. UCLA 28
SMU 35 vs. Louisville 6
Tennessee 28 vs. Pittsburgh 17
Wake Forest 10 vs. Appalachian State 14
KU 28 vs. Northern Illinois 7
K-State 28 vs. Long Beach 21
Kansas City Chiefs 35 vs. Seattle 24
N.Y. Jets 24 vs. San Diego 28

Andy Nelson

Air Force Academy 24 vs. Colorado State 14
Wichita State 21 vs. Missouri Southern 10
Georgia 17 vs. UCLA 24
SMU 38 vs. Louisville 7
Tennessee 17 vs. Pittsburgh 21
Wake Forest 14 vs. Appalachian State 0
KU 17 vs. Northern Illinois 7
K-State 28 vs. Long Beach 21
Kansas City Chiefs 27 vs. Seattle 21
N.Y. Jets 31 vs. San Diego 21

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Octoberfest October 8, and Appieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

FREE BEER, free pool when you join the fight against M.D. this week-end at J. Riggs West. Pool-a-thon players free beer. Pick-up M.D.A. package today. Budweiser Auction Monday at 2:00 p.m. Beer signs, clocks, etc. to the highest bidder. K-State, KU Challenge Match Monday at 3:00 p.m. Open all night Sunday. Free pool with donation to M.D. Join us this Labor Day. J. Riggs West, 317 Poyntz. (7-10)

HEY K-STATERS! The 1983 KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race is coming. Independent teams welcome. Contact Lee (532-3424) or Keith (532-3657) for more information. Let's win! (9-12)

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration Tuesday, September 6, K-State Union, 9:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. We have openings in over 220 classes. Catalogs available K-State Union, Farrell Library. (10)

EXECUTIVE POSITION—Travel, responsibility, excellent benefits. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (10)

STUDENT DIETETIC Association is having homemade ice cream September 8 at 7:30 p.m., Justin Lounge. Come get acquainted. (10)

(Continued on page 11)

Get Personal in Collegian Classifieds

720 N. 3rd St. 539-3510

HAVE WE GOT A DEAL FOR YOU!

THIS FRI. & SAT. ONLY
COORS AND COORS LT.

12 pks. $4.55 + tax

Don't forget our everyday low price on cigarettes is only 81¢ per pack and $7.85 per carton; tax not included.

Checks accepted with proper I.D.

TONIGHT AND SATURDAY THE ZOO Reggae

TGIF—Today from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

FREE HORS D'OEUVRES
$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS 50¢ DRAWS
FREE LIVE MUSIC BY JOE QUINN
NO COVER CHARGE UNTIL 9 P.M.

TGIS—Celebrate SATURDAY 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.
$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS • SANDWICH BUFFET only $1 for each trip through
NO COVER CHARGE • 50¢ DRAWS

1122 Moro

UPSTAIRS IN AGGIEVILLE

539-9703

GET SHOT!

Do your part for the Yearbook.
Have your portrait taken at:

Union 209

Mon.-Fri. 8:30-12:15 and 1:30-5:15

Sign up now for appointments in Union 209 or call 539-5229. Don't be left out of the Royal Purple! Take your fee card with you.

(If you haven't purchased a yearbook or picture sitting, come to Kedzie 103 between 8-5, 1984 Royal Purple: $9.50; Picture sitting: $3.50)

Everything ORDERED SOLD to the BARE WALLS

QUITTING BUSINESS Sale

ONLY ONCE IN Your LIFETIME.....
Colossal, Terrific, Nerve-Tingling, Price Smashing VALUES

Save 25% to 50% AND MORE
SALE STARTS TOMORROW 9:30 a.m.

FREE

HERE'S YOUR INVITATION TO WIN A BEAUTIFUL PRIZE

WANTED

FIFTY OR MORE PEOPLE TO JOIN GRAND PRIZE CAMPAIGN CREATED BY OUR ADVERTISING AGENCY—JUST TO HELP ADVERTISE THIS SALE

HERE IS FUN—FASCINATION—EVERY CONTESTANT RECEIVES FULL FAIR OPPORTUNITY TO WIN NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

These Beautiful Prizes Given

1. Prize 13" Color T.V.
2. Prize Stereo Set w/ Home Entertainment Center
3. Prize Hurricane Lamp w/ Table
4. Prize AM-FM Portable Tape Recorder
5. Prize Automatic Coffemaker
6. Prize Hamilton Beach 7 speed Blender
7. Prize Hamilton Beach Electric Knife
8. Prize Hamilton Beach 2 Slice Toaster
9. Prize 10 pc. Kitchen Knife Set
10. Prize AM-FM Pocket Radio

PRIZES TO BE AWARDED SEPT. 24, 1983

Bring this Coupon to Our Store Today!

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

Special

LADIES NEW FALL BASS & DEXTER 25% OFF DRESS SHOES

SPECIAL

ALL LADIES DRESS BOOTS 25% OFF

Special

MEN'S BOSTONIANS MOCCASIN & SLIP ON'S 25% OFF

EVERY PAIR OF SHOES IN OUR ENTIRE STOCK REDUCED 25% to 50%

LADIES DRESS & CASUAL SHOES Large Assortment 1/2 PRICE

LADIES FLATS & SANDLES Large Selection 1/2 PRICE

CHILDREN'S SMURFS SHOES 1/2 PRICE

EVERY ITEM AT BARGAIN PRICES

TODAY! LADIES NIKE ATHLETIC SHOES 1/3 OFF

LADIES BASS SADDLE OXFORDS Reg. $45.95 NOW $33.00

NOW! LADIES WESTERN BOOTS 30% OFF

Special

MENS WESTERN BOOTS 30% OFF

SPECIAL

CHILDREN'S SMURF SLIPPERS 1/2 PRICE

Special

ALL LADIES PURSES 1/3 OFF

MTWTF-9:30-6:00
Thurs.-9:30-8:00
Sat.-9:30-8:00
Closed Sunday

99's SHOE WORLD
1140 Westloop Shopping Center

(Continued from page 10)

ATTENTION 02

PIANOS FOR rent, $35 monthly. Glenn's Music, 539-1926. (1-10)

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11)

ROCK BAND with professional intentions is seeking lead guitarist, able to learn material quickly. Call 537-7738. (6-10)

HAVING A party? Experienced D.J.'s available. Reasonable rates. Contact Doug or Mike at 776-9771 anytime. Acoustical Atmosphere's. (6-10)

WHEN IT'S party time, call D.J. Dave Guthals, 539-7512. Vast music selection. Top quality equipment. Lots and lots of experience, 539-7512. (6-13)

HEY K-STARS—Don't miss out on the fun of the KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. (9-12)

REGENCY LEARNING and Childcare Center, 1811 Browning has a few openings for morning and afternoon preschool. All lesson plans are developed and taught by experienced teachers with degrees in Early Childhood Education. If necessary we will provide transportation for your child to preschool. For more information call 776-4444; 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. or 776-9732 after 5:30 p.m. and weekends, or stop by the center for a visit and a tour. (10-14)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeups, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electric and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (81)

GARAGE FOR rent. Call 537-2130. (6-10)

GARAGE—1131 Vattier, one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210 monthly. 1131 Vattier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210 monthly. 1131 Vattier. Phone 776-0566. (3-10)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

EXCELLENT for upperclassman, graduate student or married couple. Only one-bedroom mobile home left to rent. Has study, air conditioner, clean quiet location. Campus one mile. No children, no pets. 537-8389, or 537-8494. (7-10)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

COUNTRY HOME—Two bedroom, one mile from Manhattan, space for two horses, secluded and private, available immediately. $400 per month. 537-4063. (10)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition, 37,000 miles. $5,500 or best offer. Call 776-0131. (8-11)

1969 MERCURY, 4-door, air conditioning. Runs well, good condition mechanically. Call 776-1812 after 5:00 p.m. (8-10)

1966 MUSTANG, 1969 Bel-Air, four door, 1968 Chevy, two door; $400 each or best offer. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

1971 KARMAN Ghia. Runs well. Call 537-7495. (10-12)

1967 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass, four-door, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning. Runs good. Call 1-485-2648. (10-14)

1975 FORD Torino, station wagon, 8 cylinders. Engine rebuilt, good condition, good mileage, 78,900 miles. $825. Call 776-3581. (10)

1970 BUICK GS350, original hi-comp 350, ram air, power steering, power disc brakes, air conditioning, 532-3529 after 6:00 p.m. (10-11)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

KAYAK, SPRAY skirt, Voyageur flotation bag, $75. Call 539-8484 after 10:00 p.m. (9-10)

SONY VTR 25 receiver, Pioneer PC-115D turntable, Pioneer CF-4242 cassette deck. All good condition. Call 537-9313. (9-11)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

SAILBOAT—14' Laser. Bimini hull. Two rigs, trailer. Call 532-6865, ext. 22 or 20. Evenings, 1-485-2703. (9-10)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

YAMAHA ACOUSTIC guitar. Excellent condition, like new. Price negotiable. Call Grub at 537-0967. (6-10)

WOMEN'S 10-speed, 24-inch Huffly touring bike. Call 776-0620 after 6:00 p.m. (6-10)

FOR SALE: Small 110 volt dryer. Great for apartments. $60. Call 537-4341, after 4:00 p.m. (7-10)

CAR STEREO—Fujitsu 10 and/or four speakers. Call 537-9479. (6-11)

OLDS AMBASSADOR saxophone. Excellent condition. Price negotiable. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

10-SPEED bike, good condition, for school/work. $75. Flute with case/stand, excellent condition, $150. Call 537-1123. (8-10)

YAMAHA CR-240 stereo receiver, Akai GXC-740D cassette deck. Both in excellent condition! 537-9326. (8-10)

SCHWINN VOYAGEUR 11.8, 12-speed, 24" frame. Excellent condition, $250. Call 539-5249. (8-10)

MOTORS-FORD 360, $100; Chevy 216, $100; Chevy three-speed, $50. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

KING-SIZE water bed, complete, $150. Call 776-6677. (8-10)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN, Friday, September 2, 1983

11

SCHWINN WORLD Sport 10-speed bike. Good condition, $100. Call 539-6730. (10-12)

AKC BLACK Labrador for sale. Very good trial lines. Vaccinated and wormed. Call 776-7145 after 5:00 p.m. (10-11)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1978 AAF moped, low mileage, excellent condition, $185. Call 537-6771 after 5:00 p.m. or weekends. (61)

FOR SALE: 1977 Honda 750-4; very good shape. Must go! 776-3718 after 6:30 p.m. (6-10)

FOUND 10

SIX KEYS on silver ring found in Umlinger Hall, room 317. Call 532-5566 to identify and claim. Ask for Kay. (8-10)

MAN'S WRISTWATCH found near Call Hall Friday, August 26. Call 537-0311 to identify and claim. (10-12)

GARAGE SALES 12

POWOWEEEE! LOTS of student stuff and more. Popcorn, beanbag chair, room stuff, furniture, appliances, rugs, baby accessories, etc. Saturday, 8:00 a.m., 1006 North 8th, between Kearney and Thurston. (9-10)

FOUR FAMILY Yard Sale—2422 Rogers, Friday 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Saturday 8:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. Claret, bicycles, furniture, new fabric, toys, go cart, mini bike, color TV, jeans (all sizes), clothing, new ceramic tile, sewing machine, children's desks and chairs, aquarium, snow suit. No checks. Rain or shine. (9-10)

HELP WANTED 13

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPUS rep to sell ski trips to Midwest and Colorado. Earn from trips and commissions. Sun and Ski Adventures: 1-800-621-4031. (1-10)

EXTENSION ASSISTANT/Temporary, full time, assist in the development of microcomputer software for the production of Kansas corn. M.S. in Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Entomology, or Agricultural Economics, experience or training in agricultural production, and good communication skills required. Responsibilities: Collation and documentation of information for decision algorithms, and field testing software packages. Contact Dr. F.L. Poston, Department of Entomology, Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506. Phone: 913-532-6154. Kansas State University is an equal employment/affirmative action employer. (7-11)

NEED FARM help with farm experience. No smokers. Your spare time during week and weekends. 776-5255. (8-12)

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST for independent clinical laboratory. Experience preferred. Part-time. Send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502. (8-14)

FULL TIME service station attendant. 54 hours/week, 2:30-11:30 p.m. Klepper Oil Co., 223 North 3rd. (8-10)

PART-TIME Secretary/Bookkeeper. Big Lakes Regional Council, Monday-Friday, 25 hours per week. Starting Salary $4.50 per hour. Experience preferred. Contact Council Office, 1006 Poyntz, Manhattan. 776-4859. Applications will be accepted through September 2, 1983. (9-10)

MANUAL LABORERS to work full days or mornings from 8:00 a.m.-12:00 noon or Tuesday and Thursday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Farm experience preferred. Bluebird Nursery, two and one-half miles west of Westloop. 539-2671. (10-11)

LOST 14

WORRIED ABOUT my kids! Lost near Aggieville and campus. Neutered male cat, 10-15 pounds, yellow and white, declawed. Three-month, female kitten, beige and white patches. 537-3645. (5-10)

NOTICES 15

NOW ACCEPTING full-time children for Puppetland, an all day nursery, with an accelerated educational program, a degree teacher, and a small group ratio of 1 to 5. 539-1514 (Jean). (6-10)

GET PSYCHED for the Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. More information contact Keith, 532-3657 or Lee, 532-3425. (9-12)

SCHOLARSHIP MONEY for those who qualify call AIR FORCE ROTC 532-6600

OPEN HOUSE at Living Learning School, 1011 Osage, Sunday, September 4, 2:00-4:00 p.m. Enrollment available for students ages four and up. (9-10)

PERSONAL 16

KSU MARCHING Band—Tomorrow let's show the crowd the Pride of Wildcat Land at its best! So kick xxx. (10)

662 G. Huggins! Just wanted to wish you the best of luck on your first football game and let you know my plant is still growing. (10)

HUBBY, HOPE your birthday is a sexy one! I L Y Wifey. (10)

PAM: HAPPY 21st birthday, September 4th. I love you, James. (10)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

CHRISTIAN MALES looking for two non-smoking roommates. Large five-bedroom house, $67.50 per month plus utilities. 776-4546. (8-10)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice two bedroom apartment with three other girls. $112 a month, close to campus. If interested stop by 1010 Thurston, apartment 7. Evenings best. (8-10)

TWO MALE roommates to share four bedroom house. Private room, $100 per month, one-fourth utilities. Call 537-2935 after 5:00 p.m. (7-11)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female to share two bedroom apartment three blocks from campus. $112.50 a month plus utilities. 537-0654. (7-10)

MALE ROOMMATE needed to share nice, furnished, two-bedroom apartment. First semester only. $150 plus one-half utilities. Call 776-6388 after 6:30 p.m. (8-10)

THREE NON-SMOKING roommates needed to share a spacious, furnished, three-story house. Furnished, washer/dryer. Call 776-0281. (8-12)

NEEDED—ONE male roommate. Private room, can be furnished. Water, trash paid. Off-street parking. Deposit needed. $130 negotiable. 537-4753. (8-12)

ONE OR two roommates needed to fill three bedroom house, three blocks from campus, five from Aggieville. Water, trash paid. Fireplace, two-car garage, private pool. $175 for one or $240 for two. Deposit required. 537-4753. (8-12)

WANTED—NON-SMOKING male roommate to share one-bedroom apartment close to campus for fall semester only. Call 776-0893. (8-10)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted to share apartment close to campus. Washer/dryer, patio, deck, $117.50. Call 539-1658. (8-10)

WANTED: FEMALE, studious upperclassman to share trailer house. $75/month plus utilities. Call 776-8356. (8-10)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female roommate, $175/month, all utilities paid. Call 539-6628. (8-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share house with three other girls. Private room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 537-0708. (9-12)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share nice duplex, own bedroom. Call 776-1530 after 6:00 p.m. or 1-738-2623 during weekend. (9-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice house, $85 a month plus one-half utilities. Walking distance to campus and downtown. Graduate student preferred. Call 537-1570. (9-11)

ROOMMATE: STUDIOUS male to share three bedroom house. Will have private bedroom—$100 a month rent. Call 539-6711. (9-12)

ROOMMATE WANTED—One-fourth rent, utilities, own room, washer, dryer, off-street parking. Call 539-9214. (9-11)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share one-bedroom apartment six blocks from campus. $105/month plus utilities. Call 539-7973. (9-14)

ROOMMATE TO share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100 month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (10-14)

ROOMMATE WANTED for furnished apartment close to campus. Includes washer/dryer, microwave. Call 539-1867. (10-11)

RESPONSIBLE FEMALE roommate. Cozy three-bedroom house. $117, one-third utilities. 537-4973, after 5:00 p.m., keep trying. (10-14)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8637. (3-30)

TYPING: EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (5-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-6528. (6-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters Insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (6-15)

NEED A tutor? Physics 500 and lower, Math 400 and lower. Call Mike at 776-9056. (6-10)

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-6174. (71)

TICKETS!

The Sports Fan-attic buys and sells tickets for local sporting events—both advance and last minute. Come by in person, or call 539-0525 or (539)9849. Several reserved tickets available; $5.00, $6.00 & $7.00; Long Beach State. Call Now!

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials, 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 1983. Call Elaine Berryhill, Independent Beauty Consultant. 537-3233 days, 1-456-7251 evenings. (7-29)

COSTUMES by the thousands. Complete rabbits, chickens, gorillas, tigers, bears and more. Flappers, Play Boy Bunnies, French maid, dance hall girls, much more. Ask for whatever you'd like to reserve now for Halloween. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (9-50)

EXPERIENCED CHILD care—Full time, hot lunch, snacks, fenced yard. Northview. Two and up. 776-8523. (9-12)

TRISH'S TYPING Service—Everything from letters to dissertations. Call Trish after 5:30 p.m. at 539-6263. (9-19)

TYPING—LETTERS, term papers, resumes, etc. Reasonable rates. Call Sherry, 539-9131 after 5:30 p.m. (10-19)

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service

1-494-2388, St. George

WANTED 21

DRUMMER LOOKING for band; or keyboard and lead guitarist. Call 537-0498. Leave message. (9-10)

TRISH'S TYPING Service—Everything from letters to dissertations. Call Trish after 5:30 p.m. at 539-6263. (9-19)

TYPING—LETTERS, term papers, resumes, etc. Reasonable rates. Call Sherry, 539-9131 after 5:30 p.m. (10-19)

WANTED 22

FREEZER: 5-10 cubic foot, upright. Evenings call 537-3751. (9-10)

WANTED TO buy: A twin-size mattress and box springs. Call 532-3696. (9-12)

WELCOMES 23

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Menorah Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries Building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (10)

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church Miscon Synod, Sunset and North: Delaware welcomes students to Services, 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible Classes, 9:30 a.m. (10)

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN at Eighth and Leavenworth, (537-0518) celebrates in worship on Sunday morning at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. The Church School, including a special class for collegians and other young adults, meets at 9:30 a.m. For students needing rides, the bus schedule is: 9:10 a.m., West pickup—parking lot along Denison Avenue east of Goodnow Hall. 9:15 a.m. East pickup—street immediately south of Ford Hall. 12:10 p.m. (approximately) bus returns to KSU, the East and West pickup points. (10)

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN Church meets at 2800 Claffin Road (corner of Claffin and Browning). Students welcome! Bible study 9:30 a.m.; worship 8:15 and 10:45 a.m.; Evening Service 6:30 p.m. College Age Sunday School Class meets Sundays, 9:30 a.m. at Valentino's Pizza. For transportation call 776-5410. (10)

GRACE BAPTIST Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. and worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Bus service from dormitories at 11:00 a.m. Services and return to dormitories at 11:00 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Breisford, 776-0424. (10)

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 North 5th, Church School 9:45 a.m., Worship 11:00 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685, Sue Amey, 776-0025. (10)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m., Morning Service, 10:50 a.m., Evening Service, 6:00 p.m., Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (10)

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church, 2221 College Heights Road, Bible Study, 9:30 a.m., Regular Worship, 8:15 and 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Church Training, 6:00 p.m. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (10)

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church Welcomes You! Located at 3001 F. Riley Blvd. Sunday School 9:15 a.m., Morning Worship 10:15 a.m., Evening Worship 6:00 p.m. Phone 537-7173. (10)

TRINITY UNITED Presbyterian—Worship Service 10:45 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, 539-3921. (10)

MASSSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison. Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily 4:30 p.m. Mass. (10)

WELCOME TO the Church of Christ, 2510 Dickens, Sunday, 9:30 a.m., Bible classes, 10:30 a.m., Worship and Communion: 6:00 p.m., Evening Worship: Harold Mitchell, minister. 539-6561 or 539-9212. (10)

COLLEGE AVENUE United Methodist Church, 1609 College Ave., near KSU Baseball Field, welcomes college singles and couples to study "Faith Meets Life" in our college class or to participate in our other varied adult groups at 9:30 a.m. Choir Practice 8:30 a.m. Worship 10:45 a.m. For transportation call Steve Hughes at 539-4191 or 539-3678. (10)

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome Students to worship service at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Special class for college-age students at 9:30 a.m. Students needing rides, call Kathy Meyer, 539-5763 or Tammie Craigmile, 532-3097. Bible Study Tuesday at the ECM Center, 1021 Denison at 7:30 p.m. (10)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 "— Maria"
- 4 Do in
- 8 Witticisms
- 12 Singer Ritter
- 13 Desire
- 14 Leave out
- 15 Flights
- 17 Actress Turner
- 18 Littlest of the litter
- 19 Wander
- 20 Walks nervously
- 22 "Racketeer" Arthur
- 24 Landed
- 25 Polynomial feature
- 29 Guitarist Paul
- 30 Not rented
- 31 Clock 12
- 32 Stretched out
- 34 French deed
- 35 Make disorderly
- 36 Was sore
- 37 Oregon city
- 40 Region
- 41 Actor Bates
- 42 Outside
- 46 Give for a time
- 47 Blood vessel
- 48 Fellow
- 49 Links items
- 50 Movie pooch
- 51 Supplement, with "out"
- DOWN
- 1 Broke fast
- <

Europe's agricultural policy influences U.S. trade

By RHONDA WESSEL
Agriculture Editor

The U.S. Bureau of European Affairs bases trade improvements with the European economic community on three primary objectives, according to Brian Mohler, international economist in the State Department's Bureau of European Affairs.

Mohler discussed trade relations between the United States and the European nations with approximately 30 students and faculty members in a lecture sponsored by the departments of economics, geography, and political science in Dickens Hall Wednesday morning.

"We have several objectives in our international trade policy in regard to agriculture," Mohler said. "They are: improving the current international rules that govern international trade to preserve or increase our access to overseas markets for our agricultural products, and with that, we want to limit export customs used by our competitors."

"The problems that we have with the European community stems from the fact that we are going at the same objective in different directions," Mohler said.

Both the United States and the European community want to provide stable incomes for farmers and allow them to see a return on their capital. The United States does this through domestic support programs which are basically oriented towards market forces.

The European community, on the other hand, uses high price support programs which encourages the farmer to continue to produce more. In essence, the European taxpayer is paying for the high price programs, Mohler said.

"This policy has succeeded beyond their wildest expectations because now Europe has achieved self-sufficiency in certain products and has generated a surplus in some," Mohler said.

Europe exports about 15 million tons of wheat a year, which is approximately 15 percent of the world trade of wheat. The only reason they can do this, Mohler said, is that they have an internal price support program twice as high as the United States, Canada and Australia.

"The United States shipped about $37 billion farm products overseas. This is more than 60 percent of the level of 1976, but because of the subsidies, the Europeans are moving much faster. They exported about $27 billion, which is a 106 percent increase from 1976," Mohler said.

The United States disagrees with European agriculture trade practices and has asked them to reform their policies to lessen the impact on other nations. The European community insists this is politically improbable and costly and claims it has the right to trade in this manner under the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade, Mohler said.

"We disagree with their interpretation of the GATT rules, and we are trying to get the GATT rules clarified," Mohler said.

"The situation has been getting progressively worse over the last couple of years. Last year, it looked as if we were on the verge of a trade war with Europe," he said.

The United States allowed some agricultural products to be exported into markets which were currently being supplied by the European community "to show to them that the United States wasn't going to put up with the situation any longer," Mohler said.

The United States also shipped a million tons of wheat products to Egypt, which was a large European market. This action created "hostile feelings" towards the United States in Europe.

"Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed which allowed us and the Europeans to get together several times over the last few months to try to deal with our agricultural differences," Mohler said. "At least, we're talking."

The situation has become slightly worse in the last few months because European support policies are rapidly increasing in cost. The cost of their agriculture program is running about 40 percent higher than last year, Mohler said.

"They have received an additional $4 billion, but it is possible that the European community will run out of money by the end of the year because of higher agricultural expenditures," Mohler said.

"Therefore, there are budgetary pressures which could encourage fundamental re-appraisal of the common agriculture policies in Europe," he said.

Europe will have two choices; either they will "bite the bullet" and change their agriculture policies or they will burden the taxpayers to additionally fund the agriculture program, Mohler predicted.

The United States and other larger agriculture-producing nations could change their agriculture policies to match the European community, but that would only put the burden on taxpayers in each country, Mohler said.

"We have to be very careful about the pressure we apply to Europe because there is more than just agricultural trade at stake," Mohler said. "It is conceivable that if we apply too much pressure on Europe it could backfire and produce a ripple effect affecting our relations with Europe in other areas."

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

Auntie Mac's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE

MONDAY NITE FOOTBALL

PROGRESSIVE HOUSE DRINKS

During the Game
1st QUARTER - $1.25
2nd QUARTER - $1.50
3rd QUARTER - $1.75
4th QUARTER - $2.00
OVERTIME - $1.25
$1.25 KAMAKAZI
ALL NIGHT LONG

PLUS
Bring a Team Emblem From Washington or Dallas
And Receive
1 FREE DRAW
616 N. 12th 539-9967

Résumé Service
Professional
Résumé Preparation
Call us today or stop by
our Aggieville office:
1221 Moro • Manhattan
(913) 537-7294

Skate Plaza
400 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
MANHATTAN, KANSAS
Ph. 913/776-6175
Skate Sales & Service
SCHEDULE:
Mon. Private Parties
Tues. Public Session - 7:30-9:30
Wed. Private Parties Only
Thurs. Public Session - 7:30-9:30
Fri. Public Session - 7:30-11:00 p.m.
Sat. Public Sessions:
1:00-4:00 - Afternoons
7:30-11:00 - Nights
Sun. Public Sessions:
2:00-4:00 - Afternoons
7:30-9:30 - Nights

Kitchens Plus
BACK PACKS
CLUB USA
2 year warranty
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046 "The Department Store"

Scrumptillyhusland

"LET'S ALL GO TO THE DAIRY QUEEN"
1015 N. 3rd St.
Manhattan
"We U.S. Pat. Off. & Reg. © 1972 Am. D. Q. Corp."

Just a Taste of Ric's Specialties:
Baked Red Snapper Chicken Piccata
Veal Saltimbocca Marinated Filet
Sautéed Scallops Stuffed Chicken Breasts
Game Day, Sept. 3
Open at 4:30 p.m.
Public lunch Tues.-Fri. 11:00-1:30
Dinner Tues.-Sat. 5:30-9:30
537-9864 317 Houston

The Palace
GIFTS AND NECESSITIES
Open til 8:30 Mon.-Thurs.
• Cards • Candy • Cosmetics • Candles • Baskets •
• Memo Boards • Party Supplies •
• Posters • Film Processing •
SERVE YOURSELF AT OUR FOUNTAIN
GIFTS GALORE!
GIFT REGISTRY—MASTERCARD/VISA
704 N. Manhattan in Aggieville 539-7654

CLINIQUE
Skin care that works
because it's based on
your skin needs.
ALL PRODUCTS ARE
ALLERGY TESTED—
100% FRAGRANCE FREE
Exclusively
Broune's
DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN
CALL 776-4776
FOR APPOINTMENT

MEET MIKE PURDUM, YOUR COORS CAMPUS REP.

You've got a Coors Student Rep right on campus. He's Mike Purdum, and he's your beer expert for whatever kind of social event you've got brewin'. Mike really knows his Coors. He can tell you how much you'll need, and how to serve it.
So before you put the Coors on ice, get some free advice. Call Mike at 539-3108. He'll help make the big event a big success.

THE BEST OF THE ROCKIES IS YOURS.
Junction City Distributing Co. Inc.
238-6137

Coors

© 1983 Adolph Coors Company, Golden, Colorado 80401. Brewer of Fine Quality Beers Since 1873.

Season premiere

Wildcats drop opener to Long Beach State.
Sports, page 9

Commercial, university construction expand

By SANDY KINGSLEY
Collegian Reporter

Manhattan has been growing by leaps and bounds. New construction and development can be seen all over the area.

One of the more noticeable developments is at Claflin Road and Denison Avenue. The building, which has been in planning for two years, is called The First Center. It is owned by H & L Investments of Manhattan.

Richard Lashbrook, a partner in H & L, said the First National Bank will be located in the center, along with an ice cream store, a specialty shop and a tavern.

Gene McClellan, manager of the new Shop Quik on Claflin, said the corner of Claflin and Denison had been occupied by a small brick building since 1938. The building was originally a fraternity co-op. D & O Shop Quik, a mini-grocery, replaced the co-op from 1975 to 1983.

Shop Quik, which opened Aug. 1, is located west of the center. The corporation that owned D & O also owns the Shop Quik. In addition to similar services offered by D & O, Shop Quik has a sit-down deli and gasoline pumps.

Owners of businesses in The First Center, which opens in four to six weeks, expect to serve mostly students and faculty because of its location northwest of campus.

"We will concentrate on the residence halls and the fraternities and sororities, and we won't be trying to compete with Aggie," said Charlie Busch, owner of Brother's, the Avalon, Auntie Mae's Parlor and the Hibachi Hut in Aggieville. Busch is opening an establishment in the center called Charlie's Neighborhood Bar.

Busch said the city of Manhattan assured him there would be no zoning problems with a tavern opening in the center.

The Ice Cream Works will offer ice cream made fresh in the store. The Answer, a specialty gift shop, also will be opening in the center. Other businesses under negotiation to open at the center are a travel agency, beauty shop, barber shop, fast food hamburger restaurant, donut shop, bookstore and Pizza Hut.

The Medical Center Offices is open in the newly constructed Building "D." The building is an addition to the medical complex at 1133 College Ave.

The center employs doctors and approximately 150 support personnel, making it a major employer in Manhattan. Ten doctors will have offices in the building.

The Pawnee Mental Health Building, 2001 Claflin Road, also recently opened. Diane Gaede, director of public information, said an open house is tentatively scheduled for late October.

Tom Whalen, director of operations for Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, said there were 170 building permits issued in 1982. In 1983, there have been 229 permits issued so far.

A construction analysis, "By '87," is a plan of projects to be completed in Manhattan and Fort Riley within five years. The analysis began Jan. 1, 1983 and will end Dec. 31, 1987.

A construction worker shovels debris from the second floor of the nearly-completed building at Claflin Road and Denison Avenue.

Many developments in "By '87," completed or close to completion, include Showbiz Pizza Place, The First Center, Durland Hall expansion, Wal-Mart expansion and the Branding Iron Restaurant.

The analysis also lists proposed projects which include the multipurpose coliseum, Nichols Gymnasium renovation and a new motel.

President unveils aviation restriction

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan invoked limited diplomatic and aviation restrictions on Moscow Monday night in response to the downing of a South Korean airliner and said "this crime against humanity must never be forgotten."

He imposed no tough economic sanctions and he foreswore vengeance against the Soviets, he said, despite "the savagery of their crime."

Using a tape recording of a Soviet pilot announcing to a ground controller that "the target is destroyed" two seconds after a missile was launched, Reagan demanded an accounting and an apology from the Soviet Union.

Speaking to the nation by television and radio from the Oval Office, the president referred four times to "what can only be called the Korean Air Line Massacre."

"Our immediate challenge to this atrocity is to ensure that we make the skies safer and that we seek just compensation for the families of those who were killed," Reagan said.

He called for the Soviets to compensate victims of the air tragedy.

Officials in Moscow have not admitted shooting down the Korean Air Lines flight last Thursday, but acknowledge firing warning shots at it. The Boeing 747 carried 269 people to their deaths.

However, Reagan said he was presenting "the incontrovertible evidence that the Soviets were responsible" and then reviewed the three-hour flight that ended in death for those on the New York-to-Seoul flight, which included 61 U.S. residents.

The president unveiled a series of restrictions against Moscow, including cancellation of an agreement on transportation cooperation.

He said the United States has reaffirmed its ban of Soviet planes landing at U.S. airports, asked other countries to adopt similar restrictions and is "examining additional steps we can take with regard to Aeroflot facilities in this country."

He praised Canada, which earlier in the day announced that it was suspending the Soviet airline's landing and refueling privileges in Montreal and Gander, Newfoundland.

The United States alone could do little to restrict the Soviet Union's commercial aviation activities, but a suspension of landing rights and actions taken in cooperation with other nations could have a significant impact.

Representatives of about 20 friendly governments were called to the State Department for consultations about the plane incident a few hours before Reagan's speech.

"This attack was not just against ourselves or the Republic of Korea," said Reagan. "This was the Soviet Union against the world and the moral precepts which guide human relations among people everywhere."

"It was an act of barbarism, born of a society which wantonly disregards individual rights and the value of human life."

He called for a full account of what happened to Korean Air Lines Flight 007 as it was emerging from restricted Soviet airspace.

A White House statement issued prior to the speech said the United States has asked to take part in the search of the Sea of Japan for the plane's passengers, "assurances that the USSR will not use destructive force against unarmed aircraft in the future, and compensation for the victims of this tragedy."

Reagan said, "The United States will be making a claim against the Soviet Union within the next week to obtain compensation for the benefit of the victims' survivors."

Soviets say jet crashed

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Five days after the South Korean airliner vanished, a Soviet general acknowledged Monday that the plane had crashed and that "numerous" people were killed.

But the government still has not publicly addressed charges that a Soviet pilot shot down the plane — a policy reflecting the Kremlin's usual handling of such events through delayed and meticulously phrased announcements that only hint at controversial issues and leave much unsaid.

Full details of disasters — natural and man-made — are rarely revealed in the state-run press, and the meager reports that are published usually come days, weeks or even months after the event occurred.

Under President Yuri V. Andropov, the Soviet press has tended to report accidents and official misbehavior sooner and in more detail. Yet the Kremlin generally remains close-mouthed about things that would get wide coverage in Western newspapers.

"They give you hints and if you read them over time, you can learn something," said a Western diplomat. "That's the essence of Kremlin-watching."

Here are some recent examples:

— On Monday, reporters in Moscow read about the crash in Kazakhstan of an airliner that can carry more than 70 passengers. The report by a local Kazakhstan newspaper said all aboard were killed, but did not say how many victims there were. The disaster was never mentioned by the national press. It occurred last Tuesday.

— By Monday, the official press had stopped referring to an unidentified aircraft and had acknowledged that a Soviet pilot fired "warning shots" near a South Korean airliner.

— The Communist Party organ Pravda quoted the chief of the anti-aircraft command, Col. Gen. Semyon Romanov, as referring to "the crash of that liner" and as saying the Soviet Union was not "at fault" for the loss of "the lives of numerous people."

In this manner, the press has edged closer, but scrupulously avoided, an answer to the West's biggest charge: That the Soviet fighter shot down the 747.

Lebanese civil war intensifies as Israelis vacate mountains

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT — The Lebanese army punched through Druse defenses Monday at a key intersection near U.S. Marine posts, and Christians and Druse battled in the nearby mountains vacated by the Israeli army a day earlier.

Police said 31 people, including three Lebanese army soldiers, were killed and 83 people wounded in Monday's fighting, bringing the official toll from two days of civil war following Israel's pullout to 82 dead and 216 wounded. But with many mountain towns cut off by the fighting, the real casualty toll was probably much higher.

Rightist Christians and leftist Druse accused each other of slaughtering civilians in towns caught up in the fighting, but neither claim could be verified.

Staccato bursts from heavy machine guns and the constant drumroll of artillery echoed through the hills, where the militias renewed battles in a fury of artillery fire when the Israeli troops ended their 15-month occupation.

Shells slammed into parts of Moslem west Beirut and the Christian sector in the east as well as along the coastal highway to Jounieh, 12½ miles to the north.

Witnesses said a force of Lebanese armored cars managed to take Khalde intersection, near the closed Beirut international airport, from Druse militiamen after two days of heavy fighting.

Four U.S. Marines of the multinational peacekeeping force have been slightly wounded by shrapnel from shells which landed in their sector a few hundred yards from the intersection, Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said.

Druse militia leader Walid Jumblatt, in self-imposed exile in Damascus, Syria, charged that Marines and "American heavy artillery" had supported the Lebanese army during its advance on Khalde. Associated Press photographer Don Mell said the army controlled the intersection and the highway, although it was coming under heavy shellfire from the Druse.

In the mountains above the airport fierce artillery and rocket duels, which broke out as soon as Israel pulled its troops out Sunday, raged on. Fighting centered on the Christian-held town of Bhamdoun, three miles from Syrian lines on the Beirut-Damascus highway, and a cluster of towns held by both sides from the mountains to the coast.

The Israelis, trying to reduce their casualties, pulled south to the Awali River over the opposition of the Lebanese government, which wanted them to stay until the government could deploy the Lebanese army in the vacated Israeli positions. Deployment of the army has been held up by a dispute with the Druse, who fear the army favors the Christians.

Salvadoran rebels renew combat

By The Associated Press

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — A top rebel commander said Monday that the guerrilla attack on San Miguel, El Salvador's third-largest city, was a show of muscle, and he warned that other attacks will follow.

Quiet returned to San Miguel on Monday, but armed rebel groups patrolled nearby roads, virtually isolating the city of 150,000 people. Bus and truck service to the area was suspended.

In a clandestine broadcast, guerrilla commander Ana Guadalupe Martinez said an international campaign "by the North American press and the U.S. government...to show that the FMLN has been destroyed and demoralized has been proven false."

The FMLN, or Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, is a coalition of five guerrilla groups that have been fighting for power in El Salvador since October 1979.

After three months of little activity, the rebels Saturday unleashed a mortar and artillery barrage on San Miguel, 86 miles east of the capital, followed by an attack on the city itself from all four sides.

San Miguel, Usulután, La Unión and Morazan province were without electricity because of guerrilla sabotage outside the provincial capital. The blackout affected 1.4 million people — more than a fifth of the country's population — in the eastern one-third of El Salvador.

Early Monday, a rebel group dynamited El Pacayal microwave relay station on Chaparrastique Volcano, three miles west of San Miguel, severely delaying telephone and telex communications with Costa Rica, Nicaragua and South America.

In the attack on San Miguel, a coffee plantation, three large bridges and a big sugar mill were destroyed in fighting that lasted until Sunday morning.

More than 80 mortar rounds fell on the barracks of the army's 3rd

Infantry Brigade, the treasury police, national police and national guard buildings, and parts of the bus terminal were destroyed.

Eighteen soldiers, 12 guerrillas and three civilians were killed and 40 soldiers and eight civilians were wounded, according to army sources, who asked not to be identified for security reasons.

The rebels' Radio Venceremos claimed there were more than 300 government casualties.

Guerrilla commander Joaquin Villalobos, who apparently planned the operation, said two battalions — about 500 guerrillas — of a rebel brigade were involved in the attacks.

"The FMLN has demonstrated its power and is not demoralized or annihilated," a guerrilla leader said in another Venceremos broadcast Monday. She said the rebels have been inactive for three months "training for combat, to enter into a new phase which we have just begun with a new victory."

Grad checks delayed

By The Collegian Staff

Students in the College of Arts and Sciences may have noticed a delay in the return of their graduation checks.

Students who have completed 85 to 90 college credit hours receive a grad check form by mail from the registrar's office.

Grad check forms list classes in which the student is currently enrolled and are reviewed by the dean's office to ensure that all requirements for graduation will have been met by the anticipated graduation date.

There are three reasons for the delay of Arts and Sciences grad checks, Kent Cartwright, assistant dean of the college, said.

More students are graduating from Arts and Sciences than in recent years, he said, and cuts in faculty and staff have also slowed the checking process. The staff are examining the checks more closely to avoid mistakes, Cartwright said.

Changes have also been made in the basic requirements for some Arts and Sciences majors, causing processing complications.

"We did have additional advisers to help do grad checks. Because of decreased staff more time is required to complete the checks," Cartwright said.

If a student would like to have a grad check and has not received the form by mail, he may get the form at the dean's office of his college.

Correction

The 24-hour phone number for the Crisis Center Inc. was incorrectly stated in Tuesday's Collegian as 539-3736. The correct number is 539-2785.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student office.

JERRY LINTON is showing recent paintings through Sept. 14 in the Diebler Gallery, West Stadium. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MINORITY ENGINEERS STUDY CENTER'S new hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 6 p.m. in Durland Hall 32.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for regular registration for the administration of the LSAT is Oct. 1.

ALL PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for registering for the mock LSAT is 4:45 p.m. Friday in the dean's office, Eisenhower Hall.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the pre-professional skills test required for admission to all teacher education programs at all regents institutions is Sept. 10 in Holton 204. The test will be given Sept. 24.

TODAY

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN registration is from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

ADULT AND OCCUPATIONAL GRADUATE CLUB meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union 203. Paul Taylor, Ph.D. will speak on "Education: A View from the Comic Pages."

DAIRY SCIENCE CLUB will sponsor a hamburger fry at 6 p.m. on the front lawn of Call Hall.

DATA PROCESSING MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

FTD STUDENT CHAPTER meets at 7 p.m. in Waters 244.

AG COMMUNICATORS OF TOMORROW meet at 6:30 p.m. in Kedzie 216. Greg Henderson, editor of Grass and Grain, will speak. Bring an ice cream topping. Everyone is welcome.

KSU RECREATION CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in the Showbiz Pizza Place sports room for a beginning-of-the-year social.

NATURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Call Hall 228.

BLOCK AND BRIDLE meets at 7:30 p.m. in Weber 107. Officers meet at 7 p.m.

ECUMENICAL CHRISTIAN MINISTRIES is sponsoring a concert by Jim Newton at 7:30 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 212.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS meet at 8 p.m. in Union 206 for an orientation meeting. Bring your class schedule for this important meeting.

STAR RIDERS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 203 for discussion of the Sept. 10 paper airplane contest.

KSU AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Seaton 164K for anyone interested in the organization.

WEDNESDAY

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 173. Officers will meet at 6 p.m.

MICROBIOLOGY CLUB meets at 4:30 p.m. in Leasure 201.

SOCIAL WORK CLUB meets at 4 p.m. in Union 208.

THURSDAY

PI TAU SIGMA meets at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152.

KANSAS STATE SAILING CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 208.

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 206.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet from 10:30 a.m. to noon in Union 205 to prepare for the LSAT.

FRIDAY

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in Union 205 to prepare for the LSAT.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kuen-Chan Huang at 7:30 a.m. in Call Hall 206.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Cleopas O. Angaye at 3:30 p.m. in Union 204.

Bring a friend & this coupon with you to receive

1/2 Price Off

Haircut, Shampoo & Blow Dry
(Offer good thru Sept. 30)

Selected RK shampoos
Buy one Get one Free

All services performed by students who are closely supervised by instructors.

Appointments Taken
Mon.-Fri. 8:15 a.m.-8:30 p.m.
Sat. 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
Call 776-4794

CRUM'S
BEAUTY COLLEGE
512 POYNTZ
(Previous offers made before August no longer valid)

The DOWN UNDER

Male
Burlesque
Tuesday
7:30-9:30
Ladies
Only
Downunder Club
515 Richards
(Under Wildcat Lanes)
For reservations
call 539-0230

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

TUESDAY
2 fers
7-10
619 N. Manhattan

CHIROPRACTIC CARE

WE APPRECIATE THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE YOUR CHIROPRACTIC CARE WHILE HERE AT KSU.
THOSE OF YOU WHO PURCHASED STUDENT INSURANCE WITH OCCIDENTAL LIFE DO NOT NEED A REFERRAL OR PERMISSION FROM LA-FENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER TO RECEIVE CHIROPRACTIC CARE.
IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS REGARDING INSURANCE BENEFITS, PLEASE CALL OUR OFFICE.
BONE, NERVE, MUSCLE AND JOINT DISORDERS

Dr. Walden Schellenger

AVENUE CHIROPRACTIC OFFICE
1500 POYNTZ
MANHATTAN, KS
537-8305
(NEXT DOOR TO THE DUTCH-MAID STORE)

FREMONT LAUNDRY
304 Fremont

Drop Off Service

1/2 OFF
With Wash Coupon
Void after Sept. 15, 1983
Attendant on Duty

Week Days Only

AT PIÑATA:

LUNCH WITH US!
99¢ to $1.80
Choose from 6 featured Lunch Specials
Changed Daily Mon.-Fri. 11-2
You Won't Pay Over $1.80!
(Drinks not included)

Piñata.

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11, Sun. 11-10
Bluemont and North Manhattan
539-3166

TRUCK LOAD SALE!

Just Arrived
Silver-Reed fully electronic compact typewriter

Penman Features:
• 10/12 Pitch
• Daisy Wheel Printer
• Cassette Ribbon and Correcting Tape
• Automatic Correction
• Automatic Relocation
• And Much More...

SILVER-REED
Reg. Price $575.00
Special $475.00
Check with us about payment plans

Hull BUSINESS MACHINES, INC.
715 North 12th
MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502
PHONE 913/539-7931 or 539-1413

Aggie STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR
Tuesday Nite Out!

99¢
Margaritas and Tonic Drinks

Tuesdays 7-12:00!
JOIN AGGIE STATION PLUS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

Kitchens Plus

WOK SET
only $13.95
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046
The "Department" Store

ENTERTAINMENT

Wednesday
MOJO Rockin' Blues
Thursday
Flying Fish Recording & Artists
BLUE RIDDIM Reggae

Tomorrow—7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
75¢ House Drinks
50¢ Draws
with
$1.25 Kamakazi and a Draw
9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

the Avalon
1122 Moré
539-9703

BEGINNING COUNTRY SWING

DANCE CLASSES

- MON. 7-8:30
- TUES. 7-8:30
- TUES. 9-10:30
- WED. 7-8:30

Limited space available so sign up at the Rockin' K today. Four week course begins week of Sept. 12 for $12 per person; $20 per couple.

ROCKIN' K BAR

K
712 N. Manhattan • 539-9033

JOYCE'S HAIR FAYERS

HAIR CUTS
Guys $6.50
Gals $8.50

PERM SPECIALS
Warm & Gentle $30.00
Full Dimension $28.00
thru the month of Sept.
free eye brow wax with every perm
Ear Piercing $5.00-$9.00

GUYS PERMS
Boy wave $18.00
Curly $20.00
317 Houston 539-8601

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor..... Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager..... John McGrath

The nicest thing you can do for your solitaire diamond —
Wear it with a jacket in diamonds and 18K gold.

REED & ELLIOTT Jewelers
CERTIFIED GEMOLOGIST
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

Diamond Specialists
402 Poyntz 776-4000

New program aids efficiency, reduces food service hassles

By LYNN VONDER HEIDE
Collegian Reporter

Improving efficiency is the purpose of the residence hall food service's new labor-tracking system. With the aid of a computer, food service officials can compare the number of hours student employees work with the number of meals being served.

"We are finding that one day at lunch we will have almost twice as many students working as the previous day, but we'll serve the same number of meals," said John Pence, head of housing food service. "Either we have too few employees working that first day or too many working the next day, or a combination of both."

Pence said that by using this information, he wants to accommodate students who eat at the food complexes as well as students who work in them. During meals at which the labor force is too small, employees work harder and students stand in long lines. When the labor force is too large, employees get in one another's way, he said.

"A more efficient distribution of the student labor force would benefit everyone," Pence said.

Janet Maxwell, unit dietitian at Strong Complex, agreed.

"If we can maximize the labor force we have, it may eventually be reflected in the students' room and board costs or in the number of special dinners we can have," she said.

Both Pence and Maxwell said they doubt their efforts will cut student jobs.

"We may reduce the total number of labor hours used," Pence said. "That's only on the premise that we have an excess number (of labor hours), and I'm not sure at this point that we do."

Some reshuffling of students' work schedules will be necessary, Pence said.

"We need to have the right number scheduled at the right time, so we would probably re-allocate the people who are there," he said.

"We see the need to simply equalize the labor we have," Maxwell said.

Jack Judy, senior in business administration, has worked in food service for three years. Judy agreed that the work force is too small at some meals, but for another reason.

"It's usually because some people don't show up, and the rest of us have to work harder," he said. Changing the schedule is not going to solve that problem, Judy said.

Pence said he plans to compare labor hours with the number of meals served for several weeks before making any changes. Students' eating habits may not have stabilized yet, a variable that makes it difficult to predict the number of meals to serve, he said.

Pence also said he plans to note events that may cause fluctuation in the figures, such as special dinners, football games, holidays and severe weather.

Bill would lift rights exemptions

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Calling Capitol Hill "the last plantation," a senator has introduced legislation to eliminate the exemption which lets members of Congress ignore the law they passed 19 years ago ensuring equal job rights to blacks and others.

Among other laws Congress has exempted itself from: the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 and the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 and the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

A bill by Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., would remove what he calls "a source of embarrassment" by lifting the exemptions and help Congress rise above the "last plantation" description Leahy uses to push his legislation.

Both houses have rules prohibiting employment discrimination but no one has ever used them to bring charges against a member of Congress.

It is difficult to get a firm count of the number of blacks working on congressional staffs because there is no central clearing house. Rep. Major R. Owens, D-N.Y., is near completion of a survey of black employment on Capitol Hill.

A survey its author admits is "unscientific" was taken last June by syndicated columnist Donald Lambro in which all but 13 of the 435 House members answered the question: "Do blacks occupy any of the top three professional positions in your office?"

Lambro listed the jobs as administrative assistant, legislative assistant and press secretary. He found 90 blacks employed in the 1,266 slots surveyed, 7.1 percent of the total. Forty-four of the 90 work for the 20 black House members.

On the Senate side, Cox News Service reported that a survey it conducted found only 27 blacks — or about 3 percent — among the more than 870 employees earning more than $30,000 a year on the personal staffs of senators. Cox found blacks comprised 6 percent of the professional staff of 14 Senate committees surveyed.

The situation is complicated by constitutional provisions intended to protect Congress from interference with its legislative activities. Also, said Leahy, senators and representatives insist on having an unrestricted choice of aides "because of the absolutely confidential relationship between a member and his or her advisers."

The U.S. Civil Rights Commission has said Congress could sidestep the constitutional questions if it placed itself under the Civil Rights Act but allowed some legislative agency, say the General Accounting Office, to administer it.

MC-PRINT
Instant printing

COPIES
BOOKLETS
NEWSLETTERS

1211 Moro 539-5749

Meet
your friends at

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Memberships Available

531 N. Manhattan Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

Tonight BUSHWACKER
BLASTER NITE $1.25 all night

HAPPY HOUR: 4-9

2 fers on hi balls

75¢ draws $2 blended drinks

Drink of the Week:

LYNCHBURG LEMONADE $2

VISOR DAY
TUESDAYS!

● Free
Kite's Visor
With 6
Pitchers
(Regular Price)

Visor pitcher coupons good any Tuesday

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

MR. K'S

Welcome To . . .
2 FER TUES!

● 2 Fer
Draws &
Pitchers
7-10:00

Lunch at Mr. K's 11:30 a.m.-8 p.m.!

University for Man

A community learning center offering low-cost, non-credit classes to the University and Manhattan Community. We have over 240 classes including Beginning Guitar, Flute, Ukulele, Folkdancers, Beer-making, Weight Control, Aerobics, Photography, Darkroom Co-operative, Hair-Care to enrich your leisure time or supplement course work. Classes are taught by knowledgeable volunteers in an informal setting. Many classes meet on campus. Our catalogs are free. Pick one up at the Union or Farrell Library.

Registration

Tuesday, September 6

9am-2pm

K-State Union

If you are a new student bring this ad in for $1.00 discount.

KSU
Welcome Back
COUPONS

BUY ONE
CHICKEN FRIED
STEAK

Salad Bar, Potato or Veg. SAVE $4.50
GET ONE FREE
9-5-83-9-8-83
Mon. thru Thurs.
From 5 p.m.-8 p.m.

BUY ANY SANDWICH
GET ONE FREE

9-12-83-9-15-83
Mon. thru Thurs.
From 5 p.m.-8 p.m.

BUY ONE
CHOPPED SIRLOIN

Salad Bar, Potato or Veg. SAVE $4.55
GET ONE FREE
9-26-83-9-29-83
Mon. thru Thurs.
From 5 p.m.-8 p.m.

BUY ONE
ROAST BEEF DINNER

Salad Bar, Potato or Veg. SAVE $5.25
GET ONE FREE
9-19-83-9-22-83
Mon. thru Thurs.
From 5 p.m.-8 p.m.

YOU WON'T FIND A BETTER VALUE
FOR YOUR FOOD DOLLAR ANYWHERE IN TOWN.

Get to the answers faster.
With the TI-55-II.

What you need to tackle the higher mathematics of a science or engineering curriculum are more functions — more functions than a simple slide-rule calculator has.

Enter the TI-55-II, with 112 powerful functions. You can work faster and more accurately with the TI-55-II, because it's preprogrammed to perform complex calculations — like definite integrals, linear regression and hyperbolic — at the touch of a button. And it can also be programmed to do repetitive problems without re-entering the entire formula.

Included is the Calculator Decision-Making Sourcebook. It makes the process of using the TI-55-II even simpler, and shows you how to use all the power of the calculator.

Get to the answers faster. Let a TI-55-II show you how.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
Creating useful products
and services for you.

Unrealistic labor unions

Solidarity Day observances, set up by organized labor in Kansas, were held Monday in Wichita and Coffeyville. As usual, the union leaders were outspoken on what they expect from the Reagan administration.

The problem with the unions, however, is that they expect the impossible. They want more and more money for their workers, but also expect the federal government to keep inflation down. They often appear unwilling to realize that increases in labor costs are passed along to the consumer.

Labor's demands at the Solidarity Day meetings, as expressed by Charles W. Jones, president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, were simple.

"First of all, we want jobs, jobs and more jobs.

"We want to put men and women back to work with a national industrial program that will make sure America has the strongest economy in the world.

"We want social justice for all Americans.

"We want an equal rights amendment to write into the basic law of the land the guarantee of full rights for women.

"We want the restoration of social benefits for the poor and the disabled, to end the cheese lines, and to guarantee that all our people are assured a basic standard of living with dignity."

All of Jones' desires are admirable, yet there is a basic flaw in his plan. He neglects to say where all of the money is going to come from.

The federal government could foot the bill, which is precisely what Jones is prescribing. But where will the government get the money? Before you advocate cutting the defense budget, take into account the recent Soviet attack on a South Korean airliner. Do you still trust Russia's integrity?

If Washington acted on all of Jones' ideals, the cost would be passed on to the American people. The government would have to borrow more money, thus raising the interest rates and cutting the spending power of the American consumer.

The unions are vocal about what they want. How vocal would they be if they had to directly finance their requests? How many unions strike for more money, and then pass on the increased wages to help their unemployed co-workers?

Most unions want everyone to have a comfortable lifestyle. The problem is their definition of "comfortable." The price of "comfort" keeps going up as we outspend our resources. Are the steelworkers "comfortable" making more than any other union workers in the country? When was the last time the steelworkers threatened to strike for higher wages?

Jones ended by saying, "We are going to have another Solidarity Day next year.... We invite all of you to join us in that growing force to put America on the course to justice, prosperity and fair play."

Do the unions really want justice and fair play, or are they only interested in the prosperity part of it? Why, if they advocate fair play, was there vandalism on telephone lines when AT&T went on strike? Why are there outbreaks of fires whenever firefighters go on strike? Why were trucks fired upon with rifles when the independent truckers went on strike?

If the unions really want justice and fair play from the government, they should think about playing by the same rules. Many American unions have been (and still are) an epitome of corruption and greed. Add integrity to your wish list, gentlemen, and start the clean-up in your own living room.

Who is really at fault?

We're not surprised that we couldn't learn the truth from the Soviets. But we began to really wonder when we were informed, through the Associated Press, that the South Korean jumbo jet had landed safely on the island of Sakhalin. Moments later, we received another report that there were "strong indications" that the plane had been shot down.

The entire situation left us a bit confused, and answers are still difficult to come by. Now we learn that the U.S. government also withheld information from the public. Finally, they admit that there was a U.S. RC-135 reconnaissance plane flying over the Soviet coast when the South Korean jet was shot down.

It seems that nobody was truthful (or blameless) in the incident.

The Soviets knew there was a spy plane above their land. At first, apparently, they thought the South Korean jet was the spy.

Nobody is sure why they shot it down. Had the RC-135 not been there, would the Korean airliner have been destroyed?

While nobody knows the answer to that, the facts bring about some disturbing thoughts. The Soviet and U.S. governments both withheld information from the world. Both governments are now playing their propaganda games, seeking to protect themselves while incriminating the other, and the rest of the world is left trying to sort out what degree of guilt lies where.

We need straight information to determine who is at fault, even if only in our own minds. If we listen enough to our government talk about the Soviet Union, we will be trained to have a distrust of the Russians. The United States, however, needs to be careful not to get into this mold. The people need to be told the truth, at least by the government which they look to for leadership.

Ah, Come on Kansas

"Like a welcome friend it's a state of mind, ah Kansas.

"There's a wonderland down the road you'll find, ah Kansas.

"From the Pony Express to the Chisholm Trail, it's a road of history. The start of the West has a rainbow's end, in the land of ah's you'll see. Ah Kansas. County lakes and open air, a rodeo, a county fair. Ahhhhhh Kansas."

I hear this snappy tune on the radio, proclaiming Kansas as the "land of ah's," and about choke.

I say, "ah-come-on Kansas, can't you do better than that?"

What about our technology? What about our industry? What about Wichita, leading in the production of personal airplanes, and its military aircraft manufacturing center?

I'm concerned about the Kansas image because I plan on graduating from this University bearing the state's credentials and I don't like to be referred to as coming from a backward state.

The promotion has been successful for the Kansas Travel and Tourism Division of the Department of Economic Development, but let's stop and evaluate what aspects they are promoting.

If you've ever traveled out-of-state, you've most likely met up with people who have absolutely the wrong concept of Kansas. And if you are an out-of-state student, when you return home you most likely face questions from people with a stereotypic image of our "great plains."

When I began to venture out of Kansas, one of the first questions I faced was "How is Dorothy?" Not being a loyal fan of the movie, "The Wizard of Oz," it took me the course of my vacation to figure out who in the heck they were talking about. If that wasn't the case, there are always the questions about my tractor, our family's farm, the buffalo herds, and the flat prairie land.

EDEE DALKE
Collegian Columnist

Well, I don't have a tractor, I'm not from a farm, the only buffaloes I've ever seen were either stuffed in a museum or part of a zoo, and if you've ever traveled Kansas by bicycle, you'll cuss at the thought that Kansas is supposed to be flat.

The fact of the matter is, people who have not been in Kansas have an outdated image of our state, (a drive down I-70 en route to Denver or Kansas City is not a fair evaluation) and the promotion about Kansas is not helping update that image.

There are other reasons contributing to the image problem.

Take for instance our state song. Adopted as the official state song in 1947, "Home on the Range" seems all but factual. "Oh give me a home, where the buffalo roam?" — the only roaming buffaloes I've ever seen are in the local bars.

"Home, home on the range. Where the deer and the antelope play?" — as a resident of Kansas for 23 years, I have never, to this day, seen any frolicking deer and antelope.

Perhaps "Jack and Diane" by John Cougar would be more appropriate.

And then there are the bumper stickers which spread this image from coast to coast. They read: "Warning: I brake for munchkins," "Halftime: Deer 10, Antelope 7," and "Have you hugged a buffalo today?"

Recently I was told of a T-shirt which read, "Dear Auntie Em, I hate Kansas, I hate you, I'm leaving and I'm taking the dog."

No wonder there's an image problem.

The people of Kansas are one of the state's greatest assets. Good, industrious, conscientious people. The people who came to Kansas and stayed were strong, hardy and persistent. Our heritage is a good one and not one to be ashamed of, but that's what it is — history. We do have shootouts in the streets but they're just like the ones happening in New York City. Our economy and unemployment rate, compared to others, are something to be thankful for in the midst of a recession. And I am convinced that I can get as good an education, if not better, in Kansas as offered in any other state.

I don't think that being proud of Kansas means you have to live and die here; opportunities should lead. But as a Kansan, when you do go out-of-state, you'll most likely be faced with some great cowboy and Indian jokes.

I've found myself making fun of Kansas, but out-of-state I'm the first to defend it. I'd rather defend it with our future than our history.

The image-association of buffalo and Dorothy have got to go, and we should demand it from our "Wizard of Ah's" — Governor Carlin.

The March on Washington

WASHINGTON — For many of its leaders, the Aug. 27 "March on Washington" was a time to recall a rally that crystallized the civil rights movement.

For movement historians, however, the celebratory nature of the weekend rally did not disguise a troubling parallel between then and now: disunity among black leaders. Just as major black organizations sharply disagreed over strategy and tactics at the time of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s memorable "I Have a Dream" speech, the Rev. Jesse Jackson's likely presidential candidacy has brought similar differences to the fore.

Only now, some of the players defend positions they once denounced.

In 1963, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was still America's most established black organization. While, during the late 1960s, the NAACP had initiated about 70 percent of all movement actions, it was still responsible for many of them (almost a third) in 1963. It counseled moderation for the civil rights movement, preferring litigation and lobbying to sit-ins and freedom rides.

Forbearance, however, was antithetical to the aims of such groups as the Congress on Racial Equality, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. Led by men like King and Andrew Young of the SCLC and John Lewis of the SNCC, these unconventional organizations appealed to the restlessness among blacks and gradually assumed national leadership of the civil rights cause.

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

In 1983, divisions between moderate and "direct-action" forces are emerging again. Yet this time, former upstarts such as Young and Lewis are more willing than others — Jackson particularly — to work within the system of traditional party politics to further their goals.

Atlanta Mayor Young contends that Jackson's presidential aspirations would raise black expectations unrealistically. Lewis doubts the ability of Jackson and Co. to meet the organizational and financial obligations due a full-fledged presidential effort. Better only to register black voters, Jesse, and let the Democratic Party take over from there, they say.

Jackson, however, contends that such thinking is acquiescent at best and defeatist at worst. His alternative rests on formidable questions: Have blacks benefited from supporting white liberals, like Walter Mondale? Do they have anything to lose by denying Democrats their support at this stage?

Ego, of course, fuels the difference in outlook. As heirs to the King legacy, Young, Lewis and others understandably writhe at the sounds of "Run, Jesse, Run" and at Jackson's high visibility. As politicians, Young and Lewis, an Atlanta city councilman, are naturally jealous of Jackson's sudden political ascendancy.

But that jealousy also suggests the emergence of two black constituencies, each of which sees Jackson's possible candidacy in a different light. Many black leaders, including Young, have all but joined the "establishment" and thus speak to those blacks who at least have some confidence in the American dream. Meanwhile, Jackson speaks to the majority of blacks who, 20 years after the first march on Washington, have little more than memories. Jackson's audience is younger, poorer and restless.

That this group's enthusiasm could make Jackson's candidacy inevitable poses a political dilemma for Young, Coretta King and others who favor Walter Mondale. If, as would be expected, Jackson draws black voters away from Mondale only to assure the Democratic nomination of Ohio's Sen. John Glenn, these black leaders could all but sit out the general election and possibly the following four years.

Yet reluctance to support Jackson, Lewis and others told us, could cost them even more political damage in the long run. That would reveal a black leadership that has grown old and out of touch with a new generation and which may be better suited to anniversary celebrations than speaking for all its constituents.

Letters

Jardine needs new policy

Editor,
It was interesting to read (Collegian, Aug. 24) that the occupancy rate in Jardine Terrace declined from 100 percent in previous years and "hovered around 93 percent" during last year. Not coincidentally, that is when Mr. Don Roof took over as the assistant director of housing and instituted his students-only policy at Jardine Terrace.

Traditionally, Jardine Terrace has welcomed married students, married post-doctoral trainees and occasionally visiting scientists on short-duration training missions. This has been very convenient for everyone concerned. The new policy has created nightmares for visiting scientists and their faculty hosts, but, as it turns out, it has also hurt the Jardine occupancy rate!

I will put forth several reasons why the housing office should reconsider this new policy. Generally, post-doctoral trainees are low paid but carry heavy research loads and are an important asset to the University. All good universities have arrangements for their housing, generally in conjunction with married student or faculty housing. Search for good post-doctoral fellows is highly competitive; reasonable and convenient housing is a good inducement.

The scientists visiting for short durations also enrich the University's teaching and research missions. Because of their short stay (three to six months in many cases), nobody in Manhattan is willing to rent them an apartment. To compound the problem, they are in a foreign land, lack transportation and also face language, cultural and other barriers. I have now this unhappy experience with two visiting scientists in my lab.

Imagine some of us visiting a foreign university and left to fend on our own! We at K-State who are proud of our hospitality and are trying to carry out the University's missions in earnest find this situation most embarrassing! I urge our University to consider making reasonable housing arrangements for visiting scientists and post-doctoral trainees and reconsider their new housing policy in Jardine Terrace. This may also bring the occupancy rate back to 100 percent in Jardine Terrace.

Bikram S. Gill
Associate professor of plant pathology

Basic sciences essential to progress

Editor,
Although a need may exist to renovate Weber Hall, the long-range commitment of K-State to maintaining a leadership role in agricultural research and teaching will not be best served by rearranging the University's capital improvement priorities as suggested by the Kansas Livestock Association. The mafor advances in agriculture in the ensuing decades will most likely result from the application of new technologies involving gene splicing and other biological and biochemical techniques, through the use of computers and robotics in food processing, etc. What is needed to maintain a dominant position for K-State is a strong commitment to the basic sciences so essential for progress in agriculture. The high priority given by the University to construction of a suitable and safe Chemistry-Biochemistry building is strong evidence that K-State intends to maintain its leadership role not only in the present but in the long-term future.

John S. Eck
Professor of physics

Streets to undergo changes

By LAURIE DIEHL
Collegian Reporter

Several street projects are planned or underway both on and off campus.

A section of 17th Street which crosses campus in front of Durland Hall has been closed for two years for construction of a chilling plant and the addition to Durland. The street will reopen for pedestrian and bicycle traffic at the end of this month. The street will remain closed to vehicular traffic.

Construction will include a main walkway by Durland, with two one-way bike paths between the walkway and chilling plant. Trees will be planted near the chilling and power plants, said Larry Wilson, director of landscaping and campus planning. The landscaping is intended to screen the chilling and power plants from view and limit access to them. Trucks will not cross the walkway.

The lighting system for Durland should be adequate for the walkway, Wilson said.

"The walk is better lighted than it was before the construction of Durland," he said. "I think it will be safer."

Automobile access to Lafene Student Health Center will be provided through a drive connected to College Heights Road. The drive will be wide enough for one-car traffic, but will have a turnoff area to allow traffic clearance for more than one vehicle.

"Now, much of the traffic is people looking for parking places and being dropped off for class," Wilson said. "Someday, we hope to limit it to necessary Lafene traffic."

The plan to restrict traffic on 17th Street was based on a consultant's report conducted two years ago. The report recommended the closing of 17th Street, Mid-Campus Drive and Campus Creek Road. There are no immediate plans to close any streets other than 17th Street.

Traffic-pattern changes have occurred on some streets in the city.

Leavenworth, Humboldt, and Pierre streets, all formerly one-way, have two-way traffic between 11th Street and Juliette Avenue. Long-range plans are to open the streets from Third Street to Juliette for two-way traffic, as well as Fourth and Houston streets, said City Engineer Jerry Petty.

This spring, construction is to begin on a road connecting Anderson Avenue and Claflin Road between Westloop Shopping Center and Hylton Heights Road. The construction was authorized last October by the Manhattan City Commission.

Sewer and water system improvements, which must be done before construction can begin, are to take place this winter.

"We won't begin road work until spring, unless we have an unusually mild winter," Petty said.

Location of the road's intersection on Claflin was questioned by some commission members because the intersection would be located between two hills. Petty said the intersection would be safer at the bottom of the hills than at any other location. Initially, there will be no stoplight at the intersection.

Construction of a southern arterial is also being planned. The arterial construction will re-route Kansas Highway 18 along Fort Riley Boulevard, El Paso Street and to the viaduct. U.S. Highway 24 will connect to Tuttle Creek Boulevard with an access point to Leavenworth.

The road's construction is being planned in conjunction with the proposed downtown redevelopment project. However, the arterial will be built even if the redevelopment proposal is not funded, Petty said.

Computer system assists students in making career-related decisions

By WAYNE PRICE
Collegian Reporter

A new computer in the Career Planning and Placement Center is now available to help students make career choices.

The Radio Shack TRS-80 computer, assists students in making career-related decisions by emphasizing value clarification, said James Akin, associate director of the center.

"We as individuals tend to be able to identify values that are important to us," he said. "but we have a difficult time in determining which of these values are important to us and under what circumstances. Values receive quite a bit of attention in this particular program."

The computer and a data printer were purchased a month ago from a local dealer for approximately $4,500. The software is being leased for about $1,200 per year from Educational Testing Service, Akin said.

He said he first became aware of the computer system 10 years ago. At that time, the hardware cost approximately $55,000. Gradually the price decreased and became feasible for the center's use, Akin said.

The program for the computer is called System for Interactive Guidance and Information. The program consists of six interrelated systems, five of which are leased by the center and are available to students. The five systems are called Values, Locate, Compare, Planning and Strategy.

The Values system helps students discover what characteristics they value in a career and what careers might interest them. Students explore which careers offer the characteristics they want through the Locate system.

The Compare system lists information about specific occupations and helps students judge the advantages and disadvantages of each so they can narrow their options. Determining the educational requirements of specific occupations is the next step in career exploration, and the Planning system helps students in this stage.

The final step, Strategy, shows students the rewards offered by a career choice and the risk in trying to enter a given field.

Completion of the program could take up to four hours, but most students complete it in one to three hours if it is done in one-hour sittings, Akin said. SIGI gives each student user a placeholder number which allows him to go back and continue the program if more time is needed.

"The computer is reserved, so there is no waiting in line to use it," Akin said. Students wishing to reserve the computer may call the center at 532-6506.

Career information from the system can be printed on a data sheet for a student. All information is kept confidential, and the professional staff at the center is available to assist a student who wishes to share the information and receive career counseling, Akin said.

Brother's
AGGIEVILLE

1120 Meru

539-9064

TONIGHT
—LADIES DAY—
50¢ DRAWS FOR GALS
1 p.m. to Midnight

Join us for BROTHER'S HAPPY HOUR
$2.25 PITCHERS
Daily from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Catch THE CLOCKS—Sept. 14th & 15th

Kitchens Plus

BANDANAS
48 colors

3rd & Humboldt
537-4046

The "Department" Store

ENJOY DARTS?

Belche didn't know...
The Sports Fan-attic has a BIG
DART TOURNAMENT every Tuesday
—Free drinks
—No entry fee
—Start throwing now before League Play.

Aggie
STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR

TACO TUESDAY!

• TACOS FOR LUNCH OR DINNER
• 99¢ MARGARITAS

TOMORROW IS LASAGNA WED.!

Charity Classic

KΔ ΠΚΦ Δ
GOLF TOURNAMENT

- Saturday, Oct. 8 • Stagg Hill Golf Club
- Open to all KSU Students, Faculty, and Staff
- To benefit Big Lakes
- Flighted Tournament; All entries win prizes
- ΠΚΦ and Δ will host a party after the tournament

STAGG HILL GOLF CLUB

OPTICAL
DISPENSARY
FOR THE LARGEST SELECTION OF FASHION FRAMES

At The Office Of Drs Price & Young

537-1331

Westloop Shopping Ctr Manhattan

BUSINESS COUNCIL HAS ONE VACANCY

Application available in SGS Office.
Due Fri. Sept. 9.

12th Walnut Valley Festival
September 15, 16, 17, 18, 1983

Winfield Fairgrounds
Winfield, Kansas

Featuring in Person:

- De Danann
- The Tony Rice Unit
- Berline, Cray & Hickman
- Mike Cross
- The Bluegrass Band
- John McCutcheon
- Trapeze
- Mark O'Connor
- Buck's Stove and Range Co.
- Ken Bloom
- Whetstone Run
- Hoofin' High Country Cloggers
- Neal Hellman
- The Foster Family String Band
- Southern Manor
- Cathy Barton & Dave Para
- Southwind
- Dudley Murphy & County Line
- Art Thieme
- Maddie MacNeil & Seth Austen
- Chris Proctor
- Tracy's Family Band
- Washboard Leo
- Pat Skinner
- Harvey Prinz & Lilah Gillett
- Roz Brown
- Tommy Flint
- Tisra Til
- Stevie Beck

Ticket Information:

Special Advance Weekend: $25 (Fri-$13 Sat $13 Sun $10)
2 days $20 Specify Fri/Sat or Sat/Sun
At Gate Weekend: $28 (Fri-$13 Sat $13 Sun $10)
2 Days $22 Specify Fri/Sat or Sat/Sun
(Admission to Thursday evening only to those purchasing a weekend festival ticket)
Children under age 12 free with adult
No mail orders after Sept. 8th Advance tickets guarantee admission
Any tickets received September 8th or thereafter will be held at the gate
No Refunds Ticket gate open 24 hours

For more information and advance tickets write walnut valley association, inc.

117 E. 9th — Box 245 N
Winfield, Kansas 67156
Phone 316-221-3250

This will be the BEST FESTIVAL IN THE U.S. this year!!!

Arts & Craft Fair
35 Workshops
8 contests
Well policed grounds
Weekend ticket includes rough camping
No Animals, No Beer or Alcohol, No Drugs and No Motorcycles (due to noise)

POWER FOR SALE.

The power of accomplishing more. Of working smarter. With a business computer from Vector.

It helps in business planning and forecasting, as well as simplifying your complicated accounting tasks. And streamlines all those tedious typing chores. Not to mention producing professional memos, letters and reports.

Vector gives you the power of word and data processing you'd expect from much larger computers. All in a very economical desktop model.

We will be glad to show you the entire line of high-powered, low-cost computers and demonstrate their capabilities.

We'll prove that power can be bought inexpensively.

BRONCO COMPUTER SYSTEMS

714 Poyntz 776-0745
Also in Mankato (913) 378-3116

VECTOR
VECTOR GRAPHIC INC.
THE COMPANY COMPUTER®

FREEMAN

—Simply Superior

McCALLS SHOES
A Manhattan Tradition
Since 1961

Caravan

313 Poyntz downtown Manhattan

• Visa
• Mastercard

Jim Newton
Songweaver

In Concert

Sept. 6 7:30 p.m.

Forum Hall, K-State Union

Tickets $1.00 (at the door)

Free Mini-Concert 12:00 Noon
Union Courtyard

Jim Newton is loving, provides a sensitive blend of sound theology, good humor, penetrating, powerful and original music performed with artistic excellence.

Sponsored by American Baptist
Campus Ministry
and Ecumenical Christian Ministries

Briefly

By the Associated Press

Prince begins military training

LYMPSTONE, England — Prince Edward swapped his civvies for a Royal Marine green uniform Monday, beginning two weeks of commando training at the marines' base in this southwest England port.

Queen Elizabeth II's youngest son is to undergo a grueling Lymington assault course as part of the marines' University Cadets Entry Program. Edward, 19, enters Cambridge University this fall.

After the prince was driven through the base gates past a throng of photographers, a base official told reporters the prince would be given no royal treatment inside.

The prince will have the rank of second lieutenant during his stay and will be paid 12.50 pounds or $18.75 a day, officials said. He will return to Lymington in 1986 after finishing his education at Cambridge University's Jesus College.

Baker will run if Reagan doesn't

NEW YORK — Senate Majority leader Howard Baker says he's "virtually certain" Ronald Reagan will run for re-election in 1984, but that if Reagan doesn't, Baker will run for the job.

If Reagan does seek another four years in the White House, Baker said he will run in 1988.

"I'm virtually certain that Reagan will run," Baker told Newsweek in this week's issue.

The Tennessean says his retirement at the end of his term after 18 years in the Senate will give him time to establish the national political contacts he needs and "shed the congressional mindset."

Manilow to give benefit in Britain

LONDON — Singer Barry Manilow will play his first charity benefit concert in the presence of Prince Charles and Princess Diana at London's Royal Festival Hall Oct. 6, a spokesman said Monday.

The concert in aid of the Royal College of Music Centenary Appeal and the Central British Fund for World Jewish Relief follows his rave performance Aug. 26 on the grounds of Blenheim Palace, where he played before 45,000 people, his biggest audience ever.

The benefit, his last appearance in a year-long tour, is expected to raise about 100,000 pounds, or $150,000, for the two charities.

Actress returns after 40 years

DENVER — Actress Dorothy Lamour, back here for the first time since the 1940s, says she was singing with a band here when she was signed to her first movie contract with Paramount Pictures.

Her first movie was to be titled, "The Jungle Queen," but she said, "I was so young they changed the title to 'The Jungle Princess.'"

Miss Lamour, best known for her role as the saronged sidekick of Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in their "On the Road" movies, was in Denver last week to help an advertising firm celebrate its 50th year in business. Not coincidentally, this year also is Miss Lamour's golden anniversary in show business.

Born in Louisiana in 1914, Miss Lamour became Miss New Orleans in 1931 and later sang on radio programs before her screen debut.

Pregnant soldiers must suit selves

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The Defense Ministry has told female members of the armed forces to wear civilian clothes when they are more than three months pregnant.

The reason? Budget cuts have left no room to design military maternity wear, according to Defense Minister Alfred Vreven.

After the first three months of pregnancy, women in the armed forces will get special permission from a doctor "to wear civilian clothes in the absence of appropriate (military) uniforms," Vreven told Parliament recently.

"A special uniform for pregnant women in the armed forces is not envisaged given the budgetary restrictions," he said.

South African treason trial begins

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — A South African navy commodore and his wife, both accused of spying for the Soviet Union, went on trial for treason Monday.

Justice George Munnik heard a request from Attorney General Daniel Rossouw that the trial be closed to the public, because evidence would involve sensitive military secrets.

Lawyers for Commodore Dieter Gerhardt, 47, and his Swiss-born wife, Ruth, 41, said they would oppose a closed trial.

Gerhardt, a 21-year navy veteran, commanded the dockyard at the Simonstown naval base, near Cape Town, when he and his wife were arrested in January. Simonstown is South Africa's main naval installation and overlooks sea lanes that carry more than half of Western Europe's oil supplies.

Prime Minister P.W. Botha said when the Gerhardts were arrested that they had acted for the Soviet Union, which South Africa accuses of fomenting guerrilla warfare here.

Treason is punishable by execution or prison sentence.

Chinese refugee requests asylum

OAKLAND, Calif. — A Chinese man who sneaked aboard a freighter was in jail Monday, asking for political asylum in "any non-communist country except Taiwan."

Fang Sui Yau, 23, held for illegally entering the country, told authorities he stowed away three weeks ago in a ventilation trunk aboard the Sea-Land Developer, a container vessel that makes regular round trips to the West Coast from Hong Kong.

Fang surrendered to the crew shortly after the ship left Hong Kong, said W.E. Franklin, captain of the vessel. A spokesman for Sea-Land Service, owner of the ship, said Fang was kept under guard and isolated during most of the voyage, but that the crew liked him.

Fang apparently has filed a request for asylum with the Immigration and Naturalization Service, but INS officials in San Francisco declined to comment on the case.

Actress begins classes at Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J. — Actress Brooke Shields began freshman orientation activities at Princeton University on Monday amid tight security, with campus guards turning back anyone who appeared to be a professional photographer or a reporter.

The Ivy League university had announced it would respect Miss Shields' request to be treated "like any other student" without press conferences, photo sessions or other fanfare.

School officials said Miss Shields, 18, who is known for modeling Calvin Klein jeans and starring in the films "Pretty Baby," "Endless Love" and "The Blue Lagoon," had feared that a barrage of publicity during her first week at school would make it difficult to become a regular student.

The freshmen checked in Sunday and began their week-long orientation program on Monday. Classes for all students start Sept. 12.

Miss Shields, who shares a suite with two roommates, graduated in June from Dwight-Englewood High School in Englewood, N.J. She has said she doesn't plan to take any acting courses at Princeton and that she'll probably major in English.

Get down to business faster. With the BA-35.

If there's one thing business students have always needed, this is it: an affordable, business-oriented calculator. The Texas Instruments BA-35, the Student Business Analyst.

Its built-in business formulas let you perform complicated finance, accounting and statistical functions — the ones that usually require a lot of time and a stack of reference books, to help you get the most out like present and future value calculations, amortizations and balloon payments.

The BA-35 means you spend less time calculating, and more time learning. One keystroke takes the place of many.

The calculator is just part of the package. You also get a book that follows most business courses: the Business Analyst Guidebook. Business professors helped us write it, to help you get the most out of calculator and classroom.

A powerful combination.

Think business. With the BA-35 Student Business Analyst.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
Creating useful products and services for you.

©1983 Texas Instruments

Isn't it about time you and your computer really got to know each other?

Wiley Self-Teaching Guides. We're great at introductions.

BASIC FOR HOME COMPUTERS

By Bob Albrecht, LeRoy Finkel, & Jerald R. Brown

"A sensible and complete beginning guide to BASIC. Takes you from knowing almost nothing to knowing almost everything..." —Kilobaud 336 pp. $10.95

Over 250,000 copies sold!

TRS-80® BASIC

By Bob Albrecht, Don Inman & Ramon Zamora

"If you're a rank beginner... your novice status won't last long. TRS-80 BASIC leads you by the hand through the maze of programming the computer to perform both entertaining and useful tasks..." —Interface Age 251 pp. $10.95

Over 400,000 copies sold!

ATARI® BASIC

By Bob Albrecht, LeRoy Finkel, & Jerald R. Brown

"Albrecht et al have produced what may be the finest introduction to BASIC programming I have ever seen..." —Microcomputing 333 pp. $10.95

TRS-80® COLOR BASIC

By Bob Albrecht

Loads of games, experiments, and programming puzzles let you get the most from your TRS-80 Color Computer—and learn the fundamentals of BASIC programming while you have fun. 384 pp. $9.95

USING CP/M®

By Judi N. Fernandez & Ruth Ashley

"A must for any nonprofessional programmer using CP/M." —Kilobaud Microcomputing 243 pp. $14.95

THE GENIE IN THE COMPUTER

BASIC Programming on the TRS-80®

By Rachel Kohl, Laura Karp, & Ethan Signer

Great for teens, preteens, and technophobics of all ages, The Genie teaches you BASIC functions and commands by using your TRS-80's graphics. Each new skill you learn makes the Genie come to life—moving, talking, even starring in a movie—all at your bidding! 192 pp. $12.95

BASIC FOR THE APPLE® II

By Jerald R. Brown, LeRoy Finkel, & Bob Albrecht

A complete, friendly, and virtually guaranteed introduction to BASIC programming on the Apple II—from the authors whose books have taught more than half a million micro users how to program in BASIC. 416 pp. $12.95

ATARI® SOUND AND GRAPHICS

By Herb Moore, Judy Lower, & Bob Albrecht

This unique self-paced manual takes you step by step through easy-to-learn techniques for creating sounds and graphics—melodies, cartoons, games, even combinations of sound and animation—on the ATARI 400 and ATARI 800. 234 pp. $9.95

Wiley Self-Teaching Guides can also introduce you to data file programming, COBOL, assembly language, and other important skills. They're the friendly paperbacks that already have taught more than a million and a half people to use, program, and enjoy their microcomputers. Come get acquainted!

Apple® is a registered trademark of Apple Computer, Inc.
ATARI® is a registered trademark of Atari, Inc.
CP/M® is a registered trademark of Digital Research.
TRS-80® is a registered trademark of Tandy Corp.

9-9
MON.-SAT.

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

12-5
SUN.

K-State licenses logos as demand increases

By TOM STALLBAUMER
Collegian Reporter

An increase of requests by retailers to use K-State logos on their products has prompted University officials to have the logos licensed.

The licensing procedure, which began two months ago, requires manufacturers to receive permission and pay a royalty fee for using logos. The logos being licensed include the official University seal, the KSU monogram and two variations of the Wildcat mascot.

The licensing procedure is being handled by International Collegiate Enterprises of Woodland Hills, Calif., said Rob Bower, publications editor for University Relations.

"The licensing of the logos by a licensing agent allows the school's name and image to be projected into the marketplace," Jim Brown, ICE spokesman, said.

The firm was hired because the University does not have the staff available to handle this type of business, Bower said.

The University of Kansas had an office for handling the licensing of its Jayhawk logo, but hired ICE in June 1982 to manage the paperwork and legal aspects.

ICE also handles licensing of the Oklahoma State University and University of Colorado logos. Other Big Eight Conference universities are either under negotiation with the company or have their own offices on campus, Brown said.

When a manufacturer wants to use a licensed logo, he must first contact ICE and provide a sample of the product. ICE examines the sample and sends it to the school. Acceptance of the sample by the universities is based on the image it portrays. Acceptance of a logo includes the specific logo the manufacturer wants to use and not the entire series.

If the product is accepted, the manufacturer must pay a royalty fee before he can use the logo. Some manufacturers are exempt from paying the royalty fee when dealing with certain vendors. The University exempts suppliers to the Union Bookstore and Varney's Book Store from paying the royalty fees. This is done because the Union Bookstore is a direct part of the University and eliminates any problems that may arise from unfair competition between the two businesses.

Manufacturers must pay ICE 6.5 percent of product sales for use of the logos. ICE guarantees the University a minimum of $5,000 annually. If more money is received in royalties, the University receives 60 percent of the first $50,000 and 75 percent of proceeds in excess of $50,000, Bower said.

All profits from licensing the logos are put into the University's general scholarship fund, Bower said.

Tight job market awaits college grads

By College Press Service

When it comes to getting a job, Grambling State University Placement Director L.B. Smith has one short piece of advice: "You don't want to be a college graduate in 1983."

This year has been "the worst employment market in my 25 years in the profession," said Victor Lindquist, placement chief at Northwestern and director of the annual Endicott Report about how students are faring in the job market.

Although graduates of two-year colleges may be a little more successful this year in finding jobs than their counterparts at four-year schools, counselors across the nation are seemingly unanimous in calling this the worst student job market within memory for all collegians.

At some schools, as many as half the firms that normally recruit on campus failed to show up to interview students last spring. Nationwide, job offers to all spring graduates decreased by 17 percent from 1982 levels.

Even engineering and computer science grads — who typically were fielding six or seven job offers just a year ago — have gotten 12 percent fewer offers than the class of 1982.

Officials say things may be getting worse in the short run.

Job offers to four-year college grads are down so far by an average of 34 percent since 1982.

Liberal arts majors are the only four-year campus grads doing better this summer and fall. So far they've entertained 10 percent more offers than the class of 1982. Starting salaries for humanities majors rose 7.6 percent, stated a College Placement Council campus survey released in August.

Engineering majors continue to attract the highest starting salaries and the most number of job offers, but nowhere near the heights their predecessors achieved in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

Businesses have made 42 percent fewer offers to them, the CPC reports. And while the $26,736 average starting salary for chemical engineers ranked second only to petroleum engineers' $30,816, it was actually 1.2 percent lower than 1982's average figures.

According to the Endicott update, the number of college graduates hired has declined 41 percent in the last two years.

Corporate recruiters, moreover, report their campus interviewing is down 62 percent in the same period. Grambling's Smith says only about 55 percent of his school's spring graduating class has found jobs.

"We're wondering if all this talk of economic recovery isn't just politics," said Marjorie McBride, Oregon State University associate placement director. "The doors sure aren't swinging open here."

Oregon State has had 36 percent fewer recruiters visiting campus, 18 percent fewer student interviews, and "still the worst (job market) I've ever seen," McBride said.

Lindquist said, "I don't know of any campus or any major that's been immune (from declines in the job market)."

Community college grads, however, seem to be doing better.

"We have 87 percent of our grads placed, and 12 percent went into other continuing education programs," said Ann Pierce, St. Louis Community College-Florissant Valley's placement director.

"But it's because we have so many technical programs," she said. "Overall we had a more difficult time, but like a lot of other community colleges, we're finding that companies are looking for two-year graduates with specific technical training."

In fact, she added, "many companies are choosing two-year technical grads over applicants with bachelor's degrees — even over engineers and computer science majors — because they don't have to pay them as much, and they can train them the 'company way' as opposed to a university's program approach."

But better times may be ahead.

Most job experts, along with corporate employers and personnel directors, expect 1984 to be a better year.

"Hopefully, it's going to look up the closer we get to the presidential elections," Smith said. "Between now and next spring I'm looking for a marked upturn."

Likewise, Oregon State's McBride is hopeful things will improve, "but we won't know for sure until we see how many (recruiters) actually show up in October."

Engineering grads, too, can "expect things to perk up a bit this year," said Pat Sheridan, executive director of the Engineering Manpower Commission.

"But," he warned, "I don't think things will ever get back to the levels in the late seventies and early eighties when grads were getting seven or eight job offers apiece and starting salaries were increasing at 12 percent a year."

Exxon, which this year hired "about a third" as many college grads as it did in 1981, expects to hire 10 percent more grads this spring, Professional Recruitment Director Ray Tickner predicted.

Hughes Aircraft, a major employer of engineers, will also be hiring more people next year, a company spokesman said.

Texas Instruments "may hire slightly more engineers than this last year," says company spokesman George Berryman, "but we don't anticipate any major increase."

General Motors Spokesman Bill Cowell said the company's hiring was already up 40 percent for spring 1983, "and may increase as much as 50 percent" for next spring.

"It's a mixed picture," Lindquist said, "but we do hope the worst is over. Computer science and engineering majors are still the degrees of choice."

But before any major improvement occurs, he said, "the shipping doors have to swing open before the doors in the employment office swing very wide."

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

GO "CLASS A"
ALL THE WAY
PLAY PUTT PUTT

Kitchens Plus
"Auntie Em"
T-Shirts
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046
The "Department" Store

Prescriptions filled with Highest Quality
Optical Lenses

Economically Priced
Fashionable Frames

Photochromics—
Fashion Tints
Emergency Repairs

410 Poyntz 776-6255
Downtown Manhattan

DEE JAY
DAVE GUTHALS
Vast Music
Selections
Top Quality
Equipment
Lots of Experience

Reasonable Rates
CALL NOW
539-7512

20th Century Sounds
Box 392, Abilene, KS

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Little Sister Rush Party

Tonight
at 8:00
505 Denison

Everyone's Welcome!

Last of the
RED HOT
Lovers

Manhattan Civic Theatre
presents Neil Simon's
Last of the Red Hot Lovers

Sept. 9, 10, 16, 17, 23, 24
8:00 p.m.

Ticket reservations:
Mon.-Fri. 12-4, 776-8591

Directed by: Pat Foltz-Pearson
Ask about season tickets now on sale
Only $16.00 for five exciting shows!

WAVES TO RAVE ABOUT
For volume or just support
at
HAYNES STYLE SHOP

Today's styles require a perm and now they are affordable.
Get an Apple Pectin perm, cut and style.
Reg. $35.

Now Only $28.50

718 1/2 N. Manhattan 539-5512

Block & Bridle Meeting

Tues., Sept. 6
7:30 p.m.
Weber 107

All new students are invited.

HAPPY 20TH!
KANDY SCHRAG

Love,
Pam, Lisa, Terry,
Shannon and Sherry

DATA PROCESSING
MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION

6 Sept. 7:00 p.m.
Union 213

All Computer Sciences Information
Systems and Business Majors welcome.
Refreshments will follow.

A GLASS ACT.

"KSU on the Rocks" glass FREE with the purchase of any medium or large pizza at the Godfather's Pizza® restaurant just off Campus. Very Classy.
(Available while supplies last. One glass per pizza only. Not valid with other offers.)
Now delivering anywhere in Manhattan. Ask for details.

Godfather's Pizza®
1118 Laramie • 539-5303

When it
comes to pizza,
PTA comes to you.

Pizza Transit Authority®

PTA'S GREAT
PIZZA
COUPON

537-9500

Feed a Group of Four
For $7⁰⁰

Any Large 1-Item Pizza and 4-14 oz.
Cups of Pepsi Delivered Free.

Aggieville
1127 Moro
SO6C

Not Good with Other Specials.
Limit One Coupon Per Pizza.
Expires Sept. 4, 83.

FREE DELIVERY
IN 30 MINUTES OR LESS

BETTER PIZZA!
BETTER DEAL!

Bakery internships easy to find for K-State grain science students

By STEVE MILLS
Collegian Reporter

Graduating college students looking for jobs are at an advantage if they have worked as summer interns in their chosen field.

While many students find competition keen for internships, bakery science students desiring an internship need only ask, Joseph Ponte, professor of grain science, said.

In the last two years, any student requesting a summer job relating to their field of study in bakery science, which is a program in the Department of Grain Science and Industry, has received an internship with a company, Ponte said.

Baking companies inform K-State of their student employment openings by contacting the faculty in the grain science department. Faculty members then inform the students of the available summer jobs and internships, including dates and times the company has available for interviews, he said.

Last summer, the bakery science program could not fill all of the internships offered by baking companies. These internships provide on-the-job training for students, helping them gain experience in production, engineering, sales and quality control in bakery science, Ponte said.

K-State is the only university in the United States to offer a degree program in bakery science and management, Ponte said. The University is at the top of the ladder for employment opportunities offered to graduates, he said.

Bakery science is a $25 billion a year industry with a promising future, Ponte said.

"In these times of economic difficulty, the big industry of bakery products is relatively stable," he said.

The starting salary of students with degrees in bakery science is one of the highest in the College of Agriculture as well as in any of the other seven colleges at K-State, Ponte said.

At a convention last spring, the president of one of the largest bread and cake companies told a group of K-State students that graduating from the University with a bakery science and management degree would almost guarantee them a job with his company.

Paula McLaughlin, senior in grain science, interned with Frito-Lay last summer.

"Frito-Lay will definitely be looking at me when I have graduated," she said. "According to employee relations there, they are primarily looking at students from K-State for internships because they don't have to be trained as much."

The demand for qualified people in the baking industry is secure. As the industry becomes more mechanized, computerized and automated, there will be a big demand for college-trained people, Ponte said.

"The future is very promising. It (bakery science) has been around for more than 4,000 years and will go on into the future," he said. "The baking industry has been very supportive in our baking science and management program in terms of summer jobs, internships and scholarships, and we would like to see more students interested in participating in these opportunities."

Pope reaffirms traditional views

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II took his strongest stand yet against ordaining women as priests and told U.S. bishops Monday to reaffirm traditional church views on sex and marriage — even if they are unpopular.

But the pontiff also called on the bishops to oppose "discrimination of women by reason of sex."

The pope, addressing 23 U.S. bishops at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo south of Rome, said they must strongly reaffirm church stands against contraception, divorce, homosexuality, premarital sex and abortion.

Archbishop Patrick F. Flores of San Antonio, Texas, one of the participants in the meeting, called the talk "challenging."

"He gave us food for thought," Flores said of the meeting.

The pontiff uses the traditional meetings he holds with bishops every five years to address particular problems in their home countries. An eight-page statement on his comments to the bishops was delivered in English and made available here.

"The bishop is called upon to oppose any and all discrimination against women by reason of sex," the pope said.

"In this regard he (each bishop) must likewise endeavor to explain as cogently as he can that the church's teaching on the exclusion of women from priestly ordination is extraneous to the issue of discrimination and that it is linked rather to Christ's own design for his priesthood," he added.

The pontiff has strongly opposed the idea of women in the priesthood, but for the first time called on bishops to take such an active role in trying to curb the idea.

Flores said he knew of no specific case in which a bishop had supported a group seeking the controversial ordination of women, but the idea is a subject of controversy in the United States.

The pope said the "compassionate bishop" proclaims the indissolubility of marriage and the "incompatibility of premarital sex and homosexual activity with God's plan for human love." The bishop should try to assist "those who are faced with difficult moral choices," he added.

The pontiff acknowledged at several points that his views go against popular trends.

American bishops have said that statistics show nearly 80 percent of all Roman Catholic women in the United States use contraceptives, and that only 29 percent of U.S. priests were reported to believe that contraception was "intrinsically immoral."

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Tuesday is
Ladies Nite
1 free drink
&
$1 bar drinks
(all night, ladies!)

at
COWBOY PALACE
Where it don't make
no difference
209 Payntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

WOK AWAY WITH A GOOD DEAL!

5 pc. round bottom
wok sets includes

- wok
- cover
- cookbook
- chopsticks
- converter ring

only
99¢

Acacia HARDWARE
1205 Moro
539-7761 M.-Sat. 8-5:30 p.m.

Lords n' Ladys

Welcome Back!
$2.00 off a haircut
with this ad.

Student I.D. required
expires Sept. 16, 1983

REDKEN Nexxus New Man
210 Humboldt
776-5651

10% off all
DANSKIN Leotards & Tights
and
Capezio Ballet &
Toe Shoes . . .

at Ballard's Sporting Goods
—headquarters
for your dance
and exercise
apparel needs.

Ballard's
IN AGGIEVILLE

Some of our classrooms aren't classrooms

This semester, try something impossible:

- Mountaineering
- Orienteering
- Care of Combat Casualties
- Map Reading

ARMY ROTC.
LEARN WHAT IT TAKES TO LEAD.

GET FRAMED!

OFF CAMPUS STUDENTS
Have your picture taken for Royal Purple

Sept. 6-12, 8:30 to 12:30, 1:30 to 5:30

Call 539-5229 for appointment
or sign up in Union Room 209.

Bring stamped fee card.

Auntie
Mae's Parlor

TONIGHT
IMPORT BEER
NIGHT

We can't say their names, but you know the Brands. Get a bottle of Mae's most popular beers from across the seas for only

$1.25
7 P.M. TO CLOSE

— DAILY HAPPY HOUR —
$1.25 House Drinks
50¢ Draws $2.00 Pitchers
— 4 P.M. TO 7 P.M. —

616 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE 539-9967

The Sun Survival Kit
Only $12.99 with any $10.00 purchase of Merle Norman cosmetics

MERLE NORMAN
The Place for the Custom Face

LUNCH COUPON
1/4 LB.
CHEESEBURGER
with a BASKET
OF FRIES $1.99

Hibachi Hut
Open for lunch Open at 5:00

Expires 9/10/83
ONE BLOCK SOUTH
OF MORO ON 12TH IN
AGGIEVILLE

608 N. 12th 539-9906

IN PROGRESS!

RECORD SALE

PRICES FROM $2.99 — $4.99

ROCK	CLASSICAL	COUNTRY
Doobie Brothers	Mozart	Crystal Gayle
Steely Dan	Bach	Kenny Rogers
AC/DC	Haydn	Charlie Rich
Grateful Dead	Franz Schubert	Lynn Anderson
The Who	5-Record Set	Ray Price
Beatles	only $4.99	Ernest Tubbs
Judy Collins	Baroque Masterpieces	Conway Twitty
Fonzie Favorites	Great Violin Concertos	Oak Ridge Boys
Elvis	Great Piano Concertos
And Many More!

BRASS VOICES - Hit songs of the past three decades
6-Record Set only $4.99!

This is only a partial listing,
but selections are limited.
Sale ends Sept. 18.

Varney's
BOOK STORE

"In the heart of Aggieville"

PLUS: Jazz, Soul, Gospel & Easy Listening

OPEN FOR YOU
9-9 Mon. - Sat.
12-5 Sun.

Doug Bogue walks off the field following the loss.

49ers stop Cats

Long Beach State's Tim Golden (12) attempts to avoid K-State fullbacks Mark Hundley (42) and Lemuel James (31) while returning a punt in the first quarter of Saturday night's contest.

Field goals spotlight kicker

By JOEL TORCZON
Copy Editor

The 28,700 fans who attended Saturday's game between K-State and Long Beach State probably were in anticipation of an aerial circus by 49ers' quarterback Todd Dillon.

After all, it was Dillon who led the nation last year in total offense with 3,587 yards (3,517 of those coming through the air), which ranks second on the all-time National Collegiate Athletic Association charts.

However, it was a 5-foot-9, 180-pound Taft (Calif.) Junior College transfer who gave the 49ers a lot to kick about in their 28-20 season-opening, non-conference defeat of the Wildcats — the first meeting between the two schools.

Jose Ocegueda, who had never kicked on an artificial turf before, literally stole the "spotlight" as he connected on a school record five field goals and an extra point to account for 16 of the 49ers' 28 points.

The game was played under permanently-installed lights, which were recently put up in KSU Stadium for the first time in school or Big Eight Conference history. "I feel great about it," said Ocegueda, whose field goals came from 34, 20, 30, 26 and 41 yards. "Three field goals were the most I ever kicked in one game," he said, referring to a high school contest.

Ocegueda said that once he kicked his first field goal in the game, he "wasn't nervous anymore."

However, his extra point try following Dillon's 13-yard insurance touchdown scamper late in the game hit the left upright, which made the plot seem clear enough for the Wildcats: score a touchdown in the 50 seconds remaining and run for two extra points to salvage a tie.

As Wildcat fans held their breath, quarterback Doug Bogue drilled a 17-yard pass to Eric Mack, then hit successive passes to Mike Wallace for three and 11 yards to put the Cats on the 49ers' 41-yard line.

Bogue then connected with James Witherspoon and James Ricketts for 21 and seven yards respectively to put the ball at the 49ers' 13-yard line with three seconds left.

However, 49ers' safety Eric Johnson snuffed the possibility of a tie when he intercepted a pass intended for Mack in the end zone.

"Obviously, it was a disappointing loss for us," said Coach Jim Dickey. "It seemed like they wanted to win more than we did."

"We're not in a position where we can play halfway. The best team won tonight. We made too many mistakes to win."

Though Ocegueda was upset about the missed kick, saying that he wanted "a perfect game," he and punter Jeff Carter (another junior college transfer) received nothing but praise from their coach, Dave Currey.

"We had two kickers who had never played in a college game, and they rose to the occasion," Currey said. K-State's defense probably was as fooled as anybody else when the 49ers' took to the ground — led by a diminutive jitterbug named Lenny Montgomery.

The 5-foot-7, 175-pound Montgomery, whose brother Wilbert Montgomery stars for the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, added a new dimension to the 49ers' pass-oriented offense by rushing 24 times for 128 yards — a career high. He also latched on to six passes for an additional 27 yards.

"It's nice to know that we are a football team and not just one man (quarterback Todd Dillon)," Currey said. "Our team helped Todd tonight. We wanted to be able to run the football and this helped us win."

The 49ers' ability to run the football (241 yards to the Cats' 86) offset Dillon's poorest showing as a 49er quarterback: 13 completions of 29 passes for 91 yards.

Dillon's previous lows had been 22 completions, 42 attempts and 246 yards last season in which he averaged 319 yards in passing per game.

"I think all the pre-season play on Todd Dillon put a lot of pressure on him," Currey said, pointing out that "Kansas State was dropping eight players most of the time, and it's tough to throw into those zones with that many people back there."

Dickey praised the 49ers for a "good game plan and a good job in mixing up the plays."

"The thing I was most surprised about was Dillon's ability to check off at the line of scrimmage. Their running game really has to please their coaches. That was one of the biggest points of the game — their ability to run and pass effectively."

Despite the 49ers gaining more total yards — 332 yards to K-State's 282 — Currey found it "discouraging that we couldn't get into the end zone."

"Kansas State had a good game plan defensively, and they were patient enough with it."

Dickey agreed with Currey's assessment. "We were fortunate to be in the game in the first half," he said. "Several times, we held them to field goals when they were driving for scores."

It was a bad day for the state of Kansas as K-State's loss came on the heels of the University of Kansas' 37-34 upset to lowly Northern Illinois, and later, Wichita State University received a shocking 29-21 defeat by Missouri Southern State University.

However, it would be presumptuous to consider the Cats' game against the pre-season favorites in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association as an upset.

"It was a rough game," said runningback James Ricketts, who scored the Cats' only touchdowns on a two-yard run in the first quarter and a one-yard dive in the fourth period that put the Cats in the lead, 20-19. "We really didn't play like we should have. Long Beach was a good team though. They really hit you and never gave up."

Steve Willis scored the Cats' other points on field goals of 47 yards, equaling a career best, and 41 yards.

Ricketts' 2-yard touchdown run with 38 seconds remaining in the first quarter gave the Cats a 7-3 lead — for a very brief time.

On the following kickoff, Tim Golden bolted down the left sidelines past three Cat defenders before cutting across the field for an 87-yard kickoff return with 24 seconds left.

In the second quarter, Ocegueda booted two field goals to Willis' one to put the 49ers on top at halftime, 16-10. Willis' second field goal brought K-State closer after three periods, 16-13, but the first play of the final stanza was another Ocegueda three-pointer to put it at 19-13.

Nelson Nickerson (3) is attended to on the sidelines during final minutes of play.

Following Ricketts' run to put the Cats on top, 20-19, Ocegueda scored what proved to be the winning points in the game — a 41-yard field goal with 7:12 left in the fourth quarter.

K-State's leaders in the passing and rushing department were Bogue with 11 passes in 19 tries for 196 yards and Ricketts with 12 totes for 38 yards.

Wallace led the Cat receivers with four receptions for 77 yards while Mack had two for 68. Both caught 51-yard bombs in the game.

K-State will attempt to get back on the winning track when it travels to Lexington, Ky. Saturday for an encounter with the University of Kentucky — a 31-14 winner over Central Michigan in Saturday's season-opener for both teams. K-State won last year's clash against the Blue Grass Wildcats in Manhattan, 23-9.

Long Beach State returns home for a PCAA opener against California State University, Fullerton.

Photographs by Rob Clark Jr.,

Andy Nelson, Jeff Taylor

K-State's James Ricketts scored two touchdowns in the game.

McEnroe drops match to confident Scanlon

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Bill Scanlon, riding behind his booming serve and supreme confidence, shocked top-seeded John McEnroe 7-6, 7-6, 4-6, 6-3, Monday to advance into the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

It was the earliest exit from America's premier tennis tournament for McEnroe since his first appearance in 1977, when, as an 18-year-old, he also reached the fourth round.

For Scanlon, it was only his third career victory over McEnroe in 10 meetings and marked the first time he had reached the quarterfinal of a Grand Slam tournament since Wimbledon in 1979.

"This has to be the best I've ever played in any major tournament," Scanlon told the crowd of 20,701 at Louis Armstrong Stadium and a national television audience.

It was a troubled and tentative McEnroe who faced Scanlon on the Stadium Court Monday. His serve was off and he made numerous unforced errors. But a lot of that had to do with the brilliant play of Scanlon, the 16th seed, who was in control through almost the entire match.

McEnroe's loss left No. 2 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia as the highest seed left in the men's singles. Lendl, who is still looking for his first Grand Slam title, will meet No. 12 Johan Kriek in a fourth-round match today.

The victory moved Scanlon into a meeting with Mark Dickson, who defeated John Lloyd of Britain 6-7, 7-6, 6-0, 7-6.

Lloyd's wife, Chris Evert Lloyd, the women's No. 2 seed, reached the quarterfinals for the 13th consecutive year, defeating No. 16 Kathy Jordan 6-3, 7-6.

In the women's fourth-round play Monday, third-seeded Andrea Jaeger ousted Bonnie Gadusek 4-6, 6-2, 6-1; No. 5 Pam Shriver eliminated Lisa Bonder 6-2, 6-2; No. 7 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany defeated Pascale Paradis of France 6-4, 6-1; No. 8 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia stopped No. 10 Zina Garrison 6-3, 7-5; No. 14 Jo Durie of Britain downed Anne White 6-3, 6-0; and Argentina's Ivanna Madruga-Osses topped Andrea Leand 6-1, 6-3.

K-State game stats

Long Beach	K-State
20	first downs 15
48-241	Rushing 38-86
13-29-91-1	Passing 11-19-196-3
1-1	Fumbles-lost 3-1
9-103	Penalties 7-63
4-39-0	Punting 5-35-2
26	Return yards 15
34-24	Time of Possession 25:36

INDIVIDUAL STATISTICS
Rushing
Long Beach State—Montgomery 24-128; Rowe 10-38; Templeton 4-31; Stanheiser 2-11
K-State—Ricketts 12-38; Crawford 4-22; Dageforde 7-19; Weber 1-4; Adams 1-3; Witherspoon 1-2; Bogue 12-(-2)
Passing
Long Beach State—Dillon 13-29-91-1
K-State—Bogue 11-18-196-2; Weber 0-1-0-1
Receiving
Long Beach State—Montgomery 6-27; Templeton 2-16; Longwell 2-17; Ervin 1-18; J. Montgomery 1-8; Rowe 1-5
K-State—Wallace 4-77; Mack 2-48; Witherspoon 2-26; Russell 1-14; Ricketts 1-7; Dageforde 1-4

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

Major League Standings

AMERICAN LEAGUE					NATIONAL LEAGUE
East Division					East Division
	W	L	Pct.	GB		W	L	Pct.	GB
Baltimore	80	54	.597	—	Pittsburgh	70	65	.519	—
Detroit	77	59	.566	4	Philadelphia	69	66	.511	1
Milwaukee	77	59	.566	4	Montreal	68	66	.502	1 1/2
New York	76	59	.563	4 1/2	St. Louis	67	67	.500	2 1/2
Toronto	75	64	.540	7 1/2	Chicago	62	74	.456	8 1/2
Boston	67	71	.486	15	New York	57	79	.419	13 1/2
Cleveland	61	76	.445	20 1/2
West Division					West Division
	W	L	Pct.	GB		W	L	Pct.	GB
Chicago	78	59	.569	—	Los Angeles	79	57	.581	—
Kansas City	65	71	.478	12 1/2	Atlanta	77	60	.562	2 1/2
Oakland	66	74	.471	13 1/2	Houston	72	64	.529	7
Texas	64	74	.464	14 1/2	San Diego	67	71	.486	13
California	63	75	.453	14 1/2	San Francisco	65	72	.474	14 1/2
Minnesota	58	80	.420	20 1/2	Cincinnati	63	75	.452	17
Seattle	51	85	.375	26 1/2

Turf aches Royals

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — George Brett and a couple of his teammates say that Royals Stadium's artificial surface, one of the oldest and hardest in the league, is wearing them down.

"Every morning I get out of bed I can feel the difference between Astroturf as opposed to grass, especially on an extended home stand," Brett, 30, said. "Your back gets tight and your legs get sore."

Second baseman Frank White said the aches may not be obvious to the fans, but they're there.

"It hasn't taken a toll on me from the standpoint of missing games," he said. "But it has taken the toll on how I feel. I hurt every day. At times my legs are too sore to steal bases or get that extra step."

"They (management) know the effect it is going to have on guys' legs," designated hitter Hal McRae said, "but that's not their main concern. Their main concern is the gate. They want to see the turnstiles turn and with the salaries guys are demanding today, they won't consider changing."

ATTENTION: FRATERNITIES & SORORITIES!

Tired of looking at Paddles on the wall? Start a new tradition—quality laminated emblems in oak, pine or redwood.

ONLY $6.00
OSWAGO HERB CO.
104 S. 4th

THE DONUT HOLE

Having a party? We'll fill your orders for donuts, pastries and other goodies!

11th and Moro
AGGIEVILLE
Mon.-Thurs. 6:30-1:00 a.m.
Fri.—24 hours
Sat. till 6 p.m.

Tennis tournament set to raise funds

By TIM FILBY
Collegian Reporter

With hopes of raising at least $2,000 for the K-State tennis fund, Manhattan Tennis Club is hosting its seventh annual KSU Tennis Tournament Friday through Sunday.

The tournament will have five divisions: men's and women's varsity singles and doubles, open only to K-State varsity players; open men's and women's singles and doubles; seniors (over 35) men's and women's singles and doubles; mixed doubles; and the novice men's and women's division, open to players who have never won a match in an open division or have never won a final match in a novice tournament.

Anyone can enter the tournament, Steve Webb, tennis coach, said.

"We want to get everybody, especially students, involved in the meet," Webb said. "In the past we've usually been able to raise a couple of thousand dollars for the team, and I'm hoping we can raise that amount or more this year."

Webb said all money raised in the tournament will be used to provide scholarships for K-State tennis players.

Entry blanks for the tournament are available at the Cottonwood Racquet Club and at Ballard Sporting Goods. Players are limited to two events in the tournament. Fees for the meet will be $5 for singles competition and $8 for doubles players.

In addition to the fee, players will be asked to furnish a new can of Wilson or Penn tennis balls for each match played. Entries for the tournament will be accepted until Thursday noon.

The open and novice singles are scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the tennis courts at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Complex. Varsity and seniors matches will start at 8 a.m. Saturday, and all other events are scheduled to follow at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Tournament draws will be posted at the Cottonwood Racquet Club, 3615 Clafin Road, on Thursday and will continue to be posted until Friday afternoon. Players are asked to check the draw sheet to find out approximate playing times.

In addition to the tennis tournament, a public barbecue is scheduled for Saturday. Tickets for the event will be $6 per person.

DRS. PRICE, YOUNG & ODLE OPTOMETRISTS

General Practice
and All Type of Contact Lenses
Soft—Extended Wear—to Sleep with
Soft for Astigmatism
Flex—Oxygen Permeable
Fast Replacement
for Lost or Damaged Lenses
Payment Arrangements Available

WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER
PHONE 537-1118

"UPC... We do it right!"

UPCOMING EVENTS

Wednesday, Sept. 7

Kaleidoscope—Eating Raoul:
FH 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 8

Kaleidoscope—Eating Raoul:
LT 3:30, FH 7:30 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 9

Feature Films—The Verdict:
FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 10

Kaleidoscope—The Great Escape:
FH 2 p.m.

Feature Films—The Verdict:
FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 11

Kaleidoscope—The Great Escape:
FH 2 & 7 p.m.

Special Events—26th Annual Activities Carnival: Union 5-8 p.m.

Reminder

Ronnie Milsap tickets available by mail.
Send check or money order ($10, $9.50, $9 tickets) to:
UPC Special Events
Parents' Weekend 1983
P.O. Box 193
Manhattan, KS 66502

All clubs and organizations: If you do not have a table reserved for the Activities Carnival and wish to do so, today is the last day. Reservations can be made in the Activities Center.

$37

k-state union
upc travel

WINFIELD BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

September 17 & 18, 1983

Escape with UPC Travel Committee to Winfield Fairgrounds for the Bluegrass Festival. Your cost of $37 includes transportation, two day ticket to the festival, and camping space. Sign up continues through Thursday, Sept. 8 in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union.

"Outrageous...Wickedly Funny."

—Jack Kroll, Newsweek

Wednesday, Sept. 7 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thursday, Sept. 8 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
All shows $1.50

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

ROCK CLIMBING & RAPPELLING

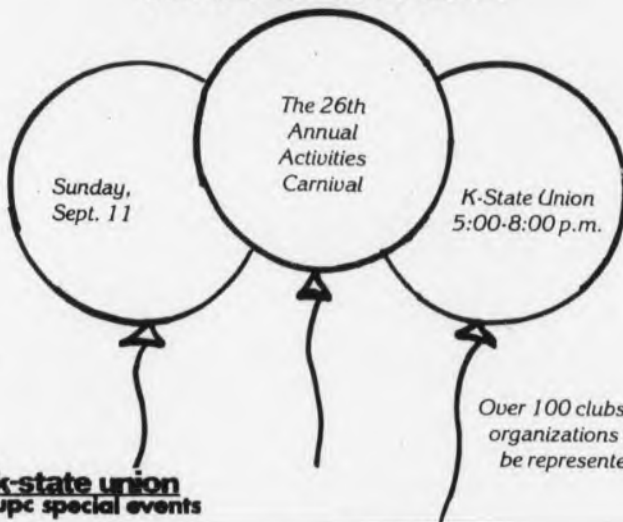

Sept. 24 & 25
Fall River, KS

Information meeting and sign up:
Tuesday, Sept. 13 7:00 p.m.
Union Room 213

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

UPC Special Events Presents
WE'VE GOT IT HERE!

Over 100 clubs and organizations will be represented.

k-state union
upc special events

NOONERS

"Students Entertaining Students"

UPC Coffeehouse is now accepting applications for its annual Nooner series: "Students Entertaining Students." Anyone with any kind of talent should pick up applications in the Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union. For more information call 532-6571.

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

Frank Galvin has one last chance to do something right.

THE VERDICT
TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX PRESENTS A ZANUCK/BROWN PRODUCTION
PAUL NEWMAN / CHARLOTTE RAMPLING / JACK WARDEN
JAMES MASON / THE VERDICT / MILO O'SHEA
MUSIC BY JOHNNY MANDEL / EXECUTIVE PRODUCER BARRY HARRIS
SCREENPLAY BY DAVID MARLET / BASED ON THE NOVEL BY BARRY REED
PRODUCED BY RICHARD D. ZANUCK AND DAVID BROWN
DIRECTED BY SIDNEY LUMET

k-state union
upc feature films

k-state union
program council

Spaces available
at our events.

Visiting teams dominate NFL games

By The Associated Press

So much for the home-field advantage.

For about 597,407 of Sunday's 705,163 paying customers at National Football League games, the numbers on the scoreboard were a disappointment as 10 of the 12 visiting teams won.

Add 55,775 fans to that sum and raise the totals to 11 of 13 by including Saturday's game in San Francisco, where Philadelphia beat the 49ers 22-17.

Only in New Orleans, where the Saints defeated St. Louis 28-17, and in Kansas City, where the Chiefs edged Seattle 17-13, did the hosts come out on top.

The weekend also provided six men with their first taste of head coaching in the NFL, while two others resumed head coaching under new teams' colors. The final tally: five winners; three losers.

In two games, both coaches were newcomers.

John Robinson, lured away from the University of Southern California by Los Angeles Rams owner Georgia Frontiere, was a winner in his pro debut as the Rams beat the host New York Giants and their new head coach, Bill Parcells, 16-6.

And in Kansas City, where John Mackovic took over the reins after an apprenticeship under Tom Landry in Dallas, the Chiefs rewarded him with their victory over Seattle. The Seahawks were playing their first game under Chuck Knox, a successful coach with the Rams and Buffalo.

Knox's successor with the Bills was less than successful. Kay

Stephenson has yet to see the first point scored by his new team. The Bills were blanked 12-0 by Miami as Uwe von Schamann made all four of his field goal attempts (from 33, 23, 36 and 50 yards out) and Buffalo's Fred Steinfort missed all three of his (from 43, 49 and 34 yards).

The other first-time winners were Dan Henning, Joe Walton and Marion Campbell.

Last year, Henning was an assistant on the Super Bowl-champion Washington Redskins. Now he's Atlanta's head coach. The Falcons nosed out Chicago 20-17 as Steve Bartkowski opened and closed the scoring with touchdown passes.

Walton, an assistant under New York Jets Coach Walt Michaels last year before being named Michaels' successor, discovered that San Diego's defense is as porous as ever.

Freeman McNeil scored twice, once on Richard Todd's second touchdown pass, as the Jets beat the Chargers 41-29.

And Marion Campbell, whose previous coaching experience included several seasons as Atlanta's head man in the mid-1970s, got off on the right foot with Philadelphia Saturday in San Francisco.

Oh, yes. Frank Kush also became a winner for the first time — in his second year.

Kush, who was named Baltimore's head coach in 1982 and suffered through a winless rookie season, was presented with his first triumph — in overtime — when linebacker Johnie Cooks picked up a fumble by New England's Tony Collins and ran 52 yards for a touchdown and a 29-23 victory.

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6595.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch.

EXTENSION ASSISTANT temporary, full time, assist in the development of microcomputer software for the production of Kansas com. M.S. in Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Entomology, or Agricultural Economics, experience or training in agricultural production, and good communication skills required. Responsibilities: Collation and documentation of information for decision algorithms, and field testing software packages. Contact: Dr. F.L. Poston, Department of Entomology, Waters Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506. Phone: 913-532-6154. Kansas State University is an equal employment/affirmative action employer. (7-11)

MANUAL LABORERS to work full days or mornings from 8:00 a.m.-12:00 noon on Tuesday and Thursday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Farm experience preferred. Blueview Nursery, two and one-half miles west of Westport, 539-2671. (10-11)

NOTICES 15

GET PSYCHED for the Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. More information contact Keith, 532-3657 or Lee, 532-3425. (9-12)

PERSONAL 16

ALPHA CHIS—I'm your newest legacy, I'm looking forward to seeing all of you. One half mom is doing great. AX Love, Elizabeth. (11)

CHRIS AND Ben (alias Skooter)—The Screamers and MTV were great. Hardees Twins. P.S. The phone # was 539. (11)

TO ALL AX Actives and Pledges—Thank you so much for making my 21st birthday the best ever. From strippers to short sheeted beds—I'll never forget it! Love you all, Jane. (11)

RONDA R. Do you always buy your shoes at Walmart for four dollars? FRWG5 (11)

TO THE ladies of Ford 5. We are looking forward to a year of good times with our little sisters. Love, Haymaker 5. (11)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

TWO MALE roommates to share four bedroom house. Private room, $100 per month, one-fourth utilities. Call 537-2935 after 5:00 p.m. (7-11)

THREE NON-SMOKING roommates needed to share a spacious, furnished, three-story house. Furnished, washer/dryer. Call 776-0281. (8-12)

NEEDED—ONE male roommate. Private room, can be furnished. Water, trash paid. Off-street parking. Deposit needed, $130 negotiable. 537-4753. (8-12)

ONE OR two roommates needed to fill three-bedroom house, three blocks from campus, five from Aggieville. Water, trash paid. Fireplace, two-car garage, private pool. $175 for one or $240 for two. Deposit required. 537-4753. (8-12)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL Own room, fall, spring and summer. $135 month, 1320 Laramie. 537-3645. (8-12)

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female roommate, $175/month, all utilities paid. Call 539-6628. (8-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share house with three other girls. Private room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 537-0708. (9-12)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share nice house, $85 a month plus one-half utilities. Walking distance to campus and downtown. Graduate student preferred. Call 537-1570. (9-11)

ROOMMATE: STUDIO male to share three bedroom house. Will have private bedroom—$100 a month rent. Call 539-6711. (9-12)

ROOMMATE WANTED—One-fourth rent, utilities, own room, washer, dryer, off-street parking. Call 539-9214. (9-11)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share one-bedroom apartment six blocks from campus. $105/month plus utilities. Call 539-7973. (9-14)

ROOMMATE TO share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100 month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (10-14)

ROOMMATE WANTED for furnished apartment close to campus. Includes washer/dryer, microwave. Call 539-1867. (10-11)

RESPONSIBLE FEMALE roommate. Cozy three-bedroom house. $117, one-third utilities. 537-4973, after 5:00 p.m., keep trying. (10-14)

ONE MALE roommate to share nice, furnished, one-bedroom apartment. $105, plus one-half utilities. Deposit needed. One block from campus. Call 776-9665 after 6:00 p.m. (11-14)

LIBERAL ROOMMATE wanted to share nicely furnished apartment with two people. $131.66/month plus utilities. 539-3197. (11-15)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment with good location. Private room, one-half rent and utilities. 776-0154. (11-13)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8837. (3-30)

TYPING EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (8-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-6526. (8-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters Insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (8-15)

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-6174. (7f)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9468. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (8f)

GARAGE—1131 Vattier, one block from campus. $25 for hall, $40 for all per month. Call 776-5682 evenings. (8-12)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid, $210/month, 1131 Vattier, Phone 776-0566. (11-14)

NEWLY REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, excellent condition. 37,000 miles. $5,500 or best offer. Call 776-0131. (8-11)

1971 KARMAN Ghia. Runs well. Call 537-7495. (10-12)

1967 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass, four-door, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning. Runs good. Call 1-485-2648. (10-14)

1970 BUICK GS350, original hi-comp 350, ram air, power steering, power disc brakes, air conditioning. 532-3529 after 6:00 p.m. (10-11)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risque greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

CAR STEREO—Fujitsu 10 and/or four speakers. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

OLDS AMBASSADOR saxophone. Excellent condition. Price negotiable. Call 537-9479. (8-11)

SONY VTR 25 receiver, Pioneer PC-1150 turntable, Pioneer CF-4242 cassette deck. All good condition. Call 537-9313. (8-11)

SCHWINN WORLD Sport 10-speed bike. Good condition, $100. Call 539-6730. (10-12)

AKC BLACK Labradors for sale. Very good trial lines. Vaccinated and wormed. Call 776-7145 after 5:00 p.m. (10-11)

ABSOLUTELY SUPER home for professors. Eugene Field. Five bedrooms on cul-de-sac. Nadine Green, GAA Realty, 537-7466. (11-12)

MENS SILVER Schwinn Letour ten-speed bike. 21-inch frame, excellent condition. Call 776-3118. (11-13)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1978 AAF moped, low mileage, excellent condition, $165. Call 537-8771 after 5:00 p.m. or weekends. (8f)

1980 KAWASAKI 440-LTD. Low miles, lots of extras, excellent condition. Call 539-1625. (11-13)

FOUND 10

MAN'S WRISTWATCH found near Call Hall Friday, August 26. Call 537-0311 to identify and claim. (10-12)

HELP WANTED 13

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST for independent clinical laboratory. Experience preferred. Part-time. Send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502. (8-14)

WANTED TO BUY 22

WANTED TO buy: A twin-size mattress and box springs. Call 532-3698. (8-12)

WANTED: PRAIRIE hay and alfalfa. All size bales, extra for delivery. Call Susan, 539-0316. (11)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Garment

5 Wagers

9 Drama division

12 Musical work

13 Philippine termite

14 Farm sound

15 To consider

17 Ancient

18 Refreshing drinks

19 Squalid city areas

21 Wooden floats

24 Plunder

25 Dies —

26 Angler's pride

30 Spasmodic twitch

31 Uncertainly

32 Three-toed sloths

33 Constituent parts

35 Skin disorder

36 Ave atque —

37 Scoff

38 Valuable violin

40 Melancholy

42 Chum

43 Without worth

48 Large bird

49 Black

50 Wicked

51 Bishopric

52 Assess

53 Gainsay

DOWN

1 Fabulous bird

2 WW II org.

3 Public vehicle

4 Landed property

5 Infant

6 Baseball's slaughter

7 Greek letter

8 Passes up the dance

9 Sergeant's order

10 Serene

11 Small children

16 Paid notices

20 Fate

21 Ceremony

22 Seed coat

23 Apparent worth

24 Tennis strokes

26 Vocal quality

27 Dull routine

28 Cover the inside

29 River to the North Sea

31 Release

34 Small rug

35 Anointed: archaic

37 Take to court

38 Mimics

39 Role for Angela Lansbury

40 Blemish

41 Crescent-shaped figure

44 Lawyer's org.

45 Night before

46 Transgress

47 Foxy

CRYPTOQUIP 9-6

URY ZYLDQS HSKTU F.T. TD UTZYW:
RY RLW QS KLUTFHYD.

Friday's Cryptquip: THE MUSICIAN CAUGHT A DOG BURYING HIS TROMBONE IN THE YARD.
Today's Cryptquip clue: S equals N.

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service
1-494-2388, St. George

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials. 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 15. Call Catherine, 539-8837. (11-13)

COSTUMES by the thousands. Complete rabbits, chickens, gorillas, tigers, bears and more. Flappers, Play Boy Bunnies, French maid, dance hall girls, much more. Ask for whatever you'd like to reserve now for Halloween. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (9-50)

EXPERIENCED CHILD care—Full time, hot lunch, snacks, fenced yard. Northview. Two and up. 776-8523. (9-12)

TRISH'S TYPING Service—Everything from letters to dissertations. Call Trish after 5:30 p.m. at 539-6263. (9-19)

TYPING—LETTERS, term papers, resumes, etc. Reasonable rates. Call Sherry, 539-9131 after 5:30 p.m. (10-19)

To get ahead, you've got to push the right buttons.

Big ideas call for big functions. And you'll find them on the keys of every Hewlett-Packard calculator.

The HP-11C Scientific Programmable.

Powerful functions, such as permutations and combinations, hyperbolics and a random-number generator, are all at your fingertips. And with help like that, you just might end up with your name on a theorem.

The top-of-the-line HP-41.

To give you an idea of the HP-41's capabilities, in an emergency it can help bring the NASA Space Shuttle back to earth. Without the aid of Mission Control. Imagine what it can do for you on a routine day.

And it's just one of the many specialized HP calculators: the HP-10C and HP-15C scientific programmables, the HP-12C financial calculator, and the HP-16C for computer programmers.

So, go ahead. Get to the root of sophisticated problems—quickly—simply, with the help of a sophisticated tool. Get there with Hewlett-Packard.

For the authorized HP dealer or HP sales office nearest you, call TOLL-FREE 800-547-3400 and ask for operator #13, M-F, 6a.m.-6p.m. Pacific Time.

Personal computers and calculators for professionals on the move.

HEWLETT PACKARD

PG02332

Check your campus bookstore or any of the following dealers:

KANSAS

Topeka
Office Equipment Inc
1507 Kansas Ave
(913) 232-0541

Freshman return

Judy Miller will have to adjust to collegiate tennis.
Sports, page 11

Rappelling: a 'challenging' hobby

By STEVE MILLS
Collegian Reporter

When Aggieville gets boring and the beer wars, an urge to do something crazy can lend excitement to life.

Kelly House, junior in computer science, and Brad Harrelson, junior in business management, felt such an urge and decided to rappel down the tower of the dam at Tuttle Creek Reservoir.

"We used to do it every weekend and one night, we were at a bar on Thursday and it was really boring, so we decided to go out and rappel," House said.

As it happened, it was a perfect night to rappel. The February weather was unseasonably warm, and the full moon provided light. They liked it so much that rappelling became a tradition for the two.

House, a two-year rappeller, learned the skill in a mountaineering class offered by the Military Science Department.

"In the class, we first learned (to rappel) off of the 10-foot dropoff in the parking lot south of Durland Hall. Then we did it off the side of East Stadium," House said.

House taught Harrelson how to rappel a year ago.

"Picking up the technique is what takes time and getting confidence in yourself. Overcoming your fear of height is one of the major obstacles, and once you do that, you can do about anything," Harrelson said.

The dam tower is the best drop around Manhattan, House said.

"When we first started going down the tower (about 90 feet high), we went straight down the wall. Then when we got good, we could stay on the rope for about 30 minutes and do flips and hang upside down," House said.

Rappelling involves some danger, House said. He once witnessed a woman fall backwards and land on her head, but a helmet prevented serious injury, he said.

"All we ever had were a few bruises and scrapes from banging into walls."

"It's almost impossible to fall down the rope and get hurt because you have people at the bottom holding the rope. If they pull on the rope, it will stop you like a brake," House said.

The pair plans to include ice rappelling in a ski trip this winter.

"To get out in the wilderness doing it off the face of a mountain instead of a cement wall would be great," Harrelson said.

The sport is relatively cheap, House said, because little else beyond the initial cost of the equipment is required. Ropes cost about $90 for 90 feet, he said, the harness about $40, and the snap rings about $4 each. Rappelling equipment is available in the Manhattan area, he said.

House and Harrelson are making their rappelling a weekly tradition.

"It's something unique and different and not many people do it. It's real challenging and being up there has a degree of danger. That is what I like," Harrelson said.

"It's a fun thing to do and a way to get away from school," House said.

"What I'd like to do is get a long rope someday and go off something like the World Trade Center and just hang there until somebody came and got me," he said.

The tower at Tuttle offers a 90-foot drop for rappellers.

Brad Harrelson, junior in business management, swings out from a pylon near Tuttle Creek Dam while Kelly House, junior in computer science, waits on a ledge.

Jetliner attack may aid passage of MX program

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union's destruction of a South Korean jetliner may give an important boost in Congress to the MX missile, which once faced probable defeat in the House, and other legislation needed to finance President Reagan's rearmament program.

Key lawmakers predicted Tuesday that many congressmen alarmed by the Soviet attack on the civilian plane will vote for military projects which faced uncertain futures only last week.

"I think the events of the past few days have enhanced the president's chances of getting the MX funded" in the defense appropriations bill that will be brought to the floor this fall, said House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, also believes the Soviet attack will help Reagan's defense program and the MX, especially in the House, spokeswoman Linda Hill said.

In its two House floor tests this year, the MX was approved by 53 votes in May but scraped through by only 13 votes in July. The margin for the weapon has been more comfortable and consistent in the Republican-led Senate.

Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, a leader of moderate Democrats who have been instrumental in keeping the MX alive, said he thought the airliner incident would cancel possible challenges to the missile in a military authorization bill scheduled for final passage in the House and Senate next week.

But, he added in a telephone interview: "I don't know how long this will last. The mood shifts there (in the House) very quickly."

Despite "a pretty fair amount of evidence" that the Soviets have used chemical weapons in Afghanistan, were involved in the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II and committed other widely-condemned acts, these have not had a long-lasting effect on some members, Aspin said.

For that reason, he said, he thought the defense appropriation bill in the House may be postponed until after the new fiscal year starts Oct. 1 in order to allow the issue to "cool down."

However, Peter Murphy, staff director of the House defense appropriations subcommittee chaired by anti-MX Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., said the panel still plans to begin drafting the spending bill next week when Congress returns from its five-week summer recess.

Reagan, at the end of a nationally-broadcast address Monday night in which he denounced the shooting down of the wayward Korean Air Line jumbo jet and its 269 occupants, put in a pitch for his defense buildup.

U.S. builds force in Lebanon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With 2,000 U.S. Marines and a heavily armed amphibious force headed for waters off Lebanon, the United States pointedly warned Syria on Tuesday against instigating new violence in the face of "considerable firepower" of American forces poised offshore.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the deaths of two more Marines in Beirut — bringing to four the number of Americans slain in recent fighting there — would not prompt the United States to withdraw the 1,200 Marines who have served with a multinational peacekeeping mission in Lebanon for more than a year.

"We know that should this multinational force pull out, there's a distinct possibility of a re-institution of full-scale war in Lebanon with a possibility of a wider spread effort and certainly a strong deterrent of any move toward a peaceful resolution," Speakes said.

State Department spokesman

Alan Romberg said the Marines were "performing a critical role in support of the efforts of the Lebanese government. No one should mistake our determination to continue in this just cause."

Nor did the deaths of the two Marines under Moslem shelling of their positions at Beirut International Airport on Tuesday change the Reagan administration's insistence that there was no need for the president to invoke the War Powers Act of 1973.

Speakes said President Reagan was complying with the law by reporting periodically to Congress on the situation. Romberg said only that the question of invoking the law, which would give Congress a voice in deciding whether the Marines should be withdrawn or allowed to stay, was under intensive study.

Speakes said the Syrians "should know that we do have considerable firepower offshore and they should be circumspect in their own active involvement in instigating any violence in the area."

Asked about the extent of Syrian responsibility for factional hostilities coinciding with the pullback of Israeli forces from the troubled Chouf region outside Beirut to positions in southern Lebanon, a White House official, speaking only on condition that he not be identified, said the Syrians "have an inordinate amount of influence on these factions."

The official said the Syrians are instigating a delay in implementing an agreement between the Lebanese government and these factions. "And we would like to see them come around with their own withdrawal and allow these various factions to participate in a united government in Lebanon," he said.

The amphibious unit expected to arrive off the Lebanese coast Friday at the earliest included 2,000

Marines, M-60 tanks, amphibious troop carriers, 105mm howitzers, 81mm mortars, various anti-tank missiles and 60mm machine guns.

Speakes said there are no plans for the newly arriving contingent to go ashore, but he added that "they are there to indicate that if there are difficulties involving our Marines that we do have considerable firepower offshore that would be able to step in."

Speakes said Reagan was informed of the deaths of the two Marines at 10:15 p.m. CDT Monday night, about 45 minutes after they occurred Tuesday, Beirut time.

Reagan asked for a report from Marine Commandant Paul X. Kelley and was briefed by White House national security adviser William P. Clark.

The Pentagon on Tuesday identified the dead Marines as Cpl. Pedro J. Valle, 25, of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Lance Cpl. Randy W. Clark, 19, of Minong, Wis.

Residence hall costs to stabilize next year

By LAURI DIEHL
Collegian Reporter

University housing costs will not be increasing next year.

Because costs didn't increase as projected in the 1982-83 academic year, the Department of Housing was left with $450,000 from its budget, and that leftover helped curb rising housing rates for the 1984-85 school year.

The University Housing Council met Tuesday afternoon and approved a revised 1985 housing budget. Chet Peters, vice president of student affairs and committee chairman, said a tentative budget had been passed this spring, but final approval could not be given until the council knew what resources were left.

Thomas Frith, director of housing, gave his reason as to why the housing department ended the year with a $450,000 balance.

"A 4 percent cost increase was estimated for last year," Frith said. "However, the actual increase was only 2.4 percent."

University housing has an approximate $11 million budget and hopes to net $1,000 next year as a safety margin, Frith said. With last year's balance and no cost increase, housing should break even, he added.

The approved budget does not include Smith Cooperative House, where its loss did not make that big of a dent in the budget, he said. Otherwise, he added, the budget is basically the same as the tentative budget.

University housing occupancy is down from last year, with only about 94 percent of the residence halls filled.

The number of high school graduates in Kansas was lower this year than last year's graduating class, Peters said, but as the number of graduates rises again, he expects 100 percent residence hall occupancy. Because of the vacancies, a University policy requiring first-year students to live in an organized living unit will be enforced.

"The residence halls have been full all these years, and we could not enforce this policy. We feel it gives the student a much better base from which to work," Peters said, "so we will make sure people know about the policy."

Jardine Terrace Apartments are not filled to capacity either, Frith said, because some apartments were vacated too late for new residents.

"It is possible we will put a clause in the contract so that if they (Jardine residents) stay in the apartment through the beginning of the semester, they will be responsible for the semester's rent," Frith said.

Telephone rates for students in residence halls may also increase next year.

Currently, students in certain halls pay $50 per room per semester for phone service. If the telephone company is awarded the rate increase it has requested, that rate could increase by $15 a person, Frith said.

"We may eliminate phones in some of the halls or in some wings if rates increase that much," he said.

Other major cost increases are not expected for next year.

Soviets blame U.S. for airline disaster

By The Associated Press

The Soviet Union, just minutes after the United States brought "definitive proof" before the world community, admitted officially Tuesday for the first time that it shot down a South Korean jetliner.

But the Soviets said their interceptor pilots were convinced the civilian Boeing 747 was a U.S. spy plane, and the "entire responsibility" for the tragedy rests with the United States.

The Kremlin continued to claim the Korean jet may, indeed, have been flying an intelligence mission for the United States, and issued a blunt warning: The Soviet air force acted in accordance with Soviet law and would do the same again.

The Soviet admission came six days after Korean Air Lines Flight 007 was downed over the Sea of Japan after crossing into Soviet territory on a flight from New York to Seoul, South Korea. All 269 people aboard were killed.

Before Tuesday, official Soviet statements had either ignored or rejected U.S., Japanese and South Korean reports that the giant jetliner was destroyed by a heat-seeking missile fired by a Soviet fighter-interceptor.

But less than an hour after U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick presented tapes of the Soviet pilots' radio conversations to the Security Council, the Soviet government statement admitting the plane was shot down was read on the Moscow nightly television news.

Kirkpatrick later said the Soviets had been forced to make the admission because "the definitive proof was finally put on the record for the whole world to see."

While the U.N. council debated possible international sanctions, the governing body of the International Federation of Airline Pilots' Associations, meeting in Britain, called for a 60-day ban on flights to Moscow to demonstrate "revulsion" at the Soviet action.

Japanese officials said their military forces provided the tape of the Soviet pilots' radio transmissions, part of which was broadcast Monday night in President Reagan's nationally televised speech. Russian and English-translation transcripts of the tape were shown on five video terminals in the Security Council chamber.

The recorded radio transmissions showed that at least one of the Soviet fighter pilots pursuing the big commercial jet closed in and reported, "I am going around it. I'm already moving in front of the target."

Then he said: "I am dropping back. Now I will try a rocket."

A short time later the pilot of what the United States said was a Su-15 pursuit plane reported: "I have executed the launch...the target is destroyed."

Comics may reflect ills of society, adult educational speaker says

By The Collegian Staff

"All my life I have searched for calmness," Sally said.
 "It was a difficult struggle, but it was worth it. Now, I have a beautiful inner peace."
 "There is nothing anyone can say or do that can disturb my calmness," she said.
 "School starts next week," Charlie Brown said.
 "AAUGH!"

This recent Peanuts comic strip summarizes society's feelings toward education, said Paul Taylor, associate professor of adult and occupational education.
 Taylor gave a speech titled "Education: A View from the Comic Pages," at a meeting Tuesday of the Adult and Occupational Graduate Club.

The club consists of about 20 members concerned with adult education.

"The comic pages used to be just fun to read. Now, they are more realistic, dealing with life situations and education," Taylor said.

"As purely an entertainment medium, comic strips have changed over the years. They have acquired a more cultural and sociological base," Taylor said.

"Some comic strips are appearing on the editorial page now, not on the comic page. They are becoming commentators, relating various problems of education and life," he said.

A hidden education problem lies under the comics, Taylor said, because many strips emphasize education negatively.

"Society has negative feelings toward education which crop up in the comic pages. You may not even initially realize they are there," Taylor said.

Taylor, who has a doctorate in adult education from the University of Connecticut, has collected numerous comic strips related to education.

Senators to discuss donations

By The Collegian Staff

Donations from just-graduated seniors will be the topic Mary Wiklander, assistant director of annual giving for the KSU Foundation, presents to Student Senate at its 7 p.m. Thursday meeting.
 Wiklander will talk about the new Pacesetter Program, a student-organized, student-operated volunteer fund-raising effort of the Kansas State Student Foundation, which is sponsored by the KSU Foundation. The program seeks pledges of $20 for three years from just-graduated seniors.

The program will be discussed at the meeting's open forum and no action is being requested of senators.

In other action, the senate will hear a first reading of the K-State Policy Prohibiting Sexual Harassment and decide upon its adoption.

"With the adoption of this policy on sexual harassment, Kansas State University reaffirms its commitment to maintaining an environment free of intimidation, fear, reprisal and coercion," the policy's introduction states.

City finalizes plans for K-State fire service

By LUCINDA ELLISON
 Manhattan Editor

Fire protection arrangements for K-State were finalized when a land lease and a permanent service agreement were approved by the City Commission Tuesday.

A 50-year land lease for the location of the new Headquarters Station was approved unanimously. The new station is to be constructed at Denison and Kimball by 1984 or 1985.

The lease, which was made between the city and the University, specifies a 50-year term, but may be terminated at any time if either party gives a 12-month notice in writing.

In addition to the lease, the city also approved a permanent fire service agreement with the University. The agreement will also extend for a 50-year term. Termination may be made by a three-month written notice.

Terms in the agreement concerning payment by the University were questioned by some commissioners. According to the plan, the University would provide the land for the new station at no charge. In addition, the University would pay $57,000 per year for fire protection service from the city. The amount of payment would increase in conjunction with pay raises for firemen.

Recommendations for changing the termination period of three months to 12 months were made by City Attorney William Frost, in order to coincide with the time period in the land lease. Frost also suggested addition of a clause which would allow renegotiation of the present agreement, should the city decide to annex the University within the 50-year term of the contract.

"This agreement doesn't envision a portion or all of the University facilities being annexed by the city in the term of the contract," Frost said. "The city may not be able to charge a fee (for fire protection) for land located within the city," he added.

In the event the University would be annexed within the 50-year term of the contract, Frost said the fee should be renegotiated.

Because the contract provides the possibility of termination by either party, concerns also were raised as to the effect this would have on the new fire station constructed by the city.

"Obviously, if you're (the city) going to spend a few thousand (dollars) and put a building on this land, you want to know our (the University's) intentions," said Gene Cross, vice president of University Facilities.

"Really, at any time, either one of us can give 12 months notice. If for any reason the University would desire to terminate the agreement, we (the University) couldn't just take it (the fire station) from the city. We would have to compensate you for the value of the building," Cross added.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student Office.

MINORITY ENGINEERS STUDY CENTER'S new hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 6 p.m. in Durland Hall 32.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for regular registration for the administration of the LSAT is Oct. 1.

ALL PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for registering for the mock LSAT is 4:45 p.m. Friday in the Dean's Office, Eisenhower Hall.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the pre-professional skills test required for admission to all teacher education programs at all regents institutions is Sept. 10 in Holton 204. The test will be given Sept. 24.

TODAY

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 173. Officers will meet at 6 p.m.

MICROBIOLOGY CLUB meets at 4:30 p.m. in Leasure 201.

SOCIAL WORK CLUB meets at 4 p.m. in Union 208.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD meets at 3:30 p.m. in Union 204.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS meets at 4 p.m. in Durland 274 for an orientation meeting for new and prospective members. Refreshments will be served.

CIRCLE K meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION STUDENT ADVISORY BOARD meets at 4:15 p.m. at the Hollis House.

THURSDAY

PI TAU SIGMA meets at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152.

KANSAS STATE SAILING CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 208.

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 206.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet from 10:30 a.m. to noon in Union 206 to prepare for the LSAT.

ALL POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJORS AND STUDENTS meet at 3:30 p.m. in Union 207.

FOOD SCIENCE COLLOQUIUM meets at 4 p.m. in Justin 149. Two new faculty members will discuss their research interests.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION meets at 6:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

AMERICAN NUCLEAR SOCIETY meets at 7 p.m. in Ward 135 for a membership information meeting.

KSU WILDLIFE SOCIETY meets at 7 p.m. in Ackert 116. Care and release of injured birds of prey will be discussed.

KSU HORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Waters 137.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medicine Teaching Building 201.

1884 1984
 A CENTURY OF ELECTRICAL PROGRESS
IEEE

Orientation Meeting for new and prospective members
Wed., Sept. 7
4:00 p.m.
Durland Hall
Rm. 274
 Refreshments served

Hair by
RICK & FRIENDS
 404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222
 Manhattan
 Appointments
 Closed Mon. Tues.-Fri. 9-6
 Sat. 8-3

Kitchens Plus
BRIDAL REGISTRY
 Call or stop
 for details
 3rd & Humboldt
 537-4046 "The Department Store"

TONIGHT
MOJO (Rockin' Blues)
 75c House Drinks 50c Draws
 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
$1.25 Kamakazi and a Draw
 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

THURSDAY
 Flying Fish Reggae
 Recording Artists
BLUE RIDDIM
 Plus LADIES ONLY
ALL YOU CAN DRINK
 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Catch our TGIF Specials
the Avalon
 1122 Moro UPSTAIRS 539-9703

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

LADIES NITE!
 Ladies get
 1 14 oz. stein Free
 1st pitcher for $1 & $2
 pitchers.
 619 N. Manhattan

Auntie Mae's Parlor
 AGGIEVILLE

MAE'S LUNCH
 Monday-Friday
 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
THE CLUB
 Mae's Triple-Decker Deli Delight, made of Ham, Turkey, Swiss and American Cheese. Served with Chips, Potatoe Salad, Cottage Cheese or Fresh Fruit.
$2.50
 WINE WITH LUNCH,
 AS ALWAYS,
 IS 2 FOR THE PRICE OF 1
 Expires Sept. 9, 1983
 614 N. 12th 539-9967

Aggie STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR
 Welcome To . . .

75¢ DRINKS WED. NITES!

• 75¢ Well Drinks Wed. Nites 7pm-1am!

JOIN AGGIE STATION AND ITS 200 RECIPROCAL CLUBS!

SUPER SALE!
49.95 for a complete pair of Lenses & Frames

Our once a season special is here again! You can purchase a complete pair of single-vision lenses, any prescription, glass or plastic, with or without tint, for $49.95! Multifocal, photocromatics, and oversize additional.

b & l OPTICAL STUDIO
 1210 MORO • 537-1574
 Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

SPEEDWASH
 in Aggieville
 1118 Moro

- Open 24 Hours
- Free Parking Behind Building
- Newly Remodeled
- Drop Off Service Tuesdays and Thursday 9:00 a.m.-noon

For the Fall Bride . . .
Lenox China and Lenox Crystal

Begin your new life with fine china and crystal from Lenox. Always tasteful, always beautiful . . . fine ivory-toned Lenox China and sparkling Lenox Crystal will add elegance to your special dining occasions.

Our bridal gift consultant can help you choose the patterns you're sure to love for a lifetime.

776-9067
 5th & Poyntz
Campbell's
 539-1891
 1227 Moro

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor
 Advertising Manager
 Paul Hanson
 John McGrath

DIAMOND GALLERY
 "Wholesale to the Public"
 We are your Diamond & Karat Gold Jewelry experts.

WE OFFER A FULL REFUND GUARANTEE—SEE HOW MANY JEWELRY STORES ARE THAT CONFIDENT IN THEIR DIAMONDS.

Diamond Engagement Rings From $80.00
 Ladies Diamond Duos From $104.00
 Diamond Wedding Trios From $140.00

90 Day Layaway
 Trade-ins Welcome
 We buy Jewelry
 1817 Ft. Riley Blvd.
 539-0240 Open 10-6 Mon.-Sat.

TREK

Test ride a new Trek Bike!

Thursday, Sept. 8, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Free Trek hat or pant bands to test riders while supply lasts. Meet Jeff Verink, our Trek factory rep!

—and—
Save up to 77.50 on Trek bikes thru Saturday, Sept. 17

For details call or come in

the PATHFINDER

1111 Moro Aggieville 539-5639

Stephan warns against quick fix for schools

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Attorney General Robert T. Stephan Tuesday urged the Legislature not to act rashly in overhauling the state's educational system in the wake of a federal report which suggested the system is in severe trouble nationally.

"I am here not only to ask that you act to improve the quality of education in Kansas, but to ask also that you not react to the national commission's report as many have nationwide," Stephan told the interim Education Committee, which continued its summer-long study of the report, "A Nation at Risk."

"Solutions to our education problems should not be so radical as to jeopardize that which is good in education today. I don't believe there are any quick fixes," said Stephan, who is expected to seek the Republican nomination for governor in 1986.

Stephan and House Democratic Leader Fred Weaver of Baxter Springs both appeared before the committee to give their views on how the Legislature should proceed to address the problems cited in the report of the National Commission on Excellence in Education, and how they relate to Kansas.

In addition, the committee received results from surveys conducted by the state Department of Education which showed: only four of the state's 305 public school districts have some form of merit pay plan for teachers; the majority of Kansas school districts have school days lasting from six hours to six hours and 45 minutes; and that 45 of the 305 school districts had teacher positions unfilled as the 1983-84 school year began.

The committee will continue its study of problems facing education in Kansas and will report to the 1984 Legislature. It is not expected to decide on its recommendations until late fall.

Stephan said the two most serious problems he sees with education in Kansas are inadequate teacher salaries and a certain "laxness" in curriculum.

He called it "deplorable" that Kansas ranks 34th among the states in average teacher salary, some $2,200 below the national average in annual pay, and urged the Legislature to "adequately fund changes that are needed in the system through both teacher salaries and appropriate curriculum."

He suggested the state should "take steps to implement the 'new basics' of curriculum referred to in the national report."

"The easy answers such as longer school days and longer school terms are not necessarily the answers you should accept," the attorney general said.

Weaver blamed lack of leadership by the state Board of Education, uncooperative attitude of local school boards and the Kansas Association of School Boards, and low teachers' salaries for the problems in state schools.

He urged a reassessment of the state board's role, requiring more accountability from local school boards on how they spend state money, and increasing teachers' base pay — but not initiating a system of merit pay.

"Perhaps the system just needs fine tuning," said the House minority leader. "But I believe we need to take a hard look at it."

"I don't think the local control is that sacred. The Constitution spells out it's the state's responsibility and I believe we're going to have to have stronger state control."

"We don't have the money to implement all the national recommendations. I think we've got to look at this thing in terms of what we spend

now."

He also said the "adversarial relationship" between school boards and teachers must end, and accused KASB of fermenting that distrust by its attitude toward teacher-school board contract negotiations.

Survey results given to the committee by Dale Dennis, assistant state education commissioner, showed:

— The 47 districts with teacher vacancies had 77 positions left to fill, including 34 at the elementary level and 43 at the high school level. The most shortages were in special education with 52.5 positions open. Wichita still needed 10 teachers, Junction City four and Haddam, Carbondale, Leavenworth and Winfield three each.

Controversial ruling may restrict rights

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A sharply-divided Kansas Supreme Court ruled in an opinion made public Tuesday that if defendants in criminal cases in this state invoke the 5th Amendment against self-incrimination that fact can be used against them by the prosecution in subsequent trials.

The chief dissenter, Justice David Prager, said the majority's opinion could destroy a basic constitutional right.

The 4-3 decision came in a routine burglary case from Nemaha County, but the issue so divided the court that it required a 35-page opinion by the majority and an 18-page dissent by the minority to explain their positions.

Justice Kay McFarland wrote the majority opinion and was joined by Chief Justice Alfred Schroeder and Justices Harold Herd and Tyler Lockett.

Prager, most senior member of the court besides Schroeder, wrote the dissent, and was joined by Justices Robert Miller and Richard Holmes.

In his strongly worded dissent, Prager wrote:

"The majority opinion, if followed by the courts of Kansas, will have the effect of bringing about the depreciation, if not destruction, of a basic constitutional right."

"If a person's assertion of his 5th Amendment right to remain silent at the direction of his court-appointed attorney, or as a result of the admonition of a trial judge, can later be used by the prosecutor for impeachment during cross-examination at his trial, that assertion has become costly, and the state has penalized that person for his exercise of a fundamental constitutional right."

Explaining what he believes the majority had ruled, Prager said:

"A person charged with a crime has a constitutional and statutory right to remain silent; but, if he exercises that right and remains silent, his silence can later be used to impeach his credibility if he ever takes the stand in his defense thereafter."

However, Justice McFarland said in the majority opinion that the defendant in the case had clearly offered testimony at his own trial which was inconsistent with his invoking of the 5th Amendment at the earlier trial of two codefendants, and thus the trial judge was wrong to prohibit discussion of his self-incrimination plea in the previous trial.

She said once the defendant had invoked the 5th Amendment at the first trial he could not prevent that from being used as evidenced to impugn his credibility in his own trial.

"Before permitting a defendant at his own trial to be asked about his prior invocation of the 5th Amendment to remain silent, the trial judge should determine whether there is true inconsistency between the prior silence and subsequent testimony," Justice McFarland wrote.

"Such a determination lies within the sound judicial discretion of the judge."

The decision came in the case of Clemens C. Nott Jr., who was one of five men charged with burglary and theft in the December 1981 burglary of the Wetmore High School in Nemaha County, in which school property valued at more than $100 was taken.

Nott exercised his 5th Amendment right at the trial of two other defendants, then tried to testify in his own defense at his own, separate trial two days later. He claimed an alibi defense, saying he was in Topeka at the time of the burglary.

Judge Robert L. Gernon held that the prosecuting attorney could not question Nott about his self-incrimination plea at the first trial.

Nott was found to be innocent and cannot be tried again, but the state took the matter to the Supreme Court for a determination of the self-incrimination issue for future cases.

Tragedy jeopardizes Soviet arms talks

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Switzerland — U.S. and Soviet negotiators on Tuesday resumed talks on reducing medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, but prospects for agreement appeared diminished as the two nations continued to exchange angry words over the Korean Air Lines incident.

U.S. Ambassador Paul H. Nitze smiled and cordially greeted Soviet negotiator Ambassador Yuli A. Kvitsinsky when they met at the gray stone villa in the Soviet compound, but both avoided a horde of waiting reporters and made no public comment.

The talks, resuming after a two-month summer recess, are the final round in the 21-month-old Intermediate Nuclear Force negotiations. If no accord is reached, the U.S. will begin its December deployment of 572 cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in five Western European countries.

Although both sides have said they want an accord, chances for a swift agreement appeared all but dead since the downing of Korean Air Lines flight 007 and the deaths of the 269 people on board.

Neither Soviet nor U.S. officials would say if the Soviets had withdrawn President Yuri V. Andropov's two-week-old offer to dismantle some of the Soviet Union's SS-20s. Nor would either side comment on the atmosphere of the session.

Bockers
two
CHAMPAGNE LUNCHEON

Featuring
FALL FASHIONS

shown exclusively by

Woodys
Ladies

Wednesday Noon

Complimentary glass of champagne.

Wednesday
3 Fers
10 pm-11 pm

2 Fers
11 pm-1 am

at
COWBOY PALACE

Where it don't make
no difference

209 Poyntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

Lords n' Ladies

Welcome Back!

$2.00 off a haircut
with this ad.

Student I.D. required
expires Sept. 16, 1983

REDKEN Nexus New Man

210 Humboldt
776-5651

SORORITY BARTENDERS WED. NITES!

Kappas Tonite!

Had lunch at Kite's Grille?

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S
HOME OF THE WILDCATS

29 YRS OF KSU TRADITION!

POWER FOR SALE.

The power of accomplishing more. Of working smarter. With a business computer from Vector.

It helps in business planning and forecasting, as well as simplifying your complicated accounting tasks. And streamlines all those tedious typing chores. Not to mention producing professional memos, letters and reports.

Vector gives you the power of word and data processing you'd expect from much larger computers. All in a very economical desktop model.

We will be glad to show you the entire line of high-powered, low-cost computers and demonstrate their capabilities.

We'll prove that power can be bought inexpensively.

It's Magic...
3+2 FERS

WED. NITES!

- 3 Fers 8-9:00
- 2 Fers 9-10:00
- On Draws

ROCKIN' K BAR

K

LADIES NITE THURS.!

Auntie Mae's Parlor

TONIGHT
Aggieville's Oldest, Most Popular Special

HIGH ROLLERS

Any single liquor drink including Call and Premium Liquors only

$1.25
8:30 p.m. to 12:30 p.m.

THURSDAY
Party with the Family during Mae's

ALL YOU CAN DRINK 9 p.m. to 12 a.m.

616 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE 539-9967

BRONCO COMPUTER SYSTEMS

714 Poyntz 776-0745
Also in Mankato (913) 378-3116

VECTOR

VECTOR GRAPHIC INC.
THE COMPANY COMPUTER®

K-STATE FLYING CLUB
LEARN TO FLY
INTRODUCTORY LESSON $15
GROUND SCHOOL INFORMATION

 CLUB AIRCRAFT *****

Cessna 152	— $24.50/hour, VFR w/Intercom
Piper Warrior	— $37.00/hour, IFR w/GS & DME
Piper Arrow	— $41.00/hour, IFR w/GS
Cessna 182	— $49.00/hour, IFR
ATC 610J	— $ 5.00/hour, IFR Simulator

Membership available to KSU students, alumni, faculty, and staff. Hugh Irvin, 539-3128 or 532-6311, for information.

N.A.U.T.I.L.U.S.

The Perfect Balance To Study...

- The Workout... on the finest equipment in the world. The results are automatic. Nautilus is the only type of exercise based upon a solid foundation of facts, undeniable laws of physics, and established principles of physiology. Nautilus has been sanctioned by professionals in every physical fitness discipline, including the medical profession. Time: 30 minutes
- The Jacuzzi... penetrates the skin, opens pores, and gives you a deep massage. The 106 degree mineral water will increase circulation, pulse rate, and strengthens the heart with no exertion on the body. Time: 5 minutes
- The Sauna... melts pounds and inches away while you relax. The dry heat cleanses and improves circulation by relaxing nervous tension. Time: 10 minutes
- The Shower... the perfect finish. A hot shower, cool rinse, dress, and you're ready to go...You'll always leave feeling better about yourself... Time: 15 minutes

Total Time: 1 hour/3 days weekly

10 month Special
Now 'till Graduation Day
$195.00

The Nautilus
Fitness Center
where a minimum of time gives you the maximum in results 776-1654
1122 Laramie Aggieville

Building cosmetics

If lawyers, doctors and abortion clinics can advertise, why shouldn't a business college?

Anybody walking past the west side of Calvin Hall will notice the large yellow and purple sign, hanging from the third-floor windows, announcing that the building is the home of the "Kansas State College of Business Administration."

We wonder whether the banner is somehow intended to influence students to change their major to business.

We are aware of the fact that some people don't know which hall is Calvin, but we doubt the gaudy banner is really necessary to blare the message to all who pass by. Those with classes or business in Calvin have no doubt located the building by now, and most others probably don't care where, or what it is. Other than to notice a nice limestone building with an ugly sign on it, that is.

Let's hope the College of Business Administration tears down the sign. We admire those who take pride in their pursuits, but this display is out of character with the intent of the University. While the appearance of the building is not as important as the quality of instruction within that building, we believe Calvin should remain limestone, without banners. We trust that the various colleges at K-State will develop enough confidence in their quality that they will no longer need to advertise their location on campus.

No highway deaths

With the Soviet jet incident, the labor unions complaining about Reagan, and everything else that happened just before and during the Labor Day weekend, a bright spot is that there were no highway fatalities in Kansas during the three-day period. It marks the first time since 1951 that there was no one killed on Kansas highways over the three-day weekend.

The annual Labor Day-weekend fatality average for the past 10 years has been 8.1 deaths. The record high was 16, set in 1967 and again in 1976.

Officials gave the credit to better traffic law enforcement, careful driving and adherence to the 55-mph speed limit.

Also over the weekend, there were only five accidents on the 234-mile length of the Kansas Turnpike. Nearly 155,000 drivers used the turnpike over the weekend. That's an impressive survival rate.

With many K-State students going home over the weekend, it is a boost to the University — as well as a credit to the students who did travel — that no one was killed on the highways. Maybe this will prove something to those who are so quick to condemn college-age drivers.

So, our congratulations and praise to those students who made it home without an accident or a speeding ticket. And to those who encountered an unexpected expense at the hands of the Kansas Highway Patrol, at least you didn't become an accident statistic.

In retaliation for murder

There once was an airplane carrying 269 people which was bound from New York City to Seoul, South Korea, with a stop in Anchorage, Alaska. It was supposed to be an ordinary flight.

Korean Air Lines Flight 007 should have been just another 747 on its way to the South Korean capital. However, Flight 007 never made it.

It apparently strayed into Soviet air space instead of staying clear of the group of islands north of Japan, which the Soviets have occupied since the end of World War II.

The KAL jumbo jet was tracked by the Soviets for 2½ hours. As it neared the end of Soviet air space, a Soviet fighter launched a missile at the passenger plane. The plane was destroyed. Two hundred sixty-nine people were killed. More than 60 Americans, including Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga., were aboard Flight 007.

As the news of the fate of Flight 007 began to trickle in early Thursday morning, I didn't really pay attention. The early morning news reports mentioned the plane was missing, but didn't speculate anymore on its fate. I scanned the newspaper, looking for news about the space shuttle and the score of the Royals game.

When I went to class, it became apparent the situation had worsened. A few people asked me if I had heard anything new about Flight 007. I went to the Collegian newsroom and glanced at the Associated Press wire stories. I asked other people if they had heard of any new developments in the case. All indications seem to point to pessimism.

I heard the news of Flight 007's fate at 2:30 p.m., while I was sorting mail at Mariatt Hall. A radio newscast reported Flight 007 ended with a Soviet bang.

I guess I reacted like a lot of people did when they heard the news. I was stunned, angry and frustrated that this act of murder had occurred. I told a friend, "I hope you can speak Russian."

BRIAN LA RUE
Collegian Columnist

Neither of us laughed.

During the day, I listened to other people talk about the incident. A few suggested that America should "nuke 'em"; most suggested sanctions of some kind should be taken against the Soviets.

It was difficult to watch Secretary of State George Schultz report that "the barbaric act" had occurred. His face, torn with anger and grief, convinced me the jet was destroyed.

What should America do to retaliate?

The first thing which came to mind was a grain embargo. Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., endorsed the idea. So did Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich.

"To be feeding the pilot who shot that missile at this plane with our wheat, I find to be unacceptable morally," Levin said. "And I think if we refuse to do so there is a chance that we will change Soviet behavior over a long period of time."

I wish I could agree with Levin, but history shows that withholding grain is not an effective countermeasure. The 1980 embargo, ordered by President Carter to punish the Soviet Union for invading Afghanistan, was a complete failure. It did not remove the Soviets from Afghanistan. The Soviets were able to sidestep the embargo by purchasing grain from other countries.

Besides, the military will always be fed before the civilians receive their share.

The actions I think the United States should pursue include:

— Denying Aeroflot, the Soviet Union's passenger airline, landing rights. To be effective, America's allies must also take this action. I realize America's allies did not support "cooperative" sanctions proposed during the hostage crisis in Iran and after the Soviets invaded Afghanistan, but I think the worldwide reaction to this incident could allow this sanction to be adopted.

— Impose a higher tariff on all products manufactured in the Soviet Union, including liquor. Bar owners and patrons should be encouraged to boycott all liquor made in the Soviet Union.

— Continue the arms talks, but keep pressing the Soviets for an answer. This incident is a huge embarrassment to the Soviets. The world deserves an explanation. The longer the Soviets continue to refuse to answer, the more their position is discredited. Third World nations, take note: If the Soviets didn't shoot down Flight 007, why are they reluctant to provide the proof needed to show their innocence?

— Continue to press for the right to find the plane. Families deserve the right to bury their dead. The world deserves to find out what the flight recorder contains.

— Continue to press the American military and the South Korean government for answers. Was an American spy plane in the same vicinity as Flight 007? Was there a reason why the plane veered into Soviet air space? Is the full truth being told by the Koreans and the military?

— Most of all, America's leaders need to be calm. Rational decisions, not emotional tirades, are needed. World War III must not begin because of this act — but the incident cannot be dismissed without some kind of punishment.

Obviously, more ideas are needed. This incident, however, will not be easily brushed aside. The tragedy of Flight 007 should put the world on alert. This kind of act cannot be tolerated — or forgiven.

Still a nice town, part 2

Despite the old central business area having become rundown, Pottstown, Pa., is still a very nice town. You can't fault an entire town for one area changing radically.

Several years ago, while visiting Pottstown — where I had lived more than 40 years before, graduating from its high school in 1939 and holding my first full-time job on the local newspaper there when I was 19 years old — I was struck with how quickly memory can make things alive and breathing again.

Shandy Hill, the man who had hired me at the newspaper, filled me in on what had been going on since the last time I had seen him in 1955. Past 80 years old, Shandy was still active, writing a local gossip column. We talked to each other on the telephone for more than 45 minutes one night.

Suddenly, he barked, "Hey, Joel, you going out to Boyertown while you're here?" He was referring to the fact that when I was young I had yearned for a girl who lived in Boyertown, a small town about 10 miles from Pottstown — a girl about whom I had talked to the guys at the newspaper on many a heart-sick night.

My god, I thought, what a memory this man has. But perhaps I shouldn't have been surprised. I've been told many times I have the same kind of keen memory. In a sense, Shandy had taught me how to have that in the old days.

Later, I called John Paul Jones, the man who had published a pictorial magazine for which I'd written a column and other feature articles. (That was really his name. He'd received a lot of kidding about it.) He, too, had been one of the earliest to encourage me to keep writing. We reminisced about the magazine — and about the dance hall he'd started at the end of World War II and the fire which had gutted it.

And then I called Billy Achatz, chief reporter for The Pottstown Mercury when I'd worked there. He had been my hero. Greatest thing on wheels, I had thought. And he really was an extraordinary journalist. He later left Pottstown, served in the Marines, subsequently becoming a highly reputed photographer for The Associated Press. Now he had come back to Pottstown — to retire, so to speak. We recalled the time we had gone to hear Roosevelt speak in the rain in Philadelphia in 1940.

Late one afternoon, my wife, our daughter and I drove past what had been the high school. Although now a storage house, the old stone building remained, filling half a block. It wouldn't have surprised me one bit if Warren Miller and Al Saraceni, my old chums, had turned the corner to come walking toward me, as they often had done. Only Warren was now dead and Saraceni was God knew where.

JOEL CLIMENHAGA
Collegian Columnist

Then, for one brief moment filled with loss, I would have sworn that the girl walking down the sidewalk past the old school building was actually Rita Burfete on her way home to the house in which she had lived before moving to Boyertown. But, of course, that was not the case. Rita had married, had children, and I had no idea what had happened to her. Besides, Rita was now almost 60, probably a fat grandmother — not 18 anymore.

My wife and I decided to have our supper at the Sunnybrook Restaurant and Ballroom on the east edge of town. In the old days only a ballroom had been there. But, Lord, what a ballroom! First-class back there in the great days of swing, holding 4,000 people. All the famous jazz bands had played there. I wondered what would be left of that huge ballroom.

The sun was still well above the western horizon when we arrived at about 7 p.m. The old ballroom remained, fresh paint outside gleaming. There would be no dancing that night, however, because it was during the week. The restaurant was truly fine. That was one of the best suppers I've ever eaten in a public place. Afterward, I asked the hostess if I could walk through the empty ballroom. My wife and our daughter followed me.

In a side lobby where there had once been a bar, the walls were covered with old-time posters advertising the dates of appearances at Sunnybrook Ballroom of the big bands of the past. All the great jazz names — Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Artie Shaw — you name the band, the poster was there.

Very slowly I walked, diagonally across the deeply polished floor of that ballroom, worn by the feet of many dancers. I felt as if I were making a pilgrimage back into a holy place of my youth. Up to the bandstand. On each side were tiny dressing rooms. Behind the bandstand, out of sight, was a much larger one. I walked to the entrance of one of the tiny ones. I turned around. My wife and daughter were at the far end of the ballroom. I motioned for them to come to me. Late sunlight streamed through the tall windows. They came up beside me.

I pointed to the chair in front of the dressing table, and said, "It was right here that I interviewed Peggy Lee one night for a column I used to write." Very clearly in my head, even though the sound came from long ago, I could hear Peggy Lee singing: "Had plenty money back in '22. Love sure made a great big fool of you."

As we were loading the car the next morning, the telephone in our motel room rang. It was Shandy Hill. "What room are you in?" he asked. I told him. "Don't leave yet," he said. "I'll be right there."

A few minutes later he came down the walkway outside the motel. My wife saw him first (I was still in the motel room). She told me later he was bouncing along as if he were a kid. Hair white after 80 years, body shriveled, he couldn't have weighed more than 110 pounds or so. But bouncing with that old bounce, yet. How he knew it was my wife, (he had never met her before) we don't know. But as he came toward her he roared, "How in hell have you put up with Joel all these years?" I heard that. And that brought me out of the motel room.

He had a camera with him. We took several pictures of each other and assured each other we would write. He promised he would dig out old issues of The Pottstown Mercury on file at the public library to make copies of the weekly column of high school news I'd written in 1939 to send to me. Sure enough, a few weeks after I arrived back in Kansas, copies of those columns arrived.

On the highway going out of town, I was sorry to have to leave so soon. Pottstown, Pa., is still a very nice place, even 40 years later. Why? Because the people in it are very nice people — just as people are anywhere, when you get to know them. They become even nicer when you remember to remember them.

Forget the scarring of the old downtown. Pottstown is alive and well right now.

Letters

Students must take responsibility

Editor,

I'd like to respond to Darcy Ward's questions. Yes, I did do all my homework and I did read all those chapters. I also found that most of those texts weren't so dreary after all. I also read all of the books I did book reports on and did all of my own term papers.

The words that I cannot remember to spell correctly are looked up in a dictionary. The grammar I spent hours on helped when I studied Russian in college.

One attitude came out loud and clear in this column — student apathy. In her own words: "Let's face it, homework was not one of your main priorities." Studying was not "cool" when I was in high school so one didn't put out much effort if one wanted to be socially acceptable. I was given that cute little label of "class brain" because I cared enough about myself to be conscientious about my studies. I paid dearly for it, too, so I know just how unfashionable it is to be conscientious.

Quit passing the buck, Darcy. How far is a teacher supposed to go to be considered unbothered by you? Many of them aren't if you'd bother to sit up and pay attention. How entertaining do you expect your homework to be? When you get a job, will you expect your boss to make all your duties entertaining and not do them if you decide they aren't?

Wake up and take responsibility for your own life. When students quit blaming everyone else for their failures, then they'll have learned something about the real world.

Suzanne Middendorf Arruda
Assistant instructor of biology

Paper neglected march

Editor,

I am writing this letter on behalf of the Black Student Union at K-State. The letter's main purpose is to call your attention to the fact that we were very disappointed that the Collegian staff had not published an article we have waited patiently to read. The unpublished article would have covered the 20th Anniversary of the 1963 March on Washington.

The historical event was an assertive, non-violent, emotional celebration that left our people feeling proud. While it is true that Black Americans formed the bulk of the demonstrators, large numbers of Hispanics and whites were also present. This is to say that we are not viewing the unpublished article from a black perspective; rather, that of concerned university students.

For the hundreds of busy students who rely almost totally on the Collegian for national and international news, we regret even more that the coverage was omitted. We like to think it would have enhanced their fall semester curriculum.

Nevertheless, let it be known that the Black Student Union was very disappointed when the Collegian staff did not publish an article on the 20th Anniversary of the March on Washington.

Endya Lanita Runnels
Sophomore in family life and human development

Blacks have equal rights

Editor,

I'm writing about the cartoon which was printed in the Wednesday, Aug. 31 Collegian. If you are unaware by now, let me set you straight — blacks are free in this country and they may take whatever seat they please. People are people no matter what their skin color may be, and no one is any better than anyone else — we are all humans. Next time, why don't you take a little time and think about someone's feelings before your ignorance takes over — maybe then we may all live as one.

Jim Dittola
Junior in construction science

Letters policy

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are welcomed. All letters must be signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. If more than one name is included with the letter, only the first name will be published with a notation indicating the number of additional names. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations. All letters submitted become the property of the Kansas State Collegian.

Students redesign building as architecture class project

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

Interior architecture students are getting hands-on experience redesigning the interior of the Keller building at 328 Poyntz Ave.

Seventeen students in Interior Architecture Design Studio 5, taught by instructor Terry Scharig, are currently working with Ward M. Keller, owner of the building, to redesign its interior.

"We are putting together design solutions," Scharig said. "He's (Keller) trying to sell it and has some prospective buyers. The class will be working with the Keller family, the realtor (Fireside Realty), the buyer and the Manhattan Design Project."

The class is designing the building as a multi-use facility that can be used as offices or as a retail establishment.

All of the students are working individually on this same project, said Carol McKinzie, fifth-year student in interior architecture and class member.

"We are following the guidelines of the Manhattan Design Project (for buildings within the Historic District)," McKinzie said.

Kim McFarland, fifth-year student in interior architecture and class member, described the project as a "retrofit of the building."

"We'll clean it up and improve it," she said.

The first assignment for the class was to design a poster calling attention to the Keller building and showing the interior architecture department's involvement in the project.

The winning poster was selected Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at the Keller building. The selection committee consisted of Ward A. Keller, owner of the building, and his two sons, Kim and Russell, who were part owners in the business.

Kevin Dillingham, fifth-year student in interior architecture, designed the winning poster. His design depicted the current store front of Keller's peeling off to show the original store front behind it.

"I almost scrapped this design for something more abstract," Dillingham said. "That's what they advised me in prelims (preliminary critiques). But I kept it almost exactly the same."

Scharig and Jack Durgan, head of interior architecture department, made preliminary critiques of the posters.

This design project affords students an advantage because, unlike most architecture classes, it involves a real situation.

"It will be more work," McKinzie said. "But it is more professional. Usually our work is critiqued by a professor, but the buyer and realtor will have to approve this (project)."

McFarland said a professor tends to take a theoretical approach when critiquing work. A client, however, demands specific space requirements.

"They're pushing us really fast," McKinzie said. "Our prelims for the poster were due at the end of the first week of school. Usually when we have a major project, nothing's due for five or six weeks."

The poster designs varied, said Frank Anderson, fifth-year student in interior architecture and class member. Some were abstractions of one detail of the building, some showed the old front of the building (underneath the metal cover), and some showed the building as it looks now.

"We want to draw attention to the building and show the community that it is under consideration by us," Anderson said. "We are trying to get excitement about the mall and work within the guidelines set up by the Design Project."

Final plans will be displayed at an as-of-yet undetermined location, Anderson said.

The buyer will have the option of using the chosen designs, he said, but will not be required to do so.

"For once we have a lot of people interested in what we're doing," Anderson said.

"Now we have to prove ourselves," McFarland said.

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Kevin Dillingham, right, fifth year in interior architecture, reflects a smile as Terry Scharig, instructor of interior architecture, reveals his winning poster.

Collegian Classifieds — Where K-State Shops

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Scrumptilyishusband

Dairy Queen

"LET'S ALL GO TO THE DAIRY QUEEN"

1015 N. 3rd St.
Manhattan

©1974 U.S. Pat. Off. Am. D. Q. Corp. Copyright 1974 Am. D. Q. Corp.

MR. K'S

LADIES NITE EVERY WEDNESDAY!

Mr. K's Ladies Get . . .

- FREE ADMISSION ALL NITE
- FREE DRAW and 25' DRAWS ALL NITE

If You Haven't Been To Mr. K's . . . You Haven't Been To Aggieville!

Brother's
AGGIEVILLE

1120 Moro 539-9064

TONIGHT — LADIES NIGHT —
NO COVER for Girls 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
PLUS 1 FREE STEIN and $1.00 OFF PASS

TONIGHT THE RAVES
CATCH OUR DAILY HAPPY HOUR 1 p.m.-7 p.m.
Don't Miss THE CLOCKS—Sept. 14th & 15th

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRINKERY

Tonight TONIC NITE!
all tonic drinks $1
HAPPY HOUR: 4-9 p.m.
2 Fers on HiBalls 75¢ Draws $2 Blended Drinks
Drink of the week is LYNCHBURG LEMONADE $2

Memberships available
531 N. Manhattan in Aggieville Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

TODAY!

EPISCOPAL EUCHARIST
12:10 p.m.
Danforth Chapel
and every Wednesday

DINNER IN AGGIEVILLE
Steaks • BBQ Ribs
Chicken • Sandwiches
Cold Beer

Hibachi Hut

608 N. 12th 539-9906

ALLAN ELLIOTT, CLU
CALL ME BEFORE YOU BUY
LIFE AND/OR HEALTH INSURANCE

413 Poyntz Avenue
Lower Level
Manhattan, Kansas 66502

Office: (913) 776-0576
Residence: (913) 539-5795
CALL FOR APPOINTMENT

TRUCK LOAD SALE!
Just Arrived
Silver-Reed fully electronic compact typewriter

Penman Features:

- 10/12 Pitch
- Daisy Wheel Printer
- Cassette Ribbon and Correcting Tape
- Automatic Correction
- Automatic Relocation
- And Much More . . .

SILVER-REED
Reg. Price $575.00
Special $475.00
Check with us about payment plans

Hull BUSINESS MACHINES, INC.
715 North 12th
MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502
PHONE 913/539-7931 or 539-1413

NOW OPEN IN AGGIEVILLE

McPRINT
Instant printing

A NEW PRINTING & COPY SHOP

★ FEATURING ★
INSTANT OFFSET PRINTING & XEROX COPIES

24-HOUR TYPESETTING
REPORT & BOOKLET BINDING
REDUCTIONS & ENLARGEMENTS
GRAPHIC / TECHNICAL CAMERA

ALL TYPES OF PRINTING
FLYERS ■ BUSINESS CARDS ■ BROCHURES
NEWSLETTERS ■ ENVELOPES ■ RESUMES
LETTERHEADS ■ INVITATIONS ■ POSTERS

SAME DAY SERVICE!

1211 Moro 539-5749

ALL YOU CAN EAT BUFFETS
SPECIAL LOW PRICES FOR KIDS*

...now that's PiZZazz

Valentino's Ristorante Buffets put pizzazz on your plate! Dozens of selections from our fresh and crispy salad bar plus the pipin' hot pizza, lasagne and spaghetti we're famous for! And you just help yourself. It's perfection.

Luncheon Buffet served daily from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. $3.95.
Sunday Buffet served from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. $3.95.
Family Night Buffet, Monday through Thursday from 5:00 to 9:00 p.m. $4.25.

*Kids 12 & under eat 25¢ times their age — when accompanied by a parent.
Italian pronunciation: 5 per 100 (all) (in English translation is perfection)

Valentino's Restaurant

We Deliver
3019 Anderson Ave.
537-4350

Briefly

By the Associated Press

Actor to work on Yom Kippur

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Actor Herschel Bernardi says that, despite protests from the local Jewish community, he plans to appear in "Fiddler on the Roof" on Yom Kippur, a high holy day of fast and worship.

"Fiddler," with Bernardi starring as the lead character, Tevye, appears this week the Majestic Performing Arts Center. Yom Kippur is Saturday.

Rabbi Samuel M. Stahl, general chairman of the Jewish Community Relations Council, said "Bernardi was given the choice of another evening, but he decided to perform on the most sacred day of the Jewish year."

Reached at his California home Monday night, Bernardi said he "resents the implication that I'm any kind of Jewish model."

"I must say I am not a religious Jew," he said. "I think an individual has a right to his own religious practices."

Stahl said his group planned no organized protest.

"Regardless of his own religious thinking, he's running roughshod over the feelings of other Jews," the rabbi said. "His appearance sets a bad example for other Jews."

Nixon aide 'clean' of Watergate

SHAKOPEE, Minn. — Watergate scandal figure Maurice Stans returned to his hometown to celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary and to proclaim that he "came out of Watergate totally clean."

Stans, 75, as President Richard Nixon's commerce secretary and head of Nixon's re-election finance committee, raised $60 million for Nixon's 1972 campaign and some of that — including $81,000 to burglar G. Gordon Liddy — was used to help cover up the Watergate break-in.

Despite claims that his committee sold ambassadorships and solicited illegal contributions, Stans was convicted of five misdemeanor violations of campaign finance laws and was fined $5,000.

In the past 10 years, Stans has become a successful corporate consultant in Los Angeles.

"I have yet to convince the American people that I came out of Watergate totally clean," he said over the Labor Day weekend. "An awful lot of innocent people got hurt. Remember, there was kind of witch hunt atmosphere in Washington."

While back in Minnesota, Stans and his wife, Kathleen, visited his boyhood home, to which he has invested $15,000 to help restore. He said he feels bad that the people of Shakopee, a community of 7,000 just southwest of Minneapolis, had to be part of his misfortune.

"Shakopee got a lot of publicity during the days of my problems in Washington," he said.

Kansas City bank reopens

KANSAS CITY — The Douglass Bank opened for business today without fanfare or many noticeable signs that it was operated by a newly formed holding company.

The holding company assumed the deposits of Douglass State Bank on Saturday after the Kansas Banking Department declared the Kansas City area's only black-owned bank insolvent and ordered it closed.

"Friday night they were customers of Douglass State Bank. Tuesday morning they are customers of the Douglass Bank," said Mitchell Glassman, senior liquidation specialist for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. "It's basically a name change as far as the customers are concerned."

"It feels funny," said Margaret Robertson, a customer. "It feels like we're losing something that's always been ours and we could always count on it. Now, the atmosphere is different."

The holding company selected by the FDIC to assume operation of the bank, Douglass Bancorp Inc., is also black-owned.

Charles Eklund, a senior vice president at the Home State Bank in Kansas City, Kan., has been selected to head the bank's day-to-day operations until the new owners can select their own management.

Burdened by bad loans and embroiled in a federal investigation, Douglass State Bank's financial position had deteriorated in recent months. Bank deposits, which the bank had listed at $31.1 million as of June 30, had declined to $26.2 million at the time of the closing.

Drug task force moves in KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The recently formed Kansas City Drug Task Force moves into permanent offices in the Federal Courthouse this week as it carries out its mission of investigating and prosecuting high-level drug traffickers and destroying their organizations.

"We will focus on the major drug dealers, their organizations, and those who are creating a demand for drugs thereby assuring the dealer a profit," said Robert E. Larsen, an assistant U.S. attorney in the Western District of Missouri. He has been assigned to head the Drug Task Force.

The task force, one of several formed in the nation this year, includes agents from the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Bureau of Customs, the Internal Revenue Service and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Federal officials said the 11-member task force, made up of agents from five federal law enforcement agencies, will bring federal drug fighting agencies closer together.

"By combining the resources of separate federal agencies that have different investigative responsibilities we are striving to achieve a common goal — current narcotics trafficking," said Robert Davenport, agent in charge of the FBI in Kansas City.

"This is the first time federal agencies have gotten together on a common ground," said Murray Mahan, head of the DEA in Kansas City. "We're working closer than ever before, putting a lot of assets together and this is good."

Davenport said he likes the task force concept.

"It is a logical and workable approach to combating the ever-increasing narcotics problem at the federal level," he said.

"We want to take the profit incentive out of the drug business," Larsen said. "And to do this we'll seize the assets, including cash, cars and property, of persons convicted of trafficking, as well as putting them in prison."

Davenport said investigations will be aimed primarily at marijuana, cocaine and heroin, "which appear to be major problems in the area."

The Kansas City task force, which began working cases in June, is in the South-Central region, with headquarters in St. Louis. The region includes Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, and parts of Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Illinois.

Town parades for sewer opening

CHESTER, Conn. — The folks in this town just did what comes naturally when their brand-new sewer opened — they struck up the band and paraded in the streets.

"Chester has its sewer. What a rush. No more brook pollution when you flush," intoned a female singing group calling itself the Flushettes.

The occasion was the Labor Day opening of the sewer in Chester, population 3,000, which was under orders for 17 years to fix its septic problems.

The new system of leaching fields replaced the flushing of sewage into Pataconk Stream, a tributary of the Connecticut River.

The project was financed by $345,000 in state and federal grants. Mr. and Mrs. Sewer, who were selected by the Water Pollution Control Authority at an emergency meeting, made the first ceremonial flush atop a bandstand in downtown Chester.

Refreshments of lemonade and chocolate doughnut holes were served, and toilet paper was festooned atop trees and through bicycle spokes. Some band members banged on pots and pans and short pieces of plastic sewer pipe.

Joining the parade were police cruisers, fire engines — and a backhoe and a septic waste removal truck carrying an outhouse.

BUSINESS COUNCIL HAS ONE VACANCY

Application available in SGS Office.
Due Fri. Sept. 9.

Today's Pop Quiz

Q. Where will you be Monday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.?

A. Enjoying the evening in style with the

Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra

Ticket prices: Public $15.00, Senior $14.00, Student $12.00

Tickets available at McCain Box office, noon-5 p.m., M-F, 532-6428

This program is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts, through participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

THE DONUT HOLE

For the best afternoon snacks
Come on in for:

- ice cream
- donuts
- sandwiches
- pastries

Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.

Fri.—24 hours

Sat. til 6 p.m.

11th and Moro
Aggieville

Here's a sensible weight-loss program that really works!

LOSE WEIGHT QUICKLY
SAFELY, PERMANENTLY!
NO PREPACKAGED FOOD
NO SHOTS • NO DRUGS
NO CONTRACTS

CALL TODAY

HOW TO WIN AT THE LOSING GAME
DIET CENTER

"The Natural Way to Lose Weight!"

IT COULD CHANGE YOUR LIFE

108 N. 3rd

539-9286

776-3438

Check out our Fall Specials!!

A little good news goes a Long Distance.

Land a job for next summer? Call home! Your parents will relish the thought of you making money, as opposed to spending it.

Get a good grade on a paper? Parents love to see proof that they raised a smart kid.

You don't need a big event to call home. Even a little good news can go a long, long way.

And nobody's more eager to hear about it than your family.

You can call anyone in Kansas between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday, and talk 10 minutes, for $1.68* Or less, depending on where you call.

So go ahead. When you've done something good, share the good news!

Reach out and touch someone.

Southwestern Bell

*Price applies to calls dialed One-Plus without operator assistance. Same rate applies from 11pm to 8am every night. Tax not included.

If the whole dorm heaved a sigh of relief when you threw that last sock in the washing machine... then for you, doing laundry is news. News that your Mom would be delighted to hear.

Falling into FASHION

College life is likely to move most students from the classroom or lab to work or the office, on to the gym and out to Aggieville — all in one day.

Fashions tend to reflect this fast-moving lifestyle, according to Kim Wright, junior in fashion marketing.

"A person has so many different dimensions in the ways they live and in the extremes they dress. It's a type of schizophrenic fashion, actually," Wright said.

Just as lifestyles differ from region to region, what's happening in the Manhattan fashion world is not always the trend across the nation.

"You always hear that fashion is a little more conservative in the Midwest, even though a lot of buyers in town go to New York or Dallas markets. I think price is also a factor, though. And it takes longer for newer styles to be accepted and to disseminate to the Midwest," said Marlene Johnson, instructor of clothing, textiles and interior design.

"Another factor affecting local fashions is that things are getting better (economically) in other places, but it's taking a little longer here," Johnson said.

Throughout the country, Japanese designers, such as Issey Miyake, Kenzo and Yohji Yamoto, will be influencing American design in the future, Johnson said.

But a more immediate fashion influence, dancewear, has seemingly been inspired from recent movies.

"Dancewear has become really popular for streetwear," said Amy Artzer, manager of a local retail dancewear store.

"Dancewear has become popular because it's so comfortable and just a little bit different. Movies like 'Flashdance' and 'Staying Alive' have also helped. At first, everyone was jogging, but people are realizing that dancing is fun and great exercise," Artzer said.

Included in this craze is the increased popularity of leotards to wear with slacks, skirts and leg warmers.

"You can get twice as much wear out of leotards and tights than colored hose. They're more durable and warmer with lots of different styles.

"Leg warmers will be really big this fall. Especially for walking around campus this winter," Artzer said.

Sportswear (or activewear) will probably also be seen a lot on campus this fall.

"With everyone wanting and trying to be thin, we see a lot of this type of activewear," Johnson said.

Back again will be the warm woolly sweater.

"Sweaters will be important this year. Sweater vests are one of the biggest fashion items right now. The cowl neck is making a comeback," said Eleanor Brent, proprietor of a local women's shop.

Wearing sweaters as the top layer of clothing with a lot of layers underneath will be in style again this year.

"The dominating colors this fall will be grays with cranberry and navies. The tweed look will also be big this fall," Johnson said.

Brent also said plum would be included in fall's basic color ensembles, as well as teal.

"Classic styling for sportswear will be important again this fall. Your classic blazer with a dirndl skirt and a front or back slit will be popular.

"Blouses and dresses with a ruffled collar will be important. You'll be seeing more mandarin collars. Puffed and pleated shoulder treatments on sleeves will be important," Brent said.

Pleated pants are still the most popular slacks, but the side buttoned flapped pant is becoming more popular, she said.

Accessories, the finishing touches, are still essential.

"You'll be seeing a lot of bright accessories this year," Johnson said.

For the more classically-oriented female, there are many types of ties and cummerbunds in leather and silks. Wide belts in leather with large gold buckles can add the finishing touches to the new fall wardrobe.

"Overall, there isn't anything as dominant in women's fashion this fall like there was last year with the tuxedo look," Johnson said.

With men's fashions there is more of a subtle change.

"There's not a whole lot of changes in direction as far as styling. We are seeing some double breasting on men's suits. The coloration is the primary change," said Roy Johnson, manager of a local men's clothing store.

Often the color change is seen directly in the fabrication of the suit, he said.

"The dark conservative suits of the last four to five years are now being highlighted with bright or soft shades in many fashions.

"Men are still wearing the dark conservative suit, but with a colored shirt, not the white shirt you always think of. There's a lot of color in the men's line," Johnson said.

He also predicted that sweaters and corduroy pants will remain fundamental for menswear this fall.

Movies such as "Flashdance" and "Staying Alive" have influenced the fashion scene. Dancewear, including legwarmers, leotards and skirts, are both comfortable and fashionable.

Wool sweaters and blazers will be back for fall on campus in a variety of colors such as gray, navy blue, cranberry, plum and teal.

Conservative dress is the key for office attire this fall.

Story by Judy Mills
Photos by Andy Nelson

The athletic craze will be reflected in the clothes people wear.

(Fashions coordinated by Kim Wright, provided by The Athletics Way, Borck Brothers and Footlights.)

Bad acting, weak production pay off in satire on morality

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

Paul and Mary Bland see decadence everywhere. Outside of their apartment of "authentic '50s furniture," they constantly run into unsavory "swinger types" who think only of sex. With a $175 a month rent increase, a cancelled Instant Cash card, and their dream home slipping away from them, unless they come up with $10,000, Paul and Mary are forced to take some drastic steps.

This is the starting point for Paul Bartel's hilarious satire about American morality, "Eating Raoul." Bartel and Mary Woronov ham it up to the hilt as Paul and Mary Bland.

In fact, their performances, at times, can be attributed to just plain bad acting, but in "Eating Raoul" bad acting seems to pay off. In making fun of the people who assume cultured personas, Bartel makes every word uttered by Paul or Mary completely one-dimensional.

This brings up the question of whether the hammy style was actually premeditated, or just the result of incompetence. The answer probably lies somewhere between the two extremes.

Review

Once Bartel discovered that the building he had used to shoot the opening scenes was scheduled to be torn down, he rushed out and filmed the remainder of the film quickly. This results in the film's slipshod quality, but the quality can't be attributed solely to incompetence.

The script calls for hammy performances and outlandish sets. In fact, a larger budget would probably have yielded a much less amusing film, because Bartel's style doesn't call for an overly premeditated method.

The film's plot becomes interesting once Paul and Mary accidentally stumble upon the method for their financial recovery.

While Mary is being attacked by a sex-crazed "swinger type," Paul rushes to the rescue and promptly bonks the villain on the head with a frying pan. To Paul and Mary's horror, they find that the culprit has died. As they look in his pockets for some identification they find a wallet full of hundred dollar bills.

Paul and Mary come to the realization that, "these swinger types always seem to have money." They decide to keep the cash and dispose of the body by way of a trash compactor. They then lure other "swingers" into their apartment with an advertisement in the local newspaper, and as soon as the "swinger" does something perverted, Paul rushes into the room and bonks him over the head.

The film contains some brilliantly funny scenes — like when one "swinger" doesn't do anything perverted but just keeps on talking while Paul nervously waits with frying pan in hand. Mary tries to convince Paul to bonk him over the head anyway once she tires of waiting.

"I thought he would never stop talking," Paul says once the "swinger" finally touches Mary.

Although Bartel's style of film making is careless, the film is assembled with a brilliant comedic flair. Bartel seems to know just the right moment to shift from one joke to the next, leaving no joke cut short or left on screen for too long.

Christian singer creates rapport; background provides versatility

By SUE SCHMITT
Arts&Entertainment Editor

Jim Newton preferred to call it an intimate crowd.

Only 35 people gathered in Forum Hall to listen to Newton sing. His performance was sponsored by American Baptist Campus Ministry and Ecumenical Christian Ministries.

Newton entertained the group with songs and stories with a message. Although his message was a Christian one, he never preached to the audience. He didn't seem to be there to save souls, he was there to make people feel good about themselves — and about others.

His rapport with the audience was impressive. A master at singing and storytelling, he could bring a tear as quickly as a smile.

Variety and Newton's versatility kept his performance interesting. He backed himself up with a twelve-string guitar and tapes.

One usually cringes at the thought of musicians using tapes as backups, but Newton pulled it off. The tapes were studio quality with instrumentals, back-up vocals and percussion. And almost miraculously, Newton was somehow able to play his guitar with the tapes — in tune.

Review

During Newton's performance, there was no time to be bored. The concert moved quickly. He kept his songs short and entertaining, involved his audience, and told stories between songs.

Perhaps Newton's greatest talent was putting his audience at ease. Usually, a small crowd like the one at Forum Hall would be a quiet group — afraid to join in. But this audience wasn't afraid to sing along or to laugh out loud. Newton's spontaneity relaxed the people in the audience.

Evident in Newton's music was the influence of the late Harry Chapin. Newton talked about Chapin extensively, sang one of his songs entitled "Flowers Are Red," and sang a song he wrote for Chapin. Sometimes his voice gave way to Chapin's style, and some of his songs were written in the same style.

He spoke of Chapin's concern about the starving and sang a song about it called "Taxi Ride."

"This one's for Harry and for the hungry; too bad the rest of us don't take the time to care."

But just when things got heavy, singing about starving or the problems of the old, Newton would bring in an upbeat song. By doing this, he got his message across without too much pain. It seemed to be a sound tactic — to keep people happy while making them think about serious problems.

Through his music, he didn't preach the gospel of the Bible as much as he preached the gospel of loving oneself and others; to take a positive look at life and its problems. It was a Christian concert, but not a evangelical one.

His opening song epitomized his attitude towards the evening.

"The gift of song is the gift of love. Here comes the gift — a song for you."

Rising cost of college education fails to deter students

By The College Press Service

"People pay the tuition because they feel it's worth it," explains Suzanne Horne, an engineering major at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"People pay because they're slightly weird," says Barry Surman, editor of MIT's student paper.

Weird or not, MIT students will pay $900 more in tuition than last year's $8700, a 10.3 percent hike. When books, fees and other costs are added, Horne and the others will spend a total of $14,500, making MIT the most expensive school in America, according to the College Scholarship Service's (CSS) annual survey.

But all colleges are more expensive this year, as campus inflation remains frighteningly high despite the taming of inflation elsewhere in the economy.

For example, while the nation's inflation rate over the last year has varied from 2.6 percent to 4.8 percent (depending on which federal agency is counting), four-year public college costs have soared 12 percent (to an average $4721), the CSS says.

Community and junior college students will spend an average $3400 in 1983-84, an 8 percent increase.

The increases, moreover, follow even larger hikes last year. In all, 1982-83 college costs were 20 percent higher on public campuses and 13 percent higher on private campuses than 1981-82 costs, the CSS reported last year.

At the same time, the Consumer Price Index rose by 7.7 percent. The 1983 inflation rate is 3.2 percent so far, according to U.S. Department of Labor statistics released last week.

It's worse at some schools than at others. Students at the University of North Dakota, for example, are suffering through a 27 percent increase this year. While GM car prices went up 2 percent, tuition at the General Motors Institute in Detroit went up 32 percent. The hike hit 53 percent at Mankato State University in Minnesota.

Because of deep budget cuts, California community college students will have to pay tuition (called "fees" on the West Coast) for the first time ever.

Worse yet, many expect tuition and fees will continue to rise faster than the inflation rate.

"Analysts see average college costs outpacing inflation rates through 1984," says Cathy Henderson, author of the American Council on Education's "College Costs: Recent Trends, Likely Future."

She says colleges are just now getting around to tuition hikes needed from 1977-82, when inflation pushed costs of running campuses up almost 44 percent while tuition increased by "only" 51 percent.

Henderson theorized that many schools kept hikes low by stalling maintenance and freezing faculty salaries.

They can't stall any longer, she says. "Now many colleges are playing catch-up ball, adjusting salaries and renovating buildings, forcing a boost in the cost of higher education."

Yet budget cuts and unemployment mean schools can't turn to two of the traditional sources of funds: government and alumni.

Alumni "gifts and endowment revenues (the money earned on the school's investments) have not kept up" enough to help MIT pay for its operating expenses, which rose 8 percent last year, he says.

To avoid selling some of those investments, MIT turned to its third traditional source of money: students.

MIT students, at least, seem to have accepted the hike.

"People complain about the tuition," Surman says. "For some, it's a real hardship, but they wouldn't transfer for anything. The starting salaries for MIT graduates justify the costs."

Local MD campaign raises $5,565

By The Collegian Staff

The Manhattan Muscular Dystrophy Telethon raised $5,565 in pledges during weekend efforts to support the national campaign, the local telethon coordinator said.

"There were 389 pledges. The number of pledges is down, but the amount is up over past years," Steve Doughty, secretary for the International Association of Firefighters Local 2275 and pledge coordinator.

The largest pledge, $200, was from the Ron Hill family, Doughty said.

Donations totaled more than $2,100, he said.

"The firefighters had a Boot Block again this year and collected $304," he said. "We had fire engines stationed at the Alco, K-Mart and Wal-Mart parking lots and solicited donations from passers-by."

The name "Boot Block" comes from the past when firefighters would wait at a busy intersection for the light to turn red and take their boots up and down the street to collect money, Doughty said.

The McCall's Employees Committee for Civic Action donated $500, Doughty said. J. Riggs West held a Pool-A-Thon Saturday and Sunday and raised $1,009.26.

"Several kids volunteered and collected money door-to-door," Doughty said. "They raised a total of $175.63."

Other walk-in donations added up to $158.25.

Several other projects to raise money for the muscular dystrophy telethon were not held over Labor Day weekend, but at other times of the year. These include an annual Sport-A-Thon held at the Sports Fanatic in the spring, originally called the Bump-A-Thon, and a Skate-A-Thon held during the winter.

REC REPORT

ACTIVITIES SEPTEMBER CALENDAR

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
	CODES RC Rec Complex P Pools WB Washburn Rental Ct BF Beginner's "Be Fit" AF Aerobics & Fitness JF Jane Fonda Workout JE Jazz Exercise	Phone Numbers Rec Complex . 532-6951 (Court Reservations) Washburn Rental Center . 532-6894 Rec Check . 532-6000 Rec Services Office . 532-6980	7 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45am - 7:45am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm	8 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm	9 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm AF Noon - 12:50	10 RC 10am - 10pm P 1 - 5 pm 7 - 10 pm WB 11am - Noon KSU - Little Apple TRIATHLON
11 RC Noon - 11 pm P 1 - 5 pm 7 - 10 pm WB 4 - 6 pm	12 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45am - 7:45am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm	13 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm	14 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45am - 7:45am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm	15 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm IM DEADLINE FOR PUTT-PUTT, GOLF, SWIM MEET, AND WATER POLO 5:00pm	16 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm AF Noon - 12:50	17 RC 10am - 10pm P 1 - 5 pm 7 - 10 pm WB 11am - Noon KSU Football 7:00 pm
18 RC Noon - 11 pm P 1 - 5 pm 7 - 10 pm WB 4 - 6 pm	19 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 CLOSED FOR MEET WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45am - 7:45am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm IM SWIM MEET	20 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 CLOSED FOR MEET WB 4 - 6 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm IM SWIM MEET	21 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 CLOSED FOR MEET WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45am - 7:45am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm IM SWIM MEET	22 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 CLOSED FOR MEET WB 4 - 6 pm JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm IM SWIM MEET	23 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm AF Noon - 12:50	24 RC 10am - 10pm P 1 - 5 pm 7 - 10 pm WB 11am - Noon KSU Football 7:00 pm
25 RC Noon - 11 pm P 1 - 5 pm 7 - 10 pm WB 4 - 6 pm IM PUTT-PUTT GOLF	26 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45am - 7:45 am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm	27 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm IM WATER POLO BEGINS	28 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 12:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm BF 6:45 am - 7:45 am AF Noon - 12:50 JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm AF 5:30 - 6:30 pm	29 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 7:30 - 10:00 pm WB 4 - 6 pm JF 4:30 - 5:30 pm JE 5:30 - 6:30 pm DEADLINE FOR F/S GOLF	30 RC 6am - 11pm P 6:00am - 7:30am 11:30 - 3:30 Closed for Concert WB 4 - 6 pm AF Noon - 12:50 FACULTY/STAFF GOLF

INTRAMURAL DEADLINES AND EVENTS

DEADLINES:
Thursday, September 15, 5:00 p.m.
Putt Putt Golf, Golf, Swim Meet, Water Polo
Thursday, September 29, 5:00 p.m.
Faculty/Staff Golf

EVENTS:
Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday
September 19-September 22
Swim Meet
Friday, September 30
Faculty/Staff Golf Tournament

DO YOU HAVE A WEIGHT ROOM PHOBIA? Rec Services has the cure.

Rec Services will be holding a clinic on Thursday, September 15, at 7:00 p.m. This clinic is designed to familiarize individuals with the Rec Complex's weight and fitness equipment. There will be demonstrations on use of the Universal Equipment in the Weight Room, as well as the new Hydra Fitness Equipment and new Lifecycles in the Multi-Purpose Room. Interested persons should meet in the Multi-Purpose Room.

YOU'RE KIDDING? A FREE T-SHIRT? YOU BET!!

Simply volunteer your services for the KSU—LITTLE APPLE TRIATHLON to be held on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10. Interested individuals must attend an organizational meeting on Wednesday, September 7, (TODAY!) at 6:00 p.m. at the Community House (located at 4th and Humboldt downtown).

Come cheer on the Triathletes this Saturday, September 10. The Triathlon will begin at 9:00 a.m. at Tuttle Creek's River Pond Area.

Shoo-fly

Taking a nap on a bench in front of Burt hall, Royce Wilson, senior in animal science and industry, drew the interest of a fly, who made a quick survey of Wilson's cheek before getting the brush-off.

Staff/John Sleezer

Rape, incest victims utilize feminist therapy

By JANICE STUCKY
Staff Writer

Two support groups sponsored by the Women's Resource Center utilize feminist therapy to help rape and incest victims.

The Rape Support Group, instituted last fall, has a changing membership of eight to 10 people according to Sue Rieger, group facilitator.

The group looks at rape from feminist perspectives, building trust among members with a feeling of cohesiveness, Rieger said.

"The first thing I think of when I talk to a rape victim is their personal safety — psychological and physical. A feeling of security is needed to cope," Rieger said.

Rape is the most underreported crime, Rieger said. Victims may hesitate to report rapes because of guilt feelings, she said, especially if the rapist — as is common — is a date or acquaintance.

One out of three people have direct contact with rape at some time in their life, Rieger said. Also, a rape is reported every seven minutes.

Both the young and elderly are victims of rape, but rapists especially look for vulnerable women, she said.

Immediately after a rape, a victim should call the Manhattan Crisis Center, because they can best deal with victims in a crisis situation, she said.

"Usually the victims follow a three stage after-rape pattern," Rieger said. "In the first stage, a victim is in extreme emotional shock for a short period of time called the acute immediate response."

"In the second stage, a victim represses and denies the incident. They try to forget it and go on."

"In the third stage, some event triggers their memory. They discover they are holding things inside concerning their rape experience which make them uncomfortable. Most of the Rape Support Group members are in the third stage," Rieger said.

The group aims to dispel the myth that women provoke rape, Rieger said. A victim should be able to leave the group without feeling the rape was her fault, she said. The group tries to give victims a positive feeling of wanting to help other rape victims, Rieger said.

New members can join any time, Rieger said, but she recommends members commit themselves weekly for about a semester.

The incest support group, You Are Not Alone (YANA), will begin the week of Sept. 26 with eight to 10 members, said Katherine Parker, junior in women's studies and psychology and group facilitator.

"Incest is the overt use of a dependent family member for the sexual stimulation and/or gratification of a controlling family member," Parker said.

Members no longer in incestuous relationships are wanted, and the group hopes to attract students and members of the community who have never dealt with the problem, Parker pointed out.

"Incest victims go through a stage of almost 20 to 30 years of denial, because incest discussion is more taboo than rape discussion," she said.

The support group will function to ease the taboo, Parker continued.

"Incest is such a different issue than rape, because incest victims still see their offenders; rape victims do not. The victims in the incest support group carry a tremendous amount of guilt. The group tries to give them more self-confidence and make them realize they are not guilty," she said.

The community also must be aware that incest is a common occurrence in all social classes, Parker said.

"Most often the incest relations are father-daughter and last about seven years. Boys also can be victims," she said.

National student groups select liaison

By The College Press Service

After a summer of delays and protests, the U.S. Department of Education has finally appointed its go-between for the administration and national student groups, but not before it tried to kick the nation's largest private college and minority student groups out of the appointment process.

The go-between — officially called the Student Liaison Officer (SLO) — is also supposed to represent those student groups in Department of Education deliberations.

Typically, the groups themselves join in the process of selecting an actively-enrolled student to become the new SLO every six months.

But this year, at least two of the groups — the National Organization of Black University and College Students (NOBUCS) and the Coalition of Independent College and University Students (commonly called COPUS) — were originally excluded from the selection process.

"I can't tell you why they weren't invited," says Larry Woldt, special assistant to the deputy undersecretary of Education who oversees the selection of the student liaison. Woldt says he doesn't know because the undersecretary who excluded the two groups, Wendy Borcherdt, is no longer with the department.

Borcherdt could not be reached for comment.

"It's very obvious that there was much more of a political slant to the selection process than ever before," says Kathy Ozer of the U.S. Student Association (USSA), which did get to participate in the process.

USSA was the most vocal student group opposing Borcherdt when her nomination as deputy undersecretary was announced in 1981.

COPUS and NOBUCS also opposed the nomination, though their lobbyists did not testify against Borcherdt. The only student group to endorse the nomination officially was the American Student Association.

COPUS ultimately did get to participate in the selection of this fall's SLO, Penn State student Mark Smith, but only after convincing department officials that COPUS met "a ridiculous list of criteria that we met from the beginning," says COPUS Director Sara Turin.

NOBUCS also was finally invited, but never did actually help cull through the applications from students all over the country.

BAKING SCIENCE CLUB BAKE SALE!

Brownies
Banana Bread
Cake Donuts
Whole Wheat Bread
Honey Cracked Rye
French Bread
Raisin Bread
Russian Black Rye

and Introducing

BANANA BREAD

Every Wednesday from 3:30-5:30
Shellenberger Hall

(While Goods Last)

515 RICHARDS DRIVE — UNDER WILDCAT LANES

CRAB RACES TONIGHT!

9:30-10:30

Come out and see our thoroughbred crabs—put your betting skills to the test—Prizes!

DOWN UNDER CLUB

515 Richards
(under Wildcat Lanes)
For reservations call 539-0230

hair design
studio

Back to School Special For All Students

Shampoo, hair cut, & blowdry styling

$10.00 with coupon

Values to $15.00

One coupon per client

Expires Sept. 30, 1983

Mon.-Fri.
8-8

Sat.-8-5

REDKEN
We use and prescribe
Redken Products

613 N. Manhattan
Manhattan, Kansas

539-7621

ST. ISIDORE'S WELCOMES NEW & RETURNING STUDENTS

Come share in our Spiritual & Educational Opportunities

SUNDAY MASS SCHEDULE

Sat. 5:00 p.m.

Sun. 9:30 a.m.

11:00 a.m.

5:00 p.m.

DAILY MASS

4:30 p.m.

DAILY CONFESSIONS

4 to 4:25 p.m.

SATURDAY CONFESSIONS

3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Sept. 20 - 7:00 p.m. - Instructions in the Faith (RCIA) begins.

Sept. 20 - 7:00 p.m. - Christ Among Us Class begins.

Marriage Preparation Weekends - Oct. 7-8 and Dec. 2-3.

OTHER HAPPENINGS

Weekly Bible Studies - Liturgy Planning - Individual Spiritual Direction - Newman Fellowship
Pastoral Team - Fr. Norbert Diabal, Sister Betty Suther
Glenda Carlin, Beth Popelka, Mary Iwinski, Sandy Kepple, Rich Windholz, Cindy Settle, Rafi Carballo, Marcia Hooper, Jon Pachta
Joan Linot, Steve Burghart

For more information, call 539-7496 or visit 711 Denison

The Hair Experts

New Location
1209 Moro

776-4455

FOR THE LATEST FALL HAIR DESIGNS, WE HAVE EXPANDED OUR PROFESSIONAL STAFF TO MEET YOUR PERSONAL HAIR AND SKIN CARE NEEDS.

WE WILL BE CELEBRATING OUR GRAND OPENING SEPT. 21-28 AT OUR NEW LOCATION, 1209 MORO, BEHIND LAST CHANCE IN AGGIEVILLE.

WE ARE THE NEWEST AND STILL THE BEST.

JEANNIE

MARCIA

ERIN KAREN SHERIE

LIN

DEBBIE

TEDDY

BRENDA

North Korea emerges as supplier of military training

By The Associated Press

VICTORIA, Seychelles — North Korea, the communist half of what was once known as the "hermit kingdom," has abandoned its isolation and expanded its role in Africa as a supplier of military expertise.

Since 1971, more than a dozen countries on the continent, from Burundi to Zimbabwe, have invited the tough North Korean trainers. An estimated 3,800 African military personnel were sent to North Korea for instruction between 1971 and 1981, Asian diplomatic sources say.

In April, the Seychelles, an Indian Ocean republic which considers itself part of Africa, became the latest recipient of Pyongyang's growing military cooperation program with the arrival of 55 North Korean instructors and interpreters.

Replacing unpopular Tanzanian troops, the Koreans have come to rebuild a 750-man force that mutinied briefly last year.

Their presence has puzzled some diplomatic observers who note that North Korea, one of the most rigid Marxist states, sent advisers at a time when the Seychelles' socialist regime was moving to moderate its militant image which has hurt tourism, its biggest industry.

Western diplomatic sources in East Africa say they are concerned by the Koreans' presence in the Seychelles because even a tiny force of professional soldiers has disproportionate influence in a country of only 65,000 people.

Security considerations have been paramount to the islands' president, France Albert Rene, since 45 South African-based mercenaries arrived on Nov. 25, 1981, intending to overthrow his government. Fighting broke out when a customs official found a machine pistol in a suitcase, and the soldiers of fortune escaped back to South Africa by hijacking an Air India jetliner.

The 49-year-old Rene, described by one diplomat as "intelligent and modest but scared and suspicious," had a concrete bunker sunk in the backyard of his estate, "L'exile," in the lush hills overlooking Victoria. It took only 35 men to install him in power in a 1977 coup which toppled jet-setting President James R. Mancham.

But his trust in the Seychelles People's Defense Forces diminished during the August 1982 mutiny in which at least nine people died.

Despite official denials, the Tanzanians, whose dozen advisers were reinforced by 200 men after the 1981 coup attempt, have been held responsible by the public for the fatalities. Residents also resent the Tanzanians doing security duty at the airport and elsewhere, their occasional brawling and their alleged trafficking in illicit drugs.

Maj. James Michel, chief of staff, said the Tanzanians were being "phased out," with the North Koreans taking over many of their training duties.

In other countries like Uganda, North Korean army instructors are filling positions once held by the Israelis before most members of the Organization of African Unity broke ties with the Jewish state after the 1973 Middle East war.

Some Western diplomats in Africa believe that North Korean military personnel even have taken part in anti-guerrilla operations in Uganda.

The most controversial of Pyongyang's training missions is in Zimbabwe. At the peak of the North Korean presence, 160 instructors whipped into shape the 5,000-member 5th brigade, a special unit raised by Prime Minister

Robert Mugabe to counter armed dissidents.

The Korean-trained force also was dispatched to Matabeleland province in January to crush armed groups loyal to opposition leader Joshua Nkomo.

Last month, Great Britain reduced its military advisers in Zimbabwe from 95 to about 50. Officials said the step had no political significance but noted Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's concern over reports of repressive tactics used by the North Korean-trained 5th brigade in recent months.

Pyeongyang's training missions are seen by some area specialists as a way of not only extending its influence but also to drum up business for its arms industry. It needs sales to pay bills arising from a multibillion-dollar shopping spree by state corporations during the mid-1970s.

North Korea also has gone international with arms sales and training missions, which range in size from a handful of men in Zambia, 20 in Libya to more than 200 at one time in Somalia.

Katsumi Sato, a Japanese expert on North Korean affairs, said, "North Korea earns a good part of its scarce foreign currency, in the midst of its economic stagnation, through exports of weapons and equipment."

It has delivered $640 million worth of arms to Zimbabwe, sold on credit, said an informed source in Nairobi.

North Korea shipped some $800 million worth of arms and ammunition to Iran last year, representing 40 percent of Tehran's military purchases, the U.S. State Department said. Iran reportedly pays in both cash and oil.

Annual MD telethon collects $30.7 million

By The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — Comedian Jerry Lewis, who recently suffered a near-fatal heart attack, appeared in good health during his 18th annual muscular dystrophy telethon Monday as he coaxed $30.7 million in pledges from a national television audience.

The final total of $30,691,627 was $2.27 million above the 1982 total pledge, and it did not include the millions of dollars donated by sponsors of the 21½-hour event.

About 100 celebrities participated in the annual Labor Day telethon, which was broadcast live from Las Vegas with feeds from New York City and Atlantic City, N.J.

This weekend's pledge total was the third highest in the national telethon's 18-year history. Telethons in 1980 and 1981 surpassed $31 million.

The 1983 entertainment extravaganza was touted as something special by Lewis and the celebrities involved, who made many references to Lewis' heart attack. He underwent double bypass surgery and is reported in excellent health.

Lewis, once a chain smoker, has said his brush with death prompted him to give up cigarettes. When co-host Sammy Davis Jr. tossed an unlit cigarette aside, saying he was trying to give up smoking, Lewis joked, "I can tell you how I did it."

"Yeah, but you always do things the hard way," Davis retorted.

Two hundred television stations carried the 1983 telethon, which began Sunday evening.

Although the Muscular Dystrophy Association conducts year-round fund-raising activities, the telethon is its major source of income in fighting neuro-muscular diseases.

NEA predicts labor peace in education field

By The Associated Press

As school doors open across the country, fewer teachers are walking picket lines. Union leaders predict that lower inflation plus the promise of education reform will add up to labor peace this year.

As of Tuesday, the 1.7-million member National Education Association reported strikes in 23 school districts in Michigan, and one district each in Rhode Island, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey. By this time last year, there were 48 NEA-sponsored strikes in seven states.

"We don't think we'll equal last year's total of 125 strikes," said Howard Carroll, an NEA spokesman.

Meanwhile, three locals of the 580,000-member rival teacher union, the American Federation of Teachers, are on strike so far this week — in Pawtucket, R.I., East Detroit, and a Hebrew day school in Detroit called the Akiva School. At this time last year, seven AFT locals were on strike, and there were 11 strikes during the year.

"I think it'll be a quieter year in terms of labor," said AFT president Albert Shanker.

Shanker, who 15 years ago practically invented teacher union militancy with bitter strikes in New York City and elsewhere, had predicted relative labor peace earlier this summer.

Teacher union leaders attribute the labor calm to several factors:

- Inflation is down to about a 3 percent annual rate, which makes wage offers of 5 percent, 6 percent or more seem bearable. And school districts so far have been relatively generous with their teachers.
- The current national focus on education reform has also contributed to labor peace. Educators, politicians and others are advocating boosting teacher salaries to improve the quality of public education.

—At the same time, Shanker and others say that teacher unions find themselves somewhat on the defensive. Since a ruling last June by the U.S. Supreme Court upholding a Minnesota law sanctioning tuition tax deductions for parents of private school children, Shanker has warned repeatedly that excessive teacher union militancy could erode support for public schools. If that happened, he has said, tuition tax credit laws — favored by President Reagan — might be passed by more states, and even Congress.

Kitchens Plus
BACK PACKS
 CLUB USA
 2 year warranty
 3rd & Humboldt
 537-4046 "The Department Store"

March of Dimes
 SAVES BABIES
 HELP FIGHT BIRTH DEFECTS

SAVE 20% DANKIN
 FALL LEOTARD & TIGHT WARDROBE SALE

20% off all styles & colors

GET INTO SHAPE THIS FALL WITH DANKIN COTTON BLEND, FREESTYLE™ TRIMSKIN™ AND PROFESSIONAL WEIGHT LEOTARDS. ALL AT 20% OFF. AVAILABLE IN SHADES OF FALL FROM SEPT. 3 TO 17, 1983.

"WE'RE MORE THAN JUST A JEAN STORE"

THE JEAN STATION

AGGIEVILLE
 MON - SAT THURS
 10 - 6 10 - 8:30

Betcha didn't know...
—TONIGHT—
WESTERN KANSAS NIGHT
 County Drinking Contest

VALUABLE COUPON

THE PIZZERIA

776-0004

FREE Thick Crust Double Cheese Soft Drinks

EXPIRES DEC. 15 VALID MON., TUES, WED. ONLY

WOK AWAY WITH A GOOD DEAL!

ONLY 9⁹⁵

INCLUDES: • wok
 • cover
 • chopsticks
 • cookbook
 • converter Ring

5 pc. 12" Round bottom wok set.

Acco Hardware

1205 Moro
 539-7761
 M.-Sat. 8-5:30 p.

Betcha didn't know...
"SCATBAND"
 appearing Thursday-Saturday

WHOOOPS!

They forgot to put in the seeds

Look no longer for the perfect grape. It's here! The California Thompson Seedless grape. Bite into them. Incredible and so indescribably delicious you have to try them!

59¢ lb.

Dutch Maid

IN PROGRESS!

RECORD SALE

PRICES FROM $2.99 — $4.99

ROCK	CLASSICAL	COUNTRY
Doobie Brothers	Mozart	Crystal Gayle
Steely Dan	Bach	Kenny Rogers
AC/DC	Haydn	Charlie Rich
Grateful Dead	Franz Schubert 5-Record Set only $4.99	Lynn Anderson
The Who	Baroque Masterpieces	Ray Price
Beatles	Great Violin Concertos	Ernest Tubbs
Judy Collins	Great Piano Concertos	Conway Twitty
Fonzie Favorites		Oak Ridge Boys
And Many More!

BRASS VOICES - Hit songs of the past three decades
 6-Record Set only $4.99!

This is only a partial listing, but selections are limited.
 Sale ends Sept. 18.

Varney's BOOK STORE

"In the heart of Aggieville"

PLUS: Jazz, Soul, Gospel & Easy Listening

OPEN FOR YOU
 9-9 Mon. - Sat.
 12-5 Sun.

USFL expansion draft begins; Overconfidence hurts team play

Six new teams join league

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Mark Buben, a defensive tackle with the Chicago Blitz, was selected by the Pittsburgh Maulers today as the first player in the United States Football League's draft to stock its six new teams.

Each of the new clubs — Pittsburgh, Houston, Oklahoma, San Antonio, Jacksonville and Memphis — was to take 24 players each from the 12 existing franchises.

Houston, picking second, took defensive end Brad Anae from the Philadelphia Stars.

Linemen dominated the first round, with Oklahoma picking defensive end Curtis Anderson from the Michigan Panthers, San Antonio choosing offensive tackle Tim Norman from the Blitz, Jacksonville taking defensive tackle Phil Dokes from Michigan, and Memphis selecting offensive tackle Greg Fairchild from the Panthers.

In the second round, when the new teams drafted in reverse order of the first round, they again shied away from picking any offensive backs or quarterbacks, with linemen occupying the first four choices.

Memphis opened by taking tackle Leo Biedermann from Oakland. Then, Jacksonville picked center Dave Okey from Arizona, San Antonio chose guard Rich Garza from Philadelphia, Oklahoma selected tight end Ron Wheeler from Oakland, Houston took defensive back Will Lewis from Denver, and Pittsburgh drafted wide receiver

Tom Donovan from Philadelphia.

"We want to try to build a strong defensive team," Pittsburgh Coach Joe Pendry said after the Maulers selected the 6-foot-3, 260-pound Buben from Tufts, who played in all 18 games with the Chicago Blitz in the USFL's inaugural season this year.

"We made a commitment by signing a corner (back) this past week in Jerry Holmes (of the New York Jets of the National Football League)," added Pendry, who was the offensive coordinator for the Philadelphia Stars. "Our next defensive need is in the line, and Mark Buben played on the best defensive line in the USFL last year."

"He can play either tackle or end, and he has NFL experience."

Buben, the Blitz' No. 5 lineman during the 1982 season, was with the NFL's New England Patriots from 1979-81, playing all 16 games his first and last years and spending 1980 on the injured reserve list. He also played four games with the NFL's Cleveland Browns in 1982, before joining the USFL this year.

The Houston Gamblers had the choice after Pittsburgh and took defensive end Brad Anae from Philadelphia.

The other first-round picks were: defensive end Curtis Anderson, by the Oklahoma Outlaws from the Michigan Panthers; offensive tackle Tim Norman, by the San Antonio Gunslingers from Chicago; defensive tackle Phil Dokes, by the Jacksonville Bulls from Michigan, and offensive tackle Greg Fairchild, by the Memphis Showboats from the Panthers.

Each of the 12 existing USFL franchises was able to protect 29 players from its regular 40-man rosters, plus the 10 members of their developmental squads. Each time a team lost a player, it was able to protect another player during the draft, scheduled for 24 rounds.

In the second round of the draft, the teams drafted in inverse order of the first round, with Memphis leading off by taking offensive tackle Leo Biedermann from Oakland.

The first quarterback was not selected until the sixth round, when Memphis, again first up, chose Mike Kelley from the Tampa Bay Bandits. Kelley, from Georgia Tech, saw considerable service last season after John Reaves and Jimmy Jordan, the Bandits' top two quarterbacks were injured. He completed 81 of 166 passes for 1,003 yards and four touchdowns with five interceptions.

Walter Easley, from West Virginia University, was the first running back picked, going to Pittsburgh at the start of the seventh round. Easley was picked up by the USFL's Oakland Invaders last season after being waived by the NFL's San Francisco 49ers in 1982. Then, the Invaders traded him to the Blitz, with whom he played in one regular season game, carrying seven times for 23 yards and one touchdown, and in one playoff game, in which he did not carry the ball.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — How long has it been since Kansas State lost a football game because of overconfidence?

The 28-20 setback to Long Beach State Saturday night which the Wildcats used to launch their 1983 season may have been due in part, suggests head coach Jim Dickey, to a feeling among the players that a cakewalk had been ordained.

The Wildcats went into the game with less enthusiasm "than we've had since I've been here," Dickey said Tuesday in the year's first Big Eight coaches teleconference.

"I'm not sure I know why," added Dickey, whose 6-5-1 mark last year was only the second winning season in 29 years at Kansas State. "Some of the coaches said they felt like the players really felt like this was a game we could win easily, which is very poor thinking. We're not in a position right now to beat anybody easily."

Practice intensifies for next game

By The Collegian Staff

After losing Saturday's football season-opener against California State University, Long Beach, K-State is preparing to get back on the winning track when they face the University of Kentucky Wildcats on Saturday in Lexington.

After finishing 0-10-1 in last year's competition, Kentucky, has begun a new season with a win.

"We know more about them. They have a lot of players returning, and

The lack of enthusiasm was obvious, Dickey said.

"Even when we did something good, I was the only one jumping up and down," he said. "Nobody else got excited about it. I felt bad for our players. They weren't smart enough to know that we've got to play hard every time we go out on the field. We had three or four guys making mistakes all the time. We didn't have any consistency, and to compound all that we played a pretty solid football team that had a good game plan."

The other Kansas entry in the Big Eight was still licking its wounds, too, after losing its season opener to Northern Illinois.

The Kansas Jayhawks and new Coach Mike Gottfried were especially concerned about the way the Huskies gouged big holes up the middle against their wide-tackle six defense. Asked if he feels the Jayhawks will improve in that phase of the game, Gottfried said, "If we don't, there are going to be some national records set here. A booster came up afterward and said, 'I'm waiting for you to change your defense,' and I told him he has 10 more weeks to wait."

"You don't change," Gottfried said. "You try to become better at what you do. That's what we're doing right now."

Kansas and Kansas State's losses to supposedly lesser teams naturally has some people wondering about the Big Eight's overall strength.

But not every team in the Big Eight which has seen action is soiled with defeat. Don't forget top-ranked Nebraska, conquerer of Penn State in the Kickoff Classic.

"The opener is always the most unpredictable game of the season," Husker Coach Tom Osborne said when asked about the Kansas and Kansas State losses. "I certainly wouldn't want to start making any judgments about the strength of the conference on the basis of two football games."

they already have a win under their belt. Our players must play better to win," Coach Jim Dickey said of the Kentucky Wildcats.

Randy Jenkins, Kentucky's returning quarterback, is a player that does not make many mistakes, Dickey added. The Cats must make Jenkins work harder for what the team gets.

K-State's injured from last Saturday's battle include Jeffery Hurd, out 6-8 weeks with a broken wrist; Mark Newton, bruised thigh; and Stu Peters with a foot injury.

"We hope Stu can bounce back and play some this week. He is mentally tough, and I'm sure he wants to play," Dickey said.

To compensate for injuries, Dickey plans to move players to other positions.

"We moved Bob Daniels to defensive end and found that he can play anywhere on the defense that we need him," he said. "Grady Newton will get some more playing time.

"He (Newton) made some mistakes in the game, but we hope he will get better once he gets the discipline and learns to stay at home (his position) and is sure that there is no threat of the play coming back his direction."

Dickey expressed pleasure with the results of Tuesday's practice. The team was hitting harder and the tempo picked up.

"We had a better practice this Tuesday than last. We needed to practice hard, and now we need to pick up the tempo for the rest of the week. We are going to have to work on eliminating the mistakes we made in Saturday night's game."

"They (players) have a lot of pride, and they know they need to get ready. We really won't know until Saturday. Their concentration is a lot better this week than it was last week at this time."

Presidents seek hold of NCAA decisions

By The College Press Service

The same group of college presidents that managed to impose tough new academic standards for athletes on the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has announced a drive to exert more control over all the NCAA's policy-making procedures.

A group of 27 college presidents — members of the American Council on Education's (ACE) Committee on Division I Intercollegiate Athletics — emerged from a meeting in Keystone, Colo. last week with plans to create a new NCAA group made up exclusively of campus presidents.

It is not the only recent challenge to the NCAA's administrative staff's authority. A group of some 30 NCAA member schools have sued to keep the NCAA from negotiating future television contracts for them. The case is pending. The enormous revenues generated by the contracts have been the major tools used by the NCAA to keep members in line.

The so-called Board of Presidents "will be concerned with issues of academic standards, financial matters and the general integrity of intercollegiate sports," said Bob Atwell, the ACE's acting president.

The proposed 36-member board would give the presidents direct control over solutions to the grade-fixing and recruiting scandals that have rocked college sports in recent years, Atwell says.

"At the present time," he contends, "it's difficult for presidents to participate in policy-making decisions (within the NCAA), particularly at the Division I level."

Although the new board's plans are still tentative, they could mean tougher grade standards and more control for individual schools over sports revenues.

The NCAA, on the other hand, says the proposed board is unnecessary, "since the structure is already in place for (the presidents) to do what they want to do," NCAA spokesman Dave Cawood said.

"The NCAA has been built on institutional control and (presidents) have always had the power to determine the voting delegate for their institutions," he explains.

But the ACE presidents maintain their delegates are usually athletic directors. Even if they're formally appointed by the presidents, Atwell says, they don't give the presidents a direct say in the policy-making.

"Plus, college presidents really don't have the time required to be a delegate, but they do want to participate in deciding major issues. The Board of Presidents would give them this opportunity."

The ACE, in the meantime, is hoping to have the full NCAA vote on its proposal at the NCAA convention in January.

The presidents, however, are apparently interested only in Division I sports.

Atwell said his committee has no plans to form a similar committee for the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics, which serves smaller schools around the country.

Aussies shoot for Cup

By The Associated Press

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Warren Jones has known so much failure that he won't let Australia II's amazing success blind him to the task that stands between his innovative boat and the America's Cup.

"People who don't understand the business might all of a sudden think there's this super rocket around or something like that; certainly not us," Jones, executive director of the Australia II syndicate, said Tuesday.

"We've been here too often to get lulled into a sense of false security. We just believe we have a very competitive 12-meter (yacht)."

Jones is a veteran of the last three Cup finals — all won by American yachts — in which his boats captured just one of 13 races.

But this summer, Australia II, with its radical-winged keel, was so impressive that it has been given perhaps the best chance any boat has had of winning the Cup the United States has held since the event began in 1851.

The white hull with the green and yellow stripes glided to 48 victories in 54 trial races. It destroyed Great Britain's Victory '83, the second-best foreign boat, in the best-of-seven foreign finals.

After losing the first race by just 13 seconds, John Bertrand skipped Australia II to wide victory margins of 4:43, 3:07, 2:20 and 3:19 over Victory '83.

Monday's clinching triumph moved Australia II into the final best-of-seven series that starts next Tuesday against Liberty, the American defender skipped by 1980 Cup champion Dennis Conner.

Judy Miller, freshman tennis recruit, is strictly business on the court.

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Competitive spirit drives freshman

By VIKKI WATSON
Staff Writer

She smiles little, talks even less and admits she has few friends.

But that's only on the court for K-State women's tennis player Judy Miller.

Miller, a freshman and the lone recruit for women's tennis coach Steve Webb this year, is normally the talkative, gregarious type found in the company of many people.

It's a Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde personality change for the 19-year-old Miller, who is all business when she takes the court.

"If I talk, I lose my concentration," Miller said. "It's probably because when I think 'I'm going to lose this next game because I talked to this girl,' I will lose the next game. It is certain."

If this is the case, then Miller probably left the talking to her opponents during her senior year at Great Bend High School as she compiled an impressive 36-2 record and finished fourth in state 6A singles competition.

Miller's tennis career began during her elementary school days when she joined a friend in doubles competition during a hometown city tournament. It was not an impressive showing, she said.

"We didn't do very well," she said. "We were still young and ended up playing the older girls."

Impressive or not, it was Miller's official start; the beginning that would lead to four straight years of letter-winning and four straight years of playing No. 1 singles at her high school.

The first two years on the squad were times of intense competition — and also times of few victories — for the young player.

"My freshman year was probably a joke," she laughed. "It was like being thrown to the dogs. I didn't start playing competitively until my junior year."

Miller was to finish 28-7 that junior year and soon came to realize that tennis was the sport for her.

Tennis was not, however, the only area in which she was to shine. A three-year letterman in basketball and track, the highly-athletic Miller found her priorities split between seasons.

"My junior year, I figured I could probably go further in tennis than anything else, (but) I played three sports and I never thought about specializing in a certain sport," said Miller, who was a member of a 6A state championship track squad and also a state champion basketball team.

"I thought about not playing basketball and not going out for track," she recalled. "I know I would have been better (in tennis) if I would have specialized my freshman year. But I never really considered not playing three sports. When I went out for a sport, I committed myself to that sport."

Total commitment to just tennis is what gives Webb high promise for Miller's future.

"It (competing in only one sport) will help her a lot," he said. "Her size and athletic ability helps her improve. She really has about the perfect tennis frame."

Concentrating solely on one sport hasn't been the only adjustment for Miller, who selected K-State over Bethany, Fort Hays State University and other various smaller schools. For the girl who "never wants to lose," Big Eight Conference tennis is a definite challenge.

"It (collegiate tennis) is a lot different in respect to your mind," Miller said. "I was so used to being No. 1, and now, you play one match and you might get blown away by your own teammate."

"But it's going to be good," she continued, "because I get just that much better, and I'll improve my game a lot."

Add the tougher competitive level with a new program and coach, and you have a totally different tennis life, Miller said.

"In high school, it was all just challenge matches to see who would play in the next tournament. Now they're a lot more organized. There's two coaches, and they're there to make sure you get better."

"I feel like there's more of a purpose to what I'm doing because now I either play good or I don't play," she said.

That's quite a load to handle, but then so is the whole new college scene to this pre-nursing major with a 3.8 high school grade point average. Typical freshmen problems are her worst enemies, she said.

"I love college, and I like everything I'm doing, but it's so much different," she said. "I think the hardest thing is to learn how to get my time straight."

"It's scary. I'm so clueless. I'm just now getting the hang of it."

Besides getting the hang of a new college life, she is getting the hang of a new type of tennis — one where she's found much-desired improvement.

"I was playing bad this summer, and I couldn't get up mentally," she said. "Now I'm real excited. I'm going to do my darndest to play good tennis. I'd like to peak like I did last year and play that well or better."

Webb sees much success in Miller's future career.

"I've seen a lot of improvement just from the first day of practice," he said. "I think she could finish third or fourth in the Big Eight her junior or senior year if she plays at the No. 2 or 3 position. She can be as good a player as K-State's had in the past four or five years."

Continued improvement runs right alongside Miller's personal philosophy: do your best in whatever your natural talents lie.

"Tennis is a big part of my life," she said. "If you have something you can do well, you need to use it. A lot of people don't."

"Use what you have now because something could happen tomorrow."

Intramural roundup

Intramural soccer play starts today with 25 teams signed up to play in five leagues — each league composed of five teams. Games will be played Mondays at 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. and Tuesday through Thursday at 5:30.

Intramural kickball for women will start on Thursday. Six teams are scheduled to compete in a double elimination tournament. Play will be on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays until the tournament is over.

The following flag football statistics are for the intramural week ending Sept. 6, but not including Tuesday evening play. Because of Labor Day weekend, teams regularly scheduled on Sunday and Monday have yet to start competition.

Tuesday's games

League: BLITZ

TEAM NAME
Tau Kappa Epsilon
Theta Xi
Pi Kappa Alpha
Alpha Gamma Rho
Phi Kappa Tau
Phi Gamma Delta

W-L
1-0
1-0
1-0
0-1
0-1
0-1

League: SPANI

Haymaker 9
Haymaker 6
Goodnow 5
Haymaker 5
Goodnow 1/basement
Edwards

W-L
1-0
1-0
1-0
0-1
0-1
0-1

League: COFFMAN

Sigma Nu
Alpha Kappa Lambda
Delta Upsilon
Beta Sigma Psi
Phi Kappa Theta
Acacia

W-L
1-0
1-0
1-0
0-1
0-1
0-1

League: BUTKUS

Sigma Alpha Epsilon
Delta Tau Delta
Beta Theta Pi
Sigma Phi Epsilon
Delta Sigma Phi
Farmhouse

League: BIG SKY JOE

Blitzkrieg
Smaabers
Spazmatika
Party Warriors
Riders
D.I.R.T.

League: FIELD GOAL

Phi Delta Theta
Sigma Chi
Alpha Tau Omega
Kappa Sigma
Pi Kappa Phi
Kappa Alpha Psi
Lambda Chi Alpha

Wednesday's games

League: SAFETY

Ford 8
KSU GDI
Alpha Chi Omega
Mixers
West Hall

League: TOUGH BACK

W-L
1-0
1-0
1-0
0-1
0-1
0-1

League: HIKE

White Lightning
WLBT
Eureka Rowdies
AFO
AVMA
Whiz Kids

League: TACKLE

7 Creek Crew
O.C. and G.T.
Wadgaf
Newman
Moore One
NSAE

League: CLIPPING

1-0 Uno De Kine
1-0 Punters
1-0 Moore 4
0-1 ROTC Rangers
0-1 Goodnow 4
0-1 I.I.E.

League: STIFF ARM

1-0 Field 7
1-0 Goodnow 3
1-0 Goodnow 5
0-1 Moore 9
0-1 Duprees
0-1 P.F. Goodnow

Thursday's games

League: CSOKKA

1-0 CR Dynasty
1-0 Rookies
1-0 Once Again
0-1 Goldwinners
0-1 Kicks
0-0 AICHE

League: CLARKE

1-0 Maddogs
1-0 Goodnow 2
1-0 Moore 5
0-1 Flashers
0-1 Oshdrakers
0-0 Moore 3

League: LYNN DICKEY

1-0 Clovia
1-0 Chi Omega
0-1 Goodnow 6--
0-1 Ford 12
0-0 Ford 4
0-1 Bad News Boyd

League: SPIKE

1-0 Haymaker 3
0-1 Haymaker 4
0-1 Marlatt 5
0-1 Marlatt 4
0-0 Haymaker 2
0-0 Moore 9

League: FUMBLE

1-0 ASCE
1-0 Alums
1-0 Runneth Overs
0-1 Smegmas
0-1 Cozmen

Eliminators

Goldwinners

Sunday's games

League: DROP KICK

0-1 Rat Patrol
0-1 Wadgaf
0-1 Mooshead Tavern
0-1 Brubb Independent
0-0 AVMA 85
0-0 ATO Pledge
0-1 Heroes

League: ALLEY OOP

0-0 Phi Delta Pledge
0-0 Cats
0-0 Juniors
0-0 Poondicks
0-0 Smith House
0-0 Penetrators

League: BUTTON HOOK

0-0 Reamers
0-0 Hulla
0-0 MP Express
0-0 Men Sweating
0-0 Pikes
0-0 Broncos

League: POST

0-0 Ford 3
0-0 Gator Haters
0-0 Hangovers
0-0 Putnam Hall
0-0 Not Yet Vets

League: FLAG

0-0 Goodnow 4
0-0 Moore 4
0-0 Haymaker Terrace
0-0 Haymaker 1
0-0 Moore 7
0-0 Moore 6

League: FOREARM

0-0 Alpha Xi Delta
0-0 Alpha Delta Pi
0-0 Kappa Kappa Gamma
0-0 West Hall
0-0 Kappa Alpha Theta
0-0 Ford 9

Monday's games

League: TOUCHDOWN

0-0 Football Team
0-0 NMSP
0-0 Squeaks
0-0 PGW
0-0 EMO Club
0-0 Sphinx

League: GOLD RUSH

0-0 Goodnow 6
0-0 Marlatt 1
0-0 Moore 2
0-0 Haymaker 7
0-0 Marlatt Terrace
0-0 Haymaker 8

League: GOAL LINE

0-0 Dead Fishes
0-0 TKE Independent
0-0 Lane Ducks
0-0 SAE II
0-0 Delta Pledge
0-0 Namensclacher

League: RED DOG

0-0 Delta Delta Delta
0-0 Ford Terrace
0-0 Pi Beta Phi
0-0 Kappa Delta
0-0 Smashing Smurthies
0-0 Lavender Menace

League: PREVENT

0-0 De Gooders
0-0 Maddogs
0-0 Outlaws
0-0 ECM
0-0 The Graduates
0-0 Cool and The Gang

League: CRUSH

0-0 Rebel Rousers
0-0 Kappa Sigma Upsilon
0-0 Haulie Buggahs
0-0 NSAE
0-0 Our Gang
0-0 P.E. Majors
0-0 Geocats

Cosell silent on racial slur

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Sportscaster Howard Cosell used an "unfortunate" word in calling the Washington Redskins' Alvin Garrett "that little monkey," but it was meant as a compliment and not as a racial slur, ABC said Tuesday.

A network statement issued by Roone Arledge, president of ABC News and Sports, stopped short of an apology demanded earlier by the Rev. Joseph Lowery of Atlanta, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Cosell, meanwhile, refused further comment beyond his earlier statement that whatever he said was an affectionate reference to Garrett's quickness. ABC said Cosell was in his office and not available for interviews but would address the matter on his evening radio show.

Arledge's statement said: "While the use of the word 'monkey' was an unfortunate one taken in the overall context of Howard Cosell's superlative and continuing record of promoting harmonious race relationships — a position that he maintained long before any other prominent broadcaster — it should be obvious to all that it was not meant as any kind of a slur, but on the contrary within in the framework of the sentence uttered was actually intended as an expression of affection."

Garrett said he was not offended by the remark, made during Monday night's broadcast of a National Football League game.

AT PIÑATA:

LUNCH WITH US!
99¢ to $1.80

Choose from 6 featured Lunch Specials
Changed Daily Mon.-Fri. 11-2

You Won't Pay Over $1.80!
(Drinks not included)

Piñata.

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11, Sun. 11-10
Bluemont and North Manhattan

539-3166

Manhattan Jewish Congregation and B'nai B'rith Hillel

Welcomes you to Rosh Hashanah services
Wednesday Evening 8:00 p.m., Sept. 7th
Thursday Morning 10:00 a.m., Sept. 8th
at the Manhattan Jewish Congregation
1509 Wreath Avenue

McCall's Shoes

A MANHATTAN TRADITION
SINCE 1961

Men's sport shoes
by Dexter®

It's time to get back to class... with the bottom line in men's fashion. Enjoy lightweight comfort with leather or suede uppers in three popular styles.

"Endeavor"

"Columbia"

• Visa
• MasterCard

313 Poyntz Downtown Manhattan

COLLEGE GRADUATES: EARN WHILE YOU PREPARE FOR AN OVERSEAS CAREER WITH THE CIA.

What Are You Looking For?

Is it to be banking, the brokerage business, the corporate life? Or are you thinking of following up your education in a career that's more stimulating for you, with a touch of overseas adventure... a career that puts you right in the middle of the most vital events taking place today. A career in intelligence operations does just that—and pays you well while it trains you for greater responsibilities.

What Will You Get?

The men and women chosen for this unique career will start at salaries that are competitive, and will have an excellent opportunity to reach senior management levels. Increased compensation is available during overseas service.

With the CIA you will receive one to two years of the most specialized and professional training available anywhere in preparation for an overseas assignment as an intelligence officer.

What Do You Need?

You must be a U.S. citizen with a four-year college degree. Academic or practical experience in foreign affairs is important. If you are interested in becoming an overseas intelligence officer, send your resume in confidence along with a brief statement of why you think you would like to work for the CIA. Include what makes you believe you are special.

Send resume and statement to:
Personnel Representative (MK)
P.O. Box 10748
Golden, Colorado 80401

Central Intelligence Agency

An equal opportunity employer

Rebel forces advance, Chad government says

By The Associated Press

N'DJAMENA, Chad — More than 3,000 Libyan-led rebels backed by tanks, armored cars and heavy artillery launched a new ground attack Tuesday on the isolated government garrison of Oum Chalouba, the government said.

The announcement said the attack was repulsed.

Western military intelligence sources expressed skepticism over the report and said that the military action around Oum Chalouba, a desert crossroads 50 miles beyond the French-held defensive perimeter on the 15th parallel, "must be regarded as insignificant."

The rebel "Transitional Government of National Unity" led by former President Goukouni Oueddei claims Oum Chalouba has been under rebel control for nearly a month.

It is the only government position inside the 200-mile-deep "no man's land" between French and Libyan forces. The commander of the French task force, Brig. Gen. Jean Poli, rejected demands from Habre last month that a French paratroop detachment with artillery and anti-tank weapons be deployed alongside Chadian troops at Oum Chalouba.

Reporters and photographers are barred from within 400 miles of the front and there were no independent accounts of the military situation.

One Western diplomat speculated that the Habre government was exaggerating the rebel attack on Oum Chalouba to gain a more active French role in the fighting.

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Oktoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

HEY K-STATERS—The 1983 KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race is coming. Independent teams welcome. Contact Lee (532-3424) or Keith (532-3657) for more information. Let's win! (8-12)

STUDENT DIETETIC Association is having the KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. (8-12)

Justin Lounge. Come get acquainted. (12-13)

ATTENTION 02

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere International Tours, 776-4756. (11)

WHEN IT'S party time, call D.J. Dave Guthals, 539-7512. Last music selection. Top quality equipment. Lots and lots of experience. 539-7512. (8-13)

HEY K-STATERS—Don't miss out on the fun of the KSU-WSU-KU Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. (8-12)

REGENCY LEARNING and Childcare Center, 1811 Browning has a few openings for morning and afternoon preschool. All lesson plans are developed and taught by experienced teachers with degrees in Early Childhood Education. If necessary we will provide transportation for your child to preschool. For more information call 776-4444, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. or 776-9732 after 5:30 p.m. and weekends, or stop by the center for a visit and a tour. (10-14)

ADVENTURE, TRAVEL—Responsible position for management trainee. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (12)

K-LAIRES, KSU's square dancing club, will be accepting new members September 11 and September 18. Inexperienced and experienced dancers welcome, no partners required to join. Join us upstairs in the Union's K.S.U. Ballrooms, Sunday nights at 7:00 p.m. (12-14)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, period clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (8/11)

GARAGE—1131 Valtier, one block from campus. $25 for half, $40 for all per month. Call 776-5562 evenings. (8-12)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid. $210/month, 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0566. (11-14)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, new paint, new tires, excellent condition, 37,000 miles. $5,500 or best offer. Call 776-0131. (12-16)

1971 KARMAN Ghia. Runs well. Call 537-7495. (10-12)

1967 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass, four-door, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning. Runs good. Call 1-485-2648. (10-14)

1977 DATSUN B210 Hatchback Deluxe. Low miles, clean, automatic transmission. Almost new tires. $2,500. Call 539-5845. (12-16)

1971 CORVETTE convertible, 68,700 miles. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

1971 MG convertible, $2,300. Call 776-3363. (12-14)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, request greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paperbacks, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

SCHWINN WORLD Sport 10-speed bike. Good condition, $100. Call 539-8730. (10-12)

ABSOLUTELY SUPER home for professors. Eugene Field. Five bedrooms on cul-de-sac. Nadine Green, GSA Realty, 537-7466. (11-12)

MENS SILVER Schwinn Letour ten-speed bike 21-inch frame, excellent condition. Call 776-3118. (11-13)

16 FOOT Ebko tunnel hull ski boat, 80 HP Merc, excellent condition, $2850. 2419 Anderson, 539-1945. (12-13)

LOST 14

BROWN PLAID English MG style hat. Reward! Please call 537-9231 evenings. (12-14)

NOTICES 15

GET PSYCHED for the Kaw River Canoe Race, September 10-11. More information contact Keith, 532-3657 or Lee, 532-3425. (9-12)

SKYDIVE

KSU Parachute Club will be meeting in U206 at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 8. Be there to discuss first jump class and weekend jumping. Airborne!!!

SEWING MACHINES—All makes professionally repaired. Several brands of new machines. 2011 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-8919. (12-29)

PERSONAL 16

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, Lisa. When you least expect it, expect it. From Second Floor Guys. (12)

D.H.W.: HAPPY 3rd, Sweetheart! I love you. S.J.P. (12)

#2 SCOTT Fullage—Have you ever been Casually Encountered? Good luck Saturday in Kentucky. Stop by next time you do your laundry. From someone who likes to see you dressed well. (12)

MEN OF Mariat 2: You're the best big brothers we could have asked for! Looking forward to a fun year—Your West 3 Sisters. (12)

PI KAPPA Phi: What's this Roomer going around? (12)

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, John K! I promise not to tell anyone you're 19. ILY A.R.C. (12)

FLINGIN' FOSTER—Sherry, don't be flingin' it on legs and getting it on shorts, just be swangin' it. Love, the fling dodgers, Kim, Kim, and Teresa. (12)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

THREE NON-SMOKING roommates needed to share a spacious, furnished, three-story house. Furnished, washer/dryer. Call 776-0281. (8-12)

NEEDED—ONE male roommate. Private room, can be furnished. Water, trash paid. Off-street parking. Deposit needed $130 negotiable. 537-4753. (8-12)

ONE OR two roommates needed to fill three-bedroom house, three blocks from campus, five from Aggieville. Water, trash paid. Fireplace, two-car garage, private pool. $175 for one or $240 for two. Deposit required 537-4753. (8-12)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL. Own room, full, spring and summer. $135/month, 1320 Laramie. 537-3645. (8-12)

WANTED NON-SMOKING female roommate. $175/month, all utilities paid. Call 539-5628. (8-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share house with three other girls. Private room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 537-0708. (9-12)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share nice duplex, own bedroom. Call 776-1530 after 6:00 p.m. or 1-738-2623 during weekend. (9-14)

ROOMMATE STUDIOUS male to share three-bedroom house. Will have private bedroom—$100/month rent. Call 539-6711. (8-12)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share one-bedroom apartment six blocks from campus. $105/month plus utilities. Call 539-7573. (9-14)

ROOMMATE TO share nice three-bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100/month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (10-14)

RESPONSIBLE FEMALE roommate. Cozy three-bedroom house. $117, one-third utilities. 537-4973, after 5:00 p.m. keep trying. (10-14)

ONE MALE roommate to share nice, furnished, one-bedroom apartment. $105, plus one-half utilities. Deposit needed. One block from campus. Call 776-9665 after 8:00 p.m. (11-14)

LIBERAL ROOMMATE wanted to share nice furnished apartment with two people. $131.66/month plus utilities. 539-3197. (11-15)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment with good location. Private room, one-half rent and utilities. 776-0154. (11-13)

NON-SMOKING ROOMMATE to share apartment. Close to campus, washer/dryer, deck, patio. BBO, $117.50. Call 539-1658. (12-14)

FEMALE—ONE block from campus, Campus East Apartments. Furnished, pool, beautiful location. Low utilities. Call 776-7045. (12-14)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL, graduate roommate wanted. Private bedroom, washer and dryer, near campus. $130/month plus one-third utilities. Call 776-2487 after 5:00 p.m. (12-14)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

IN TODAY'S ADVENTURE

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Art professor employs natural elements in her creations

By LYNN VONDER HEIDE
Collegian Reporter

Judy Love makes her own baskets, decorative items and paper, but she doesn't use a kit. Instead, she makes them from plants.

"For anything you want to make, the plant resources are out there," said Love, assistant professor of art. "All you have to do is gather them."

Love gathers a variety of plants and finds uses for them. She constructed a two-foot high basket from rose bushes and iris leaves. Pine needles, cattails and Virginia creeper have been transformed into miscellaneous decorative items by Love.

"I really like things that come from nature," Love said. "It's not necessary to buy materials when nature is right in front of you. In fact, I got the Virginia creeper when they were pulling it off the buildings on campus," she said.

Love even makes her own paper. "Yucca is a strong, fibrous plant that works well for paper, but you can use any fibrous plant, like iris leaves," she said.

To make paper, Love cuts yucca plants into pieces and boils them in water to which lye has been added. She then blends the yucca pieces in a kitchen blender in order to break down the fiber.

"It's the same principle as the paper you write on; all paper is essentially plant fiber that has been broken down and reshaped and rebonded," Love said.

To reshape and rebond the yucca fiber, Love stirs it in a tub of water and, as the yucca pulp floats to the top, catches it in a screen that is attached to a square frame. The frame serves as a paper press, and the pressed yucca is laid on a blanket to dry. The drying process may take several days, depending on the humidity in the air. The higher the humidity, the longer the drying process.

The finished product looks like parchment, but to Love, it's better. "It doesn't have the clay content that regular paper has," she said. Clay is added to paper in small amounts during manufacturing to give it a shiny, slick white surface, Love said.

Love said the paper is art in itself. "Sometimes I put sticks and stones on it, but usually I just hang it on the wall," she said. "I am interested in its aesthetic look," Love said. "Most of the things I make are art because of their textures, not because they're pretty."

Paper, as art, changes because it fades with exposure to light, she said.

She said she began researching plants after she suffered food poisoning 15 years ago.

"I was afraid to eat anything, so I started studying what chemicals are in different plants."

Love said she became curious about fabric dyes because she teaches a spinning class.

"Dyes are made by cooking down plants, so I started making my own from marigolds."

Studying art history for 20 years has given Love an interest in primitive cultures and knowledge of primitive artifacts.

Ten years ago, Love's research led her to making paper. Many Indian and oriental cultures made their own paper and dyes from plants, Love said. The leaves of mulberry trees and parts of rice plants were used in China for making paper. Many cultures still make their own paper and dyes, she said.

Love doesn't always copy what other cultures have done. She tells her students to bring to class an idea of some item they need.

"We'll find a way to make it out of something in nature," Love said. "There's enough material in nature to make anything."

Judy Love, assistant professor of art, makes decorative items and paper from plants.

Staff/Andy Schrock

State records safest-ever Labor Day on roads

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Kansas recorded its first highway fatality-free Labor Day holiday weekend since the state began keeping such records in 1951, and officials said it probably was a combination of luck, stricter enforcement of the speed limit and more attentive driving by motorists.

Until this weekend, Kansas has experienced as many as 16 traffic deaths over a Labor Day weekend, and the state record for a holiday weekend was the 30 fatalities recorded in Christmas 1979.

"You can generally credit enforcement, the 55-mph speed limit and careful driving when you achieve something like this," said Russell Willbourn, accident analyst in the office of traffic safety of the Transportation Department.

"It's hard to tell. Maybe people are listening to the media and being more careful," added Willbourn. "We have just as much traffic now, so maybe drivers are being more attentive. Also, we had good weather this weekend, and it seemed like there were more Highway Patrol troopers out."

Col. David Hornbaker, superintendent of the Kansas Highway Patrol, did not return a telephone call, so his analysis was not available.

Lisa Callahan, a spokeswoman for the Kansas Turnpike Authority, said there were only five accidents — none with any deaths — on the turnpike although about 155,000 vehicles used the 234-mile turnpike from the Oklahoma border to Kansas City during the 72-hour holiday period.

"For a holiday weekend, that's amazing," she said. "For a regular weekend, that's exceptionally low."

On a normal weekend, holiday or otherwise, Callahan said, the turnpike will experience 10 to 20 accidents.

She said an additional factor might have been free coffee distributed to drivers who wanted it at the restaurants along the turnpike.

"We're always trying to encourage our drivers to stop, stretch and rest a little more," she said.

Seven people died on Kansas highways during the Labor Day weekend of 1982 and three in 1981.

During the past 10 years, the number of fatalities on Labor Day weekend averaged 8.1 and in the decade prior to that, they averaged 8.7.

The record 16 fatalities was set in 1967 and was tied in 1976.

There also were 14 fatalities each for that holiday weekend in 1964 and 1978.

The record 30 deaths in 1979 came during a 102-hour Christmas holiday weekend.

Kitchens Plus
FOR LADIES ONLY
CALENDARS
Chippendale, Up Front
and Looking Good
3rd & Humboldt
537-4046 "The Department Store"

PUTT PUTT GOLF
TAKE THAT "CUTE CHICK"
ON AN AFTERNOON DATE
PLAY PUTT PUTT GOLF
PUTT PUTT GOLF

Pi Kappa Phi Little Sister Rush

Anyone interested is welcome to attend our first rush party, Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. at 1716 Fairchild. Call 776-3708 or 539-5768 if you need transportation.

"UPC... We do it right!"

UPCOMING EVENTS

Wednesday, Sept. 7

Kaleidoscope—Eating Raoul:
FH 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 8

Kaleidoscope—Eating Raoul:
LT 3:30, FH 7:30 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 9

Feature Films—The Verdict:
FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 10

Kaleidoscope—The Great Escape:
FH 2 p.m.
Feature Films—The Verdict:
FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 11

Kaleidoscope—The Great Escape:
FH 2 & 7 p.m.
Special Events—26th Annual Activities Carnival: Union 5-8 p.m.

Monday, Sept. 12

Arts—Oriental Ceramics by Sue Hu:
Union 2nd Floor Showcase thru Sept. 23.
Arts—"Photographs by Gordon Parks" from the KSU Permanent Collection: Union Art Gallery thru Sept. 30.

Tuesday, Sept. 13

Rappelling info meeting and sign up: Union Rm. 213 7 p.m.

Reminder

Ronnie Millsap tickets available by mail.
Send check or money order ($10, $9.50, $9 tickets) to:
UPC Special Events
Parents' Weekend 1983
P.O. Box 193
Manhattan, KS 66502

UPC Special Events Presents
WE'VE GOT IT HERE!

k-state union
special events

Over 100 clubs and organizations will be represented.

ROCK CLIMBING & RAPPELLING

Sept. 24 & 25
Fall River, KS

Information meeting
and sign up:
Tuesday, Sept. 13
7:00 p.m.
Union Room 213

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

Frank Gavin has one last chance to do something right.

THE VERDICT

R

1982 TWENTIETH CENTURY FOX

Friday and Saturday
September 9 & 10
7 & 9:30 p.m.
Forum Hall $1.50

k-state union
upc feature films

"Outrageous...Wickedly Funny."
—Jack Kroll, Newsweek

Wednesday, Sept. 7 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thursday, Sept. 8 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
All shows $1.50

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

WINFIELD BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

September 17 & 18, 1983

$37

Escape with UPC Travel Committee to Winfield Fairgrounds for the Bluegrass Festival. Your cost of $37.00 includes transportation, two day ticket to the festival, and camping space. Sign up continues through tomorrow, Sept. 8 in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union.

k-state union
upc travel

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Sat., Sept. 10 2 p.m.
Sun., Sept. 11 2 & 7 p.m.
Forum Hall $1.50

THE GREAT ESCAPE is the incredible, true story of 76 Allied airmen, who in 1945 escaped from Germany's most infamous maximum-security P.O.W. camp. It is a tense adventure story known as one of the greatest war films ever made.

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

k-state union
program council

All star
Mike Wallace will be one of the keys if the Wildcats are to have a good season.
Sports, page 8

Questions arise as Carlin's early nod goes to presidential hopeful Glenn

By NANCY MALIR
Staff Writer

Gov. John Carlin's endorsement Aug. 14 of presidential candidate John Glenn — the first by any governor outside of Glenn's native Ohio — has caused much speculation about the governor's political ambitions.

"The obvious answer is the bandwagon effect," said Merlin Gustafson, associate professor of political science.

"Carlin has started creating a political bandwagon for others to get on. If Glenn makes it to the presidency, Carlin will probably receive a political reward," he said.

Another reason Carlin might have publicized his support for Glenn, Gustafson said, is that Glenn's political philosophy is closer to Carlin's than Walter Mondale's, another democratic contender.

Still a third explanation given by Gustafson is that Carlin may just like Glenn.

"As I see it, Carlin is interested in jumping on the bandwagon and being an early supporter of Glenn's. Carlin would obviously deny that," he said.

Gustafson said he does not know what "reward" Carlin is seeking.

State and local political leaders are hesitant to speculate about what Carlin's motives might be, though several agree with Gustafson that political attention was sought by the governor.

"I don't know what's to be gained for Kansas by this announcement," said Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden.

"He received national recognition by being the first governor out of Glenn's home state to endorse him. It's possible he could be seeking publicity for the national convention."

Hayden said he recalls that Carlin was one of the first politicians to endorse former President Carter, and that that experience wasn't positive for Carlin.

As for whether Hayden believes Carlin's endorsement points toward personal political gains, Hayden said, "If there's no benefit for Kansas, what else would there be?"

Ross Doyen, senate president, said Carlin's statement had stirred up "quite a controversy in the Democratic Party," but that he hadn't been in touch with the governor to know what his reasons for making the announcement were.

Rep. Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, used an analogy similar to the "bandwagon theory" when he said, "Perhaps Carlin wants to be closer to the front of the Glenn train rather than being on the overcrowded Mondale train. Those toward the front are more remembered in a successful political campaign."

Knopp also said that the process of making endorsements and supporting candidates is part of the political process.

On the local level, Ruth Schrum, Riley County Chairman of the Democratic Party, said she believed the endorsement was Carlin's own personal decision. She declined to make any speculations, saying, "I don't have that privileged information."

Peacekeeping forces advance on Lebanon

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT — U.S. and French aircraft carriers sent warplanes roaring over Lebanon for the first time Wednesday and American Marines fired back at Moslem militiamen shelling their positions beside the Beirut airport.

One Marine was wounded. Informal sources said three French soldiers in the peacekeeping force were killed and four were wounded. On Tuesday, two Marines were killed and three Marines and six Italian soldiers were wounded by rocket and mortar fire.

The U.S., French and Italian battle fleets moved warships closer to shore to support the multinational peacekeeping force caught in the fierce fighting between Christian and Druse militias.

A Marine spokesman said the Marine was wounded as shells crashed into the airport zone from Druse-controlled areas in the mountains overlooking Beirut.

The French casualties brought a warning from French Defense Minister Charles Hernu that his jet fighters would destroy the Druse artillery batteries if they did not stop firing at the peacekeeping forces.

Sources in the Lebanese government who asked not to be named said contacts were under way in Syria to try to bring about a cease-fire. The Syrians have been backing the Druse.

Administration suspends tenured professor

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

Looking at Ben Mahaffey's resume, you get the impression that the man is a top-notch academician.

An associate professor of forestry, he was awarded the 1980 Outstanding Faculty Award from K-State's Natural Resource Management Club; given the 1980 Fellow Award from the Association of Interpretive Naturalists, a professional organization for natural resources management professionals; and the 1981 Regional Meritorious Service Award for AIN's southwest region.

But Mahaffey was notified Aug. 18 that he had been recommended for dismissal and suspended from University duties, effective Sept. 1. He is the first tenured faculty member since the University adopted the American Association of University Professors' tenure guidelines in 1947 to be fired and possibly the first in the University's 120-year history.

According to a letter Mahaffey received, which was signed by several University officials, his dismissal recommendation is based on "professional incompetence." Specific allegations against Mahaffey, as outlined in his dismissal letter, include:

"(1) A history of student complaints of intimidation, unfair grading practices and a sexist attitude.

"(2) Your creation of a classroom environment that reduced interest in course offerings and departmental programs.

"(3) Your unproductive and uncooperative relationships with Forestry Department personnel and administration."

The letter added, "Your performance in the areas described above has reduced the ability of the Kansas State University Department of Forestry to offer quality educational programs. Your relationship with many of your students has severely reduced the effectiveness of your teaching."

The letter was signed by Jay Schultz, head of the Department of Forestry; David Mugler, assistant dean of instruction in the College of Agriculture; John Dunbar, dean of the agriculture college, and Owen Koepp, provost.

Mahaffey has appealed the firing to a special Faculty Senate committee, but because this is the first firing of its kind at K-State, hearing procedures are uncertain. As outlined in the faculty handbook, Mahaffey will face a six-member committee of tenured faculty members, none of whom can be on the University's administrative staff.

"The function of this committee shall be to receive evidence at the hearing, to make written findings of fact and to recommend to the President of the University, for transmittal to the Board of Regents, action concerning the proposed dismissal," the handbook states. Other basic hearing procedures are absent from the handbook and undetermined at this time.

President Duane Acker can reject or accept the committee's decision. If he accepts the decision, it must then be accepted by the regents.

"I was surprised," Mahaffey said, "especially of the charge. The charge was professional incompetence which is ludicrous."

"The head of the department told me that my subject matter knowledge was not in question and that he did not initiate the action."

"He (Mahaffey) asked me if I initiated it. No, I didn't initiate the action," Schultz said. "The problem is that's the wrong question. The action was decided on and signed by myself, the associate dean of instruction, the dean and the provost."

"I did not initiate it in response to an incident. I reviewed the history of the matter and concurred with the decision. I'm convinced I'm right."

When asked about Mahaffey's suspension, Mugler said he agreed with the decision but could not discuss the matter. Koepp also refused to comment on the specifics of the case but verified his approval. "I signed the letter," he said.

"It is a personnel matter and I would never discuss personnel matters," Koepp said.

Mahaffey is a man with the slight build of a runner's body, which he does every other day. This would have been his twelfth year of teaching at K-State and he was set to return to the classroom this fall.

Even though the University had put off assigning his salary until mid-August, he claimed, he was ready to return to teaching. University salaries are usually determined in the spring.

Then on Aug. 18 he was presented with his dismissal papers and was given until Sept. 1 to be out of his office.

"I'm not incompetent. My students, they don't all love me, but the ones who are here to learn respect me. I know what's going on out there (in the business world)," he said.

A self-proclaimed free spirit — "that's what the University is for" — Mahaffey said he does not bow down to "political cronyism."

"I'm not obsequious," he said. As the free spirit who doesn't bend to pressures, Mahaffey disputed the charges against him.

"I don't know what a sexist remark is. Everything said with gender is probably sexist."

Every class has its own personali-

Staff/Jeff Taylor

The first tenured professor in University history to be fired, Ben Mahaffey, associate professor of forestry, received his dismissal papers Aug. 18. He is appealing the decision to a Faculty Senate special committee.

ty made up of different students, he said, and each personality has to be considered when handing out grades. A class cannot be measured by a set rule.

"I am not an easy grader. I only give 15 to 20 percent A's in each class. And I'm not intimidating. I'm subjective...I'm the judge. If it's C work then they'll get a C and if they do A work then they'll get an A," he said.

But Mahaffey admitted his expectations for each class may be too great. But how will students know what high standards are in the working world, he asked, if they are not exposed to them in college.

"A student will conform to the expectations of his professor," Mahaffey said. "Where nothing is required, nothing is given."

"I may be a pain in the neck but the charge of professional incompetence is ludicrous."

Mahaffey's firing appears to be the end of what one Faculty Senate Grievance Committee report called "guerilla warfare" within the department. That warfare has waged for the past five years.

In the five years, Mahaffey has filed three grievances with the Faculty Senate Grievance Board and one civil suit naming the regents, President Acker, Koepp and Thomas Warner, associate professor of forestry, among others, as defendants. Ten defendants were named in the suit.

"You will find Dr. Mahaffey's viewpoints and the other faculty members' views at 180 degrees. We're exactly opposite," said Warner, chairman of the Natural Resource Management Curriculum Committee.

Mahaffey filed his first grievance in the spring of 1979 against Mugler, acting dean of the agriculture college at the time, and Harold Gallaher, then head of the forestry department, on grounds of an unfair faculty evaluation for the 1978-79 school year and a zero percent merit salary increase.

"Zero merit is very, very severe for this campus," Mahaffey said. "Basically the reason I got zero merit is because I had some student complaints and the 'Pepsi Machine' had been written. They felt

I had been too aggressive and they had to punish me that way."

The "Pepsi Machine" was a student paper written that year for Mahaffey's management class. The paper detailed and criticized the process forestry department administrators took to obtain a Pepsi machine for its Call Hall offices.

Ruling against Mahaffey, the grievance board did not recommend an evaluation change or a change in merit pay.

Mahaffey appealed the decision at a second grievance board appearance in December 1980 and filed other grievances. Six allegations were contained in that grievance, of which Mahaffey won two.

Mahaffey's duties had been reduced from a 12-month contract to a nine-month contract and he protested it had been done unfairly. The committee agreed, saying a letter informing him why he had been replaced as teaching program leader and chairman of the Natural Resources Management Curriculum Committee was "long overdue."

A written job description for Mahaffey was recommended by the committee as well as returning him to a 12-month appointment through 1982. The committee also recommended a return to a nine-month contract if he didn't have research support.

Two "threatening letters," Mahaffey contended in the hearing, had been placed in his personnel file after the previous grievance hearing by Gallaher and should be removed. One letter was titled a "formal reprimand" and alleged Mahaffey took inappropriate actions toward students and faculty.

"Any further action of this kind on your part will leave me with one alternative — recommending your dismissal. A copy of this reprimand is being placed in your personnel file," Gallaher wrote in that letter.

The committee agreed the letters should be pulled.

A third grievance was filed in March 1981 on grounds of another unfair faculty evaluation for 1980 and another zero percent merit pay increase. The latter charge was withdrawn, according to the committee.

Continued on page 2.

Inside

APPROXIMATELY 165 K-State administrators, faculty and staff attended the President's Seminar yesterday afternoon at the Manhattan Holiday Inn. See page 5.

THREE MANHATTAN RESIDENTS and three Greek house representatives are members of a committee charged with finding a solution to parking problems in the Fairchild Avenue area. See page 7.

FORMER RESIDENTS of the Maitland E. Smith House are still battling to prevent the University from selling the building. David Boyd, temporary instructor of extension energy and former Smith resident, is organizing a Smith alumni association to press for continued operation of the house. See page 10.

State educators seek competency test extension

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The state Board of Education Wednesday recommended to a legislative study committee that the state's competency testing program be resumed in 1985 and be continued for at least a five-year period in order to build continuity in the compilation of data from it.

The board's proposal was submitted to the interim Education Committee by Robert J. Clemons, a board member from Independence.

"It is our feeling that the assessment program should be for a longer period of time than two years," Clemons told the committee.

"It would be our recommendation that the program be extended for a minimum of five years. This would be much more meaningful for planning at the local and state levels."

Clemons' appearance followed a presentation by John P. Poggio of the University of Kansas School of Education, who reported on a survey of local boards of education, teachers and school administrators who were asked their opinions on the testing program, first initiated by the legislature in 1979.

Under the program, Kansas students in grades 2, 4, 6, 8 and 11 were tested the past four years to determine their levels of learning in reading and mathematics. There will be no testing in 1984, and the interim committee is charged with recommending whether the program should be resumed in 1985.

Poggio said there is growing support for the program, and Clemons said the state board regards it as a valuable tool to determine the quality of public education in Kansas.

State Sen. Don Montgomery, R-Sabetha, noting that Poggio's survey indicated most teachers and administrators do not see the tests as a reflection of the quality of a school district's educational program, told Clemons:

"If we show the public the results of this survey and tell them we're going to spend many, many dollars to continue this program, they're going to think we're nuts."

Replied Clemons: "I think there is some built-in resistance because of the fear it is going to show teachers and administrators up as not doing their job. But I also think the people of the state of Kansas would question why you didn't approve funds for this testing program when the national report says we've got to improve the educational system and this testing program is one of the tools to do that."

Rep. Bill Reardon, D-Kansas City, agreed with Clemons.

"I don't care what the teachers and the principals and the superintendents think," Reardon said. "The real question is 'Have the tests improved the educational skills of the children of Kansas?' and if they have, then let's continue it."

Reardon said opposition from school people has greatly diminished since the legislature first mandated the testing program.

Clemons said the state Board of Education wants the program continued just as it was, but expanded to cover at least a five-year period.

He said publicity about the test results each year is "a plus for local boards of education and also for the parents of the students.... This is a focal point from which local school districts can and must make decisions about their educational programs."

Poggio said results of his survey, taken last April, indicated growing support for the program.

He said a major benefit of the program is its ability to identify "risk" children who the tests show are falling behind and need extra help.

In response to the KU poll, most board members, teachers and administrators said they believe the testing program is beneficial overall to Kansas. Positive responses ranged from 78 percent from local school board members to 55 percent from principals, with 61 percent of both teachers and superintendents saying they think the program is beneficial.

However, when they were asked if the program was an "important indicator" in how effective their school districts' instructional system was, only half the school board members said yes, and just 26 percent of the principals, 27 percent of the teachers and 30 percent of the superintendents agreed.

Also appearing before the committee was Joe McFarland of the Board of Regents' staff, who gave the regents' response to the National Commission on Excellence in Education report, "A Nation At Risk."

McFarland said the regents last February recommended tougher high school graduation requirements nearly identical to those of the national report, before it came out.

He also said the regents are sticking by their "open admissions" policy which it reaffirmed last year following a study. That conflicts with the national report which called for tougher entrance requirements at public universities.

And, McFarland said the regents adopted two years ago recommendations for improved teacher education, another suggestion of the national report.

Professor suspended

Continued from page 1.

mittee's report, by Mahaffey after being informed that he had been granted a merit increase.

Mahaffey won this round when the committee recommended certain poor ratings be removed from his evaluations and any merit pay raises based on that information be recalculated. The board also recommended that certain evaluation categories be clarified and the department should maintain the rights of any faculty member filing a grievance.

Because he felt his reputation had been damaged and this would hurt him if he was to continue in natural resource management education, Mahaffey filed the civil suit in September 1981. Mahaffey said he filed the suit for infringement upon his constitutional rights of freedom of speech and due process, a breach of contract and outrageous behavior within the department.

After almost two years of waiting, District Judge Patrick Kelly ruled against Mahaffey on the constitutional charges and refused to hear the other two charges because of a lack of jurisdiction.

Throughout the five years of controversy, Mahaffey said only once did anyone try to resolve the differences. Koeppe did call him once and asked how the situation could be resolved, Mahaffey said, but then failed to contact him again after hearing his requests.

"They've used the bit, the whip and the spur for five years," Mahaffey said.

But Schultz and Warner contend every effort has been made to resolve the dispute.

Schultz, who has been head of the forestry department for more than a year after arriving from Stephen F. Austin University, said he accepted the position knowing full well of the departmental discord involving Mahaffey. As long as he has been here, he said, there has been every chance to resolve the dispute.

"My feeling is the opportunity has always been there for a positive working relationship to be developed. As I look back at the record there have been many attempts to resolve the situation," Schultz said, adding those attempts have surfaced in normal working conditions.

"I believe every attempt that could be made was made," Warner said about resolving the conflict. "I've done everything I can to help that man. I take my position — as little as it may be — very seriously."

Warner is in his last semester of teaching at K-State and will become head of the horticulture-forestry department at South Dakota State University Jan. 1, 1984. His decision to take the job was twofold.

"First of all, I feel I was forced from this institution because of the presence of Dr. Mahaffey in this department. Secondly, it did look like a good opportunity and it would be a good advancement," Warner said. "The two just coincided."

Warner will be the first to admit Mahaffey is talented, but the five-year conflict has taken its toll on the department, with the departmental conflict often entering the classroom.

"The students are fed up with the mess. They're paying money to get good courses," he said.

Mahaffey admitted using his personal departmental problems as examples in his park management classes.

"Park administration is park administration and I don't believe that's an appropriate place (for Mahaffey) to go in and say 'they're out to get me,'" Warner said.

"I have not seen evidence in the time I've been here of administration out to get Dr. Mahaffey," Schultz said.

Because a tenured professor has never been fired before, the guidelines for establishing the Faculty Senate committee are vague. An ad hoc committee of three faculty members has been established to set up the hearing's guidelines, said Richard Gallagher, professor of electrical engineering and president of Faculty Senate.

The committee will consider guidelines recommended by the American Association of University Professors and recommend them to Faculty Senate, which will rule on the guidelines in its October meeting. After that a mutually acceptable date will have to be established to hold the hearing.

March of Dimes
SAVES BABIES

HELP FIGHT BIRTH DEFECTS

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student office.

JERRY LINTON is showing recent paintings through Sept. 14 in the Diebler Gallery, West Stadium. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for regular registration for the administration of the LSAT is Oct. 1.

ALL PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for registration for the mock LSAT is 4:45 p.m. Friday in the dean's office, Eisenhower Hall.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the pre-professional skills test required for admission to all teacher education programs at all regents institutions is Sept. 10 in Holton 204. The test will be given Sept. 24.

KANSAS STATE SAILING CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 208.

KSU PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 206.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet from 10:30 a.m. to noon in Union 206 to prepare for the LSAT.

ALL POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJORS AND STUDENTS meet at 3:30 p.m. in Union 207.

FOOD SCIENCE COLLOQUIUM meets at 4 p.m. in Justin 149. Two new faculty members will discuss their research interests.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION meets at 6:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

AMERICAN NUCLEAR SOCIETY meets at 7 p.m. in Ward 135 for a membership information meeting.

KSU HORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Waters 137.

SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL JOURNALISTS-SIGMA DELTA CHI OFFICERS meet at 10:30 a.m. in the JMC library, Kedzie Hall.

TODAY

PI TAU SIGMA meets at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152.

Manhattan Civic Theatre presents
Last of the Red Hot Lovers
Sept. 9, 10, 16, 17, 23, 24
8:00 p.m.
For tickets call 776-6591

Today's fashions

Best Blue Jean Store in town
Best Prices in Town

Today's fashions

1207 Laramie St.

Fashion Eyes
Optical Boutique

Prescriptions filled with Highest Quality Optical Lenses

Economically Priced Fashionable Frames

Photochromics—Fashion Tints
Emergency Repairs

410 Poyntz 776-6255
Downtown Manhattan

Pi Kappa Phi Little Sister Rush

Anyone interested is welcome to attend our first rush party, Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. at 1716 Fairchild. Call 776-3708 or 539-5768 if you need transportation.

The Donut Hole

Missing your Mom's homemade cookies? The Donut Hole has the best homemade cookies around!

11th and Moro Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Fri.—24 hours
Sat. til 6 p.m.

THE YEAR of the CAT

Le TIGRÉ
and
KSU
(a winning combination)

LeTigré activewear for guys and gals

at Calhoun's
Your Family Clothing Store.

9-8:00 Mon.-Fri.
9-6:00 Sat.
12-5:00 Sun.
539-6890

Auntie Mae's Parlor

TONIGHT

ALL YOU CAN DRINK

from our selection of House Drinks, Beer and Wine NIECES $3.00 NEPHEWS $5.00

9 P.M. to 12 A.M.

FRIDAY
TGIF Happy Hour
Free Hors d'oeuvres 50¢ draws
$2.00 pitcher $1.25 house drinks
3:00-7:00 p.m.

616 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE 539-9967

KSU WILDLIFE SOCIETY meets at 7 p.m. in Ackert 116. Care and release of injured birds of prey will be discussed.

WILLISTON GEOLOGY CLUB meets at 3:30 p.m. in Thompson 109.

KSU HORSEMAN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 5:45 p.m. in the Weber Hall lobby to sell sponsorships.

LITTLE SISTERS OF ATHENA meet at 6:15 p.m. at the Alpha Kappa Lambda house for a second rush party at 6:30.

MED-TECH CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 206.

KSU WOMEN'S SOCCER CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. on the west side of the intramural fields.

AG ED CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. at the softball diamond in the city park.

DAUGHTERS OF DIANA meet at 6:30 p.m. for executive elections and at 7 p.m. for a rush party at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medical Teaching Building 201. Dr. Noorday, asst. dean of the vet school, will talk on admission to vet school.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

SISTERS OF THE MALTESE CROSS meet at 7:15 p.m. at the Alpha Tau Omega house to prepare for a little sister rush party.

ICHTHUS FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in Ackert 120. Everyone is welcome.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE meet at 8 p.m. at the Beta Sigma Psi house for an "Around the World" party. Anyone interested in joining is invited.

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Scoping for some fun?

75¢ Well Drinks
Tonight 9-11
HAPPY HOUR: 4-9
2 fers on hi balls 75¢ draws
$2 blended drinks

Drink of the week:
Lynchburg Lemonade $2

531 N. Manhattan Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

AAF american advertising federation presents
Kansas State ad club $354
GET INVOLVED JOIN NOW!

First Meeting
Sept. 15
7:30 p.m.
Kedzie Room 107

Speaker to be announced

Refreshments will be served

"EYE OF THE WILDCAT"

Keep on Trackin' to our office for contact lenses

- Tinted (to change the color of your eyes)
- Extended Wear (to sleep with)
- Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- Regular type (for near and far sightedness)
- Toric (for astigmatism)
- Oxygen Permeable (rigid)

Contact us for Replacement Lenses and Solutions in Stock.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock, P.A.
Practice of Optometry
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Manhattan, Ks.

Brother's

D R I N K

AND

D R O W N

TONIGHT

$1.50 Girls
$3.00 Guys
ALL YOU CAN DRINK
9:00-12:00

- TGIF with us
FREE Band Friday
"The Glee Club"
- CLOCKS
NEXT WEEK

Brother's

AGGIEVILLE
1120 MORO 539-9064

BUSINESS COUNCIL HAS ONE VACANCY

Application available in SGS Office.
Due Fri. Sept. 9.

TRUCK LOAD SALE!

Just Arrived
Silver-Reed fully electronic compact typewriter

Penman Features:
• 10/12 Pitch
• Daisy Wheel Printer
• Cassette Ribbon and Correcting Tape

• Automatic Correction
• Automatic Relocation
• And Much More...

SILVER-REED
Reg. Price $575.00
Special $475.00
Check with us about payment plans

Hull BUSINESS MACHINES, INC.
715 North 12th
MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502
PHONE 913/539-7931 or 539-1413

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 193, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor..... Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager..... John McGrath

Aeroflot: prepared for dual duty

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, is nothing if not big — flying more than 330,000 people a day to places as far-flung as Brazzaville and Kuala Lumpur.

But except for schedules and fares, information about the carrier, an important hard-currency earner for the Soviets, is guarded like a state secret.

Little wonder. Its estimated 1,500 planes are believed to sit ready for military duty in case of war. In the United States, approximately 300 commercial aircraft, under the Civil Reserve Air Fleet, are available for the same contingency.

And all of Aeroflot's pilots are said to be air force reservists. Its head, 60-year-old Boris P. Bugayev, is an air marshal who runs the ministry of civil aviation.

The West is looking for sanctions it can impose on the Soviets following the downing Sept. 1 of an unarmed South Korean airliner by a Soviet fighter, killing 269 people. The United States had already canceled Aeroflot landing rights two years ago to protest the imposition of martial law in Poland.

Canada told Aeroflot officials Monday that the airliner's flight to Montreal couldn't land there for 60 days and that its refueling privileges at Gander, Newfoundland were restricted. Aeroflot regularly stopped there en route to Havana. Now the carrier will have to ask permission for each Cuba-bound flight.

There has been speculation that airport workers at some of the 90 other foreign cities served by Aeroflot might protest the shooting down of the KAL Boeing 747 by refusing to service Aeroflot planes.

The International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations has authorized its member pilots to stage a 60-day boycott of flights to Moscow, but a final decision has been left to the individual associations.

The United States flag carrier, Pan Am, stopped flying to Moscow in 1978, saying the route wasn't profitable.

Aeroflot, the Soviet Union's only air carrier, claims to be the world's largest airline.

As the most visible Soviet representative abroad, Aeroflot and its offices have been easy targets for people angry at the Soviet Union.

Minority groups protesting Kremlin treatment of their countrymen inside the Soviet Union have frequently bombed, burned or broken the windows in Aeroflot buildings abroad.

Its offices in Washington and New York have been hit frequently and so have those in most European capitals and Japan.

In Nov. 1981, the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board suspended Aeroflot flights for one week after the carrier overflew unauthorized areas. State Department officials called the violations "deliberate."

The Soviets blamed the incident on Canadian and U.S. air traffic controllers. Under a U.S.-Soviet agreement, Aeroflot was required to fly along an ocean route between New York City and southern Maine. Instead, two flights on Nov. 8 flew over New England, an area that included military facilities.

Aeroflot's safety record also stands in question. The most spectacular Aeroflot crash came in 1975 at the Paris Air Show when a prototype of the sleek, needle-nosed TU-144 supersonic liner crashed into a nearby neighborhood. The plane was taken out of regular service in mid-1978 after less than a year of regular service.

The airline can't avoid publicity when its planes crash abroad, but the majority of crashes inside Soviet borders usually go unreported. One was reported within the last week.

Flying the carrier within the Soviet Union can be a trying experience. Delays of hours — sometimes days — occur and passengers are seldom told why, let alone put up at hotels or fed at the airline's expense.

Said one Western airline representative in Moscow: "If I can't get there by train, I don't go."

The airline has had some publicized rows with its passengers.

In 1971, 41 passengers trying to fly from Great Britain to Malaysia staged a sit-in aboard an Aeroflot jet in London to protest what they termed a three-day "nightmare."

First their London-Moscow flight was diverted to Warsaw. Then they reached Moscow too late for a connecting flight. They weren't allowed to stay in a hotel and were left to spend the night at the airport without anything to eat or drink.

In the morning, the group was flown back to London where they refused to get off the plane until Aeroflot booked the passengers to Kuala Lumpur on a different airline.

Earlier that same year, the airline became embroiled in the defection of ballet star Alexander Godunov to the United States. His wife and fellow Bolshoi dancer Ludmilla Vlasova was with him on the American tour and chose to return home.

When an Aeroflot jetliner tried to leave Kennedy International Airport with the ballerina aboard, American officials stopped it, demanding an interview with the ballerina outside the jet. She refused and, along with her fellow passengers, sat in the plane for 70 hours before it was allowed to leave.

Students gain friends in tutoring program

By The Collegian Staff

The Friendship Tutoring Program encompasses what the name implies, both friendship and tutoring.

The program, which has been in operation for approximately 15 years, matches volunteer tutors from K-State and the Manhattan community with local students in grades one through 12.

Most of the tutors in the program are K-State students.

Bev Wiebe, executive coordinator of the program, said it is jointly sponsored by Manhattan through the Human Relations Board and the Department of Family and Child Development.

"There are a number of objectives we're striving for in the program," Wiebe said.

She said she believes the program provides more than just tutoring students in problem subjects.

"The main goal of the program is to achieve a meaningful relationship between the student and an adult tutor from outside the family," Wiebe said.

She said the program will encourage students, especially those in high school, to remain in school and not drop out.

The program also gives tutors experience working with youths and provides them an opportunity to participate in community life outside the University.

"It's a great program for both sides," said Mary Yust, a former tutor and room coordinator for the program. She said she believes the college tutor gains as much from the program as the student being tutored.

"Anyone who is well-adjusted and can give two hours on Thursday nights is encouraged to be a tutor," Wiebe said.

The program, which begins Sept. 15, will continue until the end of the semester.

"I hope we have tutors who want to stay with the students even after the program ends," Wiebe said. She said that if the tutor and the student develop a good relationship, there is no reason for it to end in December.

Those interested in tutoring should attend the planning session at 8 p.m. today in the cafeteria of Manhattan Middle School at 9th Street and Poyntz Avenue. During the meeting, tutors will receive their assigned students and learn which subject they will tutor.

Police uncover child-operated prostitution ring

By The Associated Press

BATTLEBORO, Vt. — Police say they have broken up a child prostitution ring apparently run by the youngsters themselves.

The 10 children, aged 8 to 13, acted independently, police said.

"There's no adult in charge of this ring. There's no male pimp. It's children and children. I think it is structured within the peer group," Lt. Richard Guthrie said. "The kids are seeking out their own clientele."

The children have been offering sexual favors in exchange for money for nearly a year, according to Guthrie, head juvenile officer for the Brattleboro Police Department.

He said police expect to arrest "at least a couple" of adults who allegedly took advantage of the children's offers.

The breakup of the ring, which police said involved both girls and boys, came after an intensive four-week-long investigation, Guthrie said.

Police suspected there was such an operation as early as last winter, but did not launch a full-scale investigation until officers received several tips in the past month.

"It started out as an investigation into sexual assault and abuse and so on, and it sort of snowballed into this," he said after a news conference Tuesday.

Guthrie refused to release any information on the children's backgrounds, details about the sexual activities, where they took place or how much money was charged.

He would only say the children were "not running a house."

The children's parents were notified and the youngsters are being dealt with through the police department and the state Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, he said.

"The kids are going to be offered treatment," he said. "We need to look at these kids as victims."

CANCER CAN BE BEAT

222 N. 6th
3011 Anderson

New Store Hours
7 a.m. to 10 p.m.
7 days a week

R.C., R.C. 100, Diet Rite, R.C. 100 Sugar Free
2 Liter Bottle 99¢
Bartlett Pears 3 lbs. 99¢
Grade 'A' Whole Fryers lb. 49¢
Unitech Electronic Telephone
While Supply Last $9.99
Double coupons every day. Details at the store.

Alicia and Co. for hair

Chris McClintock

has relocated.

She welcomes all her former clients

Tues.-Sat.
Call for appointment

2805 Claffin
Manhattan, Ks.
537-9825

CHIROPRACTIC CARE

WE APPRECIATE THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE YOUR CHIROPRACTIC CARE WHILE HERE AT KSU.

THOSE OF YOU WHO PURCHASED STUDENT INSURANCE WITH OCCIDENTAL LIFE DO NOT NEED A REFERRAL OR PERMISSION FROM LA-FENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER TO RECEIVE CHIROPRACTIC CARE. IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS REGARDING INSURANCE BENEFITS, PLEASE CALL OUR OFFICE.

BONE, NERVE, MUSCLE AND JOINT DISORDERS

Dr. Aldo Schellinger

AVENUE CHIROPRACTIC OFFICE

1500 POYNTZ
MANHATTAN, KS

537-8305

(NEXT DOOR TO THE DUTCH-MAID STORE)

MR. K'S

Welcome To

1¢ NITE!

• 1¢ Second Draws &
Pitchers
Thurs. 7-10

Jiffin' Tomorrow!

Meet Your Friends At . . .

2 FERS THURSDAYS!

• 2 Fers
7-10:00
Draft beer, Pop,
Popcorn

Plus . . . '2 Pitchers
For Pledges 10-11:30!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT . . .

MR. K'S

BAR AND GRILLE

KSU

CHRISTIAN STUDENT fellowship

2001 Evergreen Circle 539-4324

Bible Study and Fellowship

Every Thursday

7:00 p.m. Union 207

ICTHUS
FELLOWSHIP meets tonight
at 8:00
in Ackert 120
(this week only)
Everyone Welcome

SHUTTLE SERVICE

for temporarily or permanently physically limited students on campus, building to building.
Inquire by calling 532-6436

10% off all

DANSKIN Leotards & Tights
and

Capezio Ballet &

Toe Shoes . . .

at Ballard's Sporting Goods

—headquarters
for your dance
and exercise
apparel needs.

Ballard's

IN
AGGIEVILLE

The Avalon

TONIGHT

Reggae with

BLUE RIDDIM

with LADIES ONLY 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
$2.00 ALL YOU CAN DRINK

House Drinks, Beer and Wine—No men admitted before 9 p.m.

FRIDAY TGIF PARTY

6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

FREE HORS D'OEUVRES • 50¢ DRAWS

$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS • NO COVER CHARGE

Friday-Saturday THE BELAIRS R&B

1122 Moro

UPSTAIRS IN AGGIEVILLE

539-9703

Get involved in college

A recent study by the Kansas State High School Activities Association noted that students who were involved in extracurricular activities got better grades and missed fewer classes than those who did not get involved. Although this does not prove whether the students got better grades because they were involved in activities, or if their grades were better due to the dedication which prompted their involvement, the entire subject is pertinent to college students.

A college education gained strictly through textbooks and classrooms, even if it is accompanied with a 4.0 grade point average, will not get the student as far as an education balanced with activities. Besides the fact that social education is nearly as important as classroom education, interaction with like-minded people will do much to aid learning.

So, to the freshmen (and any others who have not yet learned the value of extracurricular activities), we urge you to get in-involved. Don't let your education pass you by.

If you like the political scheme of things, get involved in student government. Push for the changes you think K-State needs.

Check with your department office and see what organizations there are in your major. Expand upon what you learn in class.

Be active in your living group. Run for office within your fraternity, sorority, or residence hall. If you live in an apartment, get involved with the Off-Campus Student Council.

There are a myriad of other groups: Christian organizations, sports and recreation clubs, and leadership organizations.

Don't let your college "career" go by without taking an interest in other affairs. Divide your time between studies (they certainly have their important place) and extracurricular activities. Get a complete education by getting involved.

The I.D. dilemma

Make up your mind Student Senate.

Are we going to get new IDs with photographs or not?

President Acker has told senators that the money designated for the reenactment of student IDs with pictures, was not quite enough. So, he urged response on the issue. Frankly, what he was saying was; are you sure we need to spend that money on students' smiling faces, or could we slip that money somewhere else?

And now, the student senators (as direct a link to the student body as God is to man — cough, cough), are to convey the every wish of those they represent: the students. Isn't that how it works?

To smile, or not to smile, that should be the question. Not to keep squabbling over an issue that's been proven, been presented, been accepted and now is being thrown back to be proven again. Come on. Use your time to redo the issues that need attention, like tuition increases, uh-hum.

Here's a rundown of the IDs' past.

On May 2, 1967, Student Senate passed an ID Card Proposal which recommended that K-State issue an embossed, IBM punched card with a picture. This cost the students a $2 activity fee increase.

In 1974, Student Senate established a task force which recommended $7,000 be allocated for replacing worn ID equipment.

In 1975, Student Senate enacted a bill which provided ID card validation each semester during registration.

On Feb. 5, 1981, increased monetary support by the University allowed Student Senate to discontinue its funding of the ID cards. In its place, an embossed piece of plastic, with no picture, took on its usefulness for the students, faculty, and staff.

EDEE DALKE
Collegian Columnist

The present card backs the theory that our social security numbers are all that count anyway. My good friend, 511-52-0171 agrees; we're looked at as numbers.

The no-frills card has been on trial for two years now. It has presented problems in several areas. Obviously the "Union Check Cashing Policy" is saying that the card is invalid unless supplemented by a driver's license — with a picture.

In 1982, Student Senate keenly saw the problems and formed the ID Review Committee. They, in turn, concluded "the current non-picture ID is not an acceptable form of identification."

Senate appointed still another committee. This committee examined the problems with the present IDs and researched what the perfect K-State ID could look like.

The problems they found were and are, obvious.

It is easily mutilated, it would have to be used along with a picture identification card for positive identification, and Farrell Library would have to issue a separate library card.

But I can think of other problems also.

For one, we would not be keeping up with all the other Big Eight and Regent schools (They all have pictures on their IDs...except Nebraska, and who wants to be like Nebraska anyway). Also, students are getting a complex as cashiers laugh when they try to use their present ID card. And, without a picture you can't have the constant reminder of what you looked like when you first came to K-State.

The committee researched and specified the requirements for a new super card. It included a photograph, an identification number, a signature strip, a space for validation each semester, room for the library's optical character reader bar, and had a life span of four to five years. It was to be laminated, embossed and color coded, have a magnetic strip and list the student's mother's maiden name. Oops, no maiden name.

Think of all that on a 3.5 by 2.1 inch card.

It was proven to not only be possible, but also worthwhile for the change to be made. In fact, reports state that two schools went to IDs without pictures, encountered problems and soon returned to photographs. They highly advised K-State to do the same.

The committee's recommendations were accepted and funds were earmarked for the cards in the 1983-84 budget. This meant that the identification card turnover was to occur before this semester.

But still no new cards. Now President Acker says we should go over it again.

I urge students to seek out the senators today. You can identify them by the "Student Senator" generic-style button they should be wearing (they meet tonight). Introduce yourself by your social security number, of course, and tell them they've proven the issue, they've made up their minds, and now they should stand by it.

Cruel and unusual punishment

Andy Ostmeier

Guest Columnist

In the wake of the execution of Jimmy Lee Gray in Mississippi last Friday, it is time to take a hard look at the constitutionality of the death penalty as well as the other important issues surrounding it.

Capital punishment has a long and hotly contested history. In 1972, the Supreme Court ruled that the death penalty was cruel and unusual punishment as then administered. In 1976, the Supreme Court approved new capital punishment laws that could be designed by individual states.

Who could argue with the ruling that capital punishment in its present form is a cruel and unusual punishment, which we are supposed to be protected from by the eighth amendment?

The execution of John Evans III earlier this year was a gruesome and ghastly display of this travesty of justice.

Evans was strapped in the chair at 8:30 p.m. and the first 30-second surge of 1,900 volts was sent through his body. Evans tensed and an electrode snapped off his body. The second surge came three minutes later. Smoke and flames came from the leather strap on Evan's left temple but doctors said he still was not dead. A third surge of electricity was administered 10 minutes after the first and it was another four minutes before Evans was declared dead.

Clifton Duffy was the warden at San Quentin for 11 years. He officiated in the executions of 90 people and participated in 60 more. Following are his descriptions of executions from an interview in U.S. Catholic.

"The executioner for a hanging straps the prisoner's arms to his side with a belt around the middle. They walk up the 13 steps and strap his feet together. A black cap is placed over his head. The noose is slipped on and hitched up around his left ear. The trap is sprung, and the man hits bottom. He perspires, he wheezes, he squeals, he wiggles, he kicks, he urinates, he defecates. Droppings fall to the floor. The stench is terrific, and witnesses pass out. Between eight to 12 minutes later, according to the vitality of the prisoner, he is pronounced dead.

Electrocutions are similar. But the prisoner's head is shaved and his pants leg is split. When he's strapped down, electrodes are placed on his calf and head. The warden throws the switch and the body cringes, pulls, fights. The eyes pop and the tongue swells. The skin swells almost to the breaking point, and many times the body smells like cooked meat.

The gas chamber is not as gruesome only because the body doesn't smell like cooked meat. All else is the same."

There is also the possibility of executing the wrong person. Between 1893 and 1962 there have been 74 cases of a person wrongfully convicted of willful homicide. Thirty-one were sentenced to death and eight were actually executed.

The old argument about society having to pay for the cost and upkeep of a prisoner just does not wash. It is a sad reflection on the way people think when they put money before a human life, even a killer's life.

But, if they want to place money first and human life second, they will have to find a better argument.

A recent article in Time magazine said that imprisoning one inmate for 50 years would require less than $1 million in a state such as New York. The New York State Defenders Association estimated the trial cost for a capital punishment case and came up with some interesting figures.

The cost: a defense bill of $176,000; about $845,000 for the prosecution and $300,000 for court costs. This does not include the cost of any appeal that is filed. One step in the appeal process may cost $170,000.

Even if capital punishment were not cruel and unusual it would still be unfair because of the arbitrary method in which it is administered.

Statistics show that in cases where a black murders a white the chances of him getting the death penalty are much greater than in cases where a white murders a black.

The death penalty does not fit into a system of equal justice. From Joliet to Leavenworth there are men and women whose crimes are as horrendous as, if not worse than, those of the people on death row and yet these criminals have gotten off with sentences other than death.

There is no humane way to kill anybody whether it is done by a murderer or by the state. It is wrong for people to kill, but that does not justify the state using an unfair and barbaric means of vengeance. I am not saying that the rights of the prisoner are more important than the rights of the victim and the victim's family and friends. I am simply saying that two wrongs don't make a right. Cruel and unusual punishment, no matter what the crime, is wrong.

Each generation looks into the past and comes to the conclusion that old methods were wrong, yet they cannot see the mistakes their own generation is making.

Ancient forms of capital punishment included crucifixion, slowly slicing away bits of the body and burning at the stake. In India, an elephant would step on the head of the guilty after dragging the bound body through town.

No one can argue that these methods should not have been done away with. But, I wonder if a future generation will be revolted by a look back into the capital punishment procedures of 1983.

(Editor's note: Andy Ostmeier is a senior in journalism and mass communications and is a staff writer for the Collegian.)

BOBBY... HAVE YOU BEEN PLAYING WITH THOSE COMPUTER ACCESS CODES AGAIN?..

Lemon laws

WASHINGTON — Auto industry analysts couldn't pinpoint last week why new car sales increased for the 11th consecutive reporting period. Favorable interest rates and improvement in automobile quality were the most common explanations.

One possible factor, however, may never show up in Detroit's official analysis: Car buyers in many states now enjoy statutory protections from new cars that are little more than lemons. While the proliferation of "lemon laws" might seem bittersweet news to Detroit, it could speed the auto industry's recovery.

On Jan. 1, car buyers in California and Connecticut gained easier access to refunds or replacements if cars fail to perform as promised. Since then, 14 other states have passed similar lemon laws, and at least 10 others may follow suit by the end of the year.

While most car purchasers won't drive away with lemons this year, many inevitably will. If, as the Washington-based Center for Auto Safety estimates, even only one in 1,000 cars is irreparably defective, Detroit could produce 6,000 or 7,000 lemons this year.

According to John Woodcock, the state legislator who drafted Connecticut's new law, the lemon can suffer from many maladies: vibrations, wind noise, roof leaks, engine and dashboard fires and losses in electrical power and oil pressure. "It's a whole litany of problems," Woodcock told our reporter, Michael Duffy.

Some state laws are tougher than others. Connecticut's manufacturers are required to replace any

MAXWELL GLEN
& CODY SHEARER

new car that remains a problem after four trips to the repair shop or stays out of service for 30 days during the first year of ownership. (Refunds are also an option.)

Minnesota, meanwhile, mandates replacement in the event of a safety hazard in the car's design; New York extends protection through the second year of ownership.

While Congress has long guaranteed the replacement of products after "reasonable" attempts at repair, the new state laws reduce the need for costly legal assistance. Now car owners can simply approach a locally-convened arbitration board established by the auto companies under Federal Trade Commission guidelines; unsatisfied petitioners may appeal to the courts later. In Connecticut, at least 20 residents have received replacement models through this process in 1983.

Auto dealers have largely welcomed the new legal environment. Lemon laws not only give dealers legislative guarantees with which to reassure paranoid car buyers, but also lay the responsibility for replacing a defective car squarely on the manufacturers, who are obviously not too pleased.

Yet, in some states, Detroit has responded to an ever-increasing number of lemon lawsuits with "consumer action" panels of its own. The panels, insisted Ford spokesman Dale Leiback, "...reflect a growing realization that quality and consumer satisfaction are extremely important." In fact, they may simply reflect an interest in reducing the number of outright court awards, which have topped $700,000 in some lemon cases.

Yet a little lemon-aid may be just what Detroit deserves in this competitive world. Annual studies by the West Coast firm of J.D. Power and Associates show that customers who endure the fewest number of automobile mechanical problems are most likely to buy another car from the same manufacturer. Unfortunately, Power's surveys taken last year reveal that only 50 percent of all domestic cars were problem-free at delivery (compared to 66 percent of all Japanese-made cars). In 1981, 41 percent of all domestic-car owners returned to their dealers two or three times as a result of unsatisfactory mechanical repairs.

These figures should encourage Detroit to embrace lemon laws. In doing so, automakers will be better able to research their own mistakes and more effectively dramatize their much-advertised new commitment to quality.

After all, if Detroit doesn't believe in fixing its lemons it's only squeezing its new customers.

Letters

There is an answer

Editor,

I agree with Rod Saunders' article "Welcome to War — er...K-State" (Sept. 1). Life at K-State is full of frustration and stress — being pulled at from every direction. Fighting these wars can seem unbearable. But I don't feel this is the worst thing that could happen.

It is when you need help and can't find any, or when you seem beyond any sort of rescue, that life can really get rough. Living may then be seen as futile or undesirable.

What can be done? There is someone who specializes in the impossible, someone who does not fail. He is Jesus Christ. He will help you if you ask him to. He does understand. Jesus said "I tell you all this, that in me you may find peace. You will suffer in the world but take courage! I have overcome the world." John 16:33.

John C. Hinckley Jr.
Sophomore in electrical engineering

Seminar stresses high tech, upgrading educational plan

By The Collegian Staff

Upgrading the educational system and working with industry and federal and state governments to invest dollars in high technology were the main topics at the President's Seminar Wednesday afternoon.

Approximately 165 K-State administrators, deans, faculty and staff attended the seminar at the Manhattan Holidome to hear and discuss problems in higher education. The meeting was the first in a three-part series.

The seminar brought K-State personnel together to look at the future of higher education at land-grant universities, said Charles Hein, director of university communications.

Speakers at the meeting included David Knapp, president of the University of Massachusetts, and Harold Enarson, president emeritus of Ohio State University. New technology will change the future of land-grant universities, but with proper planning and outlook for the future these will all be positive improvements, President Duane Acker said at the meeting.

"Our assignment is to discuss the land-grant universities in the information age. This suggests emphasis on the present and the future," he said.

The United States is falling behind the world in respect to high technology and the only way to improve our standing is through higher education and research, Acker said.

"Most universities don't look ahead far enough or often enough. At Kansas State we have faculty and staff with a relative look at the problem.

"I believe we are a far greater university than we let ourselves believe. I believe we would be justified in having and displaying a level of pride that we rarely exhibit."

Knapp challenged state and land-grant universities to respond to the country's knowledge-based economic needs. He stressed the importance of universities in producing more qualified graduates for high-technological fields.

"Never before has the United States shown a stronger objective for precisely the things that higher education, and especially our land-grant schools, can and should provide," Knapp said. "Yet never before has higher education been made to feel powerless."

"It is knowledge which is likely to shape and define the nature of the age — just as land defined the nature of the agricultural age, just as capital defined the nature of the industrial age," he said.

This change to a knowledge-based economic, political and social order within the field of high technology offers both challenges and opportunities to land-grant institutions, Knapp said.

"The high technology race is on," Enarson said.

"A decade ago campuses were recovering from the Vietnam War. During this time it was students revolting which dominated our attention," he said.

"The high technology era is the key to national recovery and survival.

"There is a public demand for high technology and better education, but it exists independently in the corner of the public eye," Enarson said.

"A large investment in education exists where technology is present," he said. Because public schooling concerns are a major force in American life, local leadership and initiative should occur within public education, he said.

Enarson said he believes criticism directed at public and higher education is often a result of the mystique involved in hearing and learning about the new and unknown.

"Turning out unqualified college graduates constitutes failure in teaching. If we fail in teaching, what's research?" Enarson said.

"By pleading for one type of university, we weaken the education system," he said. "We should practice partnering with neighboring college institutions if we plan on partnering with businesses in the high technology area."

Student dies in weekend auto accident

By The Collegian Staff

A K-State professor was seriously injured and his 19-year-old son was killed in an automobile accident over Labor Day weekend near Evansville, Ind.

Arthur D. Dayton, head of the Department of Statistics, was the driver of a westbound vehicle on Interstate 64 in Posey County, Ind. at approximately 3 p.m. Sept. 4, said a spokesman for the Indiana State Police.

The vehicle ran off the north side of the road into a 25-foot ditch and collided with the west bank of the ditch, the spokesman said.

Dayton's son, Arthur Dayton Jr., sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, was sleeping in the back seat of the car when the accident occurred. He was dead when the troopers arrived at the scene, the spokesman said.

Dayton was taken to Welborn Baptist Hospital in Evansville in the Life Flight helicopter belonging to the hospital, the police spokesman said.

Dayton is reported in fair condition at Welborn, his nurse said.

Funeral services for the younger Dayton are tentatively scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday in All Faiths Chapel and will be handled by Cowan-Edwards-Yorgensen Funeral Home.

Vendos burglarized

Sometime between 9:15 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Aug. 30, a person or persons broke into several campus vending machines.

The first machines burglarized were located in the northeast basement of Justin Hall. An unidentified person inserted a tool into the locking mechanism of both the candy and change machines to gain entry. Once the machines were opened, the money was removed and the machines were closed. A few hours later another dollar bill changer in the Veterinary Medicine Complex Room 2 was found broken into. The lock on this machine was also broken, the money removed and the door closed.

Later that night someone discovered one of the machines at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Complex also damaged.

Total loss of these incidents is estimated at $400.

Anyone with any information on these or any other crimes is urged to call Crime Stoppers at 539-7777. Your call will remain anonymous and you may qualify for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Skate Plaza
400 Tuttle Creek Blvd
MANHATTAN, KANSAS
Ph. 913/776 6175

Skate Sales & Service

SCHEDULE

Mon.	Private Parties
Tues.	Public Session — 7:30-9:30
Wed.	Private Parties Only
Thurs.	Public Session — 7:30-9:30
Fri.	Public Session — 7:30-11:00 p.m.
Sat.	Public Sessions — 1:00-4:00 — Afternoons 7:30-11:00 — Nights
Sun.	Public Sessions — 2:00-4:00 — Afternoons 7:30-9:30 — Nights

Auntie Mae's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE

MAE'S LUNCH
Monday-Friday
11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

THE CLUB
Mae's Triple-Decker Deli Delight, made of Ham, Turkey, Swiss and American Cheese. Served with Chips, Potatoe Salad, Cottage Cheese or Fresh Fruit.

$2.50
WINE WITH LUNCH, AS ALWAYS, IS 2 FOR THE PRICE OF 1
Expires Sept. 9, 1983

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Thursday
Jack nite & Black Velvet
1:50 on (9-3)

COWBOY PALACE
Where it don't make no difference
209 Poyntz 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

"UPC... We do it right!"

UPCOMING EVENTS

Thursday, Sept. 8

Kaleidoscope—Eating Raoul:
LT 3:30, FH 7:30 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 9

Feature Films—The Verdict:
FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 10

Kaleidoscope—The Great Escape:
FH 2 p.m.

Feature Films—The Verdict:
FH 7 & 9:30 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 11

Kaleidoscope—The Great Escape:
FH 2 & 7 p.m.

Special Events—26th Annual Activities Carnival: Union 5-8 p.m.

Monday, Sept. 12

Arts—Oriental Ceramics by Sue Hu:
Union 2nd Floor Showcase thru Sept. 23.

Arts—"Photographs by Gordon Parks" from the KSU Permanent Collection: Union Art Gallery thru Sept. 30.

Tuesday, Sept. 13

Rappelling Info meeting and sign up: Union Rm. 213 7 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 14

Arts—Marson Graphics Print Sale:
10 a.m.-4 p.m. Union 1st Floor Concourse.

Kaleidoscope—Stalker: FH 7:30 p.m.

Reminder

Ronnie Milsap tickets available by mail.

Send check or money order ($10, $9.50, $9 tickets) to:
UPC Special Events
Parents' Weekend 1983
P.O. Box 193
Manhattan, KS 66502
Today at 4:00 p.m. in the last time to sign up for the Winfield Bluegrass Festival. Your cost of $37 includes transportation, two day ticket to the festival, and camping space. Sign up in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union.

♿ Spaces available at our events.

UPC Coffeehouse Presents:

Traditional and Contemporary Irish Music at its best!

Tickets available starting Sept. 11 at the Activities Carnival.
$4.00 students
$5.00 general public

k-state union
upc coffeehouse

De'Danann

Frank Galvin has one last chance to do something right.

THE VERDICT
TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX presents A ZANUCK / BROWN PRODUCTION
PAUL NEWMAN / CHARLOTTE RAMPLING / JACK WARDEN
JAMES MASON / THE VERDICT / MILO O'SHEA
MUSIC BY JOHNNY MANDEL / EXECUTIVE PRODUCER BARRY HARRIS
SCREENPLAY BY DAVID MAMET / BASED ON THE NOVEL BY BARRY REED
PRODUCED BY RICHARD D. ZANUCK AND DAVID BROWN
DIRECTED BY SIDNEY LUTHE

k-state union
upc feature films

ROCK CLIMBING & RAPPELLING

Sept. 24 & 25
Fall River, KS

Information meeting and sign up:
Tuesday, Sept. 13 7:00 p.m.
Union Room 213

Sign up will continue through Monday, Sept. 19 in the Activities Center on the Third Floor, K-State Union.

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

UPC Special Events Presents

WE'VE GOT IT HERE!

Over 100 clubs and organizations will be represented.

k-state union
upc special events

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Sat., Sept. 10 2 p.m.
Sun., Sept. 11 2 & 7 p.m.
Forum Hall $1.50

THE GREAT ESCAPE is the incredible, true story of 76 Allied airmen, who in 1945 escaped from Germany's most infamous maximum-security P.O.W. camp. It is a tense adventure story known as one of the greatest war films ever made.

"Outrageous...Wickedly Funny."

—Jack Kroll, Newsweek

Wednesday, Sept. 7 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
Thursday, Sept. 8 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre
7:30 p.m. Forum Hall
All shows $1.50

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

k-state union
program council

Briefly

By the Associated Press

Lawrence still wants summit

LAWRENCE — The city's invitation to U.S. and Soviet leaders to hold a summit meeting in Lawrence still stands despite the controversy over the downing of a South Korean airliner by a Soviet fighter pilot.

Mayor David Longhurst invited President Reagan and Soviet leader Yuri Andropov to hold a summit meeting in Lawrence earlier this year in an effort to improve world peace.

Longhurst said Tuesday that his first reaction to the downing of the airliner last week was that "I don't want those animals in our community." Longhurst said he reconsidered, however, because "it's a greater issue because you have many more innocent lives at stake."

Longhurst acknowledged that the chance of a summit meeting in Lawrence was slim before the airliner incident, in which 269 people were killed, and is probably even smaller now.

Test may help doctors spot AIDS

BOSTON — A blood test that measures a rare form of interferon may help doctors spot seemingly healthy people who have early stages of AIDS but no outward symptoms of the devastating disorder, researchers say.

Their study found that months before the appearance of clear signs of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, some victims have high blood levels of a protein called acid-labile alpha interferon.

"I would say that if an individual had high levels of acid-labile interferon on several occasions, that would probably be a very specific marker for AIDS," said Dr. James J. Goedert of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

The researchers warned that the test can now be performed only in highly specialized labs, and more work is necessary to determine its accuracy in pinpointing early cases of AIDS.

Turkey to buy more U.S. jets

ANKARA, Turkey — Turkey will spend $4 billion for 160 U.S. F-16 fighter jets over the next 10 years to modernize its air force, the Defense Ministry announced Wednesday.

The jets, produced by General Dynamics, were chosen over the F-18 aircraft manufactured by Northrop and McDonnell Douglas.

The F-16s cost $1 billion less than the F-18s, informed sources reported.

A brief ministry announcement said the choice has been relayed officially to Washington. The announcement said further studies and talks on the matter would be completed within the next three months.

Some of the planes will be made in the United States and the rest will be produced in Turkey, the sources said.

Police break Italian counterfeit ring

BERGAMO, Italy — Police arrested 19 Italians involved in a counterfeiting ring which printed fake U.S. dollars and Italian lire at a clandestine mint in this north Italian town, authorities announced Wednesday.

Police seized $1 million in bogus U.S. dollars and a small amount of counterfeit lire and treasury bills, officials said.

Seven more suspects were being sought, police added.

Police said the ring also printed counterfeit tickets for the Grand Prix of Italy auto race, scheduled to take place Sunday at the Monza autodrome.

Princess quizzed on pregnancy

DUNDEE, Scotland — Factory worker Elaine Robertson confronted Princess Diana on Wednesday with the question all of Britain is asking.

"We are very curious to know if you are having a baby," Miss Robertson demurely asked the princess during a royal visit to a marmalade factory in this Scottish seaport.

Diana was seen to blush, say a few words and turn away.

Miss Robertson told clamoring reporters, "All she said was, 'That is a very personal question.'"

The latest spate of rumors concerning the 22-year-old princess was unleashed Monday when she left the royal estate at Balmoral, Scotland, where Queen Elizabeth II and her family spend their late summer holidays, for a one-day trip to London.

Fleet Street, the capital's newspaper row, noted that it was the same day that gynecologist Dr. George Pinker, who delivered Diana's first child — 14-month-old Prince William — returned from his two-week vacation.

They noted that two years ago the wife of Prince Charles made a similar lightning trip to London — and a month later her pregnancy was announced.

Buckingham Palace only inflamed the front-page-rumoring by refusing to discuss the matter.

"All these stories are complete speculation," repeated spokesman Victor Champman, accompanying the princess on her Wednesday outing. "We have no comment to make on them."

Actor gets $2 million for island

SUVA, Fiji — Actor Raymond Burr has sold an island he has owned in Fiji for $2 million — about 10 times what he paid for it 15 years ago.

The Fiji government bid for 1,830-acre Naitaba Island, about 150 miles northeast of Suva, but could not match the offer from a group of unidentified American buyers.

Burr ran the island as a coconut and dairy plantation.

A lawyer representing the buyers said the sale was going through, but it would be a week before the new owners would be ready to discuss their plans for the island.

Naitaba is one of the largest freehold islands in the 350-island Fiji group, where only 10 per cent of the land is freehold, or held with the right to pass it on through inheritance.

Fiji Land Corp., a government agency, bid $1.5 million. The government created the corporation to buy back freehold land and in some cases restore it to descendants of the original Fijian owners.

Man sentenced for buying hot art

PHILADELPHIA — A judge said he was trying to discourage rich people from buying rare art from thieves when he sentenced a wealthy man to prison for trying to obtain stolen Andrew Wyeth paintings.

Guido Frezzo, 51, a wealthy mushroom farmer from Avondale, was sentenced Tuesday to five years in prison and was fined $20,000 for conspiring to steal paintings from Wyeth's Chadds Ford home.

U.S. District Judge Raymond Broderick said he handed down the stiff penalty to discourage the rich from obtaining art from thieves at bargain-basement prices.

Frezzo paid $2,000 and a 1957 car for three of 15 paintings stolen from Wyeth in March 1982. He was convicted in May of conspiring to steal and of receiving stolen goods.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Walter Batty Jr. said Frezzo acquired the paintings out of "sheer greed" and intended to resell them at a huge profit.

Two other men are serving prison terms. Benedict LaCorte, 48, a chiropractor, received a 10-year sentence on a guilty plea to participating in the conspiracy, and William Porter, 36, got 20 years after pleading guilty to participating in the burglary.

Sept. 10th & 11th
WEBER ARENA

Saturday Performance 2:30 p.m. & 7:30 p.m.
Sunday Performance 2:30 p.m. & 7:30 p.m.
Tickets available at Chamber of Commerce, 5th & Poyntz; Manhattan Credit Bureau, 429 Poyntz; and Denholm Realty, 509 Leavenworth (across from post office) or any Shriner.

By Popular Request . . .

BOTTOMS UP
THURS. NITES!

- 3 Fers (Well Drinks 9-10:00)
- 2 Fers (Well Drinks 10-12:00)

Reciprocating locally with Last Chance, Auntie Mae's, Avalon, Bockers, Burgundy's, Kennedy's, Rie's!

the casual encounter

1208 Moro
in Aggieville

Thursday,
Friday
and
Saturday
only

Open
10 to 8:30 Thursday
10 to 6 Fri. & Sat.

Now is your chance to save on our new Fall Fashions. Right now we have our biggest selection of styles and colors since we opened. Great looks by Levi's, Lee, Campus, Career Club, Haggar, LeTigre, York, Munsingwear and more. Check us out this weekend and Save.

—Try our Layaway plan—

Men's Slacks

Casual and Dress styles
—over 300 pair to choose from—

Save 20%

Short Sleeve Shirts

Knits, Casual, Dress

25% off

New Fall Sweaters

Wools, Cottons, Blends

10% off

Men's Jackets

and

Winter Coats

Save 10%

Fall Sport Coats

by Levi's, Haggar, LeTigre
$10.00 off regular price

All-You-Can-Eat Salad Bar

99¢

When you purchase two pieces of chicken or more.

Good for combination orders only. Limit two per coupon. One coupon per customer. No substitutions. Not good in conjunction with any other discount or special offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due.

Offer Expires October 15, 1983

GRANNY'S GREAT CHICKEN

Granny doesn't pretend to cook every piece of Shorty's Missouri Fried Chicken but she symbolizes the kind of chicken you'll eat there.

"There's a little bit of Granny's love in everything from Shorty's Fried Chicken.
A pinch of this, a dash of that, a little love and a half century in the kitchen."

With love, Granny

2-Piece Snack Box

$1.19

Each snack box contains two pieces of Crispy or Southern style chicken and a Biscuit.

Good for combination orders only. Limit three per coupon. One coupon per customer. No substitutions. Not good in conjunction with any other discount or special offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due.

Offer Expires October 15, 1983

Natural Breast Filet Sandwich $1.29

NOT a machine formed patty, but a hand fileted whole whitewater breast filet, marinated, and freshly breaded with special seasoning.

Good for combination orders only. Limit two per coupon. One coupon per customer. No substitutions. Not good in conjunction with any other discount or special offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due.

Offer Expires October 15, 1983

2-Piece Dinner Box

$1.99

Two pieces of Crispy or Southern Chicken, plus Fried Potatoes or Granny's Rice, Coleslaw, and a Biscuit

Good for combination orders only. Limit three per coupon. One coupon per customer. No substitutions. Not good in conjunction with any other discount or special offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due.

Offer Expires October 15, 1983

3-Piece Dinner Box $2.39

Three pieces of Crispy or Southern Chicken, plus Fried Potatoes or Granny's Rice, Coleslaw, and a Biscuit.

Good for combination orders only. Limit three per coupon. One coupon per customer. No substitutions. Not good in conjunction with any other discount or special offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due.

Offer Expires October 15, 1983

16-Piece Family Box $9.95

Get two whole chickens of Crispy or Southern style.

Good for combination orders only. Limit one per coupon. One coupon per customer. No substitutions. Not good in conjunction with any other discount or special offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due.

Offer Expires October 15, 1983

Open:
7 Days
10:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

shorty's

3002 Anderson Ave.
Manhattan, KS
539-0575

Sizing it up

Students in graphics design class, Jeff Wells, freshman in architectural engineering, Wanda Henton, sophomore in architectural engineering and Chuck Vawter, sophomore in construction science, concentrate on drawing perspectives of windows on the north side of Anderson Hall.

Staff/Chris Stewart

Off-campus committee faces parking problem

By The Collegian Staff

Lack of parking marks the beginning of K-State's fall semester for students and residents alike.

In June, Mayor Wanda Fateley appointed an ad-hoc committee to consider restrictions for parking on Fairchild Avenue. The Fairchild Area Parking Committee consists of three representatives of area greek houses and three Manhattan residents.

After meeting several times, the committee hasn't reached any conclusions. Larry Hulse, chief city planner, said the committee encountered problems during the summer because the student representatives were not in Manhattan. However, the committee has met since the fall semester began.

The committee will consider the permit system used east of campus. In that area, cars must have permits to park between 2 and 9 a.m. Residents are issued two parking permits per dwelling unit and one guest permit per dwelling unit.

The committee will probably not recommend the same permit system for Fairchild, Hulse said.

"The problem on Fairchild is not only people storing their cars. There is also student parking during the day," Hulse said.

The committee's primary concern is where to put all the cars. Residents and members of the greek houses have different attitudes about the problem, but all realize the problem must be addressed, Hulse said.

Barbara Robel, adviser for Greek affairs, said all greek houses in the area will be affected by a parking zone.

"Technically, only houses that front the zone will be affected," she said. "But members of a number of houses have to park there."

The houses affected by a possible parking zone decision are Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Delta Pi sororities; and Phi Delta Theta, Beta Theta Pi, Lambda Chi Alpha and Theta Xi fraternities.

Test ride a new Trek Bike!

Thursday, Sept. 8, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Free Trek hat or pant bands to test riders while supply lasts. Meet Jeff Verink, our Trek factory rep!

—and—

Save up to 77.50 on Trek bikes thru Saturday, Sept. 17

For details call or come in

1111 Moro

Aggieville

539-5639

KSU WILDLIFE SOCIETY MEETING

Thurs., Sept. 8 7:00 p.m.
116 Ackert Hall

Topic: RAPTOR (Hawks, Eagles and Owls) REHABILITATION

Everyone Welcome!

Coast to Coast

Blue Hills Shopping Center
Turtle Creek Blvd. and Kimball
in Manhattan 538-8881

RETIREMENT—
GOING OUT OF BUSINESS
SALE

AT LEAST 30% OFF ON EVERYTHING
30 TO 60% OFF ON "SPECIAL SALE"
ITEMS WITH TAGS ATTACHED.

For Example: Bicycles, Barbequers, Children's Pools and Toys, Lawn Chairs, Life Jackets, Picnic Supplies, Vacuum Cleaners and Pocket Knives, plus items from all Departments.

All Sales Final

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Sun. 11:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

McCall's Shoes

A MANHATTAN TRADITION
SINCE 1961

CAREFREE CASUALS

For your life of leisure Fanfares creates the perfect casual shoe. Classic yet trendy. Comfy yet tidy. Quality-made yet inexpensive. A perfect fit for you and your wardrobe.
leather/suede combinations.

fanfares
...says it all

Visa • MasterCard

313 Poyntz downtown Manhattan

Today's Pop Quiz

Q. Where will you be Monday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.?

A. Enjoying the evening in style with the

Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra

Ticket prices: Public $15.00, Senior $14.00, Student $12.00

Tickets available at McCain Box office, noon-5 p.m., M-F, 532-6428
This program is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts, through participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

House Plant Sale

All Plants in 6 inch pots
only $6.98
or Three for $15.00

—Offer good for limited time only —Larger size plants available @ regular price.

Blueville Nursery, Inc.
2 1/2 miles west of Westloop
776-7883
Closed Sundays

The Phone Connection

Trendline Touchline
September Special

$56⁹⁵

Touch Tone
Reg. $69.95

While they last

Desk or Wall Mounted
Brown and Ivory
One Year Warranty

The Phone Connection

808 N. Washington
Downtown Junction City
782-4444

414 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
776-4429

25% OFF

MICHAEL ESSER EXCLAIMS:

"I LOST 42 LBS.

AND 12 INCHES ON THE NUTRI/SYSTEM PROGRAM.
I JUST ATE THE PREPACKAGED FOODS!"

- SAFE AND EFFECTIVE
- MEDICALLY SUPERVISED
- DRUG FREE
- WIDE CHOICE OF DELICIOUS NUTRI/SYSTEM MEALS
- NO CALORIE COUNTING OR MEASURING FOODS
- MEETS THE RECOMMENDED NUTRITIONAL VALUES OF DIABETES ASSOC., AMERICAN HEART ASSOC., THE MAYO CLINIC DIETETIC DEPT., AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PEDIATRICS, AND THE FOOD AND NUTRITION BOARD OF NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCE.

"THANKS TO THE NUTRI/SYSTEM PROGRAM, I LOOK AND FEEL TERRIFIC!"

Call today for a free weight analysis

LABOR DAY SPECIAL 1/4 OFF!

Present this coupon at any of the Nutri/System Weight Loss Medical Centers listed and we'll deduct 1/4 from your program. Offer valid for new clients only. One discount per person.

1109 Waters

M.-Th. 9-7:00 776-6600
Fri. 9-1:00

Closed
Sat. &
Sun.

Over 675 Centers in North America

nutri/system
weight loss medical centers

VALUABLE COUPON

VALUABLE COUPON

All-conference standout Mike Wallace returns for his third season as a Wildcat.

Staff/Photo

Wallace sees offensive role vital for victories

By TRACY ALLEN
Staff Writer

It was a day that most K-State fans and alumni won't forget.

The stage was set — K-State, with its famous redshirt crew, and the Missouri Tigers prepared for battle before 30,450 fans and CBS cameras in KSU Stadium.

Trailing Missouri 7-0 in the fourth quarter, K-State's Mike Wallace makes a one-handed catch in the end zone to tie the score at 7-7. Because of ferocious defense by both clubs, the game ended in a tie.

Although it's been a year since Wallace performed the one-handed juggling act, last season's catch against Missouri was only the beginning of a promising future for the talented Wildcat receiver.

Rated by several Big Eight Conference coaches and sportswriters as the top receiver returning to the Big Eight this year, Wallace is excited about the 1983 season.

"I feel like I'm going to play a big role in our offense this year because a lot of people will be watching me and trying to hold me down," he said.

Whether Wallace can be stopped is a question that most Big Eight coaches hope to answer this season.

K-State's big play man on offense, Wallace was the backbone on a Wildcat team that finished 6-5-1 last season and lost to the Wisconsin Badgers in the Independence Bowl, K-State's first bowl appearance.

A first team Associated Press and United Press International all Big Eight selection last year, Wallace led the league in touchdown receptions, six, and receiving yardage, 693.

He finished fourth in the league in completions with 37 and was the Cats second leading scorer with 36 points.

He had fine games against such powerhouses as the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State University and Arizona State University in which he caught a season-high six passes.

Known for his deceptive speed and quick hands, Wallace is considered the toughest receiver to cover one-on-one in the conference.

"There are a lot of good things you can say about Mike Wallace," head coach Jim Dickey said.

"Mike has great concentration. His ability to get open and run routes are probably his biggest assets."

Whether Wallace can run routes this season depends on how well he adjusts to playing under the lights at KSU Stadium.

In K-State's loss against California State University of Long Beach last Saturday, Wallace didn't show any signs of discomfort with the lights as he caught four passes for a total of 77 yards and no touchdowns — his longest catch being 51 yards.

"I don't think the lights are going to have an effect on me," Wallace said. "I'm use to playing under the lights since that's what I played under while I was in high school."

Besides his ability to catch the ball, Wallace is also considered to be a good defense man, according to Joe Hatcher, Wildcat receiver coach.

"He does a very good job of blocking, something that most people overlook," Hatcher said.

Since his arrival at K-State, Wallace has played a backseat role to the nation's other top collegiate receivers.

Except for Irving Fryar of the University of Nebraska, Wallace is the only returning collegiate receiver who has a good shot at making the pros.

"My freshman year, I saw a lot of players play," Wallace said, "but I never saw anyone who I thought was better than me."

"I hear about how good (Willie) Gault and (Irving) Fryar are, but that doesn't bother me. Sooner or later, my chance will come and then I'll get all the publicity."

One reason Wallace believes he is underrated is the losing tradition K-State has in football.

"For a long time, K-State has had a losing tradition in football and a lot of our players don't get noticed," he said.

In order to prove that he's worth looking at, Wallace will have to duplicate or better last season's performances.

"I'm not worried. I feel I can do the same job as I did last year," he said.

Crusaders preseason favorites

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — It's no surprise the Kapaun-Mt. Carmel Crusaders are favored to repeat as Class 5A champions in the preseason Kansas high school football consensus rankings.

After a perfect 12-0 season in 1982, which included a 20-17 win over the eventual 6A titleholder Wichita East, the Crusaders are the obvious preseason favorite. The Crusaders now own a 24-game winning streak, the state's longest, and if they win it all in 1983, it will be their third consecutive state championship.

There are three other teams in the preseason rankings with perfect records: the reigning Class 2A champion Sterling Black Bears — now competing in 3A — the 1A champion Baileyville Falcons and the Eight Man titleholding Midway-Denton Eagles.

Besides Sterling, which is unable to win 2A again, only Class 4A champion Wellington is not favored to repeat in the preseason poll.

Class 6A
1. Wichita East, 11-1. 2. Shawnee Mission South, 9-2. 3. Lawrence, 7-3. 4. Shawnee Mission West, 7-3. 5. Manhattan, 9-1.

Class 5A
1. Kapaun-Mt. Carmel, 12-0. 2. Salina South, 7-2. 3. Shawnee Mission-Miege, 8-4. 4. Newton, 5-4. 5. Parsons, 7-2.

Class 4A
1. Norton, 11-1. 2. Ellsworth, 7-3. 3. Hiawatha, 9-2. 4. Baldwin, 7-2. 5. Wellington, 12-1.

Class 3A
1. Smith Center, 12-1. 2. Humboldt, 9-1. 3. Rossville, 9-2. 4. Osborne, 7-2. 5. Wellsboro, 11-2.

Class 2A
1. Clifton-Clyde, 10-2. 2. Stanton County-Johnson, 11-1. 3. Jackson Heights, 8-2. 4. Frontenac, 8-2. 5. Pittsburg-Colgan, 7-2.

Class 1A
1. Baileyville, 12-0. 2. Caldwell, 6-3. 3. Quinter, 8-2. 4. Thayer, 7-2. 5. Cedar Vale, 5-4.

Eight Man I
1. Midway-Denton, 12-0. 2. Canton-Galva, 8-2. 3. Highland, 7-1. 4. Logan, 8-1. 5. Westmoreland, 7-2.

Eight Man II
1. Lucas Lury, 11-1. 2. Cunningham, 9-2. 3. Northern Valley, 12-2. 4. Ingalls, 6-3. 5. McCracken, 6-3.

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-1
Drive-Up Convenience
401 Humboldt 776-1193

"SCATBAND"

$2.00 Cover; ONLY $1.00 with Sports Fan-attic Membership
Thursday, Friday, Saturday

—Every Thursday—

Grand Slam 4 for 1's

Both levels—beginning at 8:00 p.m.

WOK AWAY WITH A GOOD DEAL!

5 pc. round bottom
wok sets includes
• wok • chopsticks
• cover • converter
• cookbook ring

only 9⁹⁵

Accio HARDWARE

1205 Moro
539-7761 M.-Sat. 8-5:30 p.m.

AT PINATA:

WE SPEAK "AMERICAN" TOO!
HOT DOGS (hät dogs)
&
SLOPPY JOES (släp-ē'jōs)

Six "Quarter-Pound" Hot Dogs
Six Different Sloppy Joes

Remember!
Free refills of soft drinks with any Dine-In Food Purchase.
(Limit 1 Refill — Offer Good till April 30, 1983)

Piñata.

Open Mon.-Sat. 11-11, Sun. 11-10 539-3166
Bluemont and North Manhattan

The Organization of Arab Students

Welcomes all Arab Students for a Tea-Party

Place: International Student Center

Time: 6:30 p.m.

Date: Saturday, Sept. 10, 1983

WINTER WARMERS

Sale

Save Up to 30%
On All Coats

1130 Moro
Aggieville
Open: Mon.-Sat. 10-6:00
Thurs. 10-8:30 Sun. 12-5

carouse!

ALL YOU CAN EAT MOUNTAIN OYSTERS!

• Only $3.95
Thurs. nites
6-10 p.m.

ROCKIN' K BAR

K

TONITE IS LADIES NITE!

GET FRAMED! OFF CAMPUS STUDENTS

Have your picture taken for Royal Purple

• Sept. 6-12, 8:30 to 12:30, 1:30 to 5:30
• Call 539-5229 for appointment or sign up in Union Room 209.
• Bring stamped fee card.

Extracurricular sports vs learning

Imagine your high school days without extracurricular activities. Getting up in the morning just to attend classes all day and return home — a monotonous routine.

Gordon Schultz, chairman of the state Board of Education, proposed this past summer that athletics be eliminated from junior high schools as a way of improving academics in Kansas.

With that thought in mind, it is inevitable that individuals will take the idea one step further and concentrate their efforts upon high schools — the next scapegoat.

This idea of eliminating sports from the high school years is a recurring situation. But this year, the idea has gained momentum with "A Nation at Risk," a report prepared by the Secretary of Education.

In the report, a suggestion to cure improper use of class time is to lengthen school hours and days.

Schultz believes that to improve upon an "improper" situation is to disregard sports as activities providing no learning benefit — or any benefit whatsoever.

Athletics in schools is a way of instructing team work, tolerance, sportsmanship, life-long physical fitness and the most important aspect — the ability to accept a winning attitude and a losing attitude as part of life.

The only time athletics can be negative is when the win-at-all cost attitude prevails.

SEAN REILLY
Sports Editor

Kansas has a fine educational system operating in unison with sports activities. In Kansas, one need not worry about a sport being overemphasized.

The Kansas State High School Athletic Association, compared with other states, barely allows for an unlimited athletic season. I by no means suggest, or even hint, at a longer season. I merely point out that Kansas high schools balance athletic activities and the education process very well.

In the Shawnee Mission School district, extracurricular activity is viewed as "an extension of laboratories where values taught and learned in the school classroom can be further tried and tested."

In high school athletics, it is the goal of most coaches to instill pride, self-discipline, self-control, dedication, determination and the learning process of interacting with others in a positive attitude on their pupils.

The criticism of high school athletics may be due in part to increasing cost. Yet, at the same time enrollment is declining, increased student participation is evident.

The Shawnee Mission district had 10,093 senior high students enrolled in 1970. Of those, 2,680 participated in some athletic competition.

In contrast, the 1982-83 school year showed a total enrollment of 8,170 senior high students at this district, with 3,500 of them participating in athletics, bands, cheerleading and drill teams.

The report mentions that family participation is lacking — especially in academic endeavors. Any area which promotes family support — as after-school activities do — provides another benefit.

In another perspective, a survey indicated of all high school dropouts, 94 percent stated they were not involved in any extra activities.

Dropping athletics from compulsory school will not eliminate any problems in the education system. Rather, those same students seeking activities will discover and join agencies like the YMCA and others that have organized games.

Nowhere in the report does it mention curtailing high school activities, so why does Schultz perceive a decline in activities as a means of improving education?

KSU-KU-WSU river race to feature 30 canoe teams

By LARRY BOYD
Staff Writer

An estimated 30 canoe teams will compete Saturday and Sunday in the KSU-KU-WSU Kaw River Canoe Race sponsored by the Kansas State University Association of Residence Halls.

Lee Weis, junior in agriculture education, and Keith Siemsen, senior in geology, are the co-chairman for the event and both estimated that 15 to 20 teams from K-State would be competing in the race.

In addition to teams from K-State, Siemsen estimated that the University of Kansas would have about 15 teams while Wichita State University and Washburn University of Topeka would each field at least one team.

The canoers will depart at 8 a.m. from the Kansas Fish and Game Kaw River Boat Access Ramp on the Blue River, which is near the bridges on U.S. Highway 24 east of Manhattan, to start the 95-mile race down the Kaw River to Lawrence.

The teams will each have between 15 and 40 members.

For 13 years, the race has traditionally been a K-State-KU rivalry but Siemsen said WSU was invited for the first time this year. Washburn has participated in the past and this year will be in the independent division whereas most teams will be in the residence hall division.

Trophies will be presented to the top three residence hall teams and the top independent team as well as to the top team from each university. Teams with over 50 percent residence hall members are in the residence hall division and all other teams are in the independent division.

Although there will be some serious competitors, Weis said, most of the participants will be "out to have a good time."

"The main point of this canoe race is to get to know other people from K-State and the other schools," Siemsen said. "Socializing is the most important thing, although the competition itself is also important," he said.

After 44 miles of canoeing on Saturday, the teams will stop at the St. Marys-Maple Hill bridge for a picnic and overnight stay.

On Sunday, the race will continue with teams departing in the order they finished on Saturday. The teams will leave at intervals depending on Saturday's times.

Serious competitors will be attempting to break the record of 14 hours and 10 minutes set by Haymaker 4 in 1977.

Weis pointed out, however, that the race will be slower because water level in the river is lower this year than it has been in the past.

"It will be a real strategic race because the river's so low," Weis said.

During the race, teams are required to keep a co-ed team of at least three people in the canoe.

Teams may substitute as many canoers as they want but only at one of the 22 designated checkpoints. Teams can also bypass the checkpoints in hopes of saving time.

Babies
Don't Thrive
in Smoke-filled
Wombs

When You're Pregnant,
Don't Smoke!

Support the
March of Dimes
Birth Defects Prevention Program

We've Been Moved

The Assembly of God

Is Now Sharing the Experience of the Holy Spirit
at 1400 Vattier
on campus. (All Faiths Chapel)

*Join Us—
And Share A Moving Moment
In Your Life—*

Sunday Morning
10:30 A.M.
Sunday Evening
6:00 P.M.

When it
comes to pizza,
PTA comes to you.

BETTER PIZZA!
BETTER DEAL!

Pizza Transit Authority®

PTA'S GREAT
PIZZA
COUPON

537-9500

Feed a Group of Four
For $7⁰⁰

Any Large 1-Item Pizza and 4-14 oz.
Cups of Pepsi Delivered Free.

Aggieville
1127 Moro
S08C

Not Good with Other Specials.
Limit One Coupon Per Pizza.
Expires Sept. 11, 1983

FREE DELIVERY
IN 30 MINUTES OR LESS
ANYWHERE IN OUR SERVICE ZONE

12th Walnut Valley Festival September 15, 16, 17, 18, 1983

Winfield Fairgrounds
Winfield, Kansas

Featuring in Person:

- De Dannan
- The Tony Rice Unit
- Berline, Cray & Hickman
- Mike Cross
- The Bluegrass Band
- John McCutcheon
- Trapezoid
- Mark O'Connor
- Buck's Stove and Range Co.
- Ken Bloom
- Whetstone Run
- Hoofin' High Country Cloggers
- Neal Hellman
- The Foster Family String Band
- Southern Manor
- Cathy Barton & Dave Para

- Southwind
- Dudley Murphy & County Line
- Art Thieme
- Maddie MacNeil & Seth Austen
- Chris Proctor
- Tracy's Family Band
- Washboard Leo
- Pat Skinner
- Harvey Prinz & Lilah Gillett
- Roz Brown
- Tommy Flint
- Tiera Til
- Stevie Beck

Arts & Craft Fair
35 Workshops
8 contests
Well policed grounds
Weekend ticket includes rough camping
No Animals, No Beer or Alcohol, No Drugs and
No Motorcycles
(due to noise)

Ticket Information:

Special Advance Weekend: $25 (Fri $13, Sat $13, Sun $10)
2 days $20 - Specify Fri Sat or Sat Sun
At Gate Weekend: $28 (Fri $13, Sat $13, Sun $10)
2 Days $22 - Specify Fri Sat or Sat Sun
(Admission to Thursday evening only to those purchasing a weekend festival ticket)
Children under age 12 free with adult
No mail orders after Sept. 8th Advance tickets guarantee admission
Any tickets received September 8th or thereafter will be held at the gate
No Refunds Ticket gate open 24 hours

walnut valley

association, inc.

117 E. 9th — Box 245 N
Winfield, Kansas 67156
Phone 316-221-3250

This will be the BEST FESTIVAL IN THE U.S. this year!!!

ST. FRANCIS at KSU

The Episcopal Campus Ministry

Sundays

5:00 p.m.—Holy Eucharist
6:00 p.m.—Supper
7:00 p.m.—Film/Discussion

Mondays

7:30 p.m.—Bible Study
"Community & Faith"

Wednesdays

12:10 p.m.—Eucharist
Danforth Chapel

This Sunday's Film: The Late Great God

1801 Anderson

Chaplain: Fr. Ron Clingenpeel
537-0593

The Episcopal Church Welcomes You!

Arrow CHEVELLA
Classically rugged yet refined

Handsome, tasteful plaids and stripes are elegant enough to be worn indoors as well as outdoors. Comfortable, too, in a soft, twill weave fabric of a natural blend of 70% cotton, 30% polyester. Matched center pleat and pocket. Single needle tailoring. Choose from our wide selection of colors and patterns. Button down collars available.

➔Arrow➔

West Ltd.

Smith residents fight proposal to sell house

By MICHELE SAUER
Staff Writer

"Smithies" are fighting to keep their home despite a recommendation by President Duane Acker that the Maitland E. Smith House, 317 N. 17th St., be closed and sold.

Acker met Aug. 15 with 10 KSU Foundation and University officials concerned about Smith House and recommended the house be sold and the proceeds used for scholarships.

The final decision will be made Sept. 27 by the board of directors of the Foundation.

Smith residents and David Boyd, temporary instructor of extension energy and former Smith resident, said they believe the University is obligated to operate the house for at least one more year.

"The University legally has to operate the house until July of next year according to the contract drawn up in 1958," Boyd said. The contract was established between the Foundation and the University.

"They (the University) agreed to rent the building for $1 a year and pay the insurance," Boyd said. "Either party could terminate the agreement with a 12-month written notice. They just decided this summer and closed it up without the notice."

In an attempt to get Smith House operating again, Boyd is forming the Smith Alumni Association.

"This summer I visited the housing department about forming the Smith Alumni Association," Boyd said. "It's in the process of incorporating right now. The department hinted at a problem with the (low) number of housing contracts. In late July, the housing department offered residents who were returning to Smith contracts in Moore Hall or refunds."

Boyd approached the Foundation with the idea for the alumni association and found them receptive.

Smith House had been mismanaged, Boyd said. The house had not been filled to capacity and the methods of recruiting residents were contrary to the original purpose of the house, he said.

"The fundamental problem is that it (Smith House) has not been promoted," Boyd said. "The housing department will not promote one residence hall over another and I can understand that, but they don't seem to believe in cooperative or scholarship houses."

Boyd said the house, which has a capacity of 42 residents, could be filled and have a waiting list — if students knew about it. This semester 27 students would have lived in Smith House.

"Most residents found out about Smith House through sisters living in Smurthwaite or other relatives living in Smith," Boyd said. "One person asked specifically about a scholarship house. The rest of the residents came from dorm overflow."

Frank Male, senior in agricultural mechanization, almost didn't find out about Smith House. He came to campus as a freshman with his parents and found the residence halls full.

A housing employee told Male and his parents to start apartment hunting, then as they were walking out the door, the employee told them about Smith House. After touring the house, Male decided to live there.

"They made me feel wanted," Male said. "They showed me the whole house. They told me how the older guys could help you out. The housing department didn't tell me any of the good points of the place."

Recruitment of residents was also mismanaged, Boyd said.

"When the house was originally donated, it was to be a scholarship house," Boyd said. "Living in the house was to be considered a scholarship and members were to be referred by the general scholarship committee. As far back as 1977, when I came here, they've been filling it with dorm overflow, contrary to the purpose of the house."

After Acker's announcement, Boyd approached the Foundation to request that the alumni association be allowed to operate the house. The housing department would lease the building, inside equipment and some of the furniture through the Foundation to the association.

"We were just going to rent the equipment and furniture for a year, until we got on our feet," Boyd said. "We were all set to go, until Acker called the Foundation and said he could not allow the equipment to be leased for that purpose. He said the house would be in competition with the dorms. He went out of his way to make sure it (Smith House) wouldn't open."

Jim Stewart, fifth-year student in animal science and agronomy and 1983-84 director of Smith House, was not allowed to make a presentation at the Aug. 15 meeting.

"As director, I wanted to present our side," Stewart said. "The Foundation thought this was fair, too. But Acker wouldn't allow me into the meeting. He wouldn't even let me make my presentation and leave before the meeting started."

Stewart said he hopes to make a presentation when the Foundation's board of directors meets.

"The Anderson Hall administration has gone out of its way to not run the house," Boyd said. "I can't understand why they don't want it to be run at all."

At the meeting Acker gave six reasons for this decision and sent a copy of the reasons to Boyd. The first reason was that there wasn't enough time to reverse the decision, but Male and other residents said they don't believe that.

"We waited until the last minute to sign leases and were willing to sleep in our cars (to wait for the house to open)," Male said. "We had the most to lose."

L. Irene Putnam donated the land and house to the K-State Endowment Association to be used as a scholarship house named for her brother. In 1977, the house was converted from a scholarship house to a cooperative house.

Boyd said Acker reasoned that creating a scholarship fund with the money will be more in line with the intention of Putnam's gift because it would benefit more students.

"I disagree with this," Boyd said. "Each resident saved about $400 each year in housing costs living in Smith. With 22 residents, that's $16,800 a year. By selling the house, the return each year wouldn't have the same value."

Acker also proposed that Smith alumni perpetuate the name and spirit of Smith on a wing of a residence hall floor.

Male and Boyd both said they believe the spirit and closeness of the men living in Smith could not be duplicated in a residence hall.

"His fifth reason was that the house has to be full to operate properly," Boyd said. "This implies that it can't be filled. I claim we can fill it and have a waiting list."

The last reason — and the most legitimate, according to Boyd — was even if the house was run by a separate, independent organization, there would be an implied financial responsibility. If the house would fail, the University might feel pressure to bail it out financially.

Acker announced at last week's Student Senate meeting the closing of Smith for the same reasons.

"We (the alumni association) have the management experience to make it successful," Boyd said. "We looked at pest control, utilities, trash and restaurant licenses. We have a very workable budget, with each man paying $177 a month."

"The Smithies, as we like to call ourselves, want to stay together," Boyd said. "Sixteen of the guys have rented two large houses. The freshmen were required to live in dorms and some of the others chose to live in residence halls also."

Boyd said he doesn't know what the chances are of getting the house open.

If the board of directors of the Foundation rules in favor of the alumni association, the association will try to open the house next fall.

The Smith Alumni Association would be a non-profit corporation of alumni, parents, spouses and friends of Smith House that would operate the house.

"We would provide the building," Boyd said. "That would include rent, insurance, maintenance and hiring of some staff." The staff would plan menus and schedule jobs.

Each resident works six hours a week in the house. There are also four paid student positions: a house manager, kitchen manager, director, and treasurer. Boyd said he would also like to have an "external adviser" for the residents.

"We (the alumni association) would promote the house," Boyd said. "First of all, we'd advertise in the Collegian, so people would know what it is, where it is and the benefits of living there. Then, we'd contact high school counselors across the state to make the high school community aware. Most students identify scholarship houses with KU." The University of Kansas has eight scholarship houses.

Two other objectives the alumni association has are raising funds and providing a local advisory council. The advisory council would be there "if problems came up," and handle business affairs external to the operation of the house.

Another agreement between the Foundation and the University was made in 1977, after the Foundation spent $47,000 on capital improvements for the house. The agreement stated that the University would agree to run the house through the 1987-88 academic year. This agreement could be dissolved by mutual assent, Boyd said. The decision to close the house, however, was unilateral and made only by the housing department.

"I'll admit there are problems with the way the house was run," Boyd said. "But I claim they (the housing department) created the problems in the first place by refusing to promote it."

Living in a small scholarship house had many benefits, Male said. Smith resembled a family unit — there were close and trusting friendships. Locks were unnecessary inside Smith, he said.

Stewart said he doubts whether he'd be in school if it weren't for other Smith residents, because there were always people that cared and helped.

"You could be your own person," he said. "No one put pressure on you to be like others."

"There is a really diverse group," Male said. "You learn responsibility and how to get along."

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

Thursday
$ Dollar Days $
$1 Cover
$1.25 Pitchers
7-Midnight
619 N. Manhattan

DICK & FRIENDS

404 Humboldt ph. 776-5222
Manhattan
Appointments
Closed Mon. Tues.-Fri. 9-6
Sat. 8-3

Burke's
404 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan

NIKE SALE

Thursday • Friday
Saturday
Men's & Women's
10% OFF
Over 20 styles to choose from!

HI DE HO MOTEL
NO VACANCY

BUSCH The official beer of The Charlie Daniels Band.

Officially on tap
at Aggie Lounge, Brothers,
Dark Horse, J. Riggs West and the Ranch Saloon.

Manhattan Jewish Congregation
and
B'nai B'rith Hillel

Welcomes you to Rosh Hashanah services
Wednesday Evening 8:00 p.m., Sept. 7th
Thursday Morning 10:00 a.m., Sept. 8th
at the Manhattan Jewish Congregation
1509 Wreath Avenue

the shoe center
Dexter Days
Thursday—Friday—Saturday

FREE with Dexter!
When you purchase a pair of men's or women's Dexter shoes you receive this Nylon Sport Bag for FREE. A $10.00 value that is perfect for campus or sport!

the shoe center
539-3595
312 Poyntz

Senators attend Jackson burial

By The Associated Press

EVERETT, Wash. — Vice President George Bush and nearly half of the U.S. Senate joined about 1,400 other mourners Wednesday in bidding farewell to Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson as he was buried in this waterfront mill town.

Meanwhile, controversy was already brewing over appointment of an interim successor to the Washington Democrat and over plans for a winner-take-all November election to fill his seat — an election that could help determine control of the entire U.S. Senate.

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Keadie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENT

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Oktoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

STUDENT DIETETIC Association is having homemade ice cream September 8 at 7:30 p.m. Justin Lounge. Come get acquainted. (12-13)

EXECUTIVE POSITION—Travel, responsibility, excellent benefits. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (13)

THE LATE Great God—Film and discussion—7:00 p.m. Sunday, St. Francis Episcopal Campus Ministry, 1801 Anderson. (13-14)

ULN HAS changed its name and expanded its general information service to include career exploration, sexuality counseling, study skills and wellness. Now called U-Learn, we can be reached at 6442. Hours are Monday-Friday 8:00 a.m.-10:00 p.m., Saturday and Sunday noon-6:00 p.m. Volunteers are still needed. Come by Holton Hall, room 2. (13)

WANT A warm, creative, learning environment for your child? Sunwheel has openings 1:00-4:00 p.m., 2 1/2-5 years. Call 776-4116. (13-15)

DAUGHTERS OF Diana will meet 6:30 Thursday evening to elect executive officers still open. A mandatory Rush Party will follow at 7:00 p.m. (13)

ATTENTION 02 TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

K-LAIRES, KSU's square dancing club, will be accepting new members September 11 and September 18. Inexperienced and experienced dancers welcome, no partners required to join. Join us upstairs in the Union's K.S.U. Ballrooms, Sunday nights at 7:00 p.m. (12-14)

ATTENTION: NANCY will be married November 26 to Greg who works for Central College in McPherson. Call Fred Mikesell for information, 532-3474. (13)

WHEN IT'S party time, call D.J. Dave Guthals, 539-7512. Vast music selection. Top quality equipment. Lots and lots of experience. 539-7512. (9-13)

REGENCY LEARNING and Childcare Center, 1811 Browning has a few openings for morning and afternoon preschool. All lesson plans are developed and taught by experienced teachers with degrees in Early Childhood Education. If necessary we will provide transportation for your child to preschool. For more information call 776-4444, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. or 776-9732 after 5:30 p.m. and weekends, or stop by the center for a visit and a tour. (10-14)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wig, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electrical and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 311 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hull Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. (8f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid, $210/month, 1131 Valtier. Phone 776-0596. (11-14)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

NEW, FOUR-bedroom apartment near KSU, 1721 Laramie, utilities paid. Call 776-1776. (13-14)

TWO-THREE bedroom house in country, close-in, partially furnished. Prefer agriculture background, $285. Call 776-6083. (13-15)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, stereo, new paint, new tires, excellent condition, 37,000 miles. $5,500 or best offer. Call 776-0131. (12-16)

1967 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass, four-door, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning. Runs good. Call 1-485-2648. (10-14)

1977 DATSUN B210 Hatchback Deluxe. Low miles, clean, automatic transmission. Almost new tires, $2500. Call 539-5845. (12-16)

1971 CORVETTE convertible, 68,700 miles. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

1971 MG convertible, $2,300. Call 776-3363. (12-14)

1969 MUSTANG—Automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes. Call 1-456-7016 after 6:30 p.m. (13-17)

1976 BUICK Skyhawk—6 cylinders, automatic, 75,000 mileage, good condition, $1500. Call 539-6763. (13-17)

1976 FIAT X19, new engine, new interior, new paint, must sell, $2700. Call 532-6364. (13-14)

1976 VW Bus—excellent condition. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

1977 HONDA Accord—New valve job, new front brakes, new radial tires. Car is in excellent condition, $2,250 or best offer. Diane, 532-6767 or 539-6808. (13-16)

1975 VW Rabbit—Good condition, excellent gas mileage, $1,250. Call 539-0131. (13-17)

1968 VW Bus—Good condition, must sell, $1,100 or best offer. Call 539-0131. (13-17)

1973 VALIANT four-door sedan, slant-six, 225 engine, good running condition, $350. Call 537-8367. (13-14)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds, $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

MENS SILVER Schwinn Letour ten-speed bike, 21-inch frame, excellent condition. Call 776-3118. (11-13)

16 FOOT Ebko tunnel hull ski boat, 80 HP Merc, excellent condition, $2850. 2419 Anderson, 539-1945. (12-13)

RALEIGH 26" 10-speed Gran Sport, Campi dealer, white/blue. Excellent, with extras, $200. Call 1-256-2503. (12-14)

ZENITH TV—21" color console. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

BAND EQUIPMENT: Les Paul guitar, ampeg amps, synthesizers, pianos, organ, Leslie, PA cabinets, mixer. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

TWO WICKER chairs, two wicker partitions, one wicker chest, large formica counter—would make a good wet bar. All excellent condition, 776-3379. Ask for Aaron or Rosie. (12-16)

RALEIGH, 3-speed bicycle. Made in England. Good condition, $75. Call 539-8629 evenings 7:00-11:00 p.m. (13-15)

16 FOOT wooden boat, 35 hp motor, trailer, many extras, $550. Mike, 776-4546 (after 7:00 p.m.) (13-17)

3.2 CUBIC foot refrigerator, $70. Call 539-5571. (13-14)

THREE CARPET remnants, two brown, one beige, $10-$25. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

CALCULATOR TI-59, programmable with magnetic card storage, six months old, $175. Contact Bob, DU 265, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08 CLEAN 10'x45' older mobile home. Short drive to Manhattan or can be moved, $1500. Call 1-456-9418 or 1-456-7845 after 5:00 p.m. (12-16)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09

1980 KAWASAKI 440-LTD. Low miles, lots of extras, excellent condition. Call 539-1625. (11-13)

1981 YAMAHA HOPPER, $295. Must sell. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

FOUND 10

SET OF keys found in Seaton Hall, room 63. Identify and claim in room 212. Also glasses found in Seaton Court, room 109. (12-14)

KITTEN FOUND near Domino's on 12th Street Thursday, September 1. Call 537-1680 to identify. (13)

PAUL GRIMES drivers license found outside Walters Hall. Call 532-6154 to identify and claim. (13-15)

FREE 11

FREE if carted away—Orange sofa, gold rocker, non-working color TV. Fair condition. 539-6554. (12-13)

GARAGE SALES 12

JUST MOVED, can't find room for everything. Carpets, furniture, etc. 1909 Ranier, Saturday, September 10, 8:00-5:00 p.m. (12-14)

2205 McDOWELL, Saturday, 8:30 a.m.-7. Stereos, furniture, TV, clothes, ladies uniforms, bulletin boards, lots of misc. (13-14)

HELP WANTED 13

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST for independent clinical laboratory. Experience preferred. Part-time. Send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502. (8-14)

THESIS RESEARCH. Participants needed for a study of ski resort visual quality. $2 for 45 minutes, flexible schedule. Call Bob, 537-6951. (12-13)

CLEAN HALLS in apartment building. Needs own transportation. Approximately ten hours a week. Call 539-5182. (12-14)

BABYSITTERS FOR evenings and weekends. Must have own transportation, 537-2611. (12-13)

PIZZA DELIVERY—Wage plus commission and tips. Must have car and liability. Apply in person, 716 North 3rd, 4:00-8:00 p.m. (12-14)

RESEARCH SUBJECTS needed for comfort study. Payment $10. Sign up at the Institute for Environmental Research, Seaton Hall. (12-13)

TELEPHONE SALES Position—Evenings, call from our office, 15 minutes from Manhattan. $5.00/hour guaranteed, bonus. Call Tom Mertz, Farmer's Shopper, 1-456-2837. (13-15)

TEMPORARY PART-time help. Apply in person, Friday after 1:30 p.m. Nelson's Hatchery, East Highway 24, 776-9401. (13)

LOST 14

BROWN PLAID English MG style hat. Reward! Please call 537-9231 evenings. (12-14)

NOTICES 15

SEWING MACHINES—All makes professionally repaired. Several brands of new machines. 2011 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-8919. (12-29)

SKYDIVE

KSU Parachute Club will be meeting in U206 at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 8. Be there to discuss first jump class and weekend jumping. Airborne!!!

PERSONAL 16

AX SAL—Hey lose—it's been great having you as a little sister! Get psyched for tonight. We're going to KSB! AX Love, Krista. (13)

DID YOU get a kitty? Are you loved? Happy one year! It's been great! I know there will be many more and I look forward to them because I love you. Your Schnauzer and Dinker. (13)

TO THE mean Alpha Chi machine—Best of luck for the game tonight! You've worked hard, now show your stuff! We're behind you all the way to victory. AX love, the hula girls. (13)

ANDREW—The other night meant alot to me and so do you. You're not pushy either. Love, your green M&M partner. (13)

PI KAPPA Phi: We all know how easily rumors get started, but what's this Roomer going around about Saturday night? (13)

A BIG thank you to my roomies, fellow Smurthers, senators, and friends who made my 21st special. Sheila Vee. (13)

SUSIE—I have you two stuffed monkeys. High personal loss to be suffered by owner to regain possession. Watch for further information regarding abduction at a later date. "Abductor" (13)

AWESOME ALPHA Chi Powder Puffers—The time is tonight, the game is set. Let's prove this year, we're the best team yet. The players are ready, the coaches might be buyin'? Don't forget your yelling voices and go Hawaiian. Shep. (13)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female roommate, $175/month, all utilities paid. Call 539-6628. (6-14)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share nice duplex, own bedroom. Call 776-1530 after 6:00 p.m. or 1-736-2623 during weekend. (9-14)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share one-bedroom apartment six blocks from campus. $105/month plus utilities. Call 539-7973. (9-14)

ROOMMATE to share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100/month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (10-14)

RESPONSIBLE FEMALE roommate. Cozy three-bedroom house. $117, one-third utilities. 537-4973, after 5:00 p.m., keep trying. (10-14)

ONE MALE roommate to share nice, furnished, one-bedroom apartment. $105 plus one-half utilities. Deposit needed. One block from campus. Call 776-9665 after 6:00 p.m. (11-14)

LIBERAL ROOMMATE wanted to share nicely furnished apartment with two people, $131.66/month plus utilities. 539-3197. (11-15)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment with good location. Private room, one-half rent and utilities. 776-0154. (11-13)

NON-SMOKING ROOMMATE to share apartment. Close to campus, washer/dryer, deck, patio, BBQ. $117.50. Call 539-1658. (12-14)

FEMALE—One block from campus, Campus East Apartments. Furnished, pool, beautiful location. Low utilities. Call 776-7045. (12-14)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL, graduate roommate wanted. Private bedroom, washer and dryer, near campus. $130/month plus one-third utilities. Call 776-2487 after 5:00 p.m. (12-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share modern apartment, $133/month with many extras. Call Mary, 537-0257 evenings. (13-17)

NON-SMOKING LIBERAL female. Own room. Fall and spring, $145/month. 1320 Laramie, 537-3645 or 776-1614. (13-18)

MALE OR female housemate. Share two bedroom house, washer and dryer. Call Dean, 776-5569. (13-17)

ROOMMATES NEEDED for nice seven bedroom house near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Water and trash paid, $130 per month. 776-1776. (13-14)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE—furnished apartment, excellent location, $115 plus one-half utilities. Kate at 537-8546 or 532-6991. Keep trying. (13-17)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share one bedroom apartment one block from campus. Rent $105.58 plus one-half utilities. Call 537-0933. (13-15)

WANT A responsible male roommate, preferably a grad student, to share a two bedroom apartment, furnished, $135 per month. Includes utilities paid and free cable T.V. Please call 539-6629 anytime after 6:00 p.m. (13-15)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Floris Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8837. (3-30)

TYPING. EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-7451 after 5:00 p.m. (5-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-6528. (6-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (6-15)

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service

1-494-2388, St. George

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-8174. (7f)

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials, 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 1983. Call Elaine Berryhill, independent Beauty Consultant. 537-3233 days, 1-456-7251 evenings. (7-29)

COSTUMES BY the thousands. Complete rabbits, chickens, gorillas, tigers, bears and more. Flappers, Play Boy Bunnies, French maid, dance hall girls, much more. Ask for whatever you'd like to reserve now for Halloween! Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (9-50)

TRISH'S TYPING Service—Everything from letters to dissertations. Call Trish after 5:30 p.m. at 539-6263. (8-19)

TYPING—LETTERS, term papers, resumes, etc. Reasonable rates. Call Sherry, 539-9131 after 5:30 p.m. (10-19)

WILL DO Key Punching and verify work. Call Roxie, 532-6281 from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. After 5:00 p.m. call 539-2564. (13-15)

TYPING, 65/page, quality-control proofreader, editing optional. 537-9175 early mornings, late evenings; keep trying. (13-17)

WANTED 21

COMPETITIVE SWIMMERS: Join a winner, independent intra-mural swim team needs you. Call Doug, 539-5321. (12-14)

WANTED TO BUY 22

16MM MOVIE projector: New or slightly used. Call 532-3558. (13-15)

Collegian Classifieds

Where K-State Shops

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Actor Nabors
4 Christie's title
8 Nuisance
12 Fuss
13 Give off
14 Writer James
15 "2001" sight
17 Relay
18 "...man - mouse?"
19 Lease holders
21 Pressing
24 Floor item
25 Damage
26 Clumsy one
28 Mausoleums
32 Baby carriage
34 Obtain
36 Nick Charles's spouse
37 Big rigs
39 Bankroll
41 Thumbs down
42 Manta
44 Airline employees
46 Moves out of
- 50 Big tub
51 Sleep like —

Then get in on the ground floor in our undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start planning on a career like the men in this ad have. And also have some great advantages like:

- Earning $100 a month during the school year
- As a freshman or sophomore, you could complete your basic training during two six-week summer sessions and earn more than $1100 during each session
- Juniors earn more than $1900 during one ten-week summer session

- You can take free civilian flying lessons
- You're commissioned upon graduation

If you're looking to move up quickly, look into the Marine Corps undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start off making more than $17,000 a year

Want to move up quickly?

Maybe you can be one of us.

*The Few.
The Proud.
The Marines.*

Marines

See your Officer Selection Officer, 1stLt Bradford at the Student Union on September 12-14, 1983 or call (913) 841-1821 collect.

Victory stretch

A win for K-State warms up a big volleyball weekend
Sports, page 9

Kassebaum, Slattery predict rise in gas cost

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — U.S. Sen. Nancy Kassebaum and U.S. Rep. Jim Slattery on Thursday outlined their plans for curbing skyrocketing natural gas costs and "creating a sensible gas policy" in testimony presented to the Special Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

In an afternoon statehouse appearance, Sen. Kassebaum, R-Kansas, told the committee she doesn't have much hope that a natural gas policy bill will be passed by Congress this year. She said that's regrettable because a harsh, cold winter could have serious effects on natural gas consumers.

"The combination of weather, recesses and politics doesn't bode well for the bill getting out of both houses this year," Sen. Kassebaum said. "We won't get to it all before November because we have a couple of major appropriations bills and other things we have to get out. In all honesty, I just don't see it."

She was referring to proposals before the Senate that would basically decontrol the price of natural gas. She said long debate is expected over the issue of "old gas" — natural gas discovered before 1977 — and take-or-pay contracts which require a pipeline to pay for a certain amount of gas whether or not it is needed.

"It's really too bad because the lack of action only heightens the public's frustration," Sen. Kassebaum said. "It will just make them really annoyed and they'll wonder what we do up there in Washington all the time."

The senator outlined for the committee a bill she introduced which would extend price controls under the Natural Gas Policy Act for two years while extending control over "old gas" and implementing a system to "bring some order to the gas marketplace."

"I feel very strongly we should not decontrol old gas until we address the distortion in the marketplace," Sen. Kassebaum said. "An anomaly exists and the public doesn't understand it. Our gas production is down, we have an excess of natural gas but why haven't we seen the prices reflect the market distortion?"

"I strongly believe that the free market is the best answer to our natural gas problems. We cannot, however, ask the consumers of America to bear the risk of decontrol until actions have been taken and proven successful, to provide a somewhat rational market."

In a prepared statement submitted to the committee, Slattery, D-Kansas, said Congress must change current natural gas laws before winter or "consumers will face yet another round of higher gas bills."

"That must not happen and I am working to change major flaws in current policy," Slattery's statement said. The congressman was unable to attend the meeting, having already returned to Washington D.C. after the summer break.

"One of our major goals is to see that price controls remain on what is known as 'old gas,' or those supplies discovered before 1977. President Reagan, backed by members of Congress from gas-producing states and by major oil and gas companies, wants to lift federal controls from old gas."

However, Slattery said that would only drive prices even higher for residential consumers. Instead of deregulating old gas, the Topeka native explained a bill he co-sponsored with U.S. Rep. Dan Coats, R-Indiana, which would protect consumer interests while providing enough incentives to ensure adequate gas supplies in the future.

"The Slattery-Coats legislation would result in an annual per-customer savings of $150 to $200 over what gas bills would be if no amendments are enacted," Slattery said.

Slattery said his plan would provide immediate price relief for gas consumers by creating a "market-out authority" in contracts governing currently deregulated gas and other relatively expensive gas.

It would also reduce pipeline take-or-pay obligations to 50 percent of deliverability for a period of three years.

Elaine Arellano, junior in fashion marketing, looks to Scott Burkholder, senior in nuclear engineering, for guidance during physical training exercises at Memorial Stadium. Despite the decrease in University enrollment, ROTC enrollment is up from previous years.

cises at Memorial Stadium. Despite the decrease in University enrollment, ROTC enrollment is up from previous years.

ROTC opportunities attract students

By LAURI DIEHL
Collegian Reporter

Money for college and a guaranteed job after graduation have attracted more students to U.S. Army and Air Force ROTC programs at K-State this year than previously.

There are 234 students in Army ROTC and 148 in Air Force ROTC at K-State this year. Last year, 209 students were enrolled in Army and 109 in Air Force.

Maj. Pat Mitchell, basic course coordinator and command officer, said economic factors may have contributed to the increased enrollment in Army ROTC. He said current ROTC students may be passing along information about their classes to others, causing increased interest in the program.

Air Force ROTC enrollment is higher this year than it has been in 10 years. Capt. Bronislaus Blaszkowski, assistant professor of aerospace studies, said there are numerous reasons for the increase.

"The economy has had an impact, memories of Vietnam have faded and there has been a resurgence of looking toward traditional values," he said. "We also offer more scholarships and more recruiting than in the past."

Mike Hill, sophomore in journalism and mass communications, joined Air Force ROTC after his freshman year.

"I felt that when I got out of college the Air Force would be a good way to get a start in life. I'll start as a second lieutenant and there are good chances for promotion," he said.

Air Force ROTC graduates start at $18,000 a year with benefits. Cathy Whitmore, sophomore in electrical engineering, said she finds Air Force job opportunities appealing, as well as the salary.

"There are so many electrical engineering graduates now, it's getting harder to find a job. When I graduate I'll have a guaranteed job and I'll be an officer," she said. "In 18 months I'll be a first lieutenant. When I've served my four years I'll be a captain. Not many graduates can go straight into management."

Although men outnumber women, both Mitchell and Blaszkowski said the number of women in ROTC is increasing.

"The military is one of the few organizations that start men and women at the same salary and in the same job," Mitchell said. "A second lieutenant is a second lieutenant."

Tina Osterman, freshman in computer science and an Army ROTC scholarship recipient, said the military is a good opportunity for women.

"I plan on making the military my career," she said. "It has excellent opportunities for women."

Whitmore agreed that there are good job opportunities.

"I think a woman can get promoted faster in the military than in private industry in a technical field," she said.

The ratio of men to women is about one to four in both Air Force and Army ROTC.

Whitmore became interested in Air Force ROTC because of the scholarship program.

"I needed a scholarship and when I compared, ROTC had really good ones," she said. "The scholarships attracted me, but when I checked out the program I thought it was a good opportunity." Whitmore has a three and one-half-year scholarship.

ROTC cadets receive academic credit for required military science classes. Classes vary between Army and Air Force programs.

Army ROTC cadets take four one-hour classes in their freshman and sophomore years as part of the basic course. Map reading and combat casualty care are required. The other two classes can be selected from mountaineering, riflery, orienteering and leadership classes.

Mitchell said most departments allow students to declare military science classes as electives.

Juniors and seniors, after completing the basic course, take a three-hour military science course with a one-hour lab each semester. These are part of the advanced course. Cadets attend an advance camp at Fort Riley between their junior and senior years.

"About 3,000 students from 114 colleges and universities in the central and eastern United States go to Fort Riley," Mitchell said. "They get paid about $600 for six weeks."

Students joining Army ROTC after their sophomore year must attend a six-week basic camp to qualify for the advanced course.

Air Force ROTC cadets are in the general military course their freshman and sophomore years. Aerospace studies classes are taken each semester for one-hour credit. Following their sophomore year, cadets attend a four-week camp at an Air Force base.

Juniors and seniors are in the professional office course. They take three-hour courses in aerospace studies each semester. Pilot candidates not yet licensed receive flying lessons.

All ROTC cadets graduate as second lieutenants, but they have different military obligations.

In both Army and Air Force ROTC, non-scholarship students incur no military service their freshman and sophomore years.

"We have a try-it-before-you-buy-it setup," Blaszkowski said. "They can take ROTC classes, receive academic credit and decide if they like it."

Army ROTC graduates choose either three years of active or six years of reserve duty. Scholarship recipients must serve four years active or eight years on reserve duty.

"Many graduates choose to go active duty because of the attractive salary and benefits," Mitchell said. "They get a starting salary of $16,000 a year, free housing and free medical and dental care."

Carlos Powell, sophomore in electrical engineering, said he plans to go active duty after graduation.

"The job opportunities are promising. I'm considering it for a career," he said.

There is no reserve duty option for Air Force ROTC graduates. They serve four years of active duty, except navigators and pilots who serve five and six years.

Not all graduates go directly to active duty. Some graduates, especially those with technical degrees, are selected to go to school for an advanced degree at Air Force expense. Others get educational delay status and pursue advanced degrees at their own expense before they begin their service.

Chile faces turmoil after protests, riots

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile — Police battled hundreds of demonstrators in Santiago Thursday during a "Day of National Protest" against the military regime of President Augusto Pinochet.

The demonstrators, mostly university students, threw rocks and shouted "He's going to fall, he's going to fall!"

The police used tear gas, clubs and water cannons against the demonstrators.

Scores of people were arrested, including copper workers union president Rodolfo Seguel and former Senator Patricio Aylwin, both affiliated with the five-party Democratic Alliance that called the protest, according to reporters on the scene.

Witnesses said policemen beat Aylwin as he watched a rally and put him on a police bus. Reporters saw many marchers pulled by the neck or the hair onto police buses, thrown to the ground and stomped on.

The day of protest was the fifth in as many months of rising unrest over an economic recession and Pinochet's authoritarian rule.

The non-Marxist alliance had urged Chileans to beat cooking pots in their homes for an hour in the evening. However, Communists and some youth groups from the alliance parties formed marches downtown.

Communists and other leftist groups have called for street demonstrations to last through Sunday, the 10th anniversary of the bloody coup that overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende and brought Pinochet to power.

More than 1,000 marchers converged from three directions toward Plaza Italia, a square at the end of the main downtown boulevard. Helmeted police, descending from buses and running in small groups, used clubs and tear gas to try to cut them off.

Two police trucks fired water cannons to disperse them, soaking alliance president Gabriel Valdes, who was standing by watching.

Most of Santiago's 4 million people stayed home from work, some out of protest and others out of fear of violence. The government closed schools for the rest of the week.

Pamphlets were scattered all over town, some urging people to join the protest and others suggesting they turn up the volume of their radios to drown out the noise of clanging pots.

Meanwhile, the government said police killed five members of the leftist Revolutionary Movement in two shootouts Wednesday night and arrested four other suspects in the Aug. 30 assassination of Santiago Gov. Carol Urzua.

Secret police agents followed an armed group to a house in the upper class Las Condes neighborhood of the capital Wednesday night, and two men and a woman died in a 10-minute gun battle that ended with a fiery explosion that blew off the roof, the government said.

Two hours later, police shot and killed two armed men and arrested 10 in the working class district of Quinta Normal.

The shootings and Thursday's rioting followed statements by Interior Minister Sergio Onofre Jarpa blaming the Democratic Alliance for unleashing violence by calling the monthly demonstrations. The alliance blames government repression for the 39 deaths in the protests since May.

House threatens to cut funding for Marines

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The chairman of a key House subcommittee said Thursday he will seek to cut off money for U.S. Marines in Lebanon unless President Reagan agrees to let Congress vote on whether to allow the troops to stay.

"Our Marines are too precious to the American people to let them be wasted as sitting-duck targets in an undeclared war, said Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., head of the House Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations, which screens overseas spending.

Long's proposal came as Senate Republican sources said the Reagan administration is trying to get Congress to approve the Marines' presence in Lebanon on its own, without invoking a controversial provision of the War Powers Act.

Long said his proposed amendment would give the president until Nov. 1 to report to Congress that U.S. troops are in a hostile environment in Lebanon, under a specific section of the War Powers Act.

If the president does not make such a report, no further money could be spent to support U.S. troops in Lebanon, Long said.

If the president did file the report, stating Americans had been sent into hostilities, the troops would have to be withdrawn after a maximum 90 days unless Congress voted to allow them to remain longer.

Administration officials have refused to say that U.S. troops have been sent into hostilities, maintaining the fighting in Beirut is between rival Lebanese factions and the Marines are not the targets.

Transcripts indicate jet may have crashed intact

By The Associated Press

TOKYO — After Korean Air Lines Flight 007 was hit by a Soviet missile, the pilot may have fought for several minutes to keep the jumbo jet aloft before it crashed into the sea, transcripts of Soviet and Japanese radio conversations indicate.

There is no suggestion in the transcripts, as provided by the Japanese Foreign Ministry, that the plane carrying 269 passengers and crew exploded in the air or caught fire. In fact, the Soviet pilots' conversations appear to indicate that they may have tried to follow its descent visually before it vanished, possibly in low-altitude cloud cover.

The Soviets have told the Japanese they found some debris in an area near the Soviet island of Sakhalin. But no debris has been found by Japanese search boats in the area and it might mean that the plane fell largely intact. Japanese officials have speculated that if the giant aircraft blew up, wreckage would have been scattered over a wide expanse of sea.

Japanese fishermen reported two or three loud bangs and flashes of light in the sky about the time the plane crashed, but as far as is known the fishermen did not mark the exact time and did not know the cause.

The aircraft, Korean Air Lines Flight 007 from New York to Seoul via Anchorage, was shot down by a Soviet warplane after it strayed off course and flew over Soviet territory.

The transcripts of Soviet pilots' conversations with ground controllers indicate that a Sukhoi-15 pilot fired two heat-seeking missiles at the Korean jetliner from perhaps one to two miles after approaching it from the rear. The plane was hit at approximately 3:26 a.m., the transcript shows.

The unidentified Soviet pilot, according to the transcripts, had reported at 3:25:40, after shadowing the plane for at least 20 minutes, that his missile warheads were locked on. At 3:26:20 he said, "I have executed the launch," and two seconds later that "the target is destroyed."

There is nothing in his words — or those of other Soviet pilots — to show that the 747 exploded in the air or that it was on fire. And a comparison of that transcript and another one of exchanges between Flight 007 and air controllers at Tokyo's Narita Airport indicates the plane was still airborne for perhaps a full minute before it clearly lost all means to communicate.

At 3:27:10, 48 seconds after the Soviet pilot's report that "the target is destroyed," the KAL pilot radioed Tokyo International Airport at Narita, saying "Tokyo, Korean Air 007."

When Narita quickly acknowledged: "KE 007, Tokyo," the stricken plane came back with: "KE007" at which point the pilot's voice broke off and the signal abruptly became "weak and noisy," according to the transcript.

Inside

Manhattan's first Hispanic Heritage week is scheduled for Sept. 11-17. Festivities include a noon concert by The Mariachi Jalisco between the Union and Seaton Hall on Friday, Sept. 16. See page 2.

Jim Stewart, would-be director of Smith House, took his case to Student Senate last night. See page 3.

Hispanics plan festive week

By LEE WHITE
Collegian Reporter

A chili cook-off, mariachi music and an address by Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., are included in Manhattan's first Hispanic Heritage Week Sept. 11-17.

Highlight of the week's festivities will be a Mexican fiesta and awards presentation Friday, Sept. 16. At this time, three or four scholarships will be presented to K-State students, said Raul Guevara, outreach coordinator in the Office of Minority Affairs and president of the local chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens, a sponsor of the activities.

Guevara said LULAC, which was founded nationally 54 years ago and locally about six weeks ago, has set a goal of $10,000 to be raised during the week. Money will be raised from entry fees for the cook-off and tickets to the fiesta.

The funds will be sent to the national office, matched and returned to the local chapter for scholarships, Guevara said.

Richard Reihs, LULAC vice president and director of Raoul's Mexican Restaurants, said the organization is open to all people regardless of race or national origin.

"The only stipulation here is that the money we originally send has to be set for minority scholarships," Reihs said. After the initial scholarships are awarded, money will be available for both Hispanic and non-Hispanic students, he said.

The local LULAC chapter had its first meeting July 25 and has about 20 members, Reihs said.

"That meeting produced enough due-paying members for us to apply for our national charter," Reihs said.

Some details of the celebration must be made final, but activities are scheduled to begin with a mariachi music workshop at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 15 in the All Faiths Chapel. The workshop is co-sponsored by the K-State music department.

The Mariachi Jalisco, a band from Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, will present a Mexican Independence Day concert at noon Sept. 16 on the island between the Union and Seaton Hall. The band also will open the fiesta at 5:30 p.m. at Raoul's Escondido, 215 S. Seth Childs Road.

The schedule for the Friday fiesta includes a LULAC initiation ceremony at 6 p.m. followed by a dinner. Reading of a Hispanic Heritage Week proclamation by Mayor Wanda Fateley also is tentatively scheduled.

An address by Tony Torres, director of Hispanic marketing development for Budweiser in St. Louis will follow the dinner.

Torres' speech, "Decade of the Hispanic — The Sleeping Giant," is to precede Slattery's 8 p.m. address on issues affecting the Hispanic community.

More mariachi music is to follow Slattery's speech. The fiesta is scheduled to end at midnight.

The first "King of Beers/King of Chili" cook-off is slated for 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 17 in the Westloop Mall.

During the cook-off, the mariachi band will perform and children will have an opportunity to break four pinatas filled with candy. An appearance by "Shamriguez," billed as the Puerto Rican prince of magic, also is scheduled.

Food and beverage booths selling Hispanic food, soft drinks and beer will be set up at the cook-off and T-shirts commemorating the occasion will be sold, Guevara said.

Other sponsors of Hispanic Heritage Week are the K-State MEChA student organization and Campbell Distributors, Inc.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CENTER needs volunteer tutors for the Conversational English program. No experience needed. Contact the Foreign Student office.

JERRY LINTON is showing recent paintings through Sept. 14 in the Diebler Gallery, West Stadium. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MINORITY ENGINEERS STUDY CENTER's new hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 6 p.m. in Durland Hall 32.

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for regular registration for the administration of the LSAT is Oct. 1.

ALL PRE-LAW STUDENTS: the deadline for registering for the mock LSAT is 4:45 p.m. Friday in the dean's office, Eisenhower Hall.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the pre-professional skills test required for admission to all teacher education programs at all regents institutions is Sept. 10 in Holton 204. The test will be given Sept. 24.

TODAY

ALL SENIOR AND GRADUATE PRE-LAW STUDENTS meet from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in Union 205 to prepare for the LSAT.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kuen-Chan Huang at 7:30 a.m. in Call Hall 206.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Cleopas O. Angaye at 3:30 p.m. in Union 204.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS meets at 4 p.m. at Dr. Hummels' ranch for the All-Electrical Engineers Fall Picnic. Tickets are on sale in the electrical engineering office for $3.

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS meets at 4:30 p.m. at Tuttle Creek Shelter No. 2 for the IIE picnic. Pay $2 in the IE office for lots of food, fun, beer and pop. Freshmen invited also.

SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL JOURNALISTS-SIGMA DELTA CHI meets at 6 p.m. at 1912 Blue Hills Road for a pizza party. Anyone interested in joining is welcome.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. at the International Student Center. Everyone is welcome.

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER sponsors "Two Feminist Perspectives on Abortion" from Norma Olson and Elise Rose at noon in Union 206.

DELTA SIGMA PHI hosts a little sister rush party from 4 to 5:30 p.m. at 1100 Fremont.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT meets from 3 to 5 p.m. in Dark Horse.

SATURDAY

BLUEMONT BICYCLE CLUB meets at 8 a.m. in the UFM parking lot for a breakfast ride.

ORGANIZATION OF ARAB STUDENTS meets at 6:30 p.m. in the International Student Center.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA meets at 7 p.m. at 2120 College Heights for the second annual watermelon feed.

KSU HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in the Weber Hall lobby to sell sponsorships.

SUNDAY

FOOD SCIENCE CLUB meets at 4 p.m. at Dr. Bassette's home, 2509 Church Circle, for a picnic and meeting.

K-LAIRES meet at 5 p.m. in the Union for the Activities Carnival. Dancing will be in the KSU rooms after the carnival.

ECUMENICAL CHRISTIAN MINISTRIES meets at 5:30 p.m. at the ECM Center, 1021 Denison, for a Sunday supper and program by Sister Barbara McCracken.

NIGERIAN STUDENT ORGANIZATION meets at 7 p.m. at the International Student Center main room to introduce a new faculty adviser and discuss the Independence Day celebration.

RHOMATES meet at 6 p.m. at the Alpha Gamma Rho house for a meeting and a cookout at 7 p.m.

SIGMA NU LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the Sigma Nu house for the final little sister rush party.

SISTERS OF THE MALTESE CROSS meet at 9 p.m. at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

PI KAPPA ALPHA will host a little sister rush party at 1 p.m. at the house.

A MUG

FOR A STUB

Get a free mug of beer or pop for a ticket stub from either the Campus, Varsity or Westloop theaters with the purchase of a medium or large Valentino's Pizza.

For Take Out or Delivery
Call 537-4350

Valentino's

SPECIAL SUNDAY
BUFFET 11:00-4:00

Last of the
RED HOT
Lovers

Manhattan Civic Theatre
presents Neil Simon's
Last of the Red Hot Lovers

Sept. 9, 10, 16, 17, 23, 24
8:00 p.m.

Ticket reservations:
Mon.-Fri. 12-4, 776-8591

Directed by: Pat Foltz-Pearson
Ask about season tickets now on sale
Only $16.00 for five exciting shows!

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

INVITES YOU TO
OUR ANNUAL GET (re) ACQUAINTED SUNDAY

Sunday, September 11

Church School - 9:45 a.m.
Worship 10:55 a.m.
Reception 11:35 a.m.

2121 Bluehills Road (near N. Manhattan, Kimball and Tuttle Creek Blvd.)
539-8691

For Free Transportation call Bell Taxi (537-2080)

First Baptist Church
"The Church on the Hill"

MCCAIN
AUDITORIUM
SEASON 1983-84 JOIN THE CROWD

Today's Pop Quiz

Q. Where will you be Monday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.?

A. Enjoying the evening in style with the

Saint Louis
Symphony Orchestra

Ticket prices: Public $15.00, Senior $14.00, Student $12.00

Tickets available at McCain Box office, noon-5 p.m., M-F, 532-6428

This program is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts, through participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

Kansas State COLLEGIAN

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods.

OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556, advertising 532-6560.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $35, calendar year; $30, academic year; $15, semester; $7, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

THE COLLEGIAN functions in a legally autonomous relationship with the University and is written and edited by students serving the University community.

Editor.....Paul Hanson
Advertising Manager.....John McGrath

Buy a Chicken Sandwich and get a Whopper Jr.
FREE

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. This offer expires 9/15/83. Good only at the Burger King restaurant, 3rd and Poyntz, downtown Manhattan, Ks.

Burger King—Reg. U.S. Pat. & TM Off. 156-2 Burger King Corporation

Auntie
Mae's Parlor

— TODAY —
TGIF HAPPY HOUR

Party at Mae's with $2.00 PITCHERS
FREE HORS D'OEUVRES • 50¢ DRAWS
$1.25 HOUSE DRINKS 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

SATURDAY
WILDCAT NIGHT

Wear anything with a Cats Emblem on it and celebrate at Mae's with

A FREE DRAW and HAPPY HOUR PRICES plus
PURPLE PASSION PUNCH $1.25 a glass
8 p.m. to Midnight

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

LATE NIGHT HAPPY HOUR 11:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

616 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE 539-9967

BUSHWACKER'S
• THE • FUNDRINKERY

Tonite

Old time Rock n' Roll
& Free Hors d'oeuvres

Happy Hour: 4-8

2 Fers on HiBalls 75¢ Draws
$2 Blended Drinks

Saturday

(Opening at 1:00)

Pre-game sandwiches
& don't forget our game day bus to the stadium.

Drink of the Week:
Lynchburg Lemonade $2

Memberships Available

531 N. Manhattan Office 539-4321 Bar 539-9727

Smith director pleads case to senate

By ALAN STOLFUS
Government Editor

Jim Stewart, the would-be director of Smith Cooperative House, hesitated to answer at Thursday night's Student Senate meeting when he was asked if he had consulted the students' attorney about Smith's closing.

"Uh, I don't know if I should bring that out," Stewart said, embarrassed about the language used. After taking a deep breath, he continued, "The students' attorney said it was very obvious we had been screwed."

Stewart, a fifth-year senior in animal science and agronomy, spoke to senate during its open period held before conducting formal business. He had strong words about President Duane Acker, the Department of Housing and the decision to close Smith.

According to Smith's charter established by Laurel Irene Putnam in 1958, the house is not to be sold without mutual consent of the University and the Foundation (because the house was originally a scholarship house), Stewart said.

"And yes, the housing department has broken their contract with the KSU Foundation under which they were to operate the house through the 1987-88 school year. They did all this without even consulting the Foundation."

"KSU also is breaking their contract with the Foundation which states that the house shall be run and if one party wants out of the contract, they can get out by presenting 12-months written notice to the other party. This agreement states 12-months notice — three weeks is hardly sufficient."

Stewart said the Foundation was very helpful in working with the Smith House Alumni Association when it proposed operating the house independently.

The Foundation had agreed to let the association operate Smith for this year, he said. "They knew we could make it."

"President Acker got a wind of this agreement and went out of his way to make sure that we didn't run the house. He said that we couldn't lease the housing equipment (which had been proposed in the budget) and he called a meeting which was held Aug. 15 of 10 University officials to see if the Foundation could lease the house to us," Stewart said.

At that meeting, Stewart said, the president refused to let him sit in and present Smith's case. Stewart said after the senate meeting, the 10 University officials considered closing Smith, letting an independent group operate the house, or letting the house to operate as it had in the past.

"The only real vocal support for Smith in that meeting was from the two Foundation members in it. They totally supported us."

"President Acker succeeded in preventing our leasing the house, at least until the Foundation's executive meeting on Sept. 27. This effectively killed Smith this fall," Stewart said.

Smith's occupancy has declined throughout the years, Stewart said, because the housing department fails to promote Smith. Smurthwaite House is facing similar occupancy problems as Smith did because of poor promotion, he added. The house is now taking out-of-state students when it originally was only for Kansas students, he said.

Several senators expressed their support to Stewart after the meeting and Kent Jaecke, senior in animal science, said he would begin working on a senate resolution that supports the Smith residents.

Jerry Katlin, student body president, also spoke out for Smith. "I've listened to the other side of the story (from Acker) and you've got a good case," he told Stewart. "Good luck."

Dayton service Saturday

By The Collegian Staff

Funeral services for Arthur D. Dayton Jr., 19, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at All-Faiths Chapel. Dayton died at the scene of an automobile accident on Sept. 4 near Evansville, Ind.

He was a passenger in a car driven by his father, Arthur Dayton Sr., head of the Department of Statistics, on Interstate 64 in Posey County, Ind., when the car ran off the road into a 25-foot ditch.

Dayton, a 1982 graduate of Manhattan High School was born

June 1, 1964, at Lansing, Mich. He is survived by his parents, Arthur D. Dayton Sr. and Lavonia Ballard Dayton.

Other survivors include a brother, David Dayton, at home; two sisters, Alycia Dayton, at home and Kim Dayton, Lewisburg, W. Va.; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Ballard, Tuxedo, N.C. and Mrs. Rhoda Dayton Gross, Pinto, Md.

Cremation is planned. Friends may call at Cowan-Edwards-Yorgensen Funeral Home, Manhattan, until service time. Memorial contributions may be made to the KSU Foundation.

Dog custody fight ends; couple to share pet

By The Associated Press

SANTA ANA, Calif. — After a year of bitter divorce proceedings, a judge has awarded a childless couple joint custody of their beloved and pampered dog in accordance with California's child custody laws.

"Is our hate so strong that we are going to use this little dog to drive a final rusty nail in the heart of the other person?" Orange County Superior Court Judge John Wooley asked Rex and Judi Wheatland before issuing his ruling Wednesday.

Wheatland had offered his wife $20,000 to buy out her "share" in Runaway, a 2-year-old cockapoo that is fond of lobster and salad with Roquefort dressing.

Mrs. Wheatland spurned the offer, even though she had only $15 in her bank account.

"She's my baby," she said of the dog. "I wouldn't give her up for anything. Nothing could replace her."

It's not negotiable."

Mrs. Wheatland, 31, left the courtroom in tears after Wooley's ruling, which followed day-long testimony.

The Wheatlands, who have been married four years, are still enmeshed in their divorce proceedings. Both had wanted custody of Runaway, which they acquired two years ago from Mrs. Wheatland's sister.

"Runaway was the nucleus of our family," Wheatland said. "She's the only good thing to come out of my marriage."

Wooley ruled that as a child substitute, the dog should be jointly owned and shared by the Wheatlands.

J. Riggs West Inc.

Custom Cues
Billiard Supplies

Like Fatty Sez:
J. Riggs West is Billiards at it's Best!

$100 PITCHERS
THURS 7-10
FRI 2-6

776-8338
317 Poyntz Ave.
Downtown

• 18 full size Brunswick pool tables
• Video and electronic games
• Ice cold Bud & Bud on tap
• Sandwiches & snacks
• Scheduled tournaments
• Daily lunch specials
• Cue repair

Pizza and Nachos

Tonight and Saturday
THE GLEE CLUB

Brother's
AGGIEVILLE

TGIF SPECIALS 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.
NO COVER CHARGE • FREE LIVE MUSIC
50¢ DRAWS • FREE POPCORN • $2.00 PITCHERS

1120 More 539-9064 Next Week — THE CLOCKS

OPEN HOUSE
MARCH 30-31

★ SELECTIONS FOR OPEN HOUSE COMMITTEE MEMBERS ARE TAKING PLACE NOW.

★ SIGN UP FOR INFORMATION AT THE OPEN HOUSE TABLE AT THE ACTIVITIES CARNIVAL.

COMMITTEES:

- STUDENT LIFE EXHIBITS, UNION COURTYARD ENTERTAINMENT,
- PARADE AND OPENING MEDIA CEREMONY, SPECIAL PROJECTS

AED
2ND ANNUAL WATERMELON FEED

Students in Pre-Health Professions are welcome to attend.

2120 College Heights Rd.
Date: Sept. 10
7 p.m.-9 p.m.

DARK HORSE

TAVERN

TGIF!
$2 Pitchers
1-6
&
Free
Popcorn

619 N. Manhattan

EAT WITH US SUNDAYS!

MRKS

- Sandwiches & Kurly K Fries 5-8:00 p.m.

LAST CHANCE

- Hickory Smoked Bar-B-Que 5 p.m.-10 p.m.

Aggie STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR

- All You Can Eat Bar-B-Que $5.95
- Dinner Menu 5:30-8:30 p.m.

Aggieville

MR. K'S

OPEN SUN. NITES

Serving Sandwiches & Kurly K Fries Sun. 5-8 pm!

It's Mr. K's Sunday Nites!

As a Korean-American student here at KSU, I wish to express my deep indignation over the tragic incident involving Korean Airlines Flight 007. Soviets have exposed communists' fundamental behavior once more by shooting down the aircraft and failing to show any regrets.

I hope you will join me in mourning the 269 victims of aggression. As for the Soviets, I sincerely hope that justice will be done.

Min Park General
Major: General

SHRINE CIRCUS
Produced by HUBERT CASTLE

INTERNATIONAL 3-RING CIRCUS
"A SPANGLAND FANTASY"

Sept. 10th & 11th
WEBER ARENA

Saturday Performance 2:30 p.m. & 7:30 p.m.
Sunday Performance 2:30 p.m. & 7:30 p.m.

Tickets available at Chamber of Commerce, 5th & Poyntz; Manhattan Credit Bureau, 429 Poyntz; and Denholm Realty, 509 Leavenworth (across from post office) or any Shriner.

Parents' day '83
Parents' day '83
Through the Years

Nominate your parents to be KSU's All University Honorary Parents!

Applications available in SGA Office & Activities Center.
Due Wed., Sept. 14, 5:00 p.m.

Write a 500-1000 word theme about your parents' contributions to Community, K-State and your education.

For more information contact U-Learn at 532-6442.

October 1, 1983
KSU vs. OU

Sponsored by chimes Jr. Hon.

A difference of opinion

Knowledge of a subject is no safeguard that a professor will not be fired.

Ben Mahaffey, as well as the rest of the University, discovered that fact when the associate professor of forestry learned of his impending dismissal from K-State. Mahaffey was suspended effective Sept. 1.

Mahaffey's suspension was based on "professional incompetence." A glance at his record will clearly show that a lack of expertise in the field of forestry was not the reason. Moreover, it appears that the reason for his dismissal had more to do with conduct and ideas than with knowledge of the job.

The question that comes up is whether Mahaffey was fulfilling the job he was hired to do. If not, the administration was correct to fire him. However, if the issue is one of conflicting viewpoints with other faculty members, the University could soon find Mahaffey being reinstated by either a Faculty Senate committee, President Duane Acker or the Board of Regents.

Thomas Warner, associate professor of forestry, prompts one to bring up the question of differing views by his statement,

"You will find Dr. Mahaffey's viewpoints and the other faculty members' views at 180 degrees. We're exactly opposite."

If Mahaffey's views were "different" enough to hinder students' learning in his classes, the University may have been correct in dismissing him. The teacher's purpose, after all, is to present subject matter in a way that students are able to grasp. A teacher who creates a difficult classroom atmosphere does not enhance student learning.

One dangerous implication of the case is the precedent it could set. If Mahaffey's dismissal makes it through the next three steps, other professors who consistently go against the thinking of the majority of the faculty in their department could find their jobs on the line.

With the information that we have, the situation is too vague to determine who is right and who is wrong. Because there are no guidelines written to judge a professor's conduct, the University should devote much time and careful consideration before Mahaffey is officially released from his position.

What generation gap?

Earl Hedemark and I both attended a community college in Southern California in 1949 and 1950. Earl was a few years older than me. He had been a prisoner of war for 3½ years in the South Pacific during World War II. We became very good friends. I stayed in contact with him throughout the rest of his life, as he went to the University of Chicago, worked in various aircraft plants, finally becoming a highly respected lawyer in San Jose, Calif.

It was when I was a graduate student at Stanford University in 1967 and he was living in San Jose that he used to say to me, "Joel, you were the original hippie."

To which I would reply, "Don't you mean beatnik?"

And he would say, "Beatnik-hippie, hippie-beatnik! They're both cut out of the same piece of cloth!" And he would go on to insist I was the first person to pick up the scissors and start cutting on that piece of cloth he had ever known.

And then I would say...

Well, I was really a very sedate person who simply had enjoyed growing a beard and wearing old clothes; and drinking red wine and smashing up Chevy coupes; and sleeping in Peggy Duque's haystack on summer nights; and painting pictures which weren't much good; and walking around in my dirty bare feet and letting my hair grow for months; and bumming cigarettes and begging the price of my meals; and flunking any kind of science course and acting for any kind of theatre group; and sitting on the beach in the sun and listening to baseball games on the radio; and plotting how many oranges I could eat while walking through a 10-acre grove in California.

And reading everything I could find written by Kenneth Patchen and asking everybody if they had ever heard of him; and reading Henry Miller in the editions smuggled in from Paris or Mexico or Japan; and reading Anais Nin because a girl I knew named Myrna Wolfe asked me to do so.

And writing poems and singing songs while drunk at midnight; and sending letters begging for money to all my friends; and hitchhiking to San Francisco from Los Angeles by way of Big Sur; and wandering down the streets of Berkeley with a dark-haired girl named Mina Cooper whose eyes tore my heart out; and going to the small art galleries on Wilshire Boulevard; and getting drunk on cheap muscatel in Old Cucamonga with my Mexican friends from the lemon packinghouse; and climbing to the top of Mt. Baldy (towering 10,000 feet up); and seeing foreign films and eating Chinese food in Westwood Village; and waiting the hours through in all-night restaurants watching the after-midnight drunks sober up; and sleeping for six weeks one summer in Moshe Yaari's garage in the San Fernando Valley; and dividing one cup of coffee in the morning into two cups by adding cream and lots of sugar so that would last me the rest of the day; and jumping to the beat of the Sunday afternoon jam sessions with Kid Ory on Beverley Boulevard; and sitting for two days beside a highway in New Mexico staring at the sky (the sun, the stars) while waiting for a ride; and riding the bus to Miami by way of Chicago and New Orleans; and driving out to the Mojave Desert to watch the sun come up; and crouching on a rock off the coast at Malibu at four in the morning with the woman who would become my wife listening to the sea gulls cry.

And although I had done all this before anyone had ever heard of Jack Kerouac or Lawrence Ferlinghetti or Allen Ginsberg or Gregory Corso or Gary Snyder or any of those cats, I had never thought of myself as a hippie or a beatnik or anything like that.

And that's what I used to reply to my friend Earl Hedemark.

Then I woke up one morning and it seemed to me that maybe a whole generation had passed me by, or I had passed them by, or something like that. And although I had spent a number of years publishing poems written by young poets (some good, some bad) out of love for the sound of words — and although I had been the first or one of the earliest to bring into print the work of more than a dozen of today's good poets — and although I had written a lot of good poems myself and some short stories and a number of plays, I still wasn't a very well-known person and probably never would be.

And even though my friend Earl Hedemark died of lung cancer several years ago so that he isn't around anymore to call me the original hippie, I can tell the world he had been here and had been one heck of a good guy. And even though I can't tell Earl, I can tell the world again that I still enjoy the idea of growing a beard and drinking red wine and taking wild trips across the country. And the pulse and jump of memory is just as strong in my heart as it ever was! So I know a whole generation has not passed me by, even though I am really a very sedate person who is married with four children (three of whom have grown up and left home now) and I have become older — but probably no wiser — than I used to be.

Letters

Russians totally to blame

Editor,
You do your readers, not to mention a decent concept of justice, a great disservice by attempting to spread the blame around for the loss of the KAL airliner last week. That KAL issued an initial report stating the plane was safely on the ground makes the airline guilty of little more than presumption. KAL made the most logical assumption in the lack of further information.

Furthermore, the presence of an American RC-135 in the region does not in any sense lessen Soviet responsibility for the destruction of Flight 007. The Soviets tracked the plane for over 2½ hours, and made visual contact with it before shooting it down. An airliner making a transcontinental flight travels in a straight line (actually an arc over the surface of the globe) in order to cover the shortest possible distance to its destination. A reconnaissance plane, on the other hand, flies a circular or loop pattern in the vicinity of its objective in order to maximize time in the area. Furthermore, RC-135s routinely fly reconnaissance missions in the Sakhalin region and make no attempt to enter Soviet airspace.

For us to believe that the Soviets shot down the 747 in a case of mistaken identity, we would also have to believe that Soviet radar cannot keep track of more than one aircraft at a time. In addition, we would also have to believe that a trained fighter pilot cannot tell the difference between a 747 and an RC-135 (a Boeing 707). If this is in fact the case, how would Soviet pilots be able to tell the difference between their own and enemy aircraft in actual combat? I would sooner believe I could buy the Brooklyn Bridge for $20 than believe the Soviets were so grossly inept in their military capabilities.

Finally, that the Soviets shot down Flight 007 in cold blood is shown by the fact that they destroyed the airliner as it was leaving Soviet airspace, not as it was entering. An aircraft that is leaving your territory is obviously a very small threat. Henceforth, let us make no further excuses for this or any other manifestation of Soviet malevolence which Moscow may choose to perpetrate upon an unsuspecting world.

Keith Strother
Senior in electrical engineering

Pilot recognized Korean aircraft

Editor,
RE: Who is really at fault?
The American RC-135 reconnaissance plane was not "over the Soviet coast" or "above their land" as was incorrectly stated in your editorial. The KAL (Korean Air Lines) 747, Flight 007 and the RC-135 were never closer than 75 miles apart and were 300 miles apart when their paths crossed. The American RC-135 did not penetrate Soviet airspace, as did Flight 007, and while the reconnaissance plane may have caused some initial confusion for Soviet controllers, there could be no misinterpretation of the two. The KAL 747 has a distinctive "hump-backed" design and is over 100 feet longer. The Soviets were well aware of both planes, and I find it absurd that the Soviets could mistake the 747 for the RC-135, especially after 2½ hours of tracking and visual contact.

Your claim that "nobody was truthful (or blameless)" is heinous. The fact that the administration did not immediately release the information on the RC-135 has, after a review of the facts, little bearing on this incident. Let me reiterate that the Soviets were well aware of both planes and knew that it was the 747 which had penetrated Soviet airspace. To implicate the American government in the liability for this barbaric act is incredulous.

I refer your attention to a 1978 incident, when a KAL airliner strayed into Soviet airspace, took the cannon-fire of pursuing MiGs and was forced to crash-land on a frozen lake near Murmansk...two passengers died.

The tapes produced by both American and Japanese intelligence sources provide a clear insight into the Soviet philosophy regarding human life. The pilot clearly recognized the target as civilian and yet was still given the order to destroy the airliner.

Kelly B. Miller
Senior in architecture and finance

Do away with Capt. Cosmo

Editor,
"Captain Cosmo" must go! This pitiful excuse for entertainment does nothing but insult the intelligence of every reader. If the Soviets infiltrated a publication and printed such absurdity it could be declared an act of war. As a member of the post-Neanderthal age I call for the immediate withdrawal of "Captain Cosmo."

Patrick Muir
Freshman in agronomy

Advertising is effective

Editor,
RE: Sept. 6 column by Edee Dalke.

Ah, come on Edee, be real. How many people do you think would come from out of state to tour the Cessna plant, or the military aircraft center at Wichita? Who would take a vacation to a plant where people are hard at work?

The advertisement that was mentioned has been very successful for Kansas. State parks take in thousands of dollars a week and have many things to offer this "backward state." State parks have employed college graduates and out-of-work young men and women for many years through the help of government agencies such as YACC, CETA and the Job Service. State parks are only a small part of Kansas; there are also state fishing lakes and wildlife reserves. Many of the reservoirs (including Tuttle Creek) offer hunters and fishermen the chance to fill their freezers with game birds, waterfowl and fish.

Seeing an advertisement for Montana that includes the massive forest-covered mountain ranges would be enough incentive for me to take a spring break road trip. Maybe there are some Montanans who feel the same about our Flint Hills.

I don't think that bumper stickers reflect the state or what we have to offer. I have seen worse ones than those illustrated in the column. One of these include "I love KU."

I am proud of Kansas and I will defend it here, as well as out-of-state. We have a lot of things to be proud of, some of which are clean air and water which "technology and industry" haven't ruined yet.

Brian Montague
Junior in natural resource management

Kansas landscape pride

Editor,
Ah, Come on, Edee! Kansas is OK, naturally. The columnist misses the point of Kansas' diverse topography, natural beauty and vegetation. That's the part of the "land of Ah's" commercials one may identify with and be proud of. It's the "wonderland down the road" part. The nooks and crannies of parts of the Northern Flint Hills — right around here — are meaningful and interesting. There are special places for appreciation of nature's time, for reflective contemplation, and for spiritual refreshment.

Kansas is not a backward state. There's pride in not too much development. Kansas isn't cropland, pasture and people. There are a few remaining natural places, wild places. One should remember that all activities of people, all industry and technology, are limited by resources. Resources from nature. Kansas is not a place waiting to be turned into a vast agricultural, livestock-producing and technological machine.

There's no absolutely right concept of Kansas — Kansas continues to be a place where there's diversity of views and philosophies, and wide diversity of relationships with the physical landscape.

The columnist, at age 23, calling herself a Kansan, has perhaps missed something in failing to appreciate playing deer and antelope — antelope in remaining natural areas in Western Kansas and deer all around us in the countryside. Kansas-style outdoor education is perhaps the only deficient element of the columnist's wisdom. You may be proud of Kansas for its landscape and natural history, its abundant game and pristine, undisturbed places.

John LaShelle
Manhattan resident and K-State alumnus

Support the coliseum

Jerry Katlin
Guest Columnist

Take a long, hard look at your fee card, note the large increase in the cost of attending K-State and find the $16.50 earmarked for a proposed coliseum. By graduation, a student who is now a sophomore will have contributed $118.50, not quite the $3 million donation needed to have the opportunity to name the coliseum, but nonetheless a significant contribution toward a building that will not be constructed during most students' tenure at K-State.

Even though the fee has been established, students still need to play an active role in the drive for the coliseum, especially when considering the long history of student support for the new facility.

The coliseum campaign is not some idea a few basketball fans dreamed up one night, or a play by the athletic department to arouse interest in obtaining a new fieldhouse. It is a concept that has been researched and discussed by students since 1978.

During 1979, students voted to financially support the construction of a new complex, however the referendum was re-evaluated in April 1981, in order to seek additional student input about the appropriate level of financial commitment students were willing to make.

Again, students favored building a new facility and assessed themselves a funding package which began last fall.

The course has been set; student fees are being collected and the KSU

Foundation is now in the process of soliciting pledges from alumni and friends during the largest fundraising drive in its history.

Now is not the time to criticize the campaign drive. Students have been and should continue to support the plans to build a multi-purpose arena on this campus. The time to raise concerns was before the student vote, and without the initial commitment of the students there would have been little hope for the new facility.

However, the situation is not out of the students' court. It is vital for students to continue the enthusiasm for the new facility, in order to express to alumni and friends that students are supportive. This enthusiasm will give the Foundation the catalyst needed during the fundraising drive.

Granted, any major capital improvement is not without concerns, but these were properly evaluated before the first decision was made to pursue the financing of the facility.

The coliseum will not be strictly an athletic facility. It will be available for commencement exercises, cultural and theatre productions, Landon Lectures and special events which will benefit the entire K-State community.

Academic priorities will not suffer by the financing of the facility. In June, the Kansas Board of Regents adopted a policy against requesting state funds for the construction of the coliseum. Therefore, state funding of academic facilities will not suffer.

The Kansas Legislature has been generous to the campus in academic capital improvement requests. In the past two years, the doors to Bluemont and Throckmorton Halls, and Durland Phase II have been opened. Nichols Gymnasium is being renovated and the regents will request from the 1984 Legislature funds to begin construction on new greenhouses, a chemistry/biochemistry building as well as improvements to Weber Hall.

Also of concern are the priorities of the Foundation. Much energy is being spent on the coliseum campaign drive, however the Foundation also actively solicits donations for academic needs.

Last year, of the approximately $8.3 million collected by the Foundation, more than $6.5 million was restricted for academic needs. Portions of this money went towards academic scholarships, the construction of the third floor of Shellenberger Hall, partial funding of Durland, anti-cancer drug research and a distinguished professorship in the geology department. Obviously, the Foundation's priorities have not shifted to athletics.

K-State is traditionally an institution whose students are willing to finance their share of non-academic buildings through student-initiated fees. Without this commitment, students could not boast of the finest Student Union in the state, the newest recreational complex in the Big Eight Conference and eventually one of the finest multi-purpose arenas in the nation.

(Editor's note: Jerry Katlin is student body president.)

Improving U.S. trade relationship goal of Taiwanese representative

By LEE WHITE
Collegian Reporter

Even though diplomatic relations with Taiwan were broken off in 1978 when then-President Carter normalized relations with the People's Republic of China, the Taipei government wants to improve trade relations with the United States.

That was the viewpoint of Po-Lun Liu, director of the Coordinating Council of North American Affairs, when he spoke at a press conference Thursday at the International Trade Institute here.

The opinion of the United States when it recognized the Peking government seemed to be one of optimism at the possibilities of new trade, Liu said. But mainland China has not proved as lucrative a trade partner as Washington expected, he added.

"They do have a habit of sending mission after mission and inviting people at times when they are shopping around from country to country," Liu said. He refused to comment on the validity of Gov. Carlin's scheduled mission to the mainland, saying he lacked sufficient information about the governor's plans.

Trade — import and export — between the United States and mainland China since 1978 has averaged $5 billion a year. During the same period, the price of goods Taiwan bought from the United States totaled about $4.5 billion a year.

Po-Lun Liu

"At the time Carter made the decision, people thought China would be a big market," Liu said. "This year, trade volume may decrease."

In an effort to continue promoting trade, Taiwan will send a "major trade mission" to the United States and Kansas next month, Liu said.

Members of the mission are expected to place orders for 160,000 tons of corn and 54,000 tons of sorghum, he said.

While most American sorghum goes for cattle feed, the Taiwanese use the grain to make sorghum wine which, Liu said, is comparable to bourbon in alcohol content.

Trade relations between Taiwan and the United States are improving so much that Taiwan rose from eighth to seventh place among U.S. trading partners, Liu said. Japan, however, leads in sales to Taiwan, he said.

"Our industry has changed substantially from light to heavy," Liu said. "The goods we export to the United States also are in transition."

Major items the Taiwanese sell to the United States include electrical appliances, machine parts, black and white television sets, shoes, textiles and furniture, Liu said.

Recently, he said, U.S. companies such as RCA and Digital have been producing computer terminals in Taiwan for use at home.

"For any product of yours, if it's competitive in the world market and if it's high quality, it will have a good market in Taiwan," Liu said. "Better than in the mainland."

Although trade is improving between the United States and Taiwan,

Child educators to analyze issues

By STEVE MILLS
Collegian Reporter

Kansas parents who are educating their children at earlier ages by placing them in day-care centers and preschools will have a chance to discuss their concerns about educational quality at the annual conference sponsored by the Kansas Association for the Education of Young Children.

The conference will be on Saturday at the Union.

Registration for the conference begins at 7:30 a.m. and includes more than 80 sessions covering topics involving parents in the school and day care centers of their children. Other topics include fitness for three- to five-year-olds, 1983 Kansas Legislative activity affecting children, non-sexist education, communication with children and teaching children to deal with stress.

As the needs of families become more complex, so do the needs of their children. As a result, programs available to parents and their children need updating, said Beverly Briggs, assistant professor of family and child development.

"There also are issues of quality and meeting the needs of all kinds of families," Briggs said. Some sessions deal with the needs of military families as well as those headed by single parents.

"Parent involvement is imperative in early childhood education. If the families are involved, it's a more continuous experience for the children between the home and group setting," Briggs said.

Briggs indicated that "parent involvement programs need to be interesting to fathers as well as to mothers," because of the trend of one-parent families.

"One of the big issues in the field right now is to define what quality in early childhood education is. We are working on an accreditation system (for day-care) and how to indicate the standards that are set by the state," she said.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

612 Poyntz

SUNDAY FORUM

9:45 a.m. Temple Auditorium
Sept. 11 "Let's Talk about Living!"
led by Nadine Burch Sept. 18-Oct. 9 "Stress Management" led by Dave Danskin
Oct. 16 & 23 "Loneliness"
Fred Newton & Tom Coleman
Oct. 30 & Nov. 6 "Personality Inventory" administered by Jane Clark

Support the American Heart Association.

GET FRAMED!

Schedule of Sitzings for Royal Purple
Union 209 539-5229

Off-Campus, Until Sept. 12, 8:30-5:30
Acacia, Sept. 13, 8:30-12:30
Alpha Chi Omega, Sept. 13, 1:30-5:30; Sept. 14, 8:30-12:30
Alpha Delta Pi, Sept. 14, 1:30-5:30; Sept. 15, 8:30-11:00
Alpha Gamma Rho, Sept. 15, 11:00-4:00
Alpha Kappa Lambda, Sept. 15, 4:00-5:30; Sept. 16, 8:30-10:00
Alpha Tau Omega, Sept. 16, 10:00-3:30
Alpha Xi Delta, Sept. 16, 3:45-5:30; Sept. 19, 8:30-2:00
Beta Sigma Psi, Sept. 19, 2:00-5:30
Beta Theta Pi, Sept. 20, 8:30-2:30
Chi Omega, Sept. 20, 2:30-5:30; Sept. 21, 8:30-12:00
Delta Delta Delta, Sept. 21, 12:00-5:30; Sept. 22, 8:30-10:30
Delta Sigma Psi, Sept. 22, 10:45-3:30
Delta Tau Delta, Sept. 22, 3:45-5:30; Sept. 23, 8:30-10:30
Delta Upsilon, Sept. 23, 10:45-4:30
Farmhouse, Sept. 23, 4:30-5:30; Sept. 26, 8:30-11:30
Gamma Phi Beta, Sept. 26, 11:30-5:30; Sept. 27, 8:30-10:30
Kappa Alpha Psi, Sept. 27, 10:45-12:30
Kappa Alpha Theta, Sept. 27, 1:30-5:30; Sept. 28, 8:30-11:30
Kappa Delta, Sept. 28, 11:30-5:30; Sept. 29, 8:30-10:30
Kappa Kappa Gamma, Sept. 29, 10:45-5:30
Kappa Sigma, Sept. 30, 8:30-3:00
Lambda Chi Alpha, Sept. 30, 3:00-5:30; Oct. 3, 8:30-10:00
Phi Delta Theta, Oct. 3, 10:00-2:00
Phi Gamma Delta, Oct. 3, 2:00-5:30
Phi Kappa Tau, Oct. 4, 8:30-12:30
Phi Kappa Theta, Oct. 4, 1:30-4:00
Pi Beta Phi, Oct. 4, 4:00-5:30; Oct. 5, 8:30-2:30
Pi Kappa Alpha, Oct. 5, 2:30-5:30; Oct. 6, 8:30-10:30
Pi Kappa Phi, Oct. 6, 10:45-2:30
Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Oct. 6, 2:30-5:30; Oct. 7, 8:30-10:00
Sigma Chi, Oct. 7, 10:00-5:30
Sigma Nu, Oct. 10, 8:30-12:30
Sigma Phi Epsilon, Oct. 10, 1:30-5:30; Oct. 11, 8:30-10:00
Sigma Sigma Sigma, Oct. 11, 10:00-5:30; Oct. 12, 8:30-10:00
Tau Kappa Epsilon, Oct. 12, 10:00-3:30
Theta Xi, Oct. 12, 3:45-5:30; Oct. 13, 8:30-10:00
Triangle, Oct. 13, 10:00-12:30
Boyd Hall, Oct. 13, 1:30-5:30; Oct. 14, 8:30-12:30
Clovie, Oct. 14, 1:30-5:30
Edwards Hall, Oct. 17, 8:30-12:30
Ford Hall, Oct. 17, 1:30-5:30; Oct. 18, 8:30-5:30; Oct. 19, 8:30-5:30
Goodnow Hall, Oct. 20, 8:30-5:30; Oct. 21, 8:30-5:30; Oct. 24, 8:30-10:30
Haymaker Hall, Oct. 24, 10:45-5:30; Oct. 25, 8:30-5:30; Oct. 26, 8:30-5:30
Marlatt Hall, Oct. 27, 8:30-5:30; Oct. 28, 8:30-5:30
Moore Hall, Oct. 31, 8:30-5:30; Nov. 1, 8:30-5:30
Putnam Hall, Nov. 2, 8:30-3:30
Smith, Nov. 2, 3:45-5:30
Smurthwaite, Nov. 3, 8:30-11:30
Van Zile Hall, Nov. 3, 11:30-4:30
West Hall, Nov. 3, 4:30-5:30; Nov. 4, 8:30-5:30

Bring your stamped fee card.

QUITTING BUSINESS

*Sale Continues
Tomorrow
9:30 a.m.*

EVERY PAIR
OF SHOES
IN OUR ENTIRE STOCK ON SALE AT 40% TO 60% OFF

CHILDREN'S SMURF
HOUSE SLIPPERS
REG. $6.95 NOW $3.00

CHILDREN'S SHOES
LARGE SELECTION
60% OFF

MEN'S OR LADIES
WESTERN BOOTS
40% OFF

ALL LADIES
FLATS OR SANDLES
60% OFF

LADIES DEXTER
CASUAL SHOES

NEW FALL
STYLES 40% OFF

MEN'S BOSTONIAN
DRESS SHOES

LARGE SELECTION 40% OFF

LADIES'
BASS OR DEXTER
DRESS SHOES

NEW FALL
STYLES 40% OFF

LADIES'
DRESS
BOOTS
40% OFF

LADIES'
PURSES
60% OFF

Don't DELAY
ACT
NOW!

22's
Shoe
World

1140 Westloop
Shopping Center

Briefly

By the Associated Press

Scheme to kill Washington alleged

CHICAGO — A 38-year-old man has been arrested and charged with solicitation to commit murder in an alleged scheme to assassinate Mayor Harold Washington, officials said today.

Mark Walsh, a spokesman for the Cook County state's attorney, identified the suspect as Lawrence Oberman. He said he was arrested Wednesday night.

In addition to solicitation to commit murder, Oberman was charged with possession of cocaine.

Oberman was to appear in Circuit Court for a preliminary hearing today.

There was no immediate word on whether Washington was at any time in danger.

Hirt leases out New Orleans club

NEW ORLEANS — Trumpet star Al Hirt has sublet the Bourbon Street nightclub that he operated for 23 years. He had closed it in May because of increased crime in the French Quarter.

The club has been taken over by two men who plan to put on fancy Las Vegas-style revues.

Jack Payne, a former director and choreographer at the Beverly Dinner Playhouse in New Orleans and Houston businessman William Newsom signed a lease Tuesday in which they agree to pay the trumpeter $10,000 per month for the next 15 months, covering the remainder of Hirt's lease.

The club is in a part of the Quarter where Hirt complained that fights, prostitution and narcotics deals are common. Despite the musician's remarks about the area, the new tenants said they are optimistic about their chances for success.

They hope to hold a grand opening in mid-October.

"What we're trying to do is have a little more Vegas, a little more feathers," said Payne, who will stage the shows.

U.S. warns against travel to Russia

WASHINGTON — The State Department cautioned Americans on Thursday against traveling to the Soviet Union, noting that a proposed ban by international airline pilots on flights to that country could result in serious disruptions for travelers.

The department's statement was issued after the governing board of the World Pilots' Association, in response to last week's downing of a Korean airliner by a Soviet interceptor, recommended a 60-day ban on civilian airline flights to Moscow to its national associations.

State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said American travelers to the Soviet Union should be aware that the proposed ban "could seriously disrupt air travel to the Soviet Union."

"Flights to and from the Soviet Union may be cancelled without notice. Arranging alternate transportation could potentially involve substantially higher costs to the traveler. Travelers should also anticipate lengthy delays in obtaining such transportation from Moscow should the ban be fully implemented."

Romberg said the proposed action by the pilots' association "reflects the concern, condemnation and horror at the action by the Soviet Union, consistent with our own position."

Team attempts Everest ascension

KATMANDU, Nepal — A four-member New Zealand expedition led by Peter Hillary, son of Everest hero Sir Edmund Hillary, has established a base camp in an attempt to climb Mount Makalu in northeastern Nepal, according to a report received here Thursday.

Hillary, 28, of Auckland, and his teammates set up the camp Aug. 30 at 17,384 feet and plan to scale the 27,552-foot high mountain through its west ridge, the report said.

Betty Ford battles drunken drivers

DENVER — Former first lady Betty Ford, recalling her own dependency on drugs and alcohol, is urging tougher drunken-driving laws.

Ford, wife of former President Ford, told a Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Mile High Council on Alcoholism that alcohol-related auto accidents are the primary killer of Americans between the ages of 16 and 24.

Ford said drug abuse and alcoholism cost American industry $77 billion in 1982 in "lost production, health and medical costs, absenteeism, accidents and bad decisions."

Ford recalled how her own dependency on prescription drugs and alcohol prompted her family to insist that she seek treatment in 1978.

"I was resentful of their interference in my wonderful little life," she recalled. But with her family's help, she sought treatment and now travels the nation promoting alcohol and drug education and prevention programs.

Marcos says killing made him cry

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said Thursday he shed tears for his assassinated rival, Benigno Aquino and called the killing a "national shame."

Marcos' wife, Imelda, in a separate interview, said she had nothing to gain from the death of Aquino and added she was considering giving up her vast official powers.

Both denied government involvement in the Aug. 21 assassination and said they had wanted to attend Aquino's funeral. Aquino family members had said they wouldn't be welcome.

Marcos, in an interview with The Associated Press and visiting Japanese newspaper editors, said the killing of Aquino as he arrived home from three years' self-exile in the United States was a "national shame."

"I shed tears for him, and every Filipino should have," said Marcos.

Radio broadcasts at Russia increase

WASHINGTON — America has raised its voice in the wake of the Korean airline disaster, particularly directing attention to the Soviet Union by doubling the number of radio transmitters aimed at that country.

As many as 24 transmitters are now directed toward the Soviets at peak times, with a daily broadcasting increase of 90 transmitter hours, said Rogene Waite of Voice of America.

The Soviet shooting down of the Korean jet with 269 aboard "has been the lead story in all 42 languages on Voice of America," said Joe O'Connell, a spokesman for the United States Information Agency, parent to the radio broadcaster Voice of America.

And USIA reaction has gone beyond traditional reporting of the news. "Rather than just reporting or commenting on an event, this was one of the few times we have been an integral part of an event," said Steven Monblatt, of USIA's television division.

Monblatt referred to a furious weekend of activity when his agency and State Department translators put together a video tape discussing the disaster, and including recordings of the voices of Soviet pilots involved, with translations. The tape was used in the United Nations.

Ms. Waite said Soviet jamming of Voice of America broadcasts doesn't seem to have increased appreciably. But U.S. broadcasts have been jammed since the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia, and the intensity was increased after martial law in Poland, she said.

In addition to doubling the number of transmitters, Russian language broadcasting has been increased from 16 hours to 17 hours daily, she said, and the incident has been the focus of many special news and comment shows, as well as three editorials in many languages.

MRKS

TGIF

GUEST D.J.!

KEITH
PAYNE
Haymaker

is today's Guest D.J.!

$2 TGIF PITCHERS
2 P.M.-7 P.M.!

Fri. & Sat.
Mug Doubles
& 65' Steins 4-8
Sunday Rock Nite
11 Vodka Drinks
60' Drums 12 Pitchers
All Nite
(no mug doubles)
at
COWBOY PALACE
Where it don't make
no difference
209 Payne 539-9828
4:00pm to 3:00am

WHY NOT ENJOY YOURSELF FOR LESS?

FRIDAY 1-7 p.m. PITCHERS

$1.75

(BUDWEISER NOT INCLUDED)

HAPPY HOUR DAILY
10:30-6:00

111 South 3rd

TRUCK LOAD SALE!

Just Arrived

Silver-Reed fully electronic compact typewriter

Penman Features:

- 10/12 Pitch
- Daisy Wheel Printer
- Cassette Ribbon and Correcting Tape

- Automatic Correction
- Automatic Relocation
- And Much More...

SILVER-REED

Reg. Price $575.00
Special $475.00

Check with us about payment plans

Hull BUSINESS MACHINES, INC.

715 North 12th
MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502
PHONE 913/539-7931 or 539-1413

Cats

We'd like to remind WILDCAT football fans of the current DUI (Driving Under the Influence) laws in Kansas.

Any individual who drives a motor vehicle while having a blood alcohol content of .10% or above may be convicted of driving while under the influence, or DUI, in the state of Kansas (and most other states). Refusal to submit to an alcohol test of breath or blood is admissible as evidence against a person charged with DUI. Plea bargaining, or attempting to have the charge reduced to a lesser charge (such as reckless driving) is not permitted. A person convicted of DUI is not eligible for release on probation or suspension of sentence.

Penalties for conviction of a 1st offense DUI:

- (1) 48 hours to six months imprisonment or 100 hours of public service,
- (2) $200 to $500 in fines,
- (3) restriction of driver's license for 90 days to one year (driving is allowed only as transportation for work, during a medical emergency, or to and from an alcohol and drug information school or a treatment program), and
- (4) completion of an alcohol and drug information school and/or a treatment program.

Alcohol & other Drug Education Service
101A Horton Hall 532-6432
Funded by SRS Alcohol & Drug Abuse Services

"We can get a Coke and keep the Old Fashioned
Coke Mug"

Both
Only 89¢

OPEN 10:30 A.M. TO 11 P.M.
TIL MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT.

1015 N. 3rd
Manhattan

* Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Am. D. & Q. Corp.
© Copyright 1981, Am. D. & Q. Corp.

COLISEUM INFORMATION MEETINGS

Two Coliseum Campaign information meetings will be held for the campus community on Monday, September 12, 1983. They are scheduled at 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. in the Ahearn Fieldhouse Gymnasium. All faculty, staff and administrative personnel are invited.

The purpose of the meetings is to answer questions and disseminate information concerning the Coliseum project and the faculty staff campus campaign.

SUNDAY SUPPER

5:30 p.m.
Program begins at 6:45

"The Church & Peace"
—Sister Barbara McCracken

1021 Denison Ave.

Sponsored by
CUMENICAL
CHRISTIAN
MINISTRIES

WATERBEDS $140⁰⁰

COMPLETE

Includes:

- Unfinished Extended
- Frame, Standard Plywood
- Pedestal and Deck, Heater and
- Thermostat, Stand Up Liner, Lap Seam
- Full Flotation Mattress, Fill Kit, and Water Treatment

$70⁰⁰
Everything except the wood!

KITS

Park Avenue Waterbeds
1217 MORO AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN

WIN WIN WIN

'84

CHARGER

from

KMKF 101+

MANHATTAN'S KF

Win a 1984 Dodge Charger! You might be the lucky winner of the lease of a new Dodge Charger provided by Ed Schram Dodge in Manhattan and 101+. Several times each day we'll ask our card-carrying listeners to call in and get qualified. In December we'll conduct a drawing from all those names, and the winner will get the use of an '84 Dodge Charger for a year.

The winner must be at least 18, licensed to drive, prove insurability and pay for any insurance costs over $300.00. The lease includes typical full maintenance, but the winner will be responsible for any abuse to the vehicle. The winner will have the right to transfer the year's lease to someone else, but all restrictions and requirements are still in effect.

We'll be giving away lots of other prizes over the next few months. If you already have a 101+ card, keep it. It's still good and could win you valuable prizes. And if you don't have a card, listen to 101+ to find out how you can pick one up.

Alf Landon celebrates 96th birthday

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Alf M. Landon observes his 96th birthday today, still recovering from a broken hip suffered three months ago and still assessing world affairs from the den of his comfortable old home in northwest Topeka.

On Memorial Day weekend last spring, Landon fell at the front door of his home and cracked his right hip bone. He was hospitalized four weeks, and gradually has been recuperating at home since June 24.

He began walking very slowly with the aid of an aluminum frame while still in the hospital and has advanced until he now can walk unassisted, although a nurse remains close by when he does just in case he would slip.

"I still hope I'll be able to walk once more down to Sixth Street by the time the snow flies," Landon said in a birthday interview. He referred to an intersection about three blocks from his home, and a vow he made when he left the hospital six weeks ago.

The rehabilitation process was very slow for a while, but the former Kansas governor has made dramatic progress in the past two to three weeks. His physician, Dr. John Cray, has said all along that Landon should make a nearly full recovery but it would take time.

Although he still must greatly limit his activities, Landon's voice has become strong once more, the frail appearance is gone, and his appetite for food, politics and football is as sharp as ever.

"There's no question that I'm getting better," Landon said as he prepared to receive the students of Landon Middle School.

"Considering the fact that I broke my hip just 3½ months ago, I'd say I feel pretty good. I am very happy with the progress I've made, although my activities are still restricted."

He will greet the students, who for the last dozen years have made the half-mile trek from the public school named for Landon to the big white colonial home on the outskirts of Topeka. However, Landon will not speak to them as he has in the past. It will be only a brief greeting and thank you. His strength won't permit him to deliver any speeches.

He very much wanted to attend a wine reception and dinner the Republican Party is staging in his honor Sunday evening at a downtown hotel. He had planned to go and even wanted to deliver some remarks.

But his daughter, U.S. Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, wife and doctor decided he shouldn't try it.

"I think he's doing fine, and there's been a dramatic improvement in the last couple of weeks," said Mrs. Theo Landon, his wife who was 85 last week. "But we could overdo it."

A year ago, President Reagan came to Kansas to pay tribute to Landon, delivering a lecture at K-State in the series named for Landon and then coming to Topeka for a Republican fundraising luncheon.

Landon, who served as governor of Kansas in 1933-37 and was the Republican nominee for president in 1936, went to Manhattan for the Reagan address. He was given a K-State football jersey, No. 95, and Reagan was given No. 1.

Reagan publicly told Landon that he would send Air Force One to Topeka to fly Landon to the White House for a birthday party on Landon's 100th birthday in 1987, if he still is president.

"I'm planning to hold the president to his promise," Landon quipped.

BUSINESS COUNCIL HAS ONE VACANCY

Application available in SGS Office.
Due Fri. Sept. 9.

THE DONUT HOLE OPEN 24 HOURS ON FRIDAY!

We'll keep em' coming hot and fresh all night!

11th & Moro
Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 a.m.-1:00 a.m.
Fri.—24 hours
Sat.—till 6 p.m.

THE SOUND SHOP

is having a GIGANTIC RECORD SALE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

10:30-6:00

10:00-6:00

That's right—and we mean GIGANTIC, because we have just received literally THOUSANDS of current, overstock, and cutout LP's. All are top name, factory sealed and are selling for only—

2⁹⁹-5⁹⁹

Leo Kottke
Leon Redbone
Lou Reed
Seals & Crofts
Freddie Hubbard
Bobbi Humphrey
Prism
Peter, Paul & Mary
Trillion
Pretenders
Sky
Utopia
Keith Jarrett
Al Stewart
Gary Numan
John Entwistle
Billy Thorpe
Tim Welsberg
Elmore James
Lightnin' Hopkins
Boyz Scaggs
Etta James
John Lee Hooker
David Allan Coe
Michael Stanley Band
Al DiMeola
Ted Nugent
Aerosmith
Muddy Waters
Romantics
Air Supply
Jimi Hendrix
Grace Jones
Barry Manilow
Inner Circle
Wings
It's A Beautiful Day
Brand X
Amazing Rhythm Aces
Norman Blake
The Babys
Gary Clark
Drifters
Gil Scott-Heron
Crusaders
Jimmy Reed
Patti Austin
Cleo Laine
Wes Montgomery
Dizzy Gillespie
Eric Gale
Carole King
Queen
Toto
Grateful Dead
Joni Mitchell
Bonnie Raitt
James Taylor
Shooting Star
Bob Dylan
Spirit
Dixie Dregs
Michael Franks
R.E.O. Speedwagon
Little Feat
Nilsson
Devo
Steely Dan

Rush
Simon & Garfunkel
Talking Heads
Genesis
Don Williams
Barbra Streisand
Suzi Quatro
Rufus
The Band
Moody Blues
Todd Rundgren
Oak Ridge Boys
New Riders of Purple Sage Beatles
Southside Johnny
George Duke
Johnny Cash
Hall & Oates
J. Geils Band
Tony Bennett
Mink DeVille
J.J. Cale
John Lennon
Anne Murray
Cheap Trick
Diesel
Chuck Mangione
Tom Waits
Donovan
The Who
E.L.O.
Rod Stewart
Lobo
Kool & the Gang
Asleep at the Wheel
John Prine
Mickey Gilly
National Lampoon
John Conlee
B.B. King
Jennifer Warnes
Average White Band
John Lee/Gerry Brown
Allman Brothers Band
Hollies
David Bromberg Band
Stanley Turrentine
Jim Capaldi
Paul Horn
Rare Earth
Uriah Heep
Gary Wright
Sanford & Townsend Band
David Crosby/Graham Nash
Captain & Tennille
Rita Coolidge
Gino Vannelli
Joe Cocker
Billy Cobham
Jon Anderson
Firefall
Emerson, Lake & Palmer

Firesign Theater
Marshall Tucker Band
Kiss
Robin Trower
Jethro Tull
Judy Collins
Jimmie Speeris
Camel
Kingfish
Grover Washington, Jr.
Meatloaf
Elvis Presley
Iggy Pop
Ari Roth
Climax Blues Band
Deep Purple
Alice Cooper
Pointer Sisters
Kinks
Brecker Brothers
Loudon Wainwright III
Yes
Bette Midler
Janis Joplin
Carly Simon
Edgar Winter
10 CC
Alvin Lee/Ten Years After
George Benson
Jesse Collin Young
Jimmy Buffet
Stevie Wonder
Jerry Garcia Band
Manhattan Transfer
Rory Gallagher
Manfred Mann
Poco
Creedence Clearwater Revival
Be Bop Deluxe
Elton John
Thin Lizzy
Becker & Fagan
Dan Hicks
Bob Marley & The Wailers
Stephen Stills
Neil Diamond
Rick Derringer
Outlaws
Billy Joel
Bob James
Jefferson Starship
Robert Palmer
Harry James
Billie Holiday
Lester Flatt
Quicksilver Messenger Service
Beach Boys
Mississippi Fred McDowell
James Cotton
Leadbelly
Ten Years After
Willie Dixon

John Klemmer
Count Basie
Duke Ellington
Jessie Colter
Charlie Musselwhite
Savoy Brown
Robert Johnson
Miles Davis
Charles Mingus
Dave Brubeck
Maynard Ferguson
Don Ellis
Earl Scruggs
Byrds
Taj Mahal
Grace Slick
Johnny Winter
Tom Scott & The L.A. Express
Kansas
Earth, Wind & Fire
Judas Priest
Santana
Blue Oyster Cult
Janis Ian
Dave Mason
Eddie Money
Peter Tosh
Chicago
Les Dudek
Ozark Mountain Daredevils
Hoyt Axton
Gato Barbieri
Lou Rawls
Rick Danko
Herbie Mann
Ray Charles
Roberta Flack
Paul Davis
Papa John Creach
Toshiko Mariano Quartet
New York Rock Ensemble
John Mayall
Ron Carter
Willie Nelson
Graham Parker & The Rumour
Pure Prairie League
Michael Bloomfield
Albert King
Maria Muldaur
America
Rita Coolidge
Nile Lofgren
Tubes
Pablo Cruise
Shawn Phillips
Melissa Manchester
Journey
Kris Kristofferson
Lake
Loggins & Messina
Phoebe Snow
Weather Report
Return to Forever
Jeff Beck
Dan Fogelberg
Blues Brothers
Country Joe McDonald
James Gang

FREE BEER (Due to the low prices and distributors policy we cannot accept any returns on these albums) FREE BEER

THE SOUND SHOP

1204 MORO

537-7555

AGGIEVILLE

COMMONWEALTH THEATRES
MOVIE MARQUEE

West Loop
Daily at 7:00 & 9:00
"National Lampoon's Vacation" [R]

West Loop
Daily at 7:10 & 9:10
"Mr. Mom" [PG]

Campus
Daily at 7:10 & 9:00
"Easy Money" [R]

Warham
Daily at 7:00 & 9:00
"Risky Business" [R]

Varsity
Daily at 7:00 & 9:00
"Nightmares" [R]

Connelly Skis

Dealers Cost

Spillway
Marina
Tuttle Creek

539-6957

Stereo Equipment
Television
Camera Equipment
Typewriter Books
Jewelry Clothes

What are your possessions worth?
Safeguard their value with a low cost renter's insurance policy.

For details contact:
Rebecca A. Lamond
Agent

PEOPLES FINANCIAL SERVICES, INC.

1127 West Loop/P.O. Box 667
Office Ph. (913) 537-0550
Manhattan, KS 66502

The DOWN UNDER
515 RICHARDS DRIVE — UNDER WILDCAT LANES

FRIDAY
MAKE YOUR OWN TACOS
4 p.m.-7 p.m.
Gary returns with hits from 50's & 60's.
7:30-???

DOWN UNDER CLUB

515 Richards
(under Wildcat Lanes)
For reservations call 539-0230

Then get in on the ground floor in our undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start planning on a career like the men in this ad have. And also have some great advantages like:

- Earning $100 a month during the school year
- As a freshman or sophomore, you could complete your basic training during two six-week summer sessions and earn more than $1100 during each session
- Juniors earn more than $1900 during one ten-week summer session

- You can take free civilian flying lessons
- You're commissioned upon graduation

If you're looking to move up quickly, look into the Marine Corps undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start off making more than $17,000 a year

Want to move up quickly?

Maybe you can be one of us.

*The Few.
The Proud.
The Marines.*

Marines

See your Officer Selection Officer, 1stLt Bradford at the Student Union on November 14-16, 1983 or call (913) 841-1821 collect.

Cats stop Shockers for home opener win

By TRACY ALLEN
Staff Writer

K-State's volleyball team continued its winning ways Thursday evening as the Wildcats swept three games from Wichita State University, 15-11, 15-12 and 16-14 in Ahearn Field House.

After dominating Fort Hays State University in their season-opener last weekend, the Wildcats fell short of dominating Thursday's match and they had to rely more on strong defense and clutch plays to defeat the first-year Shocker squad.

Fortunately for K-State, experience proved to be the key to the squad's success as the Cats increased their record to 2-0 as they head into the seventh annual KSU Invitational which starts today and ends Saturday in Ahearn Field House.

Although WSU is in its first year of organized volleyball, the Shockers didn't let their lack of experience overcome them as they battled K-State down to the wire in all three games.

In the first contest, mistakes almost cost the Wildcats a victory.

After taking a quick 4-0 lead, K-State's offense suddenly dwindled as WSU retaliated with great defensive moves and a patient offense — cutting the Wildcat's lead to 6-4.

The Shockers were able to continue their drive as Wildcat mistakes took their toll, allowing the Shockers to tie the score at 6-6.

But, thanks to fine front line performances by sophomore outside hitter Donna Lee and senior middle hitter Cathy Sittenauer, the Cats were able to rejuvenate their offense and regain the lead, 11-6.

However, the contest wasn't decided until the late in the game.

Senior outside hitter Sharon Ridley, who finished the match with a team high of 14 kills, was a main force in the Cats offense as K-State was able to maintain its lead and escape the contest with a victory.

The second game didn't get much better for K-State. After gaining a 4-1 margin over the Shockers in the early going of the contest, mistakes again began to take their toll for the Cats as WSU used a strong defense to capture the lead, 7-4.

However, the Wildcats were able to get their offense rolling once again as they regained the lead, 11-8, which didn't last long as WSU battled back to tie the score at 11-11.

According to volleyball coach Scott Nelson, besides experience, the key to K-State's success Thursday was due to how well the squad performed under pressure.

Staff/John Sleszer

Stretching to block a shot, Renee Whitney, left, stops a ball intended to go over her head, as Shantelle Hietbrink, right, assists at the top of the net.

Pigskin picks

By the Collegian Staff

Well, the pigskin prognosticators are back with their tails between their legs. Last weekend was a weekend that would make Jimmy "the Greek" Snyder cringe. Who'd expect Northern Illinois to upend the University of Kansas? Or Missouri Southern to shock Wichita State?

Coming out on top for the most correct picks made on "Black Saturday" was Andy "Crash" Nelson with a "brilliant" 5-5 record. Could it be that Andy's faint knowledge of the football scene actually benefitted him in picking teams that otherwise were supposed to lose?

Wright, Hanson, Owsley and Reilly all tied with a record of 4-6. Dale and Torczon tied for last place with a record of 3-7.

To offset such pathetic performances, we have requested the services of Brian "Kanga" La Rue, the editor of the past summer's Collegian. With Kanga, we have at least one more chance to come up with a decent record from this band of mindless subhumans.

This week's picks will include the usual teams from the Big Eight Conference, Wichita State University and Northwestern University ("Mild"-cats) — the team that surpassed K-State for most consecutive losses two years ago. However, Northwestern is touted to finish as high as fourth in the Big Ten Conference. We'll see.

Team to host tourney

By TRACY ALLEN
Staff Writer

Ahearn Field House will be bubbling with excitement this weekend as K-State's women's volleyball team hosts 15 other teams in the seventh annual KSU Volleyball Invitational today and Saturday.

Defending champion Missouri headlines the tournament field. Other teams expected to finish in the top four are Oral Roberts, Wyoming and K-State.

The Wildcats will begin tournament play at 4 p.m. today against Northern Illinois, then face South Dakota at 7 p.m. On Saturday, K-State will continue as they square off against Wichita State at 10 a.m. The championship finals are scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

When the Wildcats opened their 1983 season last Friday against Fort Hays State University at Hays, experience and strength keyed K-State's success as they dominated the Tigers in three games, 15-3, 15-5, and 15-7.

Scott Nelson, volleyball coach, said he was pleased with the squad's performance against Fort Hays State.

"We are well ahead of where we were last year at this point," he said. "Beating Fort Hays State gives us more confidence heading into the invitational tournament."

Individual leaders for the Cats in the Fort Hays State game were senior Sharon Ridley and sophomore Donna Lee. Both players finished the match with a team high of 10 kills that scored points.

Besides K-State, the teams included in the tournament are Wichita State University, South Dakota University, Northern Illinois University, University of Wyoming, Bethel College, Oklahoma City University, Doane College, University of Missouri, University of Missouri-Kansas City, North Dakota State University, University of Tulsa, Oral Roberts University, University of Kansas, Central Missouri State University and Emporia State University.

Top 20

The following is the top 20 list as compiled by a four-member staff of the Collegian. Points are assigned, 20 for first, 19 for second and 18 for third, etc.

TOP 20
1. Nebraska (3)	79
2. Oklahoma (1)	76
3. Texas	71
4. Michigan	53
5. Notre Dame	48
6. (tie) Ohio State	44
Georgia
Arizona
Auburn
10. SMU	43
11. Florida St.	42
12. (tie) Penn St.	40
N. Carolina
14. Iowa	26
15. Tennessee	22
16. Arizona St.	21
17. UCLA	19
18. USC	15
19. Alabama	13
20. (tie) Maryland	10
LSU

Dan Owsley

Kevin Dale

Tex Hanson

Andy Nelson

Iowa 27 vs. Iowa St. 13
Kentucky 19 vs. K-State 24
N. Texas St. 10 vs. Oklahoma St. 33
Michigan St. 20 vs. Colorado 13
TCU 17 vs. Kansas 24
Missouri 28 vs. Illinois 17
Nebraska 54 vs. Wyoming 6
Oklahoma 35 vs. Stanford 13
Northwestern Univ. 7 vs. Washington 49
Wichita St. 21 vs. Ball St. 17
Kansas City Chiefs 31 vs. San Diego 24
St. Louis 24 vs. Dallas 21

Joel Torczon

Iowa 20 vs. Iowa St. 17
Kentucky 20 vs. K-State 24
N. Texas St. 10 vs. Oklahoma St. 38
Michigan St. 17 vs. Colorado 13
TCU 28 vs. Kansas 27
Missouri 24 vs. Illinois 20
Nebraska 52 vs. Wyoming 7
Oklahoma 27 vs. Stanford 20
Northwestern Univ. 24 vs. Washington 20
Wichita St. 20 vs. Ball St. 17
Kansas City Chiefs 24 vs. San Diego 34
St. Louis 20 vs. Dallas 34

Iowa 28 vs. Iowa St. 10
Kentucky 20 vs. K-State 28
N. Texas St. 14 vs. Oklahoma St. 17
Michigan St. 21 vs. Colorado 10
TCU 21 vs. Kansas 27
Missouri 21 vs. Illinois 23
Nebraska 56 vs. Wyoming 10
Oklahoma 42 vs. Stanford 21
Northwestern Univ. 17 vs. Washington 14
Wichita St. 21 vs. Ball St. 17
Kansas City Chiefs 21 vs. San Diego 21
St. Louis 10 vs. Dallas 34

Judi Wright

Iowa 28 vs. Iowa St. 17
Kentucky 21 vs. K-State 17
N. Texas St. 10 vs. Oklahoma St. 24
Michigan St. 20 vs. Colorado 28
TCU 10 vs. Kansas 21
Missouri 17 vs. Illinois 10
Nebraska 48 vs. Wyoming 10
Oklahoma 35 vs. Stanford 17
Northwestern Univ. 9 vs. Washington 14
Wichita St. 17 vs. Ball St. 12
Kansas City Chiefs 25 vs. San Diego 31
St. Louis 27 vs. Dallas 31

Iowa 23 vs. Iowa St. 14
Kentucky 10 vs. K-State 23
N. Texas St. 6 vs. Oklahoma St. 29
Michigan 42 vs. Colorado 12
TCU 21 vs. Kansas 21
Missouri 21 vs. Illinois 20
Nebraska 45 vs. Wyoming 6
Oklahoma 33 vs. Stanford 21
Northwestern Univ. 2 vs. Washington 42
Wichita St. 15 vs. Ball St. 6
Kansas City Chiefs 17 vs. San Diego 14
St. Louis 21 vs. Dallas 12

Sean Reilly

Iowa 24 vs. Iowa St. 10
Kentucky 17 vs. K-State 21
N. Texas St. 7 vs. Oklahoma St. 28
Michigan St. 35 vs. Colorado 10
TCU 21 vs. Kansas 35
Missouri 14 vs. Illinois 21
Nebraska 54 vs. Wyoming 14
Oklahoma 42 vs. Stanford 21
Northwestern 24 vs. Washington 21
Wichita St. 21 vs. Ball St. 6
Kansas City Chiefs 28 vs. San Diego 21
St. Louis 35 vs. Dallas 28

Collegian Classifieds — Where K-State Shops

LATE SHOW

Fri. & Sat.
at Midnight

"TABOO"

Rated X

Campus
Heart of Aggieville

2 furs
from 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Wear your western hat and get 50¢ off drinks
all nite!

Country Western nite!

SATURDAY

515 RICHARDS DRIVE — UNDER WILDCAT LANES

Weekend Special!

Call us.
539-0561
517 North 12th St.

Hours:
4:30pm-1am Mon-Thurs.
11am-2am Fri & Sat.
11am-1am Sun.

We use only the freshest ingredients and 100% real dairy cheese.

We promise free delivery and fast 30 minute service to your door. All you have to do is call!

Prices do not include applicable sales tax.

Our drivers carry less than $10.00.

Limited delivery area.

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12" cheese $5.15
16" cheese $7.35

The Price Destroyer
9 items for the price of 5
Pepperoni, Mushrooms,
Olives, Onions, Green
Peppers, Ground Beef,
Sausage, Ham, Extra
Cheese
12" Price Destroyer $ 9.40
16" Price Destroyer $13.60

Additional Items
Pepperoni, Mushrooms,
Ham, Onions, Anchovies,
Green Peppers, Olives,
Sausage, Ground Beef,
Jalapenos, Extra Cheese,
Extra Thick Crust
12" pizza $.85 per item
16" pizza $1.25 per item

Pepperoni, quarts available

$2.00 Off!

Good Friday, Saturday,
& Sunday only.
$2.00 off any 16"
2-item pizza plus 1 qt.
of Pepsi.
One coupon per pizza.
Expires: 12/31/83

Fast, Free Delivery
Good at listed locations.

34089 / 8011

Tonight and Saturday

THE BEL AIRS

Today TGIF PARTY
FREE HORS D'OEUVRES • 50¢ DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE • $1.25 HOUSE DRINKS
6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Next Week—Don't Miss CARIBE
1122 Moro UPSTAIRS IN AGGIEVILLE 539-9703

FUN-TIME

Reg. Hamburger
NO SUBS

"Buy 'em By The Bag"

39¢

FAST DRIVE-THRU

BRANDING IRON—421-N-3RD

Classified

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $1.95, 10 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $2.70, 15 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.10, 20 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.85, 25 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.30, 30 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon Friday for Monday's paper.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENT 01

OCTOBERFEST! Manhattan is having their annual Oktoberfest October 8, and Aggieville wants you to participate. Anything from crafts to homemade products is needed. Individuals, groups, charities. Contact Bill Jacoby, 776-5908. (2-17)

EXECUTIVE POSITION—Travel, responsibility, excellent benefits. Army ROTC, 532-6754. (14)

THE LATE Great God—Film and discussion—7:00 p.m. Sunday. St. Francis Episcopal Campus Ministry, 1801 Anderson. (13-14)

WANT A warm, creative, learning environment for your child? Sunwheel has openings 1:00-4:00 p.m., 2 1/2-5 years. Call 776-4116. (13-15)

LITTLE SISTER Rush Party—at the Delta Sigma Phi house, 1100 Fremont. Everyone welcome. Transportation provided if needed—539-9763. (14)

ATTENTION 02

TRAVEL—We will give you the best price to anywhere. International Tours, 776-4756. (11f)

REGENCY LEARNING and Childcare Center, 1811 Browning has a few openings for morning and afternoon preschool. All lesson plans are developed and taught by experienced teachers with degrees in Early Childhood Education. If necessary we will provide transportation for your child to preschool. For more information call 776-4444, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. or 776-9732 after 5:30 p.m. and weekends, or stop by the center for a visit and a tour. (10-14)

K-LAIRES, KSU's square dancing club, will be accepting new members September 11 and September 18. Inexperienced and experienced dancers welcome, no partners required to join. Join us upstairs in the Union's K.S.U. Ballrooms, Sunday nights at 7:00 p.m. (12-14)

SUNFLOWER SAMPLER—A new craft shop in town, 2030 Tuttle Creek Boulevard. Open House, Saturday, September 10th from 1:00-5:00 p.m. 15% off on colored hoops. Fall craft classes starting. (14)

ENJOY ANIMALS? Want to learn more about them? Be a zoo docent (volunteer) at Sunset Zoo. Learn to give tours, Animal Demonstrations, etc. Class signups Saturday, September 10 at Community House. For more information call Denise at 532-2208 or M'Liss at 532-2160. (14)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (11f)

TYPEWRITER RENTALS, electronics and manuals, day, week or month. Buzzell's, 511 Leavenworth, across from post office. Call 776-9469. (11f)

IBM TYPEWRITERS for rent. Supplies and service available for electric and electronic typewriters. Hui Business Machines (Aggieville), 715 North 12th, 539-7931. (11f)

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 500 choices. Adult and children. Clean, well kept, low rates. Open 2:00-6:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment. Marie's Costumes, 1831 Humboldt, 539-5200. (81f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

QUIET EFFICIENCY apartment one block from campus. Heat, water and trash paid, $210/month, 1131 Vattier. Phone 776-0566. (11-14)

NEWLY-REMODELED, four-bedroom apartment. Semi-furnished, across the street from campus. Off-street parking, washer and dryer. Call 537-0589. (5-14)

ONE-BEDROOM, basement partially furnished. Available October 1st, $200 plus utilities. Call 537-2344; evenings 539-1498. (14-23)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

NEW, FOUR-bedroom apartment near KSU, 1721 Laramie, utilities paid. Call 776-1776. (13-14)

TWO-THREE bedroom house in country, close-in, partially furnished. Prefer agriculture background, $295. Call 776-6083. (13-15)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1979 TRANS AM, gold, automatic. Air conditioning, excellent condition, 37,000 miles. $5,200. Must sell. Call 776-0131. (14-18)

1987 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass, four-door, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning. Runs good. Call 1-485-2648. (10-14)

1977 DATSUN 8210 Hatchback Deluxe. Low miles, clean, automatic transmission. Almost new tires, $2500. Call 539-5845. (12-16)

1971 CORVETTE convertible, 68,700 miles. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

1971 MG convertible, $2,300. Call 776-3363. (12-14)

1969 MUSTANG—Automatic transmission, power-steering, power brakes. Call 1-456-7016 after 6:30 p.m. (13-17)

1976 BUICK Skyhawk—6 cylinders, automatic, 75,000 mileage, good condition, $1500. Call 539-6763. (13-17)

1976 FIAT X19, new engine, new interior, new paint, must sell, $2700. Call 532-6364. (13-14)

1976 VW Bus—excellent condition. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

1977 HONDA Accord—New valve job, new front brakes, new radial tires. Car is in excellent condition, $2,250 or best offer. Diane, 532-6767 or 539-6808. (13-16)

1975 VW Rabbit—Good condition, excellent gas mileage, $1,250. Call 539-0131. (13-17)

1968 VW Bus—Good condition, must sell, $1,100 or best offer. Call 539-0131. (13-17)

1973 VALIANT four-door sedan, slant-six, 225 engine, good running condition, $350. Call 537-8367. (13-14)

1973 PLYMOUTH Duster. Runs and looks good. Manual transmission. Asking $700. Call 776-5893. (14-18)

1975 FORD—Torino, station wagon, 8 cylinders, 78,900 miles, good condition, good mileage, air conditioner, $790. Call 776-3561. (14)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

ZENITH TV—21" color console. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

TALK TO DAD

about a place beside Tuttle Creek Lake. Remind him of the rent he'll save and how hard you will study with the peace and quiet of the country. (Don't mention the parties.) Do mention the great fishing! Promise to help your mother with the charcoaling on the big deck when they bring friends for a football weekend.

BRING MOM AND DAD to see the super places now available; three are priced under $30,000.

THOMPSON REALTY
539-7032

(Continued on page 11)

Gregor's

COUNTRY STYLE DINING IN THE PUBLIC DINING ROOM $3.95

Help yourself to a variety of meats, with salad bar, potatoes and gravy, homestyle bread and fruit punch.

WEEKEND SPECIALS IN THE CLUB

Baked shrimps with crab meat stuffing $6.50
Broiled salmon steak $5.50

Complimentary hor d'oeuvres 4 p.m.-6 p.m. daily during cocktail hour in the lounge.

Late night suppers and dancing to live DJ in the club.

2605 Stagg Hill Rd.

776-1234

Grandparents are Special

Everyone knows GRANDPARENTS ARE SPECIAL! Vista Restaurants thinks so, too. So to celebrate Grandparent's Day, September 11, we'll treat you to a free sundae with your purchase of a sandwich from our menu. Select a Vistaburger, Triburger, Texasburger, Vistaburger, Fish Sandwich, or Pork Fritter, and we'll present you with your favorite sundae - free! Enjoy your choice of five flavors, with or without nuts: Hot Fudge, Chocolate, Strawberry, Pineapple, or Butterscotch. Celebrate Grandparents Day with Vista on September 11. (inside dining only)

Just for Grandparents...
A FREE SUNDAE with purchase of a sandwich.

Vista
RESTAURANTS

1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Topeka • Manhattan • Lawrence • Emporia

ST. FRANCIS at KSU

The Episcopal Campus Ministry

Sundays

5:00 p.m.—Holy Eucharist
6:00 p.m.—Supper
7:00 p.m.—Film/Discussion

Mondays

7:30 p.m.—Bible Study
"Community & Faith"

Wednesdays

12:10 p.m.—Eucharist
Danforth Chapel

This Sunday's Film: The Late Great God

1801 Anderson

Chaplain: Fr. Ron Clingenpeel
537-0593

The Episcopal Church Welcomes You!

a Gathering of Soldiers of the Cross

Rally together with other victorious
Christian young adults
(and sincere seekers of the truth) as we honor and praise
our Great God and King—Jesus.

Joe Cohen

will be speaking on

"The Law/Principle of Greatness"

Saturday, Sept. 10
7 p.m.

KSU Danforth Chapel

"When I was a little child I talked and felt and thought like a little child. Now that I am a man I have finished with childish things." I Corinthians 13:11

"Let us leave behind the elementary teaching about Christ and go forward to adult understanding." Hebrews 6:1

a disciplining caring community
BIBLICAL—EVANGELICAL—INTERNATIONAL

THIS MEETING IS AN ACTIVITY OF MARANATHA CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY
THE STUDENT OUTREACH OF MARANATHA CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

STUDENT REP.
539-6600

CHURCH OFFICE
537-7539

BEAT THE HEAT & PRICES AT OASIS RECORDS!

These LP's and Tapes ON SALE
THROUGH SUNDAY.

Sale $7.18

Sale $8.09

Sale $7.18

Sale $8.09

Sale $7.18

Sale $8.09

1128 Moro
Aggieville

539-8727

M.-Sat. 10-6:30
Thurs. 10-9:00
Sun. 1-5

(Continued from page 10)

ADULT GAG gifts, novelties, all occasion, risqué greeting cards. Always a good selection! Treasure Chest, Aggieville, (11f)

BACK ISSUES men's magazines, comics, National Geographic, Life, used paper backs, records. We buy, sell, trade. Treasure Chest, Aggieville, (11f)

BUNK BEDS built to order for dormitory beds. $45. Phone daytime 776-7022, evenings 537-7700. (5-14)

RALEIGH 26" 10-speed Gran Sport, Campi de-raller, white/blue. Excellent, with extras, $200. Call 1-258-2503. (12-14)

BAND EQUIPMENT: Les Paul guitar, ampeg amps, synthesizers, pianos, organ, Leslie, PA cabinets, mixer. Call 776-9305. (12-14)

TWO WICKER chairs, two wicker partitions, one wicker chest, large formal counter—would make a good wet bar. All excellent condition, 776-3379. Ask for Aaron or Rosie. (12-16)

RALEIGH 3-speed bicycle. Made in England. Good condition, $75. Call 539-8629 evenings 7:00-11:00 p.m. (13-15)

16 FOOT wooden boat, 35 hp motor, trailer, many extras, $550. Mike, 776-4548 (after 7:00 p.m.) (13-17)

3.2 CUBIC foot refrigerator, $70. Call 539-5571. (13-14)

FIREWOOD! SOME already cut and some to be split. Call 537-0880 after 4:30 p.m. (14-18)

THREE CARPET remnants, two brown, one beige, $10-$25. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

CALCULATOR TI-59, programmable with magnetic card storage, six months old, $175. Contact Bob, DU 265, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

CARPETS—VERY good condition. See at garage sale September 10, 1983, 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. 1740 Vaughn Drive. (14)

MOVING AUCTION—Tuesday evening, September 13, 1983, 4:30 p.m., 1835 Fairchild, Manhattan, Kansas. Furniture and appliances: Side-by-side refrigerator, very good; Emerson 110 window air conditioner; very good dinette table and eight chairs; oak breakfast desk; oak china cabinet; 13" black and white TV; octagon game table; hutch—wood with glass doors; ping pong table; coffee, and stand tables; nice hideaway divan; swivel rocker; dinette table and four chairs; lawn chairs; portable sewing machine; stereo record player; long folding table; oak bread box; school desk and chair, 4 to 5 cu. ft. bar refrigerator; automatic washer, very clean and good; electric dryer, 9 x 12 rug; bedroom suite with chest and complete bed; low boy table; stereo components; hand carved table; many CB components and microphones; electric sweeper; pots and pans of all descriptions; blender; toaster; electric skillet; toasters; kitchen flatware; bowling game; lots of curtains; life preservers; barrow; electric space heater; antique large spoons and bobbins; radios; kerosene heater; two portable typewriters; sewing basket; many towels and sheets; hair curler; linens; nice clothing; books; melmac; table lamps; red wagon; 20" dirt bike; bar bells; shovels and rakes; green machine trike; many, many miscellaneous items. A good clean auction. Beverly Reid, owner. Auctioneers: Mill Anderson, 103 S. 4th, Manhattan, KS, phone 776-4834 or 539-7365; Earl Brown, Junction City, KS, phone 1-762-2296. (14-15)

HELP MY owner got a new stereo and is putting me up for adoption. I am a Panasonic with AM, FM, tape, turntable and speakers. Call 532-3970. (14)

DESPERATE—PRICE reduced from $800 down to $600. Beautiful, two-year-old, filly, buckskin, registered, quarter horse. Call 776-6358 after 5:00 p.m. (14-18)

FOR SALE—MOBILE HOMES 08
CLEAN 10'x45' older mobile home. Short drive to Manhattan or can be moved, $1500. Call 1-456-9418 or 1-456-7845 after 5:00 p.m. (12-16)

FOR SALE—MOTORCYCLES 09
1981 YAMAHA HOPPER, $295. Must sell. Call 539-2605 after 5:00 p.m. (13-14)

MUST SELL: 1981 Kawasaki CSR 305, excellent condition; 1977 Honda 750K, good condition. Call 776-3716. (14-19)

FOUND 10
SET OF keys found in Seaton Hall, room 63. Identify and claim in room 212. Also glasses found in Seaton Court, room 109. (12-14)

PAUL GRIMES drivers license found outside Waters Hall. Call 532-6154 to identify and claim. (13-16)

SMALL YELLOW kitten found outside Goodnow Hall. Can identify and claim by calling 532-5484. Keep trying! (14-18)

KEYS FOUND in Waters Annex, Room 103 Tuesday. Claim and describe at KSU Police. (14-16)

GARAGE SALES 12
JUST MOVED, can't find room for everything. Carpets, furniture, etc. 1909 Ranser, Saturday, September 10, 8:00-5:00 p.m. (12-14)

2205 McDowell, Saturday, 8:30 a.m.-? Stereo, furniture, T.V., clothes, ladies uniforms, bulletin boards, lots of misc. (13-14)

HELP WANTED 13
MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST for independent clinical laboratory. Experience preferred. Part-time. Send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502. (8-14)

CLEAN HALLS in apartment building. Needs own transportation. Approximately ten hours a week. Call 539-5182. (12-14)

PIZZA DELIVERY—Wage plus commission and tips. Must have car and liability. Apply in person, 716 North 3rd, 4:00-8:00 p.m. (12-14)

TELEPHONE SALES Position—evenings, call from our office, 15 minutes from Manhattan. $5.00/hour guaranteed, bonus. Call Tom Mertz, Farmer's Shopper, 1-456-2837. (13-15)

CHOIR DIRECTOR needed for small church in Junction City. One weekly evening practice and one Sunday morning service. For more information, call 1-238-5732. (14-16)

LOST 14
BROWN PLAID English MG style hat. Reward! Please call 537-9231 evenings. (12-14)

TI-58C calculator left in library or Durland. If found, call 537-9497 for $25 reward! (14-16)

NOTICES 15

SEWING MACHINES—All makes professionally repaired. Several brands of new machines. 2011 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-8919. (12-29)

PERSONAL 16

SUSE—MONKEYS are safe and doing well, possible ransom: dinner at the golden arches, further information to come. "Abductor" (14)

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, Denise! Here's wishing a great roomie the best 22nd ever! Sigma Love, The Other "D." (14)

DEAR CINDY—Thanks for the personal. Let's make our last year one to remember, OK? Love, James. (14)

GENTLEMEN OF Mariatt 3: Get psyched for a great year! We're glad you're our brother floor! The Ladies of Ford 2. (14)

JAMIE BALDWIN: You're a blast, bub! Three years have gone fast, but the memories and care will last forever. A gigantic thanks for you. It's gonna be the last, but best year with you! Love ya, Zoom. (14)

DENISE, MARY and Sally: Just want you to know how much I appreciate your support. Don't worry—I'll be around every chance I get. Take care! Love ya bunches—Lori. (14)

PETER—HOPE you get to feeling better. We all miss you in class. Human Dev. 10:30. (14)

J.J. of K.K.G.—So sorry about the phone conversation, you caught me half asleep. Have to make it up to you sometime. P.S. Bring your roommate by. Must meet her! Brownie Jr. (14)

TO THE Men of Hay 9: Looking forward to an outstanding year with a fantastic bunch of guys! Thanks for the flowers. Love, Ford & Little Sis. (14)

STEVE—JUST to say I love you. For Tuttle and wine, for being there and being you. L.K.I.N. (14)

SIGMA SPRING Pledges—Congratulations on making it this far! We are lucky to have you and are looking forward to a fun weekend! Love, The Actives. (14)

BUCKO—YOU'RE a great roomie. Bubbles. (14)

MEN OF Mariatt 5—We're looking forward to a year of fun with our Big Brothers who are #1. West 2. (14)

JANA: ONE great year has past, with many more times to last. Thanks for everything. Love, G.W. (14)

POO—YOU have made the last twelve months the most wonderful year of my life. Thank you for being just the way you are. I love you. Roo. (14)

PI KAPPA Phi and Guest: The Roomer going around is that you'll have a blast at the Room to Room Party Saturday night. Don't worry, there'll be Room enough for everybody! Sudz. (14)

MPJ: One whole year, from that first stomp of the boot and through all the ups and downs, I never thought it would come to this. I'm happy it has because you mean more to me than you know. Love you always—Buns. (14)

KAREN—HAPPY 18th. You'll be legal soon, so watch out, Sailor. Remember. The only good Smurf is a dead Smurf. Doug, Hobbit, Jim. (14)

HAPPY 18th Birthday, Tami. Hope it's great! Your roomie. (14)

CARY, HI Pops! Let's go get wasted... again! Chuck. (14)

HAPPY ELEVEN months tomorrow! Looking forward to the party. I miss you long distance. Love from your best friend in K.C. (14)

GREG CRAWFORD—Thanks for being a great friend! T.T. (14)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

WANTED: NON-SMOKING female roommate. $175/month, all utilities paid. Call 539-6628. (8-14)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share nice duplex, own bedroom. Call 776-1530 after 6:00 p.m. or 1-736-2623 during weekend. (9-14)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share one-bedroom apartment six blocks from campus. $109/month plus utilities. Call 539-7973. (9-14)

ROOMMATE to share nice three bedroom mobile home. Private room, washer, dryer, air conditioning. $100 month plus one-third utilities. Redbud Estates, 776-2015. (10-14)

RESPONSIBLE FEMALE roommate. Cozy three-bedroom house. $117, one-third utilities. 537-4973, after 5:00 p.m., keep trying. (10-14)

ONE MALE roommate to share nice, furnished, one-bedroom apartment. $105 plus one-half utilities. Deposit needed. One block from campus. Call 776-9665 after 6:00 p.m. (11-14)

LIBERAL ROOMMATE wanted to share nicely furnished apartment with two people. $131.66/month plus utilities. 539-3197. (11-15)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share apartment. Close to campus, washer/dryer, deck, patio, BBQ. $117.50. Call 539-1658. (12-14)

FEMALE—ONE block from campus. Campus East Apartments. Furnished, pool, beautiful location. Low utilities. Call 776-7045. (12-14)

NON-SMOKING, LIBERAL, graduate roommate wanted. Private bedroom, washer and dryer, near campus. $130/month plus one-third utilities. Call 776-2487 after 5:00 p.m. (12-14)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share modern apartment. $133/month with many extras. Call Mary, 537-0586 evenings. (13-17)

NON-SMOKING LIBERAL female. Own room. Fall and spring, $145 month. 1320 Laramie. 537-3645 or 776-1614. (13-18)

MALE OR female roommate. Share two bedroom house, washer and dryer. Call Dean, 776-5589. (13-17)

ROOMMATES NEEDED for nice seven bedroom house near KSU at 1721 Laramie. Water and trash paid, $130 per month. 776-1776. (13-14)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE—furnished apartment, excellent location, $115 plus one-half utilities. Kate at 537-8546 or 532-6991. Keep trying. (13-17)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate to share one bedroom apartment one block from campus. Rent $105.58 plus one-half utilities. Call 537-0933. (13-15)

WANT A responsible male roommate, preferably a grad student, to share a two bedroom apartment, furnished, $135 per month, includes utilities paid and free cable TV. Please call 539-6629 anytime after 6:00 p.m. (13-15)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Unique skin care and glamour products. Call Fions Taylor, 539-2070, for facial. (1-75)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South 4th Street, Suite 25. (11f)

GRADUATING THIS semester? Let us help you with your resume. Resume Service, 1221 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (11f)

TYPING WANTED: Dissertations, theses, papers. Fast, professional service. Several years experience. Call Katherine, 539-8837. (3-30)

TYPING: EXPERIENCED, professional work. Call 776-6166 after 5:00 p.m. (14-29)

TYPING WANTED—Theses, papers, technical reports, architectural designs. Fifteen years experience, satisfaction guaranteed. Call 539-6528. (6-29)

PAYING TOO much? Call Don McMaster at Farm and Home for Auto, Health and Renters Insurance. I can probably save you money! 776-0089. (6-15)

TYPING—LOWER rates. IBM electronic typewriter for faster service. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call Linda, 776-6174. (7f)

MARY K Cosmetics—Free facials. 10 percent off products to KSU students. Now through September 1983. Call Elaine Berryhill, Independent Beauty Consultant. 537-3233 days, 1-456-7251 evenings. (7-29)

COSTUMES by the thousands. Complete rabbits, chickens, gorillas, tigers, bears and more. Flappers, Play Boy Bunnies, French maid, dance hall girls, much more. Ask for whatever you'd like to reserve now for Halloween. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (9-50)

TRISH'S TYPING Service—Everything from letters to dissertations. Call Trish after 5:30 p.m. at 539-6263. (9-19)

TYPING—LETTERS, term papers, resumes, etc. Reasonable rates. Call Sherry, 539-9131 after 5:30 p.m. (10-19)

WILL DO Key Punching and verify work. Call Rosie, 532-6281 from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. After 5:00 p.m. call 539-2554. (13-15)

TYPING, 65¢/page, quality-control proofreader, editing optional. 537-9175 early mornings, late evenings; keep trying. (13-17)

VOLKSWAGENS

Rabbit and Beetle Repairs at reasonable prices. We specialize in VW and carry new & used parts in stock. Only 7 miles east of Manhattan.

J&L Bug Service
1-494-2388, St. George

EPISCOPAL SERVICES: St. Francis at K.S.U. 5:00 p.m. Sundays. 1801 Anderson. Supper at 6:00 p.m. (14)

WANTED 21

COMPETITIVE SWIMMERS: Join a winner, independent intra-mural swim team needs you. Call Doug, 539-5321. (12-14)

PROFESSIONAL CHRISTIAN family seeking mature girl to help in home in exchange for board and room. Smoking and drinking not allowed. Must be able to cook and help with yard. References required. Qualified applicants respond to Box 2, c/o Collegian. (14-17)

CHRISTIAN TEACHER would like college girl to live in. Room and board in exchange for duties. Smoking and drinking not allowed. A.H. background helpful. References required. Respond to P.O. Box 175, Manhattan. (14-17)

WANTED TO BUY 22

16MM MOVIE projector. New or slightly used. Call 532-3559. (13-15)

WELCOMES 23

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Menonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries Building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (14)

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to Services, 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible Classes, 9:30 a.m. (14)

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN at Eighth and Leavenworth, (537-0518) celebrates in worship on Sunday morning at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. The Church School, including a special class for collegians and other young adults, meets at 9:30 a.m. For students needing rides, the bus schedule is: 9:10 a.m. West pickup—parking lot along Denison Avenue east of Goodnow Hall. 9:15 a.m. East pickup—street immediately south of Ford Hall. 12:10 p.m. (approximately) bus returns to KSU, the East and West pickup points. (14)

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN Church meets at 2800 Claffin Road (corner of Claffin and Browning). Students welcome! Bible study 9:30 a.m.; worship 8:15 and 10:45 a.m.; Evening Service 6:30 p.m. College Age Sunday School Class meets Sundays, 9:30 a.m. at Valentine's Pizza. For transportation call 776-5440. (14)

GRACE BAPTIST Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. and Worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Bus service from dormitories to 8:30 a.m. services and return to dormitories at 11:00 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Breistford, 776-0424. (14)

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 North 5th St. Church School 9:45 a.m., Worship 9:15 a.m. Morning Worship 10:15 a.m. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8655, Sue Amey, 776-0025. (14)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Service, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6:00 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (14)

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church, 2221 College Heights Road Bible Study, 9:30 a.m.; Regular Worship, 8:15 and 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. Church Training, 6:00 p.m. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7:00 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (14)

LUTHERAN STUDENTS AND FACULTY

(New & Returning)
You're invited to First Lutheran's "Welcome Back Potluck Dinner" following 11:00 service, THIS SUNDAY, in church basement (10th & Poyntz).

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church Welcomes You! Located at 3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. Sunday School 9:15 a.m. Morning Worship 10:15 a.m. Evening Worship 6:00 p.m. Phone 537-7173. (14)

TRINITY UNITED Presbyterian—Worship Service 10:45 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, 539-3921. (14)

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison. Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Saturday evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily 4:30 p.m. Mass. (14)

WELCOME TO the Church of Christ, 2510 Dickens, Sunday, 9:30 a.m., Bible classes, 10:30 a.m., Worship and Communion, 6:00 p.m., Evening Worship, Harold Mitchell, minister. 539-6581 or 539-9212. (14)

First Baptist Church

American Baptist
"the Church on the hill"

SUNDAY WORSHIP 10:55 AM
CHURCH SCHOOL 9:45 AM
NURSERY AVAILABLE

For Free Transportation Within
City Limits, Call Bell Taxi, 537-2080
Call For Information About Our Young Adult Fellowship
539-6494

2121 Blue Hills Rd. 539-8691
Pastor 539-6494
Campus Minister 539-3051
Preschool 539-8811

COLLEGE AVENUE United Methodist Church, 1609 College Ave., near KSU Baseball Field, welcomes college singles and couples to study "Faith Meets Life" in our college class or to participate in our other varied adult groups at 9:30 a.m. Choir Practice 8:30 a.m. Worship 10:45 a.m. For transportation call Steve Hughes at 539-4191 or 539-3678. (14)

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz 537-8532. Welcomes Students to church service at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Special class for college-age students at 9:30 a.m. Students needing rides, call Kathy Meyer, 539-5763 or Tammie Craigmile, 532-3087. Bible Study Tuesday at the ECM Center, 1021 Denison at 7:30 p.m. (14)

WELCOME ALL! Unitarian Fellowship, Oak Grove Center on Zeandale Road (K-18), one-quarter mile east of K-177, Dorothy Miller will present a talk entitled "Living Without Walls" based on her experience in the Peace Corps in Nepal and Thailand. Sunday School, Nursery, Discussion, Refreshments. 776-1562. (14)

Captain Cosmo

By Doug Yearout

Bradley

By Mich Johnson

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

- | | | |
|-------------------------|---------------|----------------------|
| ACROSS | DOWN | 17 Week parts |
| 1 Noted Uncle | 1 Egypt's | 21 Halloween |
| 4 Physicist's place | 2 Anwar | 23 Go in |
| 7 Gold unit | 3 greeting | 24 Nutrition |
| 12 Pub order | 4 Ore content | 25 Actor Mineo |
| 13 — Jima | 5 Inventory | 26 Wapiti |
| 14 Broadway musical | 6 Tonys, e.g. | 28 Envision |
| 15 Morse E | 7 Maintained | 30 Invite |
| 16 Carpenter's smoother | 8 Actress | 31 Nile reptile |
| 18 "Eureka!" | 9 Gardner | 32 Household god |
| 19 Pay the bill | 10 Rind | 33 United |
| 20 Bath powder | 11 Road stuff | 36 Painter |
| 22 Arid | | 37 Hinder |
| 23 Gaelic | | 38 Make restitution |
| 27 Beast of burden | | 42 "Halt," at sea |
| 29 Summer footwear | | 43 Unimportant |
| 31 Solitary | | 44 Insignificant |
| 34 Celery unit | | 45 Tater |
| 35 Sprinkled finely | | 46 Easy gait |
| 37 White House nickname | | 48 Buzz or band |
| 38 Quarry | | 49 Nabokov heroine |
| | | |

WALMARTStore hours M-S 9 a.m.-9 p.m.; Sunday 11 a.m.-6 p.m.
628 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Campus Savings!

ELVIS COSTELLO & THE ATTRACTIONS
PUNCH THE CLOCK
including:
Everyday I Write The Book
The Greatest Thing/Pills And Soap
Shipbuilding/The Invisible Man
COLUMBIA

BETTE MIDLER
ATLANTIC

ASIA
ALPHA GEFFEN

robert plant
the principle of moments
Includes: Big Log
Other Arms
In The Mood
DIST. BY ATLANTIC

DEF LEPPARD
PYROMANIA
MKTD. BY POLYGRAM

THE POLICE SYNCHRONICITY
Includes: EVERY BREATH YOU TAKE
A&M

THE MOODY BLUES
THE PRESENT
MKTD. BY POLYGRAM

STRAY CATS
RANT 'N' RAVE WITH THE STRAY CATS
INCLUDING: SHE'S SEXY + 17
I WON'T STAND IN YOUR WAY TOO HIP GOTTA GO
EMI AMERICA

IRON MAIDEN
Piece Of Mind
featuring:
Flight Of Icarus/The Trooper
Where Eagles Dare/Die With Your Boots On CAPITOL

EURYTHMICS
SWEET DREAMS
(are made of this)
RCA

BILLY JOEL
AN INNOCENT MAN
including:
Tell Her About It
Uptown Girl
Leave A Tender Moment Alone
Keeping The Faith
An Innocent Man
COLUMBIA

MEN WITHOUT HATS RHYTHM YOUTH
BACKSTREET/MCA

TACO
AFTER EIGHT
Includes: PUTTIN' ON THE RITZ SINGIN' IN THE RAIN
RCA

KANSAS
DRASTIC MEASURES
including:
Fight Fire With Fire
Everybody's My Friend/Andi
Going Through The Motions/Get Rich EPIC

Give the gift of music.

5.96

WAL-MART'S ADVERTISED MERCHANDISE PRICES are our intention to have every advertised item in stock. However, if due to any unforeseen reason an advertised item is not available for purchase, Wal-Mart will make a Rain Check on request for the merchandise to be purchased at the sale price whenever available, or will sell you a similar item at a comparable reduction in price. We reserve the right to limit quantities.

Sale good through 9-17-83

Cheering teammates
A big weekend leaves the Cats hopeful
Sports, page 9

U.S., British jets fly over Lebanon

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — U.S. and British jet fighters roared over Beirut in a show of force Sunday as mortar shells struck Marine positions near the airport. Christian-Druse fighting was reported spreading south from the Chouf mountains.

The Lebanese army said there were fierce overnight battles for the key mountain town of Souk el Gharb, some five miles southeast of Beirut in an area where Druse and Christian militias have been locked in fighting for more than a week.

The Christian militia said it turned over several captured villages to the Lebanese army, which failed to enter the region when Israeli troops withdrew two weeks ago. As soon as the Israelis pulled back to southern Lebanon, intense fighting broke out between the Christians and Druse.

British Buccaneer fighter jets roared low over the capital to support the British, French, Italian and American peacekeeping forces, while a Marine spokesman said U.S. F-14 Tomcat fighters flew "reconnaissance missions" over the capital and the nearby mountains.

The 1,200-man Marine contingent scrambled into bunkers when two mortar rounds struck, but the shelling eased after an hour. No injuries were reported.

At least a dozen shells fell between the U.S. bunkers and a nearby Lebanese army emplacement, which began returning fire.

Lebanon's state-run radio reported intense artillery exchanges between militiamen in several villages south of the Chouf — indicating a possible Druse plan to sweep south of the Lebanese army and Christian militia positions along the Souk el-Gharb mountain ridge to the Mediterranean Sea.

A Druse spokesman in Beirut said Druse militia units had reached villages only 400 yards east of the coast.

As the fighting spread south, hundreds of Christian and Moslem refugees fled into Israeli-occupied southern Lebanon, saying they were trying to escape bombardments from the Chouf ranges.

A Lebanese army communique said two Lebanese soldiers and at least two Palestinian guerrillas were killed in the fighting around Souk el Gharb.

But Western military sources said a U.S.-trained Lebanese unit, considered the best in the Lebanese army, was overrun in the battle. Fourteen Lebanese soldiers were killed.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Paddling on

Jim Acer and Joe Willard paddle as Ellen Smith-Willard adjusts a bottle containing an electrolyte drink. The team finished second in the annual 95-mile race that follows the Kaw River from Manhattan to Lawrence. See Tuesday's Collegian for a photo feature on the race.

Regents assign construction priorities, funds

By LEE WHITE
Collegian Reporter

Renovation of Weber Hall and completion of plant science facilities are top priorities in the College of Agriculture. The Board of Regents, however, places work on Weber beneath two other projects.

The regents put reconstruction of Nichols Hall at the top of K-State's construction priority list, followed by a chemistry/biochemistry facility and greenhouses, said Mike Johnson, legislative assistant to President Duane Acker.

The University's request for $7.2 million to renovate Weber and build a meat handling laboratory was cut to $2 million and dropped to third place, Johnson said.

"The regents recommended renovation of Weber Hall," Johnson said. "They did not recommend any new construction."

Work on the chemistry building will necessitate tearing down greenhouses near King Hall and rebuilding them near Throckmorton Hall. This is part of the plant science proposal often called Throckmorton Phase II.

Johnson said he doesn't know when work on Weber could begin, but the earliest date would be 1985. July 1, 1985 is the earliest construction on the chemistry facility could start, he said.

Rep. Bill Fuller, R-Miltonvale and chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee, said recently that the committees in both houses should use their influence with ways and means committees to expedite funding for Weber.

"That's not unusual for a committee member or an individual legislator," Johnson said. "If he thinks something is important enough, he may try to use his influence to try to change it."

One group that placed more emphasis on Weber renovation than the regents is the Kansas Livestock Association.

Members of that group said recently at Kansas House and Senate Agriculture and Livestock committees hearings here that they would be willing to raise funds for research projects, but not construction at Weber.

"I would guess that if you were to ask any college president or the Board of Regents, they would say the buildings are the state's responsibility," Johnson said.

Johnson cited private industry contributions to building projects in the grain science department and engineering college as going toward equipment and not construction.

"They (KLA) are willing and have supported the purchase of research equipment, primarily," said John Dunbar, dean of the College of Agriculture. "Through the Livestock Industry Council, they have been very generous and dependable in their support."

Neither Fuller nor John Meetz, president of KLA, could be reached for comment last week.

Dunbar said when he became dean in 1981, the top construction priority in the agriculture college was the plant science facility. That and Weber are equally important now, he said.

"If the legislature, in its wisdom, decides that one should have higher priority than the other, I would have no complaint," Dunbar said. "The (Weber) facilities are 25 years old and out-of-date," Dunbar said. "There is inadequate space to do good research and teaching."

Declining enrollment in agriculture programs has been caused by a decrease in the number of high school graduates, Dunbar said.

